Governor Dalton Heads List Of VIPs

Governor John N. Dalton and State Supreme Court Chief Justice Lawrence W. l'Anson will share the spotlight in the Homecoming Parade this Saturday with Society of the Alumni President Harriet Nachman Storm and Gordon Jump, veteran character actor and star of the new television series, "WKRP in Cincinnati."

Dalton, l'Anson and Storm, all alumni of the College, will lead off the parade as special guests. Jump will serve as "Honorary Marshal" for the annual parade, which this year revolves around the theme "That's Entertainment."

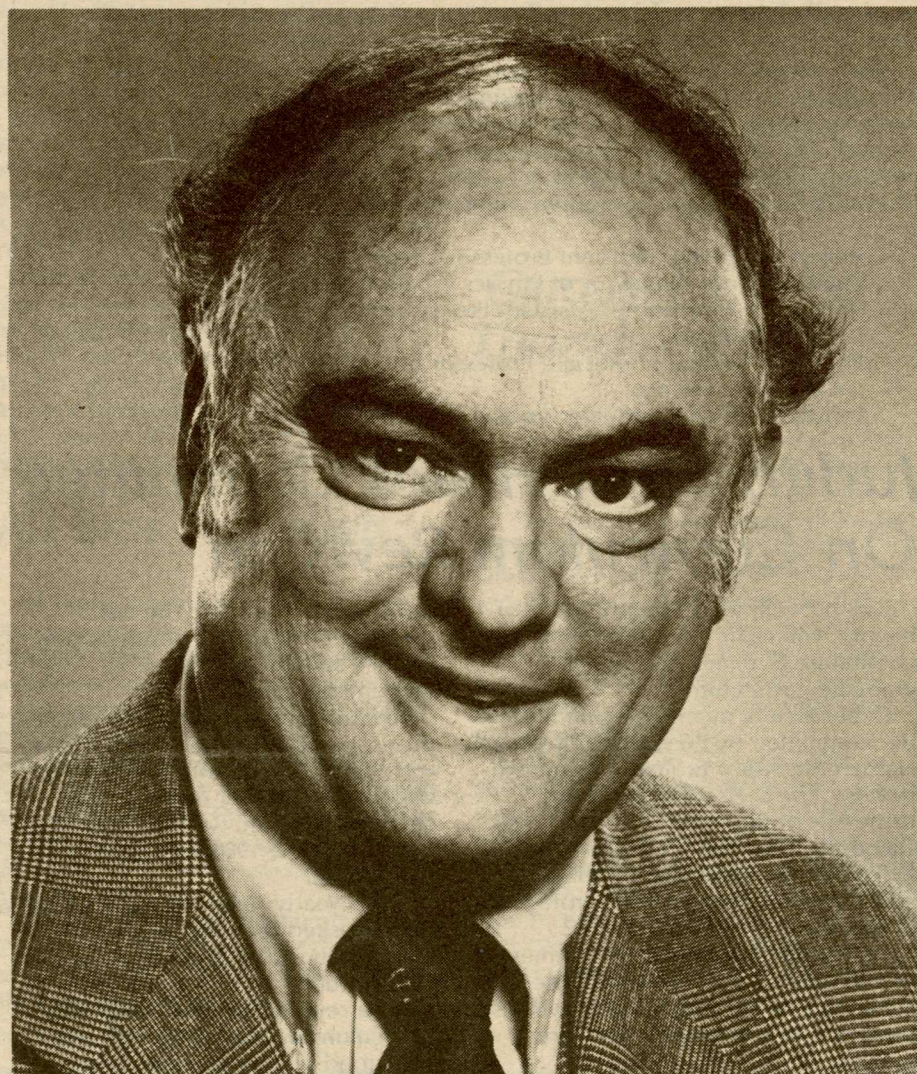

Chief Marshal Wilford Kale says this year's parade will be "one of the biggest ever." More than 25 floats, the William and Mary Band, and marching bands from Lafayette, Bruton, York and Tabb High Schools will provide the color and excitement for this year's extravaganza, scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. at the Sir Christopher Wren Building on Duke of Gloucester Street.

Kale describes Jump as "the perfect marshal" for a parade that has a theme of entertainment. For more than 15 years, Jump has been a familiar face on television and in movies. Currently, he is one of the busiest and most popular character actors in the television industry. He not only stars on the comedy series "WKRP in Cincinnati," which airs Monday nights on CBS, but also appears as Police Chief Tinkler, the bungling law officer on the hit ABC series "Soap."

Jump has made a guest appearance on almost every kind of television series, including "Alice," "Good Times," "The Rockford Files," "The Bionic Woman" and "Starsky and Hutch." Last year he had a recurring role in the critically-acclaimed "Lou Grant" series on CBS. Jump has also appeared in more than 300 television commercials and has had featured roles in several new movies, including "Fury" and "House Calls." He recently finished work on a made-for-television movie called "Evidence of Power," which is scheduled to appear this fall.

Jump's wife, Anna Inge Jump, is a 1953 graduate of the College originally from Blackstone, Va. Mrs. Jump was a popular actress at the College and later appeared on Channel 12 in Richmond during the late fifties.

Governor Dalton, a frequent visitor to his alma mater, will join classmates from 1953 who are celebrating their 25th reunion. Chief Justice l'Anson is a 1928 graduate of the College. Storm, who graduated from William and Mary in 1964, currently serves as President of the Society of the Alumni and is head of this year's William and Mary Fund. A Newport News resident, she is also on the National Development Council for the Campaign for the College.

Official Memoranda

From: George R. Healy
To: The College Community
Re: ad hoc Computer Planning Committee

At the recommendation of the Information Systems Advisory Committee, President Graves has established an ad hoc Computer Planning Committee, which is charged with making a study of the computing needs of the College in the years ahead, and recommending a computer hardware and personnel configuration that would best satisfy such perceived needs.

Two major factors suggest the need for such a study at this time. There is every indication that the State will abandon the regional computer concept that has obtained, in principle at least, until now; this will require William and Mary to justify its computer configurations essentially in terms of internal use only. Also, as the payment obligations for our present machine will be completed under current schedules in 1980-81, if we are to consider a different computer configuration at that time, it is important now to start an evaluation of needs. It is of course quite possible that a study will conclude that our present arrangements are satisfactory for the foreseeable future, but the Committee has been charged to consider this as but one alternative among whatever others may be discovered and explored.

The Committee has been asked to submit its recommendations to the President by 1 October 1979. In making its study, the Committee will work with Mr. Henry Johnson and Mr. Raymond Southworth as needed, and will periodically report upon its progress to the standing Information Systems Advisory Committee, chaired by Mr. William Poole. The ad hoc Computer Planning Committee is composed of the following persons:

Robert Archibald, Assistant Professor of Economics
Franz L. Gross, Professor of Physics (Chairman)
William H. Hawthorne, Assistant Professor of Business Administration
Robert E. Noonan, Associate Professor of Mathematics and Computer Science
Jeffery R. Shy, Coordinator for Development Services

Judith Ewell Heads Committee On Curriculum Revision

Judith Ewell, associate professor of history, will chair the new ad hoc committee to review the undergraduate curriculum.

Other faculty members appointed to the committee by President Graves are Nathan Altshuler, professor of anthropology; Eric L. Bradley, associate professor of biology; Charles E. Davidson, professor of English; James C. Livingston, professor of religion; and David C. Montgomery, professor of physics.

Two students, Clayton M. Clemens of Salt Lake City, Utah, and Catherine E. Hartsog of Hockessin, Del., will also serve on the committee. Both are juniors.

Linda Collins Reilly, dean of the undergraduate program, and Jack D. Edwards, dean of the faculty of arts and sciences, will serve as non-voting members from the administration.

In February, the faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences voted on a recommendation of the faculty educational policy committee calling for the review and recommendations for possible changes. The last curriculum study was conducted in 1969-70 and changes were implemented in 1971.

Edwards predicted that the total project would take about two years, with much of the work being done during the summer months. The changes accepted would not go into effect until the 1980-81 school year, at the earliest.

In his yearly report last fall, President Graves asked that high priority considerations be given to a curriculum study.

"The revision of 1970, when the curriculum was last reviewed, was a very good one for its time," said Graves in his report. "While many colleges were abandoning degree requirements completely, we established a set of flexible requirements which has a far better foundation than the preceding set."

The current curriculum has served its purpose well, said Graves, "but simply by virtue of its seven years of age it begs for reconsideration."

David Dakin '78 Wins Award on CPA Exam

A May graduate is one of only 68 students in the nation who will receive the Sells Award for outstanding performance on the National Certified Public Accountant examination.

David J. Dakin of Lake Milton, Ohio, scored among the top one-tenth of one percent of some 50,000 students who took the CPA examination last May. Dakin currently works as a junior public accountant for Price Waterhouse & Co. in Washington, D.C.

Students from the School of Business Administration have scored well on the examination for years, reports Professor John Quinn, who's headed up the accounting program for nearly 20 years. Although the final pass-fail tally for the May 1978 examination has not been reported to the College, about 70 percent of the William and Mary students who take the examination have passed in recent years. This is the highest rate in the state and one of the best in the country. Nationally, only about one of three students who take the exam passes the first time out. Dakin is the sixth William and Mary student since 1971 to receive the Sells Award.

ODU Professor Will Give Slide-Talk Tuesday for Russian Club in CC

John Fahey, professor of Russian and chairman of the department of foreign languages and literatures at Old Dominion University, will be guest speaker at the next meeting of the Russian Club, Tuesday, Oct. 17, at 7:30 p.m. in the Campus Center Sit 'n Bull Room.

To: Governor's Secretaries
Heads of All State Agencies and Institutions
From: John N. Dalton
Subject: 1978 United Way Campaigns

I am confident that each of you recognize the importance of State employee support of annual United Way campaigns. We can participate in our communities as citizens while demonstrating that we understand the need and value of services provided by United Way agencies. Very often State agencies and United Way agencies work together.

In Richmond, generous State employee contributions have always been an integral part of the annual drive. There are, however, many other cities and counties with United Way campaigns, and they need the support of State employees. We should encourage all of our employees to participate. When given the opportunity, I know they will respond admirably. As always, United Way contributions are an authorized payroll deduction.

It is essential that State employees, citizens and United Way workers know of my personal and official support. To emphasize my commitment, I am requesting that you communicate with your field offices and urge all employees to support the United Way in localities with organized drives. On September 26, I will issue a certificate of recognition declaring October as United Way month. We have also asked Robert Kirby to be statewide coordinator for liaison between State agencies and local campaigns. He may be contacting you for assistance.

Your leadership in working with United Way campaigns throughout Virginia is necessary. I know I can count on your full support.

Reception Friday to Fete Engman

An exhibit of sculpture by Robert M. Engman, whose work is represented in the collections of the Museum of Modern Art in New York City and the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston as well as more than a dozen private collections, is currently on display in Andrews Gallery.

The artist will be honored at a reception Oct. 13 at the gallery from 6:30 - 8:30 p.m. The public is invited to the reception to meet Engman, who will be sculptor-in-residence next semester. He is currently co-chairman of the department of fine arts at the University of Pennsylvania and director of graduate studies in sculpture.

Teacher, critic and creative artist, Engman has exhibited his work both here and abroad and has received commissions from Joseph Hirshhorn; the City of Jerusalem for Independence Park; the City of New York; and Massachusetts Institute of Technology, among others.

He is a member of the senior advisory committee on international exchange of persons for the Fulbright Commission and was appointed Commissioner of Fine Art for the City of Philadelphia by Mayor James H. T. Tate, a post he held from 1968-72.

The pieces in the exhibit show Engman's interest in Eastern religions and his fascination with the scope of design within geometric patterns.

The largest piece in the exhibit is a five-foot piece of chiselled mahogany with circular designs.

Most of his work in bronze is highly polished and the reflections lend added interest to his work. His works in acrylic often include bright color insets which he has used to heighten the intricacy of line and design.

Included in the exhibit is a bronze which hangs in the foyer of the chemistry building at the University of Pennsylvania. The bronze is hung from the ceiling, giving a mobility to the variety of geometric shapes captured within a minimal surface area.

The simple stone bases of Engman's works hint at his Scandinavian background, which he acknowledges with three Swedish crowns, often included with his signature.

Employment

The following positions are open to all qualified individuals; however, current faculty and classified employees will receive first consideration. Except where noted, inquiries and applications should be made at the Personnel Office, 201 James Blair Hall, and not at the department where the opening exists. Sixteen Tapped As Aides To President

Sixteen students have been named President's Aides for the 1978-79 session.

The aides meet with President Graves on a monthly basis to discuss matters of concern to the College and to recommend courses of action to the President.

The aides also serve as student members of the official party at College convocations and other special functions.

Aides this year are Karim H. Ahamed, a senior from Nairobi, Kenya, who serves as chairman of the Student Activities Council; Cathy Michele Allen, a senior from Rocky Mount, N.C., who is a member of Mortar Board, and an honors philosophy student; Linda Jean Anderson, a junior from Springfield, who serves as resident advisor and cheerleader; Julie Ellen Berman, a senior from Cincinnati, Ohio, who participates in the Project Plus residential-academic program; Katherine Scott Dalton, a senior from Radford, who serves on Mortar Board; Keith Jay Harrison, a sophomore from Woodbridge, who is a residence hall advisor and a member of the indoor track team; and Christine Analise Kurtz, a junior from St. Charles, Mo., who serves as chairman of the Board of Student Affairs Housing and Environment Committee.

Also Susan Patricia Manix, a senior from Stamford, Conn., who is a member of Pi Sigma Alpha government honorary society and of Omicron Delta Kappa leadership fraternity; William Cleveland Mims, a senior from Harrisonburg, who is currently president of the Student Association; Frederick Anderson Morse, a senior from Midlothian, who serves as president of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity; Margaret A. Nelson, of Lynchburg, who is president of the senior class; Kevin C. Odor, a senior from Rossville, Ill., who serves as a member of the varsity football team and president of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes; Steven Robert Thode, a senior from Port Washington, N.Y., who is a member of the Society for Collegiate Journalists; Anne Brooke Tribble, a senior from Dunnsville, who is chairperson of the Honor Council; Avery T. Waterman, Jr., a senior from Williamsburg, who serves as chairman of the Board of Student Affairs; and Artis E. Williams, a senior from Petersburg, who is active in the Black Student Organization, International Circle and the Ebony Expressions choral ensemble.

Forum To Hear MacKinnon

"The Nature and Nurture of Creative Talent" will be the topic of Donald W. MacKinnon's talk at the Project Plus Forum, Oct. 18, at 7:30 p.m. in Millington auditorium.

MacKinnon, professor of psychology emeritus, University of California, has enjoyed a long and distinguished career as a teacher and as a researcher in psychology with special emphasis on creativity.

Born in 1903, he received his Ph.D. from Harvard in 1933. He served on the faculty of Bryn Mawr College, 1933-47, and then as Professor of Psychology at the University of California at Berkeley from 1947 until his retirement in 1970. He also served with distinction as director of the Institute of Personality Assessment and Research at the University of California, 1947-1970.

A bibliography of his research publications reaches to over one hundred items, the last of which appeared in 1978 under the title: "In Search of Human Effectiveness: Identifying and Developing Creativity."

'Carousel' Opens Thursday at PBK

The curtain goes up Thursday on "Carousel," the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical which opens the William and Mary Theatre season.

"Carousel" will be presented for six performances over two weekends, Thursday through Saturday, Oct. 12-14, and Oct. 19-21. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. sharp. All seats are reserved.

According to Louis E. Catron, director, "Carousel" differs from typical musicals because it is a musical play, not a musical comedy.

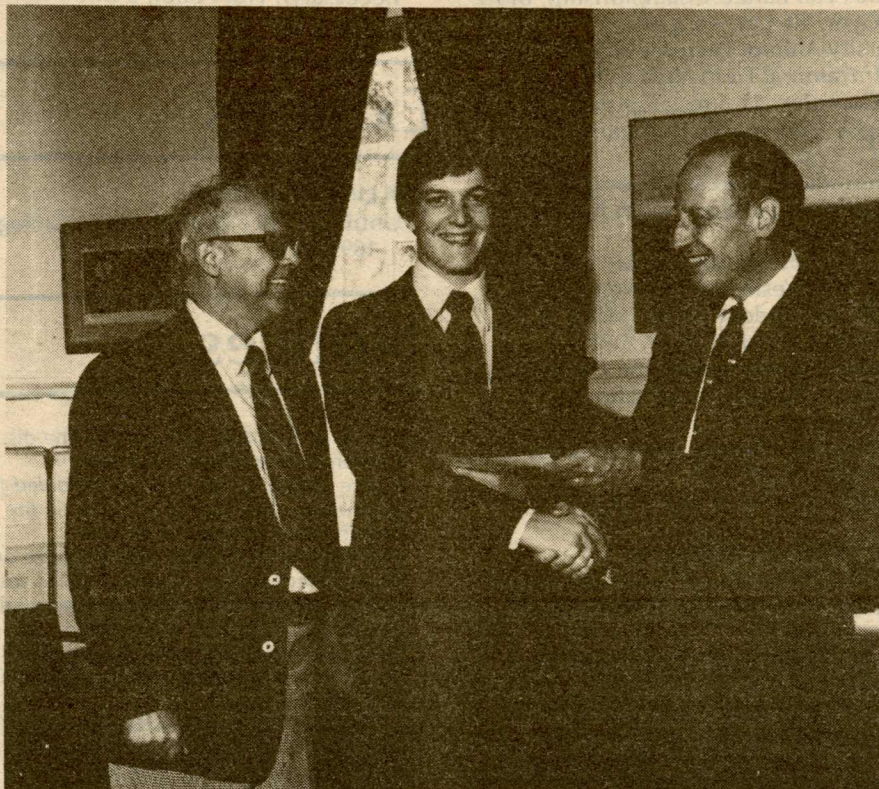

Catron says, "In 'Carousel' the authors avoid the usual fare of a dozen leggy girls kicking in a chorus line, within a very lightweight plot, with lots of gags more or less holding the whole together. Instead, this is a musical play which seeks to emphasize emotions and characters in order to convey a feeling that spiritual values always will prevail."

All Bids Too High

All eight construction bids opened last week for the new residence hall complex were substantially over the budgeted funds for the complex.

The apparent low bidder was Heindl-Evans, Inc., of Mechanicsville, assuming that state officials approve a withdrawal request made by a Newport News construction firm. The low bid of $4,080,000 was more than a million dollars over the funds allocated for the project.

According to state regulations, the College has 30 days to alter the scope of the project to reduce costs or to allocate additional funds.

Brian T. Moore, a senior, has been named one of 14 general award recipients for 1978 by the Sigma Phi Epsilon Educational Foundation. Moore, who is majoring in business administration, intends to go on for his C.P.A. upon graduation. Originally from Milburn, N.J., Moore received the scholarship award in a presentation from President Thomas A. Graves and Charles L. Quittmeyer, dean of the School of Business. Sigma Phi Epsilon is the second largest collegiate fraternity in the world, with a total membership of more than 120,000.

Faculty Cocktail Party set for Oct. 27

The Faculty Club will hold its second social event of the year Friday, Oct. 27, from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in the greenhouse-display area on the top floor of Millington Hall.

The greenhouse contains many interesting species and varieties of plants which are labeled, as well as many which have a short commentary concerning the species. The display area contains live snakes, turtles, rats, arthropods and aquatic organisms as well as permanent displays and photographs.

The Faculty Club will host four more parties during the academic year (Oct. 27, Dec. 8, Feb. 2, and March 23). The Dec. 8 party will be held in the Great Hall of the Wren Building and the Board of Visitors will be our guests.

Membership in the Faculty Club is $8 for the year and entitles the member and his spouse or guests to reduced rates for each party ($2.50 per person). Non-drinker members will pay $1.50 per person. Non-members will be charged $4.00 per person for each party, and non-member non-drinkers $2.50 per person.

Special Luncheon Menu

Beginning Monday, October 16, Mr. John Lynch of the Williamsburg Hospitality House will provide a special luncheon menu for the faculty and administration. The luncheon will be held in "The Coffee House" which will be reserved between the hours of 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.

The Monday luncheon program will run through November, and if it is successful, will be extended to other days of the week. A sample menu is given below.
