Alumni Gift Adds To Art Collection

The Society of the Alumni has presented to the College a pair of early eighteenth-century British portraits purchased from the estate of Thomas E. Thorne, professor emeritus of fine arts.

The portraits each depict a gentleman dressed in a plain and sober manner and seen in half-length view through a fictive oval frame. This compositional scheme was a popular format in British portraiture as produced by Sir Godfrey Kneller, Thomas Hudson and Joseph Highmore.

Thorne, who was greatly interested in British painting and its relation to art in the colonies, purchased the portraits at auction. He remained undecided as to whether the portraits were British in origin or were actually done in the colonies.

According to Miles E. Chappell, chairman of the department of fine arts, the paintings appear to depict two men of very similar physiognomy, who may have been brothers. As examples of eighteenth-century British portraiture, they are welcome additions to the College collection, he said.

The paintings were purchased by the Society of the Alumni upon the generous refusal by Thorne's son, Bancroft, of the payment for Thorne's last painting of Thomas Roderick Dew, now hanging in the Alumni House.

The next Concert Series performance will feature the Ohio Ballet, which will give two performances, Nov. 7 and 8. Season ticket holders may attend either concert but are asked to call Ken Smith, Concert Series manager, ext. 4557 or 4236, by Friday, Oct. 27, and make known their choice.

Approximately 400 general admission tickets will be available for the two performances of the ballet. Tickets are $3 for William and Mary students; $4 for the general public. They are available at the Campus Center desk, and will be sold at the box office at Phi Beta Kappa the evenings of performance.

Two Chosen for National Teams

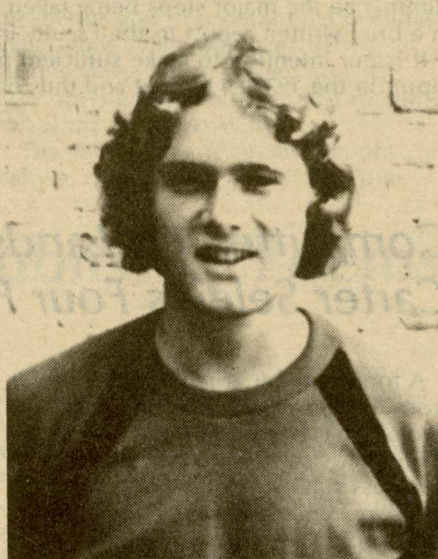

Pixie Hamilton from the women's lacrosse team and varsity soccer player Steve Gallop have been selected for national teams.

Hamilton, a member of the strongest lacrosse team in the state which has been undefeated in collegiate play for the past two years, has won a spot on the U.S. National lacrosse team which will tour England, Scotland and Wales in March.

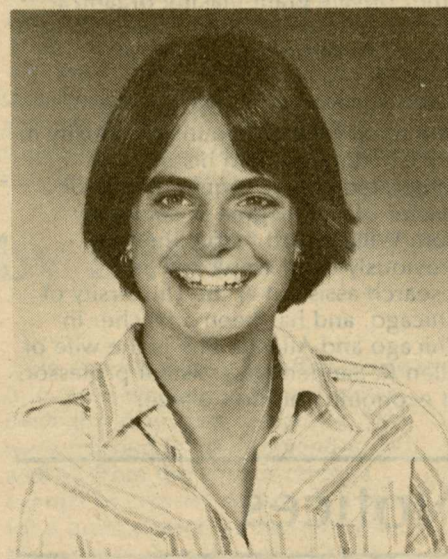

Hamilton is a junior from Paoli, Pa., with an interdisciplinary concentration in environmental studies. Selected for state, regional and national teams, Hamilton was one of 130 top players eligible to apply for the touring team; fifteen were selected. She plays right wing.

Gallop, a sophomore from Toronto, has been selected for the under-19 Canadian National Youth team which will compete in a tournament in Honduras the last two weeks in November and the first week in December. In competition will be teams from North and Central America and the Islands, including Trinidad, Guatemala, San Salvador and Bermuda. As a freshman last year, Gallop made the first all-state team.

The idea of the youth team, said Soccer Coach Al Albert, is the development of the Canadian Olympic team.

Auditions Set For "Patience"

Sinfonicon Opera Company will hold auditions for "Patience" Monday and Tuesday evenings at 7:30 p.m. in Ewell 100. A dance workshop will be held Sunday evening at 7:30 p.m., also in Ewell 100. Callbacks will be Nov. 1 and 2.

Rehearsals begin Nov. 5. Production dates are Jan. 30, 31, Feb. 1 and 2. Bring a prepared selection to sing from a musical operetta, etc. An accompanist will be provided if necessary. Wear clothing in which you can dance. It is strongly recommended that all those interested in auditioning attend the dance workshop Sunday evening.

For further details, call Lisa Sagolla, ext. 4420.

Mallue To Succeed Sancetta in Business

Henry E. Mallue, Jr., a member of the School of Business Administration faculty since 1975, has been designated Associate Dean for Undergraduate Studies in Business, effective July 1, 1979.

Mallue will succeed Anthony L. Sancetta, who recently announced plans for retirement at the end of the 1978-79 session. Sancetta currently occupies the Zollinger Chair in the School of Business Administration, which was established in 1976 by alumnus J. Edward Zollinger, a member of the Board of Visitors who was serving as chairman of the Campaign for the College at the time of his death in 1977.

Mallue received his bachelor's degree in business administration with a major in banking and finance from the University of Florida. He also received a law degree from the University of Florida and a Master of Business Administration from Florida Technological University in Orlando.

Mallue earned his doctorate in education from the Oklahoma State University in 1974 with a major in business education and a minor in higher education.

He is a member of the Florida Bar, the American Bar Association, the American Business Law Association, Delta Pi Epsilon and Beta Gamma Sigma.

Before coming to William and Mary, Mallue was instructor of business law in the department of administrative services and business education at the College of Business Administration,

Oklahoma State University.

Utilizing his experience in education, law and business, Mallue has been active in public service. For the past two years he has been chairman of the committee on real property of the American Business Law Association. From 1974-76 he served as secretary of the commission of adjudication of the Oklahoma District of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod. He has also served on the American Bar Association committees on continuing legal education and taxation. In 1968 he was nominated the Democratic candidate from Pinellas County in the Florida House of Representatives race.

Mallue has published in the Georgia State Bar Journal and the Business Law Review. He has presented papers on revenue sharing for education, land use and other topics at conferences in several states. In April, he presented a paper entitled "Objections to Land Use Referendums from Sheffield to New Smyrna Beach" to the First Anglo-American Law Conference in London. He was a program speaker in March at the convention of the Mid-Atlantic Regional Business Law Association meeting in Williamsburg.

Sanderson Has New Duties

Ms. Judith P. Sanderson, administrative assistant to the Vice President for Development since June, 1975, has taken on additional duties as Director for Foundation Relations in the Development Office.

The additional appointment, effective immediately, was announced by Warren Heemann, Vice President for Development. Until Oct. 1, foundation relations had been the responsibility of Ms. Julia Leverenz, who resigned the post to become Director of the Women in Business Program in the College's School of Business Administration.

By merging the positions of administrative assistant and foundation relations, a staff position has been eliminated. President Thomas A. Graves, Jr., said the action is a part of the College's commitment to reduce administrative costs and overhead wherever possible, in some cases by reassigning the responsibilities of vacant positions to other staff personnel.

Ms. Sanderson's additional duties include research into foundations, including corporate foundations, and other private grant-making organizations and coordination of the College's efforts to obtain their financial support.

Ms. Sanderson, a 1968 honors alumna of Brigham Young University in English literature and history, has completed course requirements for a Master of Arts degree in sociology from William and Mary. She has previously been employed as a research assistant at the University of Chicago, and has been a teacher in Chicago and Atlanta. She is the wife of Allen R. Sanderson, assistant professor of economics at the College.

Notices

JOB SEARCHING--Bill Daniel, a 1978 graduate of the college, will discuss job searching strategy on Friday, October 27. Call the Office of Corporate Relations and Placement for an appointment.

DAVISON'S COMING--Reserve November 8 from 3 to 5 p.m. for a program sponsored by Davison's Department Store of Atlanta, Georgia, a subsidiary of R. H. Macy's Co. At that time, information will be provided regarding a wide range of career opportunities in the retail industry, including the buyer's training program. Davison's will be interviewing here on campus in the spring. More information will follow.

Official Memoranda

To the Faculty:

Earlier this fall, I announced that I had endorsed the five recommendations made by the College's Committee on Planning and Priorities. The text of these recommendations was published in the September 19 edition of The William and Mary News.

Two of the recommendations involved appointment of new sub-committees of the Committee on Planning and Priorities -- a Subcommittee on Private Funds and a Subcommittee to Coordinate Information for Planning. I have now appointed these committees in consultation with Dean Jack D. Edwards, Chairman of the Committee on Planning and Priorities.

The Subcommittee on Private Funds is advisory in nature, and thus includes only faculty members and Dean Edwards. The members are:

Ronald C. Brown (law), chairman
William F. Davis, Jr. (English)
Howard M. Fraser (Modern Languages and Literatures)
Robert Maidment (Education)
Leonard G. Schifrin (Economics)
Richard B. Sherman (History)
James E. Smith (Business Administration)
Robert E. Welsh (Physics)
Jack D. Edwards (ex officio)

The Subcommittee to Coordinate Information for Planning, by its nature, should consist of administrators who are heavily involved in developing information within their regularly assigned responsibilities. This Subcommittee consists of:

David E. Kranbuehl, chairman
Dennis K. Cogle
Henry C. Johnson
Floyd E. (Sam) Whitaker

Another of the recommendations called for a broad and intensive review of administrative expenses and staffing. That review is currently underway. David Kranbuehl, who is also chairman of the Subcommittee to Coordinate Information for Planning, is acting on my behalf to coordinate the various approaches to the review of administrative expenses, and he is currently meeting with the senior administrative officers who have responsibility for major areas of administrative activity.

The major recommendation of the Committee on Planning and Priorities was, of course, that faculty salaries be improved as rapidly as possible, and that in a three-year period our faculty salaries move from the 20th percentile according to AAUP standards, to the 30th percentile. While the review of administrative expenses will contribute to our ability to improve faculty salaries, we are also working toward this goal in several other ways. I reported on some of these developments at a meeting with faculty members on October 17, and will summarize the major steps being taken in regard to both state and private funds in a brief written report to the Faculty in the near future.

It is our intention to make sufficient progress this fall to have a significant input on the 1979-80 budget and thus on faculty salaries in 1979-80.

Committee on Landscaping Named by Vice President, Carter Selects Four Faculty Members from Biology, Geology

A four-member committee of faculty from the departments of biology and geology has been appointed by William J. Carter, Vice President for Business Affairs, to serve as a standing advisory committee on campus landscaping.

Committee members are Gustav W. Hall, Martin C. Mathes and Stewart A. Ware from the department of biology and Gerald H. Johnson, geology.

This committee replaces the Ad Hoc Committee which met on August 15, 1977 to assist in the formation of the operating policy, for the program on proper care and maintenance of the special plant life on campus.

"We are pleased," said Carter, "that Richard Mahone, Director of Landscape, Construction and Maintenance for the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation, has agreed to serve William and Mary on a more formal and continuing basis as consultant. He will meet regularly with the new advisory committee, except, of course, when his primary responsibilities prevent his attendance."

Ervin D. Farmer, Director of Buildings and Grounds, James J. Connolly, Assistant Director, and Jon Gamache, Superintendent of Grounds, will also attend meetings of the committee.

Derby Day Coming Saturday

Derby Day, the annual fund-raising event of Sigma Chi Fraternity, will be held on Saturday.

As in years past, all proceeds from the events will be donated to the Sigma Chi national charity, Wallace Village, a home for minimally retarded children. Several activities are planned in conjunction with Derby Day.

Wednesday will be Derby Night at the Pub. The band is Galaxies, and all girls wearing Greek letters will be admitted for fifty cents.

Friday night the fraternity is sponsoring a Pre-Derby Day Dance in William and Mary Hall, beginning at 9 p.m. Admission is $1.00 dress is casual.

Competition on Saturday, Derby Day, begins at 11 a.m. at the Intramural Field beside the Hall parking lot. In the event of rain, competition will be in William and Mary Hall.

Jurow Comes Back With The Pink Panther

Martin A. Jurow, a multi-talented motion picture producer who worked with some of the biggest moguls during the Golden Years of Hollywood, will visit the campus next week to present two special benefit performances.

At 7:30 p.m., Thursday evening, Jurow will introduce one of his most popular films, the original "Pink Panther," and will lead a discussion concerning "the producer's art" following the film. The program will be held in the Campus Center Ballroom. Admission is $2.

On Friday evening, Jurow will introduce "Breakfast at Tiffany's," the hit movie that helped elevate Audrey Hepburn to stardom. A "Sherry Hour" will begin at 7 p.m., followed by the movie and discussion at 7:45 p.m. at the Conference Center Auditorium at the Williamsburg Lodge. Admission is $5.

Reservations should be made by calling the Theatre and Speech department, ext. 4395.

Jurow, a 1932 graduate of William and Mary, also graduated from the Harvard Law School. He has volunteered his services to help develop the Althea Hunt Theatre Enrichment Fund. "There can be no doubt that the pattern of my choice of careers was certainly influenced in great measure by the time I spent at William and Mary," says Jurow. "More specifically, the extraordinary encouragement, compassion and much needed discipline was given by Althea Hunt. She was from the beginning a friend and mentor and never ceased being so even after I graduated."

The Althea Hunt Theatre Enrichment Fund enables the William and Mary Theatre to sponsor a variety of guest speakers and visiting professional troupes.

Jurow's career behind the cameras, and later in the courtroom, would itself provide the material for an exciting motion picture.

In the late thirties and early forties, Jurow helped to establish the motion picture, legitimate theatre and literary departments of the Music Corporation of America. He reluctantly departed M.C.A. when he had the opportunity to become assistant to Jack Warner of Warner Brothers Studio, as well as assistant to Hal Wallis, who was in charge of production. When arguments between Warner and Wallis caused Wallis to leave and form his own company, Jurow left also and worked with Wallis on six productions.

Family reasons soon made it imperative for Jurow to leave Hollywood and return to New York City. He joined the largest talent agency in the world, the William Morris Agency, and became head of all motion picture, theatrical and literary activity of the agency in the Eastern area. Jurow was also part of a pioneer work that was done in the television field and helped to lead the way toward the planning of many new concepts for television.

In the late fifties and sixties, Jurow returned to movie production and created such successful films as "Breakfast at Tiffany's," "The Hanging Tree," "The Fugitive King," "The Pink Panther," "The Great Race" and others.

After working as Warner's right-hand man in Europe, Jurow returned to the United States to establish a five-year money making program for Richard Zanuck at 20th Century Fox. When Zanuck left 20th Century Fox, Jurow decided to say good-bye to the headaches of Hollywood to settle in the new growth area of the United States--the Sun Belt.

In Texas, Jurow has become very involved in regional planning for motion picture production and investment, representing investors and firms in such diverse areas as Oklahoma, Kansas, Pennsylvania and Texas. Jurow also brushed up on his law and successfully passed the Texas Bar. He then served as assistant district attorney for Dallas County.

Jurow continues to teach courses at Southern Methodist University relating to motion picture production and distribution. He is on the national board of advisors of the USA Film Festival.

In 1978, Jurow established Management West, the first extensive management company serving creative artists, production and distribution companies and investors in the fields of entertainment, communication, publishing and sports.

Howard Scammon, professor emeritus of theatre and speech at the College, arranged for Jurow's return visit to his alma mater.

Faculty Party Planned Friday

The Faculty Club will hold its second social event of the year Friday, Oct. 27, from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in the greenhouse-display area on the top floor of Millington Hall.

Willy's Deli Coming Soon to the Wigwam New Manager Barrish Plans New Look

David J. Barrish, new manager at the Wigwam, is out to bring a new image to the Wig. The name will remain the same, but that's about all Barrish concedes will stay the same.

A new decor, new tables, new chairs, good quality food served in a clean and relaxing atmosphere--all are in the works.

"Willy's Deli and Grill" (Willy for Williamsburg, akin to Philly's in Philadelphia) is the food service program Barrish is bringing to the wig for students, staff and faculty.

"I would like to please everyone," said Barrish, but added, "I am making the biggest effort for students."

Part of the new look is a nickelodeon piano which plays vaudeville tunes, a "theater" with nightly movies, and made-to-order pizzas.

The movie fare includes everything from Chaplin and Marx Brothers classics to cartoons and films of football games.

Barrish says he is trying to change the Wig from a snack bar into a quality restaurant. Currently, up to 2,000 meals a day are served. The new look will include a color scheme of rust and earth tones. Barrish will choose the prints and posters for the walls and any student artist may submit his work; if approved, it will be hung.

Barrish will use the idea of "Willy" on menus and in promotional material. What does Willy look like? Barrish admits Willy is just a name now. He may open up a competition to students to submit ideas for Willy.

The Wig serves about 400 people daily at breakfast. From 4:30 - 7 p.m.

the Wig has the Shamrock Food Service dinner menu available to all comers at $2.45 per person with unlimited seconds. At 7 p.m. the Wig goes back to its regular menu and patrons may choose a complete meal or a la carte items.

The evening hours during the week extend to midnight Monday through Saturday and 7 p.m. on Sundays.

Barrish, a 1978 graduate of Ohio State University with a bachelor of science degree in restaurant management, has designed and managed a delicatessen for Ohio State and says, "I've spent all my life in restaurants."

"I more than welcome suggestions," said Barrish. "I have time to sit down and talk to people; also, there is a suggestion box in the house." Barrish may be reached at 229-5944.

Vantage Press Publishes Poems by Blish

One of the latest publications by Vantage Press is a book of poems, "Some Times," by Nelson A. Blish, a former Naval officer now studying law at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law.

The calendar motif on the cover makes an attractive book jacket with a touch of the whimsy that is echoed on the pages inside.

The poems of courtship, love, marriage, and friendship are easy to read and deceptively simple. The reader can leisurely read through the book in less than an hour, but the images traced through the lines last a lot longer. There is a hint of sadness in some, real joy in others and, in some, a discernible wink of the writer's eye.

Blish clearly enjoys writing about people around him and he imparts this sense of warmth and understanding in his book.

A graduate of the Naval Academy, Blish comes from a service family. His father spent 20 years in the Marine Corps. Blish was a systems engineer in the Navy and earned his master's degree at Michigan State University. After assignments at Mare Island, Calif., Pocatello, Idaho, New London, and then aboard the U.S.S. Alexander Hamilton, a nuclear Polaris submarine, and shore duty at Dam Neck, Va., Blish decided the Navy wasn't for him. He wanted to be more independent.

His wife Debby is a nurse anesthetist in Norfolk, so their home in Hampton is a compromise, both of them commuting about the same distance each day.

Blish doesn't mind driving. It gives him time away from books and sometimes he does some composing.

He met his wife in a coffee house in Annapolis where she played guitar. Blish also plays and composes. They were married in Naval splendor and walked from the church under a canopy of crossed swords, but opted for a quiet church in Davidsonville, Md., rather than the Navy Chapel. After graduation at the Academy, weddings are scheduled on almost an assembly line pace, every 20 minutes, said Blish.

Will there be another book of Blish poems? Blish hopes so, but it takes a lot of poems to have enough to select ones for a book, but he'll continue to write toward that goal.

Blish began writing five or six years ago and collected a number of rejection slips before he got a publisher in the summer of 1977.
