PBK Chapter to Honor Scientists

Two scientists at the College have been selected for 1978 honors by Alpha of Virginia Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa.

Eric Herbst, assistant professor of chemistry, has been chosen to receive the Phi Beta Kappa faculty award for the advancement of scholarship and Peter L. Derks will become a faculty member of Alpha Chapter at initiation ceremonies which will be held December 5, the anniversary of the founding of Phi Beta Kappa by a group of William and Mary students in 1776.

Initiation ceremonies will be held in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall the afternoon of December 5. A sherry party and dinner for new members and their families will follow. Thirty-one members of the senior class have been designated members-elect.

The public is invited to the annual public meeting of the chapter in Phi Beta Kappa Hall auditorium December 5 at 8:15 p.m. Guest speaker for the evening will be Pulitzer Prize winning poet Maxine Kumin, who will read selections from her works, including her most recent children's book, "What Color Is Caesar."

Herbst, who joined the faculty of the College in 1974, is a scholar of international renown in the field of astro chemistry, a field which spans the disciplines of chemistry and physics. In 1976 he was selected as an Alfred P. Sloan Research Fellow. This prestigious and very competitive award is given only to outstanding young research scientists in the country and is usually awarded to faculty at major research universities.

Herbst received his A.B. degree from the University of Rochester and the master's and doctorate from Harvard University.

Derks, who has been a member of the faculty of the College since 1960, received his B.A. degree from Knox College, his M.A. from Harvard and his Ph.D. from the University of Pennsylvania.

Derks has been one of the most popular teachers at the College and has also been in demand as a lecturer across the state and nation. The student requests for his courses typically are double the number of spaces available.

His numerous research publications have reflected a broad interest, including such topics as statistical learning of humans, animal learning, human verbal learning and cognition and, most recently, the production of humor. His research approaches the study of humor as a good way to understand the creative process in people.

Ms. Kumin is the author of "Up Country," winner of the 1972 Pulitzer Prize for poetry, and of various other books of poems, novels and children's books. Her most recent children's book, "What Color is Caesar," is available at the College Bookstore.

A graduate of Radcliffe College and the recipient of two honorary doctorates, Ms. Kumin has taught creative writing at Columbia University, Randolph-Macon College, Brandeis University, Princeton University and the Bread Loaf Writers' School.

She is the winner of Poetry Magazine's Eunice Tietjens Prize, the Radcliffe College Alumnae Recognition Award and the Borestone Mountain Award for best poem of 1976. Her novels include "The Passions of Uxport" and "The Designated Heir." Her most recent volumes of poetry, in addition to "Up Country," are "The Nightmare Factory," "House, Bridge, Fountain, Gate" and "The Retrieval System."

Ms. Kumin currently lives on a farm near Warner, New Hampshire, but travels widely giving poetry readings and lectures. She has been appointed Scholar at the Radcliffe Institute for Independent Study and served on the panel of the National Endowment for the Arts.

Swem Library Acquires Tyler Papers

Swem Library has announced the acquisition of the papers of John Tyler, Jr., son of U.S. President John Tyler. The papers are the gift of William R. Shands of Richmond, his wife, Josephine W. Shands, and his sisters, Letitia C. Shands and Bessie T. Shands of Courtland, Va. Shands, an alumnus of the College, and his sisters are great-great grandchildren of President John Tyler.

John Tyler, Jr. (1819-1896), lawyer, newspaper editor and writer, was a student at the College, 1835-1840 and 1846-1847. He served as private secretary to his father during his presidency and fought in the Civil War as a Confederate Army Officer. He was appointed Confederate Assistant Secretary of War and was active in Republican party politics following the war.

His papers, numbering over 1,000 items, date chiefly late nineteenth century and among the correspondents are: Rutherford B. Hayes, Grover Cleveland, James A. Garfield, and U.S. Grant. The collection also includes two letters by President John Tyler written in 1861 to his sons John Tyler, Jr. and Robert Tyler.

A large segment of the collection is comprised of the papers of John Tyler, Jr.'s daughter, Martha Rochelle Tyler (1846-1928), housekeeper for her father until his death in 1896 and postmaster at Courtland, Va.

The papers will join the Library's already extensive holdings of Tyler family papers, chiefly the gift of the children of Lyon G. Tyler, President of the College, 1888-1919.

The John Tyler, Jr. papers will be available for use by scholars after they have been processed by the Manuscripts Department of Swem Library.

Choir, Chorus, Musicians to Perform in Concerts

Instrumental ensembles and soloists, as well as vocal groups and soloists, will be featured in the annual Christmas Concerts which will be presented by the choir and chorus, Dec. 2, 3 and 4 at 8:15 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

Tickets are $1.50 and are on sale at the Campus Center desk, the music department office in Ewell Hall and the College switchboard in James Blair Hall. They will also be on sale at the Phi Beta Kappa Hall box office the evenings of performance.

Frank Lendrim, chairman of the music department, will conduct the choir and chorus. The brass ensembles have been arranged by Stephen Carlson, lecturer in music, and the string ensembles by Dora Short, also a member of the music faculty and director of the College-Community Symphony Orchestra.

The Botetourt Chamber Singers, the Men of the Choir and the brass ensembles will be highlighted in the program of Christmas music in which the audience will be invited to participate.

The program will open with the brass ensemble playing "Fanfare," "Fugue" and "Finale" by Benedetto Marcello. Musicians will include Scott Forey, Jon Lombard, Mark Russell, trumpets; Terri Stahl, French horn; and Wayne Hull, trombone.

"The Twelve Days of Christmas," arranged by Andrew Kazdin, will be presented by an instrumental ensemble composed of Thomas Cambern and David Turner, trumpets; David Ermlick, French horn; Mark Meuschke, tuba; and Mark LaFratta, euphonium.

Carl R. Meyer will be soloist for "A Spotless Rose," one of a group of holiday songs to be presented by the choir. "In Dulci Jubilo" will be presented with musical accompaniment by the brass ensemble.

Gerald Kowalski will provide the guitar accompaniment for "Tyrley, Tyrlow," by Williametta Spencer, which will be the chorus' opening number.

Faculty Party Planned Dec. 8

The Faculty Club will hold its third cocktail party of the year on Friday, Dec. 8, from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m.

The party will be held in the Great Hall of the Wren Building and the Board of Visitors will be guests of honor.

All members of the faculty and administration are invited to attend and may pay at the door or pay in advance to Lewis Foster, philosophy, at the usual rates: members $2.50 per person (non-drinkers $1.50) and non-members $4 per person (non-drinkers $2.50).

The Monday Faculty Luncheon at the Hospitality House has been quite successful and will be extended indefinitely.

Ware to Speak

Stewart Ware, chairman of the department of biology, will present a lecture on "Ecology of Trees in the Peninsula of Virginia" Tuesday, November 28, at 4 p.m. in Room 117, Millington Hall.

This lecture is sponsored by the William and Mary Club of Sigma Xi, The Scientific Research Society of North America. Club officers for the 1978-79 year are: President, Bruce K. Goodwin, geology; vice-president, Frederic R. Crownfield, physics; secretary, Herbert Friedman, psychology; and treasurer, Stewart Ware, biology.

Highlight of the chorus presentation will be "The Magnificat" by Niccola Porpora with vocal soloists Valerie K. Fisher, Stacy K. Puls, and Susan Darley. Music accompaniment will be provided by Rhonda Richardson, Karen Przypszny, Stephanie Raitch, Linda Lemon and Sarah Peyton, violin; Janie Brown and Kathy Lloyd, viola; and Cathy Edwards and Christine Von Lersner, cello.

David Ermlick, John Gilstrap, Michael Murphy and James Shaffran will be soloists with the Men of the Choir. This group will sing "Nowell" by Randall Thompson and an old English song, "The Boar's Head Carol."

The chorus will feature four soloists in a group of old English carols by Gustav Holst. Kimberly Skelly will be soloist for "A Babe is Born." "Now Let Us Sing" will be sung by Beverly English. Cheryl Revell and Natalie Rarig will be soloists for "Jesu, Thou The Virgin Born."

Suzanne Coffman will be soloist with the choir for "Ivy and Holly," an Irish carol.

The choir and chorus will combine their voices for "See Amid The Winter's Snow," by John Godd, and "Choral Fanfare for Christmas," by Ron Nelson, in which they will be accompanied by the brass ensemble.

In their closing number, the singers will invite the audience to join them in a medley of Christmas carols.

Singers look over music for the Choir and Chorus concerts which this year will be augmented by several instrumental groups. The singers will, however, retain the tradition of inviting their audiences to join them in a round of Christmas Carols at the close of each performance. Pictured, left to right, Mike Murphy, David Ermlick, Carl Meyer and Suzanne Coffman.

Three to Receive Honorary Degrees

Two Pulitzer Prize winners, a noted historian and Virginia's top elected official will receive honorary degrees at Commencement exercises in May.

Award-winning cartoonist Jeffrey K. MacNelly and Governor John N. Dalton will join historian Richard Beale Davis and author and educator Daniel J. Boorstin as recipients of honorary degrees. President Thomas A. Graves, Jr., will present the honorary doctorates, along with some 1,300 degrees to graduate and undergraduate students at 2 p.m., Sunday, May 13, in William and Mary Hall.

Dalton, who graduated from William and Mary in 1953 before attending the University of Virginia School of Law, will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree from the College. Before his election to the Governor's Mansion in November 1977, Dalton served as lieutenant governor under Governor Mills Godwin. Dalton is a native of Radford, Va., and formerly served in both the Virginia House of Delegates and State Senate.

MacNelly, a two-time winner of the Pulitzer Prize for his witty and original editorial cartoons, will receive an honorary doctor of humane letters degree. Only 31 years old, he will be the youngest individual ever to speak at a William and Mary graduation.

MacNelly, who works for the Richmond News-Leader, has editorial cartoons regularly syndicated in some 350 newspapers. His new comic strip "Shoe" has already become a popular feature in about 400 newspapers across the nation. This week he also was named recipient of the International Thomas Nast award for cartooning.

Davis, who is recognized as the nation's foremost scholar on the literary intellectual history of the early south, will receive an honorary doctor of literature degree. Known for his thoughtful and perceptive analysis of Colonial South, 1585-1763."

Boorstin, who currently serves as Librarian at the Library of Congress in Washington, will receive an honorary doctor of literature degree. Formerly a professor at the University of Chicago and Swarthmore College, Boorstin is the author of numerous books on politics and law throughout American history. His series of books under the intellectual development in the colonial south, Davis has taught at the University of Tennessee, the University of Virginia and Mary Washington College. He concluded a three-year term on the council of the Institute of Early American History and Culture this year. The University of Tennessee Press recently published his masterpiece, the three volume "Intellectual Life in the title of "The Americans" has won worldwide praise, and the volume on "The Democratic Experience" won a Pulitzer prize and Dexter prize in 1974. He has won countless honors, awards and degrees from the country's most prestigious institutions. Boorstin served as director of the National Museum of History and Technology at the Smithsonian Institute from 1969-73.

Physics Colloquium

Sherman Frankel of the University of Pennsylvania will be guest speaker at the physics colloquium, Friday at 4 p.m. in Small 109.

Professor Frankel will talk on "High Energy Physics Inside Nuclei."

Coffee will be served in the conference room at 3:30 p.m.

Rees to Divide Time Between Two Jobs

James C. Rees IV, Director of Information, has taken on additional duties as the College's Director of Annual Giving, effective immediately.

The merger of the two staff positions is a part of the College's effort to reduce administrative expenses wherever possible, in order to make available more funds for academic priorities, including faculty compensation.

The post of Director of Annual Giving was last held by Leonard A. Meyer, who resigned in October 1977 to become Vice President for Development at Eckerd College. It was filled until June on an acting basis by Dr. Jess Cloud, who had been serving as Coordinator of Communications for the $19 million three-year Campaign for the College.

As a result of the merger of the two posts, Rees will be responsible for planning and implementing William and Mary's programs of media relations and internal communications, within the Office of University Communications; and for planning and carrying out the various annual fund-raising programs and volunteer activities within the Office of Development. The annual funds include the William and Mary Fund, the Parents Fund, the Law School Fund, the MBA Alumni Fund and a Graduate Education Fund, as well as efforts among senior classes.

Rees, a 1974 alumnus of the College and former editor of The Flat Hat, the student weekly newspaper, is a former staff member of the Newport News Daily Press. At the College, he developed the weekly "Williamsburg Report" radio program now aired over 50 stations throughout the East; worked extensively on network relations for the College during the 1976 Presidential Debate; and was the creator of the five-part telecast on the "New South" aired last winter on the major television stations owned by the National Broadcasting Company. He also developed the highly successful sight-sound program, narrated by television's Linda Lavin, now being used by the Campaign for the College to stimulate increased awareness of the College's financial needs.

This fall, he has worked closely in promotional efforts and organization of the William and Mary Fund, being coordinated by the Office of University Communications.

Holiday Fare for Families

"Medieval Plays for Christmas" will be presented in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall this week, Thursday through Sunday. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. on Thursday and Friday. On Saturday and Sunday there will be a 2:00 p.m. matinee.

"Medieval Plays for Christmas" is a collection of short scenes and plays selected from the English cycle-plays of the 14th, 15th, and 16th centuries. Historically, such plays were an actual part of Medieval worship, growing out of dramatizations of liturgical material. Often the plays are charming innocent mixtures of Biblical chapters and quite secular current events.

The William and Mary Theatre will present selections from various cycles, beginning with the prophecy of Isaiah and climaxing with the Nativity.

The production will incorporate music, dance, and special technical effects to enhance the plays. Hardwick Spencer, a senior theatre concentrator, serves as Musical Director. He has selected music from the era, including works by the 12th-century composer Perotian, and Guillaume de Machaut of the 14th century. Instruments will include the tabor, an early drum; the acordes, a predecessor of the dulcimer; finger cymbals; the recorder; the kit, an instrument resembling a miniature dance fiddle; and the krumhorn, an ancestor of the modern saxophone.

Shirley Roby, professor of dance, serves as choreographer. Many of the dances will represent movement patterns to underline the events of the stories. Usually the production will emphasize singing, dancing, acting, and musical instrumentation to tell the story with one organic quality.

Directing "Medieval Plays for Christmas" is Jerry Bledsoe, associate professor of theatre, who has wanted to do the production for many years. He selected the scripts, sometimes editing or modernizing them, and has put together the overall concept of playlets, song, and dance.

In an effort to allow families to attend this Yuletide presentation together, The William and Mary Theatre has scheduled matinee performances at 2 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 2 and 3, in addition to the 8:15 p.m. performances on Thursday and Friday, Nov. 30 and Dec. 1. At the matinee performances, children of the ages of primary and secondary grades will be admitted for $2 each; otherwise, admission is $3. All seats are reserved.

The Theatre's box office, in the foyer of Phi Beta Kappa, will be open weekdays this week, from 3:00 to 5:30 p.m. It also is open between 7:00 and 8:15 p.m. the two nights of performance, as well as between 12:30 and 2 p.m. for the matinees. During those hours, not at other times, telephone reservations are accepted at 253-4272 or 253-4469.

"Medieval Plays for Christmas" is the second production of the fifty-third season of The William and Mary Theatre. In the second semester the Theatre will present "Woyzeck" (Feb. 22-25) and "The Constant Wife" (April 11-14). It also will sponsor the visiting professional production of "Vanities" (March 15).

The Angel Gabriel announces to the sleeping Joseph that Mary has conceived Jesus, "and all this world save shall He," in one scene from The William and Mary Theatre's production of "Medieval Plays for Christmas" which will be presented at 8:15 p.m. Thursday and Friday, and 2:00 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. Playing the Angel is Senior Theatre Concentrator Hutton Cobb; Joseph is portrayed by Junior theatre Concentrator Richard Krohn.

Adult Skills Program Has Over 80 Students

"I learned more than reading and spelling . . . I learned not to be ashamed because I know so little, but that with people who care I can learn a lot."

This solid endorsement of the Adult Skills Program on campus comes from Percell A. Brown, a Colonial Williamsburg employee, writing in the latest issue of the ASP Newsletter. It parallels many others by adult students.

ASP, which is housed on the second floor of Old Rogers Hall, currently has 88 adults on the roster being tutored by 46 college students and several community volunteers. The enrollment includes employees from the College, Colonial Williamsburg, Eastern State, Camp Peary, Day Care Center, Anheuser Busch, Williamsburg Pottery, Dow Badische and 13 other business organizations in the Williamsburg area.

Mrs. Rita Welsh, co-director of the ASP program with Don Lashinger, associate professor of education, was featured speaker yesterday at the opening of a new service to adult new readers and new American residents learning English being offered by the Williamsburg Public Library.

The library's new collection includes books, cassettes, film strips and audio-visual equipment as supplemental material for those who are just learning to read English as well as for those who have progressed to the General Educational Development test or naturalization test.

Mrs. Ann Talcott and Mrs. Anna Grace Foster of the library staff are responsible for setting up the new section, called Adult Basic Education, which is especially helpful to the Adult Skills Program.

ASP has a new secretary-teacher aide in the Rogers Hall office. She's Mrs. Anna Glisson, who has contributed some fancy art work to the first fall newsletter. Mrs. Glisson is a graduate in psychology from Bryn Mawr College and did her graduate work at the Harvard-Radcliffe Program for Women in Business Administration. ASP also has a new board member, Layton Brenegan, Branch Manager for Mutual Federal Savings and Loan.

In an attempt to hold the continuity of the ASP through the College holidays, Mrs. Welsh would like to hear from anyone willing to volunteer as an aide December 7 through the 20th to take the place of student tutors who will be on vacation.

Volunteers are needed to help supervise adult students doing independent study, one hour twice a week.

Anyone who would like to work as a volunteer aide during the holiday period is asked to call the ASP office, ext. 4644.

Eleanor Johnson, who is employed by the College, likes to cook. Cooking is her hobby. This is one of her favorite recipes, reprinted from the ASP Newsletter.

CARROT CAKE

1 cup or 2 sticks butter
2 cups sugar
6 eggs
½ cup orange juice
½ cup cottage cheese

2½ cups sifted flour
dash of salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
2 cups milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1½ cups grated carrots

Cream softened butter and sugar together; add beaten eggs; add orange juice. Combine flour, baking powder and salt and sift; add gradually to batter, alternating with milk. Beat in cottage cheese and beat batter for 15 minutes. Stir in vanilla and grated carrots. Butter and flour a tube pan, pour in batter and bake in preheated oven at 325 degrees for 45 minutes or until done. Cool for 20 or 30 minutes before removing from pan.

Russian House Slates Speaker

Life in Tsarist Russia will be the topic of a talk in Russian, December 5 at 4 p.m. at the Russian House.

"Tsar's Russia As I Experienced It" will be the topic of a lecture by Mrs. Elena Eduardovna Babakina, daughter of a law professor at Petersburg University. Her father was the close friend and associate of Senator Stolypin, the last Tsar's interior minister.

Mrs. Babakina left Russia in 1918 and after three years in Estonia came to the United States via Germany. She married a U.S. Naval officer and has lived in the United States since 1929. Mrs. Babakina is widowed and lives in Dare, Va.

Name Change

The Transportation Control Board has changed its name and is now the Transportation Advisory Council.

The change was made at the suggestion of chairman Lewis A. Foster, who feels the new name more clearly defines the committee's functions.

In a memo to President Graves recommending the name change, Foster said he felt the present title was misleading, inasmuch as the committee is not constituted as a "board" of executive directors, nor is it endowed with a power of transportation control.

Surplus Sale

Over 170 items of equipment and vehicles are listed on the latest surplus property sale notice from the State Department of Purchases and Supply.

The sale is "as is and where is," without warranty. Bids will be opened December 4 at 2 p.m.

Bidders will be required to remit within ten calendar days and remove property within 20 calendar days from the day of notice of award.

The 1970 Virginia Conflict of Interest Act prohibits any employee spouse or relatives, residing in the employee's household, to purchase property belonging to the agency by which the person is employed.

A schedule of items on sale is available at the Purchasing Office, the College News Office and the Plant Office.

Writing Test Set

All first-year students (freshmen or transfers) who have not yet met the writing proficiency requirement may take the writing exemption test on January 15, 3-5 p.m., in Old Rogers 100.

Both freshmen who did not take the test in September and freshmen who took it but did not pass it are eligible. Students who are pre-registered for English 101 in the spring should maintain that registration until after they have taken the exemption test. If they pass, they may then drop English 101 and add another course.

CPR Instruction

The Heart Saver basic cardiopulmonary resuscitation course offered by the American Heart Association will be given Jan. 5, but because the College will not be in session, the location has been moved from Morton Hall to the personnel training center at the Colonial Williamsburg Information Center.

The class lasts approximately four hours, so participants complete the entire course in one evening. Although the class itself is free, there is a $3 fee for materials.

Those interested must pre-register by sending $3 to the American Heart Association, P.O. Box 5009, Newport News, 23605.

The next session on campus will be Dec. 1, but registration for that course is closed. Classes are limited to 20.

Published weekly by the Office of University Communications during the academic year, except when the College is in recess, and twice each month in June, July and August.
