Governor Upgrades Peer Assignment

Governor Dalton on Monday approved a request by the College to have its peer group assignment upgraded. The move, requested by President Graves and Dr. E. E. Brickell, Rector of the Board of Visitors, increases the average faculty salary (benchmark) which is authorized to be paid from State-appropriated funds beginning July 1, 1980.

The Governor's approval is a preliminary step which will now allow the College to pay faculty an average of $23,630 next year from appropriated funds. The similar figure for 1979-80 is $22,175. The Governor's decision does not mean that more funds for faculty salaries will be added to the College's 1980-82 budget by the 1980 General Assembly.

The peer assignment rescinds an earlier action which placed William and Mary's faculty salaries on a par with 60 public universities in addition to Old Dominion University and George Mason University. The 33 new peer institutions affect only William and Mary in this state, and are as follows:

Auburn, Alabama, Arizona State, Arkansas, California at Riverside, California at Santa Barbara, Northern Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Georgia Tech, Southern Illinois, Kansas State University, Louisville, LSU, Maine at Orono, Mississippi State, Missouri-Kansas City, Montana State, Nebraska at Lincoln, New Hampshire, New Mexico State, Cornell (statutory), CUNY Graduate School & University, SUNY at Albany, SUNY at Stony Brook, North Dakota, Oklahoma State, University of Oklahoma-Norman, South Dakota, Vermont, West Virginia, Wisconsin at Milwaukee, and Wyoming.

Professors Win PBK Awards

Stephen Brush, associate professor of anthropology, and Robert J. Scholnick, associate professor of English, have been selected for Phi Beta Kappa honors by Alpha of Virginia chapter.

Brush, whose teaching specialties include primitive economic systems and the people and culture of South America, has been selected to receive the 1979 Faculty Award for the Advancement of Scholarship.

Scholnick, a member of the English faculty since 1967, has been selected to join Phi Beta Kappa as a faculty initiate. He is the author of a book on Edmund Clarence Stedman and many scholarly articles on topics in American literature and poetry, especially the works of Walt Whitman.

Brush and Scholnick will be honored at the annual chapter activities December 5 which will include the initiation of undergraduates.

Elizabeth Hardwick, a member of the English faculty at Barnard College and winner of the Jean Nathan Award for dramatic criticism in 1966, will be the principal speaker at the public portion of the Phi Beta Kappa meetings to be held at 8:15 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

The upcoming anniversary will mark the 203rd year of Phi Beta Kappa which was founded by students at the College on Dec. 5, 1776.

Deadline Extended

The deadline for submission of applications for Faculty Summer Research Assignments has been extended to noon, Friday, Nov. 16.

Sixteen copies of the application should be sent directly to Dale Hoak, history department.

Talk to Focus On Ibsen Play

Hosted by the Department of Theatre and Speech, Rolf Fjelde will deliver a public lecture on Ibsen's "The Wild Duck" in Botetourt Theatre, Swem Library, at 8 p.m., next Thursday, November 13.

Professor Fjelde's translation of "The Wild Duck" was selected for the forthcoming William and Mary Theatre production, and he will attend the opening performance November 14.

Last May, Fjelde organized the Ibsen Sesquicentennial Symposium in New York where he is a member of the faculty of Pratt Institute and the Juilliard School. In addition to writing, translating, and editing in the field of Ibsenian scholarship, he also writes original plays and poetry, and is presently at work on a novel. Publications to which he has contributed include The Drama Review, Modern Drama, The New Republic, The New York Times, and The Paris Review, and he has been playwright-in-residence at the Eugene O'Neill Theatre Center.

Heading the cast of "The Wild Duck" is James Hansen, a sophomore from Arlington. Hansen will play Hjalmar Ekdal, the dreamer whose fragile world is destroyed by his idealistic friend Gregers Werle, played by sophomore Richard Froom of Rockville, Md. Julie Kelly, a senior from McLean, portrays Gina, Hjalmar's protective wife. Sophomore Nancy Alderson of Ballston Spa, N.Y., is the daughter Hedvig, who is willing to make the ultimate sacrifice to affirm her love for her father.

Also featured in the cast are sophomore James Meade of Alexandria, sophomore Cliff Cummins of Windsor, and senior Audrey Sussman of Margate, N.J.

Rolf Fjelde

Other members of the cast include Shana Aborn, a freshman from Kensington, Md.; freshman Laura Francis of Roanoke; sophomore Bryan

Also in the cast are Emmett Harrison of Old Greenwich, Conn.; Dennis Fitzgerald of Bowie, Md.; Spencer Pugh of Radford, Va.; James Holsinger, a freshman from Norfolk; freshman Stephen Huether of Hampton; and freshman Marc Wright of Buffalo Grove, Ill.

'Fantasticks' Opens Tomorrow

by Cathy Kinner and Christine Kurtz

Paper rain and a stick wall? An abduction with Indians and bandits? A world tour in five minutes? All this and more will sweep the stage of the William and Mary Campus Center Little Theatre with Backdrop's production of "The Fantasticks."

A dynamic blend of music, comedy, romance, and disillusionment, "The Fantasticks" weaves fantasy throughout its simple tale. Boy-meets-girl, boy-loses-girl, boy-gets-girl-back becomes a fresh and vibrant story, especially when the magic of a mysterious bandit-for-hire and his troupe of eccentric actor-abductors intervenes.

Such excitement has kept Broadway audiences entertained for twenty years as "The Fantasticks" this year earned its billing as "the world's longest-running musical." The Backdrop Club's version is infused with this same sparkle.

A totally student-run organization, Backdrop was utilized a myriad of student talents to synthesize a spell-binding show. From the directing of senior Denise Trogden to the set construction and lighting, students have charge of all facets of the production, artistic and technical.

"Not only have rehearsals been fun, the whole process is a real learning experience, a chance to implement all the theories and techniques that William and Mary Theatre has taught us," one cast member mused. "I guess in this case the means are as important as the ends."

The means have been a grueling seven weeks of rehearsals and preparations, but the ends, according to senior and Stage Manager Sheryl Anderson, have been well worth the effort. "It's all coming together well," said Sheryl. "There's a lot of chemistry between cast members on stage, and their enthusiasm is really infectious."

"It's exciting to see what you've envisioned in your own mind transformed onto the stage," said senior Linda Riley, Choreographer, "and it's even more exciting to share it with an audience! We've given a few mini-performances of select scenes to small groups and they've really enjoyed it."

The show is an intimate one with much actor-audience interaction written into the script, and the way the play has been staged reinforces this mutual participation, so that one is drawn into the enchantment. Such well-known musical numbers as "Try to Remember," "Soon It's Gonna Rain," and "They Were You" elicit smiles and feelings of familiarity. Songs, dances, comic and emotional scenes all blend into charm. As freshman Ralph Garner puts it, "The show has turned out to be really . . . well, fantastic!"

"The Fantasticks" opens tomorrow night with performances nightly at 8:15 p.m. through Saturday with a special matinee, Saturday at 2 p.m. Tickets are $2.25 and will be sold at the door the evenings of performance. Because of the limited seating capacity of the Campus Center Little Theatre, patrons are encouraged to purchase tickets in advance, at the Campus Center desk.

Program at Hampton Coliseum

Nuclear Energy Debate Is Next On 'Cosmos' Series

The lecture series, "Our Future in the Cosmos," will take on a new format for the upcoming "Energy Debate," Monday, Nov. 19 at 8 p.m. in Hampton Coliseum.

Because the basic objective of the lecture series is to present the pros and cons of national and global issues, the new debate format will allow the public to hear both sides of the current, controversial question of nuclear energy.

Stuart Diamond, journalist and Pulitzer Prize nominee, will present the case against nuclear energy and Dr. Carl Walske, physicist and president of the Atomic Industrial Forum, will present the case for. The moderator will be Thomas N. Downing, former U.S. Congressman from Virginia.

Equal time will be allowed to each presenter. At the conclusion of the presentations, the audience may participate in a question and answer period by directing questions to either or both of the speakers.

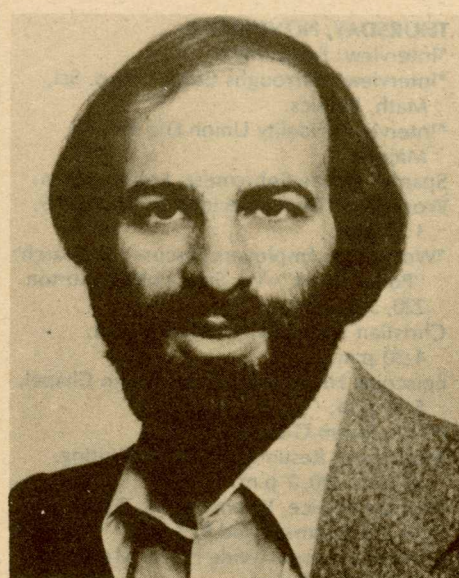

Diamond is the energy and environmental writer for the newspaper Newsday and has been nominated for a Pulitzer Prize for his coverage of events at Three Mile Island and is the co-author of It's in Your Power, an anti-nuclear energy book that advocates low technology, conservation, alternative energy sources and more citizen involvement.

Carl Walske

Walske's career in the nuclear energy field includes positions in research, management and international activities. Prior to holding his present position, he served as the principal staff officer and advisor on nuclear matters to four Secretaries of Defense and he was also responsible for liaison with the Atomic Energy Commission and the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy.

The speakers are expected to cover a wide range of subject matter relating to nuclear energy including energy requirements, and citizen involvement in the decision-making process.

There is no admission charge. Free tickets are available from the Office of Special Programs, 877-9231 until Nov. 12. After that date, tickets will be available only at the Coliseum box office.

Ann Massa Back For Talk Nov. 15

Ann Massa, lecturer at the University of Leeds in England, will speak on "Mind or Body But Never Both: The Depiction of Women in American Literature," at 8 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 15, in room 20 of Morton Hall.

Dr. Massa's talk will draw upon observations in American Literature: Nineteenth and Early Twentieth Centuries, a book she co-authored with Scott Donaldson, chairman of the English department at William and Mary. Among her other books are critical biographies of the poet Vachel Lindsay and of Harriet Monroe, the founder of Poetry magazine.

Dr. Massa was visiting professor of English at William and Mary during the 1977-78 academic year. She will return to campus this year after presenting a major address at the Vachel Lindsay centenary observances in Springfield, Ill.

Her appearance here is sponsored jointly by the department of English and the Committee on Lectures.

BBS To Hear Vogler on George Cruikshank

Richard Vogler, an authority on the work of the famous English cartoonist and graphic artist George Cruikshank (1792-1878), and owner of one of the finest collections of his work, will be guest speaker at the next meeting of the Botetourt Bibliographical Society, Thursday, Nov. 15 at 8:15 p.m. in the Botetourt Theatre of Swem Library.

Born into an artistic family, Cruikshank was, in his own words, "cradled in caricature," and it is as a political caricaturist dealing primarily with the Napoleonic Wars that he first came into his own as an artist.

In the second quarter of the nineteenth century, George shifted his interest to book illustration. His brief but important association with Dickens dates from this period. Cruikshank felt that his sketches were the sources from which Dickens developed some of the characters and episodes in Oliver Twist.

Later in his career Cruikshank got caught up in a campaign against alcoholism, an evangelical concern that had a revitalizing effect on his art during his last years.

The artistic production of George Cruikshank, his brother Robert and this father Isaac, covers almost a century from the mid-Georgian to the mid-Victorian period.

For more than a decade Dr. Vogler has been involved with publications and exhibitions of the works of George Cruikshank. An exhibition of the work of the family Cruikshank was held in the Huntington Gallery last winter and Dr. Vogler is presently working on an exhibit of Cruikshank work for the UCLA library next month.

Dr. Vogler received his undergraduate degree from Washington and Lee University in Lexington, Va., and received his doctorate from UCLA.

Chemists Slate Talk by Green

Robin N. Greene, a research chemist with E.I. DuPont de Nemours and Company, will be the final speaker in the current seminar series in applied chemistry which has brought in guest speakers for weekly lectures of both a general and technical nature.

Greene, division head, pioneering research, Elastomer Chemicals Department at DuPont, will give a lecture Thursday, Nov. 8, at 7:30 p.m. in William Small Physical Laboratory, room 109. His topic will be "Careers in Industrial Research and Development" and it will be geared to a general audience.

Friday, Greene will give a more technical presentation at 2 p.m. in Small 109 entitled "A Personal Account of One Chemist's Path from Organic to Polymer Chemist."

Tests Nov. 26-30 Set by Men's P.E.

The men's physical education department will administer the written part of the proficiency test Monday, Nov. 26, in William and Mary Hall, Room 221, at 5 p.m. Students are asked to sign up with their instructor or call the departmental secretary at ext. 4744, no later than noon, Nov. 26. The practical phase of the test will be given the last three days of the week, Nov. 28-30.

Questions regarding the test should be addressed to Mrs. Johnson, department secretary, at ext. 4744.

In Andrews Gallery

Sherman Lecture Ends Show; Burke Next

Steve Sherman, whose work has been on exhibit in the Andrews Hall foyer gallery, will wind up his show with a public slide lecture Thursday evening in Andrews 201, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Sherman works with oil both in paintings on canvases and on paper as monoprints. He also does graphite drawings on paper. The slide lecture will feature examples of all of these media.

During the day on Thursday he will be teaching painting, figure drawing and design classes on campus. Sherman has studied at the School of Visual Arts, Pratt Institute, and holds a master's degree in fine arts from Queens College, all in New York. He has had several one-man shows including exhibits at the Landmark Gallery in New York City and the Bronx Museum. He currently teaches painting and drawing at the Pennsylvania State University.

The exhibit currently on display in the foyer gallery at Andrews Hall contains the work of James Burke of Baton Rouge, La.

Both the prints and paintings in the exhibit are heavily influenced by a visit the artist took to the West Texas desert. The prints are engravings from a series called "Nagual," from the Spanish, a word used in reference to all that is unknown.

The paintings are acrylic on paper and are part of a series entitled "Archescape."

Asia House Giving Fashion Show

Asia House will present the Tokyo Kimono School of Japan, Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in "A Generation of Japanese Fashion."

Mrs. Hideko Chinen, the founder and head mistress of the Tokyo Kimono School, and eight of her students are in the United States on a Friendship Tour. They will introduce various kimono styles, and demonstrate "kimono dressing."

Division Volleyball Begins Friday

William and Mary will host the Virginia Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (VAIAW) Division II Volleyball Tournament, Friday and Saturday. All matches will be played in Adair Gym and admission is free.

The William and Mary team, coached by Debra Hill, is seeded second in the Burke teaches at Louisiana State University and has been exhibiting his work since 1963 in both juried and invitational shows.

This exhibit will be on display until Dec. 8.

Mrs. Thomas A. Graves, Jr., will formally welcome the Tokyo Kimono School with a luncheon at the President's House, Thursday.

The program will be held at the Asia House Lobby, Fraternity Complex Unit B. Refreshments will be served after the program. For further information, please contact Joy Montero, Resident Director of Asia House, at 229-5683.

tournament with a 23-10 overall record and 4-1 conference mark.

Games will begin at 11 a.m. on Friday, with the Championship match scheduled for 1 p.m. on Saturday. The Indians will meet VCU at 12:45 p.m. on Friday as both teams receive a bye in the first round.
