Summing Up

Basketball Tickets

With inflation boosting prices of practically everything, Sam Baker has good news for College employees -- season tickets for the basketball season are down from last year.

Parquet and box seats which sell regularly for $45 are discounted for members of the College community at $30. Mezzanine tickets are $25 for College employees, $35 for the general public.

A season basketball ticket entitles holders to 14 home games. The season opens Dec. 1. The Green and Gold game is scheduled for Nov. 20.

Ticket inquiries should be made to Betti Adams, ext. 4492.

For Day Students

Day students may pick up college telephone directories at the Campus Center Front Desk. Day student SAC rep. election will be held Wednesday, Nov. 14, in Swem Library from noon to 4 p.m.

Orientation Aides

Students who are interested in applying to be Orientation Aides for new students arriving in January should pick up applications in James Blair Hall, Room 210, as soon as possible. Applications must be returned to Dean Worthington's office no later than Nov. 21. (Orientation Aides would be required to return to campus around January 8.)

Work on Display

The figure drawing class in fine arts has a display of its work on the second level of the foyer in Andrews Hall.

No News Next Week

Because of the Thanksgiving break, there will not be a News on November 20. Next issue of the News will be Nov. 27.

The William and Mary Choir will present three Christmas concerts, Nov. 30, Dec. 1 and 2, at 8:15 p.m., in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. Tickets are now on sale at the Campus Center desk, the switchboard in James Blair Hall and at the music department office in Ewell Hall. General admission tickets are $1.50 each.

GM Chairman Wins Medallion

Thomas A. Murphy, chairman of the Board of Directors of General Motors and chief executive officer of the corporation, has been named the 1979 recipient of the Business School Medallion.

Murphy will receive the Medallion in a special award ceremony at 10:30 a.m., Saturday, Nov. 17 at Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

The faculty of William and Mary's School of Business Administration elected Murphy as a Medallion winner for his "professionalism and integrity in management," says Charles L. Quittmeyer, dean of the business school.

"In selecting Mr. Murphy for this award, we were impressed with his dynamic leadership of the corporation," says Roy L. Pearson, professor of business administration at the College and a member of the faculty selection committee. "GM was looking at the social and economic needs of the nation, although they had no way of anticipating the present situation."

GM has been able to weather the effects of recession and gas shortages, says Pearson, because "as a company, they were more forward-looking than the competition."

Murphy is also a major force behind the successful down-sizing and increased fuel economy of GM products, according to L. C. Ackerman, associate dean of the business school.

Thomas A. Murphy

"General Motors has gone from a position of complacency about its product to one of public responsibility," says Ackerman. "Mr. Murphy is largely responsible for that feat."

Because of its responsiveness to social and economic trends, GM is considered in better shape to meet Department of Energy mileage requirements than its competitors, says Ackerman.

Murphy, however, says he doesn't worry about the competition. "I tell our people to concentrate on the customer, on customer needs, and what we can do to meet these needs," he says. "I tell them not to worry about what the other fellow is doing."

Murphy joined GM as a clerk immediately after graduating from the University of Illinois in 1938 and worked his way up at the corporation. He held successive positions as an accountant, statistician, supervisor of corporate forecasts and financial analysis, director of financial analysis, assistant treasurer, comptroller, vice president and group executive.

Elected chairman of the board in 1974, Murphy is also the 1979 chairman of the Business Roundtable.

He is a founding member of the Business and Professional Friends Committee of the National Center for State Courts and holds numerous honorary degrees from colleges and universities.

Murphy is the fourth business leader to receive the Business School Medallion from William and Mary.

In 1976 the award was initiated with Thomas J. Watson, Jr., of International Business Machines Corporation receiving the first Medallion. Other Medallion winners include Floyd D. Gottwald and Floyd D. Gottwald, Jr., both of Richmond's Ethyl Corporation and co-recipients of the award; and Thomas C. Boushall, founder of the Bank of Virginia.

Craig Canning, associate professor of history, attended a lecture on Han dynasty archaeology by Dr. Wang Zhongshu, Deputy Director of the Institute of Archaeology of the Chinese Academy of Social Sciences for the People's Republic of China. Wang's lecture, which discussed recent discoveries from the Han period in the excavations at Ma Wang Tui and capitol cities Ch'angan and Loyang, was the first in a projected series of lectures by eminent scholars from the People's Republic of China sponsored by its Committee on Scholarly Communication.

Five members of the Bibliographic Services Division of E.G. Swem Library attended the annual Potomac Technical Processing Librarians meeting Nov. 3. Berna Heyman, Kathryn Blue, Marcia Bush, Jim Kelly and Merle Kimball attended the meeting which was held in Baltimore. A future look at information dissemination and communication was the subject of the meeting. Berna Heyman, elected Virginia representative to the organization, introduced the two keynote speakers, Jesco von Puttkamer, Office of Space Transportation Systems, NASA, and F.W. Lancaster, Professor of Library Science, University of Illinois.

Berna Heyman, Bibliographic Services Head Librarian, has been invited to give a presentation at the Virginia Library Association Pre-Conference Institute on Alternative to the Card Catalog held at The Homestead on November 7-8. Ms. Heyman spoke on alternative methods for closing the card catalog in view of the changes in cataloging rules to be adopted in 1981 and the Library of Congress decision to close their card catalog. She also presented a discussion of converting records from "human readable" to machine readable form. Other Swem staff members attending the conference were Kathryn Blue, Ass't. Cataloging Librarian, John D. Haskell, Jr., Associate Librarian, Delmas W. Moore, Jr., Ass't. Reference Librarian, Jean Marie Peet, Cataloging Library Assistant, Sandra K. Peterson, Documents Librarian, and Dortha H. Skelton, Reference Librarian.

Associate Professor of Business Administration Henry E. Mallue, Jr., presented a paper entitled "Tying Arrangements in the Fifth Circuit: Will All Roads Lead from Spartan?" at the annual meeting of the Southeastern Regional Business Law Association in Atlanta October 26. The paper was co-authored by Ms. Gail Dunn, an MBA candidate at William and Mary.

Lewis Foster, professor of philosophy, attended the annual convention of The American Society For Aesthetics held at the University of Arizona, October 24-27, where he served on the program committee and was also chairman for the session, "Art: History And Response."

Brenda Williams, visiting assistant professor of education, has had a paper accepted for publication by ERIC Clearinghouse entitled "Pluralism in American Society and Education: New Directions." The article will also be abstracted in Resources in Education, the monthly journal of ERIC.

Armand Galfo, professor of education, and Thomas Reynolds, professor of mathematics, served on a team of educators which has completed an evaluation of the Hampton Public Schools program in mathematics. Visits to the schools were made in April and October.

Fred Adair, associate professor of education, has been appointed by Governor Dalton to serve as a member of the Virginia Board of Professional Counselors. The board is composed of 7 members who are responsible for certifying professionals for licensure. Dr. Adair will serve on the board until July, 1981.

Stuart Flanagan, associate professor of education, assisted the State Department of Education with the establishment of valid and reliable reference tests for reading and mathematics. Five one-day workshops on practical approaches to documenting the validity and reliability of locally-developed referenced tests and the procedures to be used in interpreting the scoring of the tests will be held at colleges throughout the state. A workshop will be held at the College, November 30, in the Campus Center from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Ronald Giese, associate professor of education, has been selected as a reviewer of elementary science trade books by the National Science Teachers Association.

Thomas M. Finn, associate professor of religion, recently attended the annual meeting of the North American Patristic Society where he delivered a paper on social mobility and early Christianity and the annual convention of the Patristic, Medieval, and Renaissance Society, where he read a paper on Abelard, Anselm and the rise of Scholastic method.

Jonathan Strauss, assistant professor of economics, was selected to participate in a NSF Chataqua course, "Food Energy and Society," held at Hampshire College, Oct. 25-26.

Stephanie Parker Lawrence, a master's student in the museum education program in the School of Education, is the new Curator of Education for The Museum of the Confederacy in Richmond.

As Curator of Education, she will supervise the activities of the Museum's Junior Board members, who assist in special and education programs. She is also responsible for the development, refinement, and review of the education programs, audio-visual presentations, materials, and volunteer procedures.

Miss Lawrence, a native of Winchester, received a B.A. in History, magna cum laude, from Westhampton College of the University of Richmond in 1977. She is currently completing the requirements for the Master's degree in Museum Education.

John Levy, associate professor of law and Director of Clinical Education, will present a paper on "Virginia's Work Ethic Legacy: Sluggards and Students," at the Statewide Conference on The Eating System: Making Virginia Policy on Food and Nutrition - Fort Magruder Inn Conference Center, Nov. 27-28.

Alexander Kallos, Emeritus Professor of modern languages, participated in a symposium on Ibsen's "The Wild Duck" Oct. 23 for the William and Mary Theater.

Stewart A. Ware, associate professor of biology, was an author of two recent papers: "Upland Hardwood Forests of the Central Coastal Plain of Virginia," published in the fall issue of the botanical journal Castanea, was co-authored by former student Ridge DeWitt; "Vegetational Role of Beech in the Southern Mixed Hardwood Forest and the Virginia Coastal Plain" was published in the fall issue of the Virginia Journal of Science.

Zamora, professor of anthropology, is the author of a review of James Brow's Vedda Villages of Anuradhapura: The Historical Anthropology of a Community in Sri Lanka, which will appear in the Journal of Asian and African Studies, Leiden, The Netherlands. His review of Sylvia Vatuk, ed., American Studies in the Anthropology of India, 1978 will appear in South Asia, South Asian Studies Association of Australia and New Zealand.

Norman E. Gibbs, associate professor of mathematics and computer science, has been elected for a second two-year term as vice chairman of the Association for Computing Machinery Special Interest Group on Computer Science Education. ACM SIGCSE is a national organization with over 3,000 members, mostly computer scientists from universities.

Earlier this month Gibbs gave a talk entitled "Computer Science Education - Past, Present, Future" at the Hampton Roads Chapter of the Data Processing Management Association.

Norman F. Barka, professor of anthropology and president-elect of the National Society for Historical Archaeology, has been elected honorary vice-president of the Society for Post-Medieval Archaeology. Barka thus becomes North American representative of the SPMA. SPMA and the Society for Historical Archaeology held a joint conference in September at the University of Bristol, England.

At the annual meeting of The South Atlantic Modern Language Association in Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 1-3, Carl Dolmetsch, professor of English, presented a paper to the American Literature Section entitled "'Steady' and His Friends: The Personae of William Byrd II."

Dolmetsch's review of In the time before steamships: Billy Budd, the limits of politics and modernity by Thomas J. Scorza (Northern Illinois, 1979) was published in the September issue of Choice.

Mario D. Zamora, professor of anthropology, is author of a review essay (with J. Hicks) entitled "Change and Persistence in Japan," which assesses E. Norbeck's book Changing Japan. The essay will appear in Journal of Oriental Studies, University of Hong Kong. His review of Burke's Indian and Pakistani Foreign Policies will appear in the Indian Journal of Public Administration, New Delhi. His other two reviews, James Brow's Vedda Villages, will be published in The Journal of Asian and African Studies, The Netherlands, and Sylvia Vatuk, ed., American Studies in the Anthropology of India is scheduled for publication in South Asia, South Asian Studies Association of Australia and New Zealand.

Lynn Z. Bloom, associate professor of English, was recently elected to the executive committee of the Conference on College Composition and Communication for a three-year term, 1980-82.

Bloom's recent publications include "Dorothy Parker," Writers of the English Language, St. James Press, London; "Peter Taylor," Southern Writers: A Biographical Dictionary, Louisiana State University Press; "Natalie Crouter," American Women Writers, edited by Lina Mainiero, Vol. 1; and "Teaching Adults in Non-Credit Courses," Improving College and University Teaching, Summer, 1979.

Carl M. Andersen, senior research associate in mathematics and computer science, presented a lecture on algebraic and symbolic computation to two sections of a two-week intensive course on recent developments in advanced technology. The lectures were given at the Binghamton campus of the State University of New York on Oct. 29 and Oct. 31.

Robert Bloom, associate professor of business administration, has had his manuscript entitled "The Case Against Articulation of Financial Statements" accepted for publication in The South African Chartered Accountant. Bloom attended the Financial Management Association meetings in Boston during October where he discussed a paper on the "Post-Performance of Firms Granted Voluntary Bankruptcy."

"Oil and U.S.-Mexican Relations," an article written by George W. Grayson, professor of government, appears in the November issue of the Journal of Inter-American Studies and World Affairs.

Dale Hoak, associate professor of history, attended a meeting of the Mid-Atlantic Renaissance-Reformation Seminar at George Mason University Oct. 12-13, where he presented a slide lecture demonstrating a method of teaching history with art, entitled "Art and Mentality: The Demonization of Women in European Society, 1400-1700." Hoak looked at some of the art of Hans Baldung Grien, Mathis Grunewald, Hieronymus Bosch, Lucas Cranach and Abraham Janssens as "pieces of history," primary sources for the study of the mentality of those who accepted the corporeal reality of demons; who believed that some women were inclined to demonic behavior; who associated such behavior with witchcraft.

Davidson To Talk

Sidney Davidson, renowned professor of accounting and past Dean of the Graduate School of Business at the University of Chicago, will speak on "Accounting for Changing Prices," as part of the annual distinguished speakers series sponsored jointly by the Wayne F. Gibbs Accounting Club and the Beta Gamma Sigma business honorary society.

Davidson will speak at 8 p.m., Friday, Nov. 16, in the Campus Center Little Theatre. A reception in his honor will be held following the program in the Great Hall of the Wren Building.

Davidson is past president of the American Accounting Association and has served as a member of the Accounting Principles Board. He is an active author and was the editor of the Handbook of Modern Accounting, published in 1977.

Attorneys Examine Environmental Law

Over 130 lawyers recently gathered at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law to take a closer look at one of the newest and most rapidly changing areas of the legal profession—environmental law.

Earlier this month, lawyers met in Williamsburg to attend a two-day conference on environmental law co-sponsored by Marshall-Wythe, the Virginia State Bar and the Virginia Bar Association as part of the Continuing Legal Education program in Virginia. The Virginia Environmental Endowment has provided support for a series of seminars on environmental law produced by Marshall-Wythe.

The conference appealed to a wide range of lawyers who work for a variety of firms. Environmental law, according to program moderator George Walker, visiting professor at Marshall-Wythe, is no longer simply a concern of big businesses which are in danger of heavily polluting air and water. Today, a great number of smaller concerns, including dry-cleaners, fast-food restaurants, car-washes and real estate developers, must also be aware of recently revised federal and state environmental laws.

Organizers of the conference point to the fact that many lawyers have been unable to keep up with the new environmental laws which have imposed strict penalties for violations—sometimes $10,000 per day civil penalties and imprisonment for one to two years. Other lawyers fail to realize that they themselves can be held liable.

Lecturers at the conference included Turner T. Smith, Jr., of Hunton and Williams in Richmond and a lecturer at Marshall-Wythe; Denis J. Brion, assistant professor at Washington and Lee University; Andrea S. Bear, also of Hunton and Williams; David E. Evans of McGuire, Woods and Battle in Richmond; and R. Leonard Vance, assistant attorney general. William B. Spong, Jr., dean of Marshall-Wythe, gave the opening remarks to the conference.

Walker says that seminars such as the one on environmental law are rapidly becoming a "standard part" of a lawyer's continuing education. The focus of the conference was the rapid change in federal statutes concerning the environment, although many discussions centered on the state regulations which implement the federal laws. "Many of the lecturers also made projections for the future," he says. "They gave the participants an idea of what's coming down the pike."

Smith's opening lecture argued a strong case for an increased interest in environmental law. He noted that before technological advances increased the industrial and economic activity of America, common law traditionally governed environmental concerns. During recent years, a number of important and far-reaching laws have been passed at several levels of government. Smith also said that environmental law offers several unique challenges because the legal counsel is often expected to understand technical and engineering principles related to the case.

Now, and in the future, more well-trained lawyers will be asked to spot potential problems before they occur, said Smith.

The third Marshall-Wythe conference on environmental law is scheduled for Dec. 8.

Greeks Sponsor Bloodmobile

Chi Omega sorority and Alpha Phi Omega fraternity, with VFW Post No. 4639, will sponsor the next Red Cross bloodmobile visit, Friday, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., Nov. 16, at the Williamsburg United Methodist Church, 514 Jamestown Road.

The October 2 visit, sponsored by Yates Hall, collected 85 pints with 43 first-time donors. The Oct. 31 visit, sponsored by the Interfraternity Council, collected 163 pints with 52 first-time donors.

CAMU To Hold Service

Since this is the United Nations Year of the Child, CAMU, the Campus Ministries United, has selected as the theme of its annual community Thanksgiving service a Biblical quotation, "Unless You Become Like Little Children . . ."

The service will be held at 5:30 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 18, in Bruton Parish Church.

Father Ron Seguin of the Catholic Student Association will give the main address.

A musical prelude at 5 p.m. will be provided by folk music groups including the Baptist Student Union Bell Choir, the Ebony Expressions and representatives from the Catholic Student Association and the William and Mary Christian Fellowship.

Music during the service will be sung by the Evensong Choir at Bruton Parish Church under the direction of Frank T. Lendrim, chairman of the music department.

Each of the student groups participating in the Thanksgiving service will bring food for a dinner to be held in Bruton Parish House following the service.

The collection from this year's service will be donated for Cambodian Refugee relief.

Details concerning the service and the dinner that follows may be obtained from the CAMU office, 229-6832.

Baier To Share Tapes

Paul R. Baier, a member of the Louisiana State University law faculty and a former judicial fellow in the United States Supreme Court, will give several demonstrations of taped oral arguments in great constitutional cases before the court, during his visit in Williamsburg this week. Entitled "Behind the Scenes at the Supreme Court," but more informally known as "the Supreme Court tapes," the recordings feature excerpts from the arguments of Robert Kennedy as attorney general, Erwin Griswold, former solicitor general, and a number of famed attorneys practicing before the Supreme Court.

Baier's presentations will be made to a law faculty colloquium on Thursday afternoon and to a chapter meeting of the Supreme Court Historical Society that evening. The next day he will give a version of his program to staff members of the National Center for State Courts.

As a judicial fellow in 1975-76, Baier arranged with the court officials to edit parts of the tape recordings of oral arguments as a teaching device for his classes at LSU. Combined with old film footage of newsreels in the National Archives, Baier has developed an audio-visual package that is being praised by law schools and leaders of continuing legal education as a fresh new dimension in professional teaching. In September 1978 he was a featured speaker at a National Archives conference on new methods in teaching legal history and served on the faculty of the National Appellate Advocacy Program at Phoenix, Arizona, that year.

Alliance Plans For Energy Debate

The Matoaka Alliance for Clean Energy will meet at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 14, in the Campus Center Room C. The solar energy workshop and plans for going to the nuclear energy debate at the Hampton Coliseum Nov. 19 will be discussed.

Sterling Gets Promotion

W. Clifton Sterling, Jr., College controller, has been appointed to the new position of Systems Accountant Supervisor, effective Nov. 15.

Sterling will be located at the Virginia Institute of Marine Science, VIMS. He will work closely with Walter J. Diggles, finance officer at VIMS, and will report directly to William J. Carter, vice president for business affairs.

A College employee since 1969, Sterling began work as internal auditor and was promoted to the position of controller five years ago. He has supervised the centralized accounting system, accounts payable and payroll sections, reporting to College treasurer Floyd E. Whitaker. His new position represents a further promotion.

A graduate of the University of Virginia School of Commerce with a major in accounting, Sterling came to the College from the Hampton Roads Broadcasting System, where he had been the comptroller.

In announcing the new appointment, Vice President Carter said Sterling had his enthusiastic endorsement, based on the unanimous recommendation of the selection committee composed of his assistant, Dennis Cogle, and Diggles from VIMS.

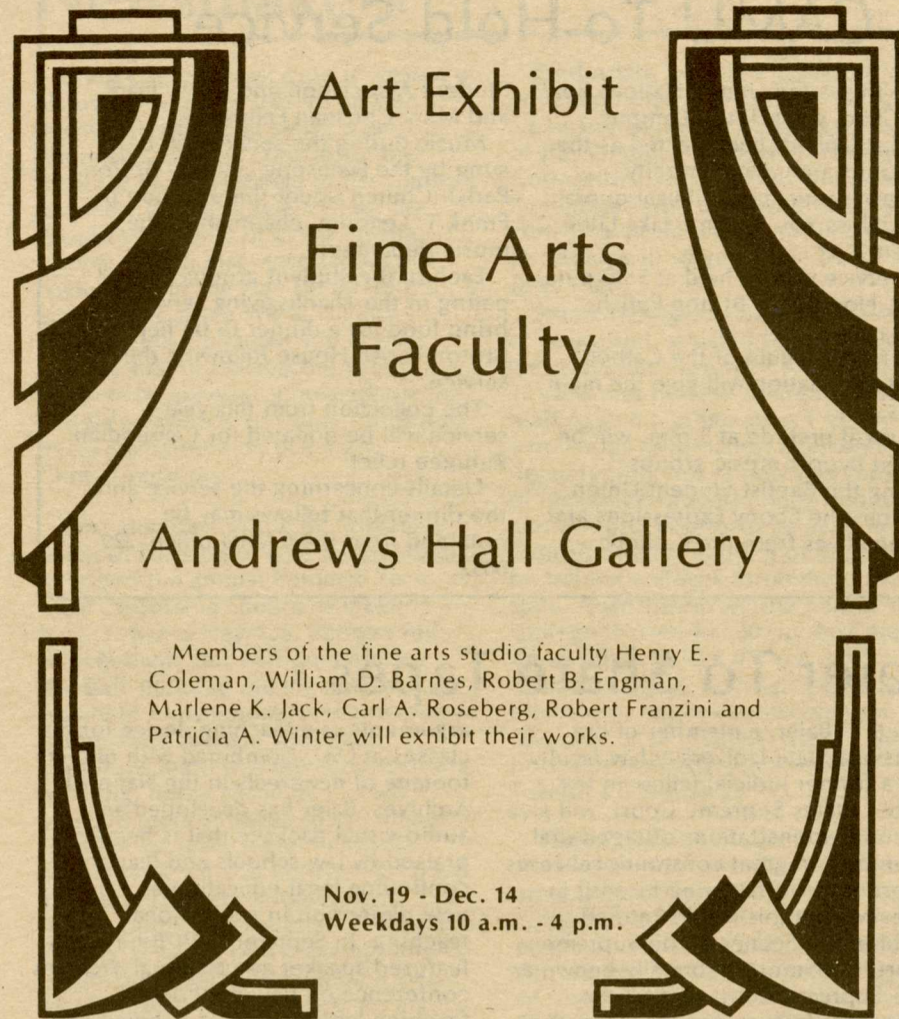

Carter said that among the factors that led to Sterling's selection was his extensive experience with the College's accounting system as well as his knowledge of State systems and use of the computer as a management tool in the accounting process.

The College's informal relationship with VIMS, which has spanned more than two decades, was strengthened this summer when the General Assembly gave the Board of Visitors responsibility for VIMS as of July 1, making the Institute an integral part of the College. VIMS is one of the country's leading centers in coastal marine research and education and is directed by William J. Hargis, Jr.

Weekdays 10 a.m. - 4 p.m.

Personnel Bulletin

TRAINING SESSIONS FOR STANDARDS OF CONDUCT AND THE GRIEVANCE PROCEDURE

The Department of Personnel and Training has recently set forth new guidelines for Standards of Conduct and the Grievance Procedure. In order to insure that all classified employees at the College are aware of the latest employee programs, the Personnel Office will conduct training sessions on the following dates:

Nov. 27, 1-2 p.m.
Nov. 28, 2-3 p.m.
Dec. 5, 2-3 p.m.
Dec. 6, 3-4 p.m.

All sessions will be held in Chancellor's (Old Rogers) Hall, Room 100. Immediately following the session given on Nov. 28, training will again be conducted in the completion of Performance Evaluation appraisals for classified employees. This session is for those persons who were unable to attend one of the four previous sessions given in September.

It is required that all classified employees attend one of the above training sessions as the new procedures are State mandated and the changes affect all classified employees of the College. The complete cooperation of supervisors in scheduling the attendance of their employees at one of these sessions is imperative to the success of this and other Personnel training programs. A by-name roster of individuals attending these sessions will be maintained by the College Personnel Office.

Other members of the College community, other than classified employees, are also invited to attend these training sessions.

LEAVE WITHOUT PAY STATUS DURING HOLIDAY

The following information is quoted from the College of William and Mary Employee Handbook and it outlines the procedure to be followed when an employee is not in a full pay status on both the day before and the day after a holiday.

- In order to be eligible for holiday pay, an employee must have:
- a. worked the last scheduled work day before and the first scheduled work day after the holiday, OR
  - b. have charged such scheduled day before and after the holiday to earned leave.

For example: If you are on a Monday through Friday work schedule, and you are working, or are on earned leave on Thursday and Monday, you will be paid for any holiday that may be scheduled for that Friday; however, if you have exhausted all leave time, and you do not work the day before and the day after the holiday, you will not be paid for the holiday.

It is strongly suggested that all supervisors bring this requirement to the attention of their employees.

Director of Personnel

Miller Shares Expertise

Students will have a unique opportunity to study government this spring with a remarkable octogenarian, Helen Hill Miller.

She has been writer for the London Economist and Newsweek, a contributing editor to The New Republic, and she continues to be an active free-lance writer. She has just completed a series of articles for American Heritage.

Mrs. Miller is the wife of Frances Pickens Miller, a retired government official, a member of the House of Delegates 1938-41 and unsuccessful candidate for governor in 1941, and mother of the former Attorney General, Andrew P. Miller. For several decades she has played a role in both the intellectual and political life of the state and nation.

Mrs. Miller will teach a course entitled "What Basis for Government?"

"In the 20th century," she explains, "majority approval of the philosophical and practical basis for government in the United States has gone through two distinct periods. During the first period covering the years until 1933, the relationship of government and citizens reflected the individualism that has emerged with the industrial revolution—minimal government was best. In the second third of the century, the welfare state appeared, based on the assumption that society as a whole had major responsibilities for the individuals that composed it.

"Currently," she asserts, "government is in bad repute — candidates do well running against Washington. A shift in basis appears necessary to regain general approval."

The major question Mrs. Miller will pose to her class is "For the last third of the century, what philosophical and practical changes are indicated?"

She says she would like to see an end to the anti-government sentiment in the country because "it is becoming increasingly clear it is just not possible to live without government," but she adds, "I do feel government needs to pull up its socks."

Mrs. Miller graduated in 1921 from Bryn Mawr. Her main interest then was science but she decided to take a year off and went to Oxford University to study economics and political science. She never went back to science but has traced a remarkable career as a journalist and author which she continues today from her home in Kitty Hawk, N.C.

A correspondent for the London Economist in 1940 and its American editorial representative from 1943-50, Mrs. Miller continued her economic writings as a correspondent with the Washington bureau of Newsweek, 1950-52. She was a contributing editor to The New Republic from 1958-66 and as a free-lance writer has been a contributor to many national magazines. She was a consultant with the U.S. Department of Labor, 1962-63.

Mrs. Miller has written several books, including Sicily and the Western Colonies of Greece, 1965; Bridge to Asia: The Greeks in The Eastern Mediterranean, 1967; The Realms of Arthur, 1969; Greece Through the Ages as seen by Travellers from Herodotus to Byron, 1972; and George Mason, Gentleman Revolutionary, 1975. She has also written about the area in which she lives in a book entitled Historic Places Around the Outer Banks. She was co-author of The Giant of the Western World, with her husband, in 1930.

Concert Set by Music Faculty

The music department will present a faculty recital by Burton Kester, flute; Timothy Olbrych, classical guitar; and Mary Lou Fletcher, soprano, Wednesday, Nov. 14, at 8:15 p.m. in the Wren Chapel.

The program will include works of Loeillet, Jindvich Feld, Johan Cilensek, Adolphus Hailstork and Eugene Bozza for flute and guitar, the English Suite for Guitar by John Duarte, as well as Haitenesques for Guitar and Soprano by Frantz Casseus. Also included will be the Pavane, Op. 50 for Flute, Guitar and Soprano by Gabriel Faure.

Kester is a member of both the Virginia Philharmonic and the Virginia Classical Orchestra.

As well as his William and Mary affiliation, Olbrych is also a faculty member at Norfolk State University, has appeared with the Norfolk Chamber Consort and in concert with Patrice Pickering, soprano.

Mary Lou Fletcher is a frequent recitalist in Williamsburg, having appeared with the Palace Orchestra, with the Williamsburg Community Chorus and in the Bruton Parish Candlelight Concerts.

Godshall to Play

H. Edwin Godshall, lecturer in the department of music, where he teaches piano and organ, and director of music at St. Bede's Catholic Church will give a recital in partial fulfillment of the requirements for a Master's of Arts in Applied Music from the University of Richmond at 8:15 p.m., Monday, November 26, in the Cannon Chapel of the University campus.

Godshall will also give organ recitals at Bruton Parish Church in Williamsburg at 8 p.m., Tuesday, Nov. 13 and Nov. 20.

Deadline Correction

The Nov. 16 deadline listed in last week's News is for Faculty Research Assignments only.

Applications should be sent directly to Dale Hoak, history department.

Isom Wins Two Awards

College Employees Strive for Quality

Carole Isom in the budget office became the first employee Tuesday to receive two awards under the College Employee Recognition Award Program.

In presentation ceremonies at the President's Office, she shared the spotlight with Mrs. Edith Marsh who was also nominated for an employee recognition award by her boss, E. Leon Looney, director of student financial aid.

Waiting for ceremonies to begin, the two honorees recalled that they had another "reunion" two years ago in November when both were stranded in a Chicago airport during the Thanksgiving holiday; this was a happier occasion, they both conceded.

Carole Isom was cited for her performance beyond the normal job requirement and received a second award for her cost-saving procedures that during 1978-79 saved the College more than $10,000 on a telephone bill of approximately $400,000.

Initiating new record-keeping procedures, Mrs. Isom devised methods of keeping closer tabs on telephone usage. She has worked closely with department heads, pointing out patterns of abuse when they were evident, suggesting more economical ways of getting calls through and continuing to follow up to insure the economy suggestions became established procedure.

It is not expected that another $10,000 will be saved off this year's bill, said Dennis Cogle, assistant to Vice President for Business Affairs William J. Carter, but more savings are anticipated as the result of Mrs. Isom's vigilance.

The mother of three, Chad, Cassie and Chance; Mrs. Isom has had plenty of practice checking on the activity of her own telephone at home.

An artist and free-lance writer, Mrs. Isom has outlined for over 200 children's stories she hopes one day to market. She has enlivened the offices of the business offices during the holiday season with her Christmas art and also does portraits from photographs.

Mrs. Isom joined the College staff in 1976. She began her employment as a Clerk Typist C and, in December, 1977, was promoted to a position in Mr. Cogle's office. Since being assigned to the office, she has exhibited a great deal of initiative and provided invaluable assistance to her supervisor, particularly during a period when that office was understaffed, I. H. Robitshek, director of personnel, noted at the presentation ceremonies.

Flabbergasted by the double award, Mrs. Isom told President Graves she was nervous about the Tuesday gathering. "I thought you wanted to see me to complain about your telephone service," she said.

Mrs. Edith Marsh, who was cited for the skills and graciousness she brings to her job, wasn't nervous; she thought the meeting was to honor her boss, Leon Looney. Mrs. Marsh joined the College staff in 1967 as a Clerk Typist A in the Extension Division. She now holds a Clerk Stenographer D classification.

Reading the recommendation for the award, Robitshek said, "Mrs. Marsh continually examines and adjusts administrative procedures in the Office of Student Financial Aid to increase efficiency, accuracy of records and to improve overall communications with other offices at the College and has consistently received performance ratings of not less than excellent during the past six years."

Phrases like "she's an all-round good person," "her feathers never get ruffled," "a steady influence and a good thinker," came to mind when Looney was asked to talk about the employee he recommended.

"She's so thoughtful of students," said Looney. "She goes that second mile to do things for people. I couldn't do without her."

Looney's office has seen an increase in the work load since the middle income student assistance act has enabled more students to obtain educational loans. A month ago the office surpassed its business volume of 1978-79. Approximately 2,300 students are involved with the office with loans, grants or work study assignments. Because volume of business has doubled for the office there are few slack periods, but summer is the busiest time of the year for the office.

A grandmother five times, Mrs. Marsh is glad the peak season isn't just before Christmas. She has five robes she is sewing for her grandchildren and right now there are still some waiting their turn at the sewing machine.

Berkley And Jones Cited

Louise G. Berkley has been recognized as Custodian of the Month for September and Julia Ann Jones has received the same award for October. Both will be eligible for the "Custodian of the Year" award.

Mrs. Berkley has been employed at the College since 1963 and currently is working at James Blair Terrace. She was nominated by her supervisor, Hartense Washington.

Mrs. Berkley loves to fish. Weekends, she casts for trout and bass, croaker and perch in Yorktown. Her largest catch to date is a six-pound croaker who gave her as much pleasure after he came out of the oven as he did when she pulled him in on her line.

Mrs. Berkley has one son, James Stanley Berkley, who works for the State Highway Department, and one daughter, Deborah D. Berkley, at home.

This time of the year, fishing has to share her leisure time with sewing and crocheting; she likes to make afghans and will also make gifts to give at Christmas.

Mrs. Berkley has worked at James Blair Terrace and would pick sorority court as her favorite assignment. She enjoys JB Terrace, however, and is delighted that students from other parts of the campus come over to see her. Students, she said, make her job an enjoyable one. "They keep me jolly," she said.

Mrs. Berkley is a member of St. John's Baptist Church and, before coming to the College, she worked for the Williamsburg Motor Lodge on Richmond Road.

One of Mrs. Jones' interests for many years has been softball. She loves to watch it now and she used to be a valuable first base player for the James-York Starlets.

A widow for the past 16 years, Mrs. Jones was a full-time homemaker and

Speaks Tonight

Rolf Fjelde, whose translation of Ibsen's "The Wild Duck" is being used by the William and Mary Theatre on stage, Nov. 14-17, will speak at 8 p.m., Tuesday, Nov. 13, in the Botetourt Theatre of Swem Library.

Principals in the employee award ceremony pose outside the President's office. Pictured (l-r) are E. Leon Looney, director of student financial aid; Carole Isom, President Graves, Dennis K. Cogle, assistant to the vice president for business affairs; William J. Carter, vice president for business affairs; Edith Marsh and Irving H. Robitshek, director of personnel.

mother until she joined the College staff three years ago. She has four children: Cathy, Floyd, Jr., Sandra and Terry.

Mrs. Jones is an active member of Mt. Pilgrim Baptist Church in York County. She is a soprano with the Mt. Pilgrim Echoes and treasurer of the church's usher board. She is also sponsor and treasurer of the Pilgrimages, the youth choir. Mrs. Jones is also a member of the Lightfoot Chapter 99, Order of the Eastern Star.

Mrs. Jones works in James Blair Hall and also at Blow gymnasium. Like Mrs. Berkley, she finds the people in her area make her job pleasurable. When she has time in her busy schedule, she enjoys sewing and crocheting.

Mrs. Jones was nominated for recognition by her supervisor, Hartense Washington.

Dean Healey Plans Meeting For Extramural Programs

A meeting on the William and Mary Summer in Spain program will be held tonight, Nov. 13, at 8 p.m. in Washington Hall, 303. Students interested in studying this summer at Valle de Ruesga and sightseeing in Madrid and cities surrounding Valle should attend this meeting.

A slide show will be presented by students and faculty who have participated in last year's program.

Further information may be obtained from James D. Lavin, ext. 4292, or James E. Griffin, ext. 4663, both members of the Modern Languages and Literatures department.

A meeting is set for 3:30 p.m., Monday, Nov. 19, in the Campus Center Room C to inform students interested in the Junior Year in Exeter Program in England.

Other previously announced meetings on foreign study programs include the following: Junior Year in France, 7 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 14, French House, and The Germany of Young Hitler, 4 p.m., today, Nov. 13, Campus Center Sit 'n Bull Room.

A get-together for students interested in the Venture Program is planned for 3:30 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 14, in the Campus Center Sit 'n Bull Room.

Students are reminded that there is still time to apply for the Junior Year abroad program in the Philippines for study at Silliman University.

More information on any of the above programs may be obtained from Joseph P. Healey, associate dean for extramural programs, JB 209, ext. 4354.

She Roots For No. 20

There is no more enthusiastic football fan in Williamsburg than Mrs. Ethlyn Springs who works on campus in the housekeeping department.

Mrs. Springs watches the fortunes of the Dallas Cowboys with more than casual interest. She is the mother of All American No. 20, Ron Springs, the first rookie in ten years to play for the team his first year.

A product of Lafayette High School in Williamsburg, Ron spent one year breaking all the junior college football records while at Coffeyville Junior College in Kansas. That year he ran for 2,500 yards and scored 25 touchdowns and won three national awards.

The three years he played for Woody Hayes at Ohio State he added more honors to his credit. He was the sixth football player at the school to gain 1,000 yards in one season. Drafted by the Cowboys in May, he has played every game this year with them.

"I am thankful that the Lord blessed him to do what he wanted to do in life because he always wanted to be a professional football player," said Mrs. Springs. "I only hope he doesn't get hurt."

Ron began playing football at the age of 9 as a member of the Watts Fiat team in Williamsburg and was voted their most valuable player. At Lafayette High School he helped the Rams win a Division title and was a three letter man, excelling also in track and basketball.

Ron will receive a degree in public relations from Ohio State in June and, as a new homeowner, is settling down to life in Dallas. Mrs. Springs plans to fly out and spend Thanksgiving with her son and watch him play in Houston.

There was a Springs family cheering section for Ron last Sunday at Meadowland Stadium in New Jersey when the Cowboys beat the New York

Mrs. Springs

Giants. For Mrs. Springs it was a special day because she had taken along with her to the game a birthday cake for Ron who was 23. In all, 17 Springs relatives went to the birthday game.

Characterized as "one of the finest professional players in the game by coaches and managers of the Cowboys," Mrs. Springs is understandably proud of her son.

He comes home as often as his schedule permits and will be back in Williamsburg during the basketball season for ceremonies at Lafayette High School at which his No. 44 football shirt will be retired.

Mrs. Springs, who has been a College employee for the past ten years, is currently working in Hugh Jones Hall although, during her years with the College, she has also worked in William and Mary Hall, Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall, Barrett, Small, Adair and Swem Library.

Mrs. Springs says she doesn't even have a Cowboy T-shirt at home but she plans to load up on team souvenirs during her Thanksgiving visit.

Women Hold Workshop

"How to be Taken Seriously in Business," a workshop for women, will be sponsored by the Women in Business Program at the School of Business Administration, Dec. 4.

The day-long program will begin at 9 a.m. and continue until 3 p.m., in Room A of the Campus Center.

This is a "back by popular demand" conference, following a successful program given in April. It is a variation on the theme of assertiveness training with special application to the business environment, say planners.

Julie White, director of the Women's Center at Old Dominion University, will be the workshop leader. She holds a master's degree in administration and higher education with special emphasis on counseling and women's studies from Michigan State University. She has served on the faculties of Michigan State University, Lansing and Mott Community Colleges.

Fee for the workshop is $25 which includes lunch. Enrollment is limited. Deadline for applications is Friday, Nov. 30. Registration forms and further information concerning the program are available from the Women in Business Office at the School of Business Administration, 253-4286.

The Women in Business Program at William and Mary is supported by grants from the IBM Corporation and International Paper Company Foundation.

Architectural Talk Scheduled

Allan Morledge, a member of the Colonial Williamsburg Architectural Research staff, will talk on "Colonial Architecture of Virginia" at 8 p.m., Thursday, Nov. 15, in Andrews Hall 201.

In his talk, Morledge will focus on architectural features of Bruton Parish Church and the Wren Chapel. A reception will follow the program.

The Thursday lecture is being sponsored by the Fine Arts Society.

Rally Scheduled

"Support Your Local Football Team" will be the theme of a Student Association-sponsored pep rally and bonfire to be held in front of the Commons, at 7:30 p.m., Friday, Nov. 16.

Coach Jim Root and members of the football team will be at the rally which will also include a banner contest. The best banner on the subject of school spirit or the upcoming game with the University of Richmond will earn its designer a free keg.

Lecture Set

Nathaniel Pace, senior officer of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, will deliver a lecture on "Culture and Diplomacy" at 5 p.m., Thursday, Nov. 15, in Washington 100.

His lecture is sponsored by the anthropology of diplomacy class, department of anthropology.

Grundy To Speak

Robert E. Grundy, of the department of mathematics and computer science, will speak on "Some Illustrative Applications of Two-Point Rational and Polynomial Approximants" at 3 p.m., Friday, Nov. 16, in Jones Hall 107.

Coffee will be served from 2:30-3 p.m., prior to Grundy's lecture.

Graves' Schedule

This fall President Thomas A. Graves, Jr., is representing the College at a number of conferences and programs

On Oct. 31 and Nov. 1, he attended the annual meeting of the American Council on Education in Houston, Texas, where he participated in a panel on "Conditions of Employment for Top Academic Administrators--Executive Compensation."

On Nov. 8-9, he participated in the second meeting of the Business-Higher Education Forum which was first held in Williamsburg in January. This second meeting in Scottsdale, Ariz., which brought together several presidents of leading corporations and universities in the country, had a major session on "Increasing National Productivity," which Graves moderated.

The annual meeting of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities will be held in San Antonio, Nov. 19 and 20. Graves will be on a panel that focuses on the direction that education is taking today and the impact of the educational system on the rest of the country.

On Dec. 3, the American Council on Education's Commission on Leadership Development, of which Dr. Graves is a member, will be meeting in Washington, D.C. This Commission coordinates for ACE a wide range of seminars and programs whose purpose is to improve the management of higher education and to encourage young faculty members and academic administrators to move into leadership positions in higher education.

Meals on Wheels Serves Community Shut-ins

Meals on Wheels has proven to be a valuable service to many people in the community. Mrs. Giles R. Carpenter of Williamsburg, who is active with the program, would like members of the College community to know more about this service, and sends along the following information which we are happy to share with our readers. (Ed.)

Meals on Wheels offers a nutritional fully prepared meal from Williamsburg Community Hospital five days a week at noontime. The cost is $2.15 daily.

This has proven to be a wonderful service to many in our town and county. It is used for those returning from the hospital who might need this help for a week or two until they are stronger. Also, there are others who have these meals only two or three times a week to relieve their friends or family from shopping or preparing meals for them. For those living alone it means someone drops in on them daily with a good meal in their hands.

Those who wish to take advantage of this service may call Meals on Wheels weekdays from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., 229-9250.

College Hosts Champions

Over 200 women field hockey players will be on hand as William and Mary hosts the AIAW Region 2 Field Hockey Championships, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 16 and 17.

Sixteen teams will be competing in three divisions for berths to the Collegiate Nationals to be held Nov. 28-Dec. 1 at Princeton University.

Games will be played from 8:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. on Friday and from 8 a.m. on Saturday with the Division III Championship game at 9:30 a.m. and the Division II Championship game at noon.

William and Mary, while seeded sixth as tournament host, stands a very good chance of reaching the finals. The Indians start off at 10:30 a.m. on Friday against Clemson University, and if they win will meet UNC-Chapel Hill at 2:30 p.m. on Friday.

Take A Test

The women's P.E. department will hold proficiency tests in Adair gym from 6:30 to 8 p.m., Nov. 13 and 14.

House Holds Talk

Asia House will sponsor a talk by Gilbert Roy of the University of Virginia faculty at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Nov. 15, in the Asia House Lobby, Fraternity Complex, Unit B.

A specialist in Chinese, Mongolian and other languages, Roy will focus on the languages of Asia in his address.

A reception for the speaker will be held following the program.

More information concerning the program may be obtained from the resident director at Asia House, Joy Montero, 229-5683.

Buy An Angel

Pi Beta Phi sorority is having an "angel auction" from 4 to 6 p.m., Friday, Nov. 16, on the patio of the Campus Center. Minimum bids will be one dollar and services will be agreed on after the sale.

Williams Heads Mainstreaming In-Service

The in-service project on mainstreaming in the School of Education is in the hands of Brenda Williams, visiting assistant professor of education, from Hampton Institute.

Mrs. Williams is filling in for Douglas Prillaman who is on leave teaching at the College of the Virgin Islands.

Mrs. Williams is finishing up work on an advanced Certificate in Educational Administration and Special Education and has been admitted to the doctoral program in that field. She brings to the program a great deal of enthusiasm as well as commitment.

That commitment began when she worked with the nongraded Laborator School at Hampton Institute as an undergraduate. Mrs. Williams developed an interest in the individualized instructional approach to education. She likes the idea of minimizing the labeling of children with special needs and concentrating on finding an appropriate instructional program that will best fit their needs.

There are 38 teachers enrolled in in-service mainstreaming courses this year. The program is underwritten by a grant of approximately $64,000 from the Bureau of Education for the Handicapped, under HEW.

Teachers from several school divisions, including Williamsburg-James City County, Newport News, New Kent, Poquoson, York and Charles City, are enrolled. The program also involves principals from the cooperating divisions in workshop sessions, as well as coordinators of special education and directors of instruction.

This is the second and final year of current funding for the in-service program and a grant proposal has been submitted for next year by Lou Messier, chairman of the special education committee of the School of Education.

The School of Education's program has received the support of participating divisions who have shown interest in having the program continued. One reason for the support of the schools is the multiplier effect of the program. Teachers in the program are spreading the word among their faculties and the concept of mainstreaming is being shorn of some of the negative connotations that have been attributed to it.

Traditionally a teacher is trained to work with three skill groups in a classroom situation, explained Mrs. Williams. Mainstreaming advocates a more individualized approach to teaching. This does not mean the teacher is required to work on a one-to-one basis with each child, she said, but rather that suitable individual and peer group activities be arranged for those children who can work well independently or together, freeing the teacher to give special attention to children who need it.

Mainstreaming, said Mrs. Williams, is not a substitution for special education but rather an attempt to minimize the labelling of children and get them the most education possible in regular classrooms with their peers. Mainstreaming, she contends, helps both the handicapped child and the child without learning disabilities; the handicapped child cannot always have a sheltered environment and students without handicaps should be mindful of those who do have problems that impair their ability to learn.

away. Serving as a much needed support person for the classroom teachers, the DPT/LD teacher uses a non-categorical approach to problems.

This specialist, said Mrs. Williams, is someone who can provide counsel for the classroom teacher, tell her, "I've tried this and it works, here's how to follow through." Many students in this program are finding that their supervisors for particular work in the schools are former William and Mary students who have had the same training.

Mrs. Williams also teaches an off-campus course, "Children with Learning Disabilities," to assist teachers in the Suffolk, Isle of Wight, Southampton and Franklin county systems to become certified. The request for this service came from the Southeastern Cooperative Educational Program, SECEP, in Norfolk, a program sponsored jointly by eight school systems.

Mrs. Williams

Dr. Robert Hanny of the School of Education, who was recently designated an Alumni Fellow for 1979 by the Society of the Alumni of the College, is currently collecting data on the program for an assessment.

Mrs. Williams is also handling the Diagnostic-Prescriptive Teaching program for children with learning disabilities, DPT/LD, while Dr. Prillaman is

Shamrock Talks Turkey

The Shamrock Food Service is again offering a pre-cooked, take-out menu for the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays.

Orders for Thanksgiving can be placed through Monday, Nov. 19, by calling the Shamrock office, 229-0521.

- 1 turkey (hams are also available)
- 1 qt. gravy
- 2 qts. savory dressing
- 1 qt. yams and apples
- 1 pt. cranberry relish
- choice of 1 pumpkin or apple pie

The above menu, to serve six, is $39.95. Orders are also available for four, eight or twelve.

For cooks who prefer to prepare their own vegetables, 1 turkey, 1 qt. gravy and 2 qts. dressing is $29.95.

Looking ahead to the Christmas season, Shamrock is offering two pound fruit cakes in holiday tins for $4.50 each, with the suggestion that they make great gifts for professors, brothers, sisters, family and friends. They are on sale at both the Commons and Wigwam offices and Shamrock will mail the cakes for an added postal charge.

Further information on Shamrock's holiday offerings may be obtained from John Robb or Mark Galea at 229-0521.

Musicians Get New Grand

A new $13,000 Steinway grand piano is expected to arrive at the music department this week, the gift of an anonymous donor.

This is the sixth grand piano that the department's benefactor has donated and it will be placed in Ewell Hall.

The end of the month, the department will get delivery on another upright piano, also for Ewell Hall, also from its anonymous friend.

"For students and teaching purposes, the pianos are greatly appreciated," said Frank T. Lendrim, chairman of the music department.

One grand piano is currently in Richmond for what Lendrim describes as a "major face lifting" made possible by a $6,000 gift from the benefactor for renovation of existing pianos in the department.

Phi Beta Kappa Announces Initiates

Thirty-one members of the senior class at the College will be initiated into membership in Alpha of Virginia chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, on the 203rd anniversary of the founding of the fraternity by students of the College on December 5, 1776.

Stephen Brush, associate professor of anthropology, has been selected to receive the 1979 Faculty Award for the Advancement of Scholarship, given by the campus chapter. Robert J. Scholnick, associate professor of English, has been designated a faculty initiate.

Initiation ceremonies will be held in the Dodge Room of Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

Elizabeth Hardwick, member of the English faculty of Barnard College, will be the principal speaker at the annual public meeting of Phi Beta Kappa, which will be held at 8:15 p.m., Wednesday, Dec. 5, in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

The following Virginia students from the class of 1980 have been tapped for membership: Timothy Robert Carter, biology, Annandale; David Howard Schmidt, biology, and Thomas Alfred Shannon, Jr., government/philosophy, Arlington; Deirdre Katherine Mullane, English/government, Falls Church; Catherine Frances Welsh, biology, Hampton; Nancy Campbell Goode, Spanish, Jeffrey Edward Oleynik, economics/philosophy, and Josephine Isabel Sais, biology, all from Richmond; Raymond David Williams, English, Rocky Mount; Stephen Wallace Wood, economics, Springfield; Teresa Carroll Grant, history/anthropology, Stephens City; David Jerome Johnson, economics, Vienna; William Henry Mallison, III, physics, Virginia Beach; Patricia Louise Moran, English, Williamsburg; and Dwight Edward Peake, biology, Wise.

Sex Roles Topic Of Project Plus Forum

"Sex Roles on Campus Then and Now: 1919-1979" will be discussed by a panel of alumni for the Project Plus Forum program at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 14, in Millington Hall auditorium.

Panelists will include J. Wilfred Lambert '27; Anne Lambert (Nenzel) '35; Howard Scammon '34; Dr. Janet C. Kimbrough (Coleman) '21; Elizabeth Eades '23; Caroline Egelhoff (Talbot) '46; Margaret Rastetter (Van Oot) '36; Samuel Sadler '64; Mary Sadler (Smith) '65 and Elizabeth Stubbs '26.

Representing each of the decades since women were first admitted in 1919, panelists will review the mores and customs of their years on campus. Views from members of the audience will also be invited.

Out-of-state initiates include the following students: From New Jersey, William Mark Atkins, chemistry, Oakland, and Bonnie Fay Pobiner, biology, Princeton; from Pennsylvania, David Carl Brown, chemistry, Washington Crossing; Monty A. Estis, inter-disciplinary, Newton Square; Deborah Lynn Mellott, chemistry, Pittsburgh; Susan Laurie Rappe, chemistry, Fairview, and Richard Charles Stewart, chemistry, Lancaster; Clayton Marc Clemens, government/history, Salt Lake City, Utah; from Delaware, Ruth Catherine Cupery, biology, Wilmington, and Catherine Eva Hartsog, economics, Hockessin; Mary Edward Dennett, government, Atlanta, Ga.; Sergio Galvis, government, Houston, Tex.; Ellen Marie Lackermann, biology, Clinton, Iowa; Diane Judith Litman, mathematics and computer science, Rockville, Md.; Jeanne Renee Meyer, mathematics and German, Greenlawn, N.Y.; Nina Skovran, chemistry and computer science, Trumbull, Conn.

Hour for Students

President Graves will be in his office Nov. 27 from 3-4 p.m. for students to come by and talk with him about any issue of their choosing. No appointment is needed.

EASYRIDE Here

EASYRIDE, the organization for ride-sharing of the Virginia Peninsula Transportation District Commission, is currently showing its display on car pooling in front of the Payroll Office in James Blair Hall.

On Nov. 16, a representative from EASYRIDE will be distributing a short questionnaire in the vicinity of the Personnel/Payroll Offices to anyone who is now or may be in the future interested in car pooling in the Peninsula area. The data gathered from the completion of these questionnaires will be used to assist the applicant and other employees in forming ride-sharing pools.

Questions concerning the program should be addressed to the EASYRIDE representative who will be available from 10:30 a.m. until noon on Nov. 16 on the second floor of James Blair Hall.

Thanks

Dear friends,
 My retirement luncheon was a most happy occasion. It couldn't possibly have been more enjoyable for my wife and me. Having all of you there meant more than I can find words to tell you.
 The W&M chair you gave us was certainly a delightful surprise; it looks great in a special place in our family room.
 Thanks to each of you for all the nice things you have done for me through the years. I will always remember each of you as my friend.

Sincerely,
 Bill Allen
