'Salute to Learning' Set Thursday at Wren

A national "Salute to Learning" at the College on Thursday, May 8, will feature an address by the Hon. Shirley Hufstедler, the new Secretary of Education in President Carter's cabinet.

The public is invited to the one-hour program, which begins at 5 p.m. The College's Society of the Alumni will host a public reception for Secretary Hufstедler following the program. Both activities will take place in the Courtyard of the Sir Christopher Wren Building, or in the event of rain, at Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

The "Salute to Learning" commemorates the birth of the U.S. Office of Education, which was authorized by Congress early this year and begins formal operations next week. Formerly, educational affairs were a part of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The William and Mary program is one of several activities on May 8 which are designed to observe the date. The activities include a ceremony on the White House law, a program in an urban primary school, and one in a rural secondary school, all culminating in the event at William and Mary.

The program will include a special presentation on the historical development of the nation's public commitment to education by Dr. Thad Tate, Director of the Institute of Early American History and Culture.

Organizer of the special salute is Mrs. Liz Carpenter, the Department's Assistant Secretary for Public Affairs, and former press secretary to Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson.

A visit to William and Mary by Vice President Mondale or Mrs. Rosalynn Carter for the Wren Building commemoration has not been ruled out.

The College's president, Dr. Thomas A. Graves, Jr., will preside for the program. Platform guests will wear academic regalia. Special performances by the Colonial Williamsburg Fife and Drum Corps and the College Choir are also scheduled. The platform will include academic officials at the College, representatives of Colonial Williamsburg Foundation and the City of Williamsburg, state educational officials and top administrators within the U.S. Department of Education.

William and Mary was selected as the site for the higher education "salute," according to Department of Education officials, because of its age and its national reputation for high academic quality.

The ceremonies May 8 will mark a return to campus for the former judge who received the Marshall-Wythe Medallion at the law school program following commencement in 1977.

The Medallion is awarded periodically by the faculty of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law to individuals who have distinguished themselves in the legal profession.

College to Give Four Honorary Degrees

Torrens

Four individuals whose fields of achievement range from humor to politics will receive honorary degrees at Commencement Exercises, Sunday, May 11.

The four recipients of honorary degrees are Art Buchwald, successful humorist and this year's commencement speaker; John Warren Cooke, long-time member and recently retired Speaker of the Virginia House of Delegates; Sir Nevill Mott, Nobel prize winning physicist from the University of Cambridge; and Rafael Torrens, physician, author and leader in the government of Puerto Rico.

Called by Walter Lippman "one of the best satirists of our time," Buchwald is a successful author of several books, including Washington Is Leaking, I Am Not a Crook, and The

Cooke

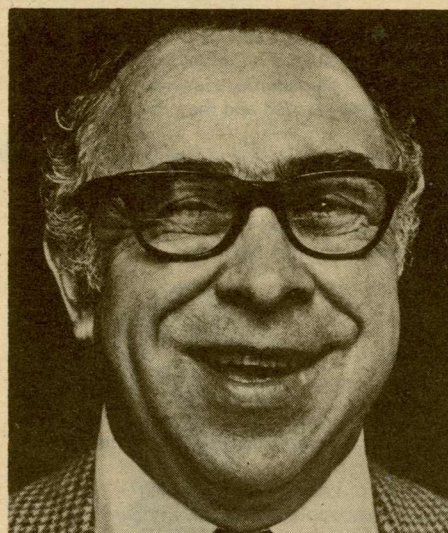

Establishment Is Alive and Well in Washington.

Buchwald's journalism career began in the Marines during World War II and developed when he was a student at the University of Southern California and in Paris. While in Paris, he began writing a column called "Europe's Lighter Side," which was syndicated in the American press.

After leaving Europe, Buchwald settled in Washington, where he now lives. His syndicated column appears in over 500 newspapers throughout the U.S. and the world, and he is heard as a performer on records, on television and before audiences across the nation.

John Warren Cooke was a member of the Virginia House of Delegates from 1942 until his retirement this year, and he served as Speaker of the House from 1968 until his retirement.

A member of the Democratic Party,

Buchwald

Cooke was born in Mathews, Virginia, where he now lives. He is the director of the United Virginia Bank of Gloucester and is also president of Tidewater Newspapers, Inc.

Sir Nevill Mott, a native of England, is a recognized leader in the field of physics. He was awarded the Nobel prize for physics in 1977 and is a pioneer in the energy-related field of amorphous semiconductors.

In addition to the Nobel prize, Mott has received numerous other awards and honors for his lifetime work as a researcher, educator and author. He taught physics and mathematics in England at the University of Bristol and at Cambridge University, where he was head of the Cavendish Laboratory for 20 years. He is currently a professor at the Cavendish Laboratory.

Rafael Torrens is a former Speaker of the House of Representatives in Puerto Rico, and he is presently an advisor to the Governor of Puerto Rico, particularly in the movement toward statehood for the Island.

Following his 1932 graduation from the College, Torrens studied art and law before he received his medical degree from Yale University. He has written a number of books, papers and articles on philosophy and art. Torrens is a member of the Puerto Rico Council of Higher Education, which governs all institutions of higher learning in Puerto Rico, and he recently retired as a Professor of Medicine at the University of Puerto Rico.

The Commencement Exercises will take place at 2:00 p.m. in William and Mary Hall. Approximately 1600 graduate and undergraduate students will receive diplomas at the ceremony.

Anne Netick, associate professor of modern languages, attended the 80th annual Kentucky Foreign Conference at the University of Kentucky, Lexington, April 25-26, and presented a paper at the Slavic section: "Valery Bryusov's Earth."

The previous weekend (April 11-12) she attended the Foreign Language Association of Virginia annual conference at Mary Washington College, where she was chairman of the Women in Literature Section.

Her review of Andrej Kodjak's book, Pushkin's I. P. Belkin, was recently published in Choice. (Feb. 1980)

Alan Fuchs, associate professor of philosophy, attended the recent meeting of the American Philosophical Association, Western Division, in Detroit, MI. Fuchs chaired a session and commented on a paper called "Social Solidarity and Rawls' Maximin Principle."

Carl Roseberg, professor of sculpture, Asian, and primitive art history in the fine arts department, exhibited a new wood carving in walnut in the 38th National Exhibition of Art of Audubon Artists in New York throughout the month of April. Audubon Artists is unrelated in any way to Audubon the naturalist.

Mary Washington College in Fredericksburg was the site of a recent FLAVA Convention (April 11-12). The Department of Modern Languages was represented by Franco Triolo, who was a discussant for the AATI Chapter meeting. Joanne Funigiello, President of AATI, J. Luke Martel, Vickie B. Woodbury, Barbara Eger, Anne Netick, who was Chairman of the "Women in Literature" Section, and Martha Hunsucker.

Virgil McKenna, professor of psychology, attended the Sixth Annual Conference on the Urban South at Norfolk State University March 13 in order to present a paper on "Differentiation in Individuals and in Families" in a symposium on Psychological Perspectives on the Modern Family.

At the meeting of the Southeastern Psychological Association in Washington, D.C. March 27, he presented a paper on "The Construct Validity of Individual Modernity." He also presented a paper on "Marital Age and Child-Spacing as Aspects of Family Structure" at the meeting of the Southern Society for Philosophy and Psychology in Birmingham, April 3. Larry Ventis and Cynthia Null were co-authors of the latter two papers which were supported by a research contract from the National Institutes of Child Health and Human Development, Center for Population Research.

presented a paper, "The American Context of Democratic Vistas." Proceedings of the conference will be published in 1981.

Political Scientists Receive Grant

Three political scientists at the College have been awarded a grant of $24,800 from the National Science Foundation to coordinate a collaborative study of state nominating convention processes in 14 states.

Assistant professors of government Alan Abramowitz, John McGlennon and Ronald Rapoport will be the principal investigators in the project and will coordinate the work of political scientists in each of the other states. They will examine the beliefs, motivations, and characteristics of Democratic and Republican delegates to state party conventions. States to be included in the project are Arizona, Colorado, Connecticut, Iowa, Maine, Missouri, Michigan, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Texas, Utah and Virginia.

The grant from NSF will also provide support for two conferences of the participants in the project to be held in Williamsburg in the fall of 1980 and the spring of 1981.

The study follows the earlier studies of Virginia state conventions by the principal investigators. Most other previous work on party activists has been at either the national or at the local level, with very little research at the state level.

This will be the first large comparative analysis of state political conventions, explained Abramowitz, and should, therefore, "make a significant contribution to our understanding of the changing character of political parties in the U.S. generally, and the role of state delegates in the nominating process more specifically."

Official Memos

Subject: Tuition and Fee Waiver for Employees

The following is a current and inclusive revision of various earlier memoranda detailing eligibility and procedures for College employees who wish to take courses under the tuition and fee waiver privilege first announced in 1977. As such, this statement supersedes all earlier memoranda on the subject:

In October 1977 the Board of Visitors approved "The Waiver of Tuition and General Fee and the Application Fee for members of the faculty and full-time . . . employees of the College of William and Mary," subject to the approval of the Attorney General and other appropriate State offices. The necessary approvals were secured and the program was initiated with the second semester 1977-78.

Under this program, each full-time permanent employee of the College is eligible to register for one course not exceeding four credit hours each semester, and two courses totaling not more than eight credit hours during the Summer Sessions, with tuition and general fee or audit fee for these courses being waived by the College.

Application and registration for such course work are subject to the following Implementation Policies:

ELIGIBILITY

The following individuals are eligible for a waiver of tuition and fees:

- (1) Instructional and administrative faculty on non-restrictive permanent appointments at William and Mary, VIMS, and Richard Bland College.
- (2) Full-time permanent employees, other than faculty, of William and Mary, VIMS, Richard Bland College, the Alumni Society, Athletic Association, Bookstore, Endowment Association, Institute of Early American History and Culture, and VARC.

FEES WAIVED

(1) APPLICATION FEE

An individual is entitled to a waiver of the fee(s) ordinarily associated with an application for admission, provided the eligibility requirement (defined above) is met on the date of such application.

(2) TUITION AND GENERAL FEE (Academic Year)

An individual is entitled to a waiver of the tuition and general fee or audit fee for one course per semester, provided: that the course not exceed in value four semester hours' credit; that the individual registers for the course through the Office of the Registrar; and that the individual meets the eligibility requirement (defined above) on the day the class first meets.

Summer Session

The same waiver privilege is extended to individuals in the Summer Sessions of the College, with the stipulation that no more than two courses, not to exceed four semester hours' credit each, may be taken within the waiver privilege during the period between spring commencement and fall registration; that the individual registers for the course through the Office of the Registrar; and that the individual meets the eligibility requirement (defined above) on the day the class first meets.

(3) SPECIAL COURSE-RELATED FEES

Course-related fees or charges other than or in addition to the tuition and general fee or audit fee are not subject to waiver. Specifically excluded from the fee waiver are courses offered through the Office of Special Programs.

Subject: Specified Temperatures for Cooling During the Summer

The need to continue the Energy Conservation Program at the College has recently been reemphasized by the extension of the Federal plan for Emergency Building Temperature Restrictions. Conservation is critically necessary. Demands for electric power during the summer are the highest of the entire year. Savings realized in the amount of fuel conserved during the past winter have been offset by the increased cost of fuel oil and have severely taxed the operating budget. If we are to realize our objective of minimizing operating costs so that the primary objective of the College—the effectiveness of the instructional program—continues to receive the essential level of support it deserves, all of us must work together.

In this regard, all buildings equipped with central air conditioning or cooling devices, except residence halls and the Student Health Center, will again have thermostats set to begin cooling cycles when inside temperatures reach 78° Fahrenheit. Thermostats once set, are not to be readjusted except by authorized maintenance personnel. The costly experience of replacing thermostats damaged by tampering with them during the heating season has certainly pointed out this need to all of us.

Where window units are used for air conditioning, we ask that everyone use thermostatic controls rather than "constant cold" setting and to turn the air conditioners off when not needed.

In accordance with federal requirements, requests for lower minimum temperatures required for the Computer Center, research laboratories, library or clinical conditions will be considered by submitting such requests in writing with justification, to the Director of Buildings and Grounds. We certainly are counting on your usual fine support to control our alarmingly mounting operating costs and the use of energy.

New Members of Beta Gamma Sigma

Thirty-seven graduate and undergraduate business students have been inducted into Beta Gamma Sigma, the national scholastic honor society in the field of business administration.

Beta Gamma Sigma, founded in 1913, presently has over 175 chapters. The William and Mary chapter was organized in 1972.

Members are chosen on the basis of outstanding scholastic achievement. Many of the society's 120,000 members are outstanding leaders in the worlds of government and business. W. Michael Blumenthal, United States Secretary of the Treasury, and William Batten, chairman and chief executive officer of the New York Stock Exchange, Inc., are two of the more influential members of Beta Gamma Sigma.

William and Mary's new initiates were honored with ceremonies and a banquet at the Sir Christopher Wren Building. The guest speaker was George R. Healy, Vice President for Academic Affairs and Provost of the College.

By Jim Lambiaso

As commencement nears, Senior Class President Suzanne Doggett has her sights set on the nation's capital. Graduating with a B.A. in economics and history, the Charlottesville native has decided to enter government, with some admittedly ambitious goals.

"What I'd eventually like to do," she says, "is be in a position to influence economic policy, and also help clean up the waste in the federal bureaucracy."

This summer, Doggett hopes to work for a member of Congress and "get a good idea of how things operate on Capitol Hill." But Doggett is no newcomer to the Hill. Two summers ago, she worked as an intern for Congressman J. Kenneth Robinson (R-Va.), researching bills and handling constituent correspondence. Nor is she new to politics. She served as a delegate to the 1977 and 1978 Republican State Conventions and attended the Republican National Convention four years ago.

Yet Doggett dislikes the waste and "laid-back" atmosphere associated with the bureaucracy so much that she thinks she may eventually find herself in business. "I like the competitiveness, the always-changing atmosphere of business, the need to be always on the ball," she says.

Though she grew up in Charlottesville, Doggett says she chose William and Mary over hometown University of Virginia because she preferred the smaller size and "practically fell in love" with the campus here. A strong proponent of a liberal arts education, Doggett majored in economics and history, not so much to get a particular job, but out of a desire to acquire a broad, well-balanced education. And she feels she has been successful in that respect.

At the same time, Doggett can readily understand, given today's economy, the increased job awareness which she has seen develop among William and Mary students over the past four years.

A resident assistant in one of the women's freshmen residence halls her junior year, and a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority since her sophomore year, Doggett says she is sure to miss the friends she has made over the last four years most of all.

"It's really amazing, once you get to know people, to find out how talented people are here," she says. But she is also anxious to get out into the real world. "There's a lot of security and happiness here," Doggett admits, "but I also feel like I'm definitely ready to graduate."

The Washington, D.C.-bound senior hopes to keep in touch with many of those "talented people" once she enters the real world this May.

Ms. Roane Wins Housekeeping Award

Ms. Clara Belle Roane, who works in Adair gymnasium, has been named housekeeping employee of the month for April.

As a recipient of one of the 12 awards given throughout the year, she is eligible for the housekeeping employee of the year award.

Ms. Roane has been with the College almost nine years. She began working in May, 1977, as an hourly employee and in July became a member of the permanent staff.

A native and resident of Charles City, Ms. Roane is a member of the Paris Hill Baptist Church and the Charles City Prayer Board. She also sings with the prayer board chorus and is active in the Charles City Women's Club.

Ms. Roane is the mother of Chauncey Roane of Charles City and Delores Roane of Garland, Tex. She has two grandchildren.

Ms. Roane says she likes all the people she works with and that includes her supervisor, Mrs. Mary Wallace.

Mrs. Wallace, who nominated Ms. Roane for the citation, characterizes her as a very dependable worker. "I know she will carry out her assignment without anyone being there to instruct her," said Mrs. Wallace, who added, "She knows her job very well and seems to enjoy whatever she sets out to do and accomplishes it with pride."

Mrs. Wallace recalls Ms. Roane's thoughtfulness in an incident involving vacations. Ms. Roane's vacation schedule put her back at work on Labor Day but she said she didn't mind that because there were a lot of people who would want to be off that day and she wanted to be sure the building was taken care of.

Ms. Roane has been enrolled in the Adult Skills Program this year. Her tutor this semester was Guy Courage, a member of the varsity basketball team. She hopes to finish her studies next year and gain her GED diploma.

When she has time for relaxation, Ms. Roane likes to cook. She is especially fond of baking pies, she said.
