Summer Study, Here and Abroad, Gets Underway

Summer study for William and Mary students both here and abroad is already underway.

A group of students left May 25 for Madrid on the first leg of their journey to the College's summer school in Spain, which is housed in a restored 18th century manor house in the small town of Vallje. James D. Lavin, and James E. Griffin, of the department of modern languages and literature, accompanied the group.

Students will spend a week in Madrid doing preliminary work in museums there and continue on to Vallje where they will take courses in Spanish literature and culture taught by Lavin and Griffin.

The College's Summer School at Cambridge will be directed this year by Frank T. Lendrim, chairman of the music department.

Forty-four students have signed up for the program which has never needed extensive recruitment since it was established in 1975.

Margaret Hamilton, professor of government will teach two courses, one in British Politics, the other entitled "Victorian Women." The latter will trace the efforts of upper middle class women to break down the barriers of social, economic and political discrimination against women, 1860-1900.

Tom Heacox and Katherine C. Hill of the English department faculty will co-teach a course entitled "Bloomsbury and Cambridge," which will include study of both the literary and visual arts of the Bloomsbury group. Heacox will also teach a course on Cambridge novelists and poets, a survey of writers who have been associated with Cambridge, including Milton and Virginia Woolf.

Lendrim will teach a course on the music of the 19th century including vocal and instrumental works of the period.

Students will live in Christ College, one of the oldest at Cambridge, built in the 15th century, and will have use of academic and recreational facilities at the College. There will be ample opportunity under a relaxed schedule, to take advantage of touring, both in England and on the Continent.

This is the fourth year for the Summer School in France at Montpellier which is directed this year by Ronald R. Saint-Onge, associate professor of modern languages and literature.

Students will fly to Paris and after a tour of the city and visit to Versailles, will begin an intensive four-week study of French language and literature beginning July 1.

Emeric Fischer, professor of law, will be director of the Marshall-Wythe Summer School of Law in England at the University of Exeter this year. Classes will be held from July 6 to August 12, taught by a faculty from both the Marshall-Wythe School of Law and Exeter University.

Those who will be teaching from William and Mary include Lynda L. Butler, John E. Donaldson, and Walter L. Williams, Jr.

Here at home, Summer sessions classes get under way this week. In Arts and Sciences there will be two sessions, June 2 - July 4 and July 7 - August 8; in business administration, three

Festival Actors Begin Rehearsals

Activity at Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall is increasing as the 1980 Virginia Shakespeare Festival gets into high gear.

Charles Maryan and Thomas Edward West, guest directors from New York, have arrived.

The professional cast has moved into the College's Ludwell Apartments.

Local auditions were held over the weekend.

Rehearsals for both the professional cast and volunteer cast members are underway. Rehearsals will run six days a week, 10 hours a day, until opening night, July 10.

Kent Thompson, artistic director for the entire Festival will direct the opening show "The Merchant of Venice." This play has special significance for the Festival since over 200 years ago, a company of English actors sailed from London to Williamsburg to give America its first professional performance of Shakespeare. The company's first presentation in 1752 was "The Merchant of Venice."

Maryan, who will direct "As You Like It," is an experienced professional known for his innovative techniques. He has worked with many productions, both on and off Broadway, and has been guest director and a teaching faculty member at several institutions including the National Theatre Institute, Yale Dramat, and the Juilliard School of the Theatre.

West is a specialist in farce and will apply his skills to the production of "The Comedy of Errors." He holds a M.F.A. in directing from Florida State University and has been the artistic director at the Asolo State Theatre in Sarasota, Fla. for the last three years. Among his many acting credits are the roles of the twin Antipholuses in "The Comedy of Errors."

While the players, directors and technicians make on-stage preparations, several volunteer groups are busily working to organize the administration and production of the Festival itself.

Over 50 volunteers from Williamsburg and the surrounding community attended a weekend meeting of the Festival Guild. Guild members donate

Newsmakers

An article by Michael A. Faia, professor of sociology, entitled "Selection by certification: a neglected variable in stratification research," has been accepted for publication by the American Journal of Sociology.

James Livingston, professor of religion, has given lectures in recent weeks at Oxford University and Durham University in England. The subject of the lectures was his recent work on Matthew Arnold.

Livingston was awarded a National Endowment for the Humanities Fellowship for 1979-80 to study the 19th century poet and critic Matthew Arnold and has been in England working on that project.

Livingston's study of Matthew Arnold is one of a series of projected studies including a book on English religious thought, 1870-1914, and a book of essays on late Victorian religious thinkers including studies of Arnold, Fitzjames Stephen, R. H. Hutton, George R. Romanes and Walter Pater.

Livingston spent a year in England in 1972-73 under a fellowship from the American Council of Learned Societies researching late Victorian religious thought at Clare Hall, Cambridge University. He was also a Visiting Fellow at Clare, 1967-68.

Berna L. Heyman, head of bibliographical services in Swem Library, recently attended an Institute on Automated Acquisitions in Vancouver, B.C. The Institute was sponsored by the Library and Information Technology Association of the American Library Association. Ms. Heyman was the co-chairperson of the Institute and served as moderator during the two day sessions.

FORBIDDEN DIARY: A Record of Wartime Internment, 1941-45, by Natalie Crouter, edited by Lynn Z. Bloom, associate professor of English, has just been published by Burt Franklin, Inc. as Vol. 2 of its American Women's Diary Series.

Members of the economics department participated in the annual meetings of the Eastern Economic Association May 8-10 in Montreal, Quebec. Papers presented included "Seasonal Variation in Electricity Demand: Evidence from Survey Data" by Robert F. Archibald, David H. Finifter, and Carlisle E. Moody, "An Econometric Model of CETA Prime Sponsor Behavior" by David H. Finifter and Daniel Ryan (of the U.S. Department of Labor), and "A Hedonistic Price Index for Running Shoes" by Clyde A. Haulman and Carlisle E. Moody. David Finifter discussed "Reducing the Non-Inflationary Unemployment Rate with a Targeted Wage Subsidy" by Donald K. Nichols of the University of Wisconsin and chaired a session on "Social Economics."

Joseph Galano of the psychology department represented the Williamsburg/James City County Community Action Agency at the seventh Annual Mid-Atlantic Community Action Association Conference in Philadelphia, May 21-23. Galano, who was recently selected as chairperson for the Board of Directors attended with Rev. Junius Moody, treasurer. The conference considered major issues and problems facing the nation's poor, progress in dealing with these problems, and the future role for local Community Action Agencies in both eliminating the cause of poverty and mobilizing resources of all kinds to fight poverty.

Algin B. King has been named Dean of the School of Business and Economics at Christopher Newport College. He began his administrative career in 1959 as Director of the Bureau of Business Research at the College of William and Mary. During his four years as such, he traveled 7,000 miles throughout Virginia establishing the Virginia Business Index Report, a continuing monthly research report on business and economic activity in Virginia.

Ellen F. Rosen, associate professor of psychology, attended the 1980 annual spring symposium of the Digital Equipment Computer Users Society

Finn Receives 4th NEH Grant

Thomas M. Finn, associate professor of religion has received a National Endowment of the Humanities grant to participate in a summer seminar in "The Encounter Between Greek and Jew in the Hellenistic Period," at New York Yeshiva University, June 15 through August 5.

This is the fourth NEH summer grant that Finn has received in as many years. This year's grant permits him to continue his study on the social world of early Christianity, especially on the impact of Judaism on first-century Christianity, under the well-known classicist, Louis H. Feldman.

Last year Finn studied Talmudic Judaism under an NEH grant at the Jewish Theological Seminary in New York. Earlier he was awarded a grant to study facets of the Greco-Roman (DECUS). She attended the Chicago meeting as a representative of Hampton Institute where she has served as a consultant to the Social Sciences Resource Center for the past two years. She and Linda Petty and Ron Braithwaite of Hampton Institute have been awarded a Title I grant for continuing education to develop and evaluate a course on stress reduction to be offered through the Division of Continuing Education at Hampton Institute. The project will involve 75 participants and will continue for the 1980-81 academic year.

Edward Crapol professor of history, attended the Caribbean Studies Asso-setting of early Christianity. In 1977 he was selected as a participant in an NEH summer seminar at Yale on the social world of early Christianity.

Finn's special interest is in investigating how and why the early Christians, in spite of their illegal status, survived and spread in the Greco-Roman social system. Already the study has led to important conclusion about the nature and social function of ritual in antiquity and about upward social mobility.

Finn recently delivered a paper on "Philippians: Reflections on Imperial Civil Service and the Spread of Early Christianity," at the Chesapeake Regional Meeting of the Society of Biblical Literature, Virginia Theological Seminary, Alexandria, Virginia, April 20.

Women in Business Planning Seminar For June 27-28

The Women in Business Program has had such success with its one-day seminar "How To Be Taken Seriously in Business," that it is planning an advanced workshop entitled "Moving Up," Friday and Saturday, June 27 - 28 at the Bonhomme Richard Inn.

Fee for the two-day workshop is $115 which includes lunches and all workshop materials. Overnight accommodations are not included. Registration forms may be obtained from the director of the Women in Business Program, Julia B. Leverenz at the School of Business Administration of the College, 253-4286. Registration deadline is June 23.

Julie White, director of the Institute for Management at Old Dominion University, will be the workshop leader.

Women new to the business world who would like to attend the one day seminar "How to Be Taken Seriously In Business," before attending the "Moving Up" session, are asked to contact Ms. Leverenz.

Media Users

It is requested that users of all Media equipment please return their equipment as soon as possible to Lynn Alexander, located in G-3 of Swem Library. This procedure is necessary as we are conducting a complete inventory.

If you can not return this equipment please contact Lynn at (ext. 4023) so that she can obtain the needed information from you.

Thank you for your cooperation in this matter.

ciations fifth annual meeting held in Curacao, Netherlands Antilles, May 9-10. At the meeting, Crapol presented a paper entitled "American Political Abolitionists and the Campaign for Recognition of Haitian Sovereignty, 1833-1845."

SCJ Rewards Raft Winner

The Society for Collegiate Journalists at its last meeting before the end of the year, voted to recognize Alan E. Fuchs, associate professor of philosophy, winner of the Raft Debate held earlier this year.

The Society will donate $50 to the department of philosophy in Fuchs' name for the purchase of books for the department's library.

The remainder of the funds from the debate will be used to establish a scholarship Fund for students planning a career in journalism.

Revived by SCJ vice president George Stukenbroeker after an absence of several years, the Raft Debate supposes a mythical shipwreck with several academic survivors on a raft built for one. Each academician must secure his place on the raft through debate. The audience acts as the jury. The Ballroom of the Campus Center was packed for the program and Fuchs won over Kelly Shaver, psychology, Lawrence Wiseman, biology; and David Porush, English, who doubled as the Devil's Advocate. Moderator was Leonard Schiffrin, economics.

Cheryl Hogue, a rising senior and managing editor of The Flat Hat, succeeds Ann Gomet as president of SCJ for 1980-81. Two SCJ members, John Bloom and Jennifer McBride won the two 1980 journalism awards. Bloom, editor of the Flat Hat was awarded the Rex Smith Award and Jennifer McBride, a Flat Hat reporter, won the Kays Gary-Charles McDowell Award. The latter award is funded from the sale of a booklet on old Williamsburg Homes, written by National SCJ President W. Wilford Kale, adviser to the William and Mary chapter.

at least 15 hours of service to the Festival. One of the projects they are working on is the Elizabethan Fair which will be held on the Festival's opening day.

The Festival will run through August 17 and plays will be given nightly at 8 p.m., with the exception of Mondays. Sunday matinees are scheduled at 2 p.m. on July 20 and 27 and on August 3, 10 and 17.

Tickets for performances may be obtained by calling or visiting the box office in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall on Jamestown Road, 253-4272, or by writing Box 1777, Williamsburg, 23185. Discounts on season tickets are available through June 15.

Quartet to Play Sunday, June 8

The Concert Series and the Virginia Festival of the Performing Arts will co-sponsor a concert by the Gramercy String Quartet, at 3 p.m., Sunday, June 8 in the Campus Center Ballroom.

Tickets are $2 for the general public; $1.50 for faculty, staff and students at the College and senior citizens. Tickets are available at the office of Ken Smith, director of the Series, in the Campus Center, and will be on sale at the door the afternoon of the concert.

Organized in 1964, the Gramercy String Quartet has appeared in recital at the Starlight Festival of Chamber Music at Yale University and at the Brattleboro Music Center at Marlboro College.

The Quartet was featured in a series of New York Philharmonic pre-concert recitals at Lincoln Center's Philharmonic Hall, playing the music of Stravinsky. The Gramercy Quartet was the resident chamber ensemble at the Herbert H. Lehman College for seven years.

WANTED

Volunteer male actors, musicians (any instrument) singers wanted for Virginia Shakespeare Festival. Please call 253-4395.

The Adult Skills Program is seeking two tutors to help a Chinese and a Japanese student sharpen their English skills. Anyone who would like to volunteer as a tutor this summer is asked to contact Mrs. Rita Welsh at the ASP office, Chancellors Hall 216, ext. 4644.

Archaeology, 'Beach Combing' Part of Schedule sessions, June 2 - July 4, July 7 - August 8 and June 2 - August 8. In the School of Education there are five different sessions scheduled during the summer. The Law school has one session, June 2 - July 11 and the School of Marine Science has two sessions, coinciding with the Arts and Sciences schedule.

Full-time, classified employees of the College are eligible for a tuition waiver for one course per session in Summer School. Forms should be available in department and administrative offices across campus.

The office of Special Programs has non-credit offerings for both young people and adults this summer.

Beginning July 28 for three weeks, SPO will offer "Road Runner Reading," a three week course to help children who will be in the fourth and fifth grades next year improve their reading accuracy, speed and understanding.

Gardening for Young People starts June 14 and will be taught by Martin C. Mathes, professor of biology. This is a four-week course held Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 12 noon.

For adults, Basic Home Repair, Cucinare Italiano, Communication for Couples, Emergency Care and Treatment, Fundamentals of Bicycling and Intermediate Arts are being offered.

Information on course times, locations and fees may be obtained by calling the Special Programs Office at the Virginia Associated Research Campus, VARC, at 877-9231, ext. 200.

The Virginia Institute of Marine Science is offering three free programs under the title, "Oceanography for Landlubbers."

The first, on Wednesday, June 4, will be on beach collecting. Participants are advised to wear old shoes that they can wear into the water. The second program entitled "Beach Combing," will be held July 2 and the last one on August 6 will be concerned with shoreline erosion.

Advance registration is not necessary, however, audience seating is limited to the first 50 arrivals. For further information please call 642-2111, ext. 298.

The Office of Special Programs is also planning several professional seminars this summer in teleprocessing, corporate cash management and basics for purchasing and materials managers.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Hill Carter, Jr., the ninth generation of the Hill-Carter family at Shirley Plantation on the James River will again be host to the William and Mary summer field school in prehistoric and historical archaeology which began Monday and will run through July 11. It is under the direction of Theodore R. Reinhart, professor of anthropology.

Continuing the work begun in the 1979 session, the field school students will attempt to learn more about both the Indian and the Colonial occupations of Shirley.

Students will be tenting on the 800-acre estate. Along with a lot of strenuous field work, students will also take courses in archaeological field methods.

The Department of anthropology will offer a summer field school in both prehistoric and historical archaeology in the summer of 1981 at St. Eustatius, Netherlands Antilles.

DAR Gift To Swem Library

The Williamsburg Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution contributed a check for $100 to the Earl Gregg Swem Library, recently, honoring Dr. Davis Y. Paschall, President Emeritus of the College of William and Mary. The funds will be used for purchase of books in the classics and/or humanities, as part of the DAR program in American Heritage. Present at the ceremony was Mrs. George S. Orton, left, outgoing Regent of the Chapter; Dr. Davis Y. Paschall; Mrs. Leland G. Meder, outgoing Librarian; and Mr. Clifford Currie, Librarian of the Earl Gregg Swem Library, who accepted the check on behalf of the College. Mr. Currie has degrees from London, Cambridge and Oxford Universities and has published a book on library science in addition to other reviews and articles. The contribution was made to recognize the many services rendered by Dr. Paschall to the DAR, the College, and the Community. (G. Galfo Photo)

Official Memo

To The William and Mary Community:

After careful review of the revenues required to make the Campus Parking Auxiliary Enterprise self-supporting, and insure that sufficient monies will be available for resurfacing, maintenance, operations and new construction costs, it will be necessary to revise the fine and fee schedule for the 1980-81 academic year.

The Transportation Advisory Council has recommended and President Graves has approved the following:

1. The schedule of fines for violations will be $3.00, $5.00, and $10.00 for the first, second and third offenses. For the fourth and successive violations in the same academic year, the fine will be $15.00.
2. A fine of $8.00 for no decal or parking in a Reserved for Handicapped space (each violation).
3. Decal fees will be as follows:

Faculty/Staff	$5 per year
Resident and Day Students	$10 per year
Handicapped Persons	$5 per year
*Special Decal	$1 per year
4. All parking decals issued after the regular fee for the first one will cost $1.00. This administrative charge will include parking decals issued for any purpose, including substitutes for a prior registration.

*Special Decal not available to resident students.

Implementation of the revised fine and decal fee schedule will be effective with the date of issuance of decals for 1980-81.

Calendar

Odyssey

At the suggestion of Vinson Sutlive, chairman, department of anthropology we are including information on the outstanding television Odyssey programs to be aired during June by the Public Broadcasting Company on Sunday evenings beginning at 8 o'clock. They will include the following programs:

June 8 at 8 p.m., "Cree Hunters of Mistassini." Each winter the Cree Indians of Canada trek northward to hunt and trap game. Families join together to build log cabins and prepare for the cold months in much the same way that their forefathers did thousands of years ago.

June 15, 8 p.m., "Key to the Land of Silence." Until a lieutenant in Napoleon's army discovered the Rosetta Stone in 1799, little was known about the mysterious markings on Egyptian monuments.

June 22, 8 p.m. "The Sakuddei." The Sakuddei lifestyle centers around a spiritual harmony with the souls of their ancestors and their jungle environment. The Indonesian government is developing programs to provide them with schools, clinics, and new houses, even though these efforts will disrupt the Sakuddei way of life.
