Shakespeare Festival Settings Go International

19th century czarist Russia, a 16th century version of Times Square, and Renaissance Italy are coming to 20th century Williamsburg this summer.

The three directors of the 1980 Virginia Shakespeare Festival each have a unique vision of their own production, and the task of bringing these visions to life rests on the shoulders of the Festival's technical and costume staffs.

"As You Like It" is being set by director Charles Maryan in turn-of-the-century Russia. To capture the realism of this period with a minimum of production, Maryan is depending on the creative skills of Christopher Boll and Lana Fritz.

Boll, a member of the William and Mary Theatre staff since 1972 and an assistant professor in the department of theatre and speech, marks this as his third year with the Festival. Having served as lighting designer and technical director for the 1978 season and technical director for the 1979 season, he is both the lighting designer and technical director for all three productions this year.

Fritz, a native of New York, has designed costumes for numerous productions in New York and on the West Coast. She has worked with Maryan on over 10 productions and will design the costumes for "As You Like It."

The costumes for "The Merchant of Venice," set in 16th century Italy, will also be designed by Fritz. Kent Thompson, director of the play, indicates that the emphasis in this play will be on the metallic, "moneyed" look of Venice as it is contrasted with the soft, natural beauty of the play's other location, Belmont. To emphasize the differences in settings, Thompson will depend on the lighting expertise of Boll and his crew.

"The Comedy of Errors" is filled with confusion, magic, and mystery abounding in a seaport town. To capture the setting of what he sees as a "fascinating, wild, colorful, uninhibited place filled with seedy types--not unlike Times Square," West is asking Robert Hines, the costume designer for this production, to recreate the bright gaudiness of downtown New York City in Shakespeare's play.

Hines is a veteran of the Oregon Shakespeare Festival, where he worked for three years. He was wardrobe supervisor for the television films "Too Far to Go," "The American Short Story" series, and this fall on PBS, Mark Twain's "Life on the Mississippi."

The backdrop for the lighting and costume wizard of Boll, Fritz, and Hines will be designed by Jefferson Sage, who is the Festival's scenery and prop designer. Sage is a graduate of William and Mary, and he has worked on the design of several professional and educational productions. His most recent work includes the Scenic Design for last fall's William and Mary Theatre production of Ibsen's "The Wild Duck." He was awarded the Al Haak award for excellence in technical theatre in April.

This award is given in honor of the late Albert E. Haak, professor emeritus of theatre and speech who died in 1977. Haak was technical director of the William and Mary theatre and for 30 years was technical director of "The Common Glory" outdoor drama.

The technical assistants for this season's productions are Michael Cottom, Thomas Hickey, Ann Howell, Diana Krauss, Roger Hynes, and Matt Mainor. Assisting the costume directors are Christine Kretz, Eileen Miller, and Jeff Phipps.

Murano Wins Tennis Title

Mary Catherine Murano, a rising senior from Glastonbury, Conn., is the College's current tennis queen. She won the No. 6 singles title in the AIAW Division II tennis championships in California.

The William and Mary team placed sixth overall out of a field of 20 teams.

Murano, who coach Millie West said "played the match of her career," won 7-5, 6-7 (5-7 tie-breaker); 6-2 over Barbara Sotura of California State at Northridge.

Chris Wells, a rising sophomore from Miami, Fla., was second at No. 5 singles. She was beaten in the finals by Lenora Miller of California State, Northridge.

The No. 1 doubles team from William and Mary, Sue Howard, a graduating senior from McMurray, Pa., and Chris Mast, a junior from Suffolk, placed sixth overall.

The No. 1, 2, 4, and 5 singles players as well as the No. 1 doubles team lost to the eventual winners. The competition had improved 100 percent over last year said Coach West who was very pleased with the team's overall performance. William and Mary won 36½ points; the winner California Polytechnic at Pomona, 62.

Who's That Man Who Came to Dine?

These Elizabethan diners don't seem too enthusiastic about having the artistic director for the Virginia Shakespeare Festival, Kent Thompson, drop in on their meal. He obviously has come from a hard day at the office in his three-piece business suit without reservations, and is too late to find a seat. Actually the whole thing is a setup - a scene from a filmed commercial which will be shown over Channel 13, WVEC, promoting the three plays to be given this summer, "The Merchant of Venice," "As You Like It," and "The Comedy of Errors." Ticket information is available at the box office, ext. 4272.

State's New Salary Plan Becomes Effective July 1

The new graded salary plan for the state's 70,000 classified employees goes into effect July 1 and during the month employees will receive a notice with their paychecks identifying the new pay grade.

The new plan establishes 22 uniform pay grades, each of which has eight steps. There is a 4.5 percent difference between pay steps in each grade with a range of 37 percent between the minimum and maximum pay in each grade. There is a 9 percent difference between each pay grade.

The new pay structure will include the 7 percent pay increase for all employees approved by the Governor and the General Assembly. All classified employees will receive this raise except those whose pay was adjusted last January to reflect the new minimum wage. These employees received approximately 5 percent last January and will receive the balance in July.

To implement the new salary plan, several administrative adjustments will be required. These adjustments do not constitute regrades or reallocations, but are intended to provide equitable placement of employees in their new pay grades. For instance, employees being paid less than the minimum step of their new pay grade effective July 1 will receive a pay adjustment.

In some cases, employees will be assigned to new pay grades which will have a higher maximum than now

Jenkins Publishes 'Beltane' Vol. 2

Volume Two Number One of "Beltane, a Gallery of Writing," has been published by David C. Jenkins professor of English. It is a limited edition of one hundred, hand-stitched copies.

The editors Jenkins and Grethe Lindemann note in the introduction "we continue to consider Gallery as a showplace for good writing, like the great Galleria Umberto in Milan, a place to see and be seen."

The current edition includes four entries from "The Encyclopedia of the World of Vergil Magus," by Avram Davidson who has been a Writer-in-Residence at the College.

Contributors in the current edition include Vicki Osborn, a former student now living in Yorktown; Kay Leigh Ferguson, an alumna now attending a graduate writing program in poetry at the University of North Carolina, Greensboro; Cary C. Holladay, 1979-80 editor of the William and Mary Review; Kathryn Angela Thompson who studied writing with Peter Klappert when he was Writer-in-Residence in 1977; James Lyon, a graduating senior in English; Laura Sardo and Alan Clore who attended the Cambridge Summer Session in 1979 and Rani Pinch, a rising senior.

Copies of the magazine may be obtained from the publisher.

Graves Loses Love's Labors

Diana Love, confidential secretary to President Graves, retired Friday after 30 years of service to the Commonwealth, to enjoy some time with her family - "something you can't do properly when you're working," she explained.

There was a surprise party for her Thursday afternoon. Her co-workers Mary Anderson and Cindy Gettsy had a special farewell card for her, a collage of signatures and notes from friends across the campus. Another gift to the honoree was a set of whimsical faces from President Graves' personal gallery, faces he uses to convey a special nuance of a directive or memo to his staff.

Diana Love

"It is harder than I thought it would be," said Diana of goodbying. "You can always change your mind, you know how much we would love to have you stay," came an instant response from a co-worker.

But hard as it was, Diana said she was looking forward to time away from the job, to spend with her family and "try a hand at home and hearth. I like gardening and all the things you do around a home. I've wanted to have time to read more and enjoy my family and to have time for people."

Diana and her husband, supervisor of a new audit district with the State Auditor of Public Accounts, have bought a house in Charlottesville where he recently took over his new post.

Diana began her secretarial career with the state as a member of the Highway Department staff in Richmond and after several assignments both in Richmond and Abington, transferred to the College in June, 1963. She is a graduate of the Pan American Secretarial School in Richmond. Diana was secretary to William E. Swindler, Director of Development, when she first joined the College. Swindler recently retired as John Marshall Professor of Law. After a year in the Development Office she became secretary to President Davis Y. Paschall.

Ask her about her years in the Presidents' Office and she chuckles about the many things she has done in the name of secretarialing. "And there's a lot I can't tell you about all the funny little things along the way," she adds.

She remembers her first year because of the many activities connected with the visit of the King of Afghanistan to Williamsburg and the seminar and cultural exhibits held on campus.

'What Will I Do Without You?'

"At one point I was making out insurance forms for the valuable furs they brought," she said. "Then I was locating manekins for the fashion display in the campus center, collecting irons and ironing boards. . . I remember they wanted a quilt. I assumed it was to be part of the fashion display so I brought a wedding present from home. I found it later in the Campus Center along with the leftovers after everyone had gone; they wanted the quilt as a floorcovering to sleep on."

One of the special things about her boss, she explained is his gallery of faces that he uses to illustrate memos. "I can tell by the look on the face of cartoon what his mood is," said Diana. "He has a special face for saying 'thank you' which is a look of total adoration and appreciation. When I make a mistake I get the grisly face."

President Graves gave Diana a parting cartoon at the start of work Friday morning, not a face but a mouse asking plaintively "How Will I get Along Without You," and a pin he said she could only wear that day, but since she is retiring, never again. It was more of a medal, inscribed to "The World's Greatest Secretary."

Exit Interviews for Classified Personnel Prior to Separation

The College of William and Mary Affirmative Action Plan requires that exit interviews be conducted in a timely manner prior to the date an employee terminates employment, provided the employee gives sufficient time for such an interview between the date he/she offers a resignation and the effective date of separation. In cases of dismissal, the supervisor must provide sufficient time for the interview.

In order for the College to be in compliance with the above requirement, the exit interview form should be completed and forwarded to the College Personnel Office within 5 days after the employee's last work day. If, for any reason, an exit interview is not conducted as required, a statement to that effect, with the appropriate reason, must be executed by the supervisor who would have conducted the exit interview, and forwarded to the College Personnel Office on the working day immediately following the employee's last work day.

Appropriate instructions and forms are available in the College Personnel Office, 201 James Blair Hall.

Mrs. Evelyn Kilmon (l) and Mrs. Josephine Strong (r) of the housekeeping department's supervisory staff, flank the winners of the May employee of the month award, Mrs. Sally Akrie and Mrs. Alberta Beatrice Thomas. On hand for the presentation of certificates was the Vice President for Business Affairs, William J. Carter and the Executive Housekeeper, Ernest Boyce (l-r) second row.

Akrie, Thomas Share Award

Two housekeeping department employees have been tapped for the May employee of the month award. Mrs. Sally Akrie and Mrs. Alberta Beatrice Thomas.

Mrs. Thomas, a College employee since 1954 works on the second floor of the Campus Center. She enjoys the variety of meetings, parties and dances that occur in her area and says the people she works with are jolly and easy to get along with.

Mrs. Thomas remembers the Chapman House which served as the student center before the Campus Center was built. Located on the corner of Boundary and Francis streets, the house included a game room and music room but not the extensive facilities of the present Center. The Chapman House has since been torn down.

A native and resident of James City County, Mrs. Thomas is a member of St. John's Baptist Church, Penniman Road. She likes to grow flowers, hook rugs and keep house, but she admits she doesn't like to cook.

Mrs. Akrie of Charles City, works in the Jamestown Road area keeping seven residences the College owns there in apple-pie order. She joined the College staff in 1966 after working for the Holiday Inn in Williamsburg.

Mrs. Akrie is the mother of two boys, Dexter, 9, who sings in the Sunday School choir at Parrish Hill Baptist Church in Charles City, and Alonzo, 11 who plays on a kickball team.

Mrs. Akrie is active in her church and serves on the Usher Board. When she does have time for relaxation she likes to listen to music, all kinds, including rock and spiritual.

News Schedule

The next regular edition of the William and Mary News will appear on July 22. The July 1 issue will be devoted solely to the Virginia Shakespeare Festival. In August the News will be published on the 12th and 26th.

INDEPENDENCE DAY HOLIDAY, 1980

Independence Day, July 4, is a legal holiday for permanent classified employees. Since this date falls on Friday in 1980, and classes will be in session on that day, normal services must be maintained. The responsibility for maintaining the services rests with the department head. It is not a decision to be made by the employees of the department.

A leave slip should be submitted to the Personnel Office for any permanent classified employee who takes the holiday. Permanent classified employees who are required to work on this holiday are urged to take the compensatory leave earned as soon thereafter as possible in order to avoid excessive leave accumulation. Hourly employees who work on this holiday will be paid at their regular rate.

The Virginia Institute of Marine Science will observe this same holiday schedule and procedure.

Committee to Study 'Enrollments'

On recommendation from the Planning and Priorities Committee, President Graves has announced that the first major issue to be addressed by the Committee will be "Enrollments," and he has established a task force to consider this topic.

The task force will include Henry C. Johnson as Chairman, Dennis K. Cogle, Professor Morton Eckhause, John D. Haskell, Associate Professor James N. McCord, Jr., Dean W. Samuel Sadler and Dean James M. Yankovich. The members of the task force will be consulting with and obtaining data from others within the administration and faculty.

The charge to the task force is to project alternative enrollments for the College over the next ten to fifteen years and to examine the impacts (pluses and minuses) which these alternative projections might have upon the College and its present mission and objectives. It is anticipated that the task force will make a report to the President in the early fall that would provide data and conclusions as to what the various impacts and results would be on the College as a consequence of several different alternative enrollment decisions. The task force's charge would not be to decide what is best among these alternatives, but only to project what could happen and what that means.

Following that report, a second task force will be established which, using the data and conclusions from the first report, will examine what William and Mary should be or should become as a college and as a university.

Martin T. Mathes, professor of biology, adjusts a plaque which has been placed at the day lily display in back of Millington Hall which honors Dr. Robert T. Sessions '52 of Marietta, Ga., who donated funds for the establishment of the garden. Additional plants were recently donated by Mrs. R. K. Treichler of Williamsburg.

Day Lilies Reaching Their Peak

Mrs. R. K. Treichler of Williamsburg, who recently donated several varieties of day lilies to the display in back of Millington Hall is a great booster for the flower.

A member of the Day Lily Society until a few years ago, Mrs. Treichler says the day lily is a good sturdy plant that survives non-green thumbs and beginning gardeners and is a plant more gardeners should know about. They are a good perennial, says Mrs. Treichler, that is happy in a variety of climates and soils. It is good for holding banks, likes partial shade and will bloom from May through summer and in some southern climates, even rebloom in September.

There are over 100,000 different named varieties of day lilies says Mrs. Treichler. The display at the College should be at its best now through the first week in July.

An oriental plant which has come into its own in this country in the last century, the dady day lily, asserts Mrs. Treichler is a great plant for the casual gardener, it doesn't need coddling and is relatively pest-free.

VCA Grant Aids July Festival Planned at Ash Lawn

Ash Lawn, in conjunction with the College and a grant of $1,000 from the Virginia Commission For The Arts, will celebrate its third festival season during the month of July.

A new series of performances will be presented each weekend at 6:30 p.m.

Associate Dean, Minority and Commuting Affairs

The College of William and Mary invites applications for the position of Associate Dean of Students for Minority and Commuting Student Affairs. The Associate Dean is responsible for planning and implementing a comprehensive program of recruitment of undergraduate minority students, for programming and counseling undergraduate minority and commuting students, directing the Summer Transitional Enrichment Program for minority students and coordinating services to the off-campus students of the College, including the Off Campus Housing Referral Service.

A master's degree is required for this position and experience in recruitment and or counseling is desirable. The salary will be commensurate with qualifications.

Applications must be received by June 27, 1980 and should be sent to:

W. Samuel Sadler
Dean of Students
College of William and Mary,
Williamsburg, Va. 23185

The College of William and Mary is an affirmative action, equal opportunity employer and encourages applications from members of minority groups and from women.

Director of Intercollegiate Athletics for Men

The College of William and Mary seeks applicants for the position of Director of Intercollegiate Athletics for Men, reporting directly to the President. William and Mary is a State-supported, coeducational university of about 6,200 students, of whom some 4,500 are undergraduates. William and Mary has selective admission policies and requires solid academic achievement.

The Director of Intercollegiate Athletics for Men administers an NCAA Division IA program incorporating 15 sports, including football and basketball. William and Mary is also a member of the Eastern College Athletic Conference.

Every reasonable effort is made to offer an intercollegiate athletic program that provides for a broad range of teams that are competitive and strong. Athletic grants-in-aid, in revenue and non-revenue sports, are awarded up to but not exceeding NCAA guidelines for each sport, as financial resources reasonably allow. The realistic financial needs of revenue-producing sports, including grants-in-aid, are supported by gate receipts, advertising, stadium concessions, contributions of interested alumni and friends, and student fees. The intercollegiate athletic programs are not permitted to operate at a deficit. All athletic programs, in financing and administration, are considered an integral part of the total educational program of the students.

Prior experience in collegiate athletic administration is highly desirable. Applicants should be capable of being an effective and articulate representative of the program, both internally and externally.

Submit application and credentials (to include experience, education, references and two letters of recommendation) by September 1, 1980 to: Prof. Marvin M. Stanley, School of Business Administration, Chair, Search Committee for Director of Intercollegiate Athletics for Men, College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Virginia 23185.

The College of William and Mary is an Equal Opportunity Employer

Salary Scale

exists in their current ranges. Employees below the maximum in their current salary ranges will continue to advance step by step to the top of their new pay grades. But employees at the maximum of their current ranges will be eligible July 1, 1981 for an additional step as a result of funding by the General Assembly.

Where meaningful differences in skill and responsibility levels exist, jobs that are now distinguished by only one step will be separated by two steps or 9 percent with the new plan.

Where there is an insufficient difference in skill or responsibility level to justify the 9 percent difference, jobs will be placed in the same pay grade.

The new compensation plan will assure that jobs of comparable skill and responsibility levels receive consistent pay throughout state government.
