Burgesses Day Celebration

New Law Building to be Dedicated

Dedication of the new home of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, the nation's oldest law school, will highlight the Burgesses Day program on campus Saturday, September 13.

Governor John N. Dalton, Lieutenant Governor Charles S. Robb, three former Virginia Governors, Albert S. Harrison, J. Lindsay Almond and Mills E. Godwin, Lawrence W. I'Anson, Chief Justice, Supreme Court of Virginia, members of the General Assembly and the Virginia judiciary, will be guests of the College for the annual observance.

Burgesses Day commemorates the times in 1700-1705 when the Colonial House of Burgesses and General Assembly had their meetings and offices at William and Mary. The College served the colonial legislature after it left Jamestown and while its new Capitol building was under construction in Williamsburg.

The event was held annually during the 1960's but was dropped after 1972 to conserve the Alumni Society's available private funds. Its revival last year was attributed to the Society's major commitment, made in 1977, to assist William and Mary in its communications with the General Assembly and Governor's Office and to increase funding as the result of the successful three-year $19 million private funds campaign which ended July 1, 1979.

Following a reception on the grounds of William and Mary Hall and a luncheon inside the Hall, guests will attend the football game in Cary Field and then proceed to the dedication ceremony at the law school.

Opening remarks at the dedication ceremonies will be made by President Graves, Edward E. Brickell, Rector of the College and William B. Spong, Jr., Dean of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law will also make remarks.

The opening invocation and benediction will be given by Emeric R. Fischer, professor of Law.

A musical presentation of "Stars of a Velvety Sky," will be given by the Richmond Concert Band with Mark Poland conducting. Soloist will be Mark LaFratta, a third year student at the law school.

Among the special guest at the dedication ceremonies will be Ward F. P. Neill, Q. C., of All Souls College, Oxford University. Two stained glass windows of Blackstone and Wythe, now a focal point of the foyer of the new building, were sent to the Marshall-Wythe School of Law by the English college.

A reception and tour of the building will be held immediately after the conclusion of the program.

The new law school building solves one of Marshall-Wythe's most persistent problems—a lack of adequate physical facilities. From the confines of an antiquated building originally constructed as the William and Mary Library, the Law School has moved into a spacious, efficient center for learning. The new building has a total area of 87,954 square feet, nearly half of which is devoted to the library.

The new moot court room in the building, is one of the most technically advanced courtrooms in the nation. There are two lecture rooms in the building with seating for 154 students each and two more which seat 85 students. Three smaller seminar rooms offer an ideal setting for classes of 30 or less.

Dean Extends Invitation To Sunday Open House

Dean Spong of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, has extended an invitation to members of the Williamsburg area community to visit the law school's new building on Sunday, September 14, from 3 - 5 p.m.

The community open house follows the dedication of the $5.1 million structure, adjacent to the National Center for State Courts, which is scheduled for Saturday, September 13, as the highlight of Burgesses Day at the College.

In announcing the Sunday afternoon open house, Dean Spong said he wanted members of the community who were not planning to attend the dedication to have an opportunity to tour the new law school building. Members of the law school faculty and students will be on hand to show visitors around the building.

The heart of the law school, its library, occupies a dominant portion of the new building. It covers a portion of three floors, can accommodate about 450 students at one time and has shelf space for 250,000 volumes.

The moot court room is the only facility in the building not fully completed. Fitted with highly sophisticated television and audio equipment, it will be one of the most technically advanced facilities of its kind in the nation.

While the new law school building is thoroughly modern in every respect, the rich heritage of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, the oldest law school in the nation, is very evident. The rare book room on the second floor will house a replication of Jefferson's library. In the main foyer are two large stained glass windows, a gift to the law school from All Souls College, Oxford University, recognizing the 200th anniversary in 1979 of the nation's first professorship of law, established at William and Mary in 1779.

Theme is 'Food and Energy' Times Writer Opens P.P. Forum

Project Plus begins its open Forum series of lectures September 10 on the overall topic "Food and Energy."

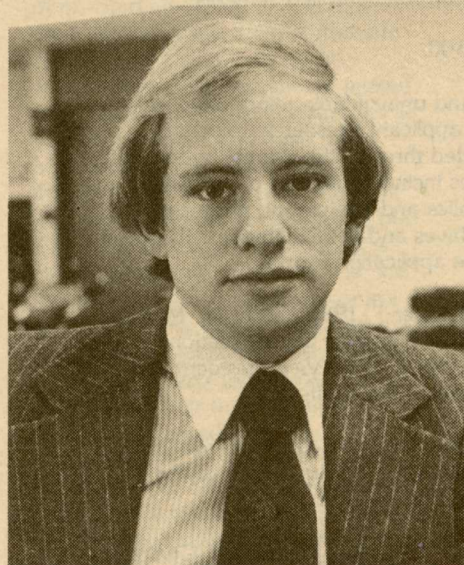

Steven Rattner, Washington correspondent for The New York Times on energy and economic policies both here and abroad, will speak on "Current Issues in the Energy Crisis" at 7:30 p.m., September 10 in Millington Hall auditorium. The public is invited to attend. There is no admission charge.

After graduating with honors in economics from Brown University in 1974, Rattner served as energy reporter, financial and metropolitan reporter and assistant to James Reston. He is a member of the Council on Foreign Relations and Fellow of the Scientists Institute for Public Information.

In presenting its Forum series this year, Project Plus will bring in a number of prominent speakers who will discuss the problems of scarcity in a hungry world. Two of the Forums planned for this semester, the ones on September 17 and the one on October 8, have been designated as "In-House" Forums and are not open to the general public.

"World Hunger: Who Will Survive?" will be the topic of the Forum on September 24. A PBS documentary film on the world food crisis will be shown. The film questions whether nations are equipped to deal with the problem of rocketing population combined with static and even faltering food production. Mark Fowler, assistant professor of philosophy and Martin Mathes, professor of biology, will be commentators for the film program.

Steven Rattner

On Wednesday, October 15, John Mellor, Director of the International Food Policy Research Institute, Washington, D.C., will be the Forum speaker. Mellor will take as his topic "Food, Population and Development: Global Dimensions of the Third World."

The speaker and topic for the October 29 Forum has yet to be announced.

Edward A. Remler, professor of physics, will speak on "Entropy and Solar Energy: An Engineering Overview," at the November 5 Forum.

"Waste Disposal: Is it the Achilles Heel of Nuclear Power," will be the topic of the November 12 Forum. Speakers will be Herbert Oakley, vice president for nuclear waste disposal, Chem-Nuclear Systems, Inc., Barnwell, S.C.; Fred Miller, spokesman since 1977 for the Potomac Alliance; and George Grayson, Virginia legislator and member of the House Committee on Conservation and Natural Resources.

Alan Geyer, executive director, Churches' Center for Theology and Public Policy, Washington, D.C., will be the Nov. 19 Forum speaker on "Hunger and Cheap Grace."

Project Team Wins Recognition For Job Well Done

Obiedie Gray and Junius Lee, members of a special Project Team for custodial work on campus, have been awarded Employee of the Month awards for August.

Gray and Lee were both recommended by their supervisors and characterized as dependable men who can "get the job done."

Charles H. Jimmerson, supervisor of Gray, said that he "will do anything you ask him to do, all the time." Philip Williams praised Lee as a "good floor mechanic." "Tell him to do something and he will get it done. He knows his job," said Williams.

Gray has been working for the College for the past 22 years. He is married and he and his wife Irene have four children. Gray was born in Surry County and has lived in Williamsburg for about 30 years. He worked for a contractor before coming to the College. When he has some spare time he says he likes to visit with his neighbors.

Lee has worked for the College for a total of 15 years. He is a native of Williamsburg and a member of St. John's Church. His wife Lillie Mae is employed at Fort Magruder. Lee worked for the College previously for five years and has also worked at the Colonial Williamsburg Commissary. He returned to College employment ten years ago. He likes sports and follows baseball and the Dallas cowboys.

The Project Team does a lot of work setting up for events in the Campus Center and William and Mary Hall as well as maintaining floors and delivering custodial supplies. At William and Mary Hall Gray and Lee have an opportunity to enjoy the many concerts there before they have to tear down their work and set up for another event.

The men agree that working with the rug that protects the basketball court is one of the most difficult parts of preparing for a concert. The bleachers that have to be pulled out are heavy to handle but the rug presents a bigger challenge. It is important, they explained, that the rug be just right so there is no danger of damaging the playing court.

The presentation of the monthly awards was made in the office of the Vice President for Business Affairs, William J. Carter.

Ernest Boyer, executive house-keeper, explained the work of the Project Team and said that Lee and Gray maintained 90 percent of the floors on campus. Carter said he understood that both men had gained such a high standard of achievement that it was decided to make a dual award and honor them both. Carter congratulated each man individually and said he knew that this was an especially busy time for the Project Team with the opening of a new school year, and "a multitude" of work orders to be completed.

Both Gray and Lee will be eligible for the semester and annual employee awards which include a certificate and a U.S. Savings Bond.

Guidelines Set For Grants

Applications for Summer Faculty Research Grants, Semester Faculty Research Assignments, and Minor Grants for Research

1. Summer Faculty Research Grants

ELIGIBILITY: All members of the faculty as defined by the bylaws of the several faculties of the College who are not emeritus and who hold a contract for full-time employment from the College with a commitment for renewal beyond one year.

STIPEND: For summer 1981 the stipend will be one-ninth of the all-ranks average of faculty salaries for the year 1980-81.

DEADLINE: Noon, Tuesday, October 21. Sixteen copies of the application should be sent to the Office of the Vice President for Academic Affairs, Room 6, the Brafferton.

2. Semester Faculty Research Assignments

ELIGIBILITY: All members of the faculty as defined by the bylaws of the several faculties of the College. An applicant who is emeritus or who does not hold a tenure-eligible position will be assigned only if funds are available after all other worthy applicants have been funded. Worthy proposals will be funded on the basis of seniority of service to the College.

STIPEND: One-half of the applicant's base salary for the ten-month academic year.

DEADLINE: Noon, Friday, November 14, 1980. Sixteen copies of the application should be sent to the Office of the Vice President for Academic Affairs, Room 6, the Brafferton.

3. Minor Grants for Research

ELIGIBILITY: Faculty, staff and all currently enrolled students.

STIPEND: Normally less than $300.

PURPOSE: To cover necessary and unavoidable minor expenses directly related to an applicant's research, expenses which cannot be funded through the normal budgets of the College. Examples include purchase of microfilm and expendable supplies and equipment; photocopying charges; travel to archives and special libraries. (Restrictions are noted on the application form.)

DEADLINE: Noon, Wednesday, October 1, 1980 and noon, Monday, January 19, 1981. Three copies of the application should be sent to the Office of the Vice President for Academic Affairs, Room 6, the Brafferton.

Applications for all of the grants described above are available from the Office of the Vice President for Academic Affairs (Room 6, the Brafferton) or the Office of Grants and Research Administration (James Blair 111).

Roy Champion, Chairman
Committee on Faculty Research

Rita Welsh of the Adult Skills Program, poses with a poster given to the office by Mrs. Thomas A. Graves, Jr. Presented at the White House, the poster commemorates "Salute to Learning Day," May 7, 1980, and the inauguration of the new Department of Education. Shirley Hufstедler, Secretary of Education, spoke on campus that day and presented a similar poster to the College from the stage at Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. Behind Mrs. Welsh is a water-color painting which Mrs. Graves also donated to the ASP office in the basement of Bryan residence hall.

ASP Seeks Student Tutors

The Adult Skills Program is seeking tutors.

There is already an enrollment of 55 adults in the program and that number is expected to double within the year. Last year there were 135 students in the program at the time of peak enrollment.

Volunteer tutors are needed to teach arithmetic, reading and English as a foreign language, two day-time hours per week on campus in Bryan 37.

On the job training, supervision and materials are provided. Those interested are asked to call the ASP office, ext. 4644.

Students who have participated in the program in the past have found it a very rewarding experience. The following comments were made by tutors who worked during the spring semester:

"Tutoring is a learning experience for both students and tutors. The sincere dedication of the adult students allow the tutors to explore avenues they could not explore with a class full of children. Sometimes it is hard for people who have breezed through school to imagine that anyone else could have any problems.

"I will admit that I was a little apprehensive about tutoring at first, but it has been very rewarding as well as fun for both of us. C. . . has improved so much and is such a willing and caring student that I wish only the best for her.

Notebook

Homecoming Meeting

There will be a Homecoming Organizational meeting, Tuesday, at 7 p.m., in the Sit 'n Bull Room, Campus Center for all students interested in helping with Homecoming preparations (including dance organization, Queen balloting and publicity). Any questions, call: Cindy Linderer at x4506 or Bob Wagner at x4453.

Time Changed

President Graves has changed the time of his office hour for students. Instead of meeting students at 2:30 p.m., on September 17, Graves will meet students on September 18 at 4:30 p.m.

Musicians Sought

The College-Community Orchestra of William and Mary still has openings for all strings and some winds and percussion. The C.C.O., open to all members of the community, rehearses twice weekly: 7 to 9:30 p.m., Tuesdays and Thursdays. If you wish to audition or obtain further information, call the C.C.O.'s director, Edgar Williams, at ext. 4309 (220-2927, evenings).

Lunch Seminar

Anne Reed of the John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University, will conduct a career seminar in graduate training for public service professions, Friday, September 26 at noon in the Campus Center, Room D.

Those planning to attend are asked to bring a brown bag lunch.

Further information on the program may be obtained from Stanley Brown, Director of Corporate Relations and Placement, Morton Hall, ext. 4604.

Help for Anxious Writers

If you have problems with your writing in any of the following respects, help is at hand:

Do you avoid or put off writing?
Do you dislike writing?
Do you find writing difficult?
Does it take you too long to write papers or reports?
Do you dislike having your writing evaluated?
Do you think you write more poorly than most other people?
Do you think your writing has to be perfect?

Lynn Bloom, Director of Writing and author of textbooks and articles on the writing process, will conduct a three-session workshop on "Reducing Writing Anxiety" for students, faculty, and staff.

The sessions will meet on Thursday evenings, Sept. 18, Oct. 9, and Oct. 23 from 7:30-9:30 p.m. in the Campus Center, Room D. The workshops are free, but students will be expected to attend all three sessions.

To enroll, call Dr. Bloom at 253-4756 (office) or 229-2816 (home).

Career Planning

The Office of Career Planning and Placement will hold open house today, beginning at 3 p.m., at new facilities in Morton Hall 140, especially for members of the senior class.

An open house will be held September 11 for Juniors; September 16 for Sophomores; and October 7 for Freshmen.

The four programs are designed to give undergraduate students information on the resources of the Office of Career Planning and Placement and show them how the interview scheduling is handled.

ZOLLINGER MUSEUM Swem Library

Now through Sept. 19
Watercolors by Robert Keyser.
Recent gift to the College Art Collection by Fred Olsen.

Physics Colloquium

S. Bhattacharya, University of Chicago, James Franck Institute, will speak on "Liquid Crystals" at the physics colloquium, Friday September 12 at 4 p.m. in William Small Room 109. Coffee will be served in the conference room at 3:30 p.m.

Liquid Crystals represent states of matter intermediate between isotropic liquids and crystalline solids. The various liquid crystalline phases are classified according to the extent the continuous spatial symmetries of the isotropic liquid phase are broken. Generalized hydrodynamic theories of these broken-symmetry liquids have provided a unified theoretical framework for the description of the dynamic aspects of these systems.

The Cards Are Here

Members of the choir are getting a jump on the Christmas season.

The big sign in Ewell which declared "THE CARDS ARE COMING," has now been replaced by another sign, "THE CARDS ARE HERE," announcing the arrival of 100,000 Christmas cards and notes which will be sold to raise money for the choir's 1981 European tour. The cards and notes will sell for $3.75 for a box of 25 cards and envelopes illustrated with campus scenes.

A committee has been working over the summer to get the fund-raising program going with Laurinda Nicholson serving as the chief planner.

Frank Lendrim, director of the choir, has already lined up concerts in Canterbury Cathedral, Westminster Abbey and Notre Dame Cathedral for the 1981 tour.

Choir members will be glad to fill orders for any early-bird Christmas shoppers.

Botetourts to Sing

Members of the Botetourt Singers will give a noon-time concert, September 16 for the wives of Southern Governors who will be meeting in Williamsburg.

Chancellors Hall Loses Tenants

"The dust hasn't settled yet," Duane A. Dittman, Vice President for University Advancement, told his staff at their weekly conference Monday.

He was referring to the job of resettling which is still going on as his office and the Office of University Communications move in on the third floor of James Blair Hall.

The move from Chancellors Hall next door was a short one, but a complicated one.

First to be moved were the computers which would not operate because of the heavy vibration from jack hammers being used in Chancellors Hall to tear down walls on the lower floors. The move also meant the relocation of a photographic darkroom, typesetting equipment, a radio recording studio as well as boxes and boxes of files, some 20 rooms of office furniture as well as bosses and workers.

The contractors who are gutting Chancellors Hall in preparation for extensive renovations for the next tenant, the School of Business Administration, were as anxious to get the offices moved out as the office workers were to leave. The timetable for moving was changed several times during the summer due to the complexity of the moving schedule which sometimes look longer than anticipated to execute. The July 1 moving date was revised several times and the final offices were moved out around Labor Day.

When the trucks rolled in early in the summer and a fence went up around Chancellors Hall, access was limited. A note on a second floor wall declared it a "hard hat" area. Visitors were often amazed to find "business as usual" on the third floor after threading their way up dusty stairways and corridors littered with debris.

As the summer wore on, more walls came down. Protective planking was put up around second floor panelling and a walkway was constructed on the second floor limiting the traffic pattern. Trash chutes were installed in the second floor windows to speed the demolition process. The hammers being used to tear down walls on the second floor were sending vibrations up to the third floor. There was the feeling that someone was hoping those people on the third floor would take the hint and leave.

"It's been unpacked but can't be located," was the plaintive response one relocated secretary gave to a recent telephone inquiry. But each day brings a big step forward in the resettling process. The new offices are "looking good." Telephone extensions have remained the same.
