OWJ Meets Thursday

Brickell is Grand Marshal For Homecoming Parade

Edward E. Brickell, Jr., Rector of the College, has been named Honorary Grand Marshal of the 1980 Homecoming Parade which will step off at 10 a.m. at College Corner on Duke of Gloucester Street, Saturday, Oct. 4.

For Brickell, this will be his 30th reunion. He is a member of the class of 1950. He also received an Ed.D. degree from the College and has a master's degree in English from the University of Chicago. He was elected to the Board of Visitors in 1976 and became Rector in 1978.

A traditional part of homecoming weekend, the parade has continued through the years to grow in popularity. This year marks its 51st anniversary. The College band will lead off with five area high school bands from Tabb, Bruton, York, Lafayette and Gloucester schools and 40 units in the parade lineup.

Homecoming weekend festivities get under way Thursday with a reception and dinner by members of the Order of the White Jacket. On Friday there are golf and tennis tournaments for alumni and their spouses, and the annual meeting of the Society of the Alumni that evening. Also on Friday will be the Sunset Parade which honors alumni who have died during the year.

An Alumni Jog down Duke of Gloucester Street is the first event on Saturday and following the parade there will be luncheon on the lawn at the Alumni House before the football game against Wake Forest University. The homecoming queen will be crowned at half-time.

A lacrosse game, varsity versus alumni at 1 p.m. at the intramural field on Sunday will be the final event of the weekend.

No Parking

Because units of the homecoming parade will be using the parking lots at Phi Beta Kappa, Morton Hall and the Common Glory as a staging area, motorists are asked to remove parked vehicles in those areas, by midnight on Friday, Oct. 3. No overnight parking will be permitted in these lots on Friday.

Wise to Lecture In Swem, Oct. 8

One of the leading figures in the development of the American Studies movement, Gene Wise, will be on campus on Wednesday, October 8, for a public lecture, "Where Does American Studies Begin?" Wise is the Director of the American Studies Program at the University of Maryland. His talk, which will be given in the Bote-tourt Theatre of Swem Library, begins at 8 p.m.

Wise served as Guest Editor of a special 30 year retrospective issue of the American Quarterly (1949-1979), which appeared this past summer. This issue contains his "Paradigm Dramas in American Studies: A Cultural and Institutional History of the Movement," an essay commissioned by the National American Studies Association.

The University of Minnesota Press recently released a revised edition of Wise's American Historical Explanations, first published in 1973. His 1967 essay, "Political 'Reality' in Recent

First Campus Showing

This is the first campus showing of "Pinnacles," a new wood sculpture by Carl Roseberg which is included in the Fine Arts Faculty Art Show now up in Andrews Hall. "Pinnacles," is carved out of mahogany with rounded outer edges and flat inner planes for an interesting contrast of surfaces. It stands 6 feet 4 inches tall and is 3 1/2 inches wide. A small model of the sculpture, in cherry, has been included in an international exhibit. The exhibit includes another Roseberg sculpture entitled "Bird Form," which is also being shown on campus for the first time. It was exhibited this spring in New York.

Reception After Thursday Curtain

Theatre Season Begins With Comedy 'Company'

The box office in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall (ext. 4272) is now open daily for those who wish tickets for the opening show of the William and Mary Theatre season, "Company," by Stephen Sondheim and George Furth.

"Company," will be presented Oct. 2-4 and 9-11 at 8:15 p.m. The box office is open from 1:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. and will also be open before each performance. Individual tickets are $4; season tickets are $13 for William and Mary students and $15 for the general public.

"Company," focuses on a thirty-five year old bachelor named Robert as he learns about the joys and miseries of marriage from his slick, cosmopolitan friends.

During its run on Broadway, "Company" won the 1970 New York Drama Critics' Award and the 1971 Tony Award for best musical. Sondheim was named best lyricist and best composer in the Variety Poll of the New York Drama Critics in 1970.

Louis E. Catron, whose recent directorial credits include "Guys and Dolls," and "Measure for Measure," is directing "Company." Ed Godshall, who has worked with the Williamsburg Players and the William and Mary Theatre, is musical director. Lisa Jo Sagolla, choreographer for the 1980 Virginia Shakespeare Festival, and a recent graduate, is choreographer.

The Department of Theatre and Speech has issued an invitation to the College community to attend an opening night reception, Thursday, October 2.

A reception will be held in the Dodge Room in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall following the opening performance of "Company." There will be an opportunity to meet the cast and crews of the play, its director Louis E. Catron and the Theatre's new Artistic Director, Richard Palmer.

Newsmakers

The Institute of Medicine of the National Academy of Sciences recently published the report Alcoholism, Alcohol Abuse, and Related Problems: Opportunities for Research. Professor Len Schiffrin served as one of eight members of the committee developing the report and, with former William and Mary students Catherine E. Hartsog and Deborah H. Brand, co-authored one of the eight published background papers, "Cost of Alcoholism and Alcohol Abuse and their Relation to Research." A summary of the overall report appeared in the September 4, 1980 issue of the New England Journal of Medicine.

In addition, in the past several months Schiffrin completed a study on the effects of drug regulation, entitled "Lessons from the Drug Lag" as part of a broad study of the full impacts of government regulation of product quality, toxics substances, highway safety, and environmental quality being conducted by the Office of Technology Assessment of the U.S. Congress. He also served as a consultant to the Public Citizens' Litigation Group, a Ralph Nader organization, in a successful suit against H.E.W. and others regarding the Freedom of Information Act and drug testing results.

He currently is serving as a consultant to the Medical College of Virginia in their development of a multi-disciplinary program in health care cost containment for third and fourth year medical students.

At the National Educational Computing Conference, held June 23-25 in Norfolk, George M. Bass, Jr., assistant professor of education presented a paper on "Creativity Through the Microcomputer," as part of the section on Computer in Humanistic Studies. His presentation has been included in the proceedings of the conference which was hosted by Christopher Newport College.

Joseph Galano and John Nezek of the psychology department and Allen Turnbull, an adjunct professor, assisted Virginia's Division of Litter Control and the Department of Conservation and Economic Development this summer. They evaluated the effectiveness of a new environmental curriculum being field tested across the State in grades K-6. The curriculum focuses on litter control, pollution, recycling and other environmental issues and their findings will guide the development of the final version of the curriculum being prepared for use across the State in 1981.

Robert Bloom, associate professor of business administration, was appointed by the President of the American Accounting Association to membership on its Research on Accounting Projects Committee for 1980-81. Bloom was also recently elected Vice-President for Education and Professional Development by the Virginia-Peninsula Chapter of the National Association of Accountants.

John H. Oakley, assistant professor of classical studies, spent the past summer in Greece at the American School of Classical Studies where he organized and chaired a Seminar on Greek Vase Painting. During the course of the seminar, which met once a week, eight papers were presented, including one on Danae and Perseus on Seriphos by Mr. Oakley.

Jon S. Kerner, sociology, conducted two workshops on "Attitudes Toward the Poor" at the Fifth Annual Conference of the National Eligibility Workers Association held in Williamsburg on September 11-12.

Emeric Fischer, professor of law, has been invited to deliver a paper to the Virginia, Maryland and District of Columbia Societies of Accountants on October 31 in Crystal City. The subject will be "Inventory Accounting." Fischer addressed the same group last summer in Charlottesville on the subject of Subchapter S (Corporations) of the tax code.

Scott Donaldson of the English department has recently published two articles, "Robinson and Music," Colby Library Quarterly (March 1980), 63-72, and "The Crisis of Fitzgerald's 'Crack-Up,'" Twentieth Century Literature, 26 (Summer 1980), 171-188.; and three reviews, of David Halberstam's The Powers That Be and Herbert Gans's Deciding What's News for the Sewanee Review, 88 (Spring 1980), 310-315, of A. Scott Berg's Max Perkins: Editor of Genius for the Fitzgerald/Hemingway Annual 1979 (Detroit: Gale Research, 1980), pp. 423-425, and of six books on Hemingway and Fitzgerald for Modern Fiction Studies, 26 (Summer 1980), 332-336. He read a paper on "Hemingway of the Star" during the July 1980 conference in Boston held in connection with dedicating the Hemingway papers to the Kennedy library.

Morris McCain is spending the 1980-81 academic year as visiting lecturer at the University of Glasgow, where he will be teaching Marxist Political Theory and the Politics of Fascism. Christopher Berry has come to the government department from Glasgow on faculty exchange with McCain.

Lynn Z. Bloom, English Department, published "Popular and Super-pop Biographies: Definitions and Distinctions" in Biography, 3:3 (Summer, 1980), and (with Orlee Holder) "Anais Nin's Diary in Context," in Women's Autobiography: Essays in Criticism, ed. Estelle Jelinek (Bloomington: Indiana University Press, 1980).

Alumna Gets New Position

Elaine Justice, manager of media services with University Communications, has been named director of public information for that department beginning October 1.

Elaine Justice

Justice, a 1975 graduate of the College from Newport News, joined the William and Mary communications staff in October 1979 as a feature writer. In February 1980, she assumed the position of manager of media services, responsible for radio and television public relations at the College.

Justice replaces James C. Rees, IV, who has assumed the position of director of annual support and corporate relations at the College.

Prior to joining the communications staff, Justice was enrolled in the graduate program in the School of Journalism at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. She is currently finishing a master's thesis in the news-editorial track of the program.

Justice has also worked as a reporter for two North Carolina daily newspapers, the Raleigh News and Observer and the Greensboro Record. Her experience also includes free-lance writing and television production for public affairs programming in the Raleigh-Durham area.

An Open Letter to the College Community

The recent series of articles in the Flat Hat appear to have created some confusion about the College's policy with regard to Black students, faculty, and staff members. So that there will be no misunderstanding, I would like to clarify both our commitment and our policy.

Before I do, however, let me say that a good deal of the discussion I have heard about the first Flat Hat article in particular has focused on the opinions expressed by one member of the College community. It is important that we all recognize the right each of us has in an academic community to express our own views so long as it is clear we speak only for ourselves and do not try to impose our views on others. It is also important to emphasize that the opinions referred to in no way represent the policy of this College.

The College's official policy in regard to admissions and employment is outlined in the following statements:

Within the limits of its facilities and its obligations as a State university, the College opens the possibility of admissions to all qualified students without regard to sex, race, color, age, religion, national origin, or handicap, and

The College of William and Mary is committed to the principle of equal opportunity in the employment of faculty administrators, and non-academic personnel.

Mere recitation of policy, however, does not sufficiently indicate the depth of our commitment or explain how policy is administered. What is needed at William and Mary and what we want to accomplish is an environment that encourages Black faculty, students and administrators to join our community, and that provides for those who do join a pleasant and stimulating experience. To this end, a special effort on Affirmative Action is essential. We must do more than remain neutral with regard to recruiting, admitting, employing, and promoting qualified members of minority groups previously not represented or inadequately represented at William and Mary. Only in this way can William and Mary provide educational opportunities for all qualified persons and thus enhance the educational experience for us all.

A special effort to attract Black students and faculty does not imply that the persons so selected are in any way exempt from the same screening and selection criteria applied to all candidates for admission or appointment. Nor does it mean that such persons are evaluated, in respect to their work, on any lesser or different standard. The students we enroll are all judged in the admissions process as "capable of solid academic achievement at William and Mary." Because of this, they can be assured that their performance is limited only by their motivation and personal effort.

I regret that we have not made more progress in our considerable and continuing effort to attract Black students, faculty, and staff at William and Mary. We need and cherish the richness and diversity which this element of our community offers to us all. Our commitment to Affirmative Action, therefore, remains a fundamental one, assumed without reservation, and with the conviction that, despite our disappointing results to date, it can and will be made to work as it should.
