New Students Get Welcomed to Campus Saturday

The Office of Admissions at the College of William and Mary will hold open house for the 1981 freshman class on Saturday, April 25.

This year's freshman class of 1,100 has been selected from an application pool of 5,758. The class is composed of 70 percent in-state students and 30 percent out of state students and is divided approximately 50-50 between men and women.

Planned as an informal activity for the newly accepted students and their families, the program allows the new students to discuss areas of interest with various departments as well as an opportunity to visit campus facilities. Swem Library, the Campus Center, the Bookstore, the Student Health Center and the Sir Christopher Wren Building will be open for visitation.

There will also be an opportunity to visit some of the residence halls. The Office of Financial Aid is offering a program on financial opportunities for incoming students.

Some 1,200 students and members of their families are expected to participate in the program, which begins at 10:30 a.m. in William and Mary Hall. Visitors will be greeted by G. Gary Ripple, director of admissions; W. Sam Sadler, dean of students; and Linda Collins Reilly, dean of the undergraduate program and assistant vice president for academic affairs.

A picnic lunch will be held behind the hall and the Botetourt Singers from the William and Mary choir will sing.

Visitors will be invited to watch tennis matches at the Busch Courts behind William and Mary Hall beginning at 1 p.m., and the baseball game with North Carolina Wesleyan College.

The William and Mary choir and chorus will present their annual spring concert that evening at 8:15 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. Admission is $1.50.

Another Campus Spring

There is something magic, something reassuring about the return of spring to campus. It is always the same - but who's complaining?

Party for Will Planned Thursday

William Shakespeare may be 417 years old, but he still enjoys a good party with his friends.

Thursday, April 23, is the official anniversary of the bard's birth, and the Virginia Shakespeare Festival will mark the occasion with a public celebration and a free movie.

The festivities will begin at 7:30 p.m. with a cake and punch reception, hosted by the Festival Guild, in the Dodge Room of Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. The reception will include appearances by Elizabethan costumed characters and three Elizabethan dances choreographed by Meredith Merritt, a member of the Guild and a student at the College.

Following the reception, the public is invited to a free screening of the movie "Julius Caesar," starring Charlton Heston, in Millington Auditorium. "Julius Caesar" will be the first play performed during the 1981 season, which opens Thursday, July 9.

The festival, now in its fourth season, will also feature "The Tempest" and "Two Gentlemen of Verona" in repertory nightly except Mondays through August 16.

Faculty Plan Party at VIMS

For its final social event of the year, the Faculty Club plans to repeat the highly successful party which it sponsored at VIMS last spring. The party will be held on April 24, from 6 to 9 p.m. The function will be held outside on the riverfront at the Clayton House. In the event of rain, shelter will be available. The affair will include oysters, fish, and crabs, if available. All the usual beverages will be served.

All members of the faculty and administration are invited to attend and may pay at the party or in advance to Roy Pearson, treasurer, Faculty Club, School of Business Administration. The usual rates will apply: members - $3 per person ($2 if non-drinkers) and non-members - $5 per person ($3.50 if non-drinkers).

The Faculty Club hopes that this party will provide a pleasant atmosphere in which the members of the college faculty in Williamsburg may become better acquainted with the faculty and staff of VIMS.

Sallah of Gambia Here Tuesday

Ousman Sallah, Ambassador of the Republic of Gambia to the United States and the United Nations, will be speaker at a special international dinner which will culminate a day-long "Festival of World Cultures," in the Campus Center ballroom, at 6 p.m., Tuesday, April 28.

The meal will be a community potluck dinner to which members of the public and the College community are invited and will begin at 6 p.m.

Sponsored by the Anthropology Club, the International Circle and several student organizations, the Festival which will feature foods, and costumes from 16 countries and folk dances, is being staged as a special tribute to Vinson H. Sutlive, Jr., outgoing chairman of the department of anthropology and Nathan Altshuler, who established the department.

Ambassador Sallah

Ambassador Sallah, who was posted to Saudi Arabia from 1974 to 1978 with responsibilities in Egypt, Iran, Ethiopia, Kuwait and the United Arab Emirates, was educated at Trinity College, Hartford, Conn., Columbia University School of International Affairs and the London School of Economics and Political Science.

Ms. Krueger's audience will be students in Anthropology 302, Ethnographic Field Methods. Other members of the college community interested in the topic, are invited to attend.

Ms. Krueger received her Ph.D. from the University of Florida and is a specialist in Anthropology and education, Latin America and in particular, Peru.

Goodbye Project Plus Goodbye

It is expected that some members of Project Plus will be wearing the dirgey shirt shown above to the final Forum, Wednesday, April 22, an In-House program for members only. After nine years, Project Plus is closing. Since its establishment, Project Plus has been guided by Carlyle Beyer, professor of history, director of Honors and Experimental Programs.

'Mark Twain' Here Tomorrow

David Johnson of Richmond, a sophomore majoring in government and history, with an eye to a career in law and politics, has an interesting hobby - he's a Mark Twain impersonator.

Johnson will present "An Evening with Mark Twain," at 8 p.m., Wednesday, April 22 in the Campus Center Little Theatre. The program is free to the public.

It takes Johnson, a slight, blue-eyed young man with sandy blond hair, about an hour and a half to transform his youthful appearance into the guise of a 70 year old man.

He uses lots of hair spray and a handmade moustache. He wears a white suit in the Twain tradition and smokes a cigar. Twain, says Johnson, went through four or five cigars during a performance. Johnson is a non-smoker but he lights up to give authenticity to his role.

The cigar was a problem when Johnson first started giving Mark Twain programs. He began 12 years ago after watching Hal Holbrook's Twain program on TV. At eight he was too young to smoke so for several years the cigar was just a prop.

A graduate of Henrico High School in Richmond, Johnson was presented

A graduate of Henrico High School in Richmond, Johnson has presented his program to PTA groups and clubs and in 1977 won the humorous interpretation division of the National Forensic League competition with his act. He has also performed for a drama seminar at Virginia Commonwealth University and at the University of Virginia.

Nominations Due

The Committee on Prizes and Awards will meet shortly to select the recipients of the major College awards, the Carr Cup and the Sullivan Awards. Nominations for the Carr Cup and the Sullivan Awards may be made by any member of the College community.

Please submit all nominations and supporting materials to the Office of the Dean of Students (James Blair Hall, Room 211, ext. 4387) by April 23.

Johnson draws from a 3½-hour bank of Twain material he has learned and varies his program to suit his audiences. He says he doesn't try to impose a hypothetical Twain opinion on present-day situations but presents the author's words as they were written. He adds that he doesn't always agree with Twain but he doesn't try to add his own bias. In particular, says Johnson,

Youth Symphony To Play Sunday

The Westchester Youth Symphony from Westchester County, N.Y., will present a concert at 3 p.m., Sunday, April 26 in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall under the sponsorship of the William and Mary Orchestra.

This concert is free to the public.

The orchestra will include in its concert "The Furiant," from "The Bartered Bride," by Smetana; the Overture to "Iphigenia Aulis," by von Gluck; the second movement of the Nordic Symphony in E minor by Howard Hanson; "Two Sketches for Orchestra," by Clare Grundman; The overture from "Theodora," by Handel; the overture from "Fair Helen of Troy," by Offenbach-Greisse; and the Fourth Movement of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony.

David Johnson

Twain was too cynical about religion and government but he does include Twain's views on these subjects in his program and lets the audience make their own judgement.

Johnson presented his show last year on campus as part of a talent show but this is his first solo program.

Orchestra to Play Brahms

The William and Mary Orchestra will give its final concert of the year at 8:15 p.m., Tuesday, April 28, in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

General admission is $1. Tickets are available in advance through the department of music, ext. 4374, or at the door.

The orchestra will perform Hindemith's "Eight Pieces for String Orchestra," and Brahms' Serenade No. 1 in D Major.

Martha Connolly of the applied music faculty will be featured soloist for Mozart's concert aria "Vado, ma dove? Dei!"

Miss Connolly, mezzo-soprano, received her early training in music at the Preparatory division of the New England Conservatory of Music. She received a bachelor of music degree from the University of Michigan and her master's of music from Catholic University where she held a full scholarship for graduate studies.

She is currently coached by Dr. Genevieve McGiffert.

In the Washington area she has performed the roles of Cherubino, Marcellena and Donna Elvira. She has given recitals at the Textile Museum, Anderson House, the Renwick Gallery and for the Mu Phi Epsilon concert artist series.

She has taught voice at Mount Vernon College, Hood College, Catholic University and the University of Virginia and is a past president of the National Association of Teachers of Singing for Virginia.

Martha Connolly

Miss Connolly is listed in Who's Who of American Women, and the International Encyclopedia of Musicians.

Correction

Kenneth McClane, featured poet at the April 10th poetry reading presented in conjunction with the Ebony Expressions concert, was mistakenly misspelled. Mr. McClane, a professor of English at Cornell University in Ithaca, New York, is the author of several volumes of poetry.

Joanne Braxton, an instructor of English at William and Mary, was listed as having published two works of poetry and a documentary collection of Afro-American slave music. She is the author of a single collection of poetry, Sometimes I Think of Maryland (Sunbury Press, 1977). Songs of the Southern Slave, 1755-1865 is currently under contract.

Schifrin presently is serving as a consultant to the Office of Technology Assessment of the U.S. Congress in its project on the relationship of patents and other incentives as they affect private sector research and development activities.

The American Enterprise Institute, in its recent publication Drugs and Health, included a commentary by Schifrin given at an earlier conference.

Axtell Gets Guggenheim Award

James Axtell, professor of history has been awarded a fellowship by the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation for the spring semester and summer of 1982.

One of only 288 winners from more than 3,000 applicants, he will relinquish a recent award from the American Council of Learned Societies to continue work on "The Invasion Within: The Contest of Cultures in Colonial North America."

James Axtell

Axtell joined the William and Mary faculty in 1978. His teaching specialties include the Colonial history of North America, American Indians, and the history of education. His publications include "The School Upon a Hill: Education and Society in Colonial New England," published by the Yale University Press, 1974; and "The Educational Writings of John Locke," published by the Cambridge University Press in 1968. He has written "The Ethnohistory of Colonial America," (January, 1978) and with William C. Sturtevant, "The Unkindest Cut, or Who Invented Scalping?" (July, 1980) for the William and Mary Quarterly, published by the Institute of Early American History and Culture at William and Mary.

His article on "The White Indians of Colonial America," has been reprinted for the fourth time in Mel Albin and Dominick Cavallo, eds. "Family Life in America: 1620-2000" (Saint James, N.Y., 1981).

Axtell participated in a panel discussion "The Place of History in the Undergraduate Curriculum," at the annual meeting of the Organization of American History in Historians in Detroit, April 4.

Axtell received a B.A. from Yale and a Ph.D. from Cambridge University.

He plans to spend some of his research time under the fellowship at the public archives in Ottawa, Canada.

Whitehill Prize Won by Fiering

Norman Fiering, editor of publications at the Institute of Early American History and Culture and lecturer in history at the College of William and Mary, has been awarded the first annual Walter Muir Whitehill Prize of the Colonial Society of Massachusetts.

The Whitehill Prize is given for a distinguished essay on colonial American history, previously unpublished, with preference being given to New England subjects. Fiering was awarded the Prize, which consists of a gift of $1,000 and publication in The New England Quarterly, for his essay "Philosophical Anglicanism and the First American Enlightenment," a study of the liberalizing influence of Archbishop John Tillotson on New England intellectuals in the early 18th century.

The Colonial Society of Massachusetts, established the Prize in memory of Walter Muir Whitehill, who for many years was a moving force behind the organization. Dr. Whitehill received an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree from William and Mary in 1974.

Fiering, a specialist in American intellectual history and 18th century thought, has had many articles published in the William and Mary Quarterly, the Journal of the History of Ideas and the Harvard Library Bulletin.

He received his undergraduate degree from Dartmouth and both graduate degrees from Columbia University. He received a three year research fellowship from the Institute 1969-72. Fiering received a National Endowment for the Humanities Fellowship in 1975-76 and for the academic year 1978-79 he was one of 26 scholars appointed-Fellows and Associates by the National Humanities Center, Research Triangle Park, North Carolina. Fiering was the only Virginia scholar named to the list.

Dedication Friday

Dedication ceremonies at the new Guy Lecture Hall at Rogers Hall will be held at 4:30 p.m. in the new wing of the building.

Stephen Hopkins

Helfrich has Work Accepted for Show

Paul Helfrich, associate professor fine arts, has had a mixed media collage entitled "Dorothy Cummings," accepted into the Virginia Painting and Sculpture 1981 exhibition at the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts in Richmond.

The juror for this biennial exhibition was nationally known artist, writer and teacher, Peter Plagens. He selected 37 works out of approximately 2,000 entered by artists throughout Virginia.

The exhibition will be held September 1 to October 11 and will open the Museum's 1981-82 exhibition season.

The Institute of Early American History and Culture is sponsored jointly by the College and the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation.

Dolmetsch Leaving To Teach Abroad

Carl Dolmetsch, professor of English, will be a visiting professor at the Free University of Berlin during the 1981-82 academic year.

Dolmetsch will be on leave from William and Mary to teach courses in Southern fiction and the American musical theatre in the Free University's John F. Kennedy Institute of North American Studies.

A faculty member since 1959, Dolmetsch was English department chairman from 1970-1976. This is his second appointment in Berlin. During his first appointment, from 1964 to 1966, he held a Fulbright-Hays Senior Lectureship. In 1977 he had a Fulbright chair at the University of Erlangen in Bavaria.

In the summers of 1966, 1969 and 1971 Dolmetsch was a lecturer at the Falkenstein Seminar in American Studies, near Frankfurt, West Germany, and during his frequent European sojourns he has lectured widely in universities and at teachers' conferences throughout Western Europe and North Africa.

Dolmetsch did his undergraduate study at Drake University and earned his doctorate at the University of Chicago. Before joining the College's faculty, he taught at Drake and at Drury College. He was a John Hay Fellow in Humanities at Columbia University in 1954-55 and a visiting professor at the University of Georgia in 1968.

He has published two books and numerous scholarly articles and reviews in the field of American literature. His weekly column on music has appeared in the Virginia Gazette since 1974 and he is currently a staff contributor to three opera magazines.

Hopkins Concert Set Sunday

Stephen O. Hopkins, a senior from Newton, N.J., will present a recital of classical guitar music at 8:15 p.m., Sunday, April 26 in the Wren Chapel.

Hopkins, a music major, will play selections representative of several periods and styles. He will open the program with "Melancholy Calliard," and "My Lady Hunsdon's Allemande" by John Rowland, a composer of the Renaissance era. He will also play Suite para laud No. 1 BWV 996 by Bach as an example music of the Baroque period.

Estudio in B minor by the Spanish composer Fernando Sor (1780-1839) will open the second half of the program. Hopkins will play "Prelude" and "Folk Song" from The English Suite by John Duarte; and three preludes by B. Heitor Villa-Lobos of Brazil.

A student of Timothy Olbrych, Hopkins is in his fourth year of study in classical guitar. He plans to teach either English or music at the high school level.

A 1971 graduate of Sparta High School in New Jersey, Hopkins worked six years in the carpentry trade before entering college. In the summer of 1977, he cycled across the United States. He is a member of Kappa Delta Pi honorary society in education at William and Mary.

May Fete Set Saturday

by Nancy J. Parra
Spanish House Tutor

The Botetourt Complex will present its annual May Day celebration Saturday, April 25 from noon to 5 p.m.

Fashioned in the style of the European fete which is popular this time of the year, the festival will include both indoor and outdoor programs and displays. Some of the theme for the programs include "Festival Latino," a Bavarian beer garden, an Hawaiian part, boardwalk games and a Riviera cafe.

Fauquier, one of the freshman residence halls in the area, will "go Hawaiian" by decorating the windows with South Pacific decorations. They are also planning a hula-hoop contest and for musical entertainment they have contracted a bongo-drum player.

The activities in the Language Houses will reflect the cultures and customs of many countries. For instance, the French House will be holding a "Riviera Cafe" and an "open air marche;" here the public may purchase French foods and lilies of the valley, a traditional May Day flower.

The German House will set up a Bavarian Beer Garden complete with bratwurst, smoked hot dogs, potato salad, and, of course, beer. They are also displaying German folk dances at various times during the day.

The Festival Latino will include an all-day Dance Marathon interrupted periodically by Hispanic folk-dancing demonstrations. "Kioscos de comida," or food booths where Spanish food will be sold, will also be a main feature in the Spanish House program.

The 50-50 game will be available in the "Boardwalk." (Project Plus, which is also housed in the Complex, will provide additional games shows and displays reflecting their main theme: "Energy for the Future.")

May Day is being planned by a special committee chosen from each House, and is coordinated by Robert McDevitt, this year's Area Coordinator for the Botetourt Complex. The College community and the area residents are invited to share in the festivities.

Fehrenbach Gets Grant from APS

The American Philosophical Society has awarded a grant to Robert J. Fehrenbach, English to support his work on a 1567 pamphlet, A Letter Sent by the Maydens of London . . . in Defense of their Lawfull Libertie, the sole surviving copy of which he discovered last year in the Archiepiscopal Library at Lambeth Palace, London.

The grant was awarded in connection with Fehrenbach's planned research next summer at the Folger Shakespeare Library on materials relating to this unique piece of Tudor social literature.

Fehrenbach's book, A Critical Edition of 'The Politician' by James Shirley, has recently been published by Garland Publishing, New York and London. His article on a writer of early Elizabethan popular literature, "Isabella Whitney (fl. 1565-75) and the Poetical Miscellanies of Richard Jones," appears in the current issue of Cahiers Elisabethains, the journal of the Centre d'Etudes et de Recherches Elisabethaines de l'Université Paul Valéry, Montpellier, France.

Also, at the invitation of the University of Virginia, Division of Continuing Education, Fehrenbach recently lectured on Shakespeare to members of the faculty and administration of the Virginia Beach public school system.

ROTC Holds Awards Ceremony

The Military Science Department, in conjunction with ROTC Week in Virginia, conducted an Awards Ceremony honoring outstanding cadets on Saturday, April 4.

The ceremonies also included the induction of Governor John Dalton and Brigadier General James Baber into the College's ROTC Roster of Distinguished Graduates. The day was also the occasion for a retirement ceremony for Air Force Colonel Armand J. Galfo, professor of education.

The presentation of awards to cadets was made by LTC Lawrence M. Beyer, professor military science. E. Suzanne Sale won the President's Award and George C. Marshall Award; Lance L. Wilson, CNC, the President's Award.

Department of the Army Super Cadet Awards were made to Karen M. Layden, Vernon A. Sevier, John D. Huber and John B. Flecke.

The gold, silver and bronze medals given by the Reserve Officers Association were won by Lance L. Wilson, David S. Cade and Joseph E. Fucella, respectively.

The ROA Junior membership award was on by Yuval J. Zacks. The Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America patriotism medal was awarded to R. Michael Abrams. The DAR medal went to John S. Harker.

Sons of the American Revolution awards went to Richard C. Shrank, Michael Edwards, Rita M. Ward and Lee J. Pisarek.

The Association of the United States Army medal was won by Tatsuo H. Yamashita and Michael L. Waclawski, CNC. Mark G. Edgren won the Association of United States Army Military History Award. Gold, silver and bronze American Legion medals for military excellence were won by Robert W. Olvers, Jr., William T. Kelly and Keith A. Thomas, respectively. American Legion gold, silver and bronze medals for scholastic excellence went to Clement Cholek, Joanne R. Less and Katherine E. Powell. Robert A. Burrell won the Military Order of the World Wars award.

Sea Grant Given For Bass Study

An award of $32,770 from the Sea Grant Program of the Department of Commerce for a social and economic analysis of commercial users of striped bass in Virginia to Victor Liquori, associate professor of sociology and Samuel Baker, associate professor of economics, is one of four new grants to College researchers.

The research by Liquori and Baker, is part of a regional analysis of commercial and recreational users of striped bass in Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina, conducted by resource economists, sociologists, anthropologists and a maritime historian in these states.

George W. Grayson, professor of government, has received a $6,500 grant from the Environment Fund of Washington, D.C. Under this grant, Grayson will interview union leaders in Washington, Texas, New York and California to determine the position and policies of organized labor with respect to illegal immigrants.

Richard Sigwalt, visiting assistant professor of history, has received a grant of $19,635 from the National Endowment for the Humanities for a study of two histories of the Mgweshe kingdom in East-Central Zaire. Both written in the native Mashi language, the histories were written by a Catholic school teacher and the man he considered his teacher, a commoner who sang historical epics professionally.

Ruth Mulliken and Paul Clem, professors of education, will be principal directors of a family counseling project which is being supported by a grant of $2,125 from the Peninsula Area Cooperative Educational Services.

Shakespeare Boosters Meet

Schauer Lecture

Frederick Schauer, Cutler Professor of Law at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, will speak on "Coherence in Moral Political and Legal Philosophy," at 8 p.m., Wednesday, April 22 in room 310 of the Wren Building.

The lecture is sponsored by the Department of Philosophy.

All Fraternities on Campus Leading Double Lives

by Bob Hallman

Fraternities here at William and Mary have a reputation, as they do across the country, of having a certain prowess in the customs of partying. This reputation is sometimes positive and sometimes negative, depending on the eye of the beholder, and rumors abound. Granted, many of these notions are true. Much of a fraternity's energy and zeal is directed toward a strong social schedule. But there are many more activities fraternities on campus participate in.

A staunch supporter of William and Mary's athletic program cannot help but notice those fraternities that provide transportation and friendship to underprivileged and handicapped children, enabling them to enjoy a live sports event, be it football, basketball, or any other sport. Many frats support various scholarship funds around the campus.

The scope of philanthropy is not restricted to the College. Local convalescent homes, the local chapter of the SPCA, and specific families and residents of Williamsburg all receive strong support from various fraternities. Sometimes this support is in the form of donated food, hours of work, or a visit to an older person. Some fraternities also reach out to other parts of the world, supporting needy children and families.

Throughout the year the brothers of Kappa Alpha work with the Muscular Dystrophy Association in Newport News. In November they held their annual bowl-a-thon and raised $1510 in their fight against M.D.

Kappa Sigma has initiated the John Kratzer Memorial Award as a memorial to a basketball star who lost a valiant fight against cancer.

The members of Lambda Chi Alpha hold a "Work Day" in the surrounding community twice a year. Brothers perform varied chores for a fee, and all proceeds are forwarded to their philanthropy. The Richmond Boys Club.

Phi Kappa Tau has been involved in various charitable activities, including the United Fund. Recently, the brothers have led the way in blood donation during visits of Red Cross Blood-mobiles.

The main philanthropic project of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity is an annual marathon for Muscular Dystrophy. Held each year in the spring, the marathon coordinates school and community support to raise money for the M.D.A.

A major charity program for Pi Lambda Phi consists of supporting two Williamsburg children in the Big-Little Brothers program. The membership also collects and donates used toys and games for needy children and patients at Eastern State Hospital. Each year Sigma Chi holds a competitive type of fair called Derby Day. This year they sent a check for $2800 to Wallace Village, an institution for children with minimal brain damage that Sigma Chi National sponsors.

Sigma Mu is actively involved with the national "Save the Children."

They provide support to a Foster Child on a regular basis. The brothers, along with Alpha Chi Omega sorority, also painted the 4-H Clubhouse this year.

Sigma Phi Epsilon is heavily involved with the American Heart Association. The members hold weekly "Happy Hours" and the annual "Schmeg Ep" Film Festival to benefit this Association.

This places them among the top 100 organizational donors to the A.H.A.

Sigma Pi members went to Eastern State to assist the Williamsburg Jaycees wrap Christmas presents for patients.

Last semester the brothers of Theta Delta Chi held a Halloween party with Circle K for a group of underprivileged children from Williamsburg. This semester activities included an Easter Egg Hunt put on with Pi Beta Phi sorority for the benefit of several children at Eastern State Hospital.

(Bob Hallman, vice president of the Inter Fraternity Council, plans to make future reports on the activities of fraternities on campus and welcomes comments and/or ideas at 202 Theta Delta Chi, Box 7717, College Station, or ext. 4459.)

Mary Ferguson Remembered

A crab apple tree has been planted near Millington Hall in memory of Mary E. Ferguson, a biology student who was killed in an automobile accident, Nov. 7, 1980 during her senior year. Six senior biology students were selected earlier this year to receive Mary E. Ferguson Memorial research grants given by the Clayton-Grimes Biology Club. Pictured at the tree-planting ceremony (l-r) are Stanton F. Hoegerman, associate professor of biology and faculty adviser to the Biology Club, Mrs. Aileen Ferguson, Mary's mother, and her brother Andy Ferguson, class of 1976, and his wife, Jennifer Morris Ferguson, class of 1979, of Williamsburg.

Beta Gamma Sigma Taps 44 New Business Members

Forty-four business students from both undergraduate and graduate classes, have been inducted into the national business honorary fraternity, Beta Gamma Sigma.

Initiation ceremonies were held April 14 in the Wren Chapel. A reception and banquet honoring the new initiates was held following the induction ceremony. Speaker at the banquet was Dean Betty J. Diener from Old Dominion University.

New members from the class of 1981 include Charles E. Davis, Sarah B. Everton, Paul D. Gloth, David E. Grogan, James F. Hart, John W. Holsinger, Gregory V. Leatherwood, Susan E. Line, Sandra L. Mohr, Patricia A. Murphy, Leslie K. Perkins, Glenn J. Pfadenhauer, Ana Maria

Sanchez-Moreno, Randolph H. Sawyer, Barry J. Sharp and Steven J. Waltrich.

George E. Alford, Elizabeth A. Strock and Kristine Winegar were elected from the class of 1982.

Graduate initiates from the Master of Business Administration program include Philip C. Bonfanti, Karen L. Bowers, McCue K. Conway, George D. Dever, Phillip K. Gillespie, John R. Hutcheson, III, Arthur H. Jacoby, Dennis G. Kreter, Sheila P. Kocher, Lynn M. Korink, Ann E. Lippard, Nicholas M. Lovecchio, John K. McCulla, Richard W. Muenchow, Robert Parrino, Diana K. Reitz, William F. Rives, David B. Scott, Roger J. Seminar, Suzanne C. Thomas, Craig P. Treanor, Stephen R. Vick, Terry W. White, Robert L. Yerly and Sandra D. Yoder.

It's That Time Again

With the greening of spring, the dogwood and the tulips comes another yearly ritual. Daylight Savings Time officially comes in at 2 a.m. Sunday, April 26. Clocks should be set ahead one hour Saturday night.

Choir to Sing for Travel Funds

The William and Mary Choir will present a special concert, Wednesday, April 29, at 8 p.m. in the Virginia Room of the Williamsburg Lodge.

Tickets are $3.50 and will be available at the door the evening of the performance. Proceeds from the concert will go to the choir's European Tour fund. To date the singers have raised over $12,000 mainly through the sale of Christmas cards and packages of notepaper. Program for the concert will include Brahms' Motet, Opus 29, No. 2; selections from "The Peaceable Kingdom" by Randall Thompson as well as spirituals and folk songs.

The concert will feature two ensembles from the choir, the Men of the Choir and the Botetourt Singers.

The Choir will be under the direction of Frank T. Lendrim, professor of music. Special arrangements for the concert were made through the Williamsburg Lodge and Conference Center.

The Choir begins its second European tour Tuesday, May 19, with a flight from Washington to Paris. The choir will sing in Notre Dame Cathedral. Other stops on the continent will include Freiburg, Frankfurt and Cologne, Germany; Geneva, Switzerland and The Hague in The Netherlands.

The Choir will make several stops in England and will give concerts in Westminster Abbey, Canterbury Cathedral and Leeds Castle. Lord Geoffrey-Lloyd, chairman of the Leeds Castle Foundation, will give the visitors a tour of Leeds Castle as part of their visit. One of the early owners of the Castle, before his departure for America, was Lord Robert Fairfax.

The Duke of Norfolk, a visitor to the campus a few years ago, will show the choir his ancestral home, Arundel Castle, before the group goes on to a concert date at Hurstpierpoint College.

John Morgpurgo, an alumnus and Professor of English at Leeds University, will be in the audience for a concert at Christ's Hospital School where he is a trustee. Morgpurgo is the author of "Their Majesties' Royall Colledge," a history of William and Mary during the Seventeenth and Eighteenth Centuries.

The Choir will also sing at St. Mary's Church in Burton Somerset from which Bruton Parish Church takes its name.
