Ross Gift Establishes Renick Memorial Award

A local retired businessman and real estate developer has given a substantial interest in the Green Springs Trust of Virginia to the College to honor the late Dewey C. Renick and his widow, Fern Cooley Renick.

George Taylor Ross, who worked side by side with Renick to negotiate the sale of land for Busch Properties and the Anheuser-Busch brewery, has contributed his share of the historic property to establish the Dewey C. Renick and Fern C. Renick Memorial Award. The new award will be given annually to an outstanding student who demonstrates the talent, dedication and potential of a Rhodes Scholar.

Ross has contributed his share of the Green Springs Trust, valued at over $215,000 to the College. Mrs. Renick has added an interest in the property of $34,000, bringing the total of the College's new holdings to nearly $250,000.

Green Springs was once the homeplace of Virginia's Royal Governor, Sir William Berkeley, and as such, the area's center of social, political and cultural activity. Dating from 1650, the palatial manor served as a meeting place for the General Assembly and as capitol of the colony in 1691. Although the manor house itself was destroyed during the early eighteenth century, the foundation has been carefully uncovered by archaeologists and plans have been established to reconstruct the manor. The National Park Service purchased 190 acres, including the house site, and 1,500 acres of the heavily-wooded plantation are scheduled to become a planned community development, managed by the Green Springs Trust.

Renick was one of Williamsburg's leading citizens until his death at age 78 in 1976. He was a farmer, lumberman, land developer and appraiser, and civic leader.

A native of Callaway, Va., Renick attended the College in 1915, and later served as national chairman of William and Mary's Friends of the College group. He was a member, Ruling Elder and trustee at Jamestown Presbyterian Church; a member of the James City County School Board for 25 years; a member and treasurer of Williamsburg Community Hospital; a retired director of United Virginia Bank and the Peninsula Bank and Trust Company; and a charter member of the Exchange Club of Williamsburg.

Renick was instrumental in the establishment of a zoning ordinance for the county when he served as a chairman of the James City County Planning Committee from 1954 to 1971. During World War II, he served as Williamsburg's rent control administrator.

Renick was over 70 years old when his friend, Ross, introduced him to the Anheuser-Busch official whom Ross brought to Williamsburg. Renick then worked out the details for the settlement of Anheuser-Busch in James City County. To date, the firm has invested in excess of $300 million to establish Busch Properties, the Anheuser-Busch brewery, and Busch Garden's "The Old Country" theme park.

Mrs. Renick has been active in Williamsburg community affairs, working with the American Cancer Society, the Jamestown Presbyterian Church, and the district board of the Tuberculosis Association.

Ross, who attended Oxford University in England as a Rhodes Scholar, has had an interesting 50-year career, much of which was spent in public service. During the 1930's, Ross worked actively to secure the nomination and election of Franklin D. Roosevelt. He then served as deputy administrator for the National Recovery Administration and one of the President's liaisons between the White House and Congress.

Ross was executive vice president of Haskelite Manufacturing Company in Grand Rapids, Mich., and during World War II was president of Langley

E*S*C*O*R*T Coming Back

Plans are underway to get the campus escort service operational again beginning Wednesday, Oct. 14.

Both men and women volunteers are needed to answer the phone and to assist in escorting students on campus during the evening hours.

In informational meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 8, in Landrum Hall, first floor lobby. All interested persons are encouraged to attend.

Anyone not able to attend the meeting but interested in helping is asked to call either Brent Kelly at 220-3622, or Mark Cemy at ext. 4364.

Newsmakers

Judith Ewell, associate professor of history, will serve as commentator for a session on "New Socialist Perspectives" at a conference on "The Role of Venezuela in the Caribbean and Central America, Present and Future." The conference, sponsored by the Center for Latin American Studies of the University of Pittsburgh, will be held on Oct. 6 and 7.

Also, Ewell is the author of a book, The Indictment of a Dictator: the Career of Marcos Perez Jimenez, to be published in October by the Texas A&M University Press.

George W. Grayson, professor of government, has signed a contract with Praeger Publishers to complete a book on The United States and Mexico: Limits of Influence, to be published next summer. Recent essays by Grayson on Mexico and U.S.-Mexican relations have appeared in The Christian Science Monitor (July 8), Newsday (June 8), The Baltimore Sun (August #16, September 20), The Washington Star (August 4), The Miami Herald (August 29), and The San Diego Union (July 25). On September 17, Grayson appeared on the television program, The Power Game, produced by the Maryland Center for Public Broadcasting and shown in 25 cities across the country.

Bruce K. Goodwin, professor of geology, has had a geologic map and text entitled "Geology of the Glen Allen quadrangle, Virginia" published by the Virginia Division of Mineral Resources.

Miles Chappell, professor of fine arts, has been elected for a second three-year term to the Board of Directors of the Southeastern College Art Conference (known as SECAC) the organization of universities and colleges teaching art and art history in the region bounded by Virginia, Florida, Arkansas and Kentucky. Chappell recently had an essay placing an Italian portrait in the context of 16th century Mannerist portraiture in the new catalogue Italian Paintings at the Baltimore Museum of Art.

Cliff Gauthier, assistant professor of physical education, was recently featured on the season's premier of the Who, What and How Do You Know television program. Film clips from his age-group gymnastics program highlighted the presentation.

An article by Louis E. Catron, professor of theatre, makes its second appearance in print this fall. Titled "Guidelines for the Beginning Playwright," it first appeared in Dramatics magazine last spring. It now is in the current issue of The Writer (November). The latter's editors saw the article in Dramatics and wrote to ask for reprint rights. "Guidelines for the Beginning Playwright" started as a handout for Catron's classes in Playwriting.

Mario D. Zamora, professor of anthropology, was invited last June to serve as external examiner for the Ph.D. in anthropology by the University of Toronto's graduate program in anthropology. While in Canada, Zamora was honored with a luncheon by Toronto's specialists in Philippine and Southeast Asian studies. Dr. Zamora was recently appointed review editor of South Asian Anthropologist, official journal of the Sarat Chandra Roy Institute of Anthropological Studies, Ranchi, Bihar, India. His paper entitled "The Inner View: Change and Mobility in a Luzon Community," was the lead article in Indian Anthropologist, Indian Anthropological Association, Vol. 10, No. 2, Dec. 1980. His paper entitled "Themes and Trends in American Anthropology . . ." appeared in Multiverse, Institute of Oriental and Orissan Studies, Cuttack, Orissa, India, Vol. 1, April 1981. Zamora is also author of the following reviews published in this country and abroad: Eric O. Ayisi's book An Introduction to the Study of African Culture, 1979 appeared in Anthropos, St. Augustin, West Germany; Isabel Panopie, et. al. General Sociology: Focus on the Philippines published in International Journal of Comparative Sociology, Leiden, The Netherlands; S. Chandrasekhar's The Nagarathars of South India: An Essay and a Bibliography on the Nagarathars in India and South-East Asia, 1980 in the International Journal of Asian Studies, Vol. 1, 1981, Ranchi University, India; Serena Nanda's Cultural Anthropology 1980 (translated into Portuguese by Raquel German) in Revista Brasileira de Sociologia, Brazilian Sociological Association, Sao Paulo, Brazil; Renato Rosaldo's Ilongot Headhunting . . . in Anthropological Quarterly, Catholic University of America, July 1981. His review of Doreen G. Fernandez's Iloilo Zarzuela . . . is scheduled to appear in Journal of Oriental Studies, Centre for Asian Studies, University of Hong Kong. His reviews of T. Thoresen, editor, Toward a Science of Man: Essays in the History of Anthropology and John V. Murra, editor, American Anthropology: The Early Years were published in the Association of Third World Anthropologists Research Bulletin, Vol. 2, No. 1, 1980, a journal founded by Dr. Zamora at the College of William and Mary.

Jesse S. Tarleton, associate professor of business administration, has had two papers accepted for presentation at meetings in October. The first, "The Importance of Planning for Development of Foreign Markets by Small and Medium-Sized Manufacturing Firms," will be given at the annual meeting of the Academy of International Business in Montreal. The other paper, "Identification of Internal Factors that Contribute to Planning for New Product Development Among Small and Medium-Sized Firms," will be delivered at the Annual Conference of the Product Development and Management Association in Chicago. Both papers were co-authored by Professor George Tesar of the University of Wisconsin at Whitewater.

Archaeology Meeting

The Greater Williamsburg Chapter Archaeological Society of Virginia will meet at 8 p.m., Friday, Oct. 9, in Bruton Parish Hall.

Following a brief business meeting, Howard MacCord, Sr., executive director, of the Archaeological Society of Virginia, will speak about ongoing archaeological activities in Virginia during 1981.

Refreshments will follow the meeting.

Thad Tate's review of Paul G.E. Clemens, The Atlantic Economy and Colonial Maryland's Eastern Shore: From Tobacco to Grain and Daniel Blake Smith, Inside the Great House: Planter Family Life in Eighteenth-Century Chesapeake Society, appeared in the September issue of The Journal of American History.

Currie To Attend Library Program

College Librarian Clifford Currie is one of the guests invited to the 250th birthday celebration of The Library

Company of Philadelphia. In celebration of the anniversary, the Library Company will host a "Quarter of a Millennium" international symposium, Oct. 14-16.

President Graves is a member of the Honorary Committee for the anniversary celebration.

The Library Company was founded in 1731 by Benjamin Franklin, who received the first honorary degree awarded by William and Mary, and his associates, and served as the de facto library of Congress from 1774 to 1800.

Roof Work Begins

Work will start within a week on necessary roof replacement work at James Blair Hall. Work will also be undertaken at Washington Hall, William Small Hall and, after all asbestos work is completed, at Millington Hall.

In announcing the beginning of the roofing project, James C. Connolly, director facilities planning and construction, said the work was part of a planned replacement program.

Debaters Take On British Champions

The William and Mary Debate Council is issuing an invitation to the College community to participate as the William and Mary team takes on the British National Champions in two public debates.

The first debate will be held at 7 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 7, in the Wren Chapel. Topic under debate will be, "Resolved: That Modern Man is a Loser by his Rejection of Religious Faith," and will feature debaters Scott Jenkins and Kevin Gough against the British team of Clark McGinn and Mark Bishop.

The second debate will be held later that evening at 10:30 p.m. in Chowning's Tavern on Duke of Gloucester Street. The topic for this debate will be, "Resolved: That This House Regrets the Passing of the British Empire," debating for William and Mary will be Colin Buckley and Scott Jenkins.

Career Planning Sets Workshop

The Office of Career Planning will present a workshop for students who wish assistance with career decisions. Self assessment, skill identification, and career exploration will be discussed. No registration required. This workshop will be held on Oct. 8 from 3-4:30 p.m. in Tucker Room 213.

Derby Day Nets $4,000 for Charity

Frank Roberts reports that Derby Day 1981 was one of the most successful ever. Sigma Chi fraternity hopes to net $4,000 for Wallace Village for minimally brain damaged children in Boulder, Colo. Last year a little over $2,000 was raised by Derby Day events.

Phi Mu sorority was the top fund raising unit, turning over $1,250 to the cause. Second was Pi Beta Phi and Gamma Phi Beta, both raising $500. Alpha Chi Omega was third with $450 raised and Delta Delta Delta, fourth with $400.

In the competitions, some of which may set new records in the games books, the defending champion Tri Delt was edged out by Phi Mu. Gamma Phi Beta was third. Contests included a poster competition, a hold-a-note sing won by Tri Delt, an egg toss with greased palms, a balloon bust, a zip strip, musical ice buckets, five-legged races and fruit salad and a bat spin.

Those who helped Roberts plan the Derby Day events include David Ness, Ron Andrews, Milan Turk, Ken Holder, Steve Biesese, Vince Sullivan, Phil Dawson, Vic Maccagnan, Greg Taylor, Gary Faircloth, J.P. Ottoway and Bob Skelly from Sigma Chi, and Sue Hammerland who designed the T-shirts.

Welin To Speak

Dr. Herbert Welin, editor of Urban Edge, official paper of the World Bank, will give a talk at 11 a.m., Friday, Oct. 9, in room 111 of Washington Hall under the auspices of the department of anthropology.

Welin will discuss urbanization, especially in the Third World. Welin obtained his doctorate in political science from State University of New York in Stony Brook. Welin is a Rhodes scholar and was also an Adlai Stevenson Fellow to the United Nations. Before assuming his present post as editor, he was on the faculty of the government department of the University of Maryland in Baltimore.

Mario Zamora, professor of anthropology, is handling arrangements for Welin's visit.

Ross Gift

Aviation Corporation in New York City. As United States Commissioner to the International Chamber of Commerce from 1945-49, Ross traveled frequently between New York and Paris offices during the planning of the nation's international business, economic and financial strategies for the critical post-war period.

When the Truman administration created its Point IV Program in the State Department to help revive underdeveloped countries after World War II, Ross was asked to set up the Industry and Public Administration Divisions. His responsibilities included extensive negotiations and speaking engagements in many countries.

Later he served as executive director of the Inter-American Center Authority of the State of Florida.

Ross and his wife, Mary Steele Ross, have taken courses at the College since retiring in Williamsburg a little over a year ago.

Stang of Utah Next Speaker for Seminar

Peter J. Stang, professor of chemistry at the University of Utah, will speak on "Cancer Chemotherapy and Organic Chemistry," at the Applied Chemistry Seminar at 6:30 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 8, in the William George Guy Lecture Hall (Rogers 100).

A noted authority in the field of organic chemistry, Stang has done research in kinetics and mechanisms of organic reactions, reactive intermediates, unsaturated cations and carbenes. He is also interested in molecular studies in both medicine and biology.

A native of Germany, Stang was educated at DePaul University and the University of California at Berkeley. He was a National Institute of Health Fellow in chemistry at Princeton University from 1966-68, and joined the faculty of the University of Utah in 1968.

Speaker for the seminar Nov. 4 is Nobel Laureate H.C. Brown of the department of chemistry at Purdue University, who will take as the title of his talk "Boron Chemistry: A Nobel Lecture."

The final lecture in the current series will be given Nov. 12, by Robert Abeles of the department of biochemistry at Brandeis University, who will speak on "Suicide Enzyme Inactivators."

U.N. Day Dinner Planned Oct. 25

The Honorable Neville Kanakarathne, former Ambassador to the United States from the Republic of Sri Lanka, and currently legal officer of United

United Nations Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, will be speaker at a United Nations Day dinner and program planned by the International Circle, assisted by the International Law Society, the International Relations Club, the South Asia Society and civic groups from the Williamsburg area.

Ambassador Kanakarathne will discuss current issues and problems of the United Nations at a dinner to be held from 6 to 8 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 25, in the Campus Center Ballroom.

Entertainment at the dinner will include a program of folk dances.

Detailed information on the dinner program may be obtained from Thomas Wong, president, International Circle, or Mario D. Zamora, professor of anthropology, both at ext. 4341.

President's Ball To Be Held In Garden

The Student Association has revived a traditional event which has not been held since the 1930's.

A formal dance - The President's Ball - will be held in the Sunken Garden, Friday, Oct. 16, to honor President and Mrs. Graves and salute their 10 years at William and Mary.

The Ball was a campaign promise and goal of Student Association President Randolph Beales. The Ball has been scheduled to coincide with the festivities surrounding the bicentennial of the victory at the Battle of Yorktown.

Tickets for the Ball are $5 per person and are now on sale at the Campus Center front desk. Dress is formal; black tie optional.

SA Vice President Sandy Smith is in charge of planning for the ball. The Kings of Swing will play for dancers. This band specializes in a traditional big band sound and is familiar locally because of its numerous performances at the Champagne Ball each May.

The Student Association is not planning the Ball as a money making project. "Our hope is that the President's Ball will once again become an annual event at William and Mary," said Beales. Beales added that the SA expects that the enthusiasm generated and the precedent set by the Ball will more than make up for any loss in revenue.

Portfolio on Display in Zollinger

A unique portfolio of 17 lithographs of cats by the Dutch artist Karel Appel, entitled "Cats," is currently on display in the Zollinger Museum in Swem Library, until Nov. 26.

The gallery is open daily Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. and on Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 12:45 p.m.

The portfolio was a gift to the College Art Collection from Richard E. Sikorski '68, in 1979.

Appel's work is included in major private and museum collections both here and abroad. Of his work, Appel says, "I portray my vision of those things on that single moment which surpasses time and place; only those details, the 'brush strokes' which connote the emotional strength of the scene are reproduced and as directly as possible, without any vagueness. It evokes what cannot be expressed in words."

Karel Appel was born in Amsterdam in 1921. He has lived in Paris since 1950. He studied at the Royal Academy in Amsterdam and was a founder-member of a Dutch experimental group, which became part of the Cobra group. In 1951 he became associated with the Art Informal group. In 1958 he painted murals for the Dutch Pavilion at the Brussels World's Fair and for the UNESCO Building in Paris.

Appel's heavily textured canvases with their waves of swirling forms in bright contrasting colors are charged with an elemental and explosive energy that recalls the last paintings of Van Gogh. Appel's automatist procedures often induce the suggestion of primordial creatures and masklike faces.

Student Hour

President Graves will be in his office on Thursday, Oct. 8 from 4-5 p.m. to talk with students. No appointment is necessary.

State Department Internship

The Bureau of European Affairs is making plans for its summer 1982 Student-Intern Program, and is seeking candidates from political, economic and administrative management areas. This program is designed to give the student an opportunity to obtain first-hand knowledge of the foreign affairs process. Students will work under the supervision of a Bureau Officer in an area of personal interest and will also have the opportunity to become familiar with other Bureaus and Agencies of the government. All applications must be received at the Bureau by Oct. 31. Interested students can obtain more information at the Office of Extramural Programs, The Brafferton 3rd floor, ext. 4354.

Debaters Compete at Military Academy

Debaters Beth McGaffey and Colin Guckley finished in the top eight at the U.S. Military Academy tournament this weekend at West Point.

McGaffey, a sophomore, and Buckley, a senior, were 6-2 in the preliminaries. They beat teams from the University of Pennsylvania, St. Johns of New York, Seton Hall and M.I.T. In the quarterfinal round they lost to a team from Seton Hall on a 2-1 decision from the judges. Going into the tournament the team was seeded sixth.

Pat Micken, chairman of the department of theatre and speech, who accompanied the debaters, characterized the competition as tough.

Topic for debaters is, "Resolved: The Federal Government should significantly curtail the powers of labor unions in the United States."

INFORMATION OFFICER A (Grade 8)

Salary range $13,386 to $18,280 per year. Starting salary dependent upon experience and previous salary level of the appointee. This is a restricted position. #128 Qualifications - College graduate with major in journalism or related field. Experience in writing semi-technical articles preferred. Ability to edit technical reports and articles helpful. Location VIMS (Advisory Services Department). Deadline 10/12.

***Promotional opportunity only for hourly or classified employee of the College of William and Mary/Virginia Institute of Marine Science.

The musicians will play for big circle and Appalachian square dancing and will not stray beyond the Appalachian style. Western style square dancing will not be included.

Admission at the door will be $2 per person; $3 for couples.

An added bonus at the dance will be an introduction to clogging by Jean Sandos of Williamsburg, organizer of the clogging group, Reel Virginia, which recently returned from a very successful tour of the British Isles. Both Reel and FOAM will entertain at an Occasion for the Arts, Sunday, Oct. 4.

The members of FOAM meet each week during the school year to learn old-time Appalachian square dance tunes. Members play the fiddle, clawhammer, banjo, guitar, mandolin, hammered and lap dulcimers, accordion and concertina as well as string bass.

Faculty advisor to the group is Dr. Stephen C. Clement of the geology department faculty, who has developed an interest in Appalachian music through summer courses at the Augusta Heritage Arts Festival in Elkins, W. Va. He has been playing the banjo for eight years, the fiddle for three.

The Friends of Appalachian Music play at various college and community functions and serve as hosts for several concerts a year by musical groups.

They will sponsor a concert by TRAPEZOID, Thursday, Oct. 8.
