Faculty Ingenuity Saves Lab Courses in Biology

The College learned last week that the contractor would be unable to meet his promised deadline of Oct. 19 to complete the asbestos removal in Millington and Morton Halls. The anticipated completion date for Millington is late October, while Morton is not expected to be completed until mid-November.

Taking innovative and unprecedented steps, professors in the Biology Department, the program most affected by the delays, have located several spaces on campus and are working to supply those spaces with equipment needed to conduct laboratories for five courses beginning as early as next week.

"When we learned that we were not going to get back into Millington by Oct. 19, we immediately began looking for alternate spaces and evaluating what to do with the new space," said

Stewart Ware, chairman of the biology department. Mitchell Byrd and Gamett Brooks, Jr., will use the basement of Tucker Hall to teach their respective labs in Comparative Anatomy and Vertebrate Biology.

"Richard Terman also agreed to give up some of his research space in the Population Research Laboratory," located near Marshall-Wythe, according to Ware. Labs in Aquatic Ecology, taught by Gregory Capelli, and Invertebrate Biology, taught by Gregg Kormanick, will be held there.

Faculty members Brad Coursen, who teaches Mechanisms of Microbial Activity, and Stanton Hoegerman, who teaches Cytogenetics, are looking into the possibility of using Tyler dorm for their labs, which is not being used this fall. Ware said that he and Norman Fashing, who have both been

Carter Updates Asbestos Project

From: William J. Carter
Vice President for Business Affairs

Subject: Revised Schedule for Completion of Asbestos Project

Spinazzolo Systems Incorporated, the contracting firm which has been performing the asbestos removal from Millington and Morton Halls since early June, has provided the College with revised dates for the completion of the project.

The new date for completion and return of Millington Hall to the College is eight working days from October 20, or October 28. The new date for Morton Hall is nineteen working days from October 20, or November 9. These revised target dates are predicated on the contractor working seven days a week and we are doing all we can to ensure that work schedule. If the contractor fails again to commit to a seven day work week, the completion dates will be further delayed by four and six days, respectively.

This latest revision in completion dates has been caused by the need for the contractor to accomplish the extensive decontamination work in the final cleaning of the fireproofing debris and dust on the third and second floors of Millington Hall. The amount of extra cleaning effort exceeded the contractor's earlier estimate, but this procedure is absolutely essential to provide the College with a thoroughly decontaminated building, free of a potential health hazard.

Although this condition requires a further delay in completion of the project within the latest target deadline, we must accept the revised target deadline if we are to avoid any remaining health hazard. We have always maintained that the primary concern of the College is that the buildings must be completely safe when the work is completed.

All of us are aware that the wear and tear on members of the faculty from Millington and Morton Halls has been significant. Many have had to make unexpected revisions in their course or redesign laboratory exercises. We sincerely appreciate the sacrifices which have been made by the faculty and we acknowledge with great respect their professional ability to cope with this unfortunate dislocation on the academic enterprise. We offer our apologies and request their continuing understanding of the circumstances responsible for this situation.

We also must acknowledge the significant dislocation on the students, whose schedules and courses have been disrupted.

Finally, we ask that the faculty and the students have just a little more patience as we proceed to achieve the completion of this project within the revised deadline dates.

Trudeau to Talk May 16

Commencement Speaker Is Doonesbury's Creator

Garry B. Trudeau, creator of the comic strip "Doonesbury," will be commencement speaker for 1982.

The first comic strip artist to receive the Pulitzer Prize for editorial cartooning in 1975, Trudeau will come to William and Mary with great enthusiasm and support from the senior class. "Everyone is very excited about the choice," said class president Lauri Brewer.

Trudeau was selected by students from a list of 20 names which had been culled from an original field of 60. "I can't see anyone being unhappy," said Brewer of Trudeau's selection. In a cover story in 1976, Time Magazine described Trudeau at his best, "a Hogarth in a hurry, a satirist who brings political comment back to the comic pages."

A graduate of Yale University and Yale University School of Art and Architecture, Trudeau drew his first comic strip soon after entering Yale in 1966. It wasn't until his junior year that he showed editors of the Yale Daily News his sketches for a proposed cartoon strip. In the fall of 1968 the first installments of "Bull Tales" appeared poking fun at everything from campus mixers to campus revolutionaries and football huddles. John McMeel and Jim Andrews, who were about to launch the Universal Press Syndicate, talked Trudeau into distributing his cartoons nationally.

"Bull Tales" was changed to "Doonesbury, an amalgam of two words: doone, an old prep-school term for someone who is out to lunch, and Pillsbury, after Trudeau's roommate at Yale, flour-fortune heir Charles Pillsbury.

Mason Visiting Professor Plans November Lectures

What began as a comparison of the two wings of Judaism in the first two centuries, the Hebrew Language Judaism and the Greek Language Judaism, evolved into a major scholarly work about Paul and Judaism that has won international recognition.

The author, E.P. Sanders, is currently the Walter G. Mason Visiting Professor of Religion for the fall semester.

Paul and Palestinian Judaism, which was published in 1977, has been awarded the National Religious Book Award both in the scholarly and Biblical categories. It also was one of ten books from all disciplines selected for the Outstanding Academic Book List for 1977 by Choice magazine. It is being translated into German. The Italian translation is in the press.

Sanders explains that his original intent had been a comparative study; but he found, when he began his research into the Hebrew Language Judaism, that it had been so badly misdescribed by most New Testament scholars that an entire new description was needed in this area before any comparative analysis with other forms of Judaism could be undertaken. He elected to compare Palestinian Judaism with Paul because Paul's letters have survived for historical scrutiny, he was Jewish, and he claimed of himself that he was a Pharisee.

Sanders is currently working on two other books and teaching a course here. In January he will begin a year as Visiting Fellow at Trinity College, Cambridge, with a brief tenure as Visiting Professor at Trinity College, Dublin.

Sanders will give two public lectures here this semester, at 8 p.m., Nov. 10 and 17, in the Guy auditorium of Rogers Hall. Overall topic of his lectures will be "Judaism and Christianity in the First Century." His first lecture on Nov. 10 will be entitled "Paul and the Divorce of Judaism and Christianity." His second lecture on Nov. 17 will be entitled "Christians and Judaism: Does the Split Go Back to Jesus?"

An interest in the Church, a love of literature and a curiosity about historical studies led Sanders to his present field of study. He has received wide recognition for his scholarly contributions. In 1980, he was the first Gentile to teach at the Jewish Theological Seminary in New York. He was also working with doctoral students at Union Theological Seminary and Columbia University. He was Visiting Professor, Chair of Judeo-Christian Studies, Tulane University, in the fall of 1980.

Home base for Sanders is McMaster University, Ontario, Canada, where he has been a member of the faculty since 1966. As principal applicant and director of a grant from the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada (roughly the equivalent of the National Endowment for the Humanities) he has been instrumental in the development of programs in Judaism and Christianity at McMaster between 1976-81.

The grant, says Sanders, was to his knowledge, the largest ever given for the furtherance of religious studies. The original grant was for a little over $708,000, but with supplements amounted to over three-quarters of a million dollars.

Funds from the Council, says Sanders, "allowed us to complete our faculty in the field called 'Judaism and Christianity in the Greco-Roman Era.' We now have four full-time faculty members, two in Judaism and two in Christianity; and our program is the only one known to me which studies Judaism and Christianity equally during the same period.

"The grant also allowed us to have temporary appointments in several aspects of the general field. It paid for three conferences, supported several graduate students and provided secretarial and editorial support staff." As a result of the five year period of research, approximately 20 books and 80 articles have been or will be published.

Sanders himself is the author of two books, is preparing two more for publication and is editor of a three-volume work on Jewish and Christian self-definition. The first volume, published in 1980, is devoted to the shaping of Christianity in the second and third centuries; the second volume, published this year, deals with aspects of Judaism in the Greco-Roman Period; the third, now in the press, deals with pagan schools and cults in the first two centuries.

He has also written numerous scholarly papers on the Synoptic Gospels, Paul, Judaism and Christianity, and Judaism. He presented a paper entitled "Attitudes Toward Jews and Judaism in Early Christian Writings," at the National Conference of Christians and Jews in 1978.

Sanders hopes his book of Paul will destroy the dominant Christian description of Judaism as a religion of ritualistic righteousness where one earns salvation by merit. It is a view of Judaism which has prevailed in Christian scholarship for well over 100 years. It is wrong and it doesn't rest on sources but on bias, Sanders claims, "and it is high time it was destroyed."

The Paul of his book, says Sanders, is a different Paul from the common view and shows his opposition to Judaism's doctrine of election and the claim that God chose the Jews as his people to the exclusion of the Gentiles. Paul, says Sanders, wanted all to be on equal footing.

Sanders is also working on a book about Jesus and Judaism which will be finished next July. He has been distracted by a second book on Paul which goes into Paul's life in more detail than the first book did. In his book on Jesus, Sanders again takes up a controversy, this time the controversy between Jesus and his contemporaries. "What, if anything, led to such a severe conflict with his contemporaries that he was killed?" asks Sanders. Some have proposed, he said, that the Romans just saw a little tumult and they stepped in and killed him. That is a conceivable view, if you know only the outcome of the story, he contends. "In the border provinces the Romans wouldn't wait too long to keep law and order, nor would they be especially gentle. The fact that Jesus was crucified by the Romans has been taken to mean that the real conflict was with the Romans.

"I think historians should seriously investigate the debates between Jesus and his contemporaries in Judaism and ask themselves if there is anything in those debates which would make the leaders of Judaism fighting mad," says Sanders. Sanders discounts debates over Jesus' interpretation of the dietary code and the keeping of the Sabbath as major points of contention. Jesus did cause a major rift when he attacked the basic notion of the covenant and argued that the wicked among the Jews should be included in it. Not only did he argue that, he demonstrated it by associating with known wicked people, says Sanders. The term wicked, he explains, had bite in the first century and was not applied to people who occasionally committed a transgression but to someone who blantly sinned.

The people who were named in the Gospels as associating with Jesus, and who he said were first in the Kingdom of Heaven, were prostitutes and traitors, especially the tax collectors who would be described in modern terms as collaborators, those working with the occupying force. "When you put these people first, that would make the normal members (of Judaism) more than mildly irritated because it represents the denial of everything they believe in."

A Texan from Grand Prairie, Sanders graduated summa cum laude in English and French from Texas Wesleyan College, Fort Worth, and received a B.D., also summa cum laude, from Southern Methodist University. He studied German and the New Testament at Goettingen, Germany in 1962 and from 1962-63 was a student of Rabbinic Hebrew and the New Testament at Oxford University. He spent the summer of 1963 in Jerusalem studying modern Hebrew and for the next three years worked toward a Doctor of Theology at Union Theological Seminary under a Rockefeller Doctoral Fellowship. He went back to Jerusalem to study Rabbinic literature in 1968-69 under a Canada-Council Post-Doctoral Fellowship.

After his year in England and Ireland, Sanders plans to return to McMaster, where in addition to his teaching duties, he is a member of the program committee of the Society of Biblical Literature and on the editorial board of the Studiorum Novi Testamenti Societas. He was chairman of the department of religion 1969-71 at McMaster and Associate Dean of Graduate Studies 1971-74.

Geithman Wins Nimmo Award

James P. Geithman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hester M. Geithman, Jr. of Newport News, has been awarded the first Anna Belle Koenig Nimmo Foreign Service Scholarship Award at the College of William and Mary.

Geithman, a senior majoring in government and international relations, will be commissioned a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army in May and will spend four years in military service. He plans to pursue a career in foreign service after his Army stint is completed.

The award was initially funded by an Endowment established by Mrs. Anne Belle Koenig Nimmo '45. The fund provides income to be used by the government department to provide awards to motivate outstanding students toward careers in the foreign service of the United States. Mrs. Nimmo stated that it was her wish that recipients of this award be selected on the basis of scholarship and a sincere desire to pursue a career in the foreign service.

Mrs. Nimmo has previously established an endowment supported in the disciplines of theater and music. The Foreign Service provides Geithman with $600 for educational expenses during the second semester this year.

Ms. Laurie Johnson, class of 1974, whose major field of study was government and who has, since her graduation, pursued a career in the foreign service, has also contributed to the award fund. Ms. Johnson is presently serving in the United States Embassy in Portugal.

A graduate of Denbigh High School, Geithman is a member of the ROTC program at William and Mary. He is a company commander and Cadet Captain and Sergeant Major of the Queens Guard.

Geithman is also a member of Pi Sigma Alpha government honorary

Fallen French Honored at Wreath-Laying Ceremony

Members of the French forces who died at the College during the last days of the War for Independence were honored at a memorial service Friday, Oct. 16, as part of the official schedule of events planned for the American Victory Celebration.

About 200 people gathered in the Wren Yard at 3 p.m. for the half-hour military ceremony in which both French and American military representatives participated. Dr. Edward E. Brickell, Rector of the College, presided.

The ceremony opened with the parading of the colors by the French color guard, consisting of members of the 99th Infantry Regiment, one of the regiments involved in the Battle of Yorktown, and the American color guard, made up of members of the honor guard from Ft. Eustis. A French Marine Band played the national anthems of both nations as members of the delegations saluted the flags.

In welcoming remarks, Dr. Brickell called the memorial service one of "renewal" and "reconsecration" and said that Americans must constantly remember the sacrifices made to insure American freedom.

Brig. Gen. Michel de Noray, French Army Attache in Washington, D.C., spoke on behalf of the French delegation. He reminded the audience that "among the 12,600 French soldiers who took part in these battles, one out of six died on the American soil and never returned to France."

However, added Noray, "their sacrifice paved the way for a lasting friendship between France and America, which has been renewed and given deeper meaning in this century through America's decisive contribution in two World Wars to the liberation of French soil and to our common victory."

On behalf of the College, Dr. Brickell presented members of the French delegation with a medal from the Society of the Alumni. To Gen. Noray, Dr. Brickell presented a leather-bound copy of Their Majesties' Royall Colledge, which chronicles the French contribution to the war effort and their relationship with the College.

Members of the French delegation participating in the ceremonies included Mr. Etienne Dailly, Vice President of the Senate of the Republic of France, who presented a wreath on behalf of the governing body; Capitaine de Frigate Jean-Charles LeFebvre, Commanding Officer, Georges Leygues; Col. Paul Roux, Commanding Officer of the 99th Infantry Regiment; the Comte and the Comtesse Michael de Rochambeau; the Marquis and the Marquise Jean-Pierre de Chambrun; and the Rev. Father Reginald de Rocquois.

Venture Programs Offer Students Study Alternatives

Do you need a time-out? VENTURE is an innovative program designed for the student who is looking for something else in his/her college experience. If you are considering taking some time off from school to gain valuable work experience, why not try VENTURE? The College VENTURE Program can help you find a full- or part-time job in an area that interests you. All interested students are invited to attend an informational meeting on Wednesday, Oct. 21, at 3 p.m. in the Campus Center - Room D. For more information contact the Office of Extramural Programs, The Brafferton, ext. 4354.

The presentation of the colors was part of the rededication of the French Plaque at the Wren Building Friday afternoon by representatives of the French government who are attending the Bicentennial celebration in Yorktown.

Reception Held for Delegates at President's House

After the wreath-laying ceremonies at the Wren Building honoring members of the French forces, President and Mrs. Graves hosted the French delegation at an impromptu reception at the President's House.

One couple from the delegation stressed their delight at being guests of the College. Together, the Comte and Comtesse Michael de Rochambeau have developed an enthusiasm for all things American that is hard to resist.

A descendent of the Comte de Rochambeau who commanded the French forces during the War for Independence, the present Comte expressed surprise when told by Mrs. Graves that his ancestor had been instrumental in securing funds to rebuild the President's House after it was destroyed in a fire accidentally caused by French soldiers in 1781.

"I just this minute learned of it," said the Comte when asked by reporters if he knew of Rochambeau's relationship to the College. "I shall have to learn more of it."

When asked by a reporter what their impression of the United States was, the Comtesse replied promptly, "Very good. Everyone has been so welcoming to us."

The Comte was eager to echo his wife's sentiments and to add a few of his own. He is effusive in his praise for America, adding that he and the Comtesse have celebrated many American holidays over the years. They have attended several Yorktown Day celebrations in the past and were even married on the Fourth of July. They visited Washington, D.C., on their last wedding anniversary, said the Comte, and had previously visited this area during the July Fourth bicentennial celebrations in 1976.

Although the Comte admitted that his English was "not good," after five minutes with the charming Frenchman, few of the Americans around him seemed to care. Warm and smiling with a kind of movie star charisma, the Comte related stories of his previous visits to the U.S. with an ease that most foreigners would envy.

The Comte is the owner of the Chateau de Rochambeau, an estate in Vendome, France, where his famous ancestor died in 1807. This year, according to the Comte, he and his wife have hosted several Virginians, including Gov. and Mrs. John N. Dalton on June 28. In September, the Comte and Comtesse hosted Mr. and Mrs. Lewis A. McMurrin, Jr., and the Rev. and Mrs. Cotesworth Pinckney Lewis at the Chateau de Rochambeau. Vice President George Bush also visited the Rochambeaus recently, laying a wreath on the grave of the famous general.

Mrs. Graves welcomes the Comte and Comtesse Michael de Rochambeau, at the President's House.

Official Memorandum

Uniform Accident Prevention Program

In response to the Governor's Executive Order #51, dated July 8, 1981, and subsequent instructions related to that Order from the Department of State Police, the attached Uniform Accident Prevention Program has been developed, and is effective upon the date of this publication.

Questions regarding this Program should be directed to Richard Cumbee, Director of Campus Police, Extension 4596.

Employees at the College of William and Mary have the right to operate State-owned or College-owned vehicles in the performance of their official duties. However, College employees are required by Virginia law to possess a currently valid Virginia vehicle operator's license in order to operate a vehicle owned by or assigned to the College. Students may drive College or State vehicles only when on official business for the College. Students, not employed by the College, must possess a currently valid operator's license, although not necessarily a Virginia operator's license. It is the responsibility of supervisors to insure that their employees and student operators possess a valid operator's license and are familiar with the contents of this policy before permitting them to use a College or State vehicle.

Operators of pool vehicles must comply with all Central Garage Pool Regulations. Operators of College-owned vehicles have the responsibility to know and abide by the motor vehicle laws of Virginia.

Any person who operates a State or College vehicle should display courteous driving habits at all times. Operators should practice defensive driving by observing and anticipating the actions of other drivers and controlling their vehicles in such a manner as to avoid accident involvement.

Individuals who operate State or College vehicles on other than official agency business, or in such a manner that may bring discredit to the College, may be subject to disciplinary action.

"Hitchhikers" should not be picked up by operators of College vehicles. Operators should, however, stop and render such assistance as possible at the scene of an accident.

In all accidents involving State or College vehicles, regardless of the amount of damage, it is necessary that a State Police Officer investigate. All accidents shall be reported immediately to the State Police. Upon return to the College, all accidents must be reported to the operator's supervisor and the Director of Auxiliary Enterprises, who also is responsible for the Risk Management Program of the College. Accidents involving pool vehicles also must be reported to the Agency Fleet Manager. A file of all accident reports is maintained in the Office of the Campus Police, and annual reports required by the State Police will be forwarded by the Director of Campus Police.

All accidents involving any personal injury or death or total property of $250.00 or more, must be reported to the Division of Motor Vehicles on form F.R.-300 within five days. Forms and instructions may be obtained at the Campus Police Department.

Insurance is carried on all College and State-owned vehicles. It should be noted, however, that there is no personal injury coverage for the driver of a College or State vehicle when the driver is injured in an accident due to negligence on his or her part. Property and personal injury coverage does apply to any and all others involved in such an accident. This type of coverage is standard in most motor vehicle insurance policies.

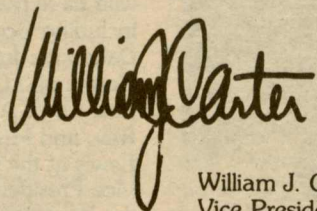

Employees of the College have Workmen's Compensation and Blue Cross-Blue Shield coverage available, which is applicable in the event of a personal injury of any type. Students, however, are not covered by any College insurance for personal injury as a result of their own negligence. Student drivers should be informed of the insurance coverage applicable to them, and encouraged to obtain personal injury insurance coverage if they plan to drive College or State-owned vehicles.

In those cases in which it has been determined that the cause of an accident involving a College or State-owned vehicle was due to either negligence or gross negligence on the part of the operator, disciplinary charges may be placed against the employee under the Standards of Conduct. In the case of a student operator, disciplinary charges may be placed through the Office of the Dean of Students.

When a State or College vehicle has been damaged through gross negligence on the part of the operator, the employee or student shall pay the first $100.00 of the cost of repair to the vehicle. In situations involving the unauthorized use of a State or College vehicle, the operator may be required to pay the entire cost for repair of the vehicle.

The Transportation Advisory Committee of the College shall review all reports of accidents. Based on conditions reported by the Department of State Police subsequent to investigation of an accident, the records of the Division of Motor Vehicles, or upon recommendations made by the Central Garage Pool Uniform Accident Review Committee, the Transportation Advisory Committee may recommend to the President of the College that the operator's right to drive a State or College vehicle be suspended. The Transportation Advisory Committee also may recommend reinstatement of an operator's privilege to operate a State vehicle.

The Director of Campus Police has responsibility for administering this Uniform Accident Prevention Program for the College of William and Mary.

John Hollander From Yale to Talk Thursday on Turner

John Hollander, professor of English at Yale University and the 1981-82 Phi Beta Kappa Visiting Scholar, will give a public slide lecture at 8 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 22, in Small Hall, Room 113.

Hollander, a Fellow of Silliman College, will take as his topic "Turner's Aeolian Harp." His lecture concerns the meeting of painting, music, and poetry in early 19th century England.

An Overseas Fellow at Churchill College, Cambridge University, in the 1967-68 academic year and a Guggenheim Fellow in 1979-80, Hollander was a senior fellow of the National Endowment for the Humanities in 1973-74.

In 1962 he gave the Christian Gauss Seminars in Literary Criticism at Princeton University. He was recipient of the Poetry Chap Book Award in 1962, of the National Institute of Arts and Letters' Award for Literature in 1963, and of the Levinson Prize in 1974.

He is a member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and the National Institute of Arts and Letters, a chancellor of the Academy of American Poets, and he was a Junior Fellow of the Society of Fellows at Harvard University, 1954-57.

Hollander has taught at Connecticut College, Hunter College and the Graduate Center of the City University of New York. He was a visiting professor at the Linguistic Institute, Indiana University, in 1964 and a member of the faculty of the Salzburg Seminar in American Studies in 1965.

A contributing editor of Harper's Magazine during 1969-71, Hollander is a former member of the poetry board of Wesleyan University Press and former editorial associate for poetry of "Partisan Review." Among his books of poems are "A Crackling of Thorns," for which he won the Yale Younger Poets Award in 1958, "Movie-Going," "Spectral Emanations," "Reflections on Espionage," and most recently, "Blue Wine." His critical studies include "The Untuning of the Sky," "Vision and Resonance," and the newly published "The Figure of Echo."

He is the editor of "Poems of Ben Johnson," "Modern Poetry: Essays in Criticism," "American Short Stories Since 1945," and "Poems of Our Moment," and the editor with others of several volumes including "The Oxford Anthology of English Literature."

Claudia Stevens Sets Recital Thursday in Phi Beta Kappa

Claudia Stevens, who has achieved national acclaim for her performances of 20th century American music, will give a recital at 8:15 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 29, in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

Claudia Stevens

Miss Stevens, a lecturer in the department of music, will present a program which is essentially an encore of the one she presented at the National Gallery in Washington, D.C., last April. Given in honor of Aaron Copland's eightieth year, the concert was attended by Copland and broadcast on National Public Radio. It included major works by Copland and the world premieres of a number of new piano pieces, commissioned by Stevens for the occasion. Most of those new works are to be published, including Stevens' own piece, "A Reflection: Copland at Eighty," which will appear in "Perspectives of New Music."

Miss Stevens will include all the new piano works in her recital on Oct. 29. She will also present the premiere performance of a piece by Harold Shapero, dedicated to Aaron Copland. She will round out her program with a performance of Aaron Copland's "Piano Fantasy," a major modern work.

A summa cum laude graduate of Vassar College, Miss Stevens studied further in Israel, Switzerland and Germany. She received a master's degree from the University of California at Berkeley where she won the university's concerto competition and the Alfred Hertz Prize. She then studied under Leonard Shure at Boston University where she received her doctorate in music. While in Massachusetts, she twice held fellowships at Tanglewood and taught at Williams College.

Journalism Internship

The Washington Post is offering internship opportunities for current college juniors, seniors and graduate students interested in newspaper journalism careers. The internships are available for the Summer 1982. In order to apply, you must request an application by Nov. 30. For further information, contact the Office of Extramural Programs, The Brafferton, ext. 4354.

New Bookstore Wing Delights Planners, Customers

The new wing of the College Bookstore has been completed on time and under budget.

The project to add 5,923 square feet of display, office and storage space to the existing bookstore was budgeted at $484,182. The eight-month contract of $331,100 plus $26,250 in architectural fees, $22,133 in fittings for the extension plus $41,381 for interior cabinetry, trim and repainting, adds up to a project bill of $420,864. The savings of $63,318 will go into the Bookstore's reserve funds for future purchases which may be needed, such as replacement of cash registers or other equipment. Construction was done by Joe Terrell, a local contractor, who also built the Randolph Residences. The architectural firm for the project was Hayes, Seay, Mattem and Mattem, of Roanoke, Virginia.

Vice President Carter says that the outstanding success of the Bookstore Expansion project is primarily due to the excellent work done by James J. Connolly, Director of Facilities Planning and Construction, and Bruce Locke, Bookstore Manager, who also served as Chairman of the Building Committee for the project. "It is important to realize that this project was one of more than twenty projects which totaled more than $20 million all going on 'at one time,'" Carter said. "This is surely a record at any university, particularly at William and Mary."

The new addition almost doubles the storage space for books and enables the Bookstore to display textbooks adequately and keep supplies available for the customers. The new wing also contains adjacent staff offices for customer convenience. The conveyor belt from the basement storage areas, located in the new wing, provides quick access to needed replacements for the shelves.

The new wing is equipped with a Campus Police's security network. An alarm from the Bookstore is immediately received at the Campus Police Office.

"You really had to have known the old bookstore in Taliaferro Hall to appreciate the present one," says Bruce Locke, Bookstore Manager. "Then, everyone was served by clerks, and students were often two weeks into the semester without books because the lines outside the store were so long."

There used to be a campus myth that the old bookstore was so crowded that students were only allowed in for an allotted time that was measured in minutes. Not so, says Locke, who worked in the Taliaferro location, but things were hectic at the beginning of each semester, he admits.

Even the ghost of the myth is laid to rest in the present Bookstore, which is spacious and attractive to both the serious textbook shopper and the student browser looking for general reading material, gifts or souvenirs.

The present building was erected in 1965 and at the time was a great leap forward in facilities. But as the College grew, the Bookstore became overcrowded again. Employee workspace was at a premium. In one office three staffers shared two desks. There wasn't enough shelf space for textbooks so a lot of time and energy was involved in constant restocking. Students sometimes assumed books were no longer available if they came looking for texts before the restocking process was completed. Shopping space for "extras," such as T-shirts, tote bags, art supplies, records and souvenirs was crowded. The entry way was cramped.

At top, John Freeman, trade book manager, helps a customer at the newly expanded accessories area at the back of the bookstore.

At right, the new wing at the bookstore provides accessibility and space for textbooks.

The expanded Bookstore incorporates 16,913 square feet of space and store. Three chandeliers have been spaced overhead in the main section and an expanded entry way and rearrangement of check-out counters have given the store a new look. There are now 8 or 9 check-out desks available during rush periods; before there were six.

There is a special section for records, T-shirts, jogging suits, hats, tote bags, caps and other accessories which are displayed so the customer has an opportunity to see the full line of merchandise available.

Artistic merchandising displays have been set up for the gift sections and have made them more attractive. There is a circular counter area in the back of the store for pen sets, drafting equipment and class rings, which again provides the customer with an opportunity to shop outside the traffic flow of the store.

If there is one major improvement that Locke likes to point out, it is the emphasis on having the staff highly visible and available to customers. The staff offices in the textbook area are separated from the main floor by glass partitions. The customer can get help readily. There are desks at the front of the store for customer assistance.

The interior of the Bookstore is still getting a face-lift. Painting has not yet been completed and there is some carpentry and trim being completed. These finishing touches, however, do not interfere with the day-to-day business at the store. In fact, Locke reports that sales for the first two months of school are up 10 percent over last year.

When completed the Bookstore will have a colorful interior highlighted by several Colonial Williamsburg paint colors from soft beiges to bold blues and reds and panels of blue and beige wallpaper in an 18th century oriental pattern. The interior design work was done by Ken White & Associates of Westwood, New Jersey.

The new store, Locke estimates, will serve the College well, given the present rate of growth, for at least 15 years. Carter pointed out that the William and Mary Bookstore is known as one of the best bookstores in the nation and Bruce Locke also has a national reputation. Certainly the William and Mary academic reputation deserves this kind of supporting service and facility, and we are proud to be associated with Bruce Locke and his outstanding staff.

Professors Planning Biology Labs

conducting outdoor lab work, are hoping that they will also be able to use Tyler.

"One course we did not know what to do with was freshman biology, in which 480 students are enrolled," said Ware. Eric Bradley, a member of the Asbestos Hazard Advisory Committee, however, found a space that will accommodate up to 72 students at one time: the old College laundry, located behind Trinkle Hall.

"The space was being used for storage by Buildings and Grounds, but they are clearing the area and are working on getting electricity, tables and chairs," said Ware. Although freshmen normally meet in groups of 24, the alternate labs will meet in groups of 72, he added.

Another faculty member, Ruth Beck, has developed five labs for the five weeks left of freshman biology that will encompass some of the major skills and concepts needed by the students.

Although the freshman labs will not coincide with the lectures being given at this point in the course, "they will be as good as we can make them, given the situation," Ware said.

Ware added that Dean Bowen's office helped locate some of the alternative spaces, obtained ventilator fans from Tucker basement, got the use of secure storage closets in Tucker to store some lab equipment, and obtained access to Millington so that professors will be able to remove at least some lab equipment to the new locations.

Ware also complimented Bradley, who, as chairman of the asbestos advisory committee, "made my job a lot easier. I didn't have to worry about the status of the buildings. Thanks to Bradley, I was able to stay here in the Department and deal with the kinds of problems that arise here."

"The essential message of Doonesbury," says Time, "may be that inside even the most formidable public figures and the most vituperative public debates there are hard kernels of decency - and lunacy."

Often controversial, "Doonesbury," has been pulled from newspaper pages on occasion when editors have felt his barbs excessive, but readers have rallied to his support and polls have shown that "Doonesbury" is second only to "Peanuts" in appeal.

In his political series, Trudeau uses scenes in which someone is interviewed and only the reporters and cameramen or newscasters are shown. When the series has a lighter tone, Trudeau uses a group of friends talking casually at someone's house or at a party.

The characters revolve around Mike

Doonesbury, a typical college student. The major characters are his friends and their relatives: B.D. is a college football player; Mark is a radio announcer. Zonker is a sometimes college student who talks to plants and suntans professionally. Duke is Zonker's drug dealing, eccentric uncle. Joanie is a lawyer who left her husband. J.J. is Mike's girlfriend, and she is Joanie's daughter.

As well as being nationally popular in this country, "Doonesbury" is equally popular overseas. It was introduced earlier this year in "The Guardian" in England as "the American cult cartoon that tears strips off the transatlantic political and social scene."

Trudeau currently makes his home in New York and is married to Jane Pauley, NBC TV personality and a regular on the The Today Show.

Half-Time Show

The New Jersey Colonial Militia Ancient Fife and Drum Corps, organized in 1965, took part in the colorful half-time show at the football game Saturday afternoon which was a tribute to the students and faculty of the College who fought in the War for Independence. The ROTC Cadet Brigade who planned the Saturday tribute chose the theme "The Scholar/Soldier: The Revolutionary War and Today," and blended elements of the historic and modern army. In 1777 approximately 32 students and professors formed a militia company to protect the College and the town of Williamsburg. The Wakefield Militia Company of Wakefield, Mass., symbolizing the College's 1777 company, marched and fired a volley from authentic weaponry.

'DANCEVENT' Set in PBK

"Dancevent," a program of original dance compositions choreographed by members of the dance faculty and performed by members of Orchesis, will be held at 8:15 p.m., Friday and Saturday, Oct. 23 and 24, in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. There is no admission charge.

The program will open with "Earth Light," a multi-media interpretation of the shifting illuminations and spirit of different earthscapes, choreographed by Shirley Roby.

"Rainbow Chasers," a piece in three parts, with music by Messiaen, Lennon, McCartney, and Seger, has been choreographed by Marilyn Brda, a new member of the dance faculty this year.

"Ice Floe," choreographed by Carol Sherman, with music by Reich, is a piece which uses different levels and breaks the shoe-box look of the proscenium stage.

Lighting design for the performance is being directed by Roger Sherman; technical advisor is David Dudley.

Dances performed for "Dancevent," represent ongoing research by members of the dance faculty.

Mortar Board and is completing an honors program in government. He is writing his honors paper on "Russian Cuban Relations: The Politics of Oil."

Geithman is an Eagle Scout from troop 98 in Stonybrook, Newport News, and for a year and a half he worked as assistant manager at the family Fish House in Newport News.

On Dec. 19, Geithman will marry Ellen Lekman of Geneva Switzerland, also a student at William and Mary, in the Wren Chapel.

Geithman said he is honored by the selection of the government committee and grateful for the generosity of Mrs. Nimmo and Ms. Johnson.

"I plan to work hard in the service of the country to show I merit this award," said Geithman. "This award helps me a great deal. Mrs. Nimmo is a very kind woman to encourage young people to study and strive after their goals." Geithman explains that his interest in foreign affairs has been stimulated by world travel. As a member of an Air Force family he has lived all over the United States and in 12 foreign countries, including two and a half years in Turkey.

"The accomplishments of Laurie Johnson in foreign service are an incentive to me to work hard and follow her fine example," he said.

each night. Non-season ticket holders may want to purchase tickets for each performance. Individual tickets are $5 each night for the public; $4 each night for students, faculty and staff. Tickets go on sale Tuesday, Oct. 20 at the College's Student Activities Office, telephone 253-4557 or 253-4235.

Program selections for the Oct. 27 performance will include "Seraphic Design," "Night Journey," and "Acts of Light," Miss Graham's newest ballet which premiered in February 1981 at the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C.

The Oct. 28 performance will include "Diversion of Angels," "Errand Into the Maze," "Cave of the Heart," and "Frescoes."

Choreographers and dancers acknowledge that Martha Graham has made the single most significant contribution to dance in this century with her original movement technique and her monumental collection of dance works.

She has created 170 ballets, many of which are considered to be classics of American modern dance. Most of the major modern dance choreographers have been students of Miss Graham or have danced in her company.

Forum Speakers Set Debate Oct. 21

Two nationally recognized lobbyists will debate the pros and cons of gun control in the next Speakers Forum program at the College.

Painting Missing - AGAIN

For the second time this semester, a painting from the College Art Collection has been removed from the Wigwam. The painting, a small (approximately 24" by 18") oil on canvas, is an abstract design composed of predominantly red and green splashes. It is signed and dated "Hudgins '60" in the lower right hand corner. Anyone with information on its whereabouts should contact the Campus Police or Miles Chappell in the Fine Arts Department.

The painting reported missing from the Wigwam earlier this fall "Gahanna Bauer's Car," by Emerson Burkhardt, has been retrieved by the Campus Police and returned to the College Art Collection.

AAUP Meeting

Due to the recent resignation of John Zeigler as AAUP President, David Montgomery, professor of physics, is temporarily the ranking executive of the chapter. As such he has called a general meeting of the chapter at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 4, in the Dodge Room of Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

The purpose of the meeting will be two-fold, says Montgomery. "First, I believe that discussion may be overdue as to what the nature of the activities of the AAUP at William and Mary should be. Whom should it represent? When? How? Why? I would like to moderate, but not lead, such a discussion. Second, I propose that on Nov. 4, we also elect a replacement for John Zeigler."

Dance Postponed

Student Association President Randolph Beales announced Wednesday that the President's Ball scheduled for Friday in the Sunken Garden, has been postponed until April.

In an announcement in The Flat Hat, Beales listed "Unseasonably cool weather" and personnel problems as major problems in planning the event.

Refunds for the ticket holders will be made all this week through Friday in the SA' office in the Campus Center. Those not requesting a refund will automatically receive tickets for the event in April.
