A New Commitment to Fine Arts

"Now comes the moment we've all been waiting for. We're going to stop all the talking and start digging."

With this introduction, President Graves proceeded to hand out hard hats and a gold shovel to donors for the official dedication and ground-breaking at the site of the College's Joseph and Margaret Muscarelle Museum of Art.

A brass trio from the William and Mary Band opened the proceedings on a joyful note. The storm of the night before had given way to a sunny fall day with brisk winds. The ceremony drew an enthusiastic audience of well wishers including several alumni on campus for homecoming activities.

Mr. and Mrs. Muscarelle were the first to turn over the turf at the construction site, which Graves told the audience would soon be bustling with the sounds of bulldozers and cranes.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Kinnamon of Williamsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Herman of Norfolk and Mrs. Gertrude Perrin of New York City, took their turn symbolically beginning a project which President Graves said was a special moment in the College's history that had not arrived without a great deal of planning and effort by many people.

Graves cited the work of the chairman of the museum committee, Miles Chappell, chairman of the fine arts department; and members of the committee, Jim Kornwolf and Henry Coleman of the fine arts faculty; Clifford Currie, Swem Librarian; Gordon Vliet, executive vice president of the Society of the Alumni; James J. Connolly, director, facilities planning and construction; Linda Collins Reilly, associate vice president for academic affairs, and Louise Kale, curator of the College art collection.

He also noted the contribution of J. Wilfred Lambert, former vice president for academic affairs who was in the audience. "I think this whole project has revealed the mark of the special guiding hand of a master, someone who knows the College better than possibly anyone else," said Graves.

The museum architect, Carlton Abbott of Williamsburg, and the contractor, Don R. Cochran of Hampton, shared the platform for the ceremonies on the site between Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall and Morton Hall.

Duane Dittman, vice president for university advancement and William J. Carter, vice president for business affairs, were thanked for their part in the museum project.

As a special memento of the occasion, bricks of the same type scheduled to be used in the museum

Alumni Return for Weekend Events

Homecoming 1981 was a time for reunions, a time for accolades, a time for a great deal of joy, some sadness and a little disappointment.

Class reunions, the annual run for joggers, tennis and golf tournaments, and the alumni band brought former students back to Williamsburg from many states.

Five members of the faculty, John B. Delos, associate professor of physics; David H. Finifter, associate professor of economics; Mark Fowler, assistant professor of philosophy; Roger R. Ries, associate professor of education; and John H. Willis, Jr., professor of English, were awarded Alumni Fellowships.

Four students, William A. Maher, Peter F. O'Malley, Steven A. Salter and Andrea L. Spessard, received Order of the White Jacket Awards. Bryan D. McElvaine received the Norman Moonjian Memorial Scholarship.

Four members of the Alumni Board were re-elected to three-year terms:

James W. Brinkley '59 of Towson, Md.; James E. Howard '43 of Richmond; Austin L. Roberts III '69 of Newport News; and G. Elliott Schauback '59 of Norfolk. Newcomer to the Board is Audrey Murray Harris '60 of Richmond.

Alumni Medallions were awarded to Mrs. Harriet Nachman Storm '64, a member of the Board of Visitors; Jim Ukrop '60, president of Ukrop's Super Markets, a Richmond food store chain; and Dr. William M. Bickers '29, a physician and author who served for many years in the Middle East.

Mrs. Zoe Graves, wife of President Graves, Miss Rebecca Tinker, former head of food services on campus and Mr. and Mrs. Steve Sacalis, Williamsburg restaurateurs, were made associate members of the Society of the Alumni for their gifts of time and talents to the College.

Dana Disque was named 1981 Homecoming Queen. Vernon Nunn

'25, a former College auditor, was honorary marshal for the homecoming parade. The Alumni band played during half-time at the football game and the Queen received her floral crown and a kiss from President Graves.

The William and Mary Choir provided a choral tribute to alumni who have died during the past year at the traditional Sunset Parade Friday afternoon.

The Marshall-Wythe School of Law welcomed members of the class of 1979 and 1980 into the Phi Beta Kappa for law students, the distinguished Order of the Coif. Elected as honorary members were R. Harvey Chappell '50, a Richmond attorney and former Rector of the Board of Visitors, and Florian Bartosic, Dean of the Law School at the University of California at Davis.

World Hunger

The filmstrip "Hunger: What Can I Do?" will be shown at 7:30 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 15, in Campus Center Rooms A & B.

Following the film, there will be a discussion on the problem of world hunger, U.S. policy towards developing nations, and the activities of Bread for the World, a national Christian citizens' group dedicated toward combating hunger through changes in public policy. All are welcome.

The film program is being sponsored by the Ecumenical Council.

Careers in Banking

Austin Roberts, President of First Peninsula Bank and Trust and a William and Mary graduate will present an informational seminar on Careers in Banking. The session will discuss all phases of the banking industry and will be held at 4 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 11 in Tucker 216. For more information contact Career Planning, x 4427.

Carnegie Internship

The Office of Placement has received information regarding the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace Intern Program. Consisting of six months, it provides an opportunity for graduating seniors or students in their first year or two of graduate or professional school to have a working experience in the field of foreign affairs in Washington, D.C. Successful candidates will receive $750 monthly plus round-trip economy airfare, and benefits including major medical insurance. Substantial course work in area of international relations is required.

William and Mary is limited to two nominees and application requests and supporting credentials must be submitted to Bob Hunt, Associate Director of Placement, by Monday, Jan. 18, at 5 p.m. For further information and application instructions, students should ask to see Bulletin 0-28-1 in the Office of Placement which is temporarily located on the second floor of the Campus Center until Morton Hall re-opens.

Christian Science Speaker

The William and Mary Christian Science College Organization is sponsoring a talk tonight at 7:30 p.m., in the Sit'n Bull Room at the Campus Center by Bruce E. Fitzwater, a widely traveled lecturer on the Board of Lectureship for the Christian Science Church.

Fitzwater's lecture on "The Logical Certainty of Christian Healing," is open to the campus community.

'Cabaret' Auditions

Auditions for the William and Mary Theatre production of "Cabaret," will be held Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 21 and 22.

All auditions will be by appointment, with the performers entering the audition hall every hour on the hour. A sign up list will be posted in Phi Beta Kappa Hall. All roles are open - there is no pre-casting - to all members of the campus community which includes faculty, students, staff and spouses.

Director Louis E. Catron has scheduled two pre-audition warm up sessions designed to introduce performers to the songs and dances, 1-5 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 15 and 7-9 p.m., Monday, Nov. 16.

Call backs will be held Nov. 23 and the cast list is expected to be posted Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 24. "Cabaret" will be presented Feb. 19, 20, 21, 25, 26 and 27.

Physics Colloquium Speakers

M.L. Goldstein of the Goddard Space Flight Center, NASA, will speak on "Magnetohydrodynamic Turbulence in the Solar Wind," at the physics department colloquium, at 4 p.m., Friday, Nov. 13 in Small, room 109.

Speaker for the Nov. 20 colloquium will be Sven Hartmann of Columbia University, whose topic will be "Photon Echoes for Everyone: Introducing the Billiard Ball Model."

Coffee is served in the conference room at 3:30 p.m., before the Friday colloquiums.

French House Events

Tonight in the French House Lobby there will be a showing of "The Tall Blond with One Black Shoe," with English subtitles. Admission is free. Members of the College community are invited to attend.

The French House will hold a coffee hour at 4:30 p.m., Thursday, Nov. 12 in the House Lobby. Faculty and students are invited to join house members in conversing in French and enjoying some refreshments.

This is the last week for the photographic exhibit on the Pompidou Cultural Center, currently on display at the House.

Study and Travel Plans Offer Programs in Many Countries

Gary A. Smith, associate professor of modern languages, is handling travel arrangements for a new German Summer Program in Munster May 26-July 8.

Co-sponsored by the College and Vassar, the program allows students to take two courses for credit and requires that students have at least one year of the language.

Credit may be obtained for courses in Intermediate German (201); German Conversation I (206); German Conversation II (306); German Civilization (307); and German Literature: The Crisis of Identity (410).

Students will stay with families in Munster which will give them the opportunity to speak German outside of the classroom and share activities with their host families.

The itinerary will also include a week-long excursion to Berlin sponsored by the government of West Berlin.

Due to the fluctuating dollar exchange rate, all dates and cost quotations are tentative and can only be confirmed shortly before departure.

The cost is expected to be $1,875 and covers tuition, room and board, travel by air from New York to Europe and return, excursion to Berlin including board, lodging and all admissions to museums. The fee does not include travel in the U.S., travel from any point in Europe to Brussels for return, insurance, and all personal expenditures.

Deadline for application is Jan. 22 at which time a deposit of $100 is required. All fees must be paid by Feb. 15. Application forms and information about the program may be obtained from Smith in Washington Hall, 106C.

The site of the program is one of Germany's oldest and most picturesque University towns. Founded in 800 A.D. Munster became the capital of Westphalia and was chosen as the scene for the signing of the Peace Treaty after the Thirty Years War in 1648. The cultural and intellectual awareness of this formerly hanseatic city is manifested in its rich examples of virtually all major architectural styles, notably its beautiful restored medieval buildings. The University of Munster, at present Germany's second largest, was chartered in 1773 and has a student enrollment today of 40,000.

Smith Offers Six Weeks in England

Smith College offers six weeks of teaching and study June 28 - Aug. 6, to graduates in the liberal arts preparing to teach in elementary and secondary schools. Interns teach under the direction of master teachers in enrichment and remedial courses offered at the Smith-Northampton Summer School, and study curriculum and principles of teaching in art, biology, business education, chemistry, computer science, elementary subjects, English, French, general science, history, mathematics, physical education, and theatre. Tuition is $640. A limited amount of financial aid is available. For additional information and application forms write to: Lawrence A. Fink, coordinator, Smith College Summer Intern Teaching Program; Morgan Hall, 37 Prospect Street; Northampton, Massachusetts. 01063.

See Office of Placement, for additional information. Ask for Bulletin N-4-1.

Wednesday Meeting Set for Details on French Study

Anyone interested in finding out about the programs in France sponsored by William and Mary for the summer or junior year is invited to attend either of two important informational meetings on Wednesday, Nov. 11.

Summer in France 1982: 3:30 pm in Rm. C of the Campus Center.

Junior Year in France 1982-83: 7:00 pm in French House Lobby.

Students who were involved in these programs last year are encouraged to attend as well to answer questions about their experiences with the programs in France.

Information on both programs may be obtained from Dean Joseph P. Healey in the Office of Extramural Programs, Room 8 in the Brafferton, ext. 4354. Applications may be picked up any time at this office.

1982 in Cambridge Offers Summer Study in England

Any and all students who have been considering the summer study program in Cambridge, England are encouraged to attend an important informational meeting at 8 p.m., Thursday, Nov. 12 in Room C of the Campus Center.

There will be a slide presentation on Cambridge and students, and professors who were involved in the program last summer will be there to answer any questions. Students who cannot attend this meeting and have questions about the program or would like to pick up an application, are asked to stop by the Office of Extramural Programs, Room 8 in the Brafferton, or call ext. 4354.

President's Hours

During November, President Graves will be in his office from 4-5 p.m., on Wednesday, Nov. 18 and Monday, Nov. 23 to meet informally with students. No appointment is necessary.

New Year's Eve in Moscow

Gilbert McArthur of the History Department, will take a student tour to Russia, Dec. 27 to Jan. 10 with stops in Moscow, Kiev and Leningrad.

Application deadline is Nov. 20. Inquiries should be made to McArthur at ext. 4313 or at home, 229-3487.

The total cost of $1,225 includes international air transportation from New York on Finnair, second class rail transportation in Europe; first class accommodations in the Soviet Union, guided sightseeing tours, educational visits, museum entrance fees and at least one theatre performance. Visas, travel documents, specially-prepared guidebooks and tour notes are also included in the overall package.

Although the weather will be cold, McArthur says December-January is a good time to visit the Soviet Union and includes the ballet and theatre seasons there. New Year's Eve is also a major holiday in Russia and a party in Moscow will be part of the tour package. The winter palace in Leningrad, art galleries, a troika ride, a tour of the Kremlin, a full-day excursion to Zagorsk, tours of St. Sophia's Cathedral and the Monastery of the Caves is included in the tour.

McArthur says that the climate will approximate a New England winter. He advises those going on the tour to forsake fashion for comfort and wear several layers of warm clothing.

Homecoming Weekend 1981

Dean Spong hands the certificate of honorary membership in the William and Mary chapter of the Order of the Coif to Dean Florian Bartosic of the University of California at Davis Law School.

Homecoming Queen Dana Disque gets a congratulatory kiss from President Graves. She was crowned at half-time of the William and Mary - Harvard football game Saturday afternoon.

College Breaks Ground for Museum of Art

The Joseph and Margaret Muscarelle Museum of Art will serve as a multi-purpose facility, dedicated to enhancing the fine arts at one of the nation's oldest and most respected universities.

The main exhibition space, the triangular Ralph M. Sheridan and Edythe C. Sheridan Gallery, will consist of 2,500 square feet, offering an attractive display area for traveling shows, as well as college exhibits. With 14 foot ceilings, and a system of adjustable tract lighting, the Sheridan Gallery will do justice to the most celebrated works of art.

The adjacent Enid W. and Bernard B. Spigel Gallery, a more intimate area of 500 square feet, will be dedicated to the exhibition of fine prints and drawings.

Moveable partitions will provide a welcome flexibility to both galleries, which are humidity and temperature controlled.

Just as critical to the ultimate success and reputation of any museum are the support and preparation areas. In addition to offices for the Director of the Muscarelle Museum, the registrar of the College's art collection, and a museum secretary, there will be a special unloading area for careful inspection and preparation of individual pieces. In addition, a first-quality art storage area will draw together works of art which are now stored under less than ideal conditions at several locations on campus. A small lobby area and rest rooms complete the plans for the first phase.

Award-winning architect Carlton Abbott has designed a contemporary structure with an eye toward the future. A passive solar system will provide 20 percent of the heating needs for the Muscarelle Museum. The walls and windows are critically located for future expansion of the museum, and the exterior walls are primarily the attractive, warm brick used throughout the new campus.

Finally, the entrance of the Muscarelle Museum literally invites art enthusiasts to visit this new addition to William and Mary's historic campus. Located on a sidewalk that leads to the heart of William and Mary, the main door of the museum will indeed open for thousands of appreciative students, faculty, alumni, and friends of the College for years to come.

Major Components of the College's Art Collection

ALICE ABERDEIN COLLECTION OF ORIENTAL ARTS & CRAFTS - This collection, acquired in the 1940s comprises 125 items including furniture, textiles, ivories, sculpture, household items, prints and paintings.

JEAN OUTLAND CHRYSLER COLLECTION - A gift to the College by Mrs. Chrysler of Norfolk, a member of the class of 1942, the collection was acquired in 1964 and additions have been made in 1967 and 1973. The emphasis of the collection is on American Abstract Expressionism of the 1950s and 1960s, interpreted in drawings, oils, watercolors, sculpture and glass.

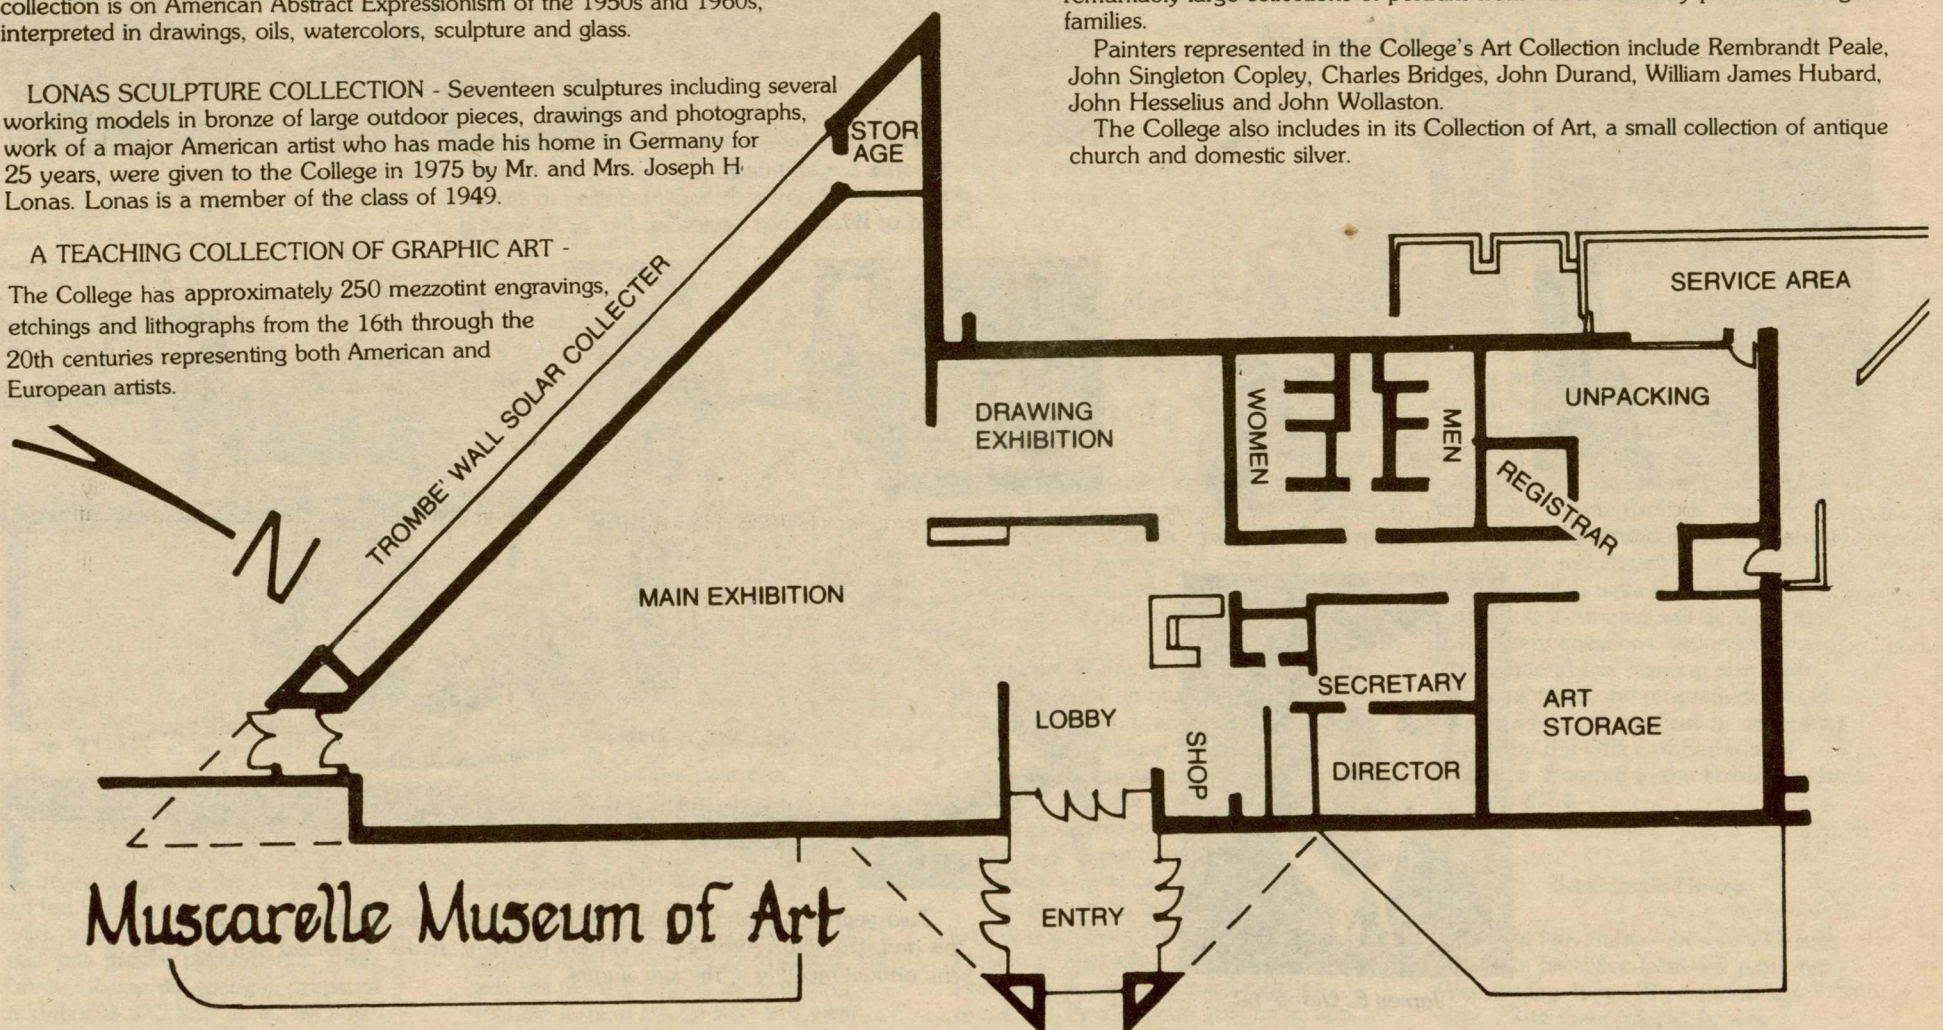

LONAS SCULPTURE COLLECTION - Seventeen sculptures including several working models in bronze of large outdoor pieces, drawings and photographs, work of a major American artist who has made his home in Germany for 25 years, were given to the College in 1975 by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Lonas. Lonas is a member of the class of 1949.

A TEACHING COLLECTION OF GRAPHIC ART - The College has approximately 250 mezzotint engravings, etchings and lithographs from the 16th through the 20th centuries representing both American and European artists.

COLONIAL AMERICAN AND 17TH & 18TH CENTURY ENGLISH PORTRAITS - The College has approximately 60 canvasses including two very significant collections of family portraits. Dr. R.C.M. Page of Gloucester donated 11 portraits of the Page family to the College in 1897. In 1940, Mrs. Robert Malcolm Littlejohn of New York made a gift to the College of 13 portraits of members of the Bolling and Randolph families. The value of these portraits lies not only in the work of the artists but also in the fact that it is rare to find such remarkably large collections of portraits from three extremely prominent Virginia families.

Painters represented in the College's Art Collection include Rembrandt Peale, John Singleton Copley, Charles Bridges, John Durand, William James Hubbard, John Hesselius and John Wollaston.

The College also includes in its Collection of Art, a small collection of antique church and domestic silver.

Response by Dean Spong

Marshall-Wythe Law Recalls Beloved Dean

In behalf of the faculty and students of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, I am pleased to accept this portrait of Dean Dudley Warner Woodbridge. We appreciate the generosity of the William and Mary Law School Association in arranging to have David Silvette paint the portrait which will be hung near the entrance to our library.

Though I have referred to the subject of the portrait as Dean Woodbridge, I am certain he would prefer to be remembered as Professor Woodbridge for it was in the classroom that he excelled, teaching almost every subject in the law curriculum, and proving a worthy successor to George Wythe. His abilities were recognized by those who studied under him and by many, such as myself, who were dependent upon his bar review notes for safe passage of the bar examination. His great mind with the capacity to impart law and a love of the law to even the slowest of students, was recognized beyond the boundaries of Virginia. In 1950, Professor Woodbridge was chosen as one of the outstanding college professors in The United States. Those associated with him during his many years at William and Mary were not surprised by that selection.

An oft repeated story about Dean Woodbridge concerns the young lawyer who was vigorously arguing a case at the bar. The judge leaned over and asked the advocate the authority for his argument. The young lawyer replied; "Woodbridge's bar notes". Whereupon the judge reportedly smiled and nodded his head.

I believe it is important as we accept this portrait to recall that Dudley Woodbridge was a selfless man. We hear so often that we have become a materialistic society, that lawyers are not sufficiently concerned with the public interest or the rights of those not able to pay. Professor Woodbridge's life was a model of unselfish service to others.

A complete lawyer should have an understanding of human frailty and with such understanding a sense of humor. Those who knew Dudley Woodbridge remember that twinkle in his eyes and his ability to tell a good story with humor when the occasion called for it. One such occasion was his retirement dinner when nearly five hundred persons convened in Williamsburg to pay tribute to this great professor. As he shyly accepted the accolades and applause of those assembled to honor him, this modest man gave thanks to all but seemingly ignored Mrs. Woodbridge who was seated on the platform. Finally, he said he supposed they had noticed that he had neglected his wife. He continued to say that he did so because she should be hung, drawn, and quartered. After a pause that allowed for a twinkle or two and a shy smile, he said, "Hung with jewels, drawn by a coach and four horses, and quartered in a palace, for she is indeed my queen."

Julia Oxrieder Unveils Father's Portrait

Mr. Stackhouse, we accept this portrait with thanks. It will serve to remind those who study and those who teach that a great teacher was long associated with this institution. The presence of this portrait in our library will remind us that greatness can be achieved with modesty, selflessness and compassion, and also be constant evidence of our appreciation of the magnificent contribution to the life of this law school made by Dudley Warner Woodbridge.

Response by Florian Bartosic '56
Dean, Law School, University of California at Davis.

It is seldom that a lawyer would presume to speak on behalf of even one other lawyer, but I am confident that I have the implied authority, to express the deepest appreciation of all our alumni to Dean Spong for having moved our School dramatically forward toward the front rank of law schools. William and Mary now enjoys a national reputation as a first rate university for legal education.

The Dean and the faculty are responsible for the excellence in teaching, scholarship and public service that have merited for our school a Coif Chapter. In itself this is a highly significant achievement; in legal education circles it also symbolizes ever so much more for the present and for the future.

All of us have a stake in that future, and Dean Spong and the faculty deserve, and I am sure, will receive our grateful and generous support in their efforts to enhance even further the excellence of our School.

Most of you are beginning the practice of law and have lived in the recent history of the school. As one who is beyond mid-passage, I should like very briefly to speak about the school as it existed in the early to mid-fifties. It was then that the Department of Jurisprudence became the Marshall-Wythe School of Law. We were a very small school with relatively few students and faculty. Yet when immediately upon graduation I did graduate work at Yale, I found that I had received a legal education here that had prepared me for Ivy League competition.

Our faculty members then were exceptionally able, but, as most of you know, the success of the School and the spirit that animated it for a generation was attributable primarily to the man whose portrait will be presented to the School by the Alumni Association later today. Dean Dudley Warner Woodbridge was an extraordinary teacher, combining scholarly attainment with the art of inspiring students to learn. He was the most ethical person I have ever known. He was an exemplar of human kindness, the wisest of counselors, and the most loyal of friends. Children instinctively trusted and loved him for they sensed that he was one of those rare adults who do not lose their innocence.

Perhaps Dean Woodbridge's most significant contribution was that it was impossible to have been his student without realizing the personal responsibility of every lawyer to do good. It was impossible to have been his student without being conscious of the moral problems that daily face lawyers as they seek legal solutions to human problems. He inspired pro bono lawyering before that work or phrase became popular.

Without explicitly preaching it, he impliedly taught the lesson that the most satisfying work for a lawyer is to do good by using the law not to protect the power of wealth but to create power for the poor, and that a lawyer's psychic income is earned by using the law to find freedom, equality and security for persons who otherwise would not enjoy them. Obviously Dean Dudley Woodbridge has had a profound influence on my professional and personal life.

Dean Spong reminds me of Dean Woodbridge in many ways. I shall mention only one. Like Dean Woodbridge, Dean Spong is a gentle man, who while tolerant of the views of others, adheres scrupulously to his own principles. Throughout his career Dean Spong had stood up and been counted for what was just and fair - even when doing so entailed great personal sacrifice.

I have never been so proud to be represented by an elected official than when as a citizen of this Commonwealth, I was represented in the Senate of the United States by Dean Spong. Like Dean Woodbridge, Dean Spong has chosen to do justly, to love mercy and to work humbly.

To most of you Dean Woodbridge can only be an inspiring legend. To all of us Dean Spong is very much a reality. We should cherish them both.

Law Alumni Make Plans for Spring Weekend

Homecoming weekend activities at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law included the presentation by the law alumni of a portrait of former Dean Dudley Warner Woodbridge and induction of new members of the Order of the Coif.

The unveiling of the Woodbridge portrait by artist David Silvette was the highlight of the annual meeting of the alumni Saturday morning. Among those on hand for the ceremony was Dean Woodbridge's daughter, Mrs. Julia Oxrieder of Williamsburg. The portrait has been hung in the entrance of the law library.

George W. Campbell was elected president of the alumni association to succeed Robert Stackhouse.

Plans were announced for an Alumni Spring Weekend in mid-May which will include a continuing legal education seminar as well as tours of the facilities and alumni meetings.

Thirteen members of the class of 1980, 14 members of the class of 1979, 12 members of the faculty and two honorary members were formally inducted into the Order of the Coif at ceremonies in the Moot Courtroom.

Opening remarks were made by Walter Williams, professor of law and president of the William and Mary Coif Chapter.

John Wade, Visiting Tazewell Taylor Professor of Law traced the history of the Order of the Coif before the presentation of certificates to new members.

The Order of the Coif is national scholastic honor society in law similar to Phi Beta Kappa. It is the highest academic honor a law student may achieve. The Marshall-Wythe School of Law was granted a charter on April 24, 1981.

Inducted from the class of 1979 were the following, Fred R. Becker, Jr., Peter Brent Brown, Jay R. Fries, David B. Gifford, Gwyn E. Staton, Robin L.

Hixon, Kevin R. Huennekens, Kathleen A. Hunter, Barry L. Jenkins, Thomas R. Knauss, Edward A. McCullough, Gary S. Marshall, Craig H. Smith and Rebecca B. Smith.

Woodbridge Began Teaching in 1927

Dudley Warner Woodbridge began teaching law at William and Mary in 1927, served as dean of the law school from 1950 until 1962. He continued to teach after his retirement as dean.

For more than 30 years Woodbridge was editor of the Virginia Bar Notes.

A native of Bellaire, Ohio, the son of George Morgan and Julia Warner Woodbridge, he was raised in Seattle, Wash. He studied at the University of Washington and the University of Chicago and received his bachelor's and juris doctor degree from the University of Illinois. Except for five summers, Woodbridge's entire teaching career was at William and Mary.

He joined the faculty in 1927 as assistant professor of law and was made a full professor in 1933. He was named chancellor professor of law in 1962 when he retired as dean.

Although admitted to the practice of law in Virginia in 1929, he did not practice law, explaining that it would take too much from his teaching. He often spent 12 and 16 hours a day at work on campus.

Woodbridge took an active interest in children in Williamsburg and over the years taught many of them how to ride a bicycle or ice skate. He himself enjoyed cycling and would take frequent, almost daily rides in and about Williamsburg, often going to Jamestown and back.

F. Lee Bailey to Speak on Forum Series

F. Lee Bailey, one of the nation's foremost defense lawyers whose clients have ranged from kidnapped heiress, Patricia Hearst and the Boston Strangler, to U.S. Army Captain Ernest Medina, who was charged with the mass murder of civilians at My Lai, will speak at 8 p.m., Monday, Nov. 16, in William and Mary Hall.

Bailey, whose lecture is part of the current Speakers Forum schedule, will take as his topic, "The Defense Never Rests," the title of one of his three best-selling non-fiction books.

Admission is $1.50 for William and Mary students; $2 for the general public. Tickets are on sale at the Campus Center and will also be available at William and Mary Hall Nov. 16.

Bailey, 47, is also the author of For the Defense, and Cleared For The Approach. In addition he has written a best-selling novel, Secrets, which is the story of a lawyer who is charged with murder.

A former U.S. Marine fighter pilot, Bailey owns his own jet, and has logged more than 14,000 flying hours. He also is the former president of Enstrom Helicopter Corporation, and is himself a helicopter pilot. At one point in his career, he owned a small airport and still operates an air charter service.

Bailey has made repeated appearances as a host for segments of the television network show "Good Morning America," and has lectured before more than 500 college audiences and 1,500 professional groups.

After attending Harvard, Bailey joined the U.S. Marines in 1952. He was awarded Naval Aviator wings in March 1954, and was discharged from the Marines in 1956. In 1960 he graduated from Boston University Law School.

Houston Baker Here Nov. 13

Dr. Houston Baker, professor of English at the University of Pennsylvania, will speak at 7:30 p.m., Friday, Nov. 13, in the Campus Center Little Theatre as part of the Office of Minority Affairs-Black Student Organization lecture series. No topic has been announced.

This is a repeat visit for Baker, who gave a public lecture Nov. 7, 1980, on "The Black American! Victim or Victor?"

He was a National Phi Beta Kappa Visiting Scholar 1975-76 and was a Distinguished Scholar at Cornell University, 1977. He was a Fellow of the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation in 1979.

The lecture series is being coordinated by Esther Vassar, Assistant Dean of Students.

Bailey is a former co-chairman of the Criminal Law Section of the Association of Trial Lawyers of America. In addition he has served as the co-chairman of the Foundation for the Advancement of Inmate Rehabilitation and Recreation (FAIRR).

Bailey resides in Marshfield, Mass., and is a partner in the Boston law firm of Bailey, Alch & Gillis.

Abeles Next Chemistry Speaker

Robert Abeles of the biochemistry department at Brandeis University, will speak on "Suicide Enzyme Inactivators," at 6:30 p.m., Thursday, Nov. 12 in the George Guy Lecture Hall in Rogers Hall as part of the current seminar in applied chemistry.

All students enrolled in Chemistry 410 are urged to spend some time the next morning with speakers in the Chemistry Conference Room for informal discussion. Orange juice, donuts and coffee will be served.

A native of Vienna, Abeles was educated at the University of Chicago,

M.S. 1950, and the University of Colorado, Ph.D., 1955. He was a Fellow of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, 1955-56; a Fellow in Chemistry at Harvard University, 1956-57, and assistant professor of chemistry at Ohio State University, 1957-60. He also taught at the University of Michigan before joining the faculty at Brandeis.

His research has dealt with the mechanism of enzyme action and biological oxidations.

Abeles is the last guest speaker scheduled for the seminar this semester.

Play Opens Next Wednesday

Matt Ryan (I) as Prince Hal, duels with Don Reilly as Hotspur in the William and Mary Theatre production of "Henry IV, Part I," which will be presented at 8:15 p.m., Nov. 18, 19, 20 and at 2 p.m. Nov. 22 in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. Tickets for individual performances are $4. Reservations and information may be obtained from the PBK Box Office ext. 4272. Brent Harris, a senior who has been featured in major roles with the Virginia Shakespeare Festival, will play the title role. Richard Palmer, professor of theatre and speech and artistic director of the William and Mary Theatre, will play Falstaff; the director is Jerry Bledsoe, associate professor of theatre and speech.

Education Sets School Schedule

Various school systems will interview on William and Mary Campus during the fall and spring semesters. Students will need to sign up for appointments in the Office of Educational Placement. CREDENTIAL PAPERS MUST BE COMPLETED IN ORDER TO INTERVIEW. Credential forms for setting up your file may be obtained in the Office of Educational Placement (currently located in Jones Hall, Room 211). (This is not an automatic procedure--students must first obtain the forms and return them, filled out, to the Office of Educational Placement.)

December graduates in particular should arrange to interview this semester; however, May graduates may also talk with these school systems. Any questions can be answered by calling the Office of Educational Placement, ext. 4467.

Listed below are the school systems interviewing here on Campus during November.

Official Memoranda

Holiday Schedule for November and December

Thanksgiving Day and the day after, November 26 and 27, 1981, will be observed as official College holidays. Administrative offices, the plant department (except for those employees required to maintain essential services), and the mail room of the College of William and Mary will be closed. The Campus Police Department will maintain the regular 24-hour schedule.

An extended Christmas-New Year's Holiday will be observed at the College beginning Friday, December 25, 1981 through Friday, January 1, 1982. In the event the Governor declares an additional day or days, the beginning of the holiday period would be extended.

Administrative offices, and the plant department (except for those employees required to maintain essential services), will be closed during the period. The Campus Post Office will be open from 9:00 AM until 12:00 noon on December 26, 28, 29, 30, 31, and January 1 and 2, 1982. If the holiday period is extended by one day, the Post Office will be open from 9:00 AM until noon on Thursday, December 24, 1981, in addition to the other dates shown. This Post Office will NOT be open at other times during the holiday period noted above.

The Campus Police Department will maintain the regular 24-hour schedule. The names of permanent classified employees who are required to work on any of the above designated days should be reported in writing to the Personnel office in order that they may be credited with compensatory leave. This earned compensatory leave should be taken as soon thereafter as possible in order to avoid excessive leave accumulation. Hourly employees who work during the holidays will be paid only for the hours worked at their regular hourly rates.

Veterans Day, November 11, will be a regular working day for College employees. This holiday will be utilized to extend the Christmas-New Year's holiday period.

To: The College Community

From: William J. Carter

The prompt and efficient handling of law suits brought against the College is essential. Regardless of the merits of a plaintiff's allegations, a defendant must respond within twenty-one (21) days or else suffer an adverse judgment by reason of default.

During this twenty-one-day period, the College must notify the State Attorney General's Office and our insurance company, gather pertinent information from our files and assist the Attorney General's Office in the preparation of the response. In view of all that must be done, the loss of even one of these twenty-one days might well result in a default judgment.

Therefore, it is absolutely essential that the entire College community be aware of the proper procedure to follow in the event an officer of the law serves or attempts to serve papers on the College. Please review and become familiar with the attached procedure, which has been developed with the advice of the Attorney General's Office. Thank you.

Procedure To Follow In The Event An Officer Of The Law Attempts To Serve Legal Papers On College Employees

Only the Vice-President for Business Affairs or designated members of that office staff should accept service of legal papers on behalf of the College of William and Mary. If an officer of the law attempts to serve legal papers on any other person, that person should first ask the serving officer to disclose the name of the parties being sued. If the College of William and Mary is being sued, either as the sole defendant or as a co-defendant, the person should state that he or she has no authority to accept service and that service should be made in the Office of the Vice-President for Business Affairs. The above procedure would apply also if a particular department or school of the College is being sued.

The only instance where an employee outside of the Office of the Vice-President for Business Affairs is authorized to accept service is when that particular employee is being sued, either as the sole defendant or as a co-defendant with other individuals. After accepting service, the named defendant should determine if the suit is a personal matter or if it relates to his or her employment with the College of William and Mary. If it relates to employment with the College, the employee should immediately bring the papers to the Office of the Vice-President for Business Affairs for review and action, if appropriate, by that office. If the employee is being sued as a co-defendant with the College, however, the officer should be referred to the Office of the Vice-President for Business Affairs.

In addition to himself, the Vice-President for Business Affairs has designated the following officers to accept service of legal papers on behalf of the College: his Legal Assistant; the Assistant Vice-President for Business Affairs; or the Director of Auxiliary Enterprises, who also serves the College as Director of Risk Management.

itself, with a brass plaque commemorating the groundbreaking ceremonies, were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Muscarelle, Mr. and Mrs. Kinnamon, Mr. and Mrs. Herman and Mrs. Perrin. The boundaries of the museum were lined out on the ground at the groundbreaking site and signs marked the location of the main components of the building.

Joseph L. Muscarelle, a member of the class of 1927 and his wife, Margaret, are long-time supporters of both higher education and cultural arts. He has served as a trustee of the Bergen Community College in Paramus, on the board of governors for the Hackensack Hospital Association and on the board of the New York Cultural Center in New York City.

Jeanne '39 and Gilbert '34 Kinnamon both have made earlier gifts to various projects and programs at the College including the School of Business Administration and the Alumni House renovation. Their gift to the museum is made in memory of her father and mother, Ralph M. Sheridan and Edythe C. Sheridan.

Fred '48 and Lucy '47 Herman of Norfolk are active members in both the civic and cultural life of Norfolk, and are widely respected as collectors of drawings and prints. Mrs. Perrin of N.Y.C., both an accomplished artist and art consultant, gave an exhibit of her work at the College several years ago, and helped to suggest the original idea for the museum.
