Memoranda To All Students

Disciplinary Proceedings

For a number of years, it has been the practice of the College, when students are arrested, to defer disciplinary proceedings until the matter has been resolved in court. This practice, however, has resulted in long delays between the time a student is charged and the time their status is clarified. Understandably, this situation creates anxiety for the students involved, as well as uncertainty for the College.

I have decided therefore that this practice must be changed. Effective immediately, the College will initiate its own disciplinary proceedings and will no longer await court action. Nothing in the Student Handbook is to be understood to prevent this practice.

Thomas A. Graves, Jr.
President

Enclosed is a memorandum from President Graves announcing a change in one of our disciplinary practices. In view of some of the incidents which occurred last semester, I feel it should also be accompanied by a restatement of the College's expectations for student conduct as we begin a new term.

To avoid any misunderstanding, let me state at the outset that I realize the vast majority of William and Mary students abide by the standards set by the College and conduct their affairs in a fashion which reflects pride in this institution and which evokes admiration from those of us who work with you. But there is a small minority which persists in acting in violation of the College's regulations and on occasion, the laws of the Commonwealth and it is to this group that I wish to direct my comments.

William and Mary is determined to provide an environment where every individual has the freedom to live and work in a civil and orderly community that will enhance learning and personal development. There is no place here for harassment, threat, assault, vandalism, stealing, dishonesty, or boorish behavior. Misuse of alcohol will not be accepted as an excuse or explanation for misconduct or irresponsibility. Group behavior will be judged by the same high standards as those governing individual conduct.

Regrettably, this fall the attitudes and actions of some have not reflected these understandings so we have no alternative but to take a sterner approach to student conduct and student discipline. We will not tolerate violations of the standards of conduct this community has set for its members and are determined to take strong and immediate action when infractions occur.

The level of penalties being administered for violations of College regulations has been increased so that disciplinary probation is now the typical penalty even for a first offense. This fall the Discipline Committee, which hears our most serious cases, held eleven trials. Eight of these cases involved charges against individual students. Five resulted in dismissals from the College; two were permanent expulsions; two were separations without a guarantee of readmission; and one was a suspension. Of three charges against fraternities, two fraternities were removed at mid-year from College housing and given other penalties and one was administered a very strict suspended sentence. Several fraternities have been disciplined for public drunkenness and other unacceptable behavior in the Homecoming Parade and in the light of misconduct in the fraternity complex, our staff there has been expanded for the second semester. These actions reflect our clear resolve to deal forcefully with those who violate our policies.

As the President's letter indicates, we will no longer delay College disciplinary action until after court action when a student is arrested and students cannot expect leniency from the Discipline Committee because they also face charges in a court. The members of the Residence Hall staff and other student affairs offices have been reminded that they must enforce the College's regulations and those of individual residence halls enacted under our policy of self-determination consistently and firmly. Where self-determination does not appear to be working, it will be reconsidered. The Wigwam and Pub will be closed at 1 a.m. except where previous contractual commitments make this impossible. During the coming semester, we will determine whether there are additional steps we need to take in order to meet our obligation to protect the majority of our students and to protect and enhance the educational environment. We will consider, for example, whether beer should continue to be sold at the Wigwam. Additional measures will be taken if necessary to control student conduct.

At William and Mary, we pride ourselves on our high standards as we should. Those students, however, must be understood to apply to conduct and attitude as well as to academic accomplishment. I urge you, as we begin a new semester together, to examine your behavior and make certain it reflects a commitment to the high principles for which the college stands both for your own sake and for the benefit of your fellow students.

Roseberg Exhibit

The exhibit is open to the public daily from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday. There is no admission charge.

The exhibit will be on display through Feb. 24. A reception in honor of Roseberg will be held at the gallery, Thursday, Feb. 4, from 7:30-9:30 p.m.

Roseberg, who is retiring from the College in May, has included in this exhibit over 100 individual pieces, including 55 sculptures and 35 prints, drawings and paintings, as well as ceramics.

A native of Vinton, Iowa, and Swedish heritage, Roseberg received his art training at the State University of Iowa where he received B.F.A. and M.F.A. degrees. He did further graduate study at the Cranbrook Academy of Art, University of Hawaii, University of Virginia, Mysore University in India, and the Tyler School of Art at Temple University.

Recently Roseberg's one-man shows have been held at Radford College, Roanoke Fine Art Gallery, the Chrysler Museum, and Longwood College. He is represented in permanent collections at State University of Iowa, the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts, the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation, Rockingham County Citizens Association, Longwood College, Thalheimer Brothers and the Chrysler Museum in Norfolk, which has loaned several sculptures for the William and Mary exhibition.

Roseberg is a member of the Audubon Artists of America and has displayed sculpture in their annual exhibitions in New York; the American Association of Museums; Asian Society; Virginia Museum of Fine Arts; and Tidewater Artists Association. He is a Fellow of the International Institute of Arts and Letters and was a founding board member of the Twentieth Century Gallery in Williamsburg. He is a veteran of the U.S. Naval Reserve and served in World War II and Korea, retiring in 1968 with the rank of Commander.

Roseberg has received several grants for his work, including a Ford Foundation grant, a faculty research grant from the Society of the Alumni at William and Mary, and a Fulbright grant for study in India. He was bestowed the Advancement of Scholarship award given by Alpha of Virginia Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa in 1964.

If William and Mary has ever had an artist it could call its own, Roseberg is that artist. He created majestic profiles of King William and Queen Mary to adorn the medallion commemorating the College's 275th anniversary. He transferred the strength of George Wythe and John Marshall to a similar medallion used by the law school. Bronze plaques he molded to honor Dr. Donald W. Davis and Dr. W.C. Guy are displayed prominently in the biology and chemistry buildings on campus.

Roseberg says he enjoys working in several mediums and plans to continue his full range of work after he retires from teaching.

"I try not to be influenced by what is supposed to be fashionable," says Roseberg. "Five years later, you find it is unfashionable and not the in thing anymore."

Directories

The new Williamsburg/Peninsula telephone directories are available in the Xerox Room, Room 110, James Blair Hall. They may be PICKED UP during the work day on a first come-first served basis. Please pick up only the quantity actually needed so the supply will last.

We appreciate your cooperation in this matter.

A Letter to the Editor:

The fraternity system at William and Mary will begin formal rush on January 19, 1982. As a result of negative behavior by a few members the reputation of the entire Greek System has been damaged. It is our desire to correct this damage because it reflects, unfortunately, not only on the fraternities, but the entire college community.

In each case of misconduct, the administration and the Committee on Discipline have worked to effectively punish the offenders. The Interfraternity Council has pledged anew to work toward more self-discipline and improved cooperation with the administration to help prevent further problems. Additionally, we are working to reinforce the goals of brotherhood, service, and philanthropy among our individual member fraternities.

The fraternity system at William and Mary is a strong one that provides the campus and community with leadership. The record of William and Mary fraternity men in terms of financial support and commitment of time is probably one of the best in the state. The Interfraternity Council and its member fraternities have continually provided valuable service to the College and local communities. Examples of such regular activity include visiting residents of local nursing homes, helping the S.P.C.A., and working with handicapped citizens. Notable large philanthropies, annually netting thousands of dollars for charity are Pi Kappa Alpha's "Pike Bike," for Muscular Dystrophy, Sigma Chi's "Derby Day," for the Wallace Village for handicapped children, and Theta Delta Chi's World record horseshoe pitching marathon for the United Way.

In short, the fraternity system at William and Mary is a large part of the overall learning experience for many of our college men. It is regrettable that the actions of a very few fraternity men have temporarily marred the reputation of a fraternity system that has long been an important positive element of the College and community. Working together the fraternity men at William and Mary intend to continue promoting the ideals of our system.

Treasurer's Office Closed Today

In order to more efficiently handle registration/validation and to better serve our students, the Treasurer's Office will again participate in arena registration/validation at William and Mary Hall for spring semester.

It is felt this decision will eliminate a lot of confusion and frustration on the part of both new and returning students. This will, however, mean that the office will be closed all day today, Jan. 19.

Scholarship Opportunities

The College has been invited to nominate an outstanding junior for the Beinecke Memorial Scholarship, a prestigious national scholarship. This scholarship provides funding for your senior year at the College and two years of graduate study at an institution of your choice. Recipients of the scholarship are chosen based upon a superior academic record, demonstrated financial need, and personal promise.

If you are interested in being nominated, please contact the chairman of the department in which you are majoring, or your academic advisor. A student must have departmental endorsement in order to be considered for the scholarship. Application is Monday, Feb. 1.

For additional information, please contact the Office of Extramural Programs, The Brafferton, ext. 4354.

Getting It Right

The performance dates in January for the Mermettes are incorrectly listed in the Cultural Arts Calendar. The Mermettes will present three performances at 8:15 p.m., March 25, 26, and 27 in Adair Pool.

Performance dates for the Sinfonicon Opera Company's present presentation of "Ruddigore" are January 27, 28, 29, and 30, nightly at 8:15 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. Tickets are $3 for faculty, staff and students; $4 for the general public.

Internationally Famous Pianist to Play Thursday

Leonard Pennario, whose lifetime of dedication to music has made him a pianist of international stature, will be guest artist in the next William and Mary Concert Series, at 8:15 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 21 in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

A limited number of single admission tickets will be available, at $4 each for faculty, staff and students of the College; $5 for the general public.

Tickets will be on sale at the Campus Center one week prior to the concert and also at the box office at PBK the evening of the performance.

Pennario will play Suite Bergamasque by Debussy; Sonata in F sharp minor, Op. 11 by Schumann; Roumanian folk dances by Bartok; "The White Peacock" by Charles Griffes; and three compositions by Chopin: Valse Brillante in E flat Major, Op. 18; Nocturn in B Major, Op. 32, No. 1; and Scherzo in B flat minor, Op. 31.

Pennario has appeared with the "Big Five" orchestras in the United States, Great Britain's eight leading orchestras, and Europe's finest orchestras.

Pennario's list of best selling records is continually expanding. Under exclusive contract to Angel Records, he has a long succession of successful recordings including his newest recording of Chopin Waltzes. In 1974-75, he became part of record industry history by recording two discs comprised of Louis Gottschalk's brilliant solo piano music.

Master Class

Pennario will hold a master class from 10 - 12 p.m., Friday, Jan. 22 in Ewell 100. He will critique the performance of student pianists, selected in advance of the class. Anyone who would like to stop in and sit in on the class is invited to do so.

Since 1936, when he made his professional debut at age 12 with the Dallas Symphony, Pennario's career has been filled with impressive highlights each season.

In 1967, Pennario gave five concerts with the Los Angeles Philharmonic, conducted by Zubin Mehta, in which he played the world premiere performance of Miklos Rozsa's Concerto, Opus 31, which was composed for and dedicated to the pianist.

In what is left of his spare time, Pennario's favorite relaxation between engagements has been to play in bridge tournaments. In 1980 he realized a fond ambition, becoming a Life Master at the Bridge Spring Nationals, an achievement that may be unique in the world of concert soloists.

Also an excellent linguist, Pennario speaks French, Spanish and, as he says, "a little Italian." Before he became so involved with concertizing and recording, he composed a number of works for piano which were published and earned him membership in the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers (ASCAP)--a unique distinction for a concert artist.

'Sweet Honey,'

"Sweet Honey in the Rock," the Washington, D.C. based acappella quartet famous for its lush gospel harmony which reaches back into the traditional folk music of the black church and community, will give a concert at 2 p.m., Sunday, Jan. 24 in Andrews auditorium.

The performance opens the second half of the 1981-82 Lecture Series planned by the Office of Minority Affairs and the Black Student Organization.

The Sweet Honey group takes its name from a Biblical parable and is led by its founder, Bernice Reagon, a historian of the civil rights movement. Reagon is program director and culture historian for the Program in Black American Culture, Division of Performing Arts, Smithsonian Institution.

A consultant and lecturer on Black culture and history, Reagon received a doctorate in history from Howard University in 1975. She began to write her own songs during the late sixties when she could not find herself in the new songs she heard. She founded Sweet Honey in the Rock in 1973.

Other events in the Black Lecture Series include a talk by Charles Daye, dean of the North Carolina Central University School of Law in Durham, N.C., who will speak at 7:30 p.m., Friday, Jan. 29 in the Little Theatre in the Campus Center. His topic has not yet been announced.

Maya Angelou, poet, author, artist and currently artist-in-residence at Wake Forest University, will present a program at 7:30 p.m., Friday, Feb. 19 in William and Mary Hall. This program is being co-sponsored by the Speakers Forum.

The Hampton Institute Choir will be featured in a gospel night concert at 7 p.m., Saturday Feb. 20 in the Campus Center Little Theatre.

Also on the schedule is Elaine Jones, NAACP Legal Defense Fund lawyer from Washington, D.C., who will speak at 7:30 p.m., Friday, March 19 in the Little Theatre.

The series will conclude Sunday, March 21, with a student musical performance at 2 p.m., in the Campus Center ballroom.

All programs are free and open to the public.

Angelo Headline BSO Series

In addition to the lectures and concerts, there will be a Uhuro

Bookstore book fair from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday, Feb. 20 in the Campus Center

Amy Levine

Levine Recital Set Jan. 24

Amy Levine, soprano, a junior, will present a recital at 3 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 24 in the Botetourt Gallery of Swem Library.

Levine will sing a selection of songs by Mozart and Haydn and "I am laid in Earth," from "Dido and Aeneas" by Purcell.

Levine is a biology major, a student of Frances Breeze and a member of the William and Mary choir. She is secretary of the Circle K service organization and was recently invited to join Pi Sigma, the national biology honorary.

Karen Levine Arnold, a recent graduate of Oberlin College Conservatory will accompany Miss Levine on the College's Broadwood piano. The piano is one of two instruments in existence identical to the one played by Beethoven. It is thought to have been constructed in 1816 by John Broadwood, an early English piano builder. John Broadwood, an early English piano builder.

The piano has been owned by the college since 1946 when it was donated by Mrs. John W. Price, Jr., of "Prestwold," a plantation near Clarksville. The instrument was part of the lavish furnishings of Prestwold during the 19th century when it was owned by Sir Peyton Skipwith, who was rumored to have won the 10 square-mile plantation from William Byrd III in a three-day card game.

Trio Next On Sunday Series

"Music by Three," a trio comprised of Daniel Phillips, violin, Toby Appel, viola, and Colin Carr, cello, will give a concert at 3 p.m., Sunday, Jan. 24 in the ballroom of the Campus Center.

The performance is part of the current Sunday Series and is open to the public without charge.

The trio will play Suite No. 4 in E flat Major for unaccompanied cello by Bach; Sonata for unaccompanied viola, Op. 25, No. 1 by Paul Hindemith; Sonata No. 3 for solo violin by Eugene Ysaye; and Divertimento in E flat Major, K. 563 by Mozart.

Daniel Phillips, violinist, was winner of the prestigious Michaels Award of the Young Concert Artists in 1978. He is widely recognized as one of the extraordinary violinists of his generation. Since winning the Young Concert Artists International Auditions in 1976, Phillips has given two enthusiastically received New York recitals.

As winner of the 1980 Young Concert Artists International Auditions, violist Toby Appel was presented in the 20th anniversary Young Concert Artists Series in New York in 1981. Appel's numerous chamber music engagements include the Marlboro Festival, the Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center, the Tokyo Chamber Soloists in Japan, the Blue Hill Festival, Chamber Music Northwest, and the International Musicians Seminar in England.

Since his extraordinarily successful New York debut in 1979 as a winner of the 1978 Young Concert Artists International Auditions, cellist Colin Carr has toured the U.S. annually and was recently honored as recipient of the 1982 Gregor Piatigorsky Memorial Award of $2,500 given each year to honor the memory of the great cellist by acknowledging young cellists of distinction.

Now 23, the London-born Carr has appeared with most of the major British orchestras. He made his Royal Festival Hall debut in 1980 with the English Chamber Orchestra, and in May 1981, played the Elgar concerto with the BBC Symphony Orchestra. He returns to the Festival Hall next spring to play the Walton concerto with the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra conducted by Yehudi Menuhin.

Art Exhibit

The French House is sponsoring a photography exhibit entitled "The Paris Opera". The exhibit will run until March 5 in the lobby of the House.

Charles Holloway Named Director of University Communications

Charles M. Holloway, director of corporate communications for the College Board in New York City, has been named the Director of University Communications effective March 1.

Holloway, who has been associated with the College Board since 1959, will fill the position formerly held by Ross Weeks, who left the College in May to become executive director of the Jamestown-Yorktown Foundation.

Holloway will administer the university communications program which includes media relations, publications, special events, and internal communications.

Holloway joined the College Board in 1959 as director of information services with responsibility for the public information office, newsletters, annual reports and related publications, the production of television shows and films, and the planning and conducting of national and regional writers seminars.

He assumed the position of director of corporate communications in 1972. His current position includes the supervision and direction of a variety of writing, film and television, and associational activities involving the national communications of the College Board.

The Board is a nonprofit membership association of more than 2500 colleges, universities, and secondary schools. It is best known as the sponsor of a series of guidance and college admissions tests including the Scholastic Aptitude Tests (SAT).

A graduate of the University of California at Berkeley, Holloway pursued graduate studies in English at California, Columbia University and the State University of Washington where he received his master of arts degree in English. He also studied at the University of Aix-Marseilles in France.

Holloway has served with the Federal government on two different occasions in the Office of the U.S. Commissioner of Education. From 1957 to 1959, he was a special assistant to U.S. Commissioner of Education, Lawrence Derthick, and in 1963, while on leave from the College Board, he served as a special consultant to Commissioner Francis Keppel.

Holloway has also worked for the National Education Association in federal and Congressional relations, and while on leave from the College Board, he was a visiting editor for the Chronicle of Higher Education, a national weekly for higher education institutions.

Holloway has published in a number of education-related journals and newspapers, including the Chronicle, CHANGE Magazine, and the National Education Association Journal.

His appointment is the culmination of a national search which attracted nearly 375 applications.

He and Mrs. Holloway have two sons, one of whom, Peter, is a 1977 graduate of William and Mary.

College Community Mourns Recent Deaths

Rita Welsh

Rita Varnes Welsh of 326 Burns Lane died Dec. 26 at Williamsburg Community Hospital. She was 51.

Mrs. Welsh was born in Omaha, Neb., and resided in Williamsburg for the past 18 years. She was co-director of the Adult Skills Program at the College of William and Mary and served on the board of directors of Child Development Resources. She belonged to the Church of St. Bede, the League of Women Voters and the International Reading Association.

Mrs. Welsh is survived by her husband, Robert E. Welsh; three sons, Patrick R. Welsh of Chapel Hill, N.C., and Richard J. Welsh and Edward M. Welsh, both of Greensboro, N.C.; her mother, Margaret Ryan Varnes of Missouri Valley, Iowa, and Omaha; two sisters, Angela How and Carole Maginn, both of Omaha; and a brother, Dr. Richard P. Varnes of Los Angeles.

A wake service was held at Bucktrout Funeral Home. A funeral was

When Rita Varnes Welsh died last week, the Williamsburg area lost one of those few people in the world who really do things to help the needy.

It's easy to send a check to support a cause or to discuss the plight of those who seem caught in a cycle of poverty. Mrs. Welsh devoted the last six years of her life to starting and maintaining the Adult Skills Program that serves Williamsburg, James City County and upper York County. Through the program, Mrs. Welsh helped hundreds of local residents learn how to read, write and do basic mathematics.

Numerous Williamsburg area residents have come to Mrs. Welsh barely able to sign their own names. They came to her not knowing how to keep a checkbook and unable to drive because they couldn't read the required written text. They left with the skills they sought. Many went on to better jobs with the abilities they had acquired.

Beyond the Adult Skills Program, Mrs. Welsh served the community through her involvement at the Church of St. Bede, where she worked with college students in particular. Her quiet sense of humor bridged the gap that is so aggravating between the generations.

She was also a member of the board of directors of Child Development Resources, the League of Women Voters and the International Reading Association. She will be remembered in the Williamsburg community for what she gave to it.

conducted at the parish center of the Church of St. Bede by Father Ronald Sequin and Father George E. Lahn of the Church of St. Bede, and Father Michael McLernon of St. Rose of Lima Church, York, Pa. Burial was in Cedar Grove Cemetery.

Caroline Chandler Heriot

Miss Caroline Chandler Heriot, 63, law librarian and professor of law at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law at the College of William and Mary, died at Georgetown University Hospital in Washington after a long illness.

A native of Dalzell, S.C., Miss Heriot was graduated from Lander College in Greenwood, S.C., in 1939 and received a bachelor's degree in library science from the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, in 1954 and a law degree from UNC in 1960. She is credited with the reorganization and restructuring of the Marshall-Wythe law library after she was appointed in July 1976 and has been cited for her recommendations and her work with the architects in improving the design of the new law school library building at William and Mary.

Before her appointment in Williamsburg, she served for nine years as law librarian, assistant professor, associate professor and professor of law at Loyola University Law School in New Orleans. Earlier she served as librarian for the New Mexico Supreme Court in 1965-67 and as assistant law librarian and law librarian at the University of Iowa's College of Law in 1960-65.

She began her law library work in 1956 as assistant law librarian at the UNC School of Law while she was working on her law degree.

Carl M. Voyles

Carl M. Voyles, 82, of Fort Myers, Fla., a veteran football coach who spent five years at William and Mary in the 1940s, died at his home Monday.

Voyles went to William and Mary in 1939 as head coach and athletic director and guided the Indians to four successive winning seasons 7-3 record. William and Mary did not play football in 1943.

Voyles later was head coach at Auburn, 1944-47, in the Southeastern Conference; of the Brooklyn Dodgers, 1948-49, in the All American Conference; and of the Hamilton Tiger Cats, 1950-55, in the Canadian League.

Prior to his W&M stint, native Oklahoman Voyles had been an assistant at Illinois and Duke.

Voyles was elected to the Football Hall of Fame, both in the United States and Canada.

The family has suggested that tokens of sympathy be expressed through contributions to the Adult Skills Program at the College of William and Mary.

She had served on a number of inspection and accreditation teams for the American Bar Association/American Association of Law Libraries since 1976.

Miss Heriot is survived by her mother, Mrs. J.C. Heriot of Bishopville, S.C.; three brothers, retired Col. James D. Heriot of Columbia, S.C., Richard M. Heriot of Iowa City, Iowa, and William G. Heriot of Bishopville; and two sisters, Mrs. William Weaver of Bethesda, Md., and Louise Heriot of Bennettsville, S.C.

A funeral was held at Old Rembert Church in Lee County, S.C. A memorial service was held Jan. 15 in the Wren Chapel.

Lena Gary Clark

Lena Gary Clark, 87, died Dec. 24 at the Pines Convalescent Center following a short illness.

Mrs. Clark was born in Henrico County and resided in Williamsburg for the past 56 years. She belonged to Williamsburg United Methodist Church and was a member of Green Spring Garden Club. Her late husband was G. Glenwood Clark, Chancellor professor of English at the College of William and Mary.

She is survived by a son, E. Gary Clark of Westport, Conn.; a sister, Mrs. R.W. Gannaway of Cumberland County; five grandchildren and one great-grandson.

A funeral was held at Williamsburg United Methodist Church by the Rev. David Smith, the Rev. James W. Brown and the Rev. Charles Swadley. Burial was in Cedar Grove Cemetery, Williamsburg.

Mrs. Patricia Berry

A member of Severn Presbyterian Church, she was a laboratory technician for the Virginia Institute of Marine Science, Gloucester Point.

Survivors include a son, Noah F. Berry, at home; and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Edward Brown of Hayes, and a sister, Mrs. Kathryn Ketch, all of Hayes.

William J. Carter To End 10 Years Heading Business Office

William J. Carter has announced his resignation as vice president for business affairs effective August 31, upon his completion of 10 years in the post.

In a letter to Thomas A. Graves, Jr., president of the College, Carter said he had made the decision "after careful assessment of our progress over the past ten years and contemplation of moving on to a new challenging situation, which, as you know, I have been exploring for more than a year."

President Graves accepted the resignation with regret, noting that Carter had presided over one of the most dynamic periods of construction and renovation growth in the College's history. He commended Carter as "a dedicated public servant" who "had given of himself above and beyond the call of duty in administering the College's business affairs over the past decade."

In the past 10 years, William and Mary had completed more than $35 million in renovated and new construction including a $3.5 million renovation of older dormitories. Coming on line in the past year have been a $1.4 million renovation of Sorority Court, a $2.1 million renovation of Chancellors Hall, which will be dedicated in February as the new home of the School of Business Administration; a $500,000 addition to the College Bookstore, and a $1.1 million addition to the physical plant facilities.

During Carter's tenure as vice president for business affairs, the College also completed the new $5.6 million law school and a $4 million student housing complex known as Randolph Residences.

Carter said he was most proud of the improvements in student housing, including the negotiation of the transfer of 38 acres of property, two residence halls, and four houses from Eastern State Hospital to William and Mary. The property, known as James Blair Terrace, gave the College residence space for an additional 280 students, including graduate students. Carter estimated that to build a similar complex would cost in the neighborhood of $6 million. Student housing capacity at William and Mary has increased by 25 percent since 1972.

In his letter to President Graves, Carter described his tenure at William and Mary as "a dynamic period in the continuing development of William and Mary and a stimulating, challenging and gratifying time in my career, and I shall always value with esteem and affection my association with you, my colleagues, the Board of Visitors and the College."

He said he was announcing his resignation early in order to give the College ample opportunity to search for his successor.

Carter, 52, came to his position from Hollins College where he had been business manager for nine years. At William and Mary, he is responsible for the areas of non-academic administration personnel, accounting and financial administration, campus police, purchases and stores, auxiliary enterprises, business services, facilities planning and construction, and buildings and grounds.

Carter is chairman of the Council of Senior State Business Officers, which consists of the chief business officers of the senior colleges and universities of Virginia. He is also a member of the National Association of the College and University Business Officers and the Eastern Association of College and University Business Officers.

Tate and Fraser Win NEH Fellowships

For the second year in a row, faculty members at the College have been awarded National Endowment for the Humanities Fellowships.

Thad Tate, director of the Institute of Early American History and Culture, co-sponsored by the College and the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation, has won a Fellowship for Independent Study and Research. Howard Fraser, associate professor of modern languages and literatures, has been awarded a Fellowship for College Teachers. Both Fraser and Tate will be on leave for the 1982-83 academic year.

Tate, who is also a professor of history, will begin his work in late summer on a project he has entitled "The Early American Landscape: An Environmental History of America 1600-1750." He expects to do most of his research in Charlottesville, Va., and Washington, D.C.

Tate, who has been director of IEAHC since 1972, is author of "The Negro in Eighteenth Century Williamsburg," and many articles on early American history. He is also co-editor and contributor for "The Chesapeake in the Seventeenth Century," published by the University of North Carolina Press. Tate was editor of The William and Mary Quarterly from 1966-72, and was Book Review editor from 1961-66.

The Fellowship Tate received is given to scholars and teachers who have made significant contributions to humanistic thought and knowledge. There were 1,076 eligible applicants to the program of whom 126 were funded.

New Mexico in Albuquerque on a study called "Modernist Imagination in the Magazine Caras y caretas." His study will cover the first half of the editions published from 1898-1939. He will be looking at articles, short stories and poems in the magazine and the context in which they appeared.

Fraser, whose teaching specialties include the Spanish and Portuguese languages and Spanish American literature, joined the William and Mary faculty in 1974. He was one of 137 successful applicants for a Fellowship for College Teachers, a program which received over 700 research proposals.

Last year, Bruce A. McConachie, associate professor of theatre and speech, and Hans O. Tiefel, professor of religion, received NEH Fellowships.

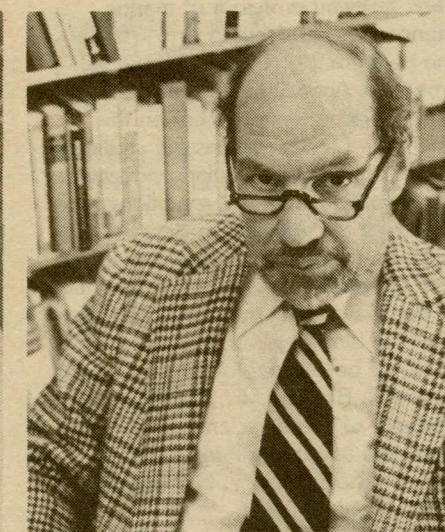

Tiefel is currently working on a book about the roles and obligations of German Protestants in the 1930s toward the Nazi state and to the Jews.

The project has been entitled "A Testing of Christian Ethics: German Protestantism and the Rise of National Socialism."

McConachie, also working on a book, is exploring the parallels and continuities among the structures and contents of popular melodrama. He is studying the styles and the organizations of actors and theatrical companies which performed them and the values and behavior of the audiences which viewed these plays and players in pre-Civil War America.

Hugh Seidman Is Writer-in-Residence

Hugh Seidman, a lyric poet whose writings are included in twenty anthologies, will be Writer-in-Residence for the spring semester.

Stephen Spender was scheduled to join the English faculty this spring, but he was forced to withdraw due to illness.

Seidman has had over 75 poems published in magazines and periodicals and has had 15 poems, articles and reviews accepted for publication this year. His latest book, published this year by Random House, is entitled "Thome/Falcon/Eye." He is also the author of "Blood Lord," published in 1970 under the Yale Series of Younger Poets program.

Seidman has been a visiting poet and lecturer at a number of colleges and universities including the University of Wisconsin, Washington College, and Yale University. He was poet-in-residence at the Aspen Leaves Writers Conference, summer of 1979, and since 1978 has been participating poet in the New York State Poets-in-the-Schools program. Seidman, in addition to his writings and academic commitments, has conducted private poetry workshops since 1970.

Seidman is a graduate of Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, where he received a B.S. cum laude in 1961, and Columbia University School of the Arts, where he received an MFA with distinction in poetry in 1969. Seidman makes his home in New York City.

Alumni Join Staff of Governor Charles Robb In Richmond

Timothy J. Sullivan, associate dean of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, has been named Executive Assistant for Planning and Policy in Governor Charles S. Robb's administration. Sullivan's job will be to "develop responses and programs" for "the whole range of issues that confronts state government."

In a recent interview with the press, Sullivan predicted a "difficult four years" for the Robb administration because of federal budget cuts and a decline in the growth rate of state revenues.

Sullivan worked as a volunteer issues advisor to Robb for nearly two years as Robb was preparing and running his campaign for governor. Sullivan was the coordinator for an economic development plan that became a cornerstone of the Robb campaign. Sullivan, whose teaching specialties include contracts, equitable and legal remedies, received an undergraduate degree in government from William and Mary in 1966. He received a J.D. degree from Harvard University and joined the Marshall-Wythe faculty in 1972.

Sullivan has been on leave as a visiting professor at the University of Virginia. In his absence, Richard E. Walck, professor of law, has been acting associate dean of administration. Stewart H. Gamage, a 1972 fine arts graduate, executive director of the National Alliance for Hydroelectric Energy, has been named Director of the Virginia Liaison Office in Washington.

Gamage served as an executive assistant to Robb in 1978-79 and has been on the staffs of several House committees in Washington. In 1974 she was a Planning Consultant for the Commonwealth of Virginia and later assistant to the chairman of the House Committee on Banking, Finance and Urban Affairs. She was a staff member of the House Committee on Ethics in 1977 and has also served as Associate Deputy for Government Affairs in the office of Alfred E. Kahn, advisor on inflation, during the Carter administration. She was elected to the Board of the Directors of the Society of the Alumni in 1979.

Dr. Karow New Director Student Health Services

Dr. Juliette S. Karow, a staff physician at the Student Health Center since 1974, and acting director since April 1981, has been named director of the Student Health Center.

A graduate of the University of Michigan Medical School, Ann Arbor, Mich., Dr. Karow conducted a private practice in general medicine in Royal Oak, Mich. from 1953-1954 and in Sarasota, Florida from 1964-74. From 1953-1960 she was director of all planned parenthood clinics in Oakland County, Mich.

Dr. Karow temporarily retired from private practice to devote herself to raising her children from 1954 until 1964 when her youngest child started school. She continued as director of the planned parenthood clinics, however, until the family moved to Florida in 1967.

Dr. Karow is author of "The Necessary Diet," a new uncomplicated approach to good nutrition, published by Donning Publishers, 1981. Her interest in good nutrition, especially among the college-age population, led to her development of a nutritious snack food, "Mighty Muffins." She now serves as chairman of the Board of the Mighton Muffin Baking Co. of West Point, Va.

The invertebrate ecologist Robert J. Diaz, assistant professor of marine science, has been awarded a $70,000 one-year grant by the Environmental Protection Agency to study the effects of a laboratory environment on the outcome of toxicity (bioassay) studies. Marine animals are regularly subjected to controlled laboratory conditions to determine the effects of toxic substances (pollutants). Removing them from the natural environment may have an untoward effect that can alter the results of bioassays.

He will be assisted in the study by Morris H. Roberts, Jr., associate professor of marine science, and newly-appointed assistant marine scientist Sandra Thornton, a Yale University biology graduate.

Paul K. Stockmeyer of the department of mathematics and computer science has recently published two articles on Graph Reconstruction Theory. "A Census of Non-Reconstructable Digraphs, I: Six Related Families" appears in the Oct., 1981 issue of the Journal of Combinatorial Theory, Series B. The report "Which Reconstruction Results are Significant" forms a chapter of the book The Theory and Applications of Graphs (Proceedings of the Fourth International Conference on the Theory and Applications of Graphs), recently published by John Wiley and Sons.

An article entitled "Addendum: Controllability and Stabilizability in Multi-Pair Systems" by David P. Stanford and Luther T. Conner, of the department of mathematics and computer science, appears in the Sept., 1981 issue of the Journal of Control and Optimization of the Society for Industrial and Applied Mathematics. The article expands on a previously published paper of the authors' on a discrete-time multi-modal control system.

Wayne Kernodle, professor of sociology, has been appointed to the Board of Directors of Williamsburg Community Living, Incorporated.

Dale Hoak of the history department, currently a Visiting Fellow of Clare Hall, University of Cambridge, gave a slide lecture Dec. 1 to the Medieval Historical Society at the University of Cambridge on "The Hexenbilder of Hans Balding Grien: History, Art and Mentality in Renaissance Germany."

The lecture explored the possibility that late-medieval oral traditions may have inspired some of the woodcuts of this German master. The lecture was delivered at Gonville and Caius College Cambridge.

David Finifter of the economics department presented a seminar paper entitled "An Analysis of the Net Earnings Impact of CETA Participation Using the CLMS Data Base" to members of the Department of Economics and the Center for Labor Market Studies at Northeastern University, Dec. 8.

Finifter, Martin Garrett, and Steven Meyer of the department of economics attended several sessions of the National Bureau of Economic Research's Conference on Measurement of Wages which was held in Williamsburg on Dec. 4 and 5.

George W. Grayson, professor of government, delivered two lectures Dec. 11, at the Foreign Service Institute of the Department of State on "Energy Issues in Latin America and the Caribbean" and "The Emigration Issue in Latin America and the Caribbean." On Oct. 14, Grayson presented invited testimony on "U.S. Immigration Policy" before the Subcommittee on Immigration of the U.S. House of Representatives.

Recent essays by Grayson on Mexican affairs and energy policy have appeared in Commonweal (Oct. 23), Current History (Nov. 1981), and Newsday (Nov. 23 and Dec. 3).

John Lavach, professor of education, presented an invited address, "The Human Side of Management," at the National Aeronautics and Space Administrations, Goddard Space Flight Center, Maryland.

Robert J. Orth, assistant professor of marine science, was an invited participant at a Special Conference held at Virginia Tech.

The conference, "Recovery and Restoration of Damaged Eco-systems," was organized by Dr. John Cairns and Dr. Art Buikema through a grant funded by the Exxon Corp.

The ecosystems addressed (seagrass, marshes, mangroves, coral reefs, fisheries, tundra and shores) were those having the potential to be adversely affected by oilspills. Orth's participation was in the seagrass group.

Chesapeake Bay Magazine recently purchased 2,000 copies of the booklet The Chesapeake: A Boating Guide to Weather that was produced by Sea Grant at the Virginia Institute of Marine Science with help from the NOAA National Weather Service. Some 6,000 copies of the popular 1979 publication have been distributed. Jon Lucy, instructor in marine science was its principal author.

Norma R. Chandler, Director of Purchases and Stores, attended the fall meeting of the Virginia Association of Governmental Purchasing in McLean, Nov. 3-5. Mrs. Chandler also attended the fourth annual luncheon of the Tidewater Regional Minority Purchasing Council, Inc., Nov. 13. Guest speaker was Dr. Harrison B. Wilson, President of Norfolk State University.

"Roman Catholic Modernism--Revisited" by James Livingston, professor of religion, appeared in Vol. 50 (Sept., 1981) of the Historical Magazine of the Protestant Episcopal Church. The article analyzes historiographical questions raised by T.M. Looe's provocative Liberal Catholicism, Reform Catholicism, Modernism. A shorter review of the Looe book by Livingston appeared in the Oct. issue of The American Historical Review.

Leonard W. Haas, assistant professor of marine science, has received a two-year, $110,000 grant from the Biological Oceanography Section of the National Science Foundation. The grant will be used for research on the ecology of heterotrophic microflagellates (microorganisms that feed on other organisms).

Schauer Is Next Forum Speaker

Frederick F. Schauer, professor of law at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, will be guest speaker at the next meeting of the Faculty Forum, Thursday, Jan. 21 at 12:30 - 1:30 p.m., in the Dodge Room of Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

Participants are asked to bring a bag lunch. Coffee will be provided.

Schauer will take as his topic, "Philosophizing About Rights."

Mario D. Zamora, professor of anthropology, was invited in November to participate in the Tenth International Congress of the Unity of the Sciences by Morton Kaplan, professor of political science at the University of Chicago and President of the Congress, held in Seoul, Korea.

About 800 scholars from 100 nations, representing various disciplines, attended. Zamora was involved in the sessions dealing with modernization and development in Asia, focused on Korea and Japan. While in Korea, Dr. Zamora was also invited to deliver a lecture entitled "Trends in American Anthropology and Their Implications for Korean Anthropology" at the College of Social Sciences, Seoul National University. He was likewise hosted by the Philippine Ambassador to Korea Nicanor Jimenez in connection with the formation of the Association for Anthropological Diplomacy and Philippine politics. On his way back to the USA, Zamora was a seminar speaker before Japanese and foreign professors in Tokyo, Japan on the subject "Emerging Asia: Prospects for Modernization". While in Tokyo, he was the guest of Philippine and Southeast Asian specialists at the University of Tokyo and Sophia University, Japan.

Zamora was invited to serve as a member of the international editorial advisory board of Asian Profile, an international journal published in Hong Kong. His article entitled "Methods of Research in Cultural Anthropology" appeared in the recent issue of the Angeles University Journal, Angeles University, Philippines. His review of W.H. Cowley's Presidents, Professors, and Trustees appeared in the latest issue of the Indian Journal of Public Administration, New Delhi, India. His review of F.E.M. Mitrasing's Suriname: Land of Seven Peoples was printed in Mini-World, a magazine published in Paramaribo, Suriname Republic.

Fred Harris, assistant professor of economics, learned recently that "A Bayesian Analysis of Free Rider Metagames" has been accepted for publication in the Southern Economic Journal. The paper was co-authored with Roy C. Evans ('80), a former honors student.

"There is so much talk these days about human rights, legal rights, constitutional rights, moral rights and just 'plain' rights that it has become important to try to clear up what it means to refer to a 'right', what rights are, what kind of rights there are, and where rights come from," says Schauer. "This is a non-technical discussion about recent philosophical attempts by me and others to deal with this troublesome topic."

Library Tightens Loaning Policy

Librarian Clifford Currie has announced that because of the poor return rate on books, Swem Library will not lend its books to out of town residents. The library under its new policy, will lend books only to William and Mary faculty, staff and students, alumni, students in the Virginia Tidewater Consortium of colleges and area residents who have a Williamsburg mailing address.

There is still no cost for library use by members of the College Community.

There is a fee of $5 per year for area residents wishing to use the library facilities but no charge to members of the College Community.

John D. Haskell, associate librarian says that the library is tightening its policies because of the high cost of the books and the need to insure that students have the materials they need.

Swem Library has upped its fine charges from five cents per day to ten cents per day and cut the borrowing time for faculty spouses from six months to one month. Faculty may check a book out for a year, graduate students for six months and undergraduates for 28 days with one renewal.

Applications for library cards should be made at the circulation desk at the main entrance.

Record Breakers

Freshman Carla Tadem of Ft. Campbell, Kentucky, set a new William and Mary school record in the 50 meter hurdles during the annual William and Mary All-Comers meet at William and Mary Hall recently. Tadem clocked at 6.4, placing third in her heat in the opening set of the indoor season for the Tribe.

Tadem was a four-year high school track member at Ft. Campbell High School and was the Kentucky State Champion in the hurdles in 1980-81 as well as being named Most Dependable for two years.

Jim Jeutter, Carl Browne and Tom Martin were double winners for William and Mary Sunday as the Indians walloped Boston College 80-33 in swimming last weekend.

Brown set a record for the 500 free style in 4:54.81. The old mark of 4:56.8 was set by Michael Hennessy in 1979.

More Loan Money Offered By VELA

The Virginia Education Loan Authority, VELA, has recently been able to obtain a limited amount of money to lend for the Spring of 1982. The following guidelines are in effect for these additional funds:

- 1) Only (renewal) students of VELA loans will be eligible for lending considerations in the Spring of 1982.
- 2) The eligible students must be enrolled at least half-time, be a Virginia resident, and attending only Virginia schools. Students attending out of state institutions are not eligible for this loan aid.
- 3) The revised applications will be distributed directly by the VELA to the students for this lending period only starting December 28th. Students will have to contact the VELA for an application form. Applications will not be distributed to the schools. (OLD APPLICATIONS ARE NO LONGER ACCEPTABLE).
- 4) Applications will be accepted from the schools until February 15. (Post dated as of February 15.)
- 5) Lending will be limited to the amount of funds available from this bank borrowing.

Students who secure a VELA application through the Virginia Education Loan Authority must secure a NEEDS TEST form from the Office of Student Financial Aid as a part of the total application process. The NEEDS TEST, in most instances, requires parental signature (allow time for this).

Accurately completed loan applications will be accepted through but no later than 5 p.m., Feb. 10, in the Office of Student Financial Aid.

Students with questions should contact Mrs. Capuano at ext. 4301.

Graduate School in Journalism

Medill, which is part of Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill. is considering recruiting on campus. They would like to know if there is any interest first, however. Students who are interested in talking with the representative should sign up on the recruitment form under the schedule posted in Morton in the Placement area.

Medill has a practically oriented program in journalism. Students attend the program for a year or less, depending on their backgrounds and receive a master's of science degree in journalism.

Wallerstein Scholarship

Applications are due Feb. 1 for the Wallerstein Scholarship at the University of Virginia, established by a gift from Ruth C. and Morton L. Wallerstein, to foster interest and research in Virginia municipal government.

An award of $5,000 is made for a 12-month period, beginning at the recipient's wishes, between June 1 and Sept. 1, 1982 and may continue for a second year.

Inquiries should be addressed to Dr. Timothy G. O'Rourke, Institute of Government, University of Virginia, 207 Minor Hall, Charlottesville, Va. 22903.

History Society Meeting

Members of Phi Alpha Theta will hold a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 26 in the history department library on the third floor of Morton Hall. The semester schedule will be established.

Commons Open House

Shamrock Food Service will hold Open House at the Commons from 2-4:30 p.m. and 7-9 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 21. Tours will be offered every half hour during those times, and refreshments served. Food Service Director Bob Bernhard and the Shamrock staff will be welcoming visitors and explaining the operation.

The initial assembly will be in the Commons lobby. For further information, call 229-0521.

Disabled Job Applicants

The State Department of Rehabilitative Services is sponsoring the Fifth Series of Workshops on "Understanding and Interviewing the Disabled Job Applicant." The sessions will be held Feb. 10-12; May 12-14; and Sept. 15-17 at the Woodrow Wilson Rehabilitation Center in Fishersville. More information is available from the College's Office of Equal Opportunity and Affirmative Action Programs at ext. 4651. Cost is $235 which includes lodging, meals and all materials.

TV Production Workshop

Interested students are invited to enroll in a non-credit television production workshop to be offered by Television Services this semester.

Students will receive basic instruction in multi-camera studio and location video production and direction. No prior experience is necessary. For more information contact Wayne Taylor or Steve Miller at ext. 4275.
