Study Group Plans Film, Discussion

The Nuclear Disarmament Study Group has planned two programs on campus this week.

The film "Nuclear Countdown" will be shown in Guy Auditorium (Rogers 100) at 7:30 Wednesday, April 21.

The film was produced by the United Nations in 1978 to provide information on the history of the arms race. It describes benchmarks, treaties, and successes and failures in the effort to control nuclear arms. The film lasts about half an hour and will be followed by a discussion period.

Jack Green, former research director for the US government's civil defense establishment, will speak at 5:30 on Thursday, April 22, also in Rogers Auditorium.

Gary Kreps, from the sociology department, and Bob Welsh, from physics, will be present to react to Green's presentation. Questions and audience discussion will be encouraged after the reactions.

Green's experience with civil defense dates back to the early nuclear tests in Nevada and in the Pacific. Currently working as a private civil defense consultant, Green is one of the best informed people available to discuss what could happen during a nuclear attack.

He received his undergraduate degree in physics from M.I.T. and his master's in strategic studies from George Washington University, developing his expertise in the area of physical aspects of nuclear war.

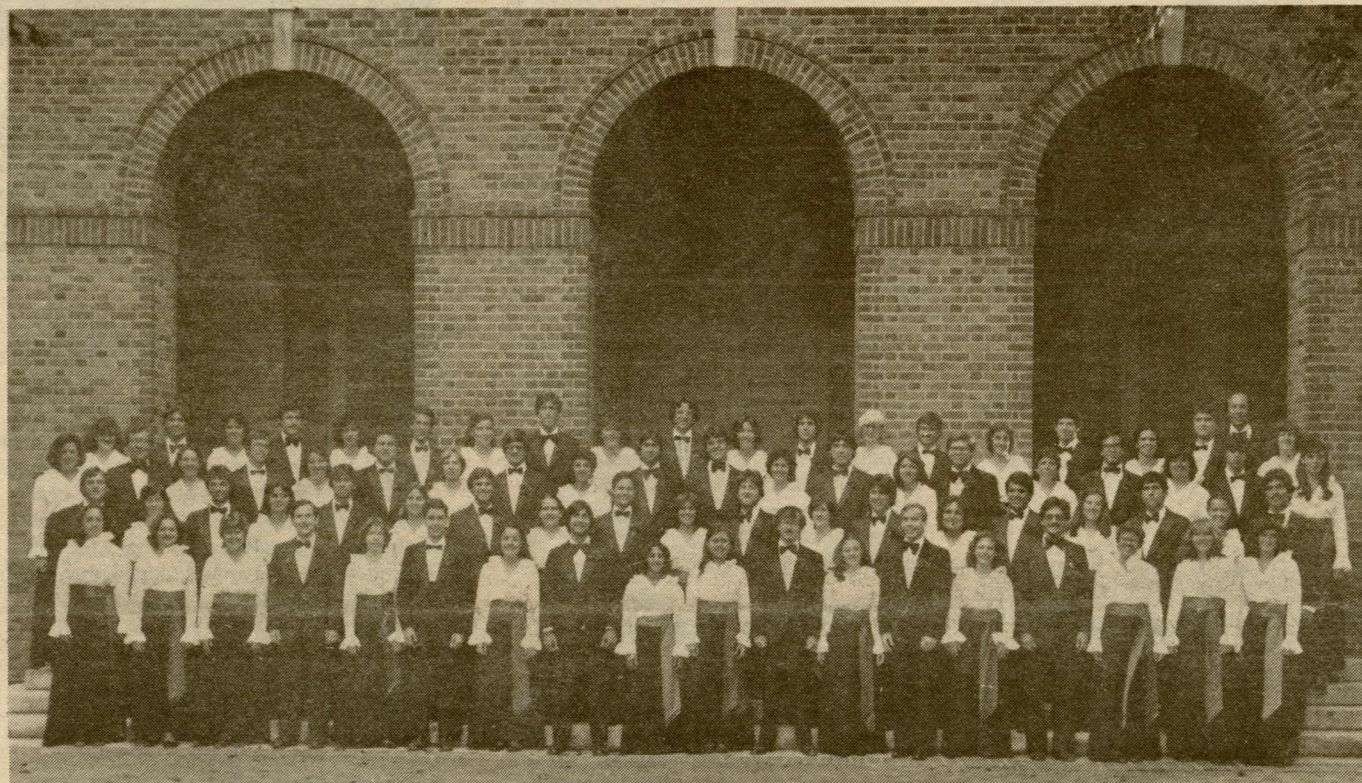

CAMU Service Commemorates Nazi Holocaust

Campus Ministries United (CAMU) will hold an ecumenical service at 8 p.m., Tuesday, April 20, in the Guy auditorium of Rogers Hall as part of the national Days of Remembrance, April 18-25, which commemorates the Nazi holocaust.

The service is open to all members of the Williamsburg community and the College community.

A movie entitled, "The Prisoner," starring Jack Klugman, will be shown. In the film, Klugman plays the part of a Franciscan priest, St. Maximilian Kolb, who died at Auschwitz concentration camp.

The Days of Remembrance is an annual, national, civic commemoration of the holocaust in which six million Jews and millions of others became victims of Nazism during World War II. The commemoration is planned by the United States Holocaust Memorial Council, an organization established by Congress in 1980.

The William and Mary Choir will give its spring concerts, Friday and Saturday evenings in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. (see story p.5)

Bard's Birthday to be Celebrated April 23

Each summer the College hosts the Virginia Shakespeare Festival, so it is fitting that on April 23, the Bard's 418th birthday, there are plans to celebrate the occasion on campus.

A horse and rider dressed in Elizabethan costume will be in Merchants Square at noon Friday to invite residents and visitors to a birthday party, Elizabethan style, which will be held in Small Hall, beginning at 7:30 that evening.

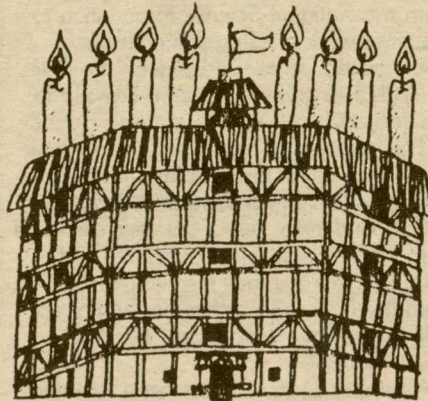

The celebration will feature music, refreshments, a giant birthday cake in the shape of the Globe Theatre of Elizabethan London, and a toast to the Bard himself.

Following the party, guests are invited to view a complimentary screening of the movie, "Richard III," with Sir Lawrence Olivier in the title role. "Richard III" is one of three plays which will be featured in the Festival this summer.

The Festival's fifth season also includes "Merry Wives of Windsor," and "Alls Well That Ends Well."

Shakespeare's birthday also marks the beginning of the season ticket drive for the 1982 Festival, and Festival promoters are offering "Villainy, Guile and Romance," in this year's season.

Richard Palmer, general manager of the Festival, says the season ticket sales last year increased by close to 50 percent over the previous year and he adds "we certainly hope for a significant increase this year."

"The season ticket drive is being started early this year, so that our regular loyal local supporters will have the opportunity to get the best seats for the 1982 season."

Palmer says there will be more emphasis on the sale of individual tickets this year. This year the Festival is also able to better accommodate handicapped persons.

Special areas have been designed on the main floor for wheelchairs, and structural changes in restrooms have been completed for the convenience of handicapped patrons.

"We are already getting inquiries from all over the country from people who are planning to return to Williamsburg and the Festival this summer," says Palmer.

Season tickets are $19 for orchestra, $13.50 for main floor, and $9 for balcony seats. Children's season tickets for patrons 12 and under are $12, $9 and $6, depending on the location of the seat.

Special children's matinees with backstage tours by cast members after the show will be held August 1 and 15 this season.

For other Shakespeare enthusiasts, discussions will be held after each Wednesday performance.

An added attraction for Festival patrons this year is an Elizabethan buffet in the Wren Hall, which is being offered after a Sunday matinee.

Ticket information may be obtained by calling the Festival box office at William and Mary, 253-4469. Information on the Sunday buffet may be obtained by calling 253-4377.

Newsmakers

Fred Harris, assistant professor of economics, and Elmer J. Schaefer, associate professor of law, recently presented their paper "Shortcuts to Compensable Economic Loss: The Role of Productivity Differentials, Wage Indexation, and Occupational Risks in the Law of Damages" at the Virginia Economic Association Meetings in Virginia Beach. The paper focused in part on ill-advised damage rules for various federal jurisdictions (including that for Eastern Virginia).

Fraser Neiman, professor of English emeritus, has a review of Walter Pater's Art of Autobiography (Yale University Press) by Gerald Monsman in the current (1981-82) issue of Victorians Institute Journal; both his review of Park Honan's Matthew Arnold: A Life (McGraw-Hill) and his "Note on Arnold Scholarship-Winter-1981 to Winter 1982" are appearing in the Spring 1982 issue of The Arnoldian. (The first journal is published at East Carolina University, the second at the U.S. Naval Academy).

William F. Swindler, John Marshall professor of law emeritus, was interviewed by Dr. Jesus M. Rodez of the Autonomous University of Barcelona for a Spanish National Television documentary series on "Great Documents of Western History." The interview, arranged by the State Department and the Spanish Embassy in Washington, was on the history and development of the Constitution of the United States.

Meredith Merritt, library assistant in the Cataloging Department of Swem Library published an article in the April issue of Technicalities, comparing reactions to early writing systems, the printing press, and videotext.

William E. O'Connell, Jr., professor of business administration, is co-author of a book entitled "Asset and Liability Management: A Model for Savings and Loans," which is part of a series of books on financial institutions published by Robert F. Dame, Inc.

Carl Dolmetsch, on leave from the English department this year as a visiting professor in Berlin (Freie Universitat), delivered two guest lectures March 25, at the Universite de Bordeaux, in France. In the morning he lectured to a graduate class in American Studies on "Immigrant conflicts in the New York of Bernstein's West Side Story and Menotti's The Saint of Bleeker Street." In the afternoon he delivered a paper on "Early Southern Culture and the Melting Pot" before an assembly of the university's Centre de Recherches sur L'Amerique Anglophone. His paper, delineating non-Anglo-Saxon contributions to Pre-Civil War (Colonial and ante-bellum) Southern literature and the fine arts, will be published later this year in the CRAA-Annales. Dolmetsch then participated in the biennial conference of the European Association of American Studies, meeting at The Sorbonne, in Paris, March 30 - April 2.

Two review articles on the mid-Winter seasons at the Vienna State Opera and Deutsche Oper Berlin, by Carl Dolmetsch, appear in the current Spring 1982 issue of the quarterly journal, Opera Canada, published in Toronto, to which Dolmetsch is a staff contributor.

Two members of the Department of Philosophy participated in the annual meeting of the Southern Society for Philosophy and Psychology in Fort Worth April 8-10. George Harris, assistant professor, read a paper, "Harsanyi, Equiprob-ability and Average Utilitarianism," and David H. Jones, professor, read a paper, "On Accepting Responsibility for What One Cannot Help."

Carl Vermeulen, professor of biology presented a seminar entitled "Order in the Genome of E. coli" to the faculty of Eastern Virginia Medical School. Insights into why genes are placed where they are on the chromosome were drawn from the data collected by his research group over the past several years. Most of this work has dealt with the genetics of the protein synthesis machinery of the cell.

A translation by Gary Smith, associate professor of modern languages, of a story by Angelika Mechtel, entitled "Sojourns in Bormio", was recently republished in an anthology of contemporary German literature, Dimension. A Reader of German Literature Since 1968.

Smith also presented a seminar at the annual meeting of the Virginia Organization of German Students (VOGS) at Randolph-Macon College in Ashland on April 3. The topic was "How to be Romantic: A Look at German Romanticism". Three German students on campus, Andrea Renninghoff, Karl-August Valk, and Barbara Lang, also participated in the program.

In March John R. Thelin, associate professor of higher education presented a talk and served as critic for a panel on "Quality and Academic Programs," at the American Educational Research Association conference held in New York City. Also serving on the panel was Clif Conrad, formerly of William and Mary, and now on the faculty at the University of Arizona.

On April 1, James Axtell, professor of history, presented a paper entitled "A Moral History of Indian-White Relations Revisited" at the annual meetings of the Organization of American Historians in Philadelphia. His article-review, "Bronze Men and Golden Ages: The Intellectual History of Indian-White Relations in Colonial America," was published in the Spring issue of the Journal of Interdisciplinary History (pp. 663-75). His review of Puritans Among the Indians: Accounts of Captivity and Redemption, 1676-1724, ed. Alden T. Vaughan and Edward W. Clark (Harvard University Press, 1981) was published in The New England Quarterly, 55: 1 (March 1982), 123-25.

Anderson, Scott Receive Grants

Joseph Scott, associate professor of biology, has received a $36,041 grant from the National Science Foundation to continue work on a project entitled "Systematics of the Red Algae." To date, $107,415 in grants has been awarded for this project.

This research is essentially a pioneering effort to uncover the structural mechanisms involved in cell division in red algae.

Carl Andersen, senior research associate in the department of mathematics and computer science, has received $19,130 from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for work on "Tire Non-linear Model."

A total of $146,975 has been awarded to date for this research. Present efforts will be extended by bringing the work on the nine-node mixed-converted-to displacement finite element to a publishable stage. The goal is to publish a report which will compare the performance of this element with the performance of other finite elements and will describe the rigid body and spurious modes of the elemental linear stiffness matrices of the new element.

Charles L. Quittmeyer, dean of the School of Business Administration at the College of William and Mary, recently congratulated the new chairman of the board of Sponsors, Inc., an organization of businessmen throughout the nation formed to strengthen, expand and financially support the School of Business Administration. The new chairman is Hays T. Watkins (center), chairman of CSX Corp., of Richmond. At right is outgoing chairman W. Brooks George, chairman of the board of Larus and Brother Co., Inc., of Richmond. Watkins was elected to a three-year term as chairman at the Sponsors' annual meeting in Williamsburg in April.

Watkins Heads Sponsors Board

Hays T. Watkins, president of the CSX Corporation, who was principal speaker at Charter Day in February, has been named chairman of the Board of Directors of the School of Business Administration Sponsors, Inc., to succeed W. Brooks George.

Watkins has served as vice chairman of the board since 1979. He is also a member of the President's Council. His company established the Chessie Professorship at the College in 1977.

The Board also elected several new members including former Gov. John N. Dalton of McGuire Woods & Battle attorneys of Richmond; T.C. Clarke, former vice president of the Board of Visitors and former owner and chairman of the board of the Royal Crown Bottling Company, Norfolk; Michael G. Essman, president and chief executive officer, Molton, Allen & Williams, Insurance Corp., Birmingham, Ala; G. Bruce Miller, president, Craddock-Terry Shoe Corporation, Lynchburg, Va.; J. Louis Reynolds, executive vice president, Reynolds Metals Company, Richmond; C.B. Robertson III, C.B. Robertson Associates, Inc., Richmond; and Samuel H. Turner, president, Life Insurance Company of Virginia, Richmond.

New emeriti of the Board include James F. Betts, president, Continental Financial Services Co., Richmond; August A. Busch, III, chairman of the board and chief executive officer, Anheuser-Busch Companies, Inc.; Roy R. Charles, president, Crestwood Company, Inc., Norfolk; Duncan M. Cocke, former senior vice president, Colonial Williamsburg Foundation; W. Brooks George, chairman of the board, Larus & Brother Company, Inc., Richmond; and D. Hillsdon Ryan, chairman and chief executive officer, Minit International S.A., Geneva, Switzerland.

Serving with Watkins as vice chairman of the board will be S. Warne Robinson, former chairman, G.C. Murphy Co., now living in Williamsburg.

Small Business Focus of Series

Eight experts will examine the various aspects of financial success for small business owners in a series of evening workshops at the School of Business of the College of William and Mary, April 25-29, nightly from 7-9 p.m.

Sponsored by the Women in Business program, "How to Have a Financially Sound Small Business" will offer advice for those with small businesses on finance and banking, marketing, tax planning, personnel and risk management.

Fee for the workshop series is $40 or $10 for each individual workshop. A 50 percent discount will be made for additional persons from the same organization registered at the same time. The fee includes workbook materials and refreshments.

Harvey W. Rubin, CLU, director of marketing research, The Life Insurance Company of Virginia; and William E. Rice, associate professor of business administration at William and Mary, will be speakers for the first workshop, on the fundamentals of small business management, Sunday, April 25.

O. Ralph Puccinelli, Jr., a CPA, with Sabatini, Russell, Holleman and Puccinelli of Richmond will be principal speaker at the workshop Monday, April 26, on accounting and finance.

The second installment on accounting and finance will be held Tuesday, April 27, and will also include "Legal Environment I." Speakers will be John M. Lunsford, vice president, commercial division, United Virginia Bank; and John D. Dutton, Jr., CLU, assistant director of personnel, Life of Virginia.

Exhibit at Bland Includes Rare Books, Plates

One of the first woodcut bookplates (cir. 1470) known today is included in the Louis Ginsberg Collection currently on view at the Richard Bland College Library. It is one of many rare books and plates being shown in conjunction with the 25th annual National Library Week observance April 18-24.

The 15th century plate is that of Hildebrand Brandenburg and was used in the Brandenburg Library.

Another rarity is the first edition of the first book published on the study of bookplates, "A Guide to the Study of Book-Plates," by the Hon. J. Leicester Warren M.A. Its frontispiece was designed by Albert Durer in the 16th century.

Apprentices To Use Campus As Moving Backdrop for Show

There are walking tours and progressive dinners, but the Orchesis Apprentices have come up with a new form of peripatetic pleasure--a traveling dance show.

The modern dance group, under the direction of Marilyn Brda, instructor in women's physical education, will give a performance on campus beginning at 5:15 p.m., Thursday, April 22, at the Botetourt Complex. The program will last approximately an hour.

"A Guide to Little-Known Art Spots" will be a series of dances choreographed to fit a particular space. Brda calls them structured improvisations which take advantage of the features of the locale. There will be 15 different dances covering both the new and traditional areas of campus.

One of the interesting aspects of the show, says Brda, will be the different perspectives from which the audience will view the dancers. In the case of the dance on the roof of Millington Hall, the audience will be on ground level looking up. The dancers have no rain date, so they are hoping for fair weather. The schedule, route of the program and the names of the choreographers are as follows:

Botetourt Complex

Jim Hurt, Botetourt Complex Terrace; Ellen Lewes, Dupont Pit; Monica Kennon, Adair fire escape; Julie Sheets, Swem balcony; Joan Laurita, PBK-Andrews East; Laura Francis, Phi Beta Kappa (front steps); Rose Gonzales, Barksdale Field (near Oliver); Jean McCarthy, Millington roof; Stacey Cowley, Crim Dell amphitheatre; Pam Roberto, Crim Dell meadow; Barbie Jerome, Wren Building; Kirby McPaul, interior of Brown Hall; Erika Holzbaur, inside stairs, St. George Tucker Hall; Mikki Hubbard, James Blair Hall, east side; and Kimball Gilliam, Bryan Court (near stadium).

UPI Journalist Helen Thomas chats with a student during her three-day stay as Journalist-in-Residence, April 15-17. The program this year gained the sponsorship of The Daily Press, Inc. Miss Thomas spent her time on campus meeting with student groups and publications staffs and was honored at the publications banquet Saturday evening with the Heritage Award for outstanding achievements in journalism.

Pre-Law Program

The PreLaw Club will meet at 7 p.m., Wednesday, April 21, in Morton 20. John McGlennon of the department of government, speaker for the evening, will discuss preparing for law school and writing the LSAT test.

Last Day Party

A "Last Day of Exams Party" sponsored by the International Circle will be held at 9 p.m., May 11, at the IC cottage. The Circle invites all members, guests, foreign students, underclassmen interested in joining the International Circle and all graduating seniors to celebrate the end of the school year.

both on Saturday afternoon and on Sunday morning.

Alan Tyson, distinguished British musicologist, will present a paper on "How Did Mozart Compose?" at 4 p.m., on Saturday in the Campus Center Ballroom. The public is welcome to attend

Alan Tyson has written extensively on the problems engendered in authenticating musical manuscripts and publications. While this has led him into studies of music printing and publishing, dating, watermarks, and copying, particularly in the period 1770-1850, he has also been able to speculate on the creative methods of such composers as Beethoven and Haydn, and on the ways music has been disseminated.

Educated at Rugby and at Magdalen College, Oxford, he became a Fellow of All Souls College, Oxford, in 1952, and a Senior Research Fellow in 1971. At times he has been a visiting professor in this country, at Columbia and at Berkeley. His interest in Beethoven and in questions of authenticity coincided with a period of years of training in psychoanalysis and medicine. He is one of the translators of the Standard Edition of Freud's writings.

His publications in the field of musicology include The Authentic English Editions of Beethoven, and as editor, Selected Letters of Beethoven and Beethoven Studies. His writings, as described in Grove's Encyclopedia of Music and Musicians, "are distinguished by their clear and precise expression and the elegant logic of their deduction."

Recently his attention has turned to similar questions of authenticity and publication in the works of Mozart; the book Mozart's Workshop is in preparation. For his talk to the American Musicological Society, Capital Chapter's meeting he will consider the question "How Did Mozart Compose?"

Nominations Sought for College Honors

The Committee on Prizes and Awards will meet shortly to select the recipients of the major College awards, the Carr Cup and the Sullivan Awards. Nominations for the Carr Cup and the Sullivan Awards may be made by any member of the College Community. Criteria for the awards are as follows:

The Carr Cup - "awarded (to a graduating senior) on the basis of character, scholarship, and leadership. The aim is to find a well-rounded student, having a good standing in all three of these respects, and withal carrying within the spirit of willingness to sacrifice and give oneself to a cause. . ."

The Sullivan Awards - awarded annually "to not more than one man and one woman in the graduating class, and to one other person who has a close relationship to the College. In the selection of the recipients, nothing is considered except the possession of characteristics of heart, mind and conduct as evince a spirit of love for and helpfulness to other men and women."

Please submit all nominations and supporting materials to the Office of the Dean of Students (James Blair Hall, Room 211, Ext. 4387) by April 23.

tor of Athletics; Gordon C. Vliet, Executive Vice President, Society of the Alumni, College of William and Mary; and LTC Raymond R. Goodhart.

'Premiere 82' Offers One Act Plays April 22 - 24

Student playwrights, directors and actors will present "Premiere 82" April 22, 23 and 24, at 8:15 p.m. nightly in the Studio Theatre of Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

Each night five one-act plays will be presented. Admission is free.

"The Reverend Emmanuel Jones," written by Henry McCoy '84, and directed by Shoshanah Aborn '83, features Marc Wright '83 in the title role. "Jones" is a one-man show about a traveling preacher and his public and private lives. The plot carries him through a series of crises and shows him regaining his lost faith.

"The Last Play of the Game," by Robert Bruce Sherman '83, directed by Lisa Seidman '82, is the story of the two roommates who begin to reassess their friendship with one another after one roommate reveals that he has had a homosexual experience. The two roommates, Stephen and Jason, are played by Lawrence Buscemi '84 and Timothy S. McDonnell.

"Face," by Brent Harris '82, directed by Bill Kamberger, Jr., '83, is a comic fable about a butcher who brings home the most beautiful woman in the world, much to the consternation of his ugly sister. His new friend causes his business to fail, despite the efforts of seven colorful but shady characters seeking to "advise" the butcher.

The cast includes Julianne Fanning '84, as Agnes; Gary L. Cowling '84, as Otto; David S. Bailey '85, as Father Gothe; James Hurt '84, as Herr Kaufman; Barry J. Ota '85, as Erdmann; William Schermerhorn '82, as Baron Maximilian von Geschlecht; and Angela Marie Lemmon '83, as the beauty.

The largest cast of the five plays is "Barney Miller: Passion in the Precinct," a script for the television series "Barney Miller," written by Lisa Seidman and directed by Nancy Summers '84, with B. Keith Ryder '85, as assistant to the director.

In this episode, Wojo discovers that his new girlfriend leads a double life and is involved in crime. The rest of the precinct staff are kept busy dealing with a case involving a woman who has slugged a loose-lipped construction worker.

The cast for "Passion in the Precinct" is as follows: John Demkowicz '84, as Captain Barney Miller; Mark C. James '84, as Sgt. Stanley Wojciehowicz; Bob Forgrave '84, as Sgt. Arthur Dietrich; James A. Martin '84, as Sgt. Ron Harris; Robert Amerman '84, as Officer Levitt; Eric Peterson '85, as Inspector Luger; Jill Pryor '85, as Ann Summers; Wendy E. Doerken '85, as Sarah Gently; Fred Wood '85, as Ernie; Ken Cole '85, as Gus; and B. Keith Ryder '85, as Mac.

Vance Briceland '85, Janet Rollins '84, and Andrew Emery '85, are Andrew, Mary, and Justin respectively in a play entitled "A Heavenly Hell," written by George Jack '84, and directed by Lisa Middleton '84.

The play is a comedy about a man who is sent to heaven and finds out that heaven is not what he thought it was.

Architect, Urban Planner Talks On Situation Today in Nicaragua

Roberto Chavez, a Mexican architect and urban planner, will give a talk entitled "Inside Nicaragua Today: What Is the Sandinista Revolution and Where Is It Going?" at 8 p.m. Thursday, April 22, in Andrews Hall.

Chavez has worked for the World Bank in Latin America since 1977 and has recently been assigned to several urban reconstruction and development projects in Nicaragua.

The lecture is sponsored by the History Department, the College Committee on Lectures, and the Spanish House. The Spanish House will host a reception after the talk for those who wish to meet Chavez.

The Sandinista coalition has been in charge of the Nicaraguan government since the fall of Anastasio Somoza in July 1979. The United States government of Jimmy Carter recognized the Sandinista government and supported the efforts to bring about social and economic reforms in a poor nation where corruption had been rampant for generations.

Since 1981, however, the administration of Ronald Reagan has criticized the Sandinista government for violation of the rights of the Miskito Indians, for supporting the leftist guerrillas in neighboring El Salvador, and for a major arms buildup.

Chavez will address these controversies as well as the objectives and problems of the Nicaraguan government from his perspective as an urban planner who has had first hand experience with Sandinista officials and the Nicaraguan people.

Chorus, Choir Concerts Last Bow for Seniors

Spring concerts wind up the season for the choir and chorus, and for the seniors it is the last time they will sing for a College audience.

This year the choir says farewell to Nancy Alderson, Karen Bescherer, Marilyn Blank, Tracy Britten, Grace Brooke, C. Edward Carroll, Mary Clayton, Wayne Curtis, Mark Dreyer, Jeffrey Forbes, Emmett Harrison, Evelyn Kirkley, Leslie Larson, Susan O'Sullivan, Stuart Pickell and Jo Tillery.

Seniors in the chorus include Donna Brooks, Dolores Lanzilotta, Denise Sibley, Kathleen Stephan, Charlene Tappan and Lisa Trevey.

Music the choir will sing this week is taken from the program prepared for a successful spring tour, which was capped by a concert in Arlington, hosted by the Northern Virginia Chapter of the Society of the Alumni.

The choir made some unusual travel arrangements for this particular concert and speeded the heartbeat of several McDonald's managers. Three locations, all McDonald's parking lots, were designated for host families to pick-up and deliver choir members to avoid the congestion of downtown traffic. One manager was kind enough, despite the lack of trade, to call another restaurant and check on an errand bus.

This year the choir gave concerts in Waynesboro, Va.; York, Pa.; Old Greenwich, Conn.; and Smoke Rose, N.J., in addition to Arlington, Va.

There were approximately 30 alumni in the audience in Arlington, and there were alumni and friends of the College at other stops on the tour.

In Connecticut, the choir was greeted by an audience which included Mrs. Fitchner, who was married by the Rev. A. R.

Goodwin, who is credited with much of the initial encouragement for the restoration of Colonial Williamsburg, in the home of former Librarian, Earl Gregg Swem. Mrs. Fitchner was an instructor in "pageantry and women's dance," she told choir members. Her husband was a member of the economics faculty.

In Northern Virginia the choir met George Small and Jean Rose '33, who wrote the music and words to the William and Mary Hymn, Rose while a student and Small a member of the music faculty.

In Arlington, alumni of the choir were asked to join the choir for a song. As a finale, everyone was invited to join the singing.

The choir has completed two European tours and will make the decision next fall about a third overseas tour in 1984. Funds for the tours are raised by choir members themselves mainly through the sale of

Zollinger Has Autographs On Display

Students of today, take heart. Even John Marshall, the first Chief Justice of the United States, had spring fever. While studying law at the College in 1780, young Marshall's mind was apt to wander, as evidenced by his scribbling of the name, "Polly Ambler," a young lady who was to be his wife, all over the margins of his copious notes.

Marshall's law notes and correspondence are a part of a new exhibit on display at the Zollinger Museum "Treasures and Autographs from Swem Library's Manuscript Collection". Assembled by the library's curator of manuscripts and rare books, Margaret Cook, the exhibit includes English and American autographs, letters, literary manuscripts and notes from 1687 to 1959.

The display will be open through June 1 from 8 a.m. to 4:45 p.m., Mondays through Fridays, and 9 a.m. to 12:45 p.m., Saturdays.

According to Miss Cook, the display has been organized for the annual meeting of the Manuscript Society, a national group of autograph collectors, librarians, archivists and curators who will meet in Williamsburg May 26-29.

"The exhibit has been organized to show not only the variety of our collection, but also its richness," says Miss Cook. Some of the documents have a definite College orientation, while others only tangentially involve the nation's second oldest university.

Highlights of the collection include the Christmas cards and note cards, which were designed as a fundraiser for the initial tour in 1978 and have continued to be a popular seller.

Ticket Sales

Tickets for the choir concert are $1.50 and are available from the Campus Center Desk, the switchboard in James Blair Hall, the music department office and the Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall box office the evenings of performance.

Orchestra to Play Tuesday in PBK

The William and Mary College-Community Orchestra will present its spring concert at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday, April 27 at Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Auditorium.

Tickets are not required; a donation for the Orchestra's scholarship fund is requested.

Baritone Ryan Fletcher will be featured soloist in Gustav Mahler's "Kindertotenlieder," a cycle of five songs for voice and orchestra on poems of Ruckert.

The program will also include the Symphony in B Minor by Franz-Schubert--the "Unfinished Symphony"--and Faure's Elegie for cello and orchestra with senior cellist Sue Stanger as featured soloist.

The College-Community Orchestra's director, Edgar Warren Williams, will conduct.

Book Collectors To Hold Auction

The Williamsburg Bibliophiles, a group of local and area book collectors, will hold its first annual auction Saturday, April 24, at the Old Moot Court Room in Tucker Hall.

The items to be auctioned will be available for inspection at 2 p.m., and the auction will begin at 2:30 p.m.

A catalog of the items to be auctioned can be picked up at The Book House, 209B North Boundary Street, Tuesday through Friday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., and the day of the auction, from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. Pre-auction bids can be left at The Book House.

Individual books, bound sets, printed material, and prints of all kinds will be auctioned, including two rare early 19th century chap books "History of Tommy Two Shoes" and "Fables in Prose".

The funds earned by the auction will be used to purchase books for local libraries.

Concert for Flutes

The music department will present a concert of music for flutes on the Portico of the Wren Building, Friday, April 23, 1982, at noon.

Featured on the program are three concertos for five flutes by the French composer, Joseph Bodin DeBoismortier.

The William and Mary Flute Ensemble is under the direction of Burton Kester, lecturer in woodwinds and wind chamber music.

Arthur Rawding, a tenor who studies voice with Mary Eason Fletcher, will give a recital at 4:30 p.m., Sunday, April 25 in the Wren Chapel.

Rawding will sing "Hark, the ech'ing air," from "The Fairy Queen," by Henry Purcell; four songs by Gabriel Faure, "Mandoline," "Spleen," "Clair de lune," and "Chanson d'amour."

He will also sing selections from "Leiderkreis," Op. 39 by Robert Schumann and will conclude his program with "Lord, what is man?" from Harmonia Sacra," by Purcell.

Rawding will be accomplished, both on the piano and organ by John Barden. Barden is a candidate for an M.A. degree in history, and is a graduate of Augusta College. He is employed by Colonial Williamsburg and is organist at the West-over Church.

Rawding has been a member of the choir and Sinfonicon Opera Company. He is student manager for the Shamrock Catering Service.

Five Win Awards For Art Works

Five seniors and one junior have won awards for their art which is currently part of a student art show on exhibit in Andrews Hall.

The exhibit will be on display through April 30 and will come down to make way for the traditional exhibit of work by seniors.

The five senior award winners are Valerie Williams for an untitled Intaglio print; Martha Williams for a mono print entitled "Head Study"; Jean McCarthy for an untitled drawing; Sherry Sell for an acrylic painting on cloth entitled "O So Vogue"; and Smith Haynie for a wood carving entitled "Annapurna I."

Russ Berry, a junior, won an award for an untitled bronze cast.

Jurors for the show were Ken Weinberg, a New York painter; and Bill Wagner, a teacher of sculpture at Old Dominion University, whose work has been exhibited in Andrews.

The new exhibit in Andrews Gallery includes paintings and drawings by George Danhires and will be up through April 30. The Gallery is open Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Back for Olde Guard Day

Arthur Winder '25, and his wife Mary, were among the many who enjoyed the Olde Guard Day program on campus, April 15. Winder, first president of the Olde Guard Council, was cited at the luncheon in the Commons for his work in getting the Olde Guard Council started and providing this own particular brand of enthusiasm for the spring program which President Graves declared an annual event. The William and Mary choir gave a mini-concert for the returning alumni representing graduates of 50 years or more, who were feted by the Society of the Alumni.

Government Department Pollsters Test Opinions

For the Democrats to win the U.S. Senate seat in Virginia, they need nearly unanimous black support and a substantial black voter turnout, according to the results of a recent statewide public opinion poll conducted by the government department's polling team.

Professors Alan Abramowitz, John McGlennon and Ronald Rapoport of the government department directed students in a telephone survey of 639 scientifically selected eligible voters throughout the Commonwealth which focused on state issues in the second of their analyses of data secured.

Their survey found sharp divisions between black and white voters on a wide variety of issues, including some which may strongly influence the upcoming House and Senate elections in the state.

Two factors, say the pollsters, must be taken into account when considering the impact that the black vote will have on the upcoming U.S. Senate election in Virginia -- turnout and party loyalty.

The poll found that black Virginians are still about 10 percent less likely to be registered to vote and to turn out on election day than white Virginians. As a result, the black percentage of the Virginia electorate is somewhat smaller than the black percentage of the voting-age population. According to the survey, about 13 percent of the actual electorate in recent Virginia elections has consisted of black voters.

At present, neither Paul Trible nor Owen Pickett, the likely Republican and Democratic nominees for the U.S. Senate seat, are well-known to black or white Virginians. Should State Senator Douglas Wilder of Richmond run for the Senate seat as an independent candidate, and should he draw away even a substantial minority of the black vote from Owen Pickett, a Republican victory would be almost assured, say the pollsters.

The dilemma facing Democratic candidates and party officials, say the pollsters, is how to maintain the near-unanimous support the party has received from black voters in recent statewide contests without antagonizing whites.

According to the poll, there are still more Democrats than Republicans in Virginia: 45 percent of those responding to the survey described themselves as Democrats, while 35 percent described themselves as Republicans, and 20 percent as independents.

This Democratic advantage is due largely to the fact that black voters, who comprised just over 15 percent of the respondents in the survey, were overwhelmingly Democratic in party affiliation. Some 86 percent of black Virginia voters

Women's Club Plans Day-Tour To Smithfield

The College Women's Club is planning a "Smithfield Outing," Thursday, April 29.

The program begins at 9 a.m. with departure by car from the Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall parking lot.

A visit to St. Luke's Church and a house and museum tour are planned during the morning with lunch at the Smithfield Inn. There will be a 1:45 departure for Williamsburg and a 3 p.m. departure for those who wish to stay and tour two additional homes.

Lunch will be $3 to $5 and participants are asked to contribute $1 as their share of transportation costs.

Those planning to take the trip are asked to make a reservation by calling Becky Palmer, 229-3021 by Saturday, April 24.

described themselves as Democrats, while only eight percent called themselves Republicans.

In contrast, only 37 percent of white Virginians described themselves as Democrats, while 40 percent called themselves Republicans. Blacks made up 30 percent of all Democratic party identifiers in the survey, but only four percent of Republican identifiers. Racial divisions over state and national issues are of much greater concern to Democratic party leaders and candidates than to the GOP.

Two issues on which blacks and whites differed most sharply in the poll involved matters of particular concern to black leaders and citizens: a proposed state holiday in honor of the late Dr. Martin Luther King, and extension of the federal Voting Rights Act.

Black Virginians favor the Martin Luther King holiday by an overwhelming 81 to nine percent margin, while whites opposed it by 48 to 22 percent.

Likewise, black voters supported extension of the Voting Rights Act by a 62 to 12 percent margin, while whites opposed the extension by a 53 to 30 percent margin.

Not all issues in the poll showed clear racial divisions, however. Black and white Virginians alike expressed highly favorable opinions about Governor Robb: 68 percent of both groups rated him either "very" or "somewhat" favorably. Only seven percent of whites and 11 percent of blacks rated Governor Robb either "very" or "somewhat" unfavorably.

Diver's Workshop Set For April 28

A sport diver's workshop has been scheduled 9 a.m. - 5:30 p.m., Saturday, April 24 at the Virginia Beach Pavilion Convention Center, sponsored by the Virginia Sea Grant Program, Virginia Institute of Marine Science.

A mid-morning panel discussion on underwater medicine and medical procedures for diving accident victims will highlight the program. Speakers will be Dr. G. Yancey Mebane of Duke University, with the National Diving Accident Network; J. Parker Cross, Jr., a physician who is an active diver, and an ear, nose and throat specialist at Norfolk General Hospital.

Dr. Norris W. Eastman, a diving instructor at the University of Richmond will also participate. Eastman, who authored a booklet on underwater communications, recently published an article in Physician and Sports Medicine, titled "Scuba Regulator as a Resuscitator For In-Water Rescue Breathing."

A diving instructors' panel will open the day's activities, focusing on revised diving certification standards and dive expedition leader liabilities.

Afternoon sessions will consist of an update on Virginia's Underwater Antiquities Act and a diving travel guide, featuring local divers' slides and films. A special slide presentation on diving in the Caribbean will be presented by Mike Ganas, a professional underwater photographer.

Advance registration is required, with a registration fee of $5 per person. Door prizes will be provided by diving equipment manufacturer's representatives. Displays featuring at least 18 diving product lines will be available for inspection throughout the day.

Registration is being handled by Eileen Cullison, Diving Workshop, Virginia Institute of Marine Science, Marine Advisory Services, Gloucester Point, Virginia 23062, (804) 642-2111.

Business Series

Three executives from the Life of Virginia, Alan S. White, CLU, tax counsel; Roberta B. Garber, counsel; and Harvey W. Rubin, CLU, director of marketing, will be speakers at the Wednesday evening workshop, which will continue the discussion of the legal environment and also take up risk management.

The final session in the series, entitled "The Use of Financial Vehicles for Business Stability," will be directed by Dr. Rubin and Lawrence L. McCallister, CLU, second vice president, special marketing, Life of Virginia.

Registration information and details concerning the program may be obtained from Julie Leverenz, director, Women in Business Program, School of Business, College of William and Mary, 253-4286.

The Women in Business program at the College of William and Mary is presenting the workshop series with the support of the Life Insurance Company of Virginia.

Official Memoranda

Observance of Memorial and Independence Day

Memorial Day Holiday, 1982

The administrative offices, the plant department (except for those employees required to maintain essential services), and the mail room of the College of William and Mary will be closed on Monday, May 31, 1982. The Campus Police Department will maintain regular hours.

The names of permanent classified employees who are required to work on Monday, May 31, 1982, should be reported in writing to the Personnel Office in order that they may be credited with compensatory leave. Permanent classified employees who are required to work on May 31, 1982 should take compensatory leave earned as soon thereafter as possible in order to avoid excessive leave accumulation. Hourly employees who work on this day will be paid at their regular hourly rates.

Independence Day Holiday, 1982

Independence Day, July 4, is a legal holiday for permanent classified employees. Since this date falls on Sunday in 1982, it would normally be observed on Monday, July 5, 1982. However, classes will be in session on that day and normal services must be maintained. The responsibility for maintaining the services rests with the department head. It is not a decision to be made by the employees of the department.

A leave slip should be submitted to the Personnel Office for any permanent classified employee who takes the holiday. Permanent classified employees who are required to work on this holiday are urged to take the compensatory leave earned as soon thereafter as possible in order to avoid excessive leave accumulation. Hourly employees who work on this holiday will be paid at their regular rate.

The Virginia Institute of Marine Science will observe this same holiday schedule and procedure.
