College to Honor Six Alumni at Homecoming

Six members of the Society of the Alumni will receive the Alumni Medallion at Homecoming on Nov. 5-6 in recognition of their service to the College, community and nation.

The recipients are Dr. Edward E. Brickell, Jr. '50, former rector of the College and superintendent of Virginia Beach, Va. Schools; Chester F. Giermak '50, Erie, Pa.; president and chief executive officer, Eriez Magnetics Company; Jeanne S. Kinnamon '39, Williamsburg, a member of the Board of Visitors and a generous benefactor of the College; Joseph L. Muscarelle '27, Hackensack, N.J., chairman of the Board of Joseph L. Muscarelle, Inc., and the prime benefactor of the Joseph L. and Margaret Muscarelle Museum of Art now under construction at the College; and Dr. George D. Sands '39, Williamsburg, retired chief of the Scientific and Technical Information Programs Division, NASA, Langley Research Center.

The Society of the Alumni will also honor Mark H. McCormack '51, who was selected to receive a Medallion in 1981 but was unable to come to Williamsburg for the presentation.

Brickell, who received his M.A. from the University of Chicago and his E.Ed. from William and Mary in 1973, has been superintendent of the Virginia Beach Schools since 1968. A former administrative assistant to the President of the College, he was superintendent of schools in Franklin, Va., from 1962-65 and assistant superintendent in the Virginia Beach school district and director of secondary education 1966-67. A recipient of many awards, he was named one of the nation's top 100 school administrators in 1980. He has been a member of the Board of Visitors since 1976 and has served as rector from 1978 to March, 1982.

Giermak, a member of the Athletic Hall of Fame, and a former member of the Board of Directors of the Society of the Alumni (1967-1973), joined the Eriez Magnetics Co., in 1960 and worked his way up to the top job by 1971. A former All-American basketball player at William and Mary, he is a member of several boards of directors of businesses. He is a member of the President's Council, the Order of the White Jacket, of which he is a board member, and a trustee of the Endowment Association. Three Giermak children have graduated from William and Mary and a fourth is now a student at the College.

Mrs. Kinnamon, who was appointed to the Board of Visitors in March, is a former teacher and vice president of Boundary, Inc., a builder of townhouses in Williamsburg. She and her husband, Gilbert T. Kinnamon '34, made a substantial gift to the College for the construction of the Muscarelle Museum and are benefactors of William and Mary in many different ways. A member of many boards, including the Board of Trustees of the Endowment Association, Mrs. Kinnamon is a charter member and former secretary of the President's Council and a member of the Lord Chamberlain Society of the Virginia Shakespeare Festival. In 1976, she and her husband established the Sheridan-Kinnamon Scholarship at the College.

Muscarelle, who is chairman of the board of one of the nation's largest building firms, has been honored many times for his charitable and civic contributions which include the Joseph L. Muscarelle Center for Building Construction Studies at Farleigh Dickinson University in New Jersey. Among his awards is the Pope John Paul II Humanitarian Award from Seton Hall University. Muscarelle has been a member of the Order of the White Jacket since 1977.

Dr. Sands retired in 1979 from a distinguished career in the nation's space program which included nearly 20 years with NASA's Langley Research Center. A member of the Board of Visitors from 1970 to 1978 and of the Board of Directors of the Society of the Alumni from 1959 to 1966, he served as president of the Society in 1965. Dr. Sands was an

Choir Hosts UVA Singers

The Choir will host the University Singers of the University of Virginia in a joint concert at 8:15 p.m., Friday, Oct. 22, in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

This is the second joint concert by the two singing groups. Earlier the William and Mary Choir went to Charlottesville for a concert at the University of Virginia.

There is no admission charge for the Friday concert.

The William and Mary Choir, under the direction of Frank T. Lendrim, will open the program with Psalm 19 by Meinrich Schultz and will also sing "Requiem" by Herbert Howells and "Laudate Jehovam" by Georg Philipp Telemann, with violin and cello accompaniment.

The University Singers, directed by Donald Loach, will present "Sing Joyfully" by William Byrd; "Alma Redemptoris Mater/Ave Regian Coelorum" by Josquin Desprez; and three English anthems, "Set Me As A Seal Upon Thine Heart" by William Walton, "Drop, Drop Slow Tears" by Kenneth Leighton, and "Rise Up, My Love, My Fair One" by Healy Willan.

The men of the Choir from William and Mary will sing "Rustics and Fishermen" by Benjamin Britten, and "What Shall We Do With A Drunken Sailor," an English sea chantey.

The William and Mary Botetourt Singers will present, "Fair Phyllis I Saw

Business Affairs

Students are asked to make sure that friends and family members out of town have their residence hall numbers so they will not have to make an additional long-distance call. Faculty members are also asked to alert off campus callers to their office numbers so calls can be made without delay.

Mrs. Inez White Wins Award

When she gets her picture taken, Mrs. Inez White presents a serious demeanor and doesn't allow the camera to show the pleasant smile that is most familiar to the people in James Blair with whom she works.

"That's not the way I am on the inside," she said "and my mother used to ask me why I didn't smile more when I had my picture taken, but that's the way I look in most pictures - serious."

Mrs. White was honored Friday as housekeeping employee for the month of September upon the recommendation of her supervisor, Mrs. Julia Ann Jones and the unanimous endorsement of office holders on the third floor who entered a petition on her behalf.

Mrs. White's cheery disposition, diligence on the job and good attendance record won the award for her, said Ernest Boyce, executive housekeeper.

An employee of the College for the past five years, Mrs. White has spent most of her working hours in James Blair, except for an initial assignment in Rogers and times when extra help is needed in other buildings on campus.

Mrs. White is a member of the First Baptist Church senior choir and she likes to sing on the job too. Her hobby is cooking and she prides herself on her baking, cakes and pies, and on her family style meals.

Mr. and Mrs. White have three children, Mrs. Terry Carmen, now a resident of Staten Island; Valerie White, a graduate of Norfolk State University, now studying computer science at Christopher Newport College, and Reggie White, a champion wrestler at Lafayette High School his junior and senior years and now a freshman at Morgan State University in Maryland. Reggie is on a wrestling scholarship and plans to major in business. Mr. White retired two years ago after 30 years of service as a carpenter at the Naval Weapons Station.

Mr. and Mrs. White spent a great deal of time the past two years attending high school wrestling matches. With Reggie away at College, Mrs. White says she plans to remain loyal to Lafayette wrestlers and is sure she will enjoy the competition even more now that she can relax and not worry about how Reggie is doing.

Mrs. White says she is also planning to attend some Lafayette High School football games now the wrestling schedule has relaxed some.

She says she doesn't plan to join any organizations right away but is always willing to help out when needed for church projects.

"I think I'll just rest up," says Mrs. White who is enjoying the parental joy of getting children through high school and successfully launched in College.

This is Mrs. White's first award. At the awards ceremony held in the office of Lawrence Broomall, vice president for business affairs, Irving R. Robitshek, director of personnel, reviewed the employee incentive program which was initiated in 1979 and reminded Mrs. White that as a monthly winner, she is eligible to compete for the semester award which carries with it a $50 U.S. Savings bond as a prize. Monthly winners receive a certificate of appreciation.

Law Student Dies

Heart failure has been determined the cause of death on Friday of 23-year-old Paul Clark Brown, a student at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law.

Brown collapsed in Blow Gymnasium about 2 p.m., Friday afternoon while playing basketball.

Alumni Chapters Plan Fall Events

The locations and variety of programs for meetings of Society of Alumni Chapters are widespread and varied this fall.

William and Mary alumni will participate in "Old Dominion Day" a reunion of alumni of Virginia colleges and universities which will be held Friday at the University Club in San Diego, Ca.

Wilford Kale '66, the Williamsburg bureau chief for the Richmond Times Dispatch newspaper, will give an informal slide tour of the campus at a meeting of the alumni in the Mission Hills, Ks. area, Tuesday, Oct. 26, and will repeat his program for the St. Louis group on Oct. 28.

An organizational meeting and cocktail party is planned Oct. 28 by the alumni in North Carolina who will be discussing the formation of a Triangle Area Chapter of the Society in Raleigh.

President Graves will speak at the dinner meeting of the Pittsburgh Chapter which is planning a "Fantastic Buffet Italian Style" at Feola's Ristorante, owned by Tom Feola '66.

The Chicago alumni chapter will hold its annual Barn of Barrington Champagne Brunch on Sunday, Nov. 14.

Craft Shop Wants More Customers

Barbara Berninghausen says she gets pretty lonely and she wishes more people would come visit her.

Barbara is director of the College Craft Shop on the ground floor of the Campus Center, just across the hall from the SA office, and she would like to see more people taking advantage of the supplies and equipment that are available.

Any member of the College community is invited to use the Craft Shop which has three pottery wheels, two sewing machines, a darkroom and a sign press as well as a variety of paints, paper, pens and brushes.

Many services are free, others involve a slight fee for the cost of supplies. Film developing is 50 cents for two rolls; printing 50 cents per sheet of photographic paper (chemicals are provided). There is instruction offered in darkroom techniques each Saturday afternoon between 1 and 3 p.m.

Wednesday afternoons from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m., until Christmas, the Craft Shop will have instructors available to teach knitting and crocheting for enterprising people who want to make scarves, hats, socks, mittens or other items as gifts. Instruction is also offered in crocheting, sewing, quilt-making and pottery.

Alumni Exec. Resigns

Dr. Marvin West, '52, President of the Society of the Alumni, has announced that the William and Mary Alumni Board of Directors has regretfully accepted the resignation of Gordon C. Vliet, '54, as Executive Vice President of the Society of the Alumni.

Reason for the sudden resignation was given as unresolved policy differences between Vliet and the Board.

West indicated the Board of Directors will begin discussions on procedures to find a replacement for executive direction of the 40,000 member organization of former students. The professional staff will continue with their responsibilities for the extensive programs of the Society.

West, noting the friendly relationship between the Board of Directors members and Vliet, said that Vliet had agreed to be available as a consultant and advisor to the Society of the Alumni in critical matters during the transition period. Vliet indicated he had no immediate plans for the future and West said the Board had no replacement currently in mind.

The growth of Society activities during Vliet's 16 year tenure compares only with that of Charles P. McCurdy, '33, Executive Secretary from 1937 to 1952.

Vliet spearheaded the establishment of the first Alumni House for the College. He supervised the recent 2-year self-study which included proposals for a major alumni conference center addition.

Other significant activities inaugurated include the 50th Reunion and Olde Guard programs; the Alumni Fellow Faculty Awards; the undergraduate awards in English and Fine Arts; the Alumni Educational Travel Club Program;

Newsmakers

Thomas M. Finn, professor of religion, participated in the semi-annual seminar in Urban Mediterranean Religion at Duke University, Oct. 1-2. Subjects under discussion were "The Social Setting of Pauline Christianity," and "Hekhalot Literature and Jewish Gnosticism." Finn is convener of the seminar for 1982-83.

Lewis W. Leadbeater, professor of classical studies, is the author of an article entitled "Homeric Themes in Giraudoux' Siegfried", published in the Spring, 1982 issue of Classical and Modern Literature.

Wayne Kernodle, professor of sociology, conducted a seminar last week for salaried employees of Newport News Shipbuilding Company on the "Meaningful Use of Leisure Time." The seminar is part of a series of sessions on Preretirement Training provided by the company.

Approximately 150 faculty members with interest in British history, music, art and literature from the Carolinas, Virginia, Georgia and Tennessee attended the conference which met this year at Appalachian State University, Oct. 9, 10.

James McCord, professor of history, participated in a seminar on modern politics. He spoke on "The Crown's Property and Patronage: The Qhigs and the Duchy of Lancaster, 1830-1841."

Margaret Freeman, chairman of the music department, chaired a session on Early Modern British Music.

Mario D. Zamora, professor of anthropology, was designated issue editor of South Asian Anthropologist on the theme "Social Change in Modern South Asia." Scholars from India, Canada, Australia, the United States and other countries will be contributing chapters to this South Asian volume, to be published by the Sarat Chandra Roy Anthropological Institute, Bihar, India.

Zamora's paper entitled "Asian Studies for Non-Asian Minorities: Survey Findings and Recommendations" will be published as a chapter of the proceedings of the Fourth International Symposium on Asian Studies, Asian Research Service, Hong Kong. His review of Sylvia Vatuk's edited book American Studies in the Anthropology of India earlier published in South Asia (Association of Asian Studies of Australia and New Zealand) was reprinted in the ICSSR JOURNAL OF ABSTRACTS AND REVIEWS, Indian Council of Social Science Research, New Delhi, India. Prof. Zamora was recently designated External Examiner for the Ph.D. degree in Anthropology by the Department of Anthropology, Karnatak University, Karnatak, India.

Zamora was recently guest speaker of the Pilot (Women's) Club of Williamsburg where he spoke on the problems and prospects of international education and at the Exchange Club of Williamsburg where he gave a talk on the issues and problems of a changing Philippines, particularly under the Marcos martial law regime. In both talks, Zamora emphasized the need for perspectives and cultural relativism in international education. Prof. Zamora was listed (for the second time) in WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA and in other international directories such as WHO'S WHO IN THE WORLD, WHO'S WHO AMONG INTELLECTUALS, DICTIONARY OF INTERNATIONAL BIOGRAPHY, all published in England.

William J. Hausman, associate professor of economics, and Barry T. Hirsch, University of North Carolina at Greensboro, published "Wages, Leisure, and Productivity in South Wales Coalmining, 1874-1914," in the 1982 issue of Llafur, the Journal of the Society for the Study of Welsh Labour History.

Hausman has also been named to the Board of Contributing Editors of The Wall Street Review of Books and reviewed Michael A. Crew, ed., Issues in Public-

Utility Pricing and Regulation in the Winter 1982 issue of that journal.

Dorothy L. Powell, doctoral candidate in the higher education program and Mary Ann D. Sagaria, assistant professor of education are co-authors of a paper entitled "The Education of Nurses for Underserved Urban Areas: A First Glance at the Faculty Role Model Influence in Predominately Black Colleges." Ms. Powell, a Department of Health and Human Services National Research Fellow while on leave as chairperson of the Department of Nursing at Norfolk State University, presented the paper at the American Nurses Association Conference in San Francisco on October 9.

HALL SCRIPT ON "MASH" AND "HILL STREET BLUES"

Karen Hall '78, story editor of the top-rated show "MASH," has accomplished for the second time a relatively rare feat in television: having two of her scripts air within one week's time. Her script for Emmy-winner "Hill Street Blues" airs October 21 and a script for "MASH" airs October 25. This happened once before with Hall when her scripts for two top-rated shows, "Eight is Enough" and "MASH," aired within a week of each other.

Special Rate For 'Talk' Shop

A special rate of $75 is being offered to faculty and staff members who wish to attend the Special Programs workshop "Straight Talk," which is being offered by Robert Maidment of the School of Education through the Office of Special Programs. Regular fee for the workshop is $125.

The workshop will be presented from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., on Saturday, Oct. 23 on campus and the following Saturday, Oct. 30 at VARC in Newport News.

The fee includes meeting materials and coffee breaks but does not include lunch. Each participant will receive a copy of Maidment's newest book "Straight Talk--the Art of Saying More with Less."

Space in the workshop is limited so anyone interested in participating is urged to contact the Office of Special Programs, 877-9231, as soon as possible for detailed information and registration details.

Physics Colloquia

S.P. Rosen, National Science Foundation, Washington, D.C., will speak on "Double Beta Decay," at the Oct. 22 physics colloquium which will be held at 4 p.m. in Small Room 109. Coffee will be served in the conference room beginning at 3:30 p.m.

Speaker for the Oct. 29 colloquium will be A.P. Mills of Bell Laboratories who will take as his topic "Surface Analysis and Atomic Physics Experimentation with Slow Position Beams."

Sinfonicon Try-Outs

The Sinfonicon Opera Company will hold auditions Friday and Saturday, Oct. 22 and 23 for "The Merry Widow," which will be performed Jan. 26-29.

Auditions will be held Friday from 7-10 p.m. and Saturday from 2-5 p.m. in Ewell 100. A dance workshop will be held for two hours before each audition, beginning at 5 p.m. on Friday and noon on Saturday.

"The Merry Widow" has a cast of 30 including singers and dancers.

Those planning to audition are asked to come with a prepared song.

Library Orientation

On Friday 29 October there will be a showing of the slide-tape program "Introduction to Swem Library" in the Botetourt Theatre at 2 p.m. This will be followed by a walking tour of Swem Library.

Career Planning Seminars

The Office of Career Planning will be holding two career planning seminars. Each seminar meets for four consecutive weeks at 7 p.m. in the Career Library.

The first seminar will begin on Thursday, Oct. 21, and continue Oct. 28, Nov. 4, and Nov. 11. The second seminar will begin Wednesday, Oct. 27, and continue Nov. 3, 10, and 17.

The seminars are designed for anyone undecided about a major or career and use exercises, lectures and group discussions to help you assess your interests, skills and values and integrate them into a realistic career direction.

Register now with the Office of Career Planning as enrollment is limited.

Covenant Try-Outs

The Covenant Players will hold auditions Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 25 and 26 for "Old Man Joseph and His Family," by Romulus Linney, which will be presented the first two weekends in December. The director is Jim Hurt.

Auditions will be held Monday from 7-9 p.m. and Tuesday from 7-10 p.m. Callbacks will be held Wednesday from 7-10 p.m. All sessions will be held in Bruton Parish house on Duke of Gloucester Street.

Run For Your Life

Do you want credit and rewards for your running? If so, call Sonny Reeves Giles 210, ext. 4177, about the "Run for Your Life" program.

Police Notice

Due to an increasing number of persons who fail to move vehicles from Bryan Lot on the Saturdays of football games, Campus Police will tow all violators beginning this Saturday.

St. Jude Peddlers

If you ride a bicycle, the "Wheels-for-Life" Bike-a-thon wants you.

Co-chairmen Gloria Flinn and Kim Kalman are asking members of the College Community and residents of the Williamsburg area to participate in the St. Jude Children's "Wheels-for-Life" bike-a-thon Oct. 23 for the benefit of the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital in Tennessee.

Riders get sponsors who donate a sum for each mile completed. Riders who raise $25 will receive a St. Jude T-shirt, and those raising $75 will receive a tote bag. Sponsor forms are available at St. Bede's Parish Center or by contacting either Kalman or Flinn at 229-9855.

This year's ride is being dedicated to Terry, a leukemia patient at St. Jude.

Amtrak Adds P.M. Train

AMTRAK announces two trains from Williamsburg on Fridays, departure times at 7:25 a.m. and 4:25 p.m.

An AMTRAK spokesman said that many students have not been able to take the train because there was no afternoon schedule.

AMTRAK is hoping the expanded schedule will increase its ridership from Williamsburg. The new schedule is experimental until March so the volume of business on the afternoon train will determine whether it is included on the schedule permanently.

For more information on AMTRAK schedules call the ticket agents, Mark S. Van Lenten and Austin J. Barte at the Boundary Street station, 229-8750.

Eliot Feld Ballet Schedules Three Concerts

The Feld Ballet, which will close out its highly successful New York season Oct. 24, at its new home in the new Joyce Theatre, comes to Williamsburg for three performances at the College, Oct. 25, 26, 27.

The Ballet will perform nightly at 8:15 p.m., in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall as part of the College's Concert Series. Individual admission is $5 for the general public; $4 for faculty, staff and students of the College.

All ballets the company will perform have been choreographed by Eliot Feld, choreographer and artistic director for the company. They will include "The Consort," choreographed in 1970 to music by Dowland, Morley and others; "Circa," 1980, Hindemith; "A Footstep of Air," 1977, Beethoven; "Anatomic Balm," 1980, Ragtime; "A Soldier's Tale," 1971, Stravinsky; and "Play Bach," 1981, J.S. Bach.

While his dancers continually garner praise from critics across the country, Feld himself has been in the news lately as the prime mover in the rebirth of Elgin Theatre in Manhattan's Chelsea district as a theatre especially for dance and the home of The Feld Ballet. Operating on a nonprofit basis with the assistance of six grants, the new Joyce Theatre will supply performing space for many struggling dance companies because it is situated between the uncomfortable lofts that they have had to settle for and the expensive uptown theatres that most cannot afford.

Feld, a native New Yorker, has written 35 ballets since 1967 and has created ballets for the American Ballet Theatre, the Royal Danish Ballet, the Joffrey Ballet, the National Ballet of Canada, the Royal Swedish Ballet and the Royal Winnipeg Ballet.

Feld first performed at the age of 12 in the Phoenix Theatre's musical, "Sandhog." He has danced with the companies of Mary Anthony, Pearl Lang, Sophie Maslow and Donald MacKayle and at 16 joined the Broadway cast of "West Side Story." He appeared as Baby-John in the movie version. On Broadway he has appeared in "Fiddler on the Roof," and "I Can Get It For You Wholesale."

"Play Bach," Feld's new ballet which will be included in the Williamsburg performances, has already garnered great praise. "It reveals," says Peter Rosenwald in the Wall Street Journal, "that choreographer Feld can be deliciously playful as well as serious." The dancers wear white unitards with elbow and knee pads in day-glow colors. "And they fly through the air with great ease," says Rosenwald, "executing wondrous lifts with apparent nonchalance." Music for the ballet includes Bach's B Flat Major and G Major Partitas, No. 1 and 5, minus the Minuet of the former.

The first performance of the Feld Ballet was on May 28, 1974, at the New York Shakespeare Festival's Newman Theatre. Clive Barnes wrote in The New York Times: "Last night was the official premiere of The Feld Ballet and it looked marvelous . . . the dance scene would not be the same without it." The 23-member company has toured throughout the United States and under the auspices of the U.S. State Department, was the official U.S. Bicentennial representative in a nine-week tour of Mexico and Central and South America.

Associated with the ballet company is the New Ballet School which was opened in 1978 as a tuition-free professional ballet training program for gifted and talented children in New York City public schools. The school's current enrollment is 170.

Whetstone Run Brings 50 Years of Experience to Play Bluegrass, Country

Whetstone Run, considered one of the finest bluegrass groups touring in America today, will give a concert at 3 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 24, in the ballroom of the Campus Center as part of the Current Sunday Series. There is no admission charge.

Whetstone Run is home-based in State College, Pa. The group adheres to the traditional bluegrass style and includes many standard bluegrass tunes in its program. They also show, however, that bluegrass can enhance any music form—from country/western to contemporary folk.

Together, the musicians of Whetstone Run total almost 50 years of experience as players, singers and songwriters. Mike Gorrell, who plays guitar and takes most of the vocal leads, started as a country/western musician in southeastern Ohio when he was 15 years old; he made the change to bluegrass ten years ago, and has been with the Whetstone Run since its founding in 1975.

Bill Harris plays bass and sings low harmonies; he began his musical career in Colorado, and he, too, brings 15 years of experience with him.

The newest member of the band is Lynn Morris from San Antonio. She adds beauty, Southern charm, a technically perfect banjo style and a fine country-style voice. Her ten years in the music profession includes two national banjo championships, two USO tours to East Asia and seven years with her own band in Colorado.

The man responsible for the formation of Whetstone Run is Lee Olson. He plays mandolin and sings tenor and baritone; he is the band's manager, as well as an associate and market advisor with Red Dog Records.

Whetstone Run's latest album, "Time Sure Flies" on Red Dog Records, was reviewed by "Bluegrass Unlimited" as "the best yet from Whetstone. . . and containing originals that other groups should beg, borrow or rent."

Giordano Brings 'High Style' Jazz Concert

The Student Association is sponsoring a performance by Gus Giordano's Jazz Dance Chicago, at 8 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 23, in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

Tickets are $4 and are available at the Campus Center desk today and will be available at the SA office on the ground floor 1-5 p.m., Wed.-Fri.

This concert is the second in the current "Talented Americans" season, which opened earlier this fall with a poetry reading by Pulitzer Prize winning poet W.D. Snodgrass.

The Student Association is offering a season pass for $5 for the entire program, which will include poet Sonia Sanchez and artist Nancy Camden Witt. Holders of season passes will be eligible for a workshop that Giordano will hold in Blow gymnasium Saturday at 10 a.m. The Workshop will be limited to 50.

Jazz Dance Chicago, founded in 1969, is a group of 10 dancers who perform nationally and internationally, in Europe and South America. The Gus Giordano Dancers, another group, was founded seven years ago and performs mainly in the Illinois area and features 15 dancers.

Giordano, one of the most successful dance teachers in the field, has won three television Emmy Awards, the Dance Masters of America Award in 1978 for his contributions to American dance, the 1972 Governor's Award for outstanding dance in the state of Illinois; and in 1970, the Most Distinguished Dancer Award given by the American society of Dance Teachers and the Dance Teachers Club of Boston.

Giordano heads one of the largest schools of jazz dance in the country and has compiled the first major anthology of American jazz dance. In a recent interview for Dance Teacher Now magazine, Giordano explained that the Giordano technique is based on the premise that "the power for movement emanates from the gut. In ballet, there's power in the legs, in the head, but for me, jazz dancing's energy source is the gut. That center has to be tight - but not like a vise. It has to be strong so it can serve as a center for balance.

"A result of this technique is a look of strength from a powerful torso, a head set squarely on top, and legs planted firmly, yet fluidly on the floor," says Giordano.

"The look of jazz," he says, "is sensuous." Giordano moved to Chicago from New York City about 25 years ago. While in

New York he danced at the Roxy Theatre, performed in "On the Town" and "Wish You Were Here," and made appearances on the Ed Sullivan and Perry Como television programs. He studied with Hanya

Women's Conference in Campus Center

"Transforming Education in the Commonwealth" is the theme of the second annual conference of the Virginia Women's Studies Association. Co-sponsored by the Women's Forum of the College of William and Mary and the Williamsburg Area Women's Center, the conference will be held on campus Oct. 22, 23, and 24.

A festival of women's films will be featured on the opening night of the conference, beginning at 8 p.m. in Millington auditorium. The films will include "Right Out of History: The Making of Judy Chicago's Dinner Party," "World of Light: A Portrait of May Sarton," by Marita Simpson and Martha Wheelock, scheduled at 9:20 p.m., and "The Willmar 8," scheduled for 9:55 p.m.

Saturday's events, to be held in the William and Mary Campus Center, will begin with coffee at 9:30 a.m. The keynote speaker will be Jessie Bernard, distinguished feminist sociologist and research scholar. Bernard is the author of Academic Women and numerous books on the family, including The Female World, The Future of Motherhood, and The Future of Marriage.

The keynote address will be followed by a dialogue between Nancy Topping Bazin, director of women's studies at Old Dominion University, and Elaine Themo, associate professor of sociology at William and Mary, about the place of women's studies in contemporary education.

The luncheon speaker, State Secretary of Education John Casteen, will discuss women's studies in the Commonwealth of Virginia.

The final event of the day will be the drama Voices, by Susan Griffin, as performed by the Richmond Women's Theatre Group.

On Sunday, Oct. 24, from 9 a.m. to noon, the Williamsburg Area Women's Center will sponsor an open house for conference participants.

A registration fee of $15 ($8 for students) includes Saturday's luncheon.

For further information, please leave your name and phone number with the Williamsburg Area Women's Center, 229-7944, or call Diana Scully at (804) 257-1027 or Betsy Brinson at (804) 288-8757.

Tyler to Give Christian Science Lecture

The Christian Science Organization will sponsor a lecture by John Tyler at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 26 at the Alumni House.

All members of the College community are invited to attend both the lecture and the question and answer period that will follow.

Tyler will take as his topic "Spiritual Man Discovered," and will discuss what he calls "one of the central messages of Jesus' teachings and of Christian Science: that man is not what the physical senses tell him he is, despite the persistence of their message."

Tyler, a former university professor, will be speaking on campus as a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship. He has been a public practitioner of Christian Science for a number of years and cites a variety of healing experiences during his lecture. He is also an authorized teacher of Christian Science.

Boeing Executive Friday Speaker

William G. Poole, Jr. of the Mathematics and Modeling Group, Boeing Computer Services Company, Seattle, and formerly of the department of mathematics and computer science at the College, will address the Mathematics and Computer Science Colloquium series at 3 p.m. in Jones 302, Friday, Oct. 22.

His topic will be "Rethinking Simple Numerical Computations for Vector Computers" and will focus on what must be done in order to attain the maximum potential of vector computers. A coffee will precede the talk from 2:30-3 p.m.

Competition For Foreign Service Scholarship

The Government Department has announced the 1982-83 Koenig-Nimmo Foreign Service Scholarship competition. The award is made each year to a senior student, and is normally used to defray the tuition costs of the last semester. The Award this year will be in the amount of $675.00.

This scholarship is the result of two generous contributions by alumnae of the College. In November of 1979, Mrs. Anna Belle Koenig-Nimmo, Class of 1945, made a gift to the College to establish an endowment fund to provide for the awards. Ms. Laurie Johnston, Class of 1974, who has, since her graduation, pursued a career in the foreign service, contributed an additional sum to the fund in January of 1980. Mrs. Nimmo resides in Golden, Colorado with her husband, and visits the College several times each year as a member of the Alumni Society's Endowment Board. Ms. Johnston has served in U.S. Embassies in the Middle East and in Portugal, and is presently serving in the office of the Secretariat of the State Department in Washington. She has returned to the College often, most recently on October 12, at the invitation of the Placement Office, to talk to students interested in careers in the foreign service.

The purpose of the scholarship is to motivate outstanding students toward careers in the foreign service of the United States of America. Mrs. Nimmo stated that it was her wish that recipients of this award be selected on the basis of scholarship and a sincere desire to pursue a career in the foreign service.

Applications for the scholarship are available in the Government Department Office, Morton Hall, room 10. The deadline for applications is November 1, 1982

VIMS Tames Pirate Lady For Ocean Research

A captured drug smuggler put to good use was the center of attention at a vessel open house at Gloucester Point, on Monday. The open house was hosted by the Virginia Institute of Marine Science (VIMS).

Formerly the LADY ELLEN, the 80-foot marijuana-toting shrimp trawler was seized February 5, 1978 in a raid in North Carolina. Since then the LADY has undergone extensive retrofitting, and in May 1982 was rechristened R/V SEAHAWK.

Now an ocean research vessel and diving platform, the SEAHAWK is operated by the University of North Carolina at Wilmington. In the next few months the vessel will be used to help conduct marine research in Virginia and North Carolina coastal waters.

A founding member of the Southeastern Consortium for Underwater Research (SECURE), VIMS, along with other marine research institutions and agencies in Florida, Georgia, North and South Carolina and Virginia, is taking part in a series of research expeditions aboard SEAHAWK. The program, labeled Southeastern Underwater Research Facility (SURF), is operated under the direction of a consortium of the institutions and agencies and under a cooperative agreement with the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA).

SEAHAWK will be used to gather information on projects dealing with fisheries, marine pollution, sea floor processes, diving physiology and safety, ocean dumping and dredge spoil disposal.

Two marine scientists at VIMS are currently conducting research projects which will be aided by SEAHAWK.

Robert J. Diaz, VIMS department of invertebrate ecology, is working on a project which will be examining the recolonization of natural and dredge spoil sediments at ocean dump sites in Virginia waters.

Assistant Director Dr. Robert J. Byrne, (physical sciences and oceanography), is conducting research to determine the depth of disturbance of passing storms agitating the sediments of the seafloor.

In addition, three VIMS staff members have recently completed an advanced diving course on the SEAHAWK's dive system. Linda Schaffner, Danny Gouge and Bob Gammisch will now be able to do scientific diving from the vessel, aiding VIMS research efforts.

Needs Your Help

Newsmakers

Louis P. Messier, associate professor, School of Education attended the second annual state-wide meeting of the Regional Schools Contract Planning Committee (R.S.C.P.C.) sponsored by the Virginia Department of Education (DOE).

The DOE telecommunications division invited Messier's participation on a panel to describe teacher inservice training programs via live, interactive instructional television.

The RSCPC groups are responsible for coordinating instructional and inservice training programs for school divisions with telecommunications entities such as Centex and WHRO-TV. There are six such educational television entities in Virginia.

R. E. Welsh professor of physics, attended the CERN conference on the New Low Energy Antiproton ring (LEAR) held at Erice, Sicily, May 9-16. He attended meetings at the Rutherford Lab and Birmingham University, U.K., on the Proton-Antiproton Experiment in which four William and Mary physicists will collaborate (M. Eckhause, J.R. Kane, R.E. Welsh and R.G. Winter). He presented a nuclear physics seminar at Louvain-La-Neuve University, Belgium, entitled "The Magnetic Moment of the Sigma Hyperon."

Gregg Kormanik, acting assistant professor of biology, along with Dr. James Cameron of the University of Texas at Austin, published two papers in the latest issue of Journal of Experimental Biology. They were entitled: The acid-base responses of gills and kidneys to infused acid and base loads in the channel catfish, Ictalurus punctatus, and Intracellular and extracellular acid-base status as a function of temperature in the freshwater channel catfish, Ictalurus punctatus.

Patricia B. Crowe, professor of physical education for women, recently co-authored a book entitled Pygmalion in the Gym: Causes and Effects of Expectations in Teaching and Coaching. Her co-authors are Thomas Martinek of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, and Walter Rejeski, of Wake Forest University.

Daniel J. Boorstin, The Librarian of Congress, has recently appointed George W. Grayson, professor of government, to serve as a Contributing Editor for International Relations for the Handbook of Latin American Studies. Since its initial publication by Harvard University in 1936, the Handbook has been the most important scholarly bibliography on Latin America.

Ruth Mulliken, professor of education has been elected chairperson for the State Special Education Advisory Committee for 1982-83.

David L. Holmes, professor of religion, recently spoke to the Stratford Hall Seminar on two topics: "Religion in Colonial Virginia," and "Worship and Church Life in the Established Church of Colonial Virginia."

The colonial home of the Lee family, Stratford Hall, in Westmoreland County, Va., annually hosts seminars for teachers of American history from secondary schools across the United States.

Robert J. Orth, assistant professor of marine science, and Jacques Van Montfrans, VIMS assistant marine scientist, presented a paper "Grazing on Eelgrass Periphyton: Implications for Plant Vigor" to the 1982 Annual Meeting of the American Institute of Biological Sciences, held at Pennsylvania State University in August. Orth, Van Montfrans, and their associates have been studying the decline of eelgrass in Chesapeake Bay and ways to propagate it.

Volume XXVI of the annual, Tennessee Studies in Literature (University of Tennessee Press, 1981), contains "The Revolutionary War Poems of St. George Tucker" by Carl Dolmetsch, professor of English (pp. 48-66). Dolmetsch has edited these 10 poems, written by Tucker between 1776 and 1782 to express his patriot sympathies and comment on events in the War of Independence, from manuscript sources, providing an introduction and notes. One of the poems ("Elegy on the Death of a Very Particular Friend") has not previously been published and five of the others have not been reprinted since first publication in newspapers or magazines during the Revolutionary War era. The manuscripts are in the Tucker-Coleman Collection in Swem Library and this edition is part of Dolmetsch's continuing project to edit for publication the most important literary remains of the W&M alumnus and professor of law (1752-1827) who is called "the American Blackstone." Dolmetsch's editing project includes a volume of Tucker's unpublished familiar essays and a volume of three unpublished and unproduced plays by him.

N. Bartlett Theberge, associate professor of ocean and coastal law, School of Marine Science, was an invited speaker at a workshop for the press on Water Law sponsored by the Water Resources Research Center (V.P.I. & S.U.) on July 1.

Theberge, was an invited participant in a national conference on the use of dredge spoil disposal sites for aquaculture sponsored by the Army Corps of Engineers on Sept. 27-29, in Galveston, Texas. Theberge chaired a panel addressing the legal aspects associated with such use of dredge spoil and will serve as an editor of the proceedings.

Two graduate students in American Studies, Nicholas Lucchetti and John D. Broadwater, presented papers at the annual meeting of the Archeological Society of Virginia. Lucchetti, a staff archeologist at the Virginia Research Center for Archeology, spoke on "17-Century Planters in New Poquoson: Excavations at Bennett Farm and River Creek." Broadwater, Director of the Yorktown Shipwreck Project, presented "An Update on Virginia's Underwater Archeology Program." The meeting was held in Richmond on Oct. 1-3.

George W. Grayson, professor of government, will present an invited paper on "Mexican Oil Policy," Oct. 13 at the Foreign Policy Institute of the School of Advanced International Studies, The Johns Hopkins University, Washington, D.C. The Institute is currently focusing on economic, political and strategic questions raised by the energy crisis--and their implications for foreign policymaking throughout the world.

James C. Livingston, professor of religion, recently contracted to write approximately 50 articles, ranging from 50 to 3,000 words, for the new DICTIONARY OF RELIGION to be published by Abingdon Press.

William J. Tramosch, a graduate student in the American Studies program and Director of Interpretive Education at Colonial Williamsburg, delivered a paper, "Interpreting the New Social History: Its Practical Application," at the annual meeting of the American Association for State and Local History, Hartford, Sept. 21-24.

David Montgomery, professor of physics, has been elected to a three-year term as a member of the Executive Committee of the Division of Plasma Physics of the American Physical Society. Elected on the same ballot were Don Baker, Los Alamos National Laboratory; Alan DeSilva, University of Maryland; and Alfred Wong, UCLA.

Martin C. Mathes, professor of biology, is shown helping Dr. John L. Tarver '59, unload over 4,000 daffodil bulbs which Tarver has donated to the College to brighten the campus next spring. A dentist by profession but a "professional amateur" rose grower, by avocation Tarver produced over 1,000 of the bulbs he donated. The bulbs will be used to beautify the campus and for plant research in the biology department. Earlier Tarver donated some roses to the greenhouse for research purposes.

Plants Add Charm to Campus

The campus is looking more beautiful and yet is spending less money on "make-up" than it did last year.

The 1700 chrysanthemum plants which have been set out by Roy Williams, landscape superintendent, were grown from cuttings of plants bought last year. This year once the plants pass their peak, a portion will be saved to serve as stock plants for next year.

Williams says the flowers should last well into November if the weather cooperates. Chrysanthemums do not like warm weather and will fade more quickly if the present spell of summer weather continues.

Once the chrysanthemums go Williams is all set to put out 1500 ornamental kale plants which will provide a winter cover for campus flower beds. These have also been seeded at the nursery and plant holdings area near the Law School and represent a savings since no plants had to be purchased this year. Also Williams has one man working part time on these projects, formerly he had two, so he is counting savings in salaries as well as plant bills.

Looking ahead Williams plans to seed begonias and marigolds for the campus to be planted after the spring daffodil season is ended.

Williams says he is getting quite a few compliments on the plantings both from members of the College community and area residents.

The multicolored beds of chrysanthemums are scattered throughout the campus at the Law School, the Bookstore, College corner, Ewell Hall, the entrance to the new campus near Crim Dell, in back of Barrett Hall, at James Blair Hall, around the sundial between the Swem Library and Andrews Hall and at Adair gymnasium.

At the Mountain Interstate Foreign Language Conference on Oct. 8, at Wake Forest, R. Merritt Cox, of Spanish, presented a paper entitled "Foreign travelers in Eighteenth-Century Spain."

Associate professor William E. Rice, CB of the Business School had a book published in the Spring by The Dryden Press, entitled Experiential Exercises for Contemporary Business. This 150 page paper back includes a series of 32 experiential exercises and games that can be used in the classroom environment. This text is a first in its approach to provide a variety of games, simulations, and hands-on exercises for all major business topics within one text.

Margaret Freeman of the department of music, served as chairman of a session on "Early Modern British Music," at a meeting of the Carolinas Symposium on British Studies, held in Boone, N.C., Oct. 9, 10.

N. Bartlett Theberge, associate professor of marine science (Ocean and Coastal Law) was an invited speaker at a workshop on Water Law, sponsored for members of the news media by the Water Resources Center of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.

Biology department faculty member Eric Bradley recently presented a paper at the Southeastern Regional Conference on Comparative Endocrinology at Tulane University. The paper was titled: The role of the thyroid in controlling reproductive inhibition in deer mice. The paper included research work by Bradley and the work of J.D. Painter (BA'82) and a recent biology graduate E.D. Peebles (MA'81).

Stewart Ware, professor of biology, is co-author with Susan E. Parsons (BS'76, MA'78) of the article "Edaphic Factors and Vegetation in Virginia Coastal Plain Swamps", which just appeared in the Bulletin of the Torrey Botanical Club 109:365-370. This is the third in a series of studies by Ware on forest vegetation of the Coastal Plain.

Gene M. Burreson, assistant professor of marine science, presented a research paper at the Fifth International Congress of Parasitology held in Toronto, Canada in late August. He described the ecology and pathology of Trypanoplasma bullocki in juvenile summer flounder of Chesapeake Bay. He and his research associates are studying the parasite and its effects upon the survival of young flounders.

The choir will also sing "Ca' The Yowes," a Scottish folk song; "I Know My Love," an Irish folk song; and "The Troopers' Drinking Song" by Paul Hindemith.

In the fourth portion of the program the University Singers will present three-part songs by Samuel Barber; "Aftonen" by Hugo Alfvén; and "Neighbors' Chorus" by Offenbach.

The University Singers and the William and Mary Choir will combine for the final portion of the program, which will include "Alleluia" by Randall Thompson and the Alma Maters of the two universities.

Soloists will include Laura Tanner, Beth Miller, Catherine Dehoney, James Moran, Kendall Kerby, Patrick Wagner, Amy Levine, Donna Dixon, James Hill and Richard Hoffman.

Violin accompanists will be Lisa Wells, Susan Powell, Mark Hillbrink, Bruce Kalk and Marion Li. Cellists will be Bradley Staubes and David Vogan.

Smith/Joyner Recital Thursday

A joint student recital by Carol Nance Smith, soprano, and William Henry Joyner, tenor, will be presented at 8 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 21 in the Wren Chapel.

Miss Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Smith of Colonial Heights, is a senior music education major. She is a member of the William and Mary Chorus, music director and former historian for the music fraternity, Delta Omicron and a member and student choreographer for the Orchesis modern dance company.

She is also active in the William and Mary Theatre, is assistant producer for the student run Sinfonicron Opera Company and a member of the Wesley Foundation.

Joyner, son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Joyner, Jr., of Raleigh, N.C., is a junior majoring in religion. He is a member of Theta Delta Chi fraternity, the William and Mary Choir, the Catholic Student Association and the Canterbury Association. He is active in men's intramurals and the William and Mary Theatre.

Miss Smith will sing "Lascia Chio Pianga" and "V'adoro, pupille," by Handel, a selection of songs by Gabriel Faure and a collection of five pieces by Samuel Barber.

Joyner will sing "Nasce al Bosco," by

Carol Smith

Handel, and a set of six "Songs of Travel" by Ralph Vaughan Williams.

Smith and Joyner will sing two duets "Chi Nel Regno Almo d'Amore," by Giovanni Sances, and a seventeenth century song "Soccorretemi Per Pieta," anonymous.

James Matthews and Margee Krebs will be accompanists for the program.

Vliet Leaves

the Alumni College; Alumni Merchandising programs; annual Alumni leadership conferences; the Life After Dog Street and Alumni-Student Liaison programs; and the current Homecoming and class reunion programs.

Vliet served as editor of the ALUMNI GAZETTE and took it from a quarterly magazine to an 8 issue per year tabloid with semi-annual glossy MAGAZINES.

Prior to 1972, Vliet also conducted the William and Mary Fund to record levels, culminating in the New Era Campaign which laid the groundwork for the successful 21 million dollar Campaign For The College.

Jack Garrett, '40, past president of the Society and current Board member said, "Gordon has been outstanding in his dedication to the Society. He has developed a well organized and responsive Alumni program which has meant so much in the growth of the Alumni support of the College."

Denys Grant, '58, also a past president and current Board member, lauded Vliet's "imaginative leadership and professional integrity which has placed William and Mary among the nation's leaders in Alumni programming."

Vliet himself praised his staff as "a loyal and dedicated group, quite capable of carrying on in strong support of the College and the Society. I have every confidence Homecoming 1982 will be the best ever."

Until a new Executive Vice President is selected by the Board of Directors, Mrs. Patricia Foran will be Acting Executive Vice President. Mrs. Foran has been a staff member for six years and is well-versed in the operations of the Society. With the support of our experienced and professional Alumni House staff, we have every confidence that our operations will be continued in an effective and professional manner.

Speakers Offer Expert Advice

The next two speakers in the Career Speakers Series offered by the Office of Career Planning, will focus on work in the writing and publishing field and hospital administration.

Edward Fales, a 1930 graduate, now residing in Connecticut, will present a seminar entitled "Writing and Publishing," at 3:45 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 21 in Tucker Hall, room 215.

David Bernd of Norfolk General Hospital, a 1971 graduate, will discuss careers in hospital administration at 4 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 26 in Rogers 109.

Fales has worked as editor of numerous popular magazines and has written several books. He is currently a special assignment writer for several magazines including Parade, Reader's Digest, and Popular Science.

His seminar will focus particularly on the importance of accurate, levelheaded and unbiased presentation of the news and the responsibility of the writer or publisher has to his audience.

Bernd, who is currently the administrator for the division of Medical Center Hospitals, will direct his remarks to students wishing to pursue a career in the health field.
