Paschall Chosen Marshal for Homecoming Parade

Davis Y. Paschall, President Emeritus of the College, has been chosen Grand Marshal for the 1982 Homecoming Parade, Saturday, Nov. 6.

This year, the parade that usually gives viewers two chances to see the floats will make only a one-way passage. The parade will begin at 10 a.m. at the Capitol end of Duke of Gloucester Street, proceed through Merchants Square onto Richmond Road, and end at Cary Field.

Homecoming Weekend, Nov. 4-7, may turn into a dual celebration for Brown University and William and Mary alumni. The Indians play the Brown Bruins in football, and a large contingent of Brown alumni are expected to gather for a "Southern Homecoming."

1982 marks the first time that William and Mary has played Brown University in football, and the rivalry reflects the College's efforts to include more Ivy League schools in its schedule, according to a spokesman for the football program. In the past, games with Harvard and Dartmouth have drawn large crowds of returning alumni and Ivy League supporters, and this year's attendance is expected to follow that pattern.

The football game begins at 1:30 p.m., Saturday, at Cary Field.

On Thursday, Nov. 4, The Order of the White Jacket, a group of alumni who earned money for their educations by working in food services, will hold its 10th anniversary banquet and reception in the Campus Center Ballroom.

A full day of activities Friday begins with the nine- and 18-hole golf tournament for alumni and their spouses at the Kingsmill Golf Club, beginning at 8 a.m. The fifth annual Sandy Kelly Tournament will be played on the Busch Courts in back of William and Mary Hall, beginning at 10 a.m.

The traditional Sunset Ceremony by the Queen's Guard and the William and Mary Choir, scheduled at 4 p.m., in the Wren Courtyard, will honor alumni who have died during the past year.

The alumni will also challenge the varsity soccer team to a match at 4 p.m., Friday, at the Intramural Field.

The Alumni Banquet will be held Friday, at 7:45 p.m., in William and Mary Hall. The program will include the presentation of Alumni Medallions to six alumni for outstanding service to their alma mater.

"Toward Linden Street" Exhibit in Andrews Gallery

The Andrews Foyer Gallery is currently exhibiting the work of Norman Nilsen, "Toward Linden Street," a series of paintings of houses on Linden Street in New Haven, Conn.

The exhibit is open to the public daily, Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. There is no admission charge. The exhibit will be up until Nov. 19.

To the artist, the paintings represent more than a sense of place; they more strongly represent a sense of time. The proportions and solidity of the houses remain constant as the intervals of light change. They are transformed on the surface, and in the volume of surrounding space, by the seasons, hour of the day or changes in the weather.

State Approves Asbestos Funds

President Thomas A. Graves, Jr. has announced that the College has received notice from the state's Department of Planning and Budget that it has been allocated $629,946 for asbestos correction projects. Under the direction of Lawrence W. Broomall, Jr., vice president for business affairs, preliminary planning is under way to gain the advice and consultation of faculty advisory committees and other appropriate personnel.

Correction work will focus on three facilities, William and Mary Hall, Adair Gym, and Hugh Jones Hall. Further planning and schedules will be developed as soon as possible, and contracts for the correction work will be put out for bids. All work will be planned to have the least possible disruptive effect on the academic process.

Graduate Student Assaulted on Campus

On October 19, 1982, a graduate student at the College of William and Mary, who resides on campus, was assaulted in Millington Hall at about 8:50 p.m. This was the second rape attempt by this assailant on the same victim. The perpetrator committed a previous assault of the victim on October 9, 1982 in Millington Hall at about 9:50 a.m. The victim managed to escape the first time by jabbing the man with a set of keys and escaped the second time by spraying him with commercial tear gas. The victim sustained only a minor injury on this date which required no medical treatment.

The suspect is described as about 6' tall, large build and brown hair. His age is listed as late 20's or early 30's. He was wearing a blue checked flannel shirt and blue jeans. Campus Police Director Richard Cumbee said the average person who knows the assailant will not usually suspect him. He will normally appear gentle, passive and quiet. People who know him will generally think he could not do such a thing. Campus Police are coordinating the investigation with state and local police and the FBI, but declined to release

Gewandhaus Orchestra of Leipzig to Play November 3

The Gewandhaus Orchestra of Leipzig, Kurt Masur director, will present a violin concerto in D Major, Op. 61 by Beethoven, and symphony No. 1 in D Major by Gustave Mahler in a concert at 8:15 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 3 in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

The concert is part of the current Concert Series at the College. Individual tickets are $5 for members of the general public; $4 for members of the College Community and are available from the office of the director of the series, Ken Smith, 253-4557. Tickets will also be available at the Phi Beta Kappa box office the evening of the performance.

Featured soloist with the orchestra will be violinist Karl Suske.

Kurt Masur has been music director of the Gewandhaus Orchestra since 1970. He was formerly conductor of the Leipzig Opera House and has led such prestigious ensembles as the Dresden State Orchestra, the Leningrad Philharmonic, the Berlin Philharmonic, the Vienna Philharmonic and the Stockholm Philharmonic. He is a regular guest of the New Philharmonic and of the orchestra of the Teatro la Fenice de Venice and the Orchestre National de Paris. Masur has also participated in international music festivals in Prague, Warsaw and Salzburg.

Since its inception, the Gewandhaus Orchestra of Leipzig has been closely associated with some of the world's most revered musicians and composers. The oldest concert orchestra on German soil, it was founded in 1743 by a group of merchants and noblemen with Johann Sebastian Bach as its leader. Originally called the Collegium Musicum, the ensemble received its present name in 1781 when the concert moved to the Gewandhaus, the building that housed the linen merchants of Leipzig.

School Reps Due

Williamsburg-James City County Public Schools will send a representative to the Office of Educational Placement, Jones Hall 305, to interview prospective educators on Thursday, Nov. 18 from 9 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. CREDENTIAL PAPERS MUST BE ON FILE before students can sign up for any interview--and this is not an automatic procedure. Rather, if you have not set up a credential file, you should come by the Office of Educational Placement, Jones Hall 305, and obtain the forms, fill them out and return to us before the actual interview date. Also, at least two of your three recommendations should be in your file before interviewing.

If you plan to interview with Williamsburg-James City County Public Schools, please come by the Educational Placement Office and sign up. THEY WILL BE BACK IN THE SPRING FOR INTERVIEWING — IN MARCH — for May graduates primarily.

specifics of the investigation.

Cumbee stated that other students should be concerned but should not panic. The assailant has fixed his attention on one individual. Cumbee recommended all women on the campus to take precautions not to walk or study alone and to use the campus escort service or call a friend in

The Beethoven Concerto is dedicated to Stephen von Bruening, a secretary of the Emperor of Austria, and was first performed in 1806 by Franz Clement.

Mahler completed his first symphony in 1888, at the age of 28. The work was not well received initially, but Richard Strauss championed the cause and the work was given a major performance in Weimar in 1894. It was premiered in the United States at Carnegie Hall in 1909.

Pianist Perahia In Concert Here November 8

Pianist Murray Perahia, the first American to win the Leeds International Pianoforte Competition and internationally known as a recitalist and soloist with orchestras, will give a concert at 8:15 p.m., Monday, Nov. 8 at Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

Perahia's concert is part of the current Concert Series. Tickets are $5 for the general public; $4 for members of the College community. Tickets are available from the director of the Concert Series, Ken Smith, 253-4557, and will be available at the Phi Beta Kappa box office the evening of the performance.

Perahia will play Sonata in D Major, Op. 10, No. 3 by Beethoven; Four Impromptus, Op. 90, and "Wanderer" Fantasie for Piano, Op. 15 D. 760, all by Schubert; and Prelude and Fugue, Op. 35, No. 1, and Variations Serieuses in D Minor, Op. 54 both by Mendelssohn.

In barely a decade of international performing, Murray Perahia has made the kind of impact on the music scene that has earned him the reputation as one of today's most poetically eloquent masters of the keyboard.

Performing to critical acclaim in the music capitals of the world as a recitalist, chamber musician, and orchestral soloist, Perahia combines his lyricism and ability so that "at least 99 percent of the time he makes you feel that you are finally hearing the perfect performance of whatever he may be playing."

Perahia was born in the Bronx, New York, in 1947 and now lives in London with his wife, Naomi. His family descends from the branch of Sephardi Jews who lived in Spain until 1492 when they were exiled.

Since 1972, when he became the first pianist in almost 10 years signed by CBS Masterworks to an exclusive contract, Perahia's 16 albums have earned numerous awards. In 1975 he was elected first recipient of the Avery Fisher Prize. Today he is one of the most sought-after artists.

their dorm to walk with them. He also stated that although the use of keys and tear gas were effective in this case, they may not be effective in all instances.

He said, "We are not concentrating our investigation on student suspects, but we are not ruling out the possibility that the assailant is a student."

Nancy Wilson

Nancy Wilson Concert Oct. 31

Nancy Wilson who has an international reputation in the music world for her lithesome vocals which encompass jazz, soul, pop and blues, will give a concert at 4 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 31 in William and Mary Hall under the sponsorship of the Williamsburg alumnae chapter of Delta Sigma Theta sorority.

Tickets are $15 and $12.50 and are available at William and Mary Hall and from Ticketron and Sell-a-Seat outlets. Tickets for W&M students with current I.D. are $10.

Miss Wilson marked her silver anniversary in the music business in 1978. Born in Chillicothe, Ohio, and raised in Columbus, Nancy Wilson grew up surrounded by music. By the age of four she had decided that she wanted to be a singer.

"I just couldn't keep quiet," she recalls. "I sang anything, anytime anyone would listen. By the age of 15 she was a regular on a local television show. She got her real break when she filled in for Irene Reid at an important club date in New York City. Her first big hit record was "Tell Me The Truth," in 1963. After the success of this record the prestigious "Downbeat" and "Playboy" polls voted her one of the top singers in the country. Her hits have included "I Wanna Be With You," "Peace of Mind," "Can't Take My Eyes Off You," and "I've Never Been To Me."

Miss Wilson has garnered many honors during her musical career. The Jazz Heritage Society awarded her the Ebony Mike award in 1976 and she received an Emmy for her own popular television program in 1975.

Throughout her career, listeners have been trying to categorize Nancy Wilson's style, some calling it jazz, some calling it pop or soul. "Everyone wanted to put me in a category. Basically, I am a song stylist," says Miss Wilson.

President's Hours

President Graves has set aside designated times to see students in his office in Ewell Hall on an informal basis. No appointment is necessary.

Tuesday--Oct. 26, 4-5 p.m.

Wednesday--Nov. 17, 4-5 p.m.

Monday--Nov. 22, 4-5 p.m.

Tuesday, Nov. 30, 4-5 p.m.

Board to Meet

The Board of Visitors will meet in regular session this week. Committee meetings will be held Thursday evening at the Hospitality House and the full meeting of the board will be held Friday at the Alumni House. A Saturday morning session is tentatively scheduled for any business left over from the all-day meeting on Friday.

CSA Program

The Catholic Student Association is sponsoring "Social Awareness Week" this week until Oct. 30. Several programs will be held including the speech "Conscientious Objectors and the Draft: Qualifying and Preparing an Application" given by Dr. Robert Quirin, a draft counselor tonight at 9 p.m. in Tazewell Lounge.

On Wednesday, Oct. 27, an informational meeting for groups interested in sponsoring a needy child through the Christian Children's Fund will be held in Morton 20 at 9 p.m.

Disarmament Study

The Nuclear Disarmament Study group will sponsor a slide show on "The Threat of Nuclear War," on Thursday, Oct. 28 at 7:30 p.m. in Rogers 100.

This will be followed by a discussion of the nuclear freeze proposal by Mark Fowler of the philosophy faculty.

New Classes

New morning classes of "Body Beautiful" sponsored by the Office of Special Programs will begin Nov. 2, in the Campus Center. The 9:30 a.m. class, Tuesday and Thursday, will be held for six weeks. Fee for the course is $35. The staff/faculty session from 12:10 to 12:40 p.m. is $21 for six weeks of instruction.

Tuesday and Thursday evening class from 7:15 p.m. will begin Nov. 9; fee is $35.

These classes are taught by Ann Sinigalli and registration information may be obtained by calling the Office of Special Programs, 877-9231, ext. 60, 64.

NPS Summer Employment

The Office of Placement has received a supply of forms to use in applying for seasonal (summer) jobs with the National Park Service. These forms must be submitted by January 15, and can be found on the Summer Job Information shelf in the Career Library in Morton Hall 140.

Study Abroad Night

The Office of Extramural Programs is sponsoring the first annual STUDY ABROAD NIGHT on Wednesday, October 27 at 7:30 - 10:00 p.m. in the Campus Center Ballroom.

Program representatives will be available to answer questions as well as representatives from other U. S. college-sponsored programs.

For more information contact the Office of Extramural Programs, The Brafferton, ext. 4354.

Craft Shop Offerings

The craft shop classes in crocheting and knitting for those who are looking to make gifts for Christmas, are open Wednesday afternoons from 2:30 - 4:30 p.m. on a come-as-you-wish basis. Students may come for one or several of the classes and are not obliged to sign up for a schedule.

The darkroom at the Craft Shop is open Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., with an instructor on hand from 1 - 3 p.m.

TV Correction

TV watchers who looked for Karen Hall's credit as a writer for the Hill Street Blues segment last week were disappointed. A call from Karen to Lou Catron has set the record straight. Her M*A*S*H script "Hey Look Me Over," aired last night and her Hill Street Blues script "Officer of the Year," will air this week -- keep watching.

Washington Trip

The College Women's Club is still taking reservations for its one-day trip to Washington, D.C., Saturday, Oct. 30.

The bus leaves from the Phi Beta Kappa parking lot at 7 a.m. and will return at approximately 10 p.m. The cost is $26.

The trip includes a stop at the William H. Johnson exhibit at the National Museum of Art, a matinee performance of "On The Razzle," Tom Stoppard at the Arena Stage and dinner at Omar's in Richmond on the way home. The fee includes transportation and theatre tickets but not meals.

Reservations may be made with Joy Catron at 229-3696.

NAACP Speaker

Jack W. Gravely, executive director of the Virginia NAACP, will speak on "The Virginia Plan and Its Implications," at 7 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 28 in Morton Hall, room 20.

Gravely's talk is being sponsored by the Mu Upsilon Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta sorority.

Student Patrol Members Sought

The night has a thousand eyes and on campus some of those belong to the members of the student patrol. The student patrol is an organization of William and Mary students who work for the Campus Police Department. The students walk or ride bicycles in assigned areas and primarily look for suspicious occurrences. As full time students, they are especially suited to determine what is out of the ordinary on campus. When they observe unusual activity or conditions, they radio a campus police officer who responds to investigate further.

Interested students are selected through an interview process and undergo a background investigation prior to employment and training. The student patrol unit works under the direction of the campus police shift supervisor. Members of the student patrol are not law enforcement officers. They do not have arrest powers, do not carry weapons, and do not investigate crimes. The observations of student patrol members, both on and off duty, have resulted in many criminal arrests since they were organized in 1974.

Their effectiveness is not measured merely in terms of reporting incidents. They direct traffic, monitor gymnasiums, help lock buildings, distribute police notices, register bicycles, report burned out lights and hazardous conditions, assist dispatchers, aid visitors and provide escorts when the escort service is not operational. The performance of these duties frees highly trained officers to attend to patrol and investigation responsibilities.

In these financially limited times, the student patrol unit is a security bargain. At night they double the eyes and ears of the security force at about half the cost of fully trained officers.

Healy Responds

21 October 1982

Mr. David White
Student Association
College of William and Mary

Dear David:

This is in response to your request for the reasons for my recommendation to President Graves regarding the calendar of the Fall Semester of 1982. As you are aware, I have recommended that the calendar not be changed. The calendar for 1982-83 as it is presently scheduled was first recommended to the President and approved by him in March of 1980. I understood from Linda Collins Reilly who was the chairman of the Academic Calendar Advisory Committee at that time, as she is now, that all of the issues regarding the lateness of the exam period in 1982-83 were discussed and understood, and it was well known to the Committee members that inconveniences would be caused in some years. The general feeling was that it would be worth the price of occasional late examinations to keep Fall Break, which had been introduced in 1979.

Other solutions were then discussed but rejected as even less appealing than the late exams. They discussed, in 1980 I am told, taking another day out of reading period, which had been shortened by one day, from five to four, with the introduction of Fall Break. Beginning Orientation in mid-week was also considered, but since many parents are able to bring their children to school on weekends who might find it difficult to bring them on a weekday, this was rejected. Going to a five and half day exam schedule with three exam slots in one day was also suggested and rejected, as was a week earlier start in August. A return to a calendar with exams after Christmas was also rejected.

I also understand that the Academic Calendar Committee met last Friday, October 15 and heard from you and Peter Atwater, and Dean Sadler about the proposal the Student Association made regarding the introduction of two days of Saturday classes in order to move the exam schedule forward to have the last exams on December 21. I know that several alternative suggestions were made which might have accomplished this same thing. Several votes were taken. The final vote of 4-3 was to recommend to the President the change proposed by the SA. Two faculty members from Arts and Sciences, the academic unit most seriously affected by any potential changes, were absent, and the one member from Arts and Sciences present voted against the change. The faculty member from Business stated that he had polled his fellow faculty members and found them 15-11 in support of the change, and although he personally opposed it, he voted to reflect this narrow margin on the part of his colleagues. The chairman of the Committee, an Arts and Sciences faculty member herself, did not realize she could vote to cause a tie, thereby defeating the proposal and reportedly would have done so had this been known to her at the time.

I know that over 500 people are in classes with exams scheduled for December 23, and that the students employed by Residence Hall Life are also affected. I regret such inconveniences as may be caused by the existing academic calendar. However, after discussing the matter with Ms. Reilly, Dean Bowen, and other concerned parties, and after considering the merits of the alternatives suggested to me, I cannot recommend to the President the proposed change in the calendar.

I hope this summary of information at least responds to your questions, even if it does not satisfy your concerns.

Sincerely,

George R. Healy
Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs

NEW COURSE DESCRIPTIONS

The courses being offered by William Fleming, the Willim R. Kenan Visiting Professor in the Spring, were inadvertently omitted from the list of new and revised course descriptions in the Registration Schedule for Spring, 1983. Many students will be interested in the two multidisciplinary courses Professor Fleming will teach, College Courses 280 and 480. Under certain circumstances (see the Catalog p. 164), the courses may carry Area or Sequence credit or otherwise count in Fine Arts and Music.

College Course 280 Arts and Ideas (11:00-12:30 TT) - A study of the visual arts and music from the late Renaissance to the present day viewed in their relationship to the thought and life of the times in which they occur. Lecture 3 hours; 3 credits.

College Course 480 Masterpieces of Arts (2:00-3:30 TT) - Selected masterworks from the visual arts, music, and literature will be analyzed for form and content, then synthesized with their broader cultural, historical, stylistic, and humanistic contexts. Lecture 3 hours; 3 credits.

West: 'Athletics a Vital Part of Education Process'

Millie West, Director of Women's Athletics, spoke at a press conference for area media, Thursday at the Alumni House. West's talk followed a slide show depicting all areas of women's athletics.

Millie West

William and Mary's women's athletic program, originating in 1920, ranks among one of the best and certainly one of the earlier programs established for women. The program was developed because William and Mary believes athletics to be a vital and integral part of the total education process. To deprive a person of the opportunities for personal development available through physical activity is to do that person a great disservice. It is for that reason that William and Mary provides a well balanced participatory program for William and Mary students with instruction and supervision worthy of such a program.

The past decade has seen women's athletics across the country undergo drastic changes in terms of increased opportunities for competition, changes in intensity of program, skill level of athletes and the scope of program. William and Mary's program has been no exception.

- A program of 8 sports, 8 staff members, no grants in aid, and a $20,000 budget in 1972 has grown to a 14 sport program with 23 staff members, $144,000 for grants and an overall budget of just over $750,000 in 1982.

- In addition, William and Mary is the only women's program among Division I institutions in Virginia totally separate from the men's program with the athletic director having full responsibility for the program and answering directly to the president.

The enormous growth at William and Mary has in no way displaced the original philosophy of a broad participatory program with the participant as its focal point. All improvements have been made with this philosophy in mind and on the merits and needs of the program rather than on the basis of a comparison with the men's program.

Throughout the history of women's athletics, the participant has remained a student first and an athlete second. Allowing athletes to put academics first in no way compromises a commitment to excellence in athletics; it merely means that students and coaches must keep a clear perspective on the primary reason a student is at William and Mary.

As evidence that excellence in academics and athletics can go hand in hand, I offer the following:

- Better than 95% of all women athletes complete a degree program. No woman athlete has exhausted her eligibility in a sport and then merely dropped out of school. Over the past four years, 13 athletes have been elected to Phi Beta Kappa with one of these being nominated as a Rhodes Scholar. Last year, women athletes received the James Frederick Carr Memorial Cup and the Algernon Sydney Sullivan Award, two awards given to an outstanding senior male or female demonstrating leadership, scholarship, and service.

These students have also performed very well as athletes. Last year 8 of our 14 varsities qualified teams or individuals for AIAW National Competition. Three of these teams finished among the top 5 in the country. The lacrosse team finished 5th in Division I competition; the golf team finished 4th, and the tennis team finished 2nd in Division II competition. Three athletes won national championships, and 36 athletes earned 62 All-American titles over the past three years.

1982 Team Data:

- This fall the hockey team, playing a national level schedule, is 6 and 6 with 4 regular season games remaining.

Basia Deren has established a new record of 65 field hockey goals scored. The old record of 60 was established by Ginny Ramsey from 1974 to 1977.

The tennis team is currently 5 and 2. The team has thrashed all state competition including UVA, Richmond and ODU. Harvard and Yale have handed them their only defeats.

Soccer, in its second season as varsity, is 4-4-3. They have beaten 19th ranked George Washington and lost 6-0 to defending champion North Carolina - last year the score of that game was 13-1.

Golf, cross country, and volleyball are also having good seasons.

This year, however, marks another new era for women's athletics at William and Mary. The AIAW, which provided an ideal setting for William and Mary teams, has been put "on hold" pending the outcome of the anti-trust lawsuit against the NCAA. (That case is being heard this week in the D.C. courts, however, I am not optimistic that the outcome will be in favor of the AIAW.) In view of the situation, William and Mary has placed its program under the NCAA membership in the NCAA requires that the men's and women's programs compete in the same Division, which means placing all the women's teams in Division I. One team may be moved to Division II, and for many reasons, we have chosen to place basketball in division II. This change in the status of the program offers us one of the most significant challenges we have experienced to date. We are busily exploring all options available at the state, regional and national levels in an effort to find an appropriate level of competition for each team. At the state level, in conjunction with the Virginia Intercollegiate League, the women athletic directors have established 7 championships for women.

We have joined the EAIAW and ECAC, both of which are allied members of the NCAA and cover approximately the same geographic area of Virginia to Maine. These two groups, which are actively negotiating a merger, offer opportunities for regional competition which will be important steps toward earning one of the coveted berths in NCAA Championships.

In addition to the NCAA, we have placed our gymnastics and swimming teams under NAIA competition.

Again, we face major changes in women's athletics. Changes will be expensive and will require a new thrust in our recruiting program. You can be sure that one factor which will remain constant is that basic philosophy of a student oriented program which fields teams with athletes who are truly representative of the academic community. In simple terms, this means we will be recruiting the national calibre athlete with the potential of becoming William and Mary's first Rhodes Scholar.

Welsh Adult Skills Program Boasts Record Enrollment

The Rita Welsh Adult Skills Program has purchased an Apple II computer with funds raised through the Rita Welsh Memorial Fund.

Approximately $2,700 has been raised for the fund. In addition to the computer, a portrait of Mrs. Welsh, founder and first director of the program, has been purchased and hung in the classroom.

This semester, the Rita Welsh Program is providing over 300 hours of individual instruction to 150 adults per week. The number increases weekly because community adults continue to enroll, explains director Corliss Tacosa.

The students range in age from 17 to 67, with 50 percent in the 17-40 age group, and 50 percent in the 41-67 age range; 70 percent are males and 30 percent female. Some 85 percent of the students in the program are employed and represent about 25 area employers.

Currently, 15 adults are studying at the base level; 44 are working at the intermediate and advanced levels; and 61 are preparing for the GED test. Thirty students are enrolled in the program's "English as a Second Language" project.

Students at the Center are being assisted by 106 volunteers; 61 are from Education 304, and 45 come from the faculty, student body and Williamsburg community.

This year, reports Tacosa, the program has the largest number of students and volunteers it has ever had for this point in the year.

Funded by the United Way and private donations and supported by the College, the program provides instruction for adults in the Williamsburg area who need help improving their literacy and mathematical skills.

The program is unique in that instruction is individualized. All adult students take informal placement tests which indicate their reading and math levels. A course of study is then designed to fit their own level of learning. A volunteer tutor then provides instruction.

Flexible day-time hours are arranged that best fit the student's job schedule and/or family demands. Adult students must be 17 years of age or older to be eligible for enrollment.

"We have been assured by employers, students, tutors, and community members that the program is meaningful and valuable," says Tacosa. "Employers have noted improvement in job performance and attitude; students gain increased knowledge, self-esteem and job opportunities; tutors gain personal satisfaction

Career Speakers Will Discuss Sales, Broadcasting

The Career Speakers Series is sponsoring two career seminars in the coming week. The first is entitled "Careers in Sales and Marketing" and will be held on Thursday, Oct. 28, at 3:30 p.m. in Morton 20. The second, "Careers in Broadcasting", is scheduled for Monday, November 1, at 4 p.m. in Tucker 215.

Stephanie Buchanan '81, will present the seminar on Sales and Marketing. Buchanan is currently employed with C & P Telephone.

"Careers in Broadcasting" will bring two alumnae back on campus. Gale Long, a 1972 English major graduate, will share her experiences as a producer for the Maryland Center for Public Broadcasting. Judith Plavnick '81, government major, will also speak on her work as a news writer for the Independent News Network.

and valuable experience; and the community gains more skilled and knowledgeable citizens who are better able to contribute to the welfare of our community."

The Adult Skills Program also has two out-reach programs. Tutors go to the Williamsburg-James City Jail to assist inmates and also help young mothers at the Child Development Resources Center (CDR).

The center's program is directed by a board headed by Nathan Lewis, who paid tribute to the role of the College in the center. "We wouldn't have a center without the College," he says. The College provides housing for the center in the basement of Bryan Residence Hall Complex. Donald Lashinger, professor of education, former co-director & president of board now serves as educational consultant.

Anyone wishing to enroll in the Adult Skills Program, as a student, in the English as a Second Language project, or as a tutor, should call the Center at 253-4644.

Amaury Saint-Gilles to Give Ceramics Lectures

Two slide lectures on Japanese ceramics will be given Friday, Oct. 29 by Amaury Saint-Gilles, author and critic, under the sponsorship of the Department of Fine Arts and the College's Committee on Lectures.

Saint-Gilles will lecture on folk potters and six ancient kilns at 4:30 p.m. and will discuss contemporary potters at 8 p.m. Both lectures will be given in Andrews Hall room 201.

Saint-Gilles has been a resident of Tokyo, Japan for the past 25 years. He has

The Interfraternity Council, headed by Tom Trott, has mapped out a busy schedule this year.

The IFC will sponsor its annual "Halloween Party," on Wednesday, Oct. 27 from 9 - 12 midnight in the fraternity complex. The IFC is also planning to sponsor the first annual senior dance for all fraternity seniors on Jan. 22 and is planning a wine and cheese reception this semester for faculty with the assistance of Panhel.

Bloodmobile Thursday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Campus Center has an extra bonus for Greek donors. A prize will be awarded to the fraternity with the highest percentage of members participating.

In November IFC is planning an Alcohol Awareness Day. Also in November, IFC is planning a newsletter for Greeks.

Composed of six officers and a representative from each fraternity, the Council works to promote higher levels of fraternity interaction and understanding. Weekly meetings provide a forum to air issues and problems common to all fraternities. One of the main objectives of the Council this year is to promote inter-fraternity competition through academics, services and athletics. Many of the programs being undertaken by the Council were set in place by Mike Rawlings, past president of IFC.

Mike Sharman is chairman for Rush which will be held next semester. In addition to providing freshmen a Greek Rush booklet, IFC is arranging for representatives from fraternities to visit freshmen halls and explain the benefits and responsibilities of Greek membership.

Social chairman for IFC is Scott Henry.

been art critic for the Mainichi Shimbun's English edition daily news for the last 12 years, writing weekly critiques on current exhibition in Japan. He is the author of the recently published book "Earth and Fire: A Survey Guide to Contemporary Japanese Ceramics." He is the owner of The Gallery Upstairs, which shows a wide range of contemporary Japanese ceramics and avant garde prints. He is also co-owner of Craft International, a showroom handling fine handcrafted items from around the world.

There has been a large turnout of Greeks for the weekly pre-pub get-togethers which fraternities have been hosting and the IFC plans to continue them.

Other officers of IFC include Daniel Nass, vice president; Dave Nass, secretary, and Todd Canterbury, treasurer. Representatives include John Hutcheson, Gregg Feragasso, Mike Schuler, Mike Henderson, John Ard, Bill Brannon, Brad Kemp, Mike Toottey, Craig Armstrong, Dave Rowley and Paul Roberts.

The Council would like to have more participation on the part of the College community and residents of Williamsburg in the Greek life on campus and invites inquiries about the programs of IFC and its member fraternities.

Teresa Hood Named USAA Scholar

Teresa L. Hood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hood of Middletown, N.J., a freshman, has been named a National Scholar by the United States Achievement Academy and has been awarded a scholarship in the area of foreign languages. The award was one of only ten given nationally for achievement in foreign languages.

USAA National Scholars are selected by an independent panel of educators. The Scholarship Selection Committee reviews outstanding applicants from all across America and selects winners based on academic achievement, school activities, leadership qualities, interest and aptitude.

Teresa was valedictorian of her class at Middletown High North last June.

Saint-Gilles promotes exhibitions both in Japan and abroad, concentrating especially on arranging shows for younger Japanese artists. In 1978 and 1979 he organized two major showcase exhibitions for ceramics and prints under the heading "JAPAN: New Faces I & II." Both were charity sale exhibitions for the benefit of the handicapped and were patronized by the Imperial Family. He is currently working on a show of Japanese folk art and has written an illustrated catalog to accompany that collection.

In the past several years, Saint-Gilles has regularly lectured and led week-long field trips in Japan. During the past summer, he lectured to the Parson School Japan Seminar in Tokyo, and has been invited to lecture on ceramics during the next Asian Arts Festival in Hong Kong in conjunction with their exhibition of Japanese ceramics.

Law Competition Honors Alumnus

Entries are now being accepted for the third annual Lawrence W. I'Anson Competition in Judicial Administration. Sponsored by the National Center for State Courts in honor of Lawrence W. I'Anson '28, former chief justice of Virginia and past president of the Center, the contest is open to full-time students of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law. Three awards will be made: a first prize of $600, a second prize of $400, and a third prize of $200.

Essays may be on any topic in the field of judicial administration, and a list of suggested topics may be obtained from the Center. All topics must be approved in advance by the executive director of the Center, Edward B. McConnell. The deadline for submitting essays is March 22, 1983.

Information about contest procedures and requirements may be obtained from the Office of the Executive Director, National Center for State Courts, 300 Newport Avenue, Williamsburg, Virginia 23185; 253-2000.

Contest winners will be announced and prizes awarded at or shortly before graduation exercises in May.

Funding for the contest was provided by a grant to the National Center from the Williamsburg Pottery Factory.

AFB To Honor Louis Rives

Alexander Scourby and Louis H. Rives, Jr. (B.A. 1941, B.C. L., 1943) will receive the 45th Annual Migel Media award from the American Foundation for the Blind, in recognition of their contributions to services for blind and visually impaired Americans. The awards will be presented in a ceremony on October 28 at the close of the second annual Helen Keller Seminar at the Holiday Inn - Coliseum in the Imperial Room in New York City.

In announcing the awards, John S. Crowley, president of the Foundation said, "The theme of this year's Helen Keller Seminar is 'Standards and Models for Excellence,' and I cannot think of two individuals who exemplify all that implies, more than Alexander Scourby and Louis H. Rives, Jr. Their dedication to the highest standards of their respective professions continues to be a living model for excellence, which inspires those of us who are privileged to know and work with them."

Born in Brooklyn, Scourby began his career as an apprentice in Eva LeGalienne's Civic Repertory Theatre and in 1936 debuted on Broadway in Leslie Howard's production of Hamlet. His rich voice earned him major roles in five radio soap operas during the 40's. In the 50's, he went to Hollywood and appeared in "Affair in Trinidad," "Giant," "The Big Heat," and "The Glory Brigade," among others.

Louis H. Rives, Jr., whose life work has been devoted to the field of blindness, will receive the Migel Medal in the professional category. Upon receiving a J.D. degree from the College of William and Mary, he began his career with the federal government, holding varying positions dealing with vocational rehabilitation. As chief of the Division of Services for the Blind, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, he was able to provide input that would help future generations of blind people. Upon his retirement in 1974, he became Director of Research at the Arkansas Enterprises for the Blind, a position he later left to become Administrator of the Office for the Blind and Visually Impaired, Division of Rehabilitation Services, in the State of Arkansas.

Rives has served as a member of the Board of Directors of the National Accreditation Council for Agencies Serving the Blind and Visually Handicapped (NAC), serving two terms as president of its Executive Committee. He is a life member and past president of the American Association of Workers for the Blind, Inc. (AAWB), a life member of the National Rehabilitation Association, a member of the Advisory Committee to the Helen Keller National Center for Deaf-Blind Youths and Adults, and a member of the Board of Directors of National Industries for the Blind and the Affiliated Leadership League of and for the Blind of America (ALL). Although he retired to Sun City West, Arizona in 1980, Rives continues to serve on several advisory committees and Boards. He is a member of the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees, the American Foundation for the Blind, and member of the Board for the International Services for the Blind, and Arizona Foundation for Blind Children.

Recognized for his outstanding achievements in vocational rehabilitation of the blind and for his work as Chief of the Division of Services for the Blind, Rives received the Distinguished Service Award in 1967 from the Department of HEW. In 1969, he received AAWB's highest honor, the Shotwell Memorial Distinguished Service Award. In April of 1974, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, Casper Weinberger, presented Mr. Rives with the Certificate of Merit for outstanding service to the government of the United States.

Gift of Pottery Honors Alumnus

Authorities of Turkish Cyprus have given 20 pieces of ancient Cypriot pottery—some of it more than 3,000 years old—to the University of Virginia in honor of Dr. Norman J. Knorr, (W & M 1953-1955) dean of the School of Medicine and Dr. Vamik D. Volkan, the Cyprus-born director of the University's Blue Ridge Hospital division.

Turkish Cypriot President Rauf R. Denktas and the Council of Ministers gave the vessels and figurines to recognize Knorr and Volkan's contributions in establishing mental health services on the Turkish side of the war torn Mediterranean island.

The Agency for International Development in Washington, D.C., sponsored the program in which Knorr and Volkan participated to plan and build a 100-bed mental hospital near Nicosia. The psychiatrists also devised a training program to staff the new facility in the late 1970s.

The pottery items in the collection range from a 14th-century glazed Sgraffito bowl to several early Bronze Age jugs and bowls dating from 2300 B.C. The collection will be housed in the University's Bayly Museum.

A Baltimore native, Knorr, the James Carroll Flippin Professor of Medical Science who is also professor of behavioral medicine and psychiatry and of plastic surgery, has been dean of the School of Medicine since 1977. Volkan is professor of psychiatry and chief of the medical school's psychoanalytic studies division.

Alumni Weekend Activities Planned

the awarding of the outstanding chapter honor, introduction of Faculty Fellows, and announcement of alumni board elections. William and Mary President Thomas A. Graves, Jr., will give remarks at the banquet.

An Alumni jog down Duke of Gloucester Street will begin at 8 a.m., Saturday, from the Wren Building.

Also on Saturday, a luncheon on the lawn for alumni and friends will begin at 11 a.m., at the Alumni House. There will also be a law school luncheon at 11 a.m. in the Campus Center Ballroom.

Halftime festivities at the football game will include the crowning of the homecoming queen, a performance by the alumni band and announcement of parade winners.

Two homecoming dances are scheduled Saturday at 9 p.m. The alumni will hold a dance in Blow Gymnasium, and the undergraduates will hold a dance at William and Mary Hall and have invited members of the classes of 1977 through 1982 to attend.

Several classes will have breakfast gatherings Sunday before the 1 p.m. soccer game between William and Mary and James Madison at Cary Field.

Eight classes will hold reunions this year, including the classes of 1942, 1947, 1952, 1957, 1962, 1967, 1972, and 1977. Parties are also scheduled throughout the weekend by other classes that are not officially celebrating a reunion.
