NEH, VFHPP Both Endorse New History Institute

The National Endowment for the Humanities and the Virginia Foundation for the Humanities and Public Policy have both endorsed, with grant awards, a new program for secondary school social studies teachers developed by three members of the history faculty.

"America, Europe, and the Soviet Union: Challenges for the Eighties," is the title of a summer institute which will be held on campus this summer under the auspices of the VFHPP and in 1984 under NEH funding.

George V. Strong, associate professor of history, will serve as director. Members of the faculty will be Edward P. Crapol, professor and chairman of the Department of History; and Gilbert McArthur, associate professor of history.

The grant of $15,000 from VFHPP provides partial support for a four-week, non-residential institute this summer for between 18 and 21 teacher-participants. It is one of only four such institutes which were selected for VFHPP funding.

The NEH grant of $67,580 will fund a six-week, residential program for 36 secondary school social studies teachers to be held in 1984. This is one of 27 awards made to institutions throughout the country.

"I am pleased that the resources that we possess in the Department of History will be put to good use," said Professor Strong. "This project draws from our strengths and therefore allows us to make a wider contribution to the community; moreover, one that is both constructive and useful."

"The project will also serve to permit participating faculty to strengthen themselves in an area of their expertise, thereby enriching in turn a segment of our Liberal Arts program at the College. . ."

The three members of the institute faculty are specialists in the fields of American Foreign Policy, Europe, and the Soviet Union. Dr. Crapol received his Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin and has been a member of the faculty since 1967. Dr. McArthur received his doctorate from the University of Rochester and has been teaching at William and Mary since 1966. Dr. Strong received a doctorate from the University of North Carolina and has been a member of the faculty since 1967.

Letters will be going out April 1, says Professor Strong, to school district superintendents, seeking applicants from school districts within commuting distance of the College campus in Williamsburg. In 1984, the project will be expanded into a larger residential program and will welcome participants from Maryland, North Carolina, and the District of Columbia as well as the entire state of Virginia.

The institute will be conducted on a seminar format. It will focus on the challenges confronting the United States in its relations with Europe and the Soviet Union through a study of their on-going relationship since 1945.

The institute also will offer a comprehensive analysis of the divergent national perspectives of the western and eastern European nations as well as those of the Soviet Union and the United States. Participants will be asked to prepare and present short reports on a variety of topics relating to American, European, and Soviet developments since the Second World War. Individual guidance will be given by faculty members in the preparation of these reports which, when in final draft form, will be distributed to all participants as resource material for future use in their classrooms.

In follow-up activity, participants will be asked to evaluate their experience as members of the institute. In addition, teacher-participants will be asked to conduct one in-service workshop during the following school year for their colleagues in their home systems. The institute faculty will be available for consultation in setting up these workshops.

In addition to receiving a stipend to cover expenses, participants will receive tuition aid. The 1983 summer institute also will award three hours of graduate

Sky Painter

Steve Poleskie, internationally recognized artist who has taken his paintings out of the galleries and into the skies, will give a lecture and show films of his aerial painting April 5 (see story p.5).

John M. Nagle Named New Dean of Education

John M. Nagle, assistant dean of the College of Education at Northern Illinois University, has been named dean of the School of Education.

He will assume the post July 1, succeeding James M. Yankovich, who is returning to full-time teaching.

Nagle, 42, is also a professor of educational administration at Northern Illinois, the second largest public university in the state, with an enrollment of 25,000.

A graduate of Hamilton College, Nagle received his bachelor's degree in English in 1962. In 1963, he received an M.A.T. degree from Harvard University in the teaching of secondary school English. In 1969, Nagle obtained his Ph.D. in educational administration from the University of Pittsburgh, where he was a William A. Yeager Fellow in the College of Education.

From 1969-75, Nagle was a research associate at the Center for Educational Policy and Management at the University of Oregon. In that position, he directed two major research and development projects funded by the U.S. Office of Education and the National Institute of Education.

From 1971-75, Nagle also served as assistant and associate professor in the Program in Educational Administration at the University of Oregon's College of Education.

Since 1975, Nagle has served as professor in the Department of Leadership and Educational Policy Studies at Northern Illinois, teaching at the graduate level. As assistant dean of the College of Education since 1980, Nagle's responsibilities have centered on developing research and information systems, obtaining external funding, and improving faculty development programs.

Nagle's numerous academic publications include the book, Urban Education in America (Oxford University Press, 1972), which he authored with Raymond C. Hummel. He has contributed chapters to many education and literature textbooks, authored education manuals and instructional materials and written numerous monographs and journal articles for publications ranging from The Educational Forum to the English Journal and Walt Whitman Review.

Nagle, his wife Elizabeth, and their two sons will be moving to Williamsburg this summer.

Eagleton to Give Law Lecture

Thomas Francis Eagleton, senior United States Senator from Missouri, will give the 1983 George Wythe Lecture at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law.

Senator Eagleton will speak on "Congressional Attempts to Amend the Constitution by the Back Door," at 2 p.m., Monday, April 4 in Room 119 of the law school.

Senator Eagleton is now serving a third term in the United States Senate. He has previously served as the Circuit Attorney (prosecutor) of St. Louis; Attorney General of Missouri and Lieutenant Governor of Missouri. He is a leading advocate for restoring constitutional balance between Congress and the Executive branch and is the author of "War and Presidential Power."

Senator Eagleton is the recipient of numerous awards and honors. He is a member of the Appropriations Committee, is ranking minority member of the Governmental Affairs Committee, a member of the Labor and Human Resources Committee and the Senate Select Committee on Ethics. He also serves as a member of the Democratic Steering Committee.

A graduate cum laude from Amherst College, in 1953, the senator received an LL.B. cum laude from Harvard Law School in 1956.

The George Wythe Lecture series was established in 1976, the 250th year following the birth of George Wythe. The inaugural lecture for that year was delivered by Francis Allen, former dean of the Michigan Law School and then president of the Association of American Law Schools.

Each year a distinguished jurist is chosen to give the George-Wythe lecture by a vote of the faculty of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law.

College Gets Round-the-World Coverage from Foreign Press

Jung Suk Lee, chief of the Washington Bureau of the Korean Broadcasting System, an independent production company, was on campus last week filming campus activities for a 50-minute program to be shown in Korea.

The program is the first in a series about university life which will focus on small, large and medium size institutions in various parts of the world.

Chonghan Kim, professor of government, who helped the crew while they were on campus, said that William and Mary was chosen because of its reputation as a prestigious academic institution and its unique historic heritage. Activities in lecture classes, small seminars, dorm life, and ROTC drill, an interview with President Graves and a visit to the Greenleaf cafe were all included in material filmed by the TV crew.

At right, Voice of America news team interviews President Graves for educational program with world-wide distribution.

Summer Archaeology Schools Offer Digs in Virginia, St. Eustatius

The College will offer two field schools in archaeology this summer, one on the island of St. Eustatius in the Netherlands Antilles, the other in the Tidewater area.

Both schools are open to graduate and undergraduate students. Qualified graduates of accredited high schools who may wish to begin college work prior to the fall semester are also eligible to attend. However, admission to the field school does not in itself guarantee admission to any degree program at the College.

Six semester hours of credit may be earned at either school. The program at St. Eustatius will be held June 13 through July 25. Cost for tuition, room, board and air fare from Miami and back is approximately $1,575. Books and personal excavation equipment will cost about $30. Applications are now being received. Applicants will be notified of acceptance by April 15.

Bloodmobiles

The Williamsburg-James City County Chapter, American Red Cross processed 147 donors at a six hour bloodmobile sponsored by Residence Hall Life, on Monday, March 21, Coordinator for the visit was Amy Restuccia. Receiving pins were Cindy Zvirzdin, Severn Churn, Claire Campbell and Roger Locklear, 1 gallon

The next bloodmobile conducted by the Williamsburg-James City County Chapter will be Friday, April 1, at Mt. Gilead Baptist Church, Grove (Route 60 East). It will be sponsored by Frontiers International, a non profit organization consisting of black professionals. The bloodmobile will be held from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m.

To schedule an appointment call: John Robb at 887-5951. Individuals who have not donated blood within the past eight weeks are urged to support this visit.

Andrews Gallery

Ceramic Sculpture by James Stephenson, David Dontigny and Barry Matthews is currently on display in Andrews Foyer Gallery until April 15. Gallery hours are Monday-Friday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

In Andrews Gallery currently is the work of Younghee Choi.

Applications should be made between April 1 and June 6 for the summer session in Virginia, scheduled June 6 through July 8. Cost of the school, including tuition, room and board on campus, books and laboratory fee will be $580 for Virginia students, $1,018 for out-of-state students.

St. Eustatius is one of the Dutch Windward islands, situated about 160 miles southeast of Puerto Rico. The island's small size belies the immensely significant role it played throughout the colonial development of North America and the West Indies. First settled by the Dutch in 1635, the island soon became the center of East Indian trade with the Spanish colonies and a funnel through which English sugar was moved toward European and North American markets.

Later, huge quantities of arms, ammunition and other essential goods were smug-

Searching For Sand

A slide-illustrated program will be presented Wednesday, April 6, at 7:30 p.m. in the Byrd Hall Conference Room on the VIMS' campus, Gloucester Point.

Carl Hobbs and Robert Gammisch from VIMS' Department of Geological Oceanography will describe the history and interrelationship of several projects worked on by VIMS geologists. The techniques and findings of a search for sand suitable for nourishing the public beaches in the lowest part of Chesapeake Bay demonstrates how new projects use information obtained in past efforts and how they benefit Virginia.

This program is one of a series of "Oceanography for Landlubbers," presented free to the public the first Wednesday in each month. For further information on these programs contact Mary Sparrow 642-2111, ext. 298.

Housing Sought

Housing for visiting and permanent faculty members at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law is needed. Anyone with available housing is asked to call the Law School office, ext. 4304.

gled through Statia in support of the American Revolution, and it is known that Statia's trading activities were key factors both in the formation of British mercantile policy and in deciding the outcome of the Revolution. The tiny island is rich in well-preserved 17th and 18th century archaeological remains.

The archaeological field school in Virginia will include survey and excavations on a 10-kilometer tract of land along the James River just west of Williamsburg near Jamestown. The tract of land, which became part of Gov. Berkeley's land holdings during the 17th century, contains several known prehistoric and historic settlements and is believed to have many more awaiting discovery.

Two courses will be offered at each school, as well as an opportunity for a graduate study in field work.

Students interested in the St. Eustatius School should contact Norman Barka at the department of anthropology, ext. 4522. Barka will be director of the school in Statia. Theodore R. Reinhart of the anthropology faculty (ext. 4369) will be director of the Virginia school. Applications for the Virginia summer school may be obtained at the Office of the Registrar.

Publishing Grants Now Available

The Committee on Training in Publishing Procedures offers two grants of up to $1500 each depending on need and the availability of funds to recent graduates of William and Mary who are admitted to one of the following programs for training in publishing procedures in the summer of 1983:

Howard University Book Publishing Program
Publishers Weekly Internship
New York University Diploma Programs in Book and Magazine Publishing

Radcliffe College Publishing Procedures Course
Stanford University Publishing Course
University of Denver Publishing Institute

The deadline for application is May 2, 1983. Application forms are available at the Office of Career Planning (Morton 140). Applicants need not be admitted to a program at the time of application, but all awards are contingent upon subsequent admission as a full-time student.

Three Journalism Awards

Nominations are being sought for three prizes in journalism awarded each year at the College. Each carries a monetary reward.

The Virginia Gazette Award is presented annually to a sophomore or junior (preferably a sophomore) student who has made an outstanding contribution to a student publication of the College, on one or more of the journalistic arts (writing, editing, photography, drawing, graphic design, typography). The purpose of the award is to recognize and encourage excellence of expression in student newspaper and magazine production.

At least three but not more than five samples of work should be submitted with a short biographical sketch for committee consideration.

The Rex Smith Award was established in 1960 by friends of the distinguished alumnus of the College. A prize is presented annually to a student who demonstrates academic achievement, journalistic competence, choice of journalism as a career, and participation in the publication activities of the College.

The Charles McDowell-Kays Gary Award is an award made possible from the earnings of a fund established by Wilford Kale, an alumnus of the College. It is intended to honor excellence in journalistic writing at the College.

Nominations should be received by April 20, at the William and Mary News Office, 310A James Blair Hall. For further information, please call Barbara Ball, William and Mary News, ext. 4331.

President's Hours

For the rest of the semester, President Graves has set up the following schedule for informal visits with students in his office in Ewell Hall. No appointment is necessary.

Friday, April 8--4-5 p.m.
Thursday, April 14--4-5 p.m.
Wednesday, April 20--4-5 p.m.
Monday, April 25--4-5 p.m.
Monday, May 2--4-5 p.m.

Easter Dinner

The Off-Campus Student Council will hold its annual Easter dinner at the Off-Campus Student House from 4-6 p.m., April 1.

Computer Center To Close During Asbestos Work

The Computer Center will be closed during the second and third weeks of May while asbestos is being removed from the ground floor of Hugh Jones Hall.

The computer will cease operation at 8 a.m. on May 10. All user output - printout, cards, etc. - must be picked up before midnight May 10. Production Control will accept administrative work no later than noon on Friday, May 6.

Although everything must be removed from the rest of the ground floor, plans are for the computer equipment in the Machine Room to be protected in place with plywood and polyethylene barriers while proper temperature and humidity controls are maintained.

Assuming the asbestos removal work proceeds according to schedule, the Computer Center will resume operations on May 23.

Realizing this downtime could pose problems for users, the Computer Center Staff will do everything possible, within the constraints imposed, to see that the inconvenience is kept to a minimum.

Robert Gill

Robert Gill, recently retired athletic director for Arlington Public Schools, will speak as part of the Career Speaker series at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, March 30, in Morton 341.

Gill is currently serving as a consultant to the school district in Arlington. After receiving a Ph.D./Health degree from William and Mary he worked as a teacher and coach and went on to earn a master's degree in education.

Sunrise Service on Easter

A sunrise service will be held on Easter Sunday, April 3 at 5:30 a.m. at Barksdale Fields on Jamestown Road.

Guest speaker will be the Rev. H. Morton Whitman. Special Easter music will be featured in the service.

Following the service, a light breakfast will be served at the Wesley Foundation.

This service is being sponsored by the Williamsburg Evangelical Ministries Fellowship and a number of local churches. For further information, please call Coleman Tyler or Bob Harmon at 253-0531 or 253-2270.

Debate With British

The British National Debate team will challenge William and Mary debaters at a parliamentary debate at 7:30 p.m., March 31, in Tucker Hall 120.

The department of theatre and speech is sponsoring the debate which will take up the question of whether popular culture is a contradiction in terms.

The British team of Mark Paul Phillips and Giles Kavanagh will debate in the affirmative and Bernard Keavney and Ruth Katz for William and Mary will debate the negative side.

This debate is open to the general public and because of the format of parliamentary debates, there will be an opportunity to members of the audience to participate.

The British team is currently on a tour of the eastern part of the United States, sponsored by Speech Communication Association of Annandale, Va. Both members of the British team are currently studying law.

Senior Input Needed

Stan Brown, director of the Placement Office is asking seniors who are graduating in May and August and who have accepted jobs or admission to a graduate/professional school, to complete a placement questionnaire in Morton 140. This will alleviate a summer mailing for the Placement Office.

Information on the questionnaire, says Brown, is valuable in counseling future students.

VAAO Scholarships

The Virginia Association of Assessing Officers is now accepting applications for the annual VAAO Scholarship Program.

Scholarship recipients attend the Virginia Department of Taxation's Advanced Assessors' School which will be held June 5 - 10 at the University of Virginia in Charlottesville.

Scholarship recipients will be enrolled in Course 1 - Fundamentals of Real Property Appraisal. This course is a fundamental real estate course that includes an introduction to valuation principles and to the approaches to valuation.

Three scholarships, which include tuition and financial assistance, will be offered to qualified persons considering the assessment profession as their career.

For additional information, see announcement M-18-1 in the Placement Office, Morton 140.

Easter Egg Hunt

On Wednesday, March 30, members of the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority and the Theta Delta Chi fraternity will help celebrate Easter with an egg hunt for children at the Eastern State Hospital.

Coast Guard Interviews

For Officers Training Program on Tuesday, April 19. Interested students should call 4604 or come by Room 140, Morton Hall, to schedule interview appointments with Lieutenant Byrum.

Le Gouter

Attention! The Baratin (R.I.P.) is no more. Instead, La Maison Francaise presents its newest, most streamlined model, Le Gouter! Same pleasant atmosphere, same terrific people, but at a more convenient hour. Come and celebrate its premiere next Thursday, March 31, 4:30-5:30 p.m.

Hunger Meal Set April 5

by Paul Wolfeich

Every day the world produces two pounds of grain for each man, woman and child on earth - enough to provide everyone with 3,000 calories, well above the minimum daily requirements for life. Yet each year 20 million people die from hunger related causes.

One need go no further than James City and York Counties to find hungry and poor. Most are black and elderly, with little or no education, often without such basics as running water or electricity. They are unfamiliar with social welfare services and how to apply for them, living far enough off the beaten track that their needs go unnoticed. Yet the means to end these problems are there; we only lack the will to implement them.

On April 5, Bread for the World and Shamrock Food Services will sponsor a Hunger Meal to raise money and awareness to end world hunger. As an alternative dinner, Shamrock will serve bread, soup, and salad at both the Wigwam and the Cafeteria. The money they save on this simple meal will be donated to two relief groups, Oxfam America (an international group) and Ecumenical Outreach Ministries, serving Williamsburg, James City County, and York County.

The Hunger Meal began last year, and evolved out of a current issues discussion group of the Canterbury Association and the Catholic Student Association. Last year's meal was coordinated by Courtney Reid and Paul Wolfeich. Bread for the World has taken over the project this year.

The Hunger Meal is far from a unique venture. Similar meals are held at Stanford, UCLA, Rice, Indiana University, as well as many others.

For further information contact Kim Evans at Ecumenical Outreach Ministries, ext. 4617.

Bread for the World was chartered last year and is currently headed by Gene Wallo, president. Two big projects of the group this year have been the Ethnic Bake Sale and the Offering of Letters at St. Bede's. The letter writing project was aimed at getting letters to congressmen urging their support of legislation to benefit hunger relief in various parts of the world.

Boathouse Hours

The Boathouse, which is open to all students, faculty and staff (I.D. required) is open Monday-Friday from 3-5 p.m., and Saturday and Sunday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Canoes, kayaks and sail canoes are available.

Classics Club

Detective novelist Carol Esler will speak to the Classics Club on her Scribner Prize winning thriller "Ariadne Clue," Thursday, March 31, at 7 p.m. in Morton 20.

A reception will follow.

Discussion on Gandhi

Don Baxter, government; Don Johnson, Swem Library; and Jack Van Horn, religion, will participate in a discussion of Gandhi at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, April 7 in the Dodge Room of Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

Addition to Schedule

The following PE courses were omitted from the Fall 1983 Registration Schedule.

PE *102-2 Inter Dance Tech I	Brda	11-12:30 MW
PE 102-3 Elem Dance Technique	Roby	2-2:30 MW

Students wishing to register for these courses should do so during the drop/add period.

Underwater Expo Coming April 9

The Southeast Virginia Underwater Expo, SeaVUE '83, is scheduled for Saturday, April 9, from 12:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. at the Chamberlain Hotel in Hampton. Never before in Virginia has such a combined educational and entertainment opportunity been available to sport divers and underwater film enthusiasts. Sponsors of the program include SeaVUE, Inc., a non-profit organization formed to provide educational programs to the sport diving community, and the Virginia Sea Grant Program at the Virginia Institute of Marine Science, College of William and Mary.

SeaVUE '83 will provide an afternoon of technical workshops on underwater photography, spearfishing, diving equipment maintenance, commercial diving and underwater archaeology. In addition displays of over 25 diving equipment product lines will be available for viewing. Numerous door prizes will be given away at the end of the afternoon sessions, including a wet suit, regulator and depth gauge.

The most outstanding features of the SeaVUE '83 program will be an afternoon seminar on producing underwater movies and evening film festival, both conducted by Stan Waterman. A world-renowned underwater film maker for over 25 years, Waterman is probably best known for his work on the films "Blue Water, White Death" and "The Deep." In 1981 his film on Peter Benchley, the author of "Jaws" encountering his first live sharks aired on ABC's "American Sportsman" show, securing for Waterman an Emmy Award.

Tickets for SeaVUE '83 are available in all dive shops in the greater Hampton Roads and Richmond areas. A ticket for the afternoon workshop is $3 and the film festival is $6; however, combination tickets are available at $8. Because the evening film festival (from 7:00 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.) will be of interest to families, children under 12 accompanied by an adult will be admitted free to this event. Persons wishing to order tickets by mail should direct their requests to SeaVUE '83, Chesapeake Diving Center, 1815-A W. Queen Street, Hampton, Va. 23666 (804-838-2218). Checks should be made out to SeaVUE, Inc.

Visitors Confirm Promotions, Tenure, Discuss Tuition

The Board of Visitors meeting March 25-26 on campus agonized over ways to balance next year's budget including proposed hikes in tuition, and the athletic fee, cutting staff and dropping some non-revenue sports.

While raises of 7.7 percent for in-state students and 15 percent for out-of-state students was discussed, no decision on the tuition scale will be made until the board meets again in April.

While members of the board voiced reluctance to make any big hike in tuition, increasing faculty salaries, which would be generated by higher tuition returns, has been a top priority for several years.

Faculty take-home pay will go up by 5 to 7 percent next year because Virginia State Retirement payments will no longer come from paychecks but will be paid by the state.

The Board however, did set new tuition rates for Richard Bland College in Petersburg. Tuition and fees for full-time students from Virginia will increase from $370 to $390; the same costs for out-of-state students will increase from $955 to $1005.

The following faculty promotions were approved by the board:

Associate Professor to Professor

John B. Delos, physics

Dale E. Hoak, history

Henry E. Mallue, Jr., School of Business Administration

David E. Kranbuehl, chemistry

Jesse S. Tarleton, School of Business Administration

Assistant Professor to Associate Professor

Christopher J. Boll, theatre and speech

Lynda L. Butler, Marshall-Wythe School of Law

John M. Charles, men's physical education

John B. Corr, Marshall-Wythe School of Law

Joseph Galano, psychology

Thomas L. Heacox, English

Ingrid M. Hillinger, Marshall-Wythe School of Law

Morris McCain, government

John R. Pagan, Marshall-Wythe School of Law

The Board confirmed the President's recommendation of academic tenure for the following faculty members:

Christopher J. Boll, theatre and speech;

John M. Charles, men's physical education;

Joseph Galano, psychology; Stephen

K. Knudson, chemistry; Morris McCain, government; Richard H. Palmer, theatre and speech; John Parkany, William R.

Stewart and Ahmed S. Zaki, School of Business Administration.

Confirmation of tenure appointments by the board were made within the statutory requirement of the Commonwealth of Virginia that a legal contract of unlimited duration cannot be given.

The following faculty appointments to fill existing vacancies, were approved: Nungjane Carl Shi, full-time assistant professor of marine science, effective June 11, 1983. This is a temporary, restricted appointment. Kenneth L. Webb, a full-time professor of marine science with tenure at the Virginia Institute of Marine Science, effective April 1, 1983.

James W. Zirkle, full-time associate professor of law and deputy director of the Institute of Bill of Rights, Marshall-Wythe School of Law, effective July 1, 1983.

The Board also approved the 1983-84 current fund operating budget for Marine life management, higher education instruction and administrative and support services at the Institute of Marine Science in a total amount of $8,587,430. $5,447,430 will be provided from state appropriations (General Funds) with the remaining amount from federal and nonfederal sources (Special Funds).

A comparative analysis of contract/grant activity to the Board showed that

Named For Fan No. 1

The Board of Visitors have named a room in the northwest corner of William and Mary Hall the William L. Person Sr. Hospitality Room in honor of a member of the class of 1924 who served as a Trustee of the Endowment Association of the College.

Person was also a member of the Athletic Educational Foundation, Inc., and a Director of the Society of the Alumni.

The Board noted that Person was universally regarded as William and Mary's "Number One Fan". "His love and loyalty to the College in all activities was steadfast and unwavering; and he gave generously of his time and resources in the support of the College's alumni and athletic programs."

Silver-Haired Solons Invited to Richmond

Virginia's Department for the Aging in Richmond is issuing an invitation to citizens, 60 years of age or older, to participate in the first Silver-Haired Legislature, August 7-10.

Some 140 Silver-Haired Legislators will participate in the three-day event, modeled after the Virginia General Assembly. There will be 40 senators and 100 delegates, representing districts identical to those of the General Assembly.

The "legislators" will run for office and be elected for one year by their peers.

They will attend committee meetings and meet in full and joint sessions at the Capitol to consider issues of importance to the elderly and all Virginians. These legislative issues will be presented to the Governor and the General Assembly.

Accommodations, most meals and travel expenses will be provided for all duly elected Silver-Haired Legislators.

Beginning in March, potential candidates can obtain petitions forms from area agencies on aging and begin getting 50 signatures from their constituents. Elections will be held in May - Older Americans Month.

In May, persons age 60 or older may vote for Silver-Haired Legislators from their house and senate districts. Ballots will be available through the mail, and will be turned by mail to the Department for the Aging.

Further information concerning this program may be obtained by the Aging Office in Richmond, 830 E. Main Street, Suite 950, toll-free in Virginia 1-800-552-3402.

Pre-Law Session

A meeting for students interested in applying to Law School, in particular, Juniors, will be held Wednesday, March 30, at 8 p.m. in Morton Hall, Room 20. John McGlennon, Pre Law Advisor, will discuss the LSAT, the application process, and other topics related to Law School Admissions.

although there has been continuing decline in sponsored research it is still projected that a goal of $2 million can be achieved. The Sea Grant Program ($405,000) has just been accepted as well as new contracts amounting to $250,000. In addition, if the College's success rate of 20 percent is continued, it should acquire the remainder from the $4,000,000 plus in pending proposals.

Changes in Retirement System Detailed

Net Take-Home Pay To Increase

During the 1983 session of the General Assembly an amendment was passed allocating funds to enable the State to pay each State employee's 5% member contribution to the Virginia Supplemental Retirement System effective 1 October 1983. This change will provide added net income to employees and still afford them retirement protection. Effectively faculty members and other employees who are members of VSRS will receive a pay raise without a change in salary. The scenario which follows at the end of this article was provided by Ms. Regina Williams, Director of the Department of Personnel and Training, and demonstrates the positive impact of this change on paychecks.

These same individuals will no longer be required to contribute 5% of their gross salary to the Virginia Supplemental Retirement System for retirement. The amount previously seen on check stubs as a VSRS deduction for retirement will be added to the net amount an employee receives. There will be no change in gross salary nor will there be any additional tax benefits as a direct result of this amendment. This change will not require action on the part of faculty members or the employees covered by VSRS.

A number of local government jurisdictions in Virginia that belong to the VSRS have already taken this step as a way of increasing take home pay for their employees.

We have been advised by Mr. Glen Poind, Director of the VSRS, that this new legislation will be applied to employees differently depending upon their date of employment.

In 1980, the General Assembly created a retirement system applicable to members with no VSRS service credit prior to April 1, 1980. That retirement system placed a "cap" on the amount of retirement benefits a member may receive and also created differences in the way contributions are handled for those members when the employer elects to pay those contributions for its members. For those readers who do not recall, the term "cap" is explained as follows:

As of July 1, 1980, a maximum benefit is in effect for persons who have no service credit prior to April 1, 1980. Members covered by this provision of the Code of Virginia (Section 51-111.60:1 (g)), may not receive a benefit greater than 62.5 percent of average final compensation plus one-half of the primary Social Security benefit.

For faculty and employees who become members of the VSRS on or after April 1, 1980, the employer-paid member contributions will be credited to the member's account. For those faculty and employees who became members of the VSRS prior to April 1, 1980, the employer-paid contributions will be credited to the State's employer account. The effect of this provision is that a member with no service credit prior to April 1, 1980 may withdraw those employer-paid member contributions if the member terminates employment. The member with VSRS service credit prior to April 1, 1980 will not be able to withdraw those contributions made after October 1, 1983. Any contributions paid by the member may be withdrawn upon termination.

If a member remains in State service until retirement, it will make no difference to which account the contributions have been credited and the crediting of those contributions will not decrease the benefit.

Members with no service credit prior to April 1, 1980 will have the employer-paid member contributions added to their creditable compensation at retirement and those contributions will reflect in the average final compensation used to calculate their retirement benefit.

Employees needing additional explanation should contact the Personnel Office.

Band Program April 1

Soloists for the Carl Hibbard Memorial Band Concert, April 1 will be (l-r) pianist F. Donald Truesdell, who will play Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue"; William Davis, who will play "Concertino Da Camera," for saxophone by Jacques Ibert; Laurie Smith, who will play an arrangement for marimba of Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Flight of the Bumblebee"; and Stephen Panoff, who will be guest conductor for highlights from the musical score of "Fiddler on the Roof." The 1983 Carl Hibbard Memorial Concert by the Concert Band, will be performed at 8:15 p.m. presented at 8:15 p.m., Friday, April 1, in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. Admission is $1.50. Proceeds from the concert go to the Carl Hibbard Band Scholarship, established in 1958 by Capt. and Mrs. R.C. Hibbard in memory of their son, a former student at the College and a member of the Band.

Stephen Poleskie To Give Illustrated Lecture

Stephen Poleskie, an artist whose work is included in the collections of major museums including the Whitney, the Metropolitan and the Museum of Modern Art in New York City, has recently taken his own out of the museums and into the sky. He will lecture on his unusual art form at 5 p.m., Tuesday, April 5 in Andrews 101.

Poleskie's lecture will provide an introduction to a demonstration of his skill as a painter-pilot which is planned this fall.

"I have taken my artwork out of the museums and galleries and into the sky," explains Poleskie. "I use an aerobatic bi-plane which I built and fly to make large works in space. The airplane is flown through a series of complex maneuvers while trailing smoke in order to make a four-dimension piece visible to the spectators for only a few short moments. The work of art has no existence other than in the mind or in documentation."

Poleskie has designed sky paintings especially for the College and will present them over the campus in conjunction with simultaneous programs of music and dance on the ground beneath his work.

Poleskie will show two films of his air pieces on April 5. A reception will follow his presentation.

Professor of art at Cornell University,

Dixon Recital Thursday in Wren

Donna Tune Dixon, a music concentrator, will give her senior voice recital at 8 p.m., Thursday, April 7 in the Wren Chapel at the College of William and Mary.

Miss Dixon, a mezzo-soprano, will be accompanied by Maureen Giles. Her program will include "O Rest in the Lord," from "Elijah," by Mendelssohn; "Jerusalem, Thou that killest the Prophets," from "St. Paul," also by Mendelssohn; "Er, der Herrlichste von allen," from "Frauenliebe und Leben, Op. 42," "Der Nussbaum," and "Still Tranen," from "Myrten" by Schumann; and "Voi, che sapete," from "Le Nozze di Figaro," by Mozart.

Miss Dixon's program will also include selections from "Old American Song," by Aaron Copland, and "Faites-lui mes yeux," from "Faust," Gounod.

Miss Dixon is studying with Martha Connolly. She is a member of the William and Mary Choir and the Botetourt Chamber Singers. She is also active in the Baptist Student Union and Kappa Kappa Gamma and currently serves as president of Delta Omicron, the professional music fraternity for women.

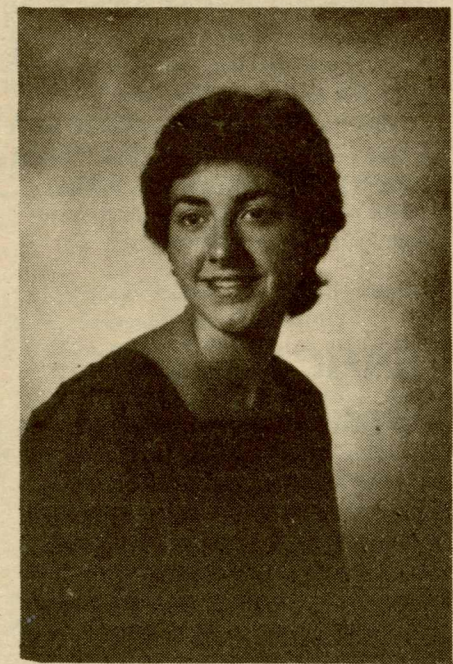

After graduation, Miss Dixon plans to work toward a Master of Church Music degree at the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky.

Maureen Giles is a junior music concentrator. She studies piano with Claudia Stevens and Carol Rankin of the music faculty. Last November she gave a junior recital and in April will perform a concerto movement with the William and Mary orchestra during their spring concert. She is an accompanist at Walnut Hills Baptist Church in Williamsburg and has attended summer music programs at Brevard Music Center and Wheaton College.

Connolly Recital Sunday

Martha Connolly

Martha Connolly, lecturer in voice at the College of William and Mary, will present a recital of music by Italian composers under the auspices of the Italian house, "Casa Italiana," at 3 p.m., Sunday, April 10, in Andrews Hall.

Ms. Connolly will sing Italian arias from the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries; a group of four songs by Vincenzo Bellini; three songs by Ottorino Respighi; and songs to words by Persian poets by Francesco Santoliquido. She will be accompanied by pianist Ruth Easterling Winters.

Martha Connolly received her early training in music in the preparatory division of the New England Conservatory of music, where she studied piano for nine years. She received her bachelor of music degree from the University of Michigan, and her master's of music degree from Catholic University where she held a full scholarship for graduate studies in voice and piano.

She performed in the Washington, D.C. area for several years before coming to teach at William and Mary. She has performed in opera, oratorio, musical comedy, and given recitals in every major museum in the Washington area. In addition, she has performed a professional accompanist, and her choral group from Mt. Vernon College appeared in concert at the White House.

Ms. Connolly is past president of the National Association of Teachers of Singing for the State of Virginia. She has taught at Catholic University, Hood College, Mt. Vernon College and the University of Virginia.

Ms. Connolly coaches with Genevieve McGiffert. She has performed locally for An Occasion for the Arts, in recital at Bruton Parish Church and as soloist with the Williamsburg Choral Society.

Poleskie has taught at the Pratt Graphic Art Center in New York, Colgate University, the University of California at Berkeley, as well as at several universities abroad.

He founded and directed the Chiron Press in New York City, a silk-screen workshop where he worked with Rauschenberg, Motherwell, Nevelson, De Kooning and others, 1962-68 and has held over 30 one-man exhibits both here and abroad. His work is contained in over 30 permanent collections including 35 American embassies abroad. He is included in Who's Who in American Art, Who's Who in the World, and had authored numerous articles and reviews for the New York Times, Time magazine, the San Francisco Chronicle "Arts," and "Art News."

His sky painting this fall will be a first for Virginia. He has designed four themes for his work. One will be "Cupid Sky Snake," based on a game played by children in early Williamsburg. Another he has entitled "Governor's Garden," inspired by the maze in the garden behind the Governor's Palace. Another will be called "Patriot," with flares fired from the ground as the aircraft maneuvers overhead. The fourth is expected to be a seasonal theme.

Dye to Lecture on Indian Art

Joseph M. Dye '67, Curator of Asiatic Art, Virginia Museum of Fine Arts in Richmond, will lecture on Indian art at 4 p.m., April 11 in Morton Hall 220.

Dye has been a member of the museum staff in Richmond since 1980. He was previously author and consultant for "Manifestations of Shiva," an exhibition of Indian art at the Philadelphia Museum of Art.

After graduation from William and Mary, Dye studied at the Institute of Fine Arts in New York City and received a doctorate in 1980. His major field of study was the art of India and Southeast Asia with a related minor in classical Sanskrit, and another minor in Islamic art before the Mongol conquest. He spent 1978-79 in India conducting research to turn his doctoral dissertation on "The Chronology and Stylistic Development of Seventeenth Century Malwa Painting" into a book. Previously Dye had spent time in Pakistan, Afghanistan, and Great Britain for research projects.

Dye has received many honors during his career including a Ford Foundation Fellowship, a Kress Foundation Fellowship and a travel grant from the JDR 3rd Fund. He has published in several journals and was responsible for the establishment of the Eleanor H. Pearson Summer Travel Fellowship for students at the Institute of Fine Arts in New York City. He headed the fund raising drive to endow it in perpetuity. He was editor of the William and Mary Review as an undergraduate here.

This lecture is sponsored by the Asian Studies Program, the Creative Arts House and the Department of Fine Arts.

Thespians Ready New Show

by Becky Russell '84

The Black Thespian Society, a newly-formed group sponsored by the Department of Theatre and Speech and directed by Ms. Joni Lee Jones, will present their first major production "The Harlem Renaissance Revisited" in the Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall lab theatre.

Performances will be on Friday, April 1 and Saturday, April 2 at 8:15 p.m., and Sunday, April 3 at 2:00 p.m. Admission will be $2.

"The Harlem Renaissance Revisited" contains poetry and prose written by black authors of the Harlem Renaissance period. Ms. Jones' coordination of works by Countee Cullen, Claude McKay, Jean Toomer, Langston Hughes, Helene Johnson, Jessie Fauset, James Weldon Johnson, Anne Spenser, and Gwendolyn B. Bennett will be an upbeat and energetic, yet probing view of black life in Harlem during the 1920's and 1930's.

Ms. Jones, her assistant director Jim Hurt, and the Black Thespians, Maureen A. Grey, Rhonda Gillespie, Keith Avery Johnson, Victor Branch, Audrey V. Jackson, Monica Perry, Christy Coleman, Howard Brooks, Rick Coleman, and Archie Harris have developed a show which captures the feelings of the literature and subsequently communicates these feelings dramatically to the audience. The inclusion of singing and dancing in scenes of both cabaret and church life enhances the portrayal of a wide variance of emotions. The actors and actresses aptly communicate the vibrancy of the cabaret and the conflict of emotions within the members of the church.

Other members of the production team include Chris Boll as set designer, Martha Mountain as lighting designer, John Cowan as technical director, and Kevin Bossolono as Costume Designer.

IEAHC Newsletter Applauds Blatt

The secret of success for busy institutions of high quality is often, as everyone knows, a small group of knowledgeable and dedicated employees, usually with many years of service and responsibility. Primus inter pares among the unsung staff members of the Institute is Pat Blatt, who has retired this winter after twenty-three years with us, nearly twenty of them as administrative assistant to the director, with the informal title of the boss's boss.

Hired by Lester Cappon, Pat has been the right-hand woman of successive directors Stephen Kurtz and Thad Tate, as well as acting director Norman Fiering. All of them have been fortunate to have someone nearby who knew how things worked, where to find or put something, and whom to talk to about this or that. Pat has been the keeper of our gate, the mistress of our revels at the annual Council meeting, and the leading lady of activities from the arranging of the fellowship competition each year to the production of the News Letter.

Declining to accept the loss of all this experience and expertise, we are pleased to record that, although Pat has retired, she has not deserted us entirely but continues as inside consultant. Those who visit or telephone the Institute will find her at her wonted post about nine hours a week, providing reassurance to all that the Institute is still the Institute.

Kenner on Eliot Tomorrow at 8

Hugh Kenner, professor of English at the Johns Hopkins University, will present a talk on T.S. Eliot as part of the Honors Program Wednesday Forum Series at 8 p.m., March 30, in Millington auditorium.

Members of the general public and the college community are invited to attend.

One of the most distinguished critics and scholars in the profession, Professor Kenner has published widely in the field of modern and contemporary literature, both poetry and prose. Among his books are ones on Wyndham Lewis (1954), T.S. Eliot (1959), Samuel Beckett (1962), James Joyce (1962), and Ezra Pound (1972).

Hughey Recital In Bruton Parish

Michael R. Hughey, a senior, chemistry/music major, will give an organ recital at 8 p.m., Tuesday, April 5 in Bruton Parish Church.

Hughey is studying organ with J.S. Darling, a member of the music faculty and organmaster at Bruton Parish Church. Hughey has studied organ for seven years in Fredericksburg with Harold Abmeyer and also with Edwin Godshall in Williamsburg.

Hughey will play The Parish Offertory (The Oarug Nass) by Francois Couperin le Grand; Voluntary IV in E minor by John Stanley, Sonata in VI in D minor by Mendelssohn; and several selections by Bach including two chorale preludes, "Allein Gott in der Hoh sei Ehr," and "Herr Jesu Christ, dich zu uns wend," and Passacaglia and Fugue in C minor.

Total Fitness

Repeat sections of the Total Fitness courses offered for faculty and staff through the Special Programs Office will begin April 12, not April 5 as originally stated in the catalogue.

Additional 6-week sessions of Total Fitness for Women Today will begin March 29.

Sessions will be held in the United Methodist Church, Richmond Rd. and are taught by Ann Sinsigalli.

Inquiries concerning registration and fees should be made to the OSP office, 877-9231.

Symphony Program To Feature Cellist

Cellist Frantisek Smetana will be the featured soloist with the Richmond Symphony in the Symphony Sampler Series, at 8:15 p.m., Wednesday, March 30 in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

Smetana's solo vehicle will be Dvorak's monumental Concerto in b for Cello, Op. 104. The program will open with Schumann's Manfred Overture, and will also include Respighi's Pini di Roma (Pines of Rome) (1924). The performance is made possible in part by a grant from the Virginia Commission for the Arts.

College Accelerates Program For Black Recruitment, Retention

Highlights of the 1983 student recruitment and retention plan, amendments to the Virginia Plan for Equal Opportunity, submitted by the College of William and Mary The Undergraduate Program

The Undergraduate Program

The College will continue to fund, through private resources, the Summer Transition and Enrichment Program (STEP) in 1983. The program will be refocused toward high school juniors to acquaint them with the academic, social and cultural programs of the College.

The Admissions Office of the College will spend a minimum of six weeks, apart from the customary high school visitation program, visiting high schools with a substantial enrollment of black students. The Admissions Office will also publish a brochure directed at potential black undergraduate students, outlining details concerning admission, academic life, student life, financial aid, etc.

The College will participate as one of five institutions in the Virginia Student Transition Program. The program is directed toward potentially successful students who have been accepted for admission to the College.

The College will sponsor workshops for high school counselors of black students.

The College will seek to better its relationship with Richard Bland College in Petersburg, a two-year institution governed by William and Mary, in order to provide black students there with an opportunity to transfer.

The College's office of University Advancement will initiate efforts to provide financial support for all black recruitment, retention and financial assistance programs.

The College will continue its Minority Student Scholarship Program, designed to afford out-of-state black students with financial assistance to offset the tuition differential for non-Virginia students. In 1982-83, the program provided $56,000 in scholarships.

The College will work to improve its Study Skills Program, which is directed toward all students who may be experiencing academic difficulties.

The College will form a team of specially trained faculty members to act as advisers to students who participate in the Virginia Summer Transition Program.

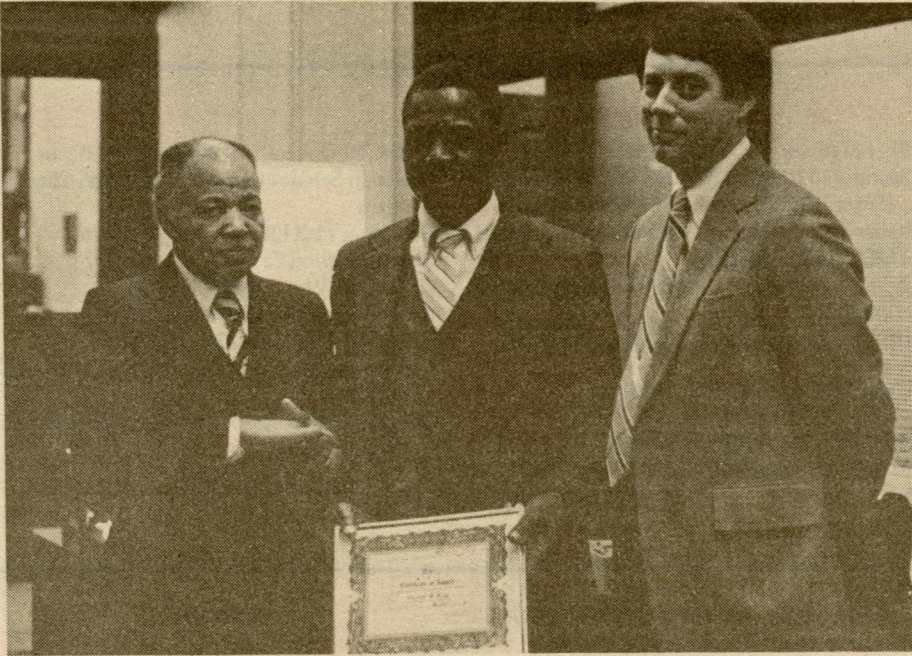

The College will establish a peer tutorial program for freshmen and sophomore, to receive tutoring from upperclassmen and graduate students.

The Graduate Program

The College will establish its first Minority Graduate Fellowship Program directed toward black Virginians who enroll in graduate degree programs.

The College is seeking funding from the U.S. Department of Education to participate in the Graduate-Professional Opportunities Program. William and Mary has requested funding for 12 fellowships.

Each graduate school (business, law, marine science, education, arts and sciences) will increase its undergraduate campus visitations to recruit black students for graduate study. Each school will also publish a brochure directed toward prospective black graduate students.

Housekeeping Award

Obediah M. Gray has been named Housekeeper of the Month for March. This month, Gray will observe 25 years of employment with the college. During a brief meeting on Tuesday, March 1, in the office of Lawrence Broomall, vice president for business affairs, Gray was cited for a perfect work attendance record, a cooperative attitude, willingness to work on weekends when necessary, and his assistance in the clean-up of Jefferson Hall after the Jan. 20 fire. He is a floater custodian, working wherever he is needed throughout the campus. Pictured from left are Charles Jimeron, housekeeping supervisor, Gray, and Broomall.

Sea Grant Program Names Government Interns

Three graduate students from the Virginia Institute of Marine Science and one from the University of Virginia are gaining valuable experience in government this year, thanks to national and State Sea Grant Programs.

Kimberly Grane and Andrew Zacherele are National Sea Grant Interns joining eight others selected nationwide to work in marine-related staff positions in Washington, D.C., for a year. Grane and Zacherele, both Masters Degree candidates are in the Marine Resource Management Program at VIMS.

Grane is interning in the office of Senator Ted Stevens, (R) Alaska, where duties include drafting bills related to the fishing industry; advising the senator on fisheries aspects of pending legislation, and providing the latest scientific information on fisheries topics.

Zacherele is serving his internship in the National Ocean Service, National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA). He has been assigned to assist in preparing 5-year plans as part of the National Marine Pollution Program. The plans set forth the coordination of all Federal agencies in various marine pollution projects over the next half-decade.

On the state level, Robert E. Croonenberghs of VIMS and Neal Grandy of the University of Virginia (UVA) are serving spring semester internships in the State Department of Commerce and Resources, headed by Secretary Betty J. Diener.

Croonenberghs, a Doctoral candidate in the Marine Science Management Program at VIMS and Grandy, a Masters candidate in Marine Science at UVA, are the first state level interns sponsored by the Virginia Sea Grant Program.

Times Are Tough; Past Was Tougher

Lucille Portlock of the Kirk Memorial Library, writing in the Norfolk Virginia Pilot-Ledger Star recently, reminds her readers that despite the vicissitudes of life today, things have been a lot worse. She quotes the following item from the Public Ledger of Jan. 9, 1883:

"Williamsburg, once the seat of the learning, wealth, fashion and social position of Virginia, seems to be fast going to decay. The college has entirely gone down.

"Last year there was only one student - this year none. The president has a splendid residence just out of town, and the buildings are quiet and lonely looking, and seem to hide within their walls much of the wisdom, but this is all that is left of the once proud seat of learning, William and Mary College."

Savings Bonds Good Bargain

The Treasurer of the United States, Angela M. Buchanan, has announced that United States Savings Bonds will earn 11.09% interest during their first market-based interest period - November 1, 1982 thru April 30, 1983.

The rate is effective for Series EE Savings Bonds purchased between November 1982 to April 1983. The market-based rate will also apply to Series E and EE Savings Bonds and Savings Notes that reflect an issue date no earlier than November 1947. To benefit from the new market-based rate, all eligible savings bonds or savings notes must be held at least 5 years from November 1982.

Delta Gamma Will Host First Annual Anchor Splash April 9

Delta Gamma will host William and Mary's First Annual Anchor Splash 1-4 p.m., April 9, at Adair Gym.

Thirteen sororities, eight fraternities, and over thirty local businesses have contributed their time and support to the event.

Admission is $1 and twenty prizes will be awarded randomly at the door. All proceeds go to the Delta Gamma Foundation, an international philanthropy providing funding for aid to the blind and the preservation of sight.

Anchor Splash events begin the week of April 4th with the inauguration of The Beautiful Eyes Contest. Photographs featuring only the eyes of representatives of the thirteen sororities will be on display in the Campus Center. Penny ballots dropped in boxes corresponding to the photographs will determine the winner.

A Pre-Splash Party at the Pub April 8, will launch the fraternity competition. Eight contestants are entered in the 1983 Mr. Anchor Splash Contest. The Dimeslots will be providing the music, and during their break, Mr. Anchor Splash for 1983 will be determined by a representative panel of sorority judges.

The Splash on Saturday spotlights the fraternities in innovative competitive events. A kiddie pool raft relay, free-floating water basketball, and the successful transportation of a lighted candle from one end of the pool to the other are just a few of the entries. The creative Surf 'N Turf routine, performed on land and water with the aid of costumes and props, will allow the teams freedom of artistic expression.

Points accumulated in these and other events will determine the winner of the 1983 Anchor Splash trophy.

James Burke

Burke Speaker For 'Cosmos'

James Burke, well-known to American TV audiences as host of "Connections," over PBS, will be the next speaker on the "Our Future in the Cosmos Series" which is sponsored jointly by the College and NASA Langley Research Center.

Burke will speak at 8 p.m., Monday, April 4, on "The Impact of Science on Society," at the Hampton Coliseum. Free tickets will be available at the door.

credit in history. The expanded residential version set for the summer of 1984 will award participants six graduate credit hours in history.

It is envisioned that the institute will play a vital role in accomplishing Governor Robb's commitment to strengthen instruction in Virginia's secondary schools through content-curriculum enrichment. While the present social studies curriculum in the Commonwealth's secondary schools does emphasize American history, there are fewer offerings relating to the histories of recent Europe and the Soviet Union.
