

Burgesses Day Honors Retiring Solons

Recently retired members of the Virginia General Assembly will be the guests of honor at the College of William and Mary's 1983 Burgesses Day scheduled Saturday, Oct. 15.

About a dozen members of the state's House of Delegates and Senate will receive commemorative scrolls for their service to the Commonwealth and will inscribe their names in a new "Journal of Burgesses," which will be kept on permanent display at the College in the future.

Burgesses Day is a family occasion sponsored by William and Mary's Society of the Alumni in association with the College's Board of Visitors and the administration. The event commemorates the historic bonds between the state's lawmakers and the College, recalling the periods from 1700-1704 and 1747-1754 when the Virginia legislature, then the House of Burgesses, made the College's Sir Christopher Wren Building its temporary headquarters.

The new Journal of Burgesses being established at William and Mary recalls an earlier period from 1699 to 1780 when Williamsburg was the capital of Colonial Virginia. Records from the period show that members of the House of Burgesses were required to sign an oath of allegiance to the English crown at the beginning of their legislative terms. Today, the list is considered the most complete historical record of those who served as lawmakers in early Virginia. The leather-bound

Foreign Service Scholarship Funded By Two Alumnae

The government department has announced the 1983-84 Koenig-Nimmo Foreign Service Scholarship competition. The award is made each year to a senior student, and is normally used to defray the tuition costs of the last semester. The Award this year will be in the amount of $745.00.

This scholarship is the result of two generous contributions by alumnae of the College. In November of 1979, Mrs. Anna Belle Koenig-Nimmo, Class of 1945, made a gift to the college to establish an endowment fund to provide for the awards. Ms. Laurie Johnston, Class of 1974, who has, since her graduation, pursued a career in the foreign service, contributed an additional sum to the fund in January of 1980. Mrs. Nimmo resides in Golden, Colorado with her husband, and visits the College several times each year as a member of the Alumnae Society's Endowment Board. Ms. Johnston has served in U.S. Embassies in the Middle East and in Portugal, and is presently serving in the office of the Secretariat of the State Department in Washington. She too has returned to the College often, most recently as a member of Secretary of State George Schultz' staff in connection with the economic summit held in Williamsburg in May of 1983.

The purpose of the scholarship is to motivate outstanding students toward careers in the foreign service of the United States of America. Mrs. Nimmo stated that it was her wish that recipients of this award be selected on the basis of scholarship and a sincere desire to pursue a career in the foreign service.

Applications for the scholarship are available in the government department office, Morton Hall, room 10. The deadline for applications is November 1.

Campus Telephone Directories

Updated campus telephone directories are now available, and they may be picked up in the Office for Business Affairs (the Bridges House) opposite Jefferson Hall on Jamestown Road.

You are urged to request only those directories needed in your operation in this initial distribution. After all basic requests are filled, you will be notified through the William and Mary News if additional copies are available.

Thank you for your cooperation in this matter.

Business School Gives Medallion To Hawley

Philip M. Hawley, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Carter Hawley Hale Stores, Inc., headquartered in Los Angeles, will receive the College of William and Mary's School of Business Administration Medallion at a ceremony in Williamsburg, Friday, October 14.

The Medallion is awarded annually by the school's faculty to a business leader "whose distinguished career as a contributor to the profession of management represents the highest standards of professionalism and integrity."

John C. Jamison, Dean of the College of William and Mary School of Business Administration, said Hawley was awarded the Medallion because "he is a futurist, who believes in the long-term view of management. He has demonstrated outstanding management skill at Carter Hawley Hale Stores, guiding the company from a regional operation to its current position as one of the leading national retailers."

Carter Hawley Hale is the parent company of Thalhimers Brothers, Inc., one of the South's oldest department store

SA Sponsors Ketcham & Segal

The instrumental duo, Janet Ketcham, flutist, and Peter Segal, guitarist, will present a concert at 3 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 23, in the Campus Center Ballroom.

The concert is sponsored by the Student Association as part of the current Talented American Series. Tickets at the door are $2.

Ketcham and Segal, both proficient soloists, have been performing together since 1972. No program has been announced for their Williamsburg concert.

Ninian Smart To Speak Oct. 19

The department of religion will sponsor a lecture by Ninian Smart, a scholar of international reputation, on Wednesday, Oct. 19, at 8 p.m. in Rogers 100.

Dr. Smart will speak on "Religion and Nationalism." The lecture is open to the general public.

Ninian Smart was born in 1927 and was educated in Scotland. He served (1945-1948) in the British Army Intelligence Corps., and learned Chinese at the School of Oriental and African Studies, London, as part of his military service, and was overseas in Singapore and Ceylon.

He took a First at Oxford in Classics and Philosophy and went on to do graduate work with H.J. Paton and J.L. Austin in the philosophy of religion. He also did graduate work in Pali at Yale (1955-56) and taught in Wales and in London (where he was lecturer in the history and philosophy of religion) before becoming first occupant of the H.G. Wood Chair of Theology at the University of Birmingham. In 1967 he moved to Lancaster University to set up England's first department of Religious Studies. From 1976 he has taught at the University of California, Santa Barbara, but is also Honorary Professor at Lancaster and still teaches there from time to time.

He has been visiting professor at Banaras Hindu University, University of Wisconsin, Princeton University, Univer-

Costume Designer Wesp

Trish Wesp puts the finishing touches on a costume for Mrs. Lovett the pie maker, friend of a neighborhood barber in "Sweeney Todd," which will be presented by the William and Mary Theatre, Oct. 14, at 8:15 p.m., Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall, and 2 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 16. All tickets are $5.

'Sweeney Todd' Ends Run With Sunday Matinee

This is Trish Wesp's first assignment for the theatre but she is no stranger to William and Mary. She graduated in 1976 with a degree in theatre and speech. She received an M.F.A. degree from the University of Florida, Gainesville, in 1979. She has worked with professional companies in a number of states, spent summers with the Green Mountain Guild in Vermont putting on Children's plays and comes to Williamsburg from Duke University where she was a member of the drama staff for three years.

For "Sweeney" Wesp made an art out of creating rags. From the audience, most of the costumes look like candidates for the expendable bag, an in fact, most will be thrown away after the show, but each was fitted and designed for a particular character. They do what good costumes are supposed to — not detract from the action of the play but accent the work of the set designer in interesting ways and assist the actors in interpretations of the roles.

Wesp has designed for Sweeney as carefully as any designer prepares for the showing of a new line. She has used warm colors for the sympathetic characters, cool for the villains. The judge who sentenced Sweeney and robbed him of his wife and daughter, is dressed in cool blue, Sweeney is dressed in warm tones of brown. Wesp adds a touch of whimsy in a costume for Mrs. Lovett. The fabric in her dress is close to the wallpaper the lady has used to decorate her rooms and designate her improved financial position. This seemed right, explains Wesp. Mrs. Lovett liked the way her loding looked and it is logically she would want her clothes to look the same.

The chorus of street people are dressed in ragged costumes to accent their plight as individuals chewed up by the machines of the industrial revolution and discarded in the back streets of Dickensian London. Although it was important to show the dire circumstances of these people, Wesp also had to be sure that all the street people could maneuver the scaffolding and pieces of scenic scenery they clamber over, without tripping.

ASP Seeking Volunteer Tutors In English And Math

"You don't need any special qualifications, just a strong desire to help someone else."

The speaker is Corliss Tacosa and the plea is for volunteer tutors to help at the Rita Welsh Adult Skills Center on campus which currently has 150 adult students receiving approximately 325 hours of instruction per week.

Since it was founded in 1975, the adult skills program has provided one-on-one individualized instructional programs to help adults learn reading, writing and mathematical skills, English as a foreign language and study for the GED (high school equivalency) examination.

Tutors are asked to give two hours a week to the program either on Monday and Wednesday or Tuesday and Thursday. Located in the basement of Bryan complex off Richmond Road, the Center is open for tutoring Monday through Thursday during the academic year. The Center is closed June, July and August and re-opens in mid-September. Those who wish to donate their time are asked to call ext. 4644.

As the job market tightens and employers look for more skilled workers, the Center offers an opportunity for men and women to get the education needed to better their employment level, says Director Tacosa. She adds that the Center is also seeing a rise in the number of people seeking a high school equivalency certificate.

The Center recently received a $13,800 grant from the Public Welfare Foundation to develop a curriculum guide for adult education. Dr. Cheryl Pagan has been added to the staff on a one-year appointment to direct this project. Nan Cruikshank, a staff member, will act as project coordinator.

The Center is also enjoying a gift of carpet from Anheuser Busch which has enhanced the study areas and cut down on the noise level.

An agency of the United Way, the Center receives the support from the College, the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation, the Williamsburg Pottery Factory, Anheuser Busch, Owens-Illinois Corp., Camp Peary, the Williamsburg Kiwanis Club, the Williamsburg Lions Club, the James-York Exchange Club, the Junior Women's Club, the American Association of University Women, and the Friends of the Rita Welsh Adults Skills Program.

Staff members include an administrative secretary, Mary Elizabeth Sadler, and three teachers, Mrs. Cruikshank, Fan Williams and Gale Hood. The board of directors of the program is headed by Nathan Lewis and includes members of the local business community, community leaders and supporters of literacy programs.

The Center is trying to expand its multi-sensory instructional approach using cassette projectors, computers and tape recorders, which have been provided by friends of the program.

Of the 108 tutors at the Center now, 74 are from the College and 34 from the community. Although there are other educational programs for adults similar to the Rita Welsh Center program, few, if any, are based on a university campus and have a close relationship with a School of Education. Working at the Center is included as a practical extension of class work in some education courses. Volunteer tutors also include students from other disciplines and all classes.

In a profile of the fall enrollment, Mrs. Tacosa notes that the ages of adult students range from 17 to 68, the largest group being over 30. Nine percent are learning basic reading, writing and computing, 24 percent are working to improve their skills and 41 percent are studying at the GED level. Twenty-six percent are learning English as a foreign language. Last year 12 students passed the GED test.

Study Skills Workshops

Oct. 12th: RESEARCH TECHNIQUES

This workshop and others on various aspects of study skills will be offered throughout the semester on Wednesdays from 7:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. in Jones 301. These workshops are open to all. No registration is necessary.

Self-Study Notes

The Computing Committee

The Southern Association of Colleges and Schools which accredits William and Mary, and which mandates periodic self-studies, has divided the business of universities into ten categories, and has issued standards for their evaluation. For each standard there is a committee of the self-study. An additional committee on "Purpose" develops the statement of purpose and aims of the institution, and the steering committee coordinates the whole effort. Thus twelve committees constitute the traditional organization, and the 1974 Self-Study was conducted accordingly. During the last decade the computer has become a significant factor in all phases of university affairs. Although the Southern Association does not issue separate standards, the Steering Committee has decided to add a committee on computing. Its charge is to study and make recommendations on computer facilities and services in instruction, research and administration. Detailed questions of computer hardware are the concern of other committees and officials, but broad questions of the options which W&M should consider in its future planning are sufficiently difficult and important to warrant special attention. The Computing Committee of the 1984 Self-Study consists of the following: N. Fashing (Chair), G. Bass, D. Dittman, H. Krakauer, R. Noonan, R. Sherman, and K. Stone (Student).

Katz Gives Second Lecture On Holocaust

Steven T. Katz, Visiting Walter G. Mason Professor of Religion, will give the second of two public lectures on the topic "The Holocaust in Historical Perspective," at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 13 in Rogers 100.

Katz says he plans to talk about the uniqueness of the Nazi holocaust as a particular form of dehumanization, using a number of categories including technology and bureaucracy, manicheism and racism to show that drove Hitler to genocidal tendencies. He says he also plans to show how the German holocaust has no parallels and was solely a manifestation of the Nazi regime.

Having outlined the characteristics of the Nazi policy in his first lecture, Katz said he will discuss how Hitler worked out his plan and what fed his intentions.

Katz, who is visiting the College this fall from Dartmouth, is considered one of the leading scholars in the country today in the field of modern Jewish thought.

Irish Speaker Tues. Oct. 18

James Sharkey, political counselor at the Irish Embassy, Washington, D.C., will give a lecture at 3:30 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 18 in Morton 220 at the College of William and Mary. His topic will be Irish foreign policy and America.

Earlier in the day Sharkey will talk to students in Alan Ward's government class at 9:30 a.m., and discuss "Anglo-Irish Relations in British Politics."

Born in Derry, Northern Island, Sharkey was educated at University College, Dublin and the University of Birmingham, England. He entered the Irish Department of Foreign Affairs in 1970 and has served in Moscow and Rome.

THE VENTURE PROGRAM will hold its monthly informational meeting Oct. 20 in Morton 240 at 3:30 p.m. Previous Venture students will be on hand to talk about their experiences and answer questions.

President's Hours

President Graves will hold "Open House" hours for students throughout the year continuing a tradition of providing opportunities for students to chat informally with him about any topic of their choosing.

The President has set aside hours to meet with students, over and above his daily calendar, and students are invited to stop by his office in Ewell Hall during these hours. No appointment is necessary. Callers will generally be given about 10 minutes.

The next Open House date is: —

Wednesday, Oct. 19 3-4 p.m.

Editing Intern Program

The Dow Jones Newspaper Fund is sponsoring a Newspaper Editing Intern Program for College Juniors. This program offers scholarship grants and assistance in finding summer newspaper employment.

Participating news organizations range from the Wall Street Journal and The Washington Post to the Cape Cod Times. Students should request application forms before November 1, 1983. Application deadline is November 24, 1983. For more information contact the Office of Career Planning, Morton Hall, Room 140, ext. 4427.

U.S. Department of Commerce

Phil Ouzts, International Trade Division, U.S. Department of Commerce, will be in Room 102, Morton Hall from 1 p.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 25. He will give students who visit with him at that time an overview of employment procedures and opportunities with the Department. He will also have literature available regarding careers with the Department of Commerce.

They also employ college students with scientific background, math (statistics) computer science for the National Bureau of Standards.

Applications For Publishing Seminar Open Oct. 17-31

On Thursday and Friday, Nov. 10 and 11, the seventh Seminar in Publishing will be held at the Campus Center.

This biennial program, sponsored by the William Cross Ferguson and Harry L. Blair Endowments brings experts to William and Mary to introduce students to the nature of book publishing and to acquaint them with career possibilities.

On the 1983 program, for example, will be the director of manufacturing at St. Martin's Press, the art director from Pantheon, and a senior editor from Random House.

Students who wish to participate in the seminar on Thursday evening and all day Friday may secure application forms and further information about the program at the Swem Library circulation desk and at the Office of Career Planning in Morton Hall.

A limited number of spaces will be available and will be allotted on a first-come, first-served basis, except that juniors and seniors will have priority over underclassmen.

Applications may be made Oct. 17 through 31 at the office of Career Planning. There is a registration fee of $3.

Aerial Art By Poleskie Here Oct. 22

Steve Poleskie, an established artist whose work is included in the collections of several major museums, will give an exhibition of his unusual sky paintings at 4:30 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 22, to help the College celebrate the opening of the new Joseph and Margaret Muscarelle Museum of Art.

Poleskie's audience will gather at Barksdale Fields on Jamestown Road to watch him create sky paintings using an aerobatic bi-plane as his brush and a palette of smoke.

He has designed four themes for his show here. One will be "Cupid Sky Snake," based on a game played by children in early Williamsburg. Another will be entitled "The Governor's Garden." He will also "exhibit" "The Governor's Garden," and "The Patriot," and is expected to include a seasonal work.

Early plans and drawings for his program will be on display Oct. 22 in Andrews Hall, located adjacent to the Muscarelle Museum.

Busch Day

"Green and Gold Day" at Busch Gardens will be held on Sunday, Oct. 16. The Student Association will be sponsoring a shuttle bus to and from the park for a price of $.50 each way. volume which the retired senators and delegates will sign at Saturday's ceremony will continue the historical documentation by providing a permanent record of those men and women serving in today's state legislature.

"The book will honor all those legislators who have gone before, but obviously it's impractical for us to try to list them all," says John Phillips, director of alumni affairs. "The important thing is that we are beginning this tradition to honor those who have worked so hard on behalf of the Commonwealth. It's something we feel has been long overdue, and

Wesp

Wesp has had help on the show from theatre students and some student volunteers. She says she enjoys seeing them learn to appreciate the many aspects of costuming a show. "It is interesting to see the wheels begin to turn as they realize you can't go and buy "theatre magic" in a spray can in the paint department at K Mart. . . It is all as hard work as performing."

One of her most enthusiastic fans for "Sweeney" is director Louis E. Catron who says she has done the job with such professionalism everything looks "precisely right" and he adds, "she has made it all look easy, and it all fits so well."

Catron, while enjoying the success of "Sweeney" says he is looking forward to putting the script on the shelf. The whole idea of the demon barber is giving him nightmares. He says he is ready for a light movie like "Singing in the Rain," or the soothing melodies of Glen Miller.
