Sam Sadler Visitors Approve Changes Student Affairs Area

The Board of Visitors has approved staff changes in the area of student affairs. The Board met Thursday and Friday at the Alumni House.

The Board voted to broaden and enlarge the responsibilities of the office of the Dean of Students so as to include administrative supervision of a number of student-related activities that presently report to other College administrators. The Board also acted to change the office's title to that of Dean of Student Affairs, and to designate W. Samuel Sadler, the incumbent Dean of Students, as the Dean of Student Affairs. The changes are effective Nov. 1.

The Dean of Student Affairs will report directly to the President, but is charged to work closely with the Provost, to ensure a continuing close relationship between academic and student affairs, and to ensure that the Provost has purview over budgetary matters and appointments.

The Board actions continue the present reporting relationships between the Dean and the Associate Deans variously charged with Residence Hall Life, Minority Affairs, Career Counseling, and Student Activities. Additional administrative responsibilities for Student Health Services, Placement, Student Financial Aid, and Psychological Services are assigned by the Board action.

President Graves, commenting on these changes, said that they "will allow the President to have more direct purview of this critical area of College administration, will bring all parts of Student Affairs together in an integrated manner, and through the relationship with the Provost will protect the close coordination of academic and student affairs."

Poetry Reading Slated Thursday

An Appalachian writer, Llewellyn McKernan, will give a poetry reading on Thursday, Nov. 3, at 11 a.m. in the Science Auditorium at Virginia Wesleyan College as a part of the co-curricular activities scheduled by the Special Events Committee. The reading free and open to the public but reservations are required (call 461-3232).

Ms. McKernan is the author of several books of poems about Appalachian women. She has received grants to pursue her writing from the West Virginia Arts and Humanities Commission, the West Virginia Humanities Foundation, and the American Association of University Women.

The Board received financial reports for the fiscal year ending June 30 from the College, the Virginia Associated Research Campus, the Virginia Institute of Marine Science and Richard Bland College.

The Board approved the elimination of the institutional police department at Richard Bland College and the substitution of a contractual agreement for security services as a cost-saving measure.

The marine science service building at the Gloucester Point campus of the School of Marine Science/Virginia Institute of Marine Science, has been named Watermen's Hall.

The resolution to the Board noted that the title honors "the group of people most closely tied to the Chesapeake Bay both by livelihood and tradition are the fishermen, crabbers and oystermen known as watermen. This independent and self-reliant group has added much to the character, history and culture of the Chesapeake Bay and Virginia's Tidewater region." The study of the Bay and its resources has been the major responsibility of VIMS since its founding by the College in 1940 as the Virginia Fisheries Laboratory.

The Board moved to explore a dental insurance program for faculty members and their dependents, with an understanding that premiums for such insurance will be paid from unrestricted funds of the Board in an amount not to exceed $55,000 per year.

Dale Robinson, director of equal opportunity and affirmative action programs was named Assistant to the President, effective Nov. 1 through Oct. 31, 1984 with a faculty-equivalent rank of Assistant Professor.

Other appointments for the current year approved by the Board included the following: James L. Rogers, adjunct assistant professor of mathematics and computer science, Jan. 1-May 15, 1984: Charles R. Werth, visiting assistant protessor of biology, Jan. 1-May 15, 1984 Hope H. Yelich, Reference Librarian, Earl Gregg Swem Library, Oct. 15-Oct.14, 1984; David Earl Game, part-time instructor in mathematics and computer science, Jan. 1-May 15, 1984; an Marged G. Actor Ray Handy To Portray Welsh Poet W. H. Davies

The Welsh actor Ray Handy will portray W.H. Davies, the Welsh hobo-poet, in a being made by David Jenkins, department program entitled "W.H. Davis, A of English. Supertramp in Prose and Verse,' p.m., Friday, Nov. 11, in the auditorium of the Williamsburg Regional Library.

Admission is $2 for the general public; free to members of the College community

W. H. Davies, born in 1871, became one of the greatest poets of his day. He wrote his lyrics, starved, begged, sold laces and matches to find the few shillings to get his poems printed. A one-legged tramp - the result of riding freight trains, he hawked the broadsheets from street to street. George Bernard Shaw characterized him as "A real poet. A draught of clear water in a desert."

Gwyn Thomas commented "That any man should carry through his life intact a cup of such enchantment would be estimable; that W.H. Davis should have carried his, unflawed, through the patch of hisscuffed and hurting days is a miracle, no less.

Ray Handy has worked to theatres throughout Britain and has also worked extensively in television and radio. A former member of the Welsh National Opera and Drama Company and previously the Welsh Theatre Company, his television performances have included a number of top British serials as diverse as "The Liver Birds," "Doctor Who," and "Crown Court." He has also written and produced for the stage, television and radio.

In 1973, at the request of the Welsh Art Council, he formed his company "Pryderi and his Pigs" with the express purpose of entertaining through the medium of works stamped "Made in Wales." This highly successful company is the only company of Welsh actors to visit the U.S.

Self-Study Notes

Epigraphs

A sampler of epigraphs under consideration for the 1984 Self-Study Report.

"Know thyself." Inscription at the Delphic Oracle, from Plutarch, Morals.

"I cannot begin to guess at all the causes of our cultural sadness, not even the most important ones, but I can think of one thing that is wrong with us and eats away at us: we do not know enough about ourselves." Lewis Thomas, in an address at Douglass College, April 1978.

'It is not enough to understand what we ought to be, unless we know what we are; and we do not understand what we are, unless we know what we ought to be." T. S. Eliot, Religion and Literature.

"To know oneself, one should assert oneself." Albert Camus, Notebooks 1935-1942.

"Know thyself! A maxim as pernicious as it is ugly. Whoever observes himself arrests his own development. A caterpillar who wanted to know itself well would never become a butterfly." Andre Gie, Les Nouvelles Nourritures.

'Nothing in excess." Solon, quoted by Diogenes Laertius in Lives and Opinions of Eminent Philosphers.

Center Offers Fitness Program

A program of personal health promo-tion from the Wellness Center, developed by Dr. J.S. Karow, director of the Student Health Center, is now being offered to any group on campus which would like to take advantage of the packaged program for better health.

The program is designed for groups of ten and includes guides to improved nutrition, sensible dieting, weight control, techniques to decrease stress, tips on how to stop smoking, and a lifestyle questionnaire. The cost of $10 per participant is levied to help defray printing costs.

Dr. Karow says the program is suitable for groups of students, staff, faculty and/ or administrators. "We hope that we will have widespread interest on campus and that we will improve the general overall health and vigor of the entire campus community," she adds.

Dr. Karow will meet initially with each group of ten and explain how the program works and will give individual counseling along the way for any members that require special attention in implementing or maintaining the program. She suggests that each group can devise its own means of exercise and lend encouragement and support to other members of the group.

The program was designed initially for the Campus Police Force at the request of Police Chief Richard Cumbee.

Dr. Karow says she will review the lifestyle questionnaires and have a question and answer session with the participating groups to evaludate the health improvement of the group after six months. She will also help plan future strategies if the group plans to continue working together.

Questions concerning the the plan should be addressed to Dr. Karow at ext. 4386.

Search for Arts and Sciences Dean

The College of William and Mary in Virginia invites applications and nominations for the position of Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences.

William and Mary is a state university chartered in 1693 with an enrollment of 4700 undergraduate and 1700 graduate and professional students in the five divisions of the university, the College of Arts and Sciences and the Schools of Business, Education, Law and Marine Science. Its central prupose is to provide liberal education for its undergraduate students, who are largely in the College of Arts and Sciences.

The Dean is the chief administrative officer of the College of Arts and Sciences which comprises 23 academic departments. The Dean is responsible for the administration of instructional programs, budgetary planning and allocation, faculty development and academic advising within the Faculty of Arts and Sciences. The Dean is assisted administratively by an Associate Dean and a Graduate Dean of Arts and Sciences and reports to the President.

Candidates should be established scholars with administrative experience consonant with the complexity of a university system and should have a strong commitment to liberal education. The position carries professorial rank an a tenured appointment in the appropriate department.
