

Alumni Highlight Publishing Seminar Program

The 1983 Seminar on Publishing to be held Nov. 10 and 11 will include several alumni as program speakers.

Sponsored by the William C. Ferguson and the Harry L. Blair Endowments at the College, the two-day seminar is the seventh in the series and is designed to introduce upper-level William and Mary students to the general nature of book publishing and to the prospects of careers in book editing, design and production, sales, and marketing. All sessions will be held in the Dodge Room of Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

Bobby A. Podstepny, a 1974 graduate, and now an editor with the Wadsworth Publishing Company; and William G. Tucker '49, vice president of Silver Burdett Company, will present a program on the varieties of publishing at the Friday morning session which begins at 9 a.m.

Daniel G. Harvey '68, director of publicity for trade books, Harper and Row, will participate in an afternoon session

Friday entitled "From Manuscript to Book," in which design, production, and publicity will be discussed.

U.S. Retains Wightman Cup

The Duchess of Gloucester poses at presentation of the Wightman cup to the victorious U.S. team in William and Mary Hall Saturday, Nov. 5. Team captain Martina Navratilova (right) and her doubles partner Pam Shriver (with cup) and team members savor the moment. The lopsided 6-1 victory by the American team assured that the Wightman cup would stay in American hands for one more year. This was the first time that the prestigious tennis tournament played by top players in the United States and Great Britain, was held in Williamsburg. Next year the tournament will be played in England.

Braxton Gets Mellon Award

Joanne M. Braxton, assistant professor of English, has been awarded a Mellon Post-Doctoral Fellowship and will be a National Fellow at the Wellesley Center for Research on Women, Wellesley, MA., for the spring semester.

One of four national winners, Ms. Braxton has completed work for the Ph.D. degree at Yale University. She will give a seminar at the Center on March 15 on "Autobiography by Black Women Writers." Her presentation will be one of a special visiting scholars seminar series.

A member of the College faculty since 1980, Ms. Braxton came to Williamsburg from Ann Arbor where she had been a lecturer in creative writing at the University of Michigan, and literary advisor to the "Mirage" dance collective.

A book of her poems, "Sometimes I Think of Maryland," was published in 1977 by Sunbury Press. Her poetry has also appeared in "Best Friends," "Black Box," "Black World," "Chrysalis," "Coeur de L'Unicorne Gallery Broadside Series," "Dasein," "Encore," "Essence," "Folger Shakespeare Library Broadside Series," "Hambone," "Hoodoo," "Journal of Black Poetry," "Nimrod," "The Red Fox Review" and numerous anthologies including "Equal Time," "We Become New: Poetry by Contemporary American Women," "Synergy" and "Celebrations."

Ms. Braxton has also had book reviews

A Correction

Handy Program

The noted Welsh actor Ray Handy will take as the subject of a dramatic reading Nov. 11 David Jones' "In Parenthesis," not the works of W. H. Davis as announced in the News last week.

The subject of Handy's reading is particularly appropriate since "In Parenthesis" is an anti-war novel about World War I and November 11 is Veterans Day.

Handy's program will be held at 8 p.m., Friday, Nov. 11 in the auditorium of the Williamsburg Regional Library.

The News regrets the previous incorrect announcement.

Admission is $2 for the general public; free to members of the College community.

Apology Offered

To the College Community:

It appears that there is still considerable confusion about the decision made this summer to convert the Bridges House from a student residence to an office space for the Office of Business Affairs. I would like, therefore, to explain the decision on behalf of the administration.

While the space problems in James Blair Hall which led to the decision to seek space outside this building for the Office of Business Affairs have been covered well in The Flat Hat, one important piece of information about the decision-making process in this matter has not been reported. When President Graves approved the recommendation he received from the Provost on the use of the Bridges House, it was with the understanding that certain conditions would be met before the proposal was implemented. One of these conditions was that the students assigned to Bridges be informed in advance and be agreeable to the move. Through a breakdown in communications, the transformation of the space went forward without this step taking place. A mistake was made. It should not have happened and its occurrence is most regrettable.

Since this situation developed in mid-August, there has been a good deal of understandable conjecture about what this action suggests about the sanctity of the lease for residence space. No one within the administration views the decision made this summer as setting a precedent for the future. This kind of situation has not occurred in the 13 years I have worked in Student Affairs at William and Mary and we are all determined not to let history repeat itself. Students have been involved in the decision-making process on the use of the residence hall space in the past and they will be in the future in spite of what might be suggested by the Bridges House scenario. Furthermore, contrary to rumor, there is no plan to alter the lease and to make it easier for this kind of space assignment to take place.

While a mistake was clearly made in the case of the Bridges House, I hope this explanation of what transpired and assurances given for the future will serve to allay some of the concerns which have been expressed in recent weeks about the relationship between the College and its student residents.

Police To Take Stand On Cycle Rules

The Campus Police will begin to enforce bicycle and pedestrian laws by issuing an administrative ticket to violators. The fine for such tickets will be $3. College affiliated persons who fail to pay the fine within five days of the offense will be referred to the appropriate administrators for disciplinary action. Persons not affiliated with the College will be issued court summonses. The police department regrets having to take such strong action, however, all of our efforts to obtain voluntary compliance with the laws have failed. This has resulted in six injured bicyclists or pedestrians this semester and numerous complaints of "close-call" incidents.

The College community is reminded that pedestrians may not walk in the streets when a sidewalk is provided. When no sidewalk is provided, they must walk on the far left side of the roadway, facing traffic. Pedestrians crossing the street are required to do so at intersections or crosswalks when nearby, and in all instances must cross at right angles to the roadway.

Bicyclists are reminded that under Virginia law they must travel to the right of the roadway, use turn signals, and stop at stop signs. Bicyclists may not ride their bikes the wrong way on one-way streets and must obey all highway signs and laws. In addition, bicycles must be equipped with a light on the front and a reflector on the rear if operated after sunset.

Motorists are reminded that pedestrians have the right of way at intersections and crosswalks, so long as they do not negligently disregard vehicles immediately approaching. Motorists have a legal obligation to exercise greater care at intersections and crosswalks. In addition, motorists are reminded that bicycles are legitimate users of the roadway and have the same rights as motor vehicles.

John Berryman, who for years has assisted William and Mary biology students in their work on plants, was awarded a certificate of appreciation on Oct. 31 for his service to the College. The brief ceremony was held in the college greenhouse atop Millington Hall. James S. Kelly, assistant to the president, made the presentation. Also in attendance were Martin C. Mathes, professor of biology, and Frank O. Perkins, Dean of the School of Marine Science, Gloucester.

Berryman, 79 and a native of West Virginia who now lives in Tabb, has worked with plants for over 65 years. He specializes in orchid tissue culture, enabling him to produce many of the flowers in the same color. Over the past 10 years or so, Mathes says, Berryman has lent his expertise to students and has been an occasional guest speaker in Mathes' biology classes.

Crim Dell Gets New Sign

The wildflower refuge in Crim Dell finally has a permanent sign.

Money for a bronze casting of the original wooden dogwood flower design has been given by friends of the College.

When the wooden dogwood sign, which was developed by Glen Bean, a retired College shopman, began to deteriorate, Martin Mathes, professor of biology and director of the Wildflower Refuge headed an effort to get a bronze replacement.

The new sign with the names of donors inscribed on the back, hangs in the same spot as the old one, at the edge of the refuge, across from the Crim Dell pond and adjacent to the small amphitheatre. The wooden sign will be repaired, refinished and put on permanent display in the biology department in Millington Hall. The dogwood design is a reminder of the many dogwood trees found in the refuge area.

In addition to the new sign, the Wildflower Refuge has also received a cypress gazebo, a gift of the class of 1980. The pinebark walks within the refuge are the gift of the class of 1977. Benches have been provided by the Williamsburg council of Garden Clubs. Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority plans a clean-up day in Crim Dell next week says Mathes to preserve the area's charm.

The program of guided botanical tours of the campus will be continued this year as a cooperative venture between the College and the garden club council. Members of garden clubs in the council will serve as guides with Mrs. T. B. Jones serving as tour program coordinator for the council.

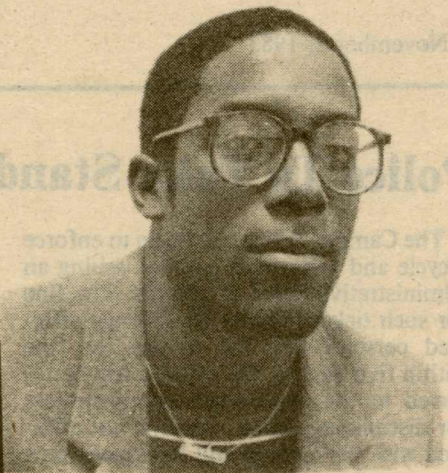

Tours will also include the greenhouse atop Millington Hall. The greenhouse was built in 1968 and contains hundreds of plants including cycads, cactus, herbs, orchids, bromeliads and insectivorous plants. Tour groups will also see coffee, banana, camphor and tobacco plants among the many unusual varieties in the greenhouse collection.

Groups wishing to schedule a tour should contact Mathes at ext. 4240, 4458 or 4284. Tours are given weekdays between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m., depending on the season. Plant cuttings are provided if the request is made at the time the tour is planned. Tours are available from groups ranging from pre-schoolers to retirees.

Beckles Doesn't Mind Being 'Lone Ranger'

One of the pleasures of fraternity membership is the camaraderie among members. The fact that Claude Beckles is the only undergraduate in Alpha Phi Alpha service fraternity hasn't dampened his enthusiasm for membership. He'd like for more people to join but he's not waiting around for that to happen. Alpha Phi Alpha is living up to its name by his efforts and the help he is getting from graduate members.

Claude Beckles

Recently Beckles organized a Halloween party for Head Start children. They enjoyed a movie show and were given candy from pinatas.

For Thanksgiving the fraternity is planning to hold a social event. Price of admission will be canned goods which will be given to an adopted family.

Clarence Penn, superintendent of schools in Surry County, spoke at the first get-together of the fraternity this fall. Fraternity members from the Hampton Institute Chapter came to campus for a "Block Show."

Looking ahead, Beckles is planning an

Workshop on Black Retention Closes

About 200 administrators from Virginia's public institutions of higher education will wind up today the first two-day statewide workshop on black student retention, sponsored by the State Council of Higher Education as part of the 1983 Amendments to the Virginia Plan. The conference is hosted by the College of William and Mary.

The purposes of the workshop are described as those that will increase awareness of the issue of retention problems of black students; heighten familiarity with research and practices on black student retention, and examine strategies for creating an environment that is conducive to student development.

At the opening session of the conference Sunday, Dr. Gordon K. Davies, director of the State Council of Higher Education, delivered the opening address.

Following his talk, a discussion session on "Other Race Students on Campus" was led by Dr. Bill Elwood, associate dean

Colloquium on Ada

Part two of a mathematics and computer science colloquium on "Ada - Past, Present, Future and Other Times," co-sponsored by the William and Mary Chapter of the ACM, will be held Friday, Nov. 11 at 3 p.m. in Jones 302. Coffee will be served at 2:30 p.m.

W. Robert Collins and Laurie King of the department of mathematics and computer science will speak on the programming language Ada, some of its features and the place it will have in computing. The first session was held Nov. 4.

Swink Recital Set Sunday

Sharon Lynn Swink will present her senior voice recital at 2 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 13 in the Chapel of the Sir Christopher Wren Building.

Miss Swink is majoring in business administration and management. She is studying voice with Mary Eason Fletcher of the music faculty.

For her recital Miss Swink will sing two selections by J.S. Bach; Biblical Songs, Op. 99 by Antonin Dvorak; Frauenlieb und Leben, Op. 42 by Robert Schumann and three songs by Thomas Pasatieri. She will be accompanied by Maureen Giles, a senior music concentrator from Danville, Va., who is studying piano with Claudia Stevens of the music faculty.

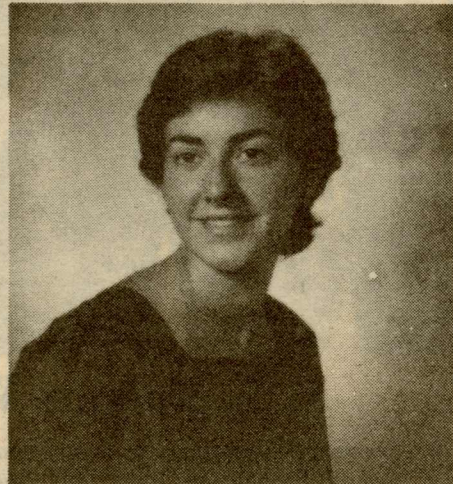

Miss Swink was a member of the William and Mary Choir her freshman year. She has performed in several theatrical productions including "Atalanta," "The Shock of Recognition," and "Something Unspoken." She will appear as one of the daughters in "The Pirates of Penzance," which will be presented in January by the Sinfonicron Opera Company at the College.

Miss Swink serves as president of the Collegiate Management Association and is a marketing intern for the Exxon Company in the Tidewater area. Last summer she participated in a summer study program in Germany, sponsored by the Minit International Corporation. She is a member of two national honor societies, Alpha Lambda Delta and Phi Eta Sigma, and is the recipient of a scholarship given by the Order of the White Jacket to qualified students who earn money for college expenses by working in food services.

Miss Swink plans to obtain a master's degree in business administration and pursue a career in marketing or customer service. A graduate of Northside High School in Roanoke, Miss Swink was valedictorian of the class of 1980.

of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences at the University of Virginia; and Mrs. Lois McClellan, coordinator of Special Services Projects at Virginia State University. The session included the screening of a film entitled "From Harlem to Harvard."

Monday activities began with a workshop on "Student Retention: What are the Problems?" led by Dr. Paul Mohr, vice president for Academic Affairs at Norfolk State University; and Dr. David Hager, deputy vice president for Academic Affairs at Old Dominion University.

A presentation on "Successful Retention Strategies and Methods" was led by Dr. Peggy A. Richmond, president of Research and Evaluation Associates; and Carolyn C. W. Hines, president, and Wesley C. Wilson, vice president of C&W Associates of Newport News.

Dr. Samuel P. Proctor, the Martin Luther King, Jr., Memorial Professor at Rutgers University, delivered the keynote address at a noon luncheon Monday.

Dr. John T. Casteen, III, state Secretary of Education, addressed participants Monday evening.

A panel discussion on "Institutional Commitments and Student Retention" was scheduled for this morning. Panel members included Dr. Ronald Carrier, president of James Madison University; Dr. Freddie W. Nicholas, Sr., president of John Tyler Community College; and Dr. Harrison B. Wilson, president of Norfolk State University.

Feb. 1 Deadline Set For Fellows

Governor Charles S. Robb has announced that the Governor's Fellows program, first created in 1982, will be repeated in 1984. Fellows will serve during the summer of 1984. Coordinator of the program is A.E. Dick Howard, Counselor to the Governor.

The purpose of the program is to offer talented and highly motivated young people firsthand experience in the processes of state government. As a result of their experience, Fellows may well be attracted into careers in government or public service. In addition to giving Fellows valuable experience, the program is designed to bring fresh ideas into the Governor's Office.

Students must be graduating seniors or must be enrolled as degree candidates in a graduate or professional school. Students enrolled in Virginia colleges or universities, public or private, may apply, regardless of state of residence. Virginia residents enrolled in out-of-state institutions, public or private, may also apply. In the selection process, there will be no discrimination on political, racial, religious, or sexual grounds.

An applicant selected as a Fellow must be willing to commit at least two months to fulltime work in the Governor's Office. The normal period of fellowship would be from June 1 to July 31, 1984.

Fellows will be assigned to work with members of the Governor's Cabinet or personal staff. The nature of the assignments will depend partly on the official's needs and partly on the background and experience of the Fellow. The number of Fellows selected will depend upon the quality of the applications.

No state funds are available to support Fellows. However, in previous years, colleges and universities proved willing to offer summer grants to Fellows elected from those institutions. In 1984, institutions from which a Fellow is selected will again be urged to make summer grants available.

A panel of distinguished Virginia educators has agreed to screen the applications. Personal interviews may be requested, at the discretion of the panel.

Applicants should submit: a letter of application, a resume, and transcripts of undergraduate grades and of graduate school grades, if any.

Applications should include, either in the letter or the resume, the following information: name, address, and telephone number; schools attended (with dates) and degrees, if any; extracurricular activities; awards and recognitions; work experience and voluntary community activities.

Applicants may submit such other information as they deem relevant, e.g., a list of publications, leisure interests, etc.

Letters of recommendation would be helpful. One or two should suffice in most cases. Letters, if sent, should be sent directly by the recommender to the Governor's Fellows Program, rather than being submitted by the applicant with the application.

Applications must be received by February 1, 1984.

Send applications to: A.E. Dick Howard, Governor's Fellows Program, Office of the Governor, Richmond, Va. 23219.

The Presidential Management Intern Program

The Office of Placement has received bulletins of information and application materials packages to be used in applying for the Presidential Management Intern Program. Under this program, up to 200 interns will receive two-year appointments to developmental positions throughout the executive branch of the Federal Government with a starting annual salary of approximately $20,000.

United States citizens who are completing, or who expect to complete an advanced degree focusing on the analysis of public policies and programs from an accredited United States university during the current academic year, are eligible to be nominated for this program. Each degree-granting program may nominate up to 15 percent of its total number of graduates who received eligible degrees during the previous academic year.

The application deadline for this program is Dec. 14. Interested individuals should ask to see Announcement Number N-1-1 in the Office of Placement in 140 Morton Hall.
