

Dr. Paul R. Verkuil

Rector pleased at selection

The most influential member of the Search Committee which chose Dr. Verkuil as 25th President of the College is also the Rector of the College, Anne Dobie Peebles.

She was in on everything and worked tirelessly for the College during a span of time which encompassed close to a year. Although she lives some 50 miles from the campus at Dunnlorra Farm in Dinwiddie County, she spent many days and nights in Williamsburg for meetings and committee business.

"It's been a good year," she reminisces this week. "I've worked with a lot of good people and think I succeeded in some things I tried to do, such as convincing the College family we could work together, and that the Board of Visitors is made up of honorable men and women who worked without a hidden agenda. We helped the faculty, students and alumni to see our vision of William and Mary is one and the same! Our prayer is that we can continue to do this."

Looking back over 1984, the Rector notes that in early April she asked faculty, students and the College community for counsel as the search process began. She requested their input on what the College should be like ten years from now, what kind of man or woman should lead in these exciting times, and what special qualifications the President should have.

"From the faculty, students, alumni, and Board of Visitors the answers were amazingly the same," she says. "They all wanted to retain the character of the College with the core of liberal arts. They did not want to grow appreciably because of the building of personal relationships between the faculty and students is the hallmark of the kind of education we have here."

"They recognized the need for a strong administrator for the College. They expressed a unanimous desire to produce a Rhodes Scholar and believe it can be done with proper leadership."

"All noted the 300th birthday of the College as a proper and appropriate time for a major fundraising campaign to help us provide things not available through public funding, so we needed a person with a track record and experience in fund-raising."

"Each component asked for a man with a recognized reputation in the academic world, a man whose career is on the ascendency, a man who would understand how to work with officials of the Commonwealth of Virginia and the General Assembly, who recognized the devotion and deep involvement of alumni and their undying wish to be a part of the College family. And if all things were equal, they thought a son of the College could offer us much."

Miss Peebles expresses herself as "very much pleased" with the selection of Dr. Paul Verkuil as the new president.

"I was in one of the most fortunate positions in which a rector could be," she grins. "We had three finalists, any of whom I could present with joy to my constituents, for any one of them could've led us successfully. Only one ballot was taken, and it was a most harmonious occasion."

The long and involved search for a president, which attracted more than 200 nominations, is now in the past, and Miss Peebles says she's glad it's over.

"It's good for the campus to be looking forward and planning," she declares. "This will be a new era in the life of the College."

She gives high praise to the work of the Search Committee, and the 17 individuals who served it. "They came from all parts of the College family. We didn't know each other when we began, but we became a team," she recalls. "We liked each other and never had a fight. We want to meet again as friends on a social basis."

Miss Peebles will complete a one-year term as Rector of the College this March. She can be re-elected for another year should the Board choose. She has another three years on the Board of Visitors, being part way through her second consecutive term. She serves at the pleasure of the Governor of Virginia, who appoints all members of the Board.

DR. HEALY WILL STAY

Dr. Paul Verkuil, president-elect, has asked George R. Healy, provost of the College for the past 13½ years and now acting president, to stay on during the beginning of the new administration. Dr. Healy has agreed to do this, through June 30, 1986, and Dr. Verkuil said he looks forward to Dr. Healy's continued service to the College.

WILLIAM AND MARY News

Thursday, January 10, 1985
Volume XIII, Number 16

Permit No. 26
Non-Profit Organization
U.S. Postage PAID at Williamsburg, Va.

College president-elect is Dr. Paul Verkuil

When the Board of Visitors of the College of William and Mary met Dec. 20 to choose a new president, it had names of three highly-qualified men judged tops by the Search Committee. These included two college presidents and one dean, selected from more than 200 candidates for the job.

Their qualifications impeccable, all three men and their wives were on campus for a final interview by the Board. When the results of the secret balloting were announced on Friday, Dec. 21, the choice turned out to be the only William and Mary alumnus among the trio — Paul R. Verkuil, 45, dean of the law school at Tulane University in New Orleans.

Dr. Verkuil, a native of Staten Island, N.Y., earned a bachelor's degree in English literature in 1961 and intended to teach. He was a member of ROTC on campus, and after graduation accepted a commission as a second lieutenant in the Quartermaster Corps. He was going to see the world, but never got more than 50 miles from Williamsburg during his Army career. First he was stationed at Fort Lee, then the Defense General Supply Center in Richmond. However, it was fortuitous, for he met and married a vivacious William and Mary student, Frances Gibson, during that time. She was the daughter of a career U.S. Marine officer, and was due to graduate in 1966.

She soon had him back in school too, at the University of Virginia's law school. She dropped out in order to work and send him through his law course, which he finished in 1967.

"Paul always won any argument we had so I knew he'd make a great lawyer," she said. Her judgment seems to be correct, because he went on to practice law with outstanding law firms, win more degrees, teach at the University of North Carolina, and finally, at the age of 38, to become dean of the law school at Tulane, a prestigious 138-year-old New Orleans institution. There he has been credited with making the law school into one of the top 25 in the nation, in adding new areas of study, attracting foreign students, and greatly increasing its endowment. During the past semester, he was on leave to serve as the academican on the Anglo-American Legal Exchange with U.S. Chief Justice Warren Burger and Associate Justice Sandra Day O'Connor, quartered in London.

The Verkuil family, consisting of Fran, 18-year-old Tara, a sophomore at Sophie Newcomb College, and Gibson, a second grader, will move to Williamsburg in late May, he said. First, they all plan to be on campus Feb. 1 and 2 for the College's 292nd Charter Day and the annual meeting of the President's Council. The president-elect will be introduced to the College family at that time.

Dr. Verkuil, lean and personable, was back on campus this week for introductions and to look around his future home. He had not seen inside the President's House until Tuesday. He says he's anxious to begin the new job, although "it's hard to be in two places at once, and I do have commitments to Tulane. The next three months are complicated."

He traveled more than any of the other candidates interviewed for the presidency, flying to Williamsburg twice from London. On the third visit, the final interview with the Board of Visitors, he flew from Nairobi, Africa, where he was then working, to London, to New Orleans and then to Williamsburg. In spite of the jet lag, he impressed the Board.

In New Orleans, the Verkuils have achieved the reputation of giving fine dinner parties and were chosen as a couple who "entertain with flair." They believe in superb food and conversation.

He hasn't been able to get back to the campus much since moving from Virginia, mostly because the schedules of the colleges where he's worked have been the same as William and Mary's homecomings, graduations, etc. They did come to events several times when they lived at Chapel Hill, N.C., and have kept up with College news via the "Alumni Gazette." "It always followed me wherever I moved," he notes.

He expects to have a big role in the selection of the Marshall-Wythe Law School's new dean, a position to be filled later this year. Dean William B. Spang is retiring in September from the post.

The president-elect likes to run and expects to join the hundreds of William and Mary joggers who regularly do the two mile-long lap from College Corner down Duke of Gloucester Street to the Capitol.

The Verkuils are Episcopalians. He professes no political leanings but feels his politics "will be for William and Mary" when it comes to seeking political support for College budgets and causes.

He describes himself as "decisive" after developing this skill in law practice, but says he'll have no instant solutions when he takes over his new job. The first year will be a learning year, when he plans to meet and know faculty, students, staff, alumni, townspeople, and friends of the College.

"My purpose is to make William and Mary a better place," he concludes. "As good as it is, it can be better, and I will devote all my energies to this purpose. I am an active person and expect people to respond accordingly as we work together."

Antique furnishings given to President's House project

It was a banner year in 1984 for the Committee to Furnish the President's House at the College of William and Mary, with more than a quarter million dollars worth of furnishings donated to the historic home built in 1732.

The largest number of gifts was presented by a New York City couple, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Sellin, whose daughter is a student at the College. Mrs. Sellin is a member of the Committee as well. Their donations included an English William and Mary period burl mulberry writing table, circa 1700; a pair of George I carved gilt gesso English wall mirrors, circa 1730; a George II walnut partner's desk with leather-lined top, English, circa 1740; a George III tripod table; a pair of George I walnut side chairs with carved shell decorations, English, circa 1720; a James I oak side cupboard, English, circa 1610; and a late 17th century Japanese lacquer cabinet with George II carved giltwood stand.

Captain and Mrs. Oliver Ramsey, formerly of Williamsburg but now residing at Virginia Beach, gave some English sterling, including a Chippendale salver, made in London by Peter and Ann Bateman around 1793; a pair of matching Chippendale salvers made by Rebecca Emes and Edward Barnard in London about 1828; an English sterling mug, pint size, made by Hester Bateman in London about 1782; a Sheffield plate brandy warmer, circa 1770; and a Sheffield plate tureen with cover, circa 1790.

A French version of the English edition of the "Fry-Jefferson map," circa 1791-93, has been donated by Dr. and Mrs. George B. Green of Arlington. The map was drawn by Peter Jefferson, father of Thomas Jefferson, and Joshua Fry, who was a professor at the College of William and Mary. First printed in England in 1751, the map consisted of four large sheets showing roads in Virginia. It was reprinted in France in a smaller size for convenience in handling. Mr. Fry was among the College's faculty chosen to lay one of the first ceremonial bricks when the President's House was constructed in 1732, so the map which he helped draft has special significance for the House. Mrs. Green, a writer and frequent visitor to Williamsburg, is a member of the Committee.

Dr. Clement E. Conger, chairman of the Committee to Furnish the President's House, and Mr. and Mrs. George M. Kaufman, found and purchased an 18th century six-armed brass chandelier for the hall of the President's House. Mrs. Emanuel Falk of Newport News, who is Virginia vice chairman of the President's House Friends, gave Bavarian china and an antique Persian rug. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Graveley of Martinsville donated an 18th century silver wine funnel, and Peter Glover of New York City a pair of antique wall sconces with etched globes.

A Chippendale chair with rush seat, probably made in the Valley of Virginia about 1740, was contributed by Mr. and Mrs. Bill Roberts of Williamsburg. Alumna Mrs. Charles Anthony of Livingston, N.J., gave an 18th century Chinese punch bowl and an 18th century Sheffield dish cross. A mahogany tea caddy in bombe shape, made in England around 1775, was the gift of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hodges Parker of Fairfax. She is a member of the Committee.

Two other Committee members, Mrs. William M. Bangel of Williamsburg and Mrs. Rolfe Williams of Norfolk, each gave 18th century brass candlesticks, made in England around 1755.

Fine Persian carpets were donated by Dr. Frederick B. Garner of Fredericksburg; Mrs. Dorothy Wright, Springfield; Mrs. John H. Mathis, Port Haywood; and Mrs. Edwin P. Young, Cobbs Creek. Additionally, the committee located and purchased a Heriz rug for the north parlor, using donated funds.

President and Mrs. Thomas M. Graves, Jr., expressed their gratitude to donors and their delight in the beauty of the President's House collection. The house has been occupied by all 24 of the presidents of the College during its 252 years of existence.

Funds to carry on the President's House Project are generated through donations of cash and from the annual seminar staged at the College by the Friends of the President's House organization.

This handsome six-armed brass chandelier dates from the 18th century and hangs in the hallway of the President's House now. It bears an eagle decoration.

English-made Chippendale salvers crafted when the College was in its early years have been donated to the President's House by Captain and Mrs. Oliver Ramsey. The Ramseys, formerly of Williamsburg, now live at Virginia Beach.

Environmental art scheduled for Muscarelle Museum

Something new is in store for visitors to the Muscarelle Museum of Art at the College of William and Mary, when Michael Singer brings his environmental art to Williamsburg for an exhibition beginning Jan. 25 in the Sheridan Gallery.

His works include the use of rocks, hunks of wood and fencing in floor pieces and in abstract drawings reflecting his three-dimensional thinking.

His quest for materials for his environmental art has taken him to the beaver bogs and marshes of Vermont and Long Island, where he has made large-scale works using hemlock, bamboo and grasses integrated with the landscape. In a gallery setting, where nature does not flourish, he seeks to alter the viewer's relationship by enclosing his art pieces with a platform or wall to focus vision on what Singer places within it.

The Singer show will be on display through March 18. Museum hours are 10 a.m. to 4:45 p.m., Mondays-Fridays, and noon to 4 p.m., Saturday and Sunday. A reception honoring the artist will take place Jan. 25.

Newsmakers

A manuscript, "Elementary School Principals' Attitude Toward Mainstreaming Handicapped Students," by Doug Prillaman, professor of education, has been published in the Journal of Remedial and Special Education.

In April, he will be presenting a paper at the convention of the National Council for Exceptional Children, to be held in Anaheim, Calif. Co-presenter is Robert F. Richardson, doctoral student in special education administration. The presentation is titled, "Matching Gifted and Talented College Students with Gifted and Talented Eighth Grade Students." The paper is based on a program conducted by the College, in cooperation with the Williamsburg-James City County Public Schools during the spring semester of 1984.

Sharmee Seid, serials bibliographic and acquisitions assistant in the Earl Gregg Swem Library and 1985 Chairperson of the Paraprofessional Forum of the Virginia Library Association, is a co-compiler of Who Makes What Where How: Library Paraprofessional Salaries. The 68-page report was published by the Virginia Library Association.

John H. Oakley, of the classical studies department presented a paper entitled "Collaboration in the Achilles' Painter's Workshop: Louvre G 444," on Dec. 30 at the annual meeting of the Archaeological Institute of America and the American Philological Association in Toronto. Earlier this semester, Oakley was elected state vice president for Virginia of the Classical Association of the Middle West and South.

Gary Ripple and Karen Schoenenberger made presentations at the annual meeting of the Virginia Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Counselors held in Lynchburg December 2-4. Dr. Ripple spoke on "Technical Aspects of Application Dates and Deadlines," and Dr. Schoenenberger discussed "Leadership Styles of Women in Higher Education."

Mary Anne Schofield, visiting associate professor of English, has been made secretary-treasurer for the Northeast American Society for Eighteenth-Century Studies.

The spring issue of Ariel: A Journal of Interdisciplinary Studies will publish her article, "Exploring the Woman's Question: A Reading of Fielding's Amelia."

Marsha V. Krotseng, doctoral candidate in Higher Education, was an invited guest at a recent American Enterprise Institute forum in Washington, D.C., focusing on public policy issues in education. Gov. Charles S. Robb of Virginia and Lamar Alexander, Governor of Tennessee, were among the speakers who described the major educational initiatives currently underway within their states.

Calendar

SATURDAY, JANUARY 12

Organ Recital, Wren Chapel, 11 a.m.
W&M v. East Carolina University, women's basketball, W&M Hall, 7:30 p.m.

MONDAY, JANUARY 14

Classes resume
SA Bookfair, Trinkle Hall
W&M v. UNC-Wilmington, women's basketball, W&M Hall, 7:30 p.m.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 15

SA Bookfair, Trinkle Hall

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 16

SA Bookfair, Trinkle Hall

THURSDAY, JANUARY 17

SA Bookfair, Trinkle Hall
W&M v. UNC-Wilmington, men's basketball, W&M Hall, 8 p.m.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 18

SA Bookfair, Trinkle Hall
SA Movies, Trinkle Hall, 7 p.m.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 19

Sovran Bank, MasterCard and Visa credit cards, CC Lobby, 9 a.m.-5 p.m.
Organ Recital, Wren Chapel, 11 a.m.
W&M v. U.S. Naval Academy, women's basketball, W&M Hall, 5 p.m.
W&M v. U.S. Naval Academy, men's basketball, W&M Hall, 7:30 p.m.

Gene Davis collaborates with children on new exhibit

What do you get when you mix children's art with the work of an established painter using the same set of subjects?

You get "Child and Man," a collaboration between Washington, D.C., colorist Gene Davis and youngsters four to eight years of age whose primitive drawings display great expression and ingenuity.

This exhibit is next on the schedule for the Spigel Gallery of the Muscarelle Museum of Art at the College of William and Mary. It opens Jan. 11 for a six-week run through Feb. 25. A reception is scheduled Jan. 25.

Davis, whose art virtuosity includes the "Sun Sonata" of colored cylinders on the south-facing passive solar wall of the museum, explains, "All my adult life, I have stood in awe of the visual creations of children, especially those in the four to eight year age group. Their innocence of eye, the inexplicable rectitude of their color and formal decisions are wondrous things to behold. As Jung has observed, children possess an astounding capacity for creating archetypal images which touch a common memory. . . . There is a kind of esthetic parity in the work of children that is enormously appealing as well as enigmatic. Given the same materials and opportunity to create, almost any child will sooner or later produce work of visual interest.

"In the current show, I have taken the somewhat precarious step of juxtaposing the work of children on a selected set of subjects with my own work on the same subjects. I say precarious because I realize that certain people may misconstrue my motives. I am not trying to be a child. I regard this show as a kind of homage, an homage to children and their visual and conceptual innocence. . . . The juxtaposition should be instructive. While my work clearly demonstrates an awareness of children's art, it is also equally clear in most cases that it comes from the hand of an adult familiar with art history."

Davis, a native of Washington, lives and works there. He teaches at the Corcoran Gallery School of Art, has been artist-in-residence at the University of Virginia, Skidmore College, and the Nova Scotia College of Art and Design. He has had solo museum exhibitions at the Corcoran Gallery of Art, San Francisco Museum of Art, Yale University, Brooklyn Museum of Art.

The Muscarelle Museum of Art is open from 10 a.m. to 4:45 p.m., Monday through Friday, and noon to 4 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

Skills program sets registration Jan. 14 and 15

Registration for the spring semester of the Rita Welsh Adult Skills Program at the College of William and Mary will take place Jan. 14 and 15, between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. There is no charge for the program.

New students may come in any time during those hours, or telephone 253-4644 to make other arrangements if the dates are not convenient. Returning students may telephone to register if they have not already signed up with the staff.

Classes will begin Jan. 21 in the basement of Bryan Hall at the College. Instruction is offered in beginning reading and math, functional reading and math, advanced reading and math, preparation for GED or high school equivalency, and English as a foreign language.

The Rita Welsh Adult Skills Program provides daytime instruction to adults of all ages in the Williamsburg-James City County-York County areas who wish to improve their reading and math skills. Teaching is on a one-to-one basis by volunteer tutors under the guidance of director Corliss Tacosa and her staff. Hours are flexible and are arranged to meet the work and family schedules for both adult students and tutors.

The program is a community service supported financially by the Greater Williamsburg United Way, the College of William and Mary, area employers, area service clubs and interested individuals.

Volunteers who wish to give two hours a week to the program are urged to call 253-4644.

Williamsburg Forum

The Forum of Williamsburg will meet Tuesday, Jan. 15, in a new location, the Cascades Restaurant, for a talk on "How to Start a Small Business." Speaker is Denise Tuftee, accounting manager for Water Country U.S.A., and co-owner of Country Contractors, Inc. Lunch begins at noon in one of the downstairs meeting rooms. Reservations must be made in advance with Julie Leverenz or Margaret Ward at 253-4700, and cost is $6 per person.

Busch Gardens interviews

Busch Gardens will be interviewing any student interested in employment for the summer of 1985. These interviews will take place in the Office of Placement on Monday, Jan. 21. Interested students must make an appointment by seeing Beth McGregor in 104 Morton Hall prior to this date.

Employment

The following positions at the College are open to all qualified individuals. Call 229-JOBS for further information or visit the Personnel Office, 201 James Blair Hall for information and application forms between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday-Friday. An EEO/AA employer.

INFORMATION DIRECTOR A--ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR FOR ANNUAL SUPPORT (Grade 11)--Salary range $19,747 to $26,973 per year. Location: University Advancement. Deadline Jan. 14.

SCHOLARSHIP AND PLACEMENT ASSISTANT (Grade 8) -- Salary range $15,118 to $20,646 per year. Location: Student Financial Aid. Deadline Jan. 15.

COMPUTER OPERATOR -- Unclassified, part-time, $6.08 per hour, approximately 30 hours per week. Location: Computer Center. Deadline Jan. 16.

Events

TUESDAY, JANUARY 15

"Wall Constructions" by Keith Long, Andrews Gallery, through Feb. 15; artist's lecture and reception, Andrews 201, 4 p.m.

Ross Weber Paintings, Andrews Foyer, through Feb. 15.

"Sculpture," student presentation, fine arts department, Andrews Hallway, through Feb. 15.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 17

Town and Gown Luncheon, PBK Dodge Room, 12:15 p.m., a tour of the greenhouse conducted by Dr. Martin C. Mathes.

VITA

PAUL R. VERKUIL

Address: Tulane University School of Law
New Orleans, La. 70118
Personal: Born, Staten Island, N.Y., December 4, 1939.
Married, two children.

EDUCATION

Public Schools, Staten Island, N.Y.
A.B. (English Literature), College of William and Mary, 1961.
LL.B., University of Virginia, 1967.
LL.M. (Trade Regulations), New York University, 1969.
M.A. (Political Science and Economics) New School for Social Research, 1971.
J.S.D., New York University, 1972.

HONORS

Editor, Virginia Law Review.
Dean's List.
DuPont Scholarship.
Raven Society.
Voted Outstanding Third Year Editor of Law Review.
N.Y.U. Founders Day Award for "Consistent evidence of outstanding scholarship."
Order of the Coif.

PROFESSIONAL EMPLOYMENT

Cravath, Swaine & Moore, 1966 (summer), May 1967 - January 1969.
Graduate Fellow, New York University, January-November - 1969.
Paul, Weiss, Goldberg, Rifkind, Wharton & Garrison, November 1969 - August 1971.
University of North Carolina School of Law, Assistant Professor, 1971-1974; Associate Professor, 1974 - 1977; Professor, 1977 - 1978, Kenan Research Professor, Fall semester 1977. Contracts, Administrative Law, Public Control of Business, Professional Responsibility.
Duke University School of Law, Visiting Professor, 1973 - 1974. Contracts.
Indiana University (Bloomington) School of Law, Visiting Professor, Summer 1977. Regulated Industries.
Columbia University School of Law, Visiting Scholar, Center for Law and Economics, Fall semester 1977.
Dean and Professor of Law, Tulane Law School, 1978 - 1983.
Dean and Joseph M. Jones Professor of Law, Tulane Law School, since August 1983.

RELATED EXPERIENCE

U.S. Army, January 1962 - August 1964. 1st Lieutenant; awarded Certificate of Achievement.
Association of American Law Schools: Administrative Law Section, Chairperson 1975-1977; Committee on Academic Freedom and Tenure, Member 1971-1979; Chairman of Plenary Session Program, 1981.
Consultant, Administrative Conference of the United States, 1973 to present.
North Carolina General Statutes Commission, Member, Committee on Administrative Law, 1973 - 1975.
Member, American Law Institute, 1976 - present.
Consultant, ABA Commission on Law and the Economy, 1977 - 1979.
Chairman of Hearing Board on rulemaking relating to access to nuclear power plants, Nuclear Regulatory Commission, 1978 - 1979.
Consultant, Department of Energy, 1978 - 1979.
Member, White House Conference on Small Business, 1979 - 1980.
Member, Council on the Role of the Courts, 1979 - 1981.
Commissioner on Uniform State Laws, 1979 to present.
Council Member, Administrative Law Section, ABA, 1982 to present.

BOOKS

Administrative Law Problem Book and Teachers Manual (Foundation Press 1973, 1974, 1978, 1979, 1983) (with W. Gellhorn, C. Byse and P. Strauss).
Public Control of Business: Cases, Notes and Questions (Little, Brown & Co. 1977) (with D. Boies).
Social Security Hearings and Appeals (Lexington Books 1971) (with coauthors).
Federal Regulation: Roads to Reform (ABA Comm. on Law and the Economy 1979) (drafted Ch. VI on Administrative Procedure).
Administrative Law Treatise (Foundation Press) (with D. Pierce and S. Shapiro).
Other publications not listed.

LAW REFORM ACTIVITIES

Assisted in drafting a 1974 amendment to the Federal Torts Claims Act that extended the act's coverage to intentional (and constitutional) torts.
Assisted in drafting the North Carolina Administrative Procedure Act in 1974-75.
Testified before Senate Banking Committee on June 18, 1976 on S. 2347, bill to regulate standby letters of credit.
Testified in First Empire v. FDIC (S.D. Calif. 1976) as an expert witness on standby letters of credit for the FDIC.
Federal Bar Association, Administrative Law, Panelist on Judicial Review, Fall 1977.
National Judicial College Advanced Administrative Law Judge Course, Faculty member, November 1978.
Federal Judicial Center, Appellate Judges Seminar, Faculty member, January and March 1979.
Federal Bar Association, Second Annual Regulatory Reform Conference Panelist, May 8, 1980.
Panelist, Symposium on Presidential Control of Rulemaking, Administrative Law Section, ABA, Washington, D.C., October 1981.
Testified before Senate Judiciary and Small Business Subcommittees on S. 2147, bill to amend Regulatory Flexibility Act, August 12, 1982.
Member, Anglo-American Legal Exchange, London, England, fall, 1984.

Goodwin Islands given to Endowment Association

Goodwin Islands in York County have been given to the Endowment Association of the College for use by William and Mary and its School of Marine Science, the Virginia Institute of Marine Science.

The property, donated in late December by the Environmental Preservation Company, a limited partnership, encompasses almost 400 acres of marshlands at the mouth of the York River. Valued at more than $5 million, the islands represent one of the largest single gifts in the College's history.

President Thomas A. Graves, Jr., in one of his last official acts at the College, expressed his pleasure at the gift. "Besides having great value to our scientists and students at the College and the Virginia Institute of Marine Science, this gift will preserve an area of environmental significance for future generations of Virginians," he said.

Graves also noted that in addition to research on marine and coastal environments the property will be utilized to enhance undergraduate and graduate educational programs in anthropology, archaeology, biology, and geology on the main campus, as well as the School of Marine Science.

The Dean/Director of VIMS, Dr. Frank O. Perkins, in commenting on the gift noted, "The Islands provide opportunities for research and education which have been previously unavailable to the Institute's faculty and students."

Robert Ripley, a York County attorney and legal counsel for the Environmental Preservation Company, commented that the Company felt it was not in either its or York County's best interests to develop the Islands as presently zoned, i.e., heavy industrial, and decided to donate them.

VIMS will co-host colloquium on hazardous wastes in oceans

The Virginia Institute of Marine Science and the Institute of Law and Public Health Protection are presenting a winter colloquium on "Ocean Incineration of Hazardous Wastes," with experts from around the country leading individual discussions.

WILLIAM AND MARY News

The William and Mary News is published weekly by the Office of University Communications during the academic year, except when the College is in recess, and twice each month in June, July and August.

Tina Jeffrey, editor
Publications Office, production
News deadline: Fridays, 5 p.m.

One of the owners, Richmond attorney B. Roland Freasier, Jr., is a 1970 graduate of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law of the College.

Friends sponsor seminar Jan. 19 to benefit house

A seminar sponsored by the President's House Friends at the College of William and Mary will take place all day Saturday, Jan. 19, at Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall on the College campus. The seminar's topic is "Taste of the Time: 18th Century Virginia."

E. Charles Beyer, an alumnus who is senior vice president of Christie's in New York, will be the keynote speaker, with an address on "Current Taste in Collecting European Furniture" at 1 p.m.

Other speakers at the event, which begins at 9:30 a.m. with registration and coffee, are Jim Melchor, author, whose subject is "Eastern Shore Virginia Raised Panel Furniture;" Margaret Pritchard, a curator at Colonial Williamsburg Foundation, who will speak on "Mark Catesby, Colonial Naturalist;" and Frederick L. Belden, ASLA, landscape architect of Williamsburg, who will speak on "A House and Garden Suitable to the Place."

Included in the price of the seminar is a basket lunch and wine, served at noon. Following the seminar, tea and conversation will take place.

Reservations for the seminar are due by Jan. 15. Cost is $15 per person, and checks made payable to "Friends of the President's House" may be sent to Patricia LaLand, administrator of the President's House Project, College of William and Mary.

The President's House Project is a non-profit organization dedicated to properly furnishing the historic dwelling in a manner that will provide a lasting educational and cultural lesson to benefit future generations. The President's House was built in 1732 and restored in 1931. It has served as home for each of the College's presidents since William and Mary was chartered in 1693.

Scott C. Whitney, professor of law at George Mason University and director of the Institute of Law and Public Health Protection, is the first speaker on Jan. 21, with his subject, "The Legal Background to Regulation of Ocean Incineration of Hazardous Waste."

On Jan. 28, Dr. Charles A. Johnson, technical director of the National Solid Waste Management Association will give an overview of the hazardous waste problem in the United States, with the role of ocean incineration as one of the remedies.

Dr. Kenneth S. Kamlet, director of pollution and toxic substances division of the National Wildlife Federation, will present on Feb. 11 an environmentalist's perspective on ocean incineration of hazardous waste.

On Feb. 28, Dr. George Vander Velde, senior vice president of Chemical Waste Management, will speak on "The Case for Ocean Incineration of Hazardous Waste." Additional speakers will be announced.

All lectures will be held from 2-3 p.m. in Watermen's Hall auditorium at VIMS, Gloucester Point. For further information, call 642-7102. The public is invited.

Classifieds

FOR RENT

Housesitters wanted to share country estate. Private suite; share kitchen. Mature couple (fac./staff) preferred. Waterfront, outdoor space. 30 minutes from campus. $250 per month plus util. & deposit. Contact Dr. Cole, Chanc. 120 or 229-7883. 1/23

In Richmond, share my comfortable, furnished home while I go to school in Williamsburg. Near Byrd Park. $250, some utilities. Inquire evenings, 353-0859.

FOR SALE

80 VW Rabbit diesel; 96,000 miles; 40 mpg.; $1700. Call 229-8241 after 5 p.m.

MISC

Spend a wonderful vacation (end of May to beginning of June) in sunny Greece this spring. Visit several historical sites on a 4-day guided classical tour and enjoy Athens and picturesque Greek islands including Crete and Rhodes. Total cost: $1450. Details, call Julia Ruzbecki after 6 p.m., 229-7886.

He makes all the rounds

Norman D. Vick is probably one of the most visible and least known employees of the College, regularly making his daily (and Saturday morning) rounds as a clerk messenger for the campus post office. Yet he is a man of great energy and diverse interests who may just have discovered the secret of the 25-hour day.

When he's not on the job at the College, he devotes a good share of his free time to his other job as pastor of the Beulah African Methodist Episcopal Church in Farmville. His wife, Mary P. Vick, is employed as a clerk typist in the Registrar's office at William and Mary, and is also active in the church.

After receiving his bachelor's degree in sociology from Norfolk State College in 1972, Norman has continued his studies in addition to the other jobs, and has taken graduate courses at William and Mary in both sociology and anthropology.

His concern for and dedication to education extends to the family's two young children, Kimberly, age 5, and Dwight, age 8, who attend day school at the Hampton University lab school. Vick feels that his children should have the best possible education, and even though the extra costs are heavy for them, he and his wife believe education is worth the investment.

Norman began working for the College three years ago after being an insurance broker in Virginia and North Carolina.

Campus Spotlight

He says he wishes the College family could take the time to see and understand the complex daily routines of the campus post office, and the pressures of the heavy workload on a relatively small staff. There are seven regular employees in the cramped office, plus some part-time student helpers. Their boss, mail room supervisor Robert J. Canaday, is a longtime employee of the College who directs the six-day-a-week operation. Despite the seeming chaos inside the office, thousands of pieces of outgoing and incoming mail are handled each day, much of it cumbersome.

Roger A. Higgs dies

Roger A. Higgs, 55, of Williamsburg died Dec. 30. He was employed at the computer center of the College from the time of its origin in 1966 until he retired. He served as president of the Hampton Roads chapter of the Data Processing Management Association and the Virginia Association of Educational Systems.

He was a retired member of the U.S. Naval Reserve, and a member of Walnut Hills Baptist Church, where he served as deacon, Sunday School teacher, and a member of the choir. Survivors include his wife, three sons, Bryan, Warren and Andrew Higgs; a brother, two sisters, his father, and two grandchildren.

Memorials in his memory may be sent to Walnut Hills Baptist Church, or to The Navigators, P.O. Box 6000, Colorado Springs, Colo., 80934.

Norman D. Vick

some bulk material like magazines, newspapers, and packages. The volume also regularly includes a large amount of important first class, certified, and registered mail like tuition checks and admissions documents that require careful handling.

In his regular rounds to all campus offices and to the Williamsburg Post Office, Norman brings a cheerful wit, an active interest in politics, and a readiness to give an opinion on almost any subject. He believes that campus customers need to appreciate the steady pressures that he and his co-workers face. In any case, his pastoral duties may provide just the kind of philosophical understanding and sensitivity that enable Norman Vick to carry out his vital job for the College.

-- C.M. Holloway

Publick Advices

Connoisseur Magazine for January has a nice piece in its "Private Line" section on William and Mary Theatre's prize actor, Don Reilly, a senior. The article congratulates him on his performance as Hamlet in last summer's Virginia Shakespeare Festival.

Among other things, the magazine says, "Most actors take so long to develop the stamina and emotional range for the part that we're forever having to settle for aging heavies apparently in the throes of midlife crisis. Reilly is the youngest Shakespeare meant Hamlet to be: brimming with vitality, romance, intelligence, and humor sharp with wicked ironies, brought smack against the conundrums of the world for the first time. Technically, too, Reilly has it all: a wonderfully expressive face, physical agility, a pleasing voice with flawless diction."

The column predicts that Don "is going places."

He already won a $2,500 scholarship at the American College Theatre Festival in 1982 and will enter again this year in April at Washington's Kennedy Center contest.

Good publicity for Don, the William and Mary theater program, and the College!