Tish Paschall takes new position

Elizabeth Winn (Tish) Paschall has been named assistant director of annual support in the Office of University Advancement. A graduate of the class of 1964, she is currently director of chapter programs for the Society of the Alumni. She will take over her new duties May 16.

She is in a master's program at the College, working on a degree in counseling from the School of Education.

She comes from a William and Mary family. Her brother, Philip D. Paschall '68 and JD '71, has two degrees from the College; her mother, Agnes Winn Paschall, is a graduate in the class of 1931, and her father, Dr. Davis Y. Paschall, the 23rd president of the College, is a 1932 graduate.

She says that "The opportunity to work in any area of the College presents an exciting challenge. The opportunity to work in the development office presents a special kind of challenge since its mission is to develop resources for other programs of the College. I expect this to be an enormous learning experience and a particularly gratifying one . . . It is truly a labor of love to serve the College and be able to share in developing its future."

She replaces Susan Ripple, who is now assistant director of student financial aid at the College.

have been named as Governor's Fellows, to work this summer with members of Governor Charles S. Robb's Cabinet or personal staff at the Capitol in Richmond.

Cunneen is a National Merit Scholar, and a member of Alpha chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, Alpha Lambda Delta and Phi Eta Sigma honor fraternities. She was co-captain of the field hockey team this year and is the winner of the Martha Barksdale Scholarship. She has a 3.8 grade point average and participated in the Honors Program as a sophomore and the English Honors Program for two years. For the past two years, she has worked as an assistant in the women's sports information office. She is a member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. She is an English major.

Walker is a member of Alpha Lambda Delta and Phi Eta Sigma honor fraternities, the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, and Pi Beta Phi sorority, where she serves as co-chairman of alumni relations. She is vice-president of Orchesis, the College's student dance organization, and has served as an orientation aide. She has a grade point average of 3.9, and is a member of Alpha chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. Her major is government.

The students will be in Richmond for two months at the state capital, to get first-hand experience in how government works.

Last year, three William and Mary students served as Governor's Fellows in the summer.

College support for student aid funding is getting under way

Employees of William and Mary are receiving pledge cards this week for the College-wide effort to raise money to improve student financial aid this year.

The program hopes to collect enough money and pledged payroll deductions, to fund several more grants to incoming graduate and undergraduate students in August. During the ten-day period which ends April 26, faculty and staff will be invited to contribute to the objective, which is unique in the history of the College. Employees have not been called upon before to give financial support to improve student financial aid, so this is a "first."

William and Mary falls $1.5 million short of meeting the demonstrated need of undergraduate students and 80 percent short of meeting the demonstrated need for graduate students, says Vinson H. Sutlive, Jr., chairman of the advisory committee on University Advancement.

The committee acted after a report of a Task Force on Student Financial Aid noted the low level of financial aid and pointed out that many topflight students are being lost to the College because there is not enough aid to offer them.

Even before the effort began on April 16, there had been $4,500 contributed by employees. Sutlive says. He is hoping that many employees will join the effort and show the community, students, alumni, and parents that those most closely connected to the College care about helping students.

Treasurer Kenneth Greene notes that "The Treasurer's staff certainly realizes the critical situation that has developed in the area of student financial aid. With the slowing down of private support, state support and federal cuts in place, and more cuts coming, students are finding it increasingly difficult to attend William and Mary.

"The Treasurer strongly supports the effort to raise funds for student financial aid, and I invite my staff and other administrators and their staff members to participate in this worthy cause."

Guggenheim goes to Mackey

Steven Mackey, assistant professor of music at the College, has been granted a Guggenheim Fellowship for 1985.

The young composer, completing his first year as a faculty member at the College, is one of 270 persons winning awards this year from the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation in New York. Fellowship awards totaled $5,408,000.

The Fellowships are awarded on the basis of demonstrated accomplishment in the past and strong promise for the future. Grantees include physicists, chemists, political scientists, philosophers, historians, anthropologists, artists, musicians and writers. Mackey is one of two composers chosen for the grants, which will cover a year's continuous work.

He plans to take a year off from teaching, and move to New York to compose during the next calendar year. The grant will enable him to compose a concerto for the Pro Arte Chamber Orchestra of Boston, a commission he had earlier received.

Most of the Guggenheim Fellows teach in American colleges and universities. The leading institutions with faculty members winning Fellowships are the University of California at Berkeley with 12, Yale University with 10, Harvard University with nine, and the University of Chicago, Columbia University, and Cornell University with eight each. In all, 99 institutions are represented by one or more Fellows.

During its history the Foundation has granted over $110 million in Fellowships.

Ash Lawn anniversary celebrated with exhibit

Ash Lawn-Highland near Charlottesville will celebrate the tenth anniversary of its ownership by the College of William and Mary with an exhibition on James Monroe that opens April 27 and runs through December 31.

The exhibition explores James Monroe as soldier, politician, diplomat and fifth president of the United States. It also investigates Monroe's private life as gentleman farmer, husband and father. Objects for this exhibition are drawn from numerous private collections and other museums as well as from Ash Lawn-Highland's own collection. Included in the exhibition are an exquisitely embroidered silk waistcoat of Monroe's which is one of two that were recent gifts to Ash Lawn; a portrait of Maria Hester, Monroe's younger daughter; books from Monroe's personal library; silver and china that were owned by the Monroe family; Monroe family jewelry; and personal objects of James Monroe as well as others that illustrate aspects of his public life.

In conjunction with this exhibition, Ash Lawn-Highland is sponsoring a lecture series which begins on April 28 with a lecture by Clement Conger. Conger is curator of the White House and of the diplomatic reception rooms of the Department of State. He will give a free slide/lecture presentation entitled, "The White House and Its Collection," at 2 p.m. at the University of Virginia's Ruffner Hall auditorium on Emmet Street. On Sunday, May 12, at 2 p.m. at Ash Lawn-Highland, D. Alan Williams, associate professor of history at the University of Virginia, will present the second lecture of the series, entitled "Monroe's Virginia." Three other lectures are scheduled for the fall.

Newsmakers

Anne Netick has been named an associate of the 1984 Illinois Summer Research Laboratory on Russia and Eastern Europe at the University of Illinois in Urbana, Ill. There her research will focus on contemporary Soviet village writers. Earlier in the academic year Dr. Netick chaired a panel on Russian drama at the national meeting of the American Association of Teachers of Slavic and East European Languages in Washington, D.C. (December 1984). Most recently she presented a paper on the well-known Bolshevik feminist, Allexandra Kollontai, at the Foreign Language Association of Virginia convention that met at William and Mary on March 22-23. At the Foreign Language Association of Virginia convention Dr. Netick was elected president of the Virginia chapter of the American Association of Slavic and East European Languages.

John H. Oakley, department of classical studies, presented a paper, "Birth from the Earth: An Old Time Love Affair," in Richmond on March 29 at the Symposium on Ancient Art in the Virginia Museum. His review of M. Thompson's Alexander's Drachm Mints, I: Sardes and Miletus has recently appeared in The Classical World 78 (1984) 138-39. Professor Oakley has also just received a grant-in-aid from the American Council of Learned Societies for his work this summer on "Public Dining Pottery from Classical Athens," and he has been elected to the Board of the Alumni Society of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens.

The William and Mary American Studies Program was well represented at the biennial conference of the South-eastern American Studies Association held at Chapel Hill, March 28-30. The conference theme was "Ritual in the United States: Acts and Representations." Two graduate students presented papers: Tonia Horton, "The Freedom of a Broken Law"; Nathaniel Hawthorne's Pearl as Child Outcast" and Amy Matthews, "An Insider's View of the Rose Parade." Robert Scholnick, program director, gave a paper on "Appletons' Journal and Images of Female Leisure in America, 1869-1880."

Marsha V. Krotseng, doctoral candidate in higher education, was an invited guest at a conference on "Governors and Higher Education" held March 24-26 at the Wingspread Center in Racine, Wisc.

Orchestra prepares for spring concert

The William and Mary College/Community Orchestra will present its annual spring concert at 8:15 p.m., Tuesday, April 23, in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. The orchestra will be under the direction of Joel Eric Subin, associate professor of music at the College.

Admission is $2 at the door, and the public is invited.

On the concert program will be the Gustave Mahler arrangement of a suite by J.S. Bach; three pieces from Hector Berlioz' "Damnation of Faust," the Prelude to Tristan and Isolde by Richard Wagner; and Variations on a Theme by Haydn, by Johannes Brahms.

Also on the program will be Antonio Vivaldi's "Spring Concerto," with violin soloist Raelene Canuel, a sophomore from Alexandria. Ms. Canuel was the winner last fall of the College Orchestra's Concerto Competition, and as such won the right to be featured soloist in two college/community orchestra concerts this year. Her first appearance was with the orchestra's March 16 concert in Alexandria.

On March 15, Anne M. Pratt, assistant to the vice president for university advancement, participated by invitation in a focused dialogue on the curriculum of higher education. This exchange among curriculum researchers was part of the annual meeting of the Association for the Study of Higher Education in Chicago. Also in Chicago on March 31, Dr. Pratt presented a paper entitled "Research on Academic Programs" with Clifford Conrad at the American Educational Research Association's annual meeting. In the paper, Pratt and Conrad combined an extensive review of the literature on higher education curricula with suggestions for broad-based perspectives drawn from other academic disciplines.

Margaret Freeman, associate professor of music, has accepted an appointment to a nine-member national review panel for the College Board Scholastic Aptitude Test-Verbal. This test, used by William and Mary in its admissions process, is one of several administered by Educational Testing Service for which Ms. Freeman has contributed sets of items in the last few years. From 1975-77, she served as chairman of the College Board English Composition Test Committee.

William J. Hargis, Jr., professor of marine science, was invited to present a paper entitled "Quantitative Effects of Marine Diseases on Fish and Shellfish Populations" at a special symposium,

The Role of Diseases in Marine Fisheries Management sponsored by the National Marine Fisheries Service, National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration at the 150th North American Wildlife and Natural Resources Conference in Washington, D.C., in March.

Robert J. Orth, associate professor of marine science, was invited by the Harbor Branch Foundation in Fort Pierce, Fla., to present two seminars entitled, "Replenishment of Seagrasses, Fact or Fiction?" and "Role and Value of Shallow Water Habitats for Blue Crabs in Chesapeake Bay" on March 28-29.

Louis E. Catron, professor of theatre, is author of an article appearing in the March issue of Dramatics. Titled "The Pre-Audition Check List," the essay is a chapter from a longer work-in-progress involving techniques of stage direction, a textbook he is writing.

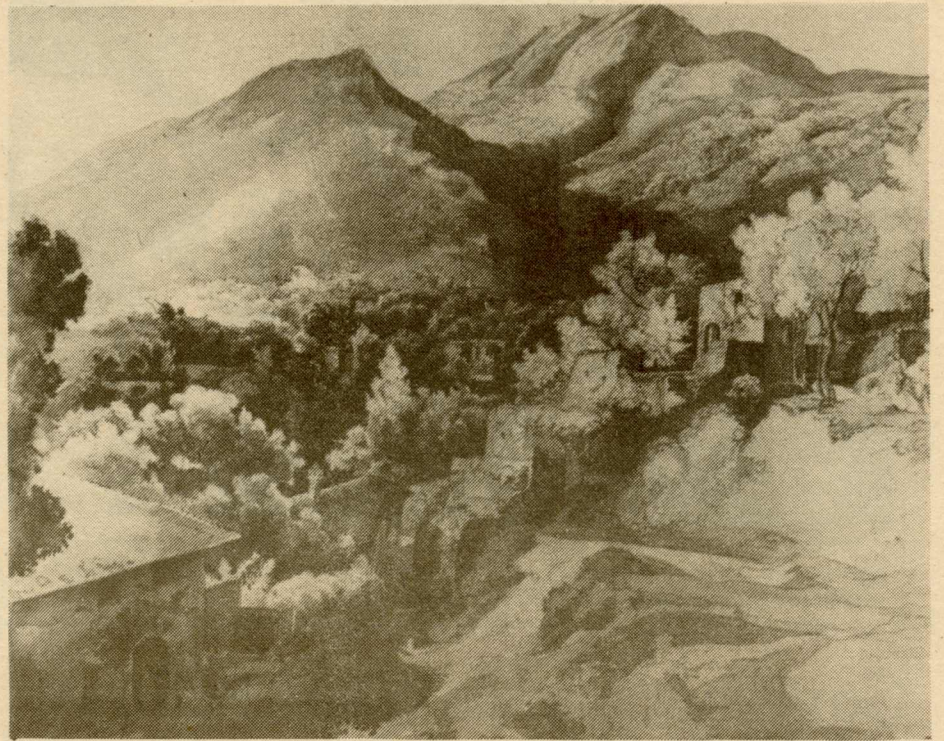

The many facets of the College's botany program have been featured in recent articles written by Martin C. Mathes, professor of biology. Classroom and research activities were reported and involvement in ancillary activities was documented in articles appearing in the Virginia Journal of Science and the current issue of The Biologist.

THOMPSON LECTURE

Composer, music critic and author Virgil Thomson will visit William and Mary Friday, April 19, for a lecture entitled "About Opera: Words as Music, and Character as Action," at 3 p.m., in room 100 of Ewell Hall. The lecture, which is free and open to the public, is sponsored by the College's Department of Music and Festival Williamsburg.

Thomson, 88, has written three operas, three symphonies, three concertos, six suites, chamber music, a Requiem Mass, and many works for solo voice, piano, organ and other instruments.

He was the music critic of the New York Herald Tribune from 1940-54, and won a Pulitzer Prize in 1949. He has honorary doctorates from Harvard, Johns Hopkins and Columbia Universities.

This painting is by a German artist, and will be seen in the Muscarelle Museum exhibition opening April 24.

German drawings next for Muscarelle exhibit

Nineteenth-century German drawings from the collection of Frederick and Lucy S. Herman of Norfolk will be on exhibition Wednesday, April 24, through Monday, June 3, in the Spigel Gallery of the Muscarelle Museum of Art.

The drawings were selected from the Hermans' extensive collection, begun in the 1940s by the two William and Mary alumni, who are also major benefactors of the Museum. The Spigel Gallery is named for Mrs. Herman's parents.

The artworks are of three types: studies of narrative themes, genre scenes of social realism, and landscapes, all completed by prominent 19th-century German artists who are still little known in this country. The drawings were inspired by a strongly felt nationalism, a delight in the pleasures of daily life, and a love of nature, well in advance of the German Expressionist movement of the early 20th century.

In his notes on the exhibition, Miles Chappell, professor of fine arts at William and Mary, points out that "drawing and drawings were fundamental for the German artist in his training and preparation for finished paintings."

The exhibition and the Muscarelle Museum are open daily to the public at no charge. Museum hours are 10 a.m. to 4:45 p.m., Monday through Friday; and noon to 4 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

Award is slated for Dean Spong

William B. Spong, Jr., dean of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law at the College and former U.S. Senator from Virginia, will receive the Virginia Chamber of Commerce's Distinguished Service Award for 1985. The award will be presented on Monday, April 29, at the Chamber's 61st annual banquet and 38th annual Congressional dinner, to be held at the Marriott Twin Bridges Hotel, Arlington.

Dean of the Marshall-Wythe School since 1976, Spong has announced his plans to retire in Sept. Spong served in the Virginia General Assembly from 1954 to 1956, and as U.S. Senator from 1967 to 1973. A native of Portsmouth, he is past president of the Virginia Bar Association, and recently served as chairman of Governor Robb's Commission on Virginia's Future.

Under his leadership, the law school has grown in size and in stature. In 1983 the law school was named one of the top 36 law schools in the nation in a USA TODAY survey. Last year the school was named one of the top 15 law schools based on education and tuition by the National Law Journal, a weekly newspaper of the legal profession.

The award will be presented to Spong by William F. Mohr, president of Beta Management, Ltd., Richmond, and chairman of the Virginia Chamber's 1985 Distinguished Service Award committee.

The primary criterion for the award is that the recipient be "truly outstanding in his or her contribution to the advancement of the entire Commonwealth." It is the Virginia Chamber's highest award.

Health enrollment period designated

The Open Enrollment Period for the Blue Cross/Blue Shield Health Care Plan is April 22-May 17, for eligible employees, according to Personnel. During this period, employees may elect additional coverage for family members which will be effective July 1. Unless there are extenuating circumstances, employees will not be eligible to enroll members of their families again until May, 1986.

There will be an increase in the monthly insurance premiums effective July 1. Employees will pay $52.52 per month for family coverage. If both spouses are state employees, the monthly premium will be $38.80. Employees with coverage on themselves only will not be charged.

On April 24, a BC/BS representative will conduct a meeting for employees on upcoming BC/BS changes. Representatives will also be present to discuss the various health maintenance organizations (HMO) available to employees. This meeting will be held at 1:30 p.m. in the Little Theater of the Campus Center.

The Physics Colloquium will sponsor a talk by R.E. Norbert of Washington University in St. Louis at 4 p.m., Friday, April 19, in Small Physical Laboratory. Mr. Norbert's topic will be "Molecular Hydrogen in Amorphous Semiconductors."

Green keeps things moving

Julius Green

Campus Spotlight

Julius Green, superintendent for support services and agency fleet manager at William and Mary, is a military man. He spent 23 years in the U.S. Army and retired as a Chief Warrant Officer in marine engineering, so he has the look and the bearing of a longtime military man. He came to the College from Fort Eustis, in a transition program, and has been here for more than 11 years. His primary duties and responsibilities encompass housekeeping custodial services; all modes of transportation services; moving, hauling and storage for college and state property; and supervising various small contracts.

He likes his job.

"I've always had responsibility," he says. "It's no different here at the College. Dealing with people is what I like."

His office is in the Buildings and Grounds structure. A typical military person, he is fair — firm but pleasant — and when he gives orders he expects them to be carried out. He believes in the "duty day," or hard work during the allotted hours.

Among the big moves he has coordinated at the College are the shift of the Marshall-Wythe Law School into its new quarters; the moving of the English department into Tucker Hall; the move of the School of Business into Chancellors Hall; and the rearrangement of Jones Hall for the School of Education. He keeps full-time temporary help on the rolls for the big moves, he says, so they are on call when something comes up.

A big man with a big presence, he says, "The majority of people around here know me, because I have Property Control; the majority of people are aware of my being here and my ability to get things done in orderly and timely fashion."

Since December 13, 1984, he has been Illustrious Potentate of Zem Temple 122

in Hampton, with the responsibility of providing Shrine leadership for about 170 members of the temple. Long active in Shrine work, he has been past master of Eastern Star Lodge 13, past high priest of Queen of Sheba chapter 15 and member of the United Supreme Council. He is a life member of Phi Beta Sigma graduate fraternity, a member of the Virginia Peninsula chapter of the Retired Officers Association, the Disabled American Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

He is a native of Allendale, S.C., where his parents still reside. A B.A. graduate of St. Leo College, he had a double major in resources administration and criminology.

He went to U.S. Army Diving School in 1955 and traveled up through the divers' rating, starting with scuba, then second class, first class and, finally, master diving. He was one of the senior master divers instructing students at the U.S. Army Diving School, Fort Eustis, when he retired. He also held a marine certificate as chief engineer of coastal vessels and assistant engineer of unlimited vessels.

He and his wife, the former Lottie Cave, bought property in Denbigh in 1964 and built their house in 1965. It is still home, although Mrs. Green died last year.

McCully Award won by Stephanos

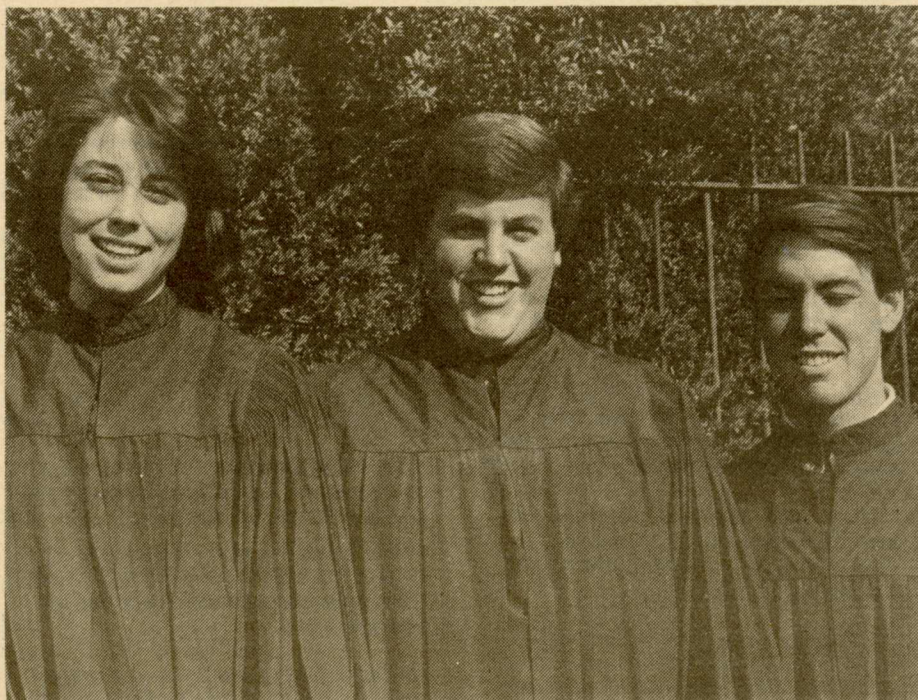

Angela Stephanos, a senior English major from Norfolk, has been awarded the first Cecil M. McCulley Humanities Award. This award, established by the Alpha of Virginia Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa to honor the late Professor McCulley, a longtime member of the William and Mary English department and drama critic for the Virginia Gazette, goes annually to a graduating senior who has demonstrated dedication and excellence in any area of the humanities. The Alpha Chapter believes that Ms. Stephanos' outstanding work in Professor McCulley's own department makes her an especially appropriate recipient for the initial award.

Ms. Stephanos will receive her award at Phi Beta Kappa's spring celebration on May 10.

FACULTY CLUB

The Faculty Club of the College of William and Mary will hold its last social event of the year at Trinkle Hall on Friday, April 26. The party will begin at 5:30 p.m. and will continue until about 7:30 p.m. The Board of Visitors will be the club's guests.

The fee for this final party is $4 for members, $7 for non-members.

Spring concert is scheduled

The William and Mary Chorus and Choir, under the direction of Frank T. Lendrim, professor of music, will present its spring concert Friday and Saturday, April 19 and 20, at 8:15 p.m., in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. Tickets are $2 and are available in advance at the music department office and the campus center desk or at the box office on the nights of the concert.

The chorus will perform Johann Adolf Hasse's Miserere, several Scottish folk songs and Randall Thompson's Rosemary. Soloists for the Miserere will be Carol Moore, Alicia Locheed, Mary Jane Lombardo, Virginia Groves, and Robin Warvari. Featured accompanists for this work will be Raelene Canuel and Charlene Reese on violin, Margaret Bambery on viola, and Bradley Staubes on cello.

Anybody out there want to spend four or five weeks in England this summer and save a wad?

A British gentleman coming to Williamsburg in June and July would like to swap apartments and autos, if it can be arranged. He has a one-bedroom apartment with modern conveniences at Wembley, Middlesex, close to London. Call assistant soccer coach John Daly at 253-4145 if interested.

A group of 14 William and Mary students took time off from academia to go to New York City and help renovate a tenement for the poor recently. The building was purchased by Habitat for Humanity, and will eventually contain 19 apartments that will be sold to neighborhood families at cost, through interest-free loans provided by Habitat. The young people spent their spring holidays hauling out debris, hammering and sawing. They were part of a Baptist Student Union group working on the project. Former President Jimmy Carter and his wife, Rosalynn, earlier had come from their church in Plains, Ga., to offer their aid in fixing up the building.

Faculty and employee families are invited to use the Discover computer in Career Planning, Morton 140, during the summer months, according to Harriet E. Reid, director of Career Planning. The computer analyzes skills, abilities and interests and matches them with careers, university majors, etc. It can be used beneficially by high school students to choose the right college for their interests, too, and to select compatible courses of study. Present college students may tap into the computer's storehouse of knowledge to pick a graduate school, she says. Appointments to use Discover can be made by telephoning ext. 4427.

George W. Grayson of the government department will discuss "How to pass the oral examination for gaining entry into the Foreign Service of the U.S. State Department." Grayson's informal talk will be presented at 4 p.m., Monday, April 22, in 40 Morton Hall. Students who have already passed the written examination, or those who intend to take the written examination next Dec., are invited to attend.

The College of William and Mary has announced writing prizes for student literary work. Deadline is Wednesday, April 24.

There will be competition for the following awards: the Gronowy Owen Prize for the best poem written by a student; the Glenwood Clark Prize for the best piece of fiction; the Howard Scammon Prize for the best play, and the Venerable Tiberius Gracchus Jones Literary Prize for the best entry of any sort, which may be the same as the winner of one of the other awards, or may belong to any other type, such as an essay, oration, biography, history, personal experience, or parody.

Each prize consists of $50 and a certificate, and students may submit one or several entries. All material should be turned in to the Department of English, room 102, Tucker Hall, by April 24.

Brian Alleva plans recital

Brian J. Alleva, a senior from Fairfax, Va., will present a piano recital at 4 p.m., Saturday, April 20, in the Williamsburg Regional Library Auditorium. The recital is free and open to the public.

Brian, a student of music lecturer Christine Williams, will perform J.S. Bach's Toccata in D Major, Beethoven's Sonata No. 5, and Rhapsody in B Minor by Johannes Brahms.

He is a computer science major and a member of the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity. After graduation he plans to pursue a career in computer programming.

Brian is the son of Dr. and Mrs. John J. Alleva of Fairfax.

Music Festival set for weekend

The Sir Christopher Wren Building at the College of William and Mary will be the setting Sunday, April 21, for a series of afternoon concerts as part of the upcoming "Festival Williamsburg."

Performances are scheduled for noon, 1:30 and 3 p.m. and the public is invited.

Tickets to each concert are $5, available at the Festival Williamsburg office in the Central Fidelity Bank Building on Richmond Road, or by calling 253-0036.

The Parents Steering Committee met last weekend and allocated $1500 to improve the appearance of the Atrium in Trinkle Hall, through the use of plants. Ficus, selloums, and assorted plants make the sunlit room a greenery.

Moot Court wins competition

The Marshall-Wythe School of Law Moot Court team, composed of Rob Acosta-Lewis and Mark Allen, both of Williamsburg, and Scott Sheets of Chesapeake, Ohio, won first place in the Irving R. Kaufman Securities Law Moot Court Competition held March 25-27 in New York City. A second team composed of Jeff Barnes, Tazewell, Va.; Jim Hoffman, Williamsburg; and Jerry Kilgore, Gate City, Va., competed well until reaching the semi-finals where they lost their match by only a fraction of a point.

Judges for the early rounds included attorneys from the New York area. The final round, however, was heard by sitting judges in New York. The Chief Justice for the final round was Thomas J. Meskill, judge for the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit.

In addition to winning the overall competition, the team also received the award for Best Brief. Rob Acosta-Lewis was named Second Best Oralist and Jeff Barnes was selected Third Best Oralist.

S.A. NOTES

There will be a trip to Waterside at Norfolk, with optional stop at the Chrysler Museum on Saturday, April 20. The bus will leave PBK at 10 a.m. and return at 6 p.m. Tickets are $5 each, available in the S.A. Office until April 19. The trip also includes a stop at the Norfolk Botanical Gardens for the annual Azalea Festival.
