Law, Business conferences head calendar

Some of the nation's leading constitutional scholars will meet to discuss the issue of separation of religion and government at a "Religion and the State" symposium Friday and Saturday, April 4 and 5.

The symposium, sponsored by the Marshall-Wythe School of Law's Institute of Bill of Rights Law, will address the United States Supreme Court's approach to both the "establishment" and "free exercise" clauses of the First Amendment, according to Gene R. Nichol, professor of law and director of the institute. (The First Amendment, in part, states that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof.")

Among the featured speakers for the conference is Rex E. Lee, former United States Solicitor General, who will address the group at a Friday luncheon on what he sees as problems with the Supreme Court's current approach to the Establishment clause. As Solicitor General from 1981 to 1985, Lee argued dozens of cases representing the U.S. government before the Supreme Court.

At a session Friday morning, University of Chicago Law School professor Philip B. Kurland will lead a discussion of current Supreme Court interpretations of the religion clauses and how they fit the intention of those who wrote and ratified the First Amendment in 1791. Kurland, a law clerk for Justice Felix Frankfurter in 1945-46, has been cited in numerous Supreme Court opinions as an authority on First Amendment issues.

Friday afternoon's session will be led by Jesse H. Choper, dean of the University of California - Berkeley Law School, who will discuss what he sees as problems with the Supreme Court's approach to the Free Exercise clause.

Marriott Corp. to feed campus

The College has reached an agreement with the Marriott Corporation for the delivery of food services at all dining facilities on campus.

University officials have signed a letter of intent to contract with Marriott beginning May 15, replacing its current food service vendor, Shamrock, Inc. The contract with Marriott will be for three years, with a two-year renewable provision.

President Paul R. Verkuil said Marriott was chosen on the basis of its ability to deliver high quality in food service at a cost that will not exceed current levels. He said it is likely that the board fee paid by students on the meal plan will not be increased next year.

Verkuil also said Marriott had indicated its intent to retain the current 87 non-management food service em-

Blackstone window at Marshall-Wythe School of Law.

The School of Business Administration is bringing four business leaders to campus for a public panel discussion on the "Three R's of Management -- Restructuring, Reorganizing and Recovering," at the 1986 Executive Forum, from 9 a.m. to noon, Friday, April 4, in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

The public is invited to the session featuring: Frederick M. Dawson, chairman, president and chief executive officer of Beneficial Insurance Group, Inc., of Peapack, N.J.; Lewis L. Glucksman, chairman of Glucksman and Company, a private investment banking firm; William W. Granger Jr., chairman and chief executive officer of Beatrice Companies, Inc., of Chicago; and John James Jerome, an attorney with the law firm of Milbank, Tweed, Hadley & McCloy of New York.

Glucksman, a William and Mary alumnus and member of the Board of Visitors, founded Glucksman and Company in mid-1985. The firm is dedicated to seeking out and working with companies in special situations such as: those in need of refinancing and/or non-judicial reorganization; those involved in judicial reorganizations; companies in which an unusual development is taking place; problem loans; corporate divestitures; and management buyouts, among others.

Toppin lecture set April 8

Edgar Toppin, 1985 James Pinckney Harrison Professor of History at the College, will present "Myths in Black History," at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, April 8 in Morton Hall 20.

The program is sponsored by the Graduate Student Association, the History Graduate Student Association and the Office for Minority Affairs. A reception will follow.

Master plan, tenure, promotions on board agenda

In meetings Thursday and Friday, Board of Visitors detailed the scope of the College Master Plan proposal it had discussed earlier and set a deadline of noon, Friday, March 28, for bids.

Bids will go to Andrew B. Fogarty, vice president for administration and finance. Vendor selection and contract award will be made as soon as practicable thereafter.

The firm that wins the bid is expected to make a formal presentation of the final plan to the Building and Grounds Committee of the Board. A target date of Oct. 24 has been set for the presentation.

In personnel matters, the Board approved tenure for the following faculty members: Lynda L. Butler, associate professor of law (effective Aug. 16); and Joanne M. Braxton, assistant professor of English; Gene R. Nichol Jr., professor of law; John H. Oakley, assistant professor of classical studies; and Michael J. Rohrbaugh, associate professor of psychology (effective Aug. 16, 1987).

Faculty promotions included the following: associate professor to professor: Herbert M. Austin, School of Marine Science, effective July 1; Gene M. Silberhorn, School of Marine Science, effective July 1; and Ahmed S. Zaki, School of Business Administration, effective Aug. 16. Assistant professor to associate professor: B. Glen George and I. Trotter Hardy, both Marshall-Wythe School of Law, both effective Aug. 16.

Gene R. Nichol Jr., professor of law, Marshall-Wythe School of Law, has been named Cutler Professor of Constitutional Law, effective Aug. 16.

Leaves of absence were approved for the following faculty members: Joanne M. Braxton, assistant professor of En-

Former hostage Levin to speak April 9 in Morton Hall

Jerry Levin, a Cable News Network correspondent who was kidnapped and held hostage for 11 months by terrorists in Beirut, will speak to students at the College Wednesday, April 9, on "Broadcast Journalism: A Career Perspective and Internship Opportunities."

His appearance at 4 p.m. in Morton Hall, room 341, is part of the Career Speakers Series program sponsored by the College's Office of Career Planning.

In a career that spans more than 25 years, Levin has worked for a number of television stations as writer, producer, reporter, correspondent and news director. He joined CNN in 1981 as Washington, D.C., bureau chief, moving to Chicago as bureau chief and correspondent in 1982.

In 1983, Levin was appointed bureau chief of the Middle East bureau of CNN with headquarters in Beirut. He was kidnapped by Arab terrorists on March ployees. Marriott officials said a meeting with those employees will take place in the near future to explain the new arrangement.

"We have high hopes for the future of our relationship with Marriott," Verkuil said. "We are grateful for the eight years of service we received from Shamrock, but our programs and expectations have grown to the point where a new approach to food service seemed advisable."

The contract calls for Marriott to handle the university's student board plan, which currently involves about 2,700 students, as well as cash business in the campus center and catering of special events.

Verkuil said key factors in the selection of Marriott were the quality of its program, its corporate depth as a college food service provider, and the resources the company brings.

Marriott, one of the nation's largest college and university food service vendors, was one of seven bidders on the William and Mary contract, and one of four invited to the campus for extensive interviews with students, faculty and administrators, including the Food Service Advisory Council and an ad hoc committee of catering service users. According to Verkuil, Marriott was the clear choice of all groups involved in the decision. "The quality and scale of their operations impressed us very much," he said.

Marriott officials said they intend to make an immediate large-scale investment in renovations and improvements to the university's food service facilities, including a reconfiguration of the Colony Room and the Wigwam in the campus center.

7, 1984, while walking to work and was held hostage until his escape Feb. 14, 1985.

Levin, who is currently in charge of personnel affairs and the intern program at CNN's Washington bureau, will speak about his positions and work for the last five years with CNN, including his captivity and the hostage situation.

Boretz, Randall to visit April 3-8

Two eminent composer/theorists will make presentations on their recent musical interests and activities.

At 4 p.m., Thursday, April 3, Benjamin Boretz will speak on "Experiencing Music" in Ewell 17. At 4 p.m., Tuesday, April 8 in Ewell 17, James K. Randall will report on recent quasi-musical experimental behavior in Manville, N.J. He will also play tapes of recent improvisations.

Boretz and Randall have collaborated closely for many years, and their musical interests have shifted in similar ways. During the 1960s both were involved in intricately structured serial music and in the use of computer-generated sound to facilitate precise control of timbral and rhythmic aspects of their music. Both have gradually moved to a very different range of concerns - improvisation rather than strictly controlled composition; poetic and narrative descriptions of music rather than mathematical models of musical structure.

Boretz is professor of music at Bard College. For over 20 years he edited or co-edited the important journal Perspectives of New Music, where Boretz and Randall have published prolifically. Randall is professor of music at Princeton University.

In addition to their public lectures, Boretz and Randall will be visiting class meetings of Music 465 (Aesthetics of Music) at 11 a.m., April 3 and 8. There is room for a limited number of visitors to these class meetings.

For further information contact Fred Maus, ext. 4374 or 4375.

Pianist, violist in concert Friday

Niel Immelman, pianist, and Simon Rowland-Jones, violist will perform in concert at the Williamsburg Regional Library at 8 p.m., Friday, March 28. Tickets are $5 and are available at the door.

The program, based on a BBC radio concert given earlier this month in London, includes Brahms' "Sonata in E-flat, Op. 120, No. 2" and Kodaly's "Adagio." It also features the work of two turn-of-the-century English composers: the "Phantasy, Op. 4" by J. J. Dale and the "Sonata for Viola and Piano" by Arnold Bax.

Although both musicians have previously performed for Williamsburg audiences, this will be their first joint appearance in the area.

Immelman, who was born in South Africa, studied in London at the Royal College of Music where he won the highest award for piano playing, the Chappell Gold Medal. He has built a strong reputation as a concert pianist since his debut with the London Philharmonic Orchestra several years ago. He has toured throughout the world and has, since 1979, made performances in the U.S. a part of his annual concert schedule. Immelman continues to teach and is a professor of piano at the Royal College of Music.

Soon after Rowland-Jones made his London concert debut at the age of 20, he became one of the founding members of the internationally renowned Chilingirian Quartet. He is a composer, has appeared as a soloist with leading orchestras, and is a professor of viola and chamber music at the Royal Northern College of Music.

Board actions

English (Aug. 16-Dec. 31) to accept an ACLS Fellowship; Scott Donaldson, professor of English (Aug. 16-Dec. 31) for research; John H. Drew, associate professor of mathematics (Aug. 16-May 15, 1987) to accept an exchange visiting professorship at Oxford University; Margaret K. Schaefer, associate professor of mathematics (Aug. 16-Dec. 31) for research purposes; John VanHorn, associate professor of religion (1986-87 academic year) for research purposes; and Hans vonBaeyer, professor of physics (Aug. 15-Dec. 31) for research purposes.

The College will spend about $200,000 on telephones and new office and storage space at William and Mary Hall to consolidate the men's and women's athletic programs. At Adair gym, the women's facility, about $20,000 will be spent in improvements to offices and equipment to accommodate the move.

The Board heard a report through its Student Affairs Committee that problems with timely reporting of mid-year grades to students are being solved. New computing equipment in the Registrar's Office will facilitate the reporting of grades after the first semester next year, according to Dean of Student Affairs Sam Sadler.

The board heard reports on proposed Ph.D. programs in American studies and anthropology and on faculty research activities over the past year. A report received by the University Advancement Committee showed total fund-raising levels this year running 46 percent ahead of last year.

Advance gifts pass $11,000

Prior to the official kick-off of the Annual Faculty-Staff Campaign last week, a total of $11,313 in cash gifts and pledges had been committed for the effort. Contributors to last year's drive were given the opportunity to renew their support before the general College community received their appeal.

Advance contributors from faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences include Vinson Sutlive, Robert Black, Charlotte Mangum, Robert Orwoll, Alfred Armstrong, Martin Garrett, Frank Evans, Donald J. Baxter, Judith Ewell, George Grayson, Heather MacDonald, James Axtell, John Selby, Thad Tate, Craig Canning, John Drew, William Koziar, Alex Kalos, Alan Fuchs, Patricia Crowe, Cliff Gauthier, Christine Jackson, Carol Sherman, Shirley Roby, Herbert Friedman, Raymond Mann, David Aday, Wayne Kernodle, Bruce McConachie, Melvyn Schiavelli, Jim McCord, Kelly Shaver, Trevor Hill, Robert Barry, John McGlennon and Tom Finn.

Contributors from the School of Business Administration are Donald Messmer, John Quinn, William Geary, John Jamison and Frank Robeson. Richard Brooks, John Nagle, Robert Maidment, John Thelin and William Warren from the School of Education and Maurice P. Lynch, Michael Castagna, Willard Van Engel, John Boon, George C. Grant and Paul Gerdes from the School of Marine Science at VIMS have also donated money.

Students attending model UN in New York City

A student delegation from the College, representing France, is currently participating in the Model United Nations being held in New York City.

Over 150 colleges and universities are taking part in the 1986 National Model United Nations. The William and Mary delegation, consisting of 18 students, will be involved in the work of the following bodies of the United Nations: the Security Council, the General Assembly plenary first committee (political and security), second committee (economic and financial), Conference on Population, Peaceful Uses of Outer Space Committee, ad hoc committee on terrorism, economic and social council plenary, Human Rights Commission, Commission on Social Development, UN Environmental Programme, Conference on Security and Cooperation with Europe, Conference on Disarmament, General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade and the International Court of Justice.

Executive Forum

Granger, also a William and Mary alumnus, has worked for Beatrice since 1946. He assumed his current position as chairman and chief executive of the Fortune 500 company in August of this year. In 1984, Granger coordinated the merger of Esmark, Inc., with Beatrice.

Jerome is currently involved with the bankruptcy case of Manville Corp., the Denver-based building and forest products manufacturer being held liable to asbestos victims. Jerome represents the commercial creditors of the bankrupt company, including major banks such as Morgan Guaranty, Citicorp, and Bank of America.

Dawson joined Beneficial in 1980 as president and chief executive of Beneficial National Bank, formerly Peoples Bank and Trust Company, and as chairman of Beneficial National Bank (U.S.A.), formerly Peoples Credit Company. While in those positions, he was responsible for the reorganization and restaffing of both organizations and installation of new management systems throughout their subsidiaries. He assumed his current post in Jan. 1985.

In addition to their public panel presentation Friday, the executives will spend Thursday on campus talking to classes in the business school.
