Local writers are guest lecturers for Elderhostel program

Local writers with expertise in a variety of genres are serving as guest speakers for the Elderhostel sessions which began Monday.

Two week-long sessions are being held on campus this year. Marlene Davis, instructor in English, and Thomas Marshall, a music instructor for the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation, are serving as faculty for this year's sessions.

The art of writing and the music of Colonial Virginia are the main themes this year.

Mrs. Polly Longworth of Williamsburg who participated this spring as a reader in a tribute to Emily Dickinson, will discuss letter writing with Elderhostel participants. Scott Donaldson, professor of English, will talk on writing biographies. He is the author of books on Ernest Hemingway and F. Scott Fitzgerald.

Connie Wren from China, a graduate student in English, will talk about the art of essay writing. Mrs. Wren is author of an essay "The Beauty of My Mother," which will be published by the Christian Science Monitor.

Christine Sparks, a student of this year's writer-in-residence, Michael Mott, and a prizewinner in a writing contest held at Christopher Newport College, will talk on poetry. J. Paul Hudson, recently retired from the Jamestown

Foundation where he wrote several books including a children's book on Jamestown, will talk about historical research.

Wilford Kale, bureau chief for the Richmond Times Dispatch in Williamsburg, will lecture on journalism. Vivian Donaldson of Williamsburg, former writer for the Virginia Gazette, will talk about the process of getting fiction published.

Dean Spong to receive W&L degree

Washington and Lee University will bestow four honorary degrees during its undergraduate commencement on Thursday, June 5.

The honorary degree candidates are: Dr. Joseph L. Goldstein, recipient of the 1985 Nobel Prize in medicine and a 1962 graduate of Washington and Lee; Charles S. Robb, former governor of Virginia; Lynda Johnson Robb, founder of the Virginia Women's Cultural History Project; and William B. Spong Jr., professor of law, former U.S. Senator and former dean of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law.

Dean Spong, who will receive an honorary Doctor of Laws degree, attended Hampden-Sydney College from which he also received an LL.D. (honorary) degree. He holds an LL.B. degree from the University of Virginia. He was admitted to the Virginia Bar in 1947 and practiced law in Portsmouth until he was elected to the Virginia House of Delegates in 1954. Two years later he began a 10-year term in the Virginia Senate and later served a six-year term in the U.S. Senate.

In 1976 Spong became the Dudley Warner Woodbridge Professor of Law and dean of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law at the College of William and Mary. He retired from those posts in 1985.

Spong is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the Order of the Coif, Phi Alpha Delta and Phi Kappa Alpha. Next year he will teach a course at Washington and Lee on the subject of law and society with special attention to legal ethics.

Grads, law student chosen Governor's Fellows

Two 1986 government graduates, Kelly A. Doyle of Richmond and Richard J. Sullivan of Glenhead, N.Y., and Sheila Eileen Venable of Halifax, Va., a student at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, have been selected as Governor's Fellows to work in Richmond this summer.

Each year a small number of students are selected as Fellows to work directly with members of the governor's cabinet and personal staff.

A general orientation session, followed by a barbecue at the Governor's Mansion, was held Monday for the Fellows. Tuesday the Fellows got down to work in various offices.

Miss Doyle has been assigned to the staff of the governor's wife, Mrs. Jeannie Baliles. Miss Doyle was active in several aspects of campus life. She was chairperson of the Honor Council, a President's Aide, a member of Mortar Board and Pi Sigma Alpha political science honorary, and was a delegate to the second national Conference for Women Student Leaders and Women of Achievement. She has also been a swimming instructor and camp counselor for the St. Christopher's Summer Experience in Richmond.

Sullivan was president of Phi Eta Sigma political science honorary his senior year. He is also a member of Alpha Lambda Delta scholastic honorary and was a distinguished delegate at the model U.N. at Harvard in 1985 and at Yale in 1984. While an undergraduate, Sullivan also worked as a volunteer carpenter helping to winterize and repair homes of the poor in the Williamsburg area. He has been assigned to work with Gordon Morse, speechwriter for the governor.

Miss Venable will work in the office of Attorney General Mary Sue Terry. Miss Venable received an M.B.A. from Columbia University in 1980, an M.S. in textile chemistry from Florida State University in 1975 and a B.S. in home economics from Virginia State University, 1973.

She has been an intern with the U.S. Court of Claims and has worked for Dean Witter Reynolds and City Bank/CitiCorp, both in New York City. While in New York she taught special education classes in Harlem. She has also been a sponsor for Education Opportunity, a program to help children from low-income families.

W&M Fund ahead of last year

With four weeks remaining in the College's fiscal year, the 1985-86 William and Mary Annual Fund has exceeded its $1,250,000 goal by more than $100,000 and the totals are still climbing, Jacquelin Crebbs, director for annual support, reports.

As of June 1, the Annual Fund had received $1,352,000 in cash and was 64% ahead of last year's cash totals. Both alumni contributions and parent donations to the Fund had increased 67%, and Friends of the College had increased their giving by 27%. The constituent efforts have been chaired by Jim '59 and Dana '60 Brinkely, parents David and Shirley Armistead, and Friends chairman J. B. Hickman.

"This success is a tribute to the excellent leadership of the Hickmans, Armisteads and Brinkleys," said Melvyn Schiavelli, dean of the faculty of arts and sciences and provost-elect. An extended phoning program, using student callers, has been a key factor leading to the increased participation and the addition of multi-year commitments from alumni and current parents, says Crebbs. She adds, increased volunteer solicitations of major gifts have helped to broaden the base of four and five-figure gifts to the Fund. The largest gift received so far, which is over $100,000, is twice the amount of the largest gift received prior to this, says Crebbs.

The campaign's direct mail program has also received national recognition by the Council for Advancement and Support of Education. The college has received a silver award for its seasonal cards which cited portions of an address by the poet John Masefield.

NEWSMAKERS

Armand Galfo, professor of education, has been selected as one of 10 summer fellows who will take part in a two-week seminar on "Social and Ethical Uses of Computers." The seminar is one of two being conducted by the Central Virginia Faculty Consortium and is supported by a grant from the Ford Foundation.

John B. Delos, professor of physics, is one of nine distinguished scientists granted a visiting fellowship for 1986-87 by the Joint Institute for Laboratory Astrophysics (JILA) of the National Bureau of Standards and the University of Colorado. Visiting fellows, chosen for scholarly achievement and promise, demonstrated interest in the objectives of JILA and the recommendation of their peers, spend six to 12 months at the Institute pursuing advanced research in their fields. Delos is currently working on the theory of electron detachment and excited atoms in strong fields.

Norma Chandler, director of purchases and stores, and Patsy Morales, assistant director of purchases and stores, attended the April 23-25 meeting of the Virginia Association of Governmental Purchasing, which was held in Portsmouth, Va. At this meeting Mrs. Chandler was elected president of the 445-member association. The program, designed to assist purchasers for state agencies, including cities, counties, mental-health institutions and universities, featured sessions on stress management, legal aspects of the Virginia Public Procurement Act, the latest rules concerning the Fair Labor Standards Act and improving business writing skills.

Three papers were presented by members of the geology department at the annual meeting of the Virginia Academy of Science at James Madison University, May 15. M. Scott Harris, a geology major, and Gerald H. Johnson, professor of geology, spoke on "Prosomaris allenii," a giant walrus from the Yorktown Formation (Pliocene), Williamsburg, Va.

Ross A. Steenson, a geology major, presented "Stratigraphy and Depositional Environment of the Bon Air Gravel Southwest of Richmond, Va." Bruce K. Goodwin, professor of geology, collaborated with C. R. Berquist Jr. of the Virginia Division of Mineral Resources on "A Reconnaissance Study of Intrusive and Metavolcanic Rocks between the Southeastern Border of the Richmond Basin and the Petersburg Granite in the Easternmost Piedmont of Virginia."

William J. Hargis Jr., professor of marine science, has been appointed to the Fishery Management Study Panel by Anthony J. Calio, administrator of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, Department of Commerce, and elected chairman of the panel by the 10 members. The task of the panel is to study the National Fisheries Management System, which includes the National Marine Fisheries Services and eight Regional Fisheries Management councils. The panel has met frequently in Washington, D.C., since March, and a complete report is expected by late July.

Joseph G. Loesch, professor of marine science, received a $70,000 grant from the U.S. National Marine Fisheries Service to continue an ongoing study of the stock composition and year class strength of the anadromous Alosa species in Virginia waters.

Dennis A. Thoney, VIMS graduate student, has been awarded a six-month grant in the amount of $400 from the American Museum of Natural History to further his field research project "Do Spot (Leiostomus xanthurus) Produce a Humoral Immunological Response against Either Parasitic Copepods or Monogeneans?"

Ricardo Rosa, a recent VIMS graduate in ichthyology, was presented the "Von Ihering Award" for the best dissertation of the year at the annual meeting of the Brazilian Society of Zoology held in Cuiaba, Matta Grosso, Brazil.

Town&Gown to close with Roy Williams

The Town and Gown luncheon group will wind up its sessions for the 1985-86 school year Thursday at noon in the Campus Center ballroom. The speaker will be Roy Williams, assistant director of buildings and grounds. Williams is well known for his creative floral arrangements.

Reservations should be called in to Mary Dean, ext. 4331.

Speaker at the meeting last week was Grant Olson of Williamsburg who spoke on "The Scourge of Our Times" - terrorism.

Disclaiming any role as an expert in the field, Olson said he had studied terrorism at some length and had had some personal career experiences in the field.

"I urge everyone to approach the subject of international terrorism rationally and not emotionally," Olson told his audience. "Terrorism has been around for as long as man, and it is unlikely to ever totally disappear as long as there are groups of individuals who consider themselves disenfranchised and want attention."

"It is ironic," said Olson, "that our success in the post-World War II period in the containment of nuclear war and our success in containing conventional war have resulted in this development of limited warfare with which we are not yet able to cope."

But Olson was optimistic about the nation's ability to cope. "We are a nation of problem-solvers," he said, "but we must have patience. Most of the problems are not susceptible to a quick fix. They require perseverance and long-term commitment."

Olson also listed 10 ways to fight terrorism: crackdown on unsafe airports, tighten airport security, protect the terrorist targets, expand intelligence gathering, train for trouble, improve international cooperation, negotiate flexibly, attempt rescues, lean more heavily on the allies of terrorists and order selective reprisals.

Pact to widen bass stocking

An experimental program to stock striped bass in tidal waters of the Chesapeake will become bay-wide next year, with the May 23 signing of a cooperative agreement between the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Virginia Marine Resources Commission, the Virginia Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries, and the Virginia Institute of Marine Science.

The cooperative experimental program is designed to evaluate the potential of hatchery production and stocking to restore fully self-sustaining, migratory striped bass to the Chesapeake Bay, which has historically provided 90 percent of the east coast population between North Carolina and Canada. Chesapeake Bay stocks have declined to very low levels since 1973 and have shown little ability to rebound.

Perry Ellis '61 dies in N.Y.

Perry Ellis '61, internationally acclaimed fashion designer, died Friday, May 30 in a New York hospital of viral encephalitis at the age of 46. A native of Portsmouth, he earned a bachelor's degree in business from William and Mary and a graduate degree in business from New York University. He began his career in fashion as a buyer for Miller & Rhoads in Richmond. His multi-million-dollar business empire grew to include clothes for both men and women, furs, scarves, linens, towels, hosiery, shoes and perfume. A classmate of President Paul R. Verkuil, Ellis is remembered as a popular undergraduate.

In an interview with Daily Press reporter Jill Popish, President Verkuil said, "I would say that on campus, Perry was a very popular and well-liked person. He was vice president of the student body; he knew everybody. Obviously he had a vast talent which he put to extremely good use." President and Mrs. Verkuil had planned to visit Ellis this summer, and Ellis was expected on campus for his 25th reunion in November.

The response of the fashion industry to his death has been one of extreme sadness. He was re-elected president of the Council of Fashion Designers of America just before his death. A memorial service will be held Thursday, June 12 in New York at the Society for Ethical Culture, 2 East 64th Street. Internment was private.

Ellis' genius in design gained him every top award in his field, many times over, including the Coty Award (selected by the press), the Council of Fashion Designers of America award (voted by his peers) and the Neiman Marcus Award. In 1981 he was chosen to represent the United States in Tokyo at a showing of the best designers in the world called "The Best of Five."

Fashion writers who constantly monitored his career have included in their stories of his death the charm of the man apart from his talent.

Bernadine Morris of the New York Times wrote, "Perry Ellis' soft speech and gentle manner reflected his southern upbringing. . . . At the end of each show, he would usually have his design assistants, Patricia Pastor and Jed Krascella, come out and take a bow. Designing a collection, he said, was a group enterprise and he wanted to give them credit. It was one of the signs that he was a true southern gentleman."

Nina Hyde of the Washington Post quotes Ellis on his philosophy of life in a May 31 story. "There's more to life than buying a bag or a new dress. . . . I really try to put clothes in proper perspective. . . . All these people who have put their careers before love and health and friends must suffer from an emptiness that I just can't imagine. Clothes come pretty far down on my list of priorities."

"Perry had a very healthy effect on the fashion industry," said Grace Mirabella, editor-in-chief of Vogue magazine. He brought a spirit to the fashion world that hadn't been seen before."

Ellis had been ill for several months and was hospitalized immediately following the preview of his fall and winter collection, May 8. He had been in a coma for several days before his death.

He is survived by his mother. Ellis and Barbara Gallagher of Los Angeles had a daughter, Tyler Alexandra Gallagher Ellis of Los Angeles, who also survives.

The Perry Ellis design company will continue. "Perry's strength lay not only in the individual talent but in the way he counseled a wonderful group of young designers by his side," said Laurence C. Leeds, chairman of Manhattan Industries.

'Affair of the Heart'

The American Heart Association will present "An Affair of the Heart," 1-3 p.m., Sunday, June 22 at William and Mary Hall to raise money for programs and research to prevent heart disease.

Tickets are priced from $10 to $15 reserved seating and may be purchased now through Ticketron or the William and Mary Hall box office, ext. 4492. Tickets are tax deductible to the extent provided by law.

The event, an audience-participation, question-and-answer format show (Donahue-style), will feature stars from daytime and nighttime dramas including Guy Mack, Dr. Patrick O'Connor on ABC's "General Hospital"; Pat Petersen, Michael Fairgate on CBS's "Knots Landing"; Daniel Greene, Dwayne Cooley on CBS's "Falcon Crest"; Philip Brown, Neil Kittridge on ABC's "The Colbys"; Darnell Williams, Jesse Hubbard on ABC's "All My Children"; and Michael O'Leary, Rick Bauer on CBS's "Guiding Light."

A cocktail party attended by the actors will be held 7:30-9:30 p.m., Saturday, June 21, at the Hospitality House. Tickets for this event (limit 500) may be purchased for $25 from the William and Mary Hall box office.

Leach honored

Wilford Leach '49, has been awarded Broadway's 1985-86 Tony as Best Director of a Musical - "The Mystery of Edwin Drood."

Inventory Control

We are requesting your assistance to aid us in complying with state and federal regulations regarding inventory control. The most efficient means of accomplishing this is the use of our Equipment Transaction Form (ETF) whenever any piece of College property is moved from one location to another.

As you may know, we are required to maintain an accurate accounting of most equipment (e.g., calculators and other items subject to pilferage) and all property valued at more than $500. This is mandated by the state's new Fixed Asset Accounting and Control System (FAACS), which requires a room location for all such property. It is especially essential that we maintain up-to-date files, as we will be audited on a regular basis. The first such audit is likely to occur in 1986.

Although we are in the process of completing a campus-wide inventory to ensure that all property is appropriately tagged, any changes (additions, deletions or relocations - see note below) should be promptly reported on the ETF mentioned above. If you have inventory items that have not been appropriately tagged by our property control inventory staff please advise us (ext. 4979) and we will schedule an appointment at your convenience.

Your assistance is greatly appreciated.

Director of Purchases and Stores

Chesapeake feasts planned at VIMS

A series of seafood seminars, titled "Tastes of the Chesapeake" will be held during June at VIMS. Four evening seminars will take place at 6:45 p.m. in Watermen's Hall, June 4, 11, 18 and 26. One daytime seminar on stir-frying will be held 11 a.m.-1 p.m. on June 24.

The program, sponsored by the Virginia Sea Grant Program and VPI&SU, has been designed to provide information on the wide variety of seafood products available from Virginia waters and to learn first-hand from fine Virginia chefs how to prepare seafood. Wine specialists from Virginia wineries will discuss the compatibilities of wine and seafood.

Instructing chefs include Michael Sigler, Omni Hotel; Tom Austin and Richard Carr, Barrett's; Susan Painter, Ships Cabin; and Scott Burns, cooking specialist from Virginia Beach.

Fees for individual evening classes are $18, or the entire evening series for $60. The special day class fee is $12. Preregistration is required.

For more information and registration forms, contact Sue Gammisch, VIMS, Gloucester Point, VA 23062; or call 642-7169 or 722-3791.

Library acquires books for Nicholson Collection

In the last several weeks, Swem Library has acquired 11 rare books for its Nicholson Library - the reconstruction of the College's original library.

The project has been supported since its inception in 1967 by the Martha Todd Roberts Rare Book Fund established by the National Society Colonial Daughters of the Seventeenth Century. The reconstruction is based on a catalog left by Governor Francis Nicholson in 1695 and currently preserved at Fulham Palace, London, which identified those books left to the College.

The newly acquired volumes, located in England by an American rare book dealer, are chiefly religious in nature as would befit an institution training young men for the Anglican ministry.

The original library was developed solely by donations, the most munificent of which was that of Francis Nicholson, and its use was probably limited to the College masters. The first library, including the Nicholson gift, was destroyed by a fire in the Wren Building in 1705.

The Nicholson Library may be seen in the Virginia Room of Special Collections, Monday-Friday, 10 a.m.-4:45 p.m.

Museum exhibit features prints

The Muscarella Museum of Art is opening an exhibition of wood-block prints by Un'ichi Hiratsuka, June 14. The exhibit will remain in the museum most of the summer.

The 91-year-old artist, who has been designated a "national treasure" in his homeland of Japan, will be honored at a reception in mid-July. Hiratsuka has been very influential in printmaking and in art education and is founder of an art school in Japan.

The subjects of his work reflect various phases of his life and include temple scenes from Japan as well as landscapes in this country.

Fire damages W&M Hall roof

Damage ranging between $3,000 and $5,000 resulted from a fire Friday that broke out in the northwest corner of the roof of William and Mary Hall.

Both the Williamsburg and James City County fire departments answered the call around 5 p.m. The fire was brought under control about 6:30 p.m. Hall employees notified the Campus Police after smelling smoke in the building.

The fire, said James J. Connolly, director of facilities planning and construction, a department of buildings and grounds, broke out when roofing tar and other roofing materials became overheated and ignited. The roof of the building is being repaired by J. D. Miles and Company of Chesapeake, and the work was 95 percent completed at the time of the fire.

A state fire inspector was on the scene Friday and ruled out arson. Connolly said the range of the damage would not be accurately assessed until an inspection had been completed to determine whether there was any structural damage in the roof area.

Nebenzahl gift

The manuscripts and rare books department of Swem Library has recently acquired Lord Botetourt's copy of The Virtues of Cinnabar and Musk, Against the Bite of a Mad Dog, published in Birmingham in 1762.

The gift of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Nebenzahl of Chicago, this very rare first edition was subscribed to by Lord Botetourt and his name appears in ink on the title page.

In the 18th century, large, expensive books were frequently paid for by subscription, a sum of money advanced to the publisher by solicited people. The list of subscribers was usually printed with the text. The list of 171 subscribers to this work includes the name of Lord Botetourt.

Lord Botetourt, royal governor of the Virginia colony from 1768 to 1770, was much beloved by the colonists and formed a close association with the College. He served as rector of the Board of Visitors and established medals for scholastic excellence in classical learning and natural philosophy. He died in 1770 after a brief illness, and a statue erected to him by the colony now stands as the figurehead of Special Collections in Swem Library.

The book bearing Lord Botetourt's name is authored by Joseph Dalby, who cites cases of rabies being successfully treated by a combination of cinnabar (ore of mercury) and musk. The book was printed by John Baskerville, one of England's finest 18th-century printers.

This work is the only book formerly owned by Lord Botetourt now owned by Swem Library. It will become a part of the rare book collection.

CED moves

The Center for Executive Development is moving today to new, larger quarters in the Williamsburg Office Park on Jamestown Road

New mailing address for the center is 1317 Jamestown Road, Suite 104. Director Julie Leverenz says that the office will maintain its college phone and mail connections.

Staff members who will also be relocated include Shirley Ellis, Margaret Ward, Phyllis Ayers and Carla King.

POLICY ON EQUAL OPPORTUNITY AND AFFIRMATIVE ACTION IN EMPLOYMENT

The Board of Visitors of the College of William and Mary has consistently accepted the principle of equal opportunity and affirmative action in employment as outlined in executive orders promulgated by the Governor of the Commonwealth of Virginia in 1972, 1974, 1978 and 1982.

Governor Gerald L. Baliles issued Executive Order Number One on Jan. 1, 1986, which reaffirms the policy of the Commonwealth to assure equal employment opportunity for all state employees and for all applicants for state employment. The policy directs "appointing authorities and other management principals" to take affirmative measures consistent with administrative guidelines issued by the Director of the Department of Personnel and Training on behalf of the Governor, to emphasize the recruitment of racial minorities, women, disabled persons and older Virginians to serve at all levels of state government. The policy specifically prohibits employment discrimination on the basis of race, sex, color, national origin, religion, age, political affiliation or disability.

The provisions of the executive order do not permit or require the lowering of bona fide job requirements, performance standards or qualifications to give preference to any state employee or applicant for employment with the Commonwealth.

RESOLVED, The Board of Visitors of the College of William and Mary hereby voluntarily adopts the policy of equal opportunity and affirmative action in employment described in Governor Baliles' Executive Order Number One (86). This policy shall be applied to all categories of employment with the College, the Virginia Institute of Marine Science and Richard Bland College; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, The Board of Visitors of the College encourages any employee or applicant for employment who may allege a violation of this policy to contact the Office of Employee Relations and Affirmative Action at the College or the Office of Affirmative Action and Equal Employment Opportunity at Richard Bland College, as appropriate. Allegations of violations of this policy may also be brought to the attention of the Office of Equal Employment Services and Program Evaluations at the Virginia Department of Personnel and Training. No management principal or supervisor shall initiate or take retaliatory actions against any person who alleges a violation of this policy; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, The President of the College of William and Mary and the President of Richard Bland College shall be responsible for the effective implementation of this policy.
