United Way sets campus goal of $23,000

Adult Skills Program begins second decade

Adult illiteracy is currently getting primetime coverage from TV and the printed media. It brings a smile to Nan Cruikshank, director of the Rita Welsh Adult Skills Center on Campus. This is not a new issue for her; she's been working with the problem for the past 10 years.

The Center in the basement of Bryan Hall so far this fall has enrolled 120 students and each has an assigned tutor.

The ABC and PBS programs to alert the public to the need for programs to eliminate adult illiteracy has encouraged members of the community to call and offer their services. Twenty new tutors have been signed up as a result of the TV programs.

"We're reaping the benefits of the national programs. We've known about the illiteracy problem for some time, but no one has given us a whole lot of mind. We've been silent partners," says Cruikshank philosophically.

The Rita Welsh Adult Skills Center is a town-and-gown program in which the College and community participate as equal partners, with remarkable results. Initiated by the College to fill an observed need, the Center was funded by the College and a grant from the Department of Labor. When federal budgets were tightened the Center turned to the United Way for assistance.

Students at the center are, for the most part, employees from several large employers in the Williamsburg area and immigrants from Vietnam, Taiwan and Korea who want to learn English. Foreign students at the College are also helped by the tutorial program.

Some businesses provide tuition grants for employees who attend and others make donations to the center. These donations have provided such items as a computer, rugs and teaching materials. Donations are being used to establish a subsidized bookstore at the Center. Donations have also helped the Center acquire one of the finest collections of materials for basic adult education in the Tidewater area. It is often a point of reference for other programs in the area.

"The College," says Mrs. Cruikshank, "should be very proud of its part in the program. The College initiated the program, it provides a space for the program, one part-time teacher, one student assistant from the work study program and support for printing and mailing. We couldn't operate as we do without the College," she says, reflecting on the large sum of money that would be required to rent comparable space from a private landlord.

The curriculum guide, which was developed by Mrs. Cruikshank and Cheryl Pagan through a grant from the Department of Welfare, has become a model for adult basic education courses around the state. Numerically coded to the books and other teaching materials at the Center, it provides a step-by-step program for the tutor and student. As the student's notebook and the tutor's logbook are reviewed after each session with the student, Mary Lee and Gale Hood who coordinate the education program, can advise on the next step, based on the student's performance. Mrs. Cruikshank shares administrative duties with Mary Liz Sadler.

Wiseman heads campus drive

Lawrence L. Wiseman, professor of biology, is chairman of the 1986 United Way fund drive on campus.

Goal for William and Mary is $23,000, a 15 percent increase over last year's figure. Wiseman says his prime goal will be to reach 100 percent participation from the campus community.

Toward that end he is sending out individually addressed letters and pledge cards to all college employees. Anyone who does not receive information about the United Way is asked to call his office at ext. 4212.

The United Way provides funding for 19 organizations in the Williamsburg area including the American Red Cross, the Association for Retarded Citizens, Bacon Street, Big Brothers, Big Sisters, Boy Scouts of America, Girl Scouts, James City Volunteer Rescue Squad, King's Daughters, Catholic Family and Children's Service, Child Development Resources, Children's Home Society, Council for Children's Services, James City Volunteer Rescue Squad, King's Daughters, Meals on Wheels, Peninsula Consumer Credit Counseling Service, the Salvation Army, S.P.C.A., U.S.O. and the Williamsburg Task Force on Battered Women and Sexual Assault.

The United Fund assists several other organizations through grants including R.I.F., Adult Care Center, Fish, Housing Partnerships, R.S.V.P. and the Hospice of Williamsburg.

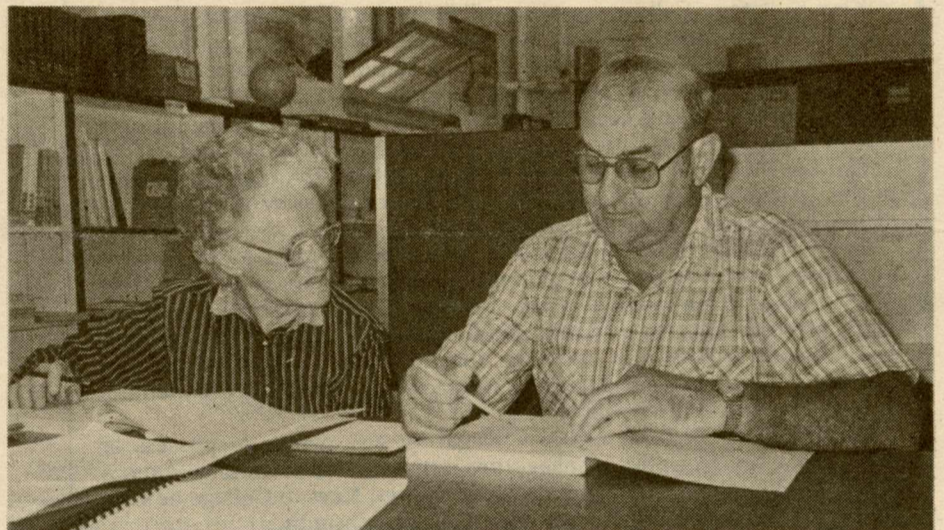

The College both shares in the benefits of the United Way organization and in many cases assists through volunteers in the day-to-day operation of many.

One of the most visible examples of how the College interacts with a United Way agency is the Rita Welsh Adult Skills Program, whose mission is currently getting help on a national scale from the ABC and PBS programs on adult illiteracy. The director of the program is Nan Cruikshank who is also chairman of the board of directors for the United Way of Greater Williamsburg.

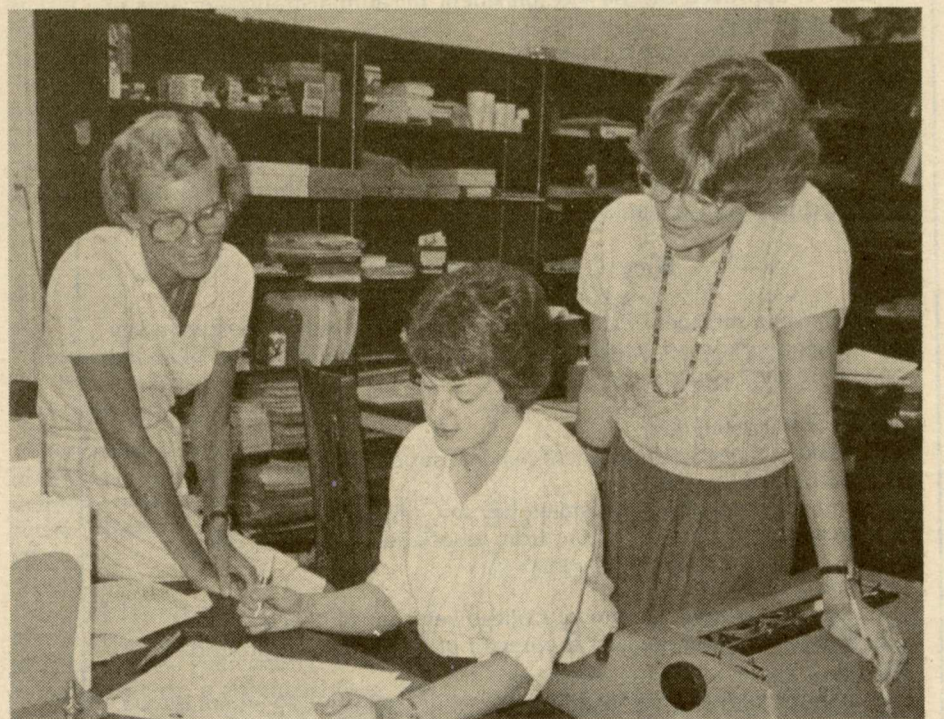

There are adult education programs in high schools and the successful one-on-one Laubach program offered by the Volunteers of America in homes and libraries. The Center in Bryan, however, offers the best of both, according to Mrs. Cruikshank. Students are offered an individualized program tailored to their needs plus the sense of belonging to a community through the classroom environment. There has been the view that adults want a sense of privacy as part of their education. Not so, Mrs. Cruikshank believes. Many are very proud that they can say they come to a class at the College. "Students like to have a sense of belonging," says Mrs. Cruik-

'Extremities' opens Theatre's second season

The William and Mary Theatre opens its "Second Season," with a student-directed presentation of the psycho-drama "Extremities," Sept. 25-28.

Performances will be given nightly at 8:15 p.m. in the studio theatre at Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. There is no admission charge. Seating is limited to 150 persons per performance.

"Extremities," currently a successful movie starring Farrah Fawcett, is being presented as a senior directorial project by Matthew I. DeLuca of Lloyd Neck, N.Y., a theatre major.

The play, which had a very successful off-Broadway run in 1983 before it was turned into a film, deals with a woman's revenge on her unsuccessful rapist.

"It is not a play for people who shut their eyes to moral issues," says DeLuca. It explores the psyche of a rapist and his victim." It is a play that contains wide swings of emotions, he adds.

The student cast includes Gordon Wachsmann of Mamaroneck, N.Y., as Raul the rapist; Linda Powell of Fort Myer, Va., as Majorie, his victim; and Kacey Camp of Yorktown, Va., and Laura Carson of Atlanta, Ga., as her roommates, Terry and Patricia.

DeLuca is both an actor and director.

He has played leading roles in several William and Mary Theatre productions including "Fade Out, Fade In," "Epicoene" and "The Robber Bridegroom." He directed "Sister Mary Ignatius Explains It All For You," last year. This summer DeLuca handled box office reservations and ticket sales and was house manager for the Virginia Shakespeare Festival.

When he came to college, DeLuca didn't envision a career in theatre; his parents anticipated that he would join the shipping business that has been in the family for two generations. DeLuca says his parents are very sympathetic to his plans to be an actor and he intends to try and break into the business in New York via soap operas, after graduation.

Key Control Policy

Keys to state or College property will be issued to the faculty, staff and students of the College only by department heads or higher authority.

Department heads should issue keys only to provide access to areas and property necessary to accomplish the assigned work of individuals. The issuance of keys that access the offices, work areas and storage areas of others when such areas are not routinely shared is to be avoided.

The issuance of keys to persons who are not faculty, staff or students at the College may be authorized only by the vice president for administrative services or higher authority.

Upon authority of the director of buildings and grounds or the director of facilities planning and engineering, keys may be issued to contractors of the College to the extent necessary for them to accomplish their assigned work. Nevertheless, the directors of buildings and grounds and of facilities planning and engineering shall take diligent care to provide appropriate security at such times and to inform contractors of Virginia law pertaining to keys that access state property.

Virginia Code 18.2-503 makes it illegal for any person to possess or duplicate a key to state or College property without permission from a person duly authorized to give such permission. Keys to College or state property may be duplicated only by a College locksmith.

Personal locks shall not be placed on any room or hallway door of College buildings. No lock to a room or hallway door within a building shall be changed to prevent access by the College building master key except when special security circumstances exist and only when such change is approved by the vice president for administrative services or higher authority.

Department heads are to maintain an accurate record of all keys issued, specifying what key was issued to whom.

Department heads shall also make a reasonable administrative effort to obtain the return of keys from people who end their affiliation with the College or when the need for the access no longer exists. When keys are not returned to the department head, the department head shall notify the director of campus police.

Key Control Procedure

Whenever a member of the College community needs to possess a key or change a lock in an academic or administrative building the following procedure shall apply:

Individual Requesting Key:

1. Make request to department head or supervisor.
2. Safeguard key issued.
3. Immediately report lost/stolen key to Campus Police.
4. Return key upon departure from association with the College.

Department Head or Supervisor:

1. Evaluate request in view of College key control policy.
2. Forward written request to director of buildings and grounds if approved.
3. Maintain a record of keys issued (location accessed, to whom issued, date of issue, date of return).
4. Reissue keys as appropriate under College policy.

Director of Buildings and Grounds:

1. Evaluate request.
2. Issue key or change lock in compliance with key control policy.
3. Forward request to the director of Campus Police.

Alert viewers spot W&M shirt in Moscow

Where did Nicholas Daniloff get his William and Mary sweatshirt? That's the question many on campus have been asking since Daniloff, the U.S. News and World Report newsman who is being held on spy charges in Moscow, appeared on CBS Saturday night news and again on the "Sunday Morning" show, sporting a gray William and Mary sweatshirt over his running shorts. Daniloff talked to reporters briefly as he set out to jog with an escort at the American Embassy in Moscow where he is currently residing, having won release from a KGB prison cell.

Calls to CBS-TV and his employer, U.S. News and World Report, revealed little. Spokespersons at both offices were sympathetic to the question but neither could shed much light on the subject.

Jim Kilpatrick at the magazine suggested that since most of Daniloff's clothes were probably packed in anticipation of leaving Russia (he had planned to leave and return to the U.S. when he was arrested and accused of spying, a charge he has vehemently denied), someone in the embassy loaned him the shirt. But Daniloff has visited Williamsburg, he added, suggesting that perhaps the shirt had come from Daniloff's closet.

The TV news segment, the CBS office in New York said, was transmitted via an international camera pool. To track down the exact unit was not a task anyone there thought practicable.

When Daniloff returns to the United States perhaps the identity of the good samaritan at the embassy in Moscow may be known, as well as any special bonds Daniloff may feel for William and Mary, even though he is an alumnus of Harvard and Oxford.

College Bowl

Teams are currently being formed for the College Bowl series, which begins Tuesday, Sept. 30.

Student teams of four and one alternate may sign up with Lisa Rogers in the Campus Center, ext. 4133. Members of the faculty will serve as moderators and judges. Questions posed are prepared by the College Bowl organization.

Campus teams will compete in half-hour sessions on Tuesdays and Thursdays, from 6 to 11 p.m., in the Campus Center Ballroom, Sept. 30, Oct. 2, 7 and 9.

Winners will go on to regional competition at the University of Tennessee in February.

PQ test

Students intending to take the 1986 Professional Qualification Test, the first step in qualifying for a career with the National Security Agency, are reminded that the deadline for registering is Oct. 10. The test will be administered Oct. 25.

Registration forms are available from the receptionist in Career Services, Morton 140.

Bowling league

The Office of Recreational Sports is organizing a mixed bowling league. An organizational meeting will be held at 6 p.m., Tuesday, Sept. 23, at the new Williamsburg Bowl (6044 Old Towne Road).

Two divisions will be established. One will include undergraduate students (22 years of age or younger for intercollegiate sanctioning), the other will be for graduate and law students, faculty, staff and all spouses.

Cost for participants will be $5.25 for three games plus league fees, which will be voted on at the organizational meeting.

No experience is necessary.
For more information contact the recreational sports office, Blow 4, ext. 4498.

Musicians needed

Musicians are needed for the orchestra of the rock musical "Hair," which will be performed by the William and Mary Theatre, Nov. 14-23.

Those interested are invited to call Leslie Muchmore, ext. 4377.

Study abroad programs

The Office of International Studies will sponsor several information sessions for students interested in studying abroad.

Donald Nunes, director of Higher Education in Europe (Great Britain) and former member of the English faculty, will speak Thursday, Oct. 2 at 7:30 p.m. at the Office of International Studies. Robert Douglas, University of St. Andrews (Scotland), will meet with students Friday, Oct. 3 at 2 p.m., Office of International Studies. On Monday, Oct. 20, Mr. Jeremy Medina will discuss the Hamilton College Academic Year in Spain at 3 p.m. in Campus Center, room C.

A study abroad informational meeting will be held Wednesday, Sept. 17 at 3:30 p.m. at the Office of International Studies. There will also be an informational meeting concerning the Rhoades, Marshall and Fulbright scholarships on Thursday, Sept. 18 at 4 p.m. at the Office of International Studies.

Applications are now available to graduating seniors interested in study abroad. Deadlines for all scholarships are in early October.

Additional informational meetings will be held at the Office of International Studies, Sept. 18, 24 and 25.

For more information, call ext. 4354.

Oct. 1 deadline

Students who missed the first deadline for Shared Experience internships have a second opportunity to sign up.

The deadline to apply for the nearly 25 openings available is Oct. 1. Job descriptions and applications are available in the Office of Career Services, Morton 140.

Shared Experience is an excellent way to explore career interests and make contacts in specific professional fields. Internships are on a voluntary basis and require 8-12 hours per week. Schedules are usually flexible.

Participants will be receiving practical on-the-job experience this semester from over 20 local internship positions.

Natalie Mahoney, coordinator of experiential programs, will provide assistance with resume writing for internships. She can be reached at ext. 4604.

Richard Bland homecoming

Richard Bland College graduates are expected to return in record numbers this fall for the Alumni Homecoming Picnic, Sunday, Sept. 21, according to Dennis Myers, alumni president.

Sponsored by the RBC Alumni Association, the picnic will feature lunch on the lawn near the gymnasium for alumni and their families, a brief business meeting of the Association to elect officers; plus sports events and games for adults and children. Over 2,000 invitations have been sent out to area alumni.

Conference Funds Board of Student Affairs

The Board of Student Affairs has established a conference fund for the 1986-87 year. The Finance Committee has established the following deadlines for the submission of requests:

- Sept. 30, for conferences scheduled between Oct. 1 and Jan. 31;
- Jan. 19, for conferences scheduled between Feb. 1 and April 14;
- March 20, for conferences scheduled between April 15 and Sept. 30.

Application forms are available from the Office of the Student Activities Accountant, Campus Center 207C.

The following priorities established by the Finance Committee remain in effect:

1. Students invited to speak or present papers at a conference.
2. Students who have submitted papers that have been accepted by a conference.
3. Students who are representing the College at a conference.
4. Students attending conferences for personal interest.

Questions concerning conference funding can be addressed to Ken Smith, associate dean of student affairs, Campus Center 203B, ext. 4557; or Anita Hamlin, student activities accountant, ext. 4299.

shank. "They want to feel just like everyone else. There is a lot of interaction between tutor and student. There's a lot of laughter here,"

Students have the opportunity learn with a private tutor in a classroom setting. The benefits to the student tutors and members of the community who volunteer their services are also important, says Mrs. Cruikshank. Community volunteers receive free parking stickers but beyond that, she says, they get a real sense of how appreciated their services are. Students from one of Don Lashinger's education courses in reading are assigned to help at the Center as part of their course requirements.

The Center has a Christmas party for students and each year there is a graduation ceremony at Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall where students receive certificates for passing their high school diploma equivalency tests or completing a number of study hours. They receive their diplomas from President Paul R. Verkuil. This recognition means a great deal, adds Mrs. Cruikshank.

The Center is named for the late Rita Welsh, a faculty wife and first co-director with Don Lashinger. The Center began in Morton and moved to Old Rogers (now Chancellors) hall before settling in at Bryan.

Those who would like to know more about the volunteer program at the Center are invited to call ext. 4644.
