Old Masters next show at Muscarelle

Over 100 French, Dutch and Flemish Old Master drawings dating from the 16th through 18th centuries, from the collection of John and Alice Steiner, will go on display at the Muscarelle Museum of Art beginning Feb. 28. This exhibit has been organized by the Santa Barbara Museum of Art.

The exhibit will remain at the Muscarelle through April 12. An opening reception is planned for Feb. 27 from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m.

In conjunction with the exhibition, the Museum will present a series of special lectures. David W. Steadman, director of the Chrysler Museum, will present "Observations on the Steiner Collection," at 8 p.m., Tuesday, March 3 in the Andrews Hall auditorium.

Andrew C. Robison, curator of prints and drawings, National Gallery of Art, will discuss "Connoisseurship and the Collecting of Drawings," at 8 p.m., Wednesday, April 2, also in Andrews Hall auditorium.

A pair of informal gallery sessions is scheduled on Wednesday, March 18. Paul Helfrich, professor of fine arts, will talk on "The Craft of Old Master Drawings" at 10 a.m., and Pamela Young Randolph, a private conservator, will present a gallery discussion on the "Preservation of Works of Art on Paper," at 10:45 a.m. at the Muscarelle Museum.

The public is invited to both the exhibit and the series of Wednesday programs. There is no admission charge. For more information on the exhibit or the programs, please call the Muscarelle Museum at ext. 4650.

The Steiner Collection ranks among the finest private Old Master drawing collections in the United States and has a long tradition of accessibility to students, scholars and museums.

This exhibit, the second major traveling exhibit to be drawn from the Steiner

Debaters win again at USC

Debaters this semester have won four out of the six tournaments they have entered, making their fourth trophy this weekend at the University of South Carolina.

For the team of Rod Satterwhite and John Wilson, who brought home the winner's trophy, this was their third win. Previously they had won tournaments at the University of Oklahoma and George Mason University.

Satterwhite and Wilson beat Clemson in the quarterfinals, Emory in the semifinals and the University of Alabama in the finals.

Also in the varsity division, Tony Kostecky and Terese Tracy were 4-3 in the preliminaries and lost to Emory in the quarterfinals on a split 2-1 decision. Both debaters are freshmen although they were debating in the varsity division.

In the novice division, Tracy O'Connor and Jenny Kreiger had a 2-4 record. O'Connor was named fourth-place speaker.

"A standing Man" Abraham Bloemaert, Dutch (1564-1651) from the collection of John and Alice Steiner, is included in an exhibit at the Muscarelle Museum of Art which opens Feb. 28.

President's House program set

Those interested in learning more about gracious living of the 18th century can attend "Taste of the Times," a day-long seminar, Saturday, March 14, sponsored by the Friends of the President's House.

The program, from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall, will feature presentations and talks on aspects of colonial life by recognized authorities, luncheon, afternoon tea, and a tour of the President's House.

President Paul R. Verkuil will open the program, and Mrs. Verkuil will greet guests on the afternoon tour.

The morning program features a talk on "The Grand Tour and Antiquarianism in the Late 18th Century" by Martha Hamilton-Phillips, assistant professor in the arts department at Hunter College, New York City; and a presentation on "The English Country House as Interpreted in the 20th Century" by Daniel H. Giffen, professor of interior design, Department of Urban and Consumer Affairs, Kent State University.

In the afternoon, Susan B. Swan, curator at Winterthur Museum, Winterthur, Del., will speak on "American Women: Their Lives and Their Needlework," and Nancy Carter Crump, an area food historian and historic sites consultant will discuss "18th-Century Hearth Cooking."

Fee for the seminar is $35, which includes all sessions and the luncheon.

For more information, call ext. 4174.

Speakers this week include...

Cirila Djordjevic

Cirila Djordjevic, Garrett-Robb-Guy Professor of Chemistry, will talk about the chemistry of metals in the living cell as second speaker in the current series of lectures by prominent faculty members who were named to new professorships established within the last year.

Djordjevic will speak at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 19 in Rogers 100.

A reception, hosted by the chemistry department, will be held immediately following the program in the foyer of the auditorium.

Djordjevic says she will present in her talk a survey of metals involved in biochemistry and then concentrate on a brief overview of her own research. She plans to insert a glance at the history of the chemistry department at William and Mary and add a few thoughts on the life and work of an experimental scientist in today's climate.

Forrest McDonald

Forrest McDonald, James Pinckney Harrison Professor of History at the College and 1987 National Endowment for the Humanities Jefferson Lecturer will give the second of three public lectures on constitutional history, at 8 p.m., Monday, Feb. 23, in the Dodge Room of Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. His topic will be "The Bill of Rights: Was It Necessary?"

In the third lecture of the series, scheduled for 8 p.m., Monday, March 2, McDonald will speak on "Justice and the Judiciary." A reception, sponsored by the history department, will follow this talk.

Malcolm Miller

Malcolm Miller, an authority on the art and architecture of the 13th-century Gothic Cathedral at Chartres in France and official English guide-lecturer at the Cathedral since 1958, will give an illustrated lecture on Chartres Cathedral at 8 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 19 in Andrews 101 under the sponsorship of the fine arts, history, modern languages and music departments and the lecture committee.

Bruce Carney

Bruce W. Carney, associate professor of physics and astronomy at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill will give a public lecture for a general audience and colloquium Feb. 26 and 27 as the Harlow Shapley Visiting Lecturer.

Carney, a Fellow at the Carnegie Institution in Washington, D.C., before he joined the University of North Carolina

McCluney-Mason advises employees about their benefits

Paulette McCluney-Mason is benefits representative in the Office of Employee Relations and is group administrator for benefits programs.

This is a new position which gives College employees a person with whom they can discuss their questions about life insurance, health programs, retirement, annuities, workers compensation, the Savings Bond program and the credit union.

McCluney-Mason has been on the job since November. She formerly worked for the Colonial Services Board as job placement specialist for adults with disabilities.

For eight years she was a compensation analyst for the Medical Center hospital in Norfolk.

McCluney-Mason is a native of Norfolk and received a B.S. in sociology from Norfolk State University in 1971. She is also a notary.

Already McCluney-Mason is bringing her expertise and experience to bear on her new job. A handbook on benefits is in the works. This, she said, is much needed and will be a ready reference for many of the questions employees have.

Track scholarship honors Pete Jones

Members of the Spiked Shoe Society, supporters of the William and Mary track program, have initiated the Pete Jones Memorial Scholarship Fund to honor one of the College's great runners. Funds will be used to provide a perpetual, full scholarship for track.

Jones died in 1979 at age 30, the victim of a heart attack. A runner all four years of his college career, Jones was co-captain with Howie Michael of the 1970 cross country team which placed 10th in the national championships.

That year Michael was National ASU, NCAA All-American and Juris Luzins held the American 1,000-yard indoor record. The track team that year held the Southern Conference Cross Country Championship, the Southern Conference Indoor and Outdoor championships and the State Indoor and Outdoor championships.

Further information concerning this scholarship may be obtained from the William and Mary AEF office in William and Mary Hall.

Old Masters

Collection, was selected by Alfred Moir of the University of California, Santa Barbara.

The selection of the exhibition reflects the major directions of the Steiners' collecting interests. Included are works that by virtue of their beauty and importance are indispensable to any drawing exhibit — major works by Annibale Caracci, Rembrandt, the Tiepolos, Fragonard.

In addition, a number of works were chosen for their scholarly interest. Chronologically, the exhibit spans three centuries and covers a wide range of subjects — landscape and figure studies, subjects from pagan mythology, history and Christian themes.

There are many undercurrents: the role and importance of the artist's atelier, the influence of patrons like Rudolf II or the Medici, the importance of printmaking in the Netherlands and the evolution of the Dutch visions of landscape.

While many of the drawings are studies made in preparation for prints, paintings and mural decorations, a surprising number are finished works in their own right.

Ms. McCluney-Mason

A "Benefits Fair" will be held March 18. This will give staff and faculty an opportunity to have their benefits explained and to review their options in preparation for open enrollment for health plans and annuities in April.

In June she is planning safety programs, in connection with works compensation, which will be organized through the various departments at the College.

Other workshops on how to keep from getting backaches and tired shoulders from poor posture while working and techniques for positioning furniture and efficient traffic patterns in offices are also being planned.

McCluney-Mason is a member of the American Management Association and the Notary Association.

Gifts up over last year

End-of-year private gifts to the College increased 39 percent over the same five-week period the previous year, rising from $1.97 million to over $2.7 million, according to director of development Barrett H. Carson.

Although the change in tax laws may have influenced some people's generosity, Carson sees the increase as part of a general upward trend. "If history is a lesson, we anticipate only continued growth in gift income," he said.

The lowering of the charitable gift deduction, in fact, seems independent of giving to the College, said Carson. Recalling similar circumstances following passage of the 1982 Economic Recovery Act, which reduced both tax ceilings and charitable deductions, he said that William and Mary "experienced no reduction in gift income the next year — in fact the reverse."

William and Mary also received a noticeably higher number of end-of-year stock transfers in 1986 than in the past. In addition to the ceiling reduction, Carson pointed to the tax change in treatment of capital gains after Dec. 31 and the strong stock market as reasons why so many people donated appreciated securities.

The College recorded nearly 4,900 gifts from Dec. 17 through Jan. 22, an increase in the number of donors of about 3.8 percent. The stable number of supporters means that the tax laws did not significantly increase their ranks, said Carson. However, he added that tax considerations may have affected the size of some year-end gifts and the decision by some donors to pay their pledges ahead of schedule.

"The tax consequences of charitable gifts to William and Mary are but a small factor in most people's decisions to support the College," Carson said. "The timing or form of the gift may be adjusted in some cases, but generally, tax savings are not paramount in donors' thinking."

Therefore, he added, the College is not expecting a downturn in either the number of donors or the dollar amount of gifts in 1987 and 1988. "As in the past," he said, "we're expecting quite the opposite."

Two plays by Femi Euba open Thursday in PBK

Two one-act plays, "Crocodiles" and "A Riddle of the Palms," by Nigerian playwright Femi Euba, visiting instructor of theatre and speech, will be presented Thursday through Sunday, Feb. 19-22 in the studio theatre of Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

Admission is free, and the public is invited. Both plays will be presented on the same bill. Curtain times are 8:15 p.m., Thursday through Saturday, and 2 p.m., Sunday.

Cast members of "Crocodiles" include: Nancy Gunn, a junior from Midlothian, as Anna; Kelvin Reid, a junior from Esmont, as Emman; Jan Onkonkwo, a freshman from Virginia Beach, as Bulai; and Tom Gilmore, a sophomore from Blairstown, N.J., as Sondae.

According to Euba, "Crocodiles" portrays African government officials who take money from the impoverished land and put it in foreign bank accounts rather than use the money to help the nation's poor.

Cast members of "Riddle of the Palms" include James Gulling, a freshman from Norfolk, as Momodu; Kurt Halow, a senior from Williamsburg, as Bello; Tom Fiscella, a freshman from Birmingham, Mich., as Farro; and Audrea Topps, a junior from Washington, D.C., as a seller.

"Riddle," says Euba, is a comic work patterned after the characters of Mephistopheles and Faust, again using a theme of greed. In the play, a miser is duped by a servant who leads him down a path to eventual ruin.

Euba received his undergraduate diploma from the Rose Bruford College of Speech and Drama in Kent, England. He received an M.F.A. from the Yale School of Drama in 1973 and a master's degree in Afro-American studies with an emphasis in theatre from Yale. He is currently completing his Ph.D. dissertation at the University of Ife in Nigeria.

After completing his M.F.A., Euba was artist-in-residence at the Ethel Walker School in Connecticut and also directed plays at the University of Hatfield in Connecticut. He then taught at the University of Ife before returning to Yale in 1982.

VIMS 'Seafood International'

"Seafood International," a series of seafood seminars, will be held March 4 to April 15 at VIMS in Watermen's Hall on the Gloucester Point campus. The program is sponsored by the Virginia Sea Grant Program at VIMS and VPI&SU.

This series has been designed to provide information on how to prepare local seafood and to enjoy the tastes of these products available from Virginia waters. Guest chefs have been selected for their particular talents with ethnic seafood dishes. Guest wine specialists will introduce wines to complement the chef's menu.

All classes will be held on Wednesdays from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Individual evening class fees are $22.50 each, which includes an evening of instruction by a leading area chef and a Virginia wine specialist; dinner and wine especially selected to complement the chef's creations and a participant's package of information. A discount price of $120 is offered for the complete series of six seminars.

Preregistration and advanced payment is required. The size of classes is limited, so acceptances will be handled on a first-come, first-served basis.

For registration forms, please contact Sue Gammisch, VIMS, Gloucester Point, VA 23062; 642-7169 or 722-3791.

Dates and topics of seminar are as follows:

March 4 — Jun Yamada and Mayako Smith of the Fugi Inn, Virginia Beach will serve sashimi, seafood salad and sushi. Wine specialist will be Emma Randel, owner of Shenandoah Vineyards in Edinburg.

March 11 — Chef Samih Hussein of the Lynnhaven Fish House, Virginia Beach, will prepare a Mediterranean-style meal. Corrine Solahi, owner of Oasis Vineyard in Hume, will be wine specialist for the evening.

March 18 — Bruce Clarke, former chef-instructor at LeCole, the Baltimore International Culinary Arts Institute, will prepare dishes in the French tradition. Dan Layman of Prince Michel Vineyard in Leon will serve Virginia wines.

April 1 — Hans J. Schadler, C.E.C., Executive Chef, Williamsburg Inn, will prepare a German-style meal. German-style wines of Rapidan River Vineyards in Culpeper will be served by Dan Layman.

April 8 — T. V. Flynn, executive chef, Virginia Beach Plaza Hotel, will prepare Italian seafood dishes, assisted by Carmelo Muroli. Wine service will be by Adrianno Rossi, winemaker and general manager of Barboursville Vineyards in Barboursville.

April 15 — Michael Holcomb, chef at Chappell's in Norfolk will prepare Cajun dishes. Archie Smith, winemaker of Meredyth Vineyards in Middleburg will give the instruction in wines.

Theatre seeks 30's props

Do you have 1930s items such as a baseball glove or ball, magazines, clothing or accessories, a wooden tube radio or indoor or outdoor furniture?

For its forthcoming production of Neil Simon's prize-winning comedy, "Brighton Beach Memoirs" (Feb. 26, 27, 28, and March 1), the William and Mary Theatre is looking for authentic period items. Director Louis E. Catron has had property crews scouring antique stores and attics but some items are still needed.

"There are about 560 various things we'd like to use," he says. "We've managed to find many of them but others simply aren't available, such as an authentic cigar box, a New York Yankees' baseball cap, a two-seater sofa, and the like. Because this is such a special play, we are exerting unusual efforts to find these sorts of items."

Because of the rigors of stage production and possible rough use of items, Catron hopes local residents will donate, not loan, such materials. Those who have items they would be willing to donate are asked to call the theatre department office, ext. 4395, to arrange for someone to pick up the materials. Items may also be brought to the theatre office in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

"Brighton Beach Memoirs" is the first of a trilogy of autobiographical plays Simon wrote to pay homage to his family. A 1983 Broadway success that won significant theatrical awards,

RBC schedules 'Titanic Night'

A "Titanic Night" program is scheduled at Richard Bland College Thursday, Feb. 19.

Two programs commemorating the sinking of the ship will be held, one at 1:30 p.m., the other at 7 p.m. Both are open to the public and have been arranged by William Henderson, professor of history. The programs are being sponsored by the history department.

The programs will include a screening of the 1958 British film, "A Night to Remember," a slide presentation of interior and exterior photos taken before the maiden voyage of the liner and the National Geographic Society's video tape of pictures taken after the ship was located on the ocean floor.

Senior week includes Thursday birthday party

SENIOR WEEK, which began Monday, will include events throughout the week. Tonight and Thursday, the Life After Dog Street (LAD9) program will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Alumni House.

The big event Thursday is a Birthday Band Party in honor of George Washington, with N'est Pas, sponsored by the senior class. The band party, to be held in Trinkle Hall, from 9 p.m. to midnight. Admission is 25 cents and 25 cents a beverage with P.O.A.

On Friday seniors will celebrate the 87th day until graduation with a tree planting on the new campus near Morton Hall at 11:45 a.m. Refreshments will be provided.

Drakes at the Hospitality House is also marking senior week from 5 to 8 p.m. on Friday.

Play cancelled

M. Clare Mather, assistant professor of modern languages and literatures, has announced that the French play to be performed at the Williamsburg Regional Library in March, has been cancelled.

This production was to have been funded by a grant from the Williamsburg Arts Commission.

Mather says plans have been made to produce the play in 1988.

Speakers this week

faculty seven years ago, will give an illustrated lecture titled "A Tour of the Solar System" at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 26 in Small Hall 109.

At the physics colloquium at 4 p.m., Friday, Feb. 27 in Small 109, he will discuss "The Estimated Age of the Universe."

Carney received his baccalaureate degree from the University of California at Berkeley and his doctorate from Harvard.

The Shapley lectureship is named for a former president of the American Astronomical Society, 1943-46. Harlow Shapley was an active member of the Society throughout his life. He is credited with epoch-making studies in color and magnitude of stars in globular clusters. As a result of his work, he obtained not only high quality distances for most globular clusters, but he showed also that our sun is located near the outer rim of the system of globular clusters. Before the days of Shapley, astronomers had generally assumed that our sun had a central position in our Milky Way system. Shapley's research changed all that.

In 1921 he began an association with the Harvard Observatory which lasted until he retired in 1952 as director. His research there covered a wide spectrum. In the 1930's he discovered the first dwarf galaxies in Sculptor and Fornax, both of them now recognized members of the local group.

In later years, Shapley became an active participant in national and international affairs. He played a major role in the founding of UNESCO.

Peter Nosco

The Japan-America Society of the Virginia Peninsula will sponsor a lecture titled "Nostalgia in Japanese Culture" by Peter Nosco, professor of East Asian languages and cultures at the University of Southern California, at 8 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 26 in the Botetourt Theatre of Swem Library.

This program is open to the public. There is no admission charge.

Co-sponsors of the program include the history department and the East Asian Studies Association at the College and the Virginia Consortium for Asian Studies.

For his lecture here Nosco will draw on material for a book he is currently writing Nostalgia and Nativism: Ancient Way Themes in 18th-Century Japan. He is also the author of Confucianism and Tokugawa Culture, published by the Princeton University Press in 1984.

Bettina Gregory

Bettina Gregory, ABC News senior general assignment correspondent, will speak at 8 p.m., Wednesday, Feb. 25 in William and Mary Hall under the sponsorship of the Student Association.

Admission is $3 for the general public; free to students, faculty and staff of the College.

Ms. Gregory's topic will be "A Regulatory Update."

Ms. Gregory has covered many major stories during her years at ABC, including exclusive reports on the 1983 Environmental Protection Agency Superfund scandal, reports on the air traffic controller's strike and disasters such as the fatal Air Florida crash in Washington, D.C.

Local Funds Purchases Seminar Rescheduled

Persons with responsibility for expending local funds, should know that changes are pending regarding purchases made from such funds. These are funds from accounts beginning with the number "4" or "6." (Ledger 4 accounts represent funding from local auxiliaries and unrestricted funds budgeted by the Board of Visitors. Ledger 6 accounts represent funding from gifts and restricted endowment income dispersed through the Board of Visitors.)

Following a review of purchasing procedures, the attorney general's office and the State Division of Purchasing and Supplies have notified the College that it is not in compliance with state law regarding local funds purchases. All such purchases must henceforth comply with the same rules applicable to state (E&G) funds. The College Financial Policies and Procedures Manual, Sec. 10, cites the appropriate regulations.

This applies to all the types of purchases normally channeled through the Department of Purchasing and Stores including purchases of goods, services and printing.

In an effort to assist in this change, the Purchasing Office has scheduled the following sessions in the Sit 'n Bull room of the Campus Center.

Monday, Feb. 23, 9-11 a.m.
Tuesday, Feb. 24, 3-5 p.m.
Wednesday, Feb. 25, 9-11 a.m.

Persons planning to attend are asked to advise the Purchasing Office which session they will attend. Attendance is strongly recommended since state law provides that violators of the procedures may be held personally liable for such purchases.

Questions should be addressed to Lynette Jenkins or Norma Chandler, ext. 4215.

Director, Purchases and Stores
