Powell, Forbes named Commencement speakers

Lt. Gen. Colin L. Powell, assistant to President Reagan for national security affairs, will be the commencement speaker Sunday, May 15.

Dr. James Forbes, the Joe R. Engle Professor of Preaching at Union Theological Seminary of New York, will speak at the baccalaureate service Saturday, May 14.

Powell, who will also receive an honorary doctor of public service degree, will address a commencement convocation in which about 1,500 undergraduate and graduate students will receive degrees. About 12,000, including graduates and their guests, are expected for the commencement which will be held at 2 p.m. in William and Mary Hall.

Forbes will speak at 9:30 a.m. Saturday in William and Mary Hall.

Powell has served as assistant to the president for national security affairs since Nov. 1987. He was promoted to the position when his predecessor, Frank Carlucci, was named secretary of defense. Powell had been appointed deputy assistant in Jan. 1987.

A native of New York City, Powell attended City College of New York, and later earned a master of business administration degree at George Washington University.

Powell began his Army career in 1958. He served his first overseas tour in Germany. He was sent to Vietnam in 1962 as a military adviser and again in 1968 as an executive officer.

In 1972, Powell was selected as a White House Fellow and served in the Office of Management and Budget. He has served in senior command positions in the U.S., Korea and Germany. He has held several posts in the Department of Defense, including senior military assistant to the deputy secretary of defense and senior military assistant to the secretary of defense.

His many military decorations include the Defense Distinguished Service Medal, the Bronze Star, the Soldier's Medal, the Purple Heart and the Legion of Merit.

Powell is the father of two William and Mary graduates, Michael Kevin Powell '85 and Linda Margaret Powell '87.

In the current issue of The Black Collegian, Powell is one of 10 men and women from a variety of professions questioned on secrets of their success.

"There are no secrets to success," says Powell. "Don't waste time looking for them. Success is the result of preparation, hard work, learning from failure, loyalty to those for whom and with whom you work, and persistence. ...

"Opportunity usually comes to those who are ready. Opportunity also has a way of seeking out those with a reputation for excellence. ... A good reputation for performance is a most valuable asset, as well as an asset easily lost. Protect it at all costs. Success is out there waiting for each of you. Whether you get it or not is entirely up to you, no one else. Be ready!"

Forbes, who has taught at Union Theological Seminary since 1976, is also on the teaching staff of Auburn Theological Seminary. From 1973 to 1976 he was director of education for Interfaith Metropolitan Theological Education, Inc. Forbes served as pastor of St. John's United Holy Church of America in Richmond, Va., from 1965 to 1973. Prior to that, he served as a lecturer at Union Theological Seminary in Richmond and as a campus minister at Virginia Union University.

Women's Art Museum director to speak at April 15 luncheon

Anne-Imelda Radice, director of the new National Museum of Women in the Arts in Washington, D.C., will speak at the annual spring luncheon of the College of William and Mary Women's Club at 12:30 p.m., Friday, April 15 in the Campus Center ballroom. She will review the highlights of the museum's first year and its plans for the future.

The luncheon is open to the public and reservations may be made by contacting either Kathleen Ring at 220-1677 or Nancy Grehl at 229-8039.

Fee for the luncheon is $13.50 and reservations may be made on an individual basis or for tables of eight. One dollar of the luncheon fee will be donated to the National Museum of Women in the Arts. Deadline for reservations is April 8.

Dr. Radice, who was named to the directorship of the Museum in 1985, was curator in the Office of the Architect of the U.S. Capitol from 1980-85. She began her museum career with the National Gallery of Art before joining the Office of the Architect of the U.S. Capitol as an architectural historian.

Dr. Radice received her baccalaureate degree in art history from Wheaton College, and her master's in art history from the Villa Schifanoia Graduate School of Fine Arts in Florence, Italy. She also holds an M.B.A. in finance from the American University in Washington, D.C., and a

The W&M card

While American Express and Visa continue to compete for customers on TV the College is moving to use a card of its own, which will be more convenient than either of those when used on campus.

The new system, says Chuck Lombardo, director of operations, Office of Administration and Finance, is currently being used in a limited way by Marriott for students on the meal plan. "Because of its many other applications we are considering its use in other areas on campus because of the ease and flexibility it offers and the security aspects it provides," explains Lombardo.

The card is capable of providing 72 different functions including a declining balance account program for use in cafeterias and other food facilities on campus, for purchasing concert tickets, for access after hours to dormitories and for providing authorization for voting on campus. The card can also be used in check authorization control, in the library to check out books, in parking lots for entry to restricted areas and to permit fast entry to the stadium for athletic events. It can also serve many other functions.

The new cards, which also serve as ID cards, are virtually identical to older ones and include the student's name, photograph, signature and student number on the front of the card. On the back of the card, however, is a magnetic strip that carries computerized information that makes it possible to access its many functions. If a card is lost, the campus computers can be programmed to reject the card, and the owner can be issued a new one. Even the validation process can be automated with this system, says Lombardo.

The first step in the new system is to replace existing ID cards with the new ones. Lombardo's office will begin the conversion the week of April 4, from Monday through Thursday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., in rooms A&B of the Campus Center.

The new system is not ready to go on line yet, but the conversion process must be completed before it is initiated. New ID cards will be issued free of charge upon surrender of current ID card.

Faculty, staff and all students, graduates and undergraduates, except seniors, are asked to take time the week of April 4 to have their pictures taken for new cards.

Second in debate series to focus on the Anglican tradition

The Anglican Tradition: Is it Protestant or Catholic? And which should it be?

These will be the questions probed in a public debate at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, April 7 in Millington Hall auditorium, planned as an academic program in conjunction with an introductory course in Christianity in the religion department.

David L. Holmes, professor of religion, and Thomas C. Reeves, professor of history at the University of Wisconsin, will debate the issue under formal debate rules. Each speaker will be allotted time to state his case. There will be rebuttals and then the speakers will take questions submitted by members of the audience.

Associate Provost Kathleen Slevin will introduce the speakers and act as moderator for the debate.

At debates of this kind today at English universities including Oxford and Cambridge, students often show up with signs to show their allegiance to their particular view. The debaters hope students here will also get into the spirit of the occasions and bring signs.

The tradition of debate at William and Mary goes back to the early days of the College. Students sought to improve their standing in the academic community by their debating skills; the founders of Phi Beta Kappa promoted debating at meetings of the fledgling organization.

Reeves will take the Anglo-Catholic position in the debate and Holmes the Protestant. Reeves will debate that the Church of England and its counterpart in the United States, the Episcopal Church, is not a form of Reformation Protestantism but is similar to Roman Catholicism and Eastern Orthodoxy. Holmes will argue that the Church is a Protestant church similar to Presbyterianism, Lutheranism or Methodism.

Reeves, whose main scholarly interests are late 19th- and 20th-century America, has published widely and is perhaps best known for his work on the McCarthy era, especially his book The Life and Times of Joe McCarthy: A Biography (Stein and Day, 1982), which was a selection of the Book-of-the-Month Club, the History Book Club and the Quality Paperback Book Club. It was published in London by Bond and Briggs and in Canada by Methuen.

Reeves is an Episcopal layman and a columnist for two conservative Anglican journals. He is a member of the Board of Trustees of Nashotah House, an Episcopal seminary outside of Milwaukee in the tradition of Anglo-Catholicism.

Holmes who has written extensively on Anglicanism in America, is also an Episcopal layman and is associate editor of the scholarly journal Anglican and Episcopal History.

Last year the Introduction to Christianity course sponsored the first of what it expects to be a long list of debates. Dean Thomas M. Finn and James Tabor of the religion department debated the question: "Is the Doctrine of Apostolic Succession True?"

In future years debate topics may include "Was Luther Right or Wrong?" "Is There Validity in Speaking in Tongues?" and "The Place of the Pope in Christianity."

Notes

Committee on degrees

The committee on degrees will have only two more regular meetings this semester and will not meet again until fall. All undergraduates who plan to petition for waivers of or changes in degree requirements must do so no later than April 12 (for the April 19 meeting) or April 19 (for the April 26 meeting).

Petition forms are available from Mrs. Pearson in the office of the dean of undergraduate studies (James Blair 112).

All petitions must be typed and must be accompanied by a letter from the appropriate department chairperson.

Students who wish to take summer courses elsewhere, which meet for fewer than four weeks or 37.5 contact hours, also need to fill out the appropriate form and include course description, course evaluation by the appropriate W&M department chairperson and a statement in the petition dealing with the educational value of that particular course in the student's four-year educational plan.

Committee seeks talent and slides

The baccalaureate committee is searching for talent to participate in the service to be held Saturday, May 14 and requesting pictures of the class of 1988 to be included in the slide presentation to be shown at the service.

One of the highlights of the baccalaureate service is the senior class slide show in which students are depicted throughout their college career. Traditionally the slide show is approximately a 10-minute presentation with musical accompaniment.

The baccalaureate committee will hold auditions Monday, April 4 from 6 to 9 p.m. for guitarists, pianists, singing ensembles or soloists; sign-up deadline is Friday, April 1. For details please contact Charlene Jackson at ext. 4159.

A box will be placed in the post office for photos. Please place your name, campus address and phone number on the back of all photos if you wish to have them returned.

Please send boat

The William and Mary Crew desperately need a 10-15' boat with 7- to 10-hp motor, to be used as a coaching launch during the month of April. They will either buy or rent. Anyone interesting in renting or selling please contact the recreational sports department at ext. 4498 or Glenn at 253-7874.

ond-place speaker.

Four teams of debaters leave tomorrow for the National Debate Tournament at the Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs. Over 300 teams are expected to compete.

John Wilson and Rod Satterwhite, Joe Howard and Doug Clark, Sayoko Blodgett-Ford and Tim Domin and Ron Westfall and Tony Kostecky will represent William and Mary.

Jennifer Blount

Margaret Ruscus

Blount, Ruscus awarded Koenig-Nimmo scholarships

Two seniors, Jennifer Blount and Margaret Ruscus, have been jointly awarded the 1987-88 Koenig-Nimmo Foreign Service Scholarship. The Koenig-Nimmo Foreign Service Scholarship was established by an alumna, Mrs. Annabelle Koenig-Nimmo in 1979, and in 1980 Laurie Johnston '74, a Foreign Service officer, added to the endowment.

Jennifer Blount is a concentrator in East Asian studies and has been president of the East Asian Studies Association. She is studying Chinese and spent last fall in Beijing.

Margaret Ruscus is a concentrator in history. She is planning to enter graduate school in foreign affairs. She hopes to enter the Foreign Service specializing in educational and cultural affairs.

She has studied in London and Madrid and has lived abroad as an exchange student.

A child's view

Louise Walker of the music faculty, who also teaches children Suzuki violin method, is taking a second look at her penmanship. She had written "half note" "quarter note," etc., on the board and was having a pupil recite the note values back to her. She pointed to a "whole" note and was surprised when the answer came back "and that one's a whale!"

Leadership seminar

Rising seniors are invited to submit resumes for an all-expense-paid Prudential Insurance Company College Leadership seminar to be held May 16-17 in Parsippany, N.J. Two students will be selected. Deadline is 5 p.m. April 8 in Morton 140.

Debaters take Richmond

Varsity debaters Rod Satterwhite and Doug Clark not only brought home the winner's trophy from the University of Richmond Invitational March 25-26, they also took top honors as first- and second-place speakers.

The team was 5-1 after the preliminaries and beat Marist College in the quarterfinals and a team from American University in the semi-finals. Satterwhite was named top speaker; Clark, sec-

Classified Advertisements

Classified ads are included as a service to members of the College community. The fee for ads is $3 for three consecutive issues. Ads should be no longer than 40 words and must be submitted, with payment, to the William and Mary News office no later than 5 p.m. on the Friday preceding the first insertion. # Hampton Roads poet to speak at annual Writers' Festival

Dave Smith, native son of Hampton Roads and nationally acclaimed poet, will be among the writers featured during the 17th annual Writers' Festival. The festival will open Thursday, April 7 and conclude with Smith's reading on Saturday, April 9.

All sessions will be held in Tucker Hall and are open to the public. There is no admission charge. The festival is sponsored by the Virginia Commission for the Arts and the English department.

A graduate of the University of Virginia, Smith has twice been runner-up for the Pulitzer Prize,

His books of poetry include Gray Soldiers, In the House of the Judge, Homage to Edgar Allan Poe and Dream Flights. He has also published fiction and essays. A native of Portsmouth, he lives in Midlothian and teaches at Virginia Commonwealth University.

Smith will read selections from his poetry and fiction at 8 p.m., Saturday, April 9.

The festival's first speaker will be Peter Balakian, author of three books of poetry and editor of the poetry journal, Graham House Review. Balakian, professor of English at Colgate University, has published poems in numerous publications including The Morrow Anthology of Younger American Poets. He will read his poems at 8 p.m. on Thursday, April 7.

At 8 p.m. on Friday, April 8, Harry Saint will read a selection of his fiction. Saint's first novel, Memoirs of an Invisible Man, is a Book-of-the-Month Club selection, and its film rights have been sold to Warner Brothers. Saint was a businessman for 20 years before turning to fiction-writing full time.

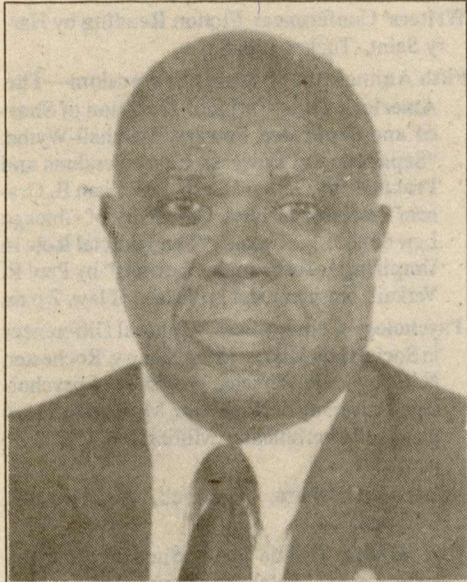

On Saturday, April 9 the writers will lead informal discussions in the Charles Center for Honors and Interdisciplinary Studies in Tucker Hall. At 10:30 a.m. Balakian and Smith will talk about poetry, and at 2 p.m. Saint will discuss fiction writing.

William and Mary's writer-in-residence, Cornelius Eady, will read from his poetry at 4 p.m. Eady has published two volumes of poetry, Kar-tunes and Victims of the Latest Dance Craze. The latter won the Academy of American Poets' Lamont Prize in 1985. From 1982 to 1984 he was the Margaret Banister Writer-in-Residence at Sweet Briar College.

Skinner to receive Gandhi award International dinner set April 13

Elliott P. Skinner, Franz Boas Professor of Anthropology and former U.S. Ambassador to Upper Volta, and an eminent African scholar, will deliver the Mahatma Gandhi Freedom Lecture at an international dinner Wednesday, April 13, to which members of the Williamsburg community as well as faculty, staff and students are invited.

This is the ninth lecture-dinner program which honors Gandhi and is again expected to draw several hundred people. Those planning to attend are asked to bring enough food for two or three people from a country of their choice. The program will begin at 6 p.m.

This event is sponsored by the department of anthropology, the Reves Center for International Studies, the South and Southeast Asia Society, the International Circle, the lectures fund committee and several offices of the dean of students.

Anyone wishing further details concerning the lecture or dinner are asked to contact Mario Zamora, professor of anthropology at ext. 4341.

Skinner specializes in African ethnology and race relations as they affect peoples of the West Indies, Africans in the New World and the rise of a planetwide civilization, as well as sociocultural change and applied anthropology. He has published widely and is currently preparing the manuscript for a book to be titled Blacks and United States Policy Toward Africa: The Early Years, 1871-1915. He won the Melville J. Hereskovits Prize in 1975 for the best book written on Africa. His book was titled African Urban Life: The Transformation of Ouagadougou.

He was a Distinguished Fulbright Professor of the University of Abidjan, Ivory Coast last year and in 1981 he was a Fellow at the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars. He has also received Guggenheim, Ford Foundation and Joy Hay Whitney Foundation grants for his work. Skinner was awarded the Mayor's Liberty Award in New York City in 1986, the latest in an impressive list of honors and decorations which includes the Distinguished Africanist Award awarded by the African Studies Association.

Hehir to discuss bishops and policy

The Rev. J. Bryan Hehir, senior research scholar, the Kennedy Institute of Ethics at Georgetown University and adviser to the American bishops on most issues of social policy, will give a public lecture on "The Catholic Bishops and Public Policy," at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, April 6 in Rogers 100. He will address the critical issues and criticism which have emerged from the U.S. Bishops' recent pastoral letters and pronouncements on matters of public policy.

Father Hehir, research professor of ethics and international politics at Georgetown, serves concurrently as secretary, Department of Social Development and World Peace, the U.S. Catholic Conference, Washington, D.C. He is past director of the Office of International Justice and Peace, U.S. Catholic Conference. He has served in several important roles as a member of the Vatican delegation to the U.N. General Assembly and to its special session on disarmament.

Father Hehir completed his doctorate in ethics and international politics at Harvard University where he also taught. He presently holds one of the prestigious MacArthur Foundation Fellowships, a five-year award given to persons engaged in exceptionally creative work in their field. He is the author of numerous books and articles dealing with the moral aspects of the arms race and war, human rights, foreign policy, poverty, and the American economy.

Argentine cultural attaché to speak

Hernan R. Plorutti

"Argentina and Democracy" will be the title of a public lecture by Hernan R. Plorutti, cultural attaché at the Argentine Embassy in Washington D.C., at 8 p.m., Wednesday, April 6 in the Dodge Room of Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall at the College of William and Mary.

Plorutti, who was trained as a lawyer at the University of La Plata and the Institute of Foreign Service in Buenos Aires, began his public service at the Argentine Embassy in Caracas, Venezuela.

He represented his country at the United National Conference on Trade and Development held in Belgrade, Yugoslavia in 1983 and was a member of the United National General Assembly in New York in 1985 when he was named Office Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Plorutti served one year as the consul general of Argentina in Chicago before moving to Washington.

His lecture is being sponsored by the department of modern languages, the Spanish House and the Center for International Studies.

Speakers choose variety of topics

Third world debt

William A. Darity Jr., professor of economics the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, will give a talk on problems relating to the third world debt crisis on Monday, April 4, at 7 p.m. in Morton Hall Room 220, on "Commercial Bank Lending to the Periphery: Rational or Irrational."

Darity received his undergraduate degree in economics and political science at Brown University and his Ph.D. in economics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He has written extensively in the areas of development economics; monetary theory and macroeconomics; history of economic thought; political economy; analyses of race, the family, and inequality; and economic history.

Darity also serves as a member of the Board of Advisers of the William and Mary Public Policy Program. His talk is jointly sponsored by the economics department, the Reves Center for International Studies and the Public Policy Program.

Constitution and foreign policy

Norman A. Graebner, Randolph P. Compton Professor of History and Public Affairs Emeritus at the University of Virginia and currently visiting professor in the history department, will give a public lecture: "The Constitution and American Foreign Policy," at 8 p.m., Tuesday, April 12 in Tucker 120.

His lecture is being sponsored by the government department and the Charles Center for Honors and Interdisciplinary Studies.

Graebner's publications on politics and diplomacy include seven books, 11 edited volumes and over 100 articles and essays.

One of Graebner's research interests is the evolution of U.S. foreign policy in the immediate post-colonial era. In earlier publications and lectures he has examined the attitudes of the American Founding Fathers toward the country's foreign policy.

Zahavy to examine Judaism

Tzvee Zahavy, visiting Gumenick Associate Professor of Judaic Studies in the religion department, will give two public lectures on Jewish prayer. On Tuesday, April 12, 1988, he will speak on the "Origins of Jewish Prayer in the Time of Jesus." On Wednesday evening, April 13, he will speak on the "Dynamics of Jewish Prayer in the Time of Early Christianity." Both lectures will be at 7:30 p.m. in Rogers 107.

Dr. Zahavy attended Yeshiva College and was graduated in 1970 with a B.A. in mathematics as a member of Pi Mu Epsilon, the national mathematics honor society. In 1973 he received a masters degree in Jewish History and rabbinic ordination from Yeshiva University.

After receiving his Ph.D. in religious studies from Brown University in 1976, he was appointed to the faculty of the department of Ancient Near Eastern and Jewish Studies at the University of Minnesota. He served as chairman of his department for five years and is a member of the graduate faculty of the Center for Ancient Studies and the program in religious studies.

Zahavy is author of four books and the recipient of prestigious honors and grants. He is this spring visiting in the department of religion.

McCarthy topic of talk

Thomas C. Reeves, professor of history at the University of Wisconsin, whose biography, The Life and Times of Joe McCarthy: A Biography was a Book-of-the-Month Club, History Book Club and Quality Paperback Book Club selection, will speak on Seven Truths About Senator Joe McCarthy at 4 p.m., Thursday, April 7 in the History Department Library, Morton 340.

At 7:30 p.m. in Millington Hall on April 7 Reeves will participate in a public debate with David L. Holmes, professor of religion, arguing the question "Is the Anglican Tradition Protestant or Catholic? And Which Should It Be?"

Thomas to give recital

Lisa Thomas, soprano, will give a junior recital at 3 p.m., Saturday, April 2 at the Williamsburg Baptist Church.

Her program will include cycles by Copland, Debussy and Schumann.

'La Colonie' to be performed tomorrow

A touch of comedy lightens the rigors of a surprisingly daring expedition into the uncharted waters of women's rights on the eve of the French revolution in "La Colonie" by Marivaux, which will be performed in French by students under the direction of Clare Mather, instructor in modern languages, at 3 and 8 p.m., tomorrow at the Williamsburg Regional Library Arts Theatre.

General admission at the door is $2. William and Mary students with valid I.D.s will be admitted free.

Psychology careers

E. Vicar Reynolds, Ph.D will speak on "Careers in Clinical Psychology" at 4 p.m., Tuesday, April 5 in Morton 141. Reynolds is a 1970 graduate of the College with a degree in psychology and is currently a partner with Associates at Lynnhaven. Reynolds' presentation will include discussion of job responsibilities, academic requirements, field outlook and internship opportunities. The talk is sponsored by the Office of Career Services. All interested students and faculty are invited to attend.

RBC alumni to meet

Richard Bland College alumni will meet Wednesday, March 30, for the Alumni Association's annual general membership meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the student center lounge.

President Tim Williams will preside and report on Alumni Association plans. President Clarence Maze Jr. will discuss long-range planning for RBC and recent budget appropriations for the College from the General Assembly. Director of Advancement Richard Rennolds will provide an update on fund-raising and alumni affairs.

RBC wind ensemble

The annual spring program by the Richard Bland College Community Wind Ensemble will be held Sunday, April 10 at 3 p.m. in the RBC campus student center. The concert will include sounds of Sousa, Broadway show tunes and a tribute to Count Basie. Admission is free.

Conducted by Mrs. Iris Schwartz, the 30-member band will open the program with "Am-parito Roca," a Spanish march with the flavor of the national pastime, bullfighting. "Sinfonia for Winds" will spotlight the entire wind ensemble, and "Selections from Oliver" will recall favorites from the Broadway hit.

Principal clarinetist Glen Webb will solo in "Lightning Fingers." Featuring American composers, the band will play the "George Washington Bicentennial March" by Sousa, "An American Scene" by Grundman, "Mississippi Suite Overture" by Grofe and "A Copland Tribute," honoring the Brooklyn-born composer.

Ph.D. in architectural history and art history from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

The National Museum of Women in the Arts was founded in 1981 to promote knowledge and appreciate of women artists through exhibitions, publications, special events and the library and research center.

The museum purchased its building in 1983. Designed by architect Waddy Butler Wood, the elegant Renaissance Revival structure was erected in 1907 as the Masonic Grand Lodge of the National Capital. Its renovation and conversion into a museum began in 1984 and was completed in May 1987.

Jen-Jen Lin

Jen-Jen Lin to present a program of Chinese dance

Jen-Jen Lin, instructor in dance, will present a program of classical and modern Chinese dances that she has choreographed at 8:15 p.m., Friday, April 8 in the Arts Center of the Willisburg Regional Library. There is no admission charge.

The first half of the program will be devoted to Chinese classical and folk dances. Jen-Jen Lin will perform "Peacock," "Flying Celestial," "Double Swords," "A Melody from Xinjiang," and "An Old Man Carrying A Young Girl Piggyback." Accompaniment for the dances will be traditional Chinese music.

"An Old Man Carrying a Young Girl Piggyback" is performed with a unique prop which Jen-Jen Lin travelled to New York during spring break to acquire for the show.

The second half of the program will include three modern dances, "Travel Through Space" and "A Goblin," with music by David Mingyue Liang; and "The Tie That Binds," with music by Wen-Chin Su and Ngyuen Thien Dao. "The Tie that Binds" is a ribbon dance developed from an ancient Chinese poem and performed to modern Chinese music on classical instruments.

Jen-Jen Lin will provide a narrative as an introduction to the dances and will also show slides of China to help the audience make the connection of the dance to the culture, especially in the first half of the program. This program gives Jen-Jen Lin an opportunity for her to share her Chinese heritage with the Williamsburg community as well as the students and faculty of the College.

Jen-Jen Lin joined the faculty of the College in 1986. She has a B.S. in Natural Resources from the University of Chinese Culture in Taipei, Taiwan and an M.F.A. in dance from the University of Illinois Champaign-Urbana. She began teaching Chinese dance, ballet and children's dance at Lan-Yang Youth Center Dance School in Lotung, Taiwan and later became artistic director, choreographer and dance instructor for the Chinese Folklore Performance Dance Group in Lotung.

She has choreographed over 35 dances including solos and dancers with 100 dancers, and had a successful career as a performer. She performed at the Chicago Opera House in 1986 in a show called "Pure Gold," and "Dancing, East and West — Chinese Style in America," at the Krannert Center for the Performing Arts in Urbana. She also produced four different Chinese dance concerts at the University of Chicago.

Stage manager and lighting designer for the show is Ellen Lee, narration pre-recorded by Tom Fiscella. Both Ellen and Tom are theatre majors.
