NEWS

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER PUBLISHED FOR AND ABOUT THE FACULTY, STUDENTS AND STAFF OF THE COLLEGE OF WILLIAM AND MARY

Volume XVIII, Number 8

Wednesday, October 19, 1988

The umbrella of giving has been greatly expanded this year under the State Employees Combined Charitable Campaign, to include organizations who come to the aid of people around the world, as well as those that work on the local level here at home.

It has been just a little over five years since the university learned just how well one hometown organization works. When Jefferson dormitory was engulfed in flames in an early morning fire that forced evacuation of the entire building on one of the coldest days of the year, the Red Cross responded.

The local chapter spent an estimated $47,500 in a matter of hours that cold Jan. 20, 1983 to provide clothing, books and other items for the 185 students left homeless by the fire. There was only $4,000 in the agency's disaster money account on July 1 at the beginning of the fiscal year but acting to meet the needs of students, some barefoot, others pulling blankets over their nightclothes, extra expenses were authorized.

Five named to receive Alumni Medallion

From the October issue of the Alumni Gazette
By Virginia C. Collins '77

They left William and Mary at different times and took varied paths in their choice of careers and interests, but William and Mary has remained a central thread in the lives of Hunter Andrews, Jim McGlothlin, Anna Belle Koenig Nimmo, Bruce Stewart and Raymond "T" Waller. When they are honored as a group during Homecoming weekend, they will share the spotlight as recipients of the Alumni Medallion, the highest award made by the Society of the Alumni.

Established in 1934, the award recognizes extraordinary achievements on the part of alumni, both in their professional lives and in their service to William and Mary. This year's honorees, like the 191 alumni who have previously received the medallion, have led distinguished careers, contributed to their professions and communities and have given generously of their time and talents to their alma mater.

Hunter Booker Andrews '42

As a 24-year veteran of the Virginia Senate representing the First District (Hampton and Poquoson), Hunter B. Andrews plays an influential role in the state's political life and is considered, in the words of a recent newspaper editorial, "the acknowledged expert on the legislative process." Sen. Andrews is the majority leader of the Senate, serves as chairman of the finance committee and is a member of leading committees, including education and health.

As a result of his ongoing dedication to the state's educational programs, William and Mary and other state institutions have benefited greatly from his appeals for funding and related needs. His longtime friend former Gov. Mills E. Godwin Jr. '36 said, "I hold Sen. Andrews in the highest regard as a man of integrity, accomplishment and concern for higher education in general and at William and Mary in particular."

A World War II veteran and graduate of the University of Virginia law school, Andrews has practiced law in Hampton for more than 40 years. He is chairman of the Jamestown-Yorktown Foundation and is a member of numerous corporate and civic boards. An active and supportive alumnus, he is a member of the College's Commission on the Tercentenary Observances appointed by Gov. Baliles in 1987 to oversee plans for the 300th anniversary.

James W. McGlothlin '62

James W. McGlothlin serves on the College's Board of Visitors and is president and chief executive officer of the United Company, a highly diversified firm based in Bristol, Va. After receiving his law degree from William and Mary in 1964 and practicing as a partner in a Grundy, Va., law firm, McGlothlin became president of the United Coal Company, now a subsidiary of the United Company.

Operating under his guidance as an independent, privately owned coal company, United Coal is ranked among the 20 largest coal producers in the nation. Several years ago, in a Fortune magazine article that praised the company's success, McGlothlin related his winning approach to personnel management: "People aren't numbers. They are Tom and Joe and Bill."

In addition to serving his second term on the Board of Visitors, McGlothlin is chairman of the pre-campaign steering committee's corporate gifts committee, a senior fellow of the President's Council and a former trustee of the Endowment Association.

McGlothlin serves on the boards of Dominion Bankshares Corp., Birmingham Steel Corp. and Bassett Furniture Industries. He is a member and past chairman of both the Virginia Coal Association and the National Coal Council.

Anna Belle Koenig Nimmo '45

Anna Belle Koenig Nimmo, a lecturer and author who lives in Golden, Colo., has supported the College in a number of ways. She established the William Bembo Music Scholarship, the Prentice Hill Theater Scholarship and the Koenig-Nimmo Foreign Service Scholarship. She is a member of the President's Council and an emeritus member of the Endowment Association Board of Trustees. In 1982, she presented to the Society of the Alumni a sculpture, "Frame of Mind," by Victor Salmons in memory of Professor Victor Iturralde.

Over the years, Mrs. Nimmo has pursued broad interests in theater, travel, writing, gems, horses and painting. Among her special interests is giving talks on the metaphysical powers and investment potential of gem stones. The author of two books and a contributor to travel magazines, she is a life member of the Edgar Cayce Foundation, graduate of Silva Mind Control and a board member of Temple of Inner Light. Over the years, she has been active in her community, serving as a volunteer to various civic groups and other organizations. Until this year, she and her husband owned and operated Table Mountain Productions, a unique collection of western sets and vehicles used for filming television commercials.

Robert Edward Bruce Stewart Jr. '27

Robert Edward Bruce Stewart of Portsmouth, Va., retired in 1971 from the management of his own fire, casualty and surety business. An active alumnus, he is an emeritus member of the Olde Guard Council and served as chairman from 1983 until 1985. On two occasions he served as a member of the nominating committee for the Society's board of directors. He assisted in organizing the Portsmouth-West Tidewater alumni chapter and served as a member of the board. A member of the 50th reunion committee for his class, he went on to serve as chairman of his 60th reunion committee. Lawrence W. I'Anson '28, retired chief justice of the Supreme Court of Virginia and a friend of Stewart, said, "His leadership has created great enthusiasm among members of the Olde Guard and a reawakening of their interest in supporting the College in many ways."

Stewart has been active in community, state and national affairs over the years. In cooperation with the Norfolk division of the College of William and Mary (now Old Dominion University), he organized the first school for fire, casualty and surety agents in Virginia. He has held major offices in local, state and national insurance associations. After retiring from the Coast Guard in 1966, he was the first Coast Guard officer appointed to the military staff of the governor of Virginia.

Raymond T. Waller '40

Raymond T. Waller, known widely as "T," is senior vice president of the Cecil, Waller, Sterling division of Advest Inc., an investment/brokerage firm in Richmond. He has served in a number of leadership positions with the College, including the Board of Visitors from 1976 until 1984, and prior to that, the Board of Directors of the Society of the Alumni from 1973 until 1976. He was also vice president of the Athletic Educational Foundation and president of the Richmond alumni chapter. Currently, he serves on the investment committee of the Endowment Association, the Virginia Institute of Marine Science Founders Society and is a member of the President's Council as well as a board member of the Order of the White Jacket.

Extremely active over the years as a member of numerous corporate boards as well as professional and civic organizations, Waller has served as president of the Securities Association of Virginia and chairman of the National Association of Securities Dealers, District 10. Currently, he serves on the president's council and board of directors of Advest as well as the advisory council for Putnam Funds, a prominent mutual funds firm in Boston. His civic involvement has included active participation in the West Richmond Rotary Club and a past board member of the YMCA. He has been very active in his church as well as the non-denominational Virginia and International Fellowship organizations.

Lonise P. Bias is keynote speaker for Alcohol Awareness Week

Lonise P. Bias

Lonise P. Bias, mother of the late Len Bias, the University of Maryland basketball player who died on June 19, 1986, as a result of substance abuse, will give the keynote address for Alcohol Awareness Week at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 25, in William and Mary Hall. The general public is invited. There is no admission charge.

Mrs. Bias has taken her personal loss as a mission to help others avoid her son's tragic end. She tours the country addressing audiences on the issues of drugs, alcohol and family problems.

Cynthia Burwell, health educator at the Student Health Service, has coordinated the week's program and has sent out letters of invitation to area high schools.

Mrs. Bias' talk is part of "Soberfest," a week-long program of events on campus, which begins with a SADD (High School) Leadership Conference in the Campus Center, Oct. 25 from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Sharon Hessie, a certified substance abuse counselor, will present a program titled "Cheryl" at 8 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 27 in Millington Hall auditorium. "Cheryl" a recovering alcoholic and a recent college graduate will share her story.

The week's activities will conclude with a 5-K "Fun Run" and cookout for participants.

For further details concerning the week's program, please contact Cynthia Burwell at ext. 4386.

University Archives purchases two telegrams from the Civil War

University Archives recently purchased two telegrams that shed light on the history of William and Mary during the Civil War.

The telegrams, dated Oct. 9, 1862, concern a request from the President of the College, Benjamin S. Ewell, to be allowed to pass through the Union lines around Williamsburg in order to inspect conditions at the College and at Eastern State Hospital. The Wren Building had been burned by occupying Union forces in Sept. 1862.

Along with many of the college students and faculty, President Ewell, a West Point graduate, joined the Confederate Army in 1861, and William and Mary was closed. Ewell was in Richmond when he learned that the Wren Building had been damaged by fire. His request to inspect the damage was denied by the Union authorities.

After the war, Ewell waged a long campaign to have the U.S. government reimburse the College for the damage done. Prominent individuals, including Union army generals, wrote letters on behalf of the College, several of which are part of the Archives collection. Congress passed a bill in 1893, giving the College $64,000.

The telegrams were purchased with money from an endowed fund established by John Preson, class of 1916.

Bellini lecture, Concert Series highlight week's activities

Each year the College honors the man who was appointed by Thomas Jefferson to the first American chair of modern languages at the College in 1779 by giving his name to the Carolo Bellini lecture.

The 1988 Bellini lecture will be delivered by Vittore Branca, secretary general and vice president of the Fondazione Giorgio Cini of Venice and currently a visiting fellow at the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton University.

Branca will speak on "Visual Representations of Boccaccio's Decameron," at 8 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 20 in Washington 200.

Concert Series opens

The William and Mary Concert Series opens Tuesday, Oct. 25 with the Stuttgart Radio Symphony, Sir Neville Marriner, music director.

The concert will be held in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall beginning at 8:15 p.m.

The concert series is sold out. The only available tickets will be at the box office the evening of the performance. Seats not claimed by season ticket holders by 8 p.m., will be sold.

The orchestra will play Symphony No. 96 in D major, the "Miracle Symphony" by Haydn; "Don Juan," a tone poem after Lenau; opus. 20 by Richard Strauss; and Symphony No. 2 in D major, opus 73 by Brahms.

Next on the series is a performance by the Elisa Monte Dance company on Wednesday, Nov. 2. Again tickets will only be sold, if available, the evening of the performance.

October is Crime Prevention Month

Advice on avoiding date rape

Got a Minute?

TAKE A BITE OUT OF CRIME®

The following was prepared by Campus Police Office David Ankney as part of the office's ongoing program of education and particularly for the observance of Crime Prevention Month in October.

Recognize and accept the fact you can be a victim.

In a dating situation be sure you remain in control. Don't alter your level of consciousness by using drugs or alcohol.

On first dates with relatively unknown people try to stay in public areas near other people. Try not to get yourself isolated from immediate help or an escape route.

Clearly define your limits for acceptable behavior from your date.

Don't send mixed signals. If you mean no, say no.

How safe do students feel universities are?

In a recent survey, conducted by USA Today, 2,470 students on 50 campuses were polled on how safe they felt on campus. One in four of those surveyed had been a victim of some type of crime. Of women students surveyed, 47.5 percent felt somewhat safe while only 12.8 percent felt very unsafe.

The same group of women were polled as to the likelihood of being sexually assaulted. In that group 3.5 percent felt there was a strong chance of being sexually assaulted while 15.3 percent felt it was unlikely to occur.

The beautiful and tranquil William and Mary campus tends to lull one into a sense of immunity to crime. While the campus is relatively safe, everyone needs to remain on guard and aware that "it can happen here."

Instruction in self-defense techniques is available from the Campus Police and Safety Department. This training includes lecture sessions and demonstrations of escape techniques.

Individuals, groups of individuals or organizations interested in learning more about the safety education offered by the Campus Police office may call ext. 4702, or drop by the Police office in back of the Campus Center.

'Jesus Through Many Eyes' topic of lunchtime seminar series

"Jesus Through Many Eyes," a series of six lunchtime seminars sponsored by the Wesley Foundation and led by current and retired members of the faculty at the College, will begin Wednesday, Oct. 26 at noon in rooms A&B of the Campus Center.

The presentations are open to the entire community. Participants are urged to secure their food by noon so each speaker will have maximum presentation time. The sessions will last an hour and, after the initial program, will be held on Nov. 2, 9, 16, 30, and Dec. 7.

Focusing on various interpretations of the central figure in the Christian religion, the presentations will examine understandings of Jesus in the cinema, the New Testament, the Early Church, Judaism, Islam and art.

Resource people include Marion M. Brown, James D. Tabor, Thomas M. Finn, Alan L. Berger,

John A. Williams and Miles Chappell.

The series is intended to be a creative response to the controversy generated by Martin Scorsese's film adaptation of Nikos Kazantzakis' The Last Temptation of Christ, explains David M. Hindman, United Methodist Campus Minister.

He added "Despite all the hype and furor related to this film, Scorsese has given a wonderful gift to persons interested in religious questions, simply because he has caused us to think seriously about the significance of Jesus of Nazareth for us. Scorsese has dared to state his understanding of Jesus for all the world to see and hear, thereby challenging us to do the same. This series will provide a range of ways of looking at Jesus that should enrich the process of doing that."

For further information, please contact David Hindman at the Wesley Foundation, 229-6832.

Notes

Build a classic rod

A custom fishing rod building class is currently underway at VIMS.

The class opened Tuesday and will be given for six to seven weeks from 7 to 10 p.m., in Watermen's Hall.

Designed for beginners, the course will incorporate hands-on-work, instructing participants step-by-step through the building of a custom fishing rod of his/her choice.

The course will be led by Paul McFarland, a Gloucester native and avid fisherman. McFarland has been building custom rods for more than 11 years and has previously taught two rod-building classes at VIMS.

To register, contact VIMS Sea Grant Marine Advisory Services office at 642-7173 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on weekdays. The registration fee is $35. Class size is limited to six persons.

Continuing education credits will be earned by participants who complete the class. The course is being sponsored jointly by VIMS and the Office of Special Programs.

Hazard communication orientation, Oct. 26-27

Two additional Hazard Communication Orientation programs are being planned for the benefit of employees who were unable to attend the initial program held in July.

A Haz-Com session will be held in Rogers 100 at 7 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 26 and at 8 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 27.

All faculty and staff members who missed the first sessions are encouraged to attend.

Any questions, comments or information on scheduling conflicts should be addressed to Priscilla Shea, administrator, Safety and Environment, ext. 4702.

Vita bank established

Dale B. Robinson, director, Affirmative Action and Equal Opportunity Programs, has announced that the university has established a vita bank to assist in the recruitment and appointment of minority individuals and women with terminal degrees in their field to instructional positions, which may become available for 1989-90.

Individuals with backgrounds in arts and sciences disciplines, business, law, education and marine science at both the graduate and undergraduate levels are being invited to send resumés.

Graduates with degrees in the fields of enrollment management, student services, fund-raising and general administration are invited to submit their resumés for administrative and professional positions, which may become available. Materials will remain active until the fall of 1989. Material is being requested by Nov. 14.

The College of William and Mary is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer.

Further information may be obtained from Robinson at ext. 4651.

Faculty party, Oct. 21

The second party of the Faculty Club of the College will be held at 5:30 p.m., Friday, Oct. 21 in the greenhouse atop Millington Hall.

Members and their guests are encouraged to mingle in the foliage, partake of the hors d'oeuvres, cocktails, wine and beer, and take home a variety of plant cuttings prepared by Martin Mathes, professor of biology and president of the Faculty Club.

The Faculty Club is open to all members of the faculty and administration of the College and emeritus professors are accorded free membership.

The Faculty Club plans to hold four more parties during the academic year as follows: Nov. 18., Jan. 20, Feb. 24 and April 20. Membership in the club will entitle the holder to reduced rates at these parties.

Fee for membership is $15. Payment of the fee at the door will admit a new member to the party on Oct. 21 at no extra charge. A fee of $5 will be assessed for a spouse or for one guest; $10 for each additional guest thereafter.

Members will be charged $5 per person, per party; non-members will be charged $10. Non-drinking, non-members will be charged $7 while non-drinking members pay only $4 per person.

The Club opened the season with another successful edition of its annual seafood feast at VIMS earlier this fall.

Surplus auction, Nov. 3

The College and Eastern State Hospital will conduct an auction of surplus equipment beginning at 9 a.m., Thursday, Nov. 3 at building #22 of Eastern State Hospital.

Items may be viewed and inspected Nov. 2 from 1 to 3 p.m. and Nov. 3 from 8 to 9 a.m.

Included in the auction will be sofas, typewriters, calculators, recorders, cameras, tables, desks, chairs, refrigerators, scientific equipment, computer equipment, etc.

For more information, call Annette Ashcraft at ext. 4179.

Notes

Teaching fellowships

The following private preparatory schools are offering teaching fellowships and internships to graduates who do not have a teaching certificate, but who do have a degree in a specific discipline:

Phillips Academy, Mass.; St. Agnes-Belfield and St. Agnes schools, Va.; St. Johnsbury Academy, Vt.; and The Sidwell Friends School, Washington, D.C.

Students interested in reviewing additional information and application procedures should see Barbara McGrann, receptionist for Career Services.

Minority career day

The University of Virginia is sponsoring a Minority Career Day, Tuesday, Nov. 8. The event is open to all minority junior, senior or graduate students.

More than 100 employers, representing a broad range of career fields will be present. Students will have the chance to talk with the employers and obtain career information, as well as participate in minority student job searches.

Interested minority students may register until Friday, Oct. 28. See Barbara McGrann, Career Services receptionist, Morton 140. Bus transportation will be provided. It will leave Morton Hall at 8 a.m. and return around 6 p.m.

Graduate education, careers in int'l. affairs

The Office of Career Services is sponsoring a panel presentation on graduate education and careers in international affairs at 4 p.m., Wednesday, Oct. 26 in Morton 20.

Representatives from the following schools will provide information on the panel topics: School of International and Public Affairs, Columbia University; School of Foreign Service, Georgetown University; School of Advanced International Studies, Johns Hopkins University; and Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, Tufts University.

VSRS field counseling

Because of the excellent response to the field counseling conducted by the Virginia Supplemental Retirement System in the Spring, VSRS will be offering this program of one-on-one counseling at sites around the state during fiscal year 1989.

The following dates have been set for field counseling in the Tidewater area:

Dec. 8, 9; March 28, 29; and May 17, 18.

Members who wish to talk to a retirement adviser may call VSRS Field Services at SCATS 786-3831 for an appointment.

Members will be informed of the location of their counseling appointment at the time they call.

Computer center offers short courses

The William and Mary Computer Center has scheduled several free, non-credit short courses for the fall semester. Although there is no charge for the classes, space in them is limited. Anyone who wants to attend one or more of the courses should register in advance with the Referral Desk at ext. 4547.

Introduction to the PRIMES and the editor EMACS: a one-session course designed to introduce use of the PRIMES and the editor EMACS at W&M. EMACS is a powerful and flexible editor that is used to type files into the computer and make changes in files once they exist. One generally must use EMACS or a similar editor to make use of a computer language like Pascal or SPSS-X.

Participants must have access to the PRIMES before registering for this course; there is no other prerequisite. One section will be offered, requiring one session.

Wednesday, October 26, from 3-5 p.m., Morton 244

SPSS-X: a two-session introduction to SPSS-X, which is the current version of SPSS, a language for statistical problems; it is available on both the NAS and the PRIMES. There will be opportunity to practice using SPSS-X on the PRIME system. Participants should be familiar with an editor on the PRIME.

Fundamentals and Mechanics: Monday, Oct. 31, 4-5 p.m., Morton 244

Data manipulation and Procedures: Wednesday, Nov. 2, 4-5 p.m., Morton 244

MVS/TSO (Use of the IBM/NAS System): A two-session introduction to use of TSO. Editing and other file manipulations with the ISPF/PDF facility will be emphasized. Attendees must already have a TSO ID to participate; TSO IDs will not be given merely for attending this class.

Logon, files, PDF: Monday, Nov. 7, 4-5 p.m., Morton 244

More PDF, batch: Wednesday, Nov. 9, 4-5 p.m., Morton 244

BITNET—Worldwide Electronic Communication: The BITNET network connects users of W&M mainframe computers with people at institutions around the world. This one-session class will outline the fundamentals of sending and receiving messages via BITNET.

Registrants should be able to log onto one of the W&M computers and use some editor to create a file. Please specify whether you use a PRIME or the IBM/TSO/NAS system.

Wednesday, Nov. 16, 4-5 p.m., Morton 244

Employment

Informational interviews will be held in the Office of Personnel Services each Thursday from 9 a.m. to noon on a first-come, first-served basis. This is an excellent chance to learn more about employment opportunities at the College and VIMS.

The following positions at the College are open to all qualified individuals. Call 229-JOBS for a 24-hour-a-day listing of vacancies, or visit the Office of Personnel Services, Thiemes House, 303 Richmond Road, for information and application forms, Monday-Friday, 8 a.m.-4 p.m. All applicants must submit a completed Commonwealth of Virginia Application form to the Office of Personnel Services.

The College of William and Mary is committed to the principle of equal opportunity in the employment of faculty, administrators and non-academic personnel. This policy was reaffirmed by the Board of Visitors on April 25, 1986. It is the policy of the College not to discriminate against any employee or applicant for employment on the basis of race, sex, color, national origin, religion, age, handicap, disability, veteran's status or political affiliation.

Notice: In accordance with the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986, effective immediately, all individuals hired for positions at the College of William and Mary or the Virginia Institute of Marine Science will be required to produce the following: either (1) one document establishing both U.S. employment authorization and identity (such as Alien Registration card with photograph, U.S. passport, certificate of U.S. citizenship, certificate of naturalization or unexpired foreign passport with attached employment authorization); or (2) one document establishing U.S. employment eligibility (such as original Social Security card, birth certificate or unexpired INS employment authorization) and one document establishing identity (such as driver's license or U.S. military card). If the employee cannot produce the required documents within three business days of hire, he/she will be subject to removal.

Deadline for applying for the following positions is 5 p.m., Oct. 21, unless otherwise indicated. Postmarks will not be honored.
