Best Ball, Captain's Choice Golf Tournament, Sunday, April 23 at Deer Run course in Newport News, is open to faculty, staff, students and their guests. Call ext. 4498 for details.

Close to be graduation speaker

Actress Glenn Close '74, will deliver the 1989 commencement address Sunday, May 14.

Close will receive an honorary doctor of arts degree at the ceremonies, which will begin at 1 p.m. in William and Mary Hall.

Also receiving honorary degrees at commencement will be Robert McCormick Adams, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, honorary doctor of humane letters; Mary Maples Dunn, president of Smith College and a 1954 graduate of William and Mary, doctor of humane letters; and physicist Sir Denys H. Wilkinson, vice chancellor of Sussex University in England, honorary doctor of science.

Glenn Close

Speaking at the traditional baccalaureate service at 9:30 a.m., Saturday, May 13, will be theologian and author Martin E. Marty of the University of Chicago, recent past president of the American Academy of Religion.

Close has been honored by her peers for her work on stage, screen and television. She received a Tony Award for her performance in "The Real Thing," an Obie Award for her title role in "The Singular Life of Albert Nobbs" and an Emmy nomination for her role in ABC-TV's "Something About Amelia." She has received Academy Award nominations for her work in "The World According to Garp," "The Big Chill," "The Natural," "Fatal Attraction" and "Dangerous Liaisons."

A native of Greenwich, Conn., Close is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the College who was active in writing, directing and acting in a variety of William and Mary Theatre productions. As a student, Close said, her guiding light was Howard Scammon, professor of theatre and speech emeritus.

During her senior year, she was nominated for the national regional auditions of the Theatre Communications Group, and it was from there that she was discovered by the Phoenix Theatre, then a Broadway house, and made her professional theatrical debut in New York in a season of three back-to-back plays: "Love for Love," "The Member of the Wedding" and "Rules of the Game."

Close has recently finished work on a film titled "Immediate Family," with James Woods.

Robert M. Adams, anthropologist and educator, has been secretary of the Smithsonian Institution since 1984. A native of Chicago, he received Ph.B., M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Chicago and was a long-time member of the faculty, serving as a professor in the anthropology department, director of the university's Oriental Institute, dean of the division of social sciences and provost.

Adams did his archaeological field training in Jarmo, Iraq, and Yucatan, Mexico, and his field studies in history, irrigation and urban settlement have taken him to Iraq, Saudi Arabia and Iran. He is the author of numerous books and serves as an adjunct professor at Johns Hopkins University.

Mary Maples Dunn has been president of Smith since 1985. A native of Sturgeon Bay, Wis., she graduated Phi Beta Kappa from William and Mary with an A.B. degree in history, then enrolled at Bryn Mawr College, where she received M.A. and Ph.D. degrees. She was a member of the Bryn Mawr faculty for 27 years, serving as professor, acting dean, dean of the undergraduate college and academic deputy to the president.

Mrs. Reves to open international center

Wendy Reves will be on campus this week to participate in the dedication of the Wendy and Emery Reves Center for International Studies.

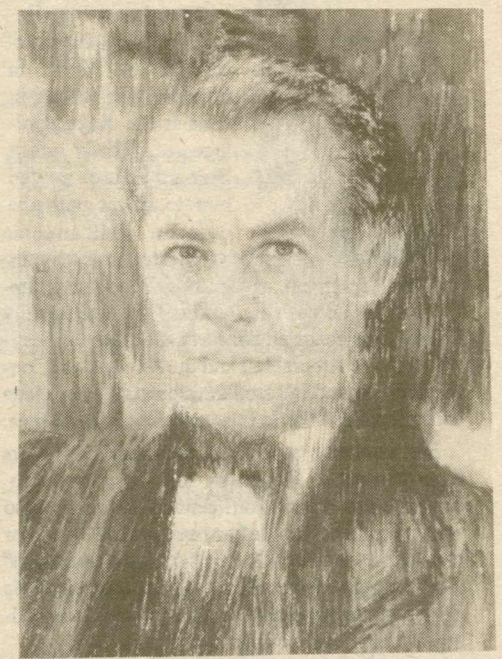

For her it will be a special visit, an opportunity to link another generation of scholars with the work of a remarkable man who, through his friendships with some of Europe's leaders, may have had a substantial influence on post-World War II international events.

Wendy Reves has been described as a Texas beauty, a commanding figure, blunt, high-spirited, someone with whirlpool energy and the fashion flair of a former model.

Wendy and Emery Reves were at home to many international statesmen and famous personalities during the 1950s at the Villa La Pausa on the Cote d'Azur. They entertained and hosted Winston Churchill and his entourage, Konrad Adenauer, the Duke of Windsor, the Rothschilds, Onassis, Garbo, Somerset Maugham, Rose Kennedy and Graham Sutherland.

After Emery Reves' death, his wife gave the treasures of their mansion, which included 41 paintings, 37 works on paper, 13 sculptures and more than 1,300 decorative objects — period furniture, masterwork textiles, ancient frames, antique Chinese porcelain, old silver and glassware and Renaissance ironwork — to the Dallas Museum of Art which re-created a section of the villa.

For the museum it was a coup. The Reves Collection, valued for insurance purposes at more than $30 million, included works by Cezanne, van Gogh, Toulouse-Lautrec, Vlaminck and Redon.

Portraits of Mr. and Mrs. Reves at Center.

At the villa, which once belonged to Coco Chanel, Emery and Wendy Reves entertained their important guests. Emery Reves discussed his views on world peace, which he had outlined in The Anatomy of Peace, hailed by Albert Einstein as a solution to the political problems of the world so drastically precipitated by the release of atomic energy. The book sold almost one million copies and reached an estimated audience of 50 million through Readers' Digest.

A successful John Powers model, Wendy Reves stepped into the international lifestyle of her hus-

Joseph L. Muscarelle dies

Joseph L. Muscarelle Sr. '27, the major donor to the Joseph and Margaret Muscarelle Museum of Art, died Sunday in Hackensack, N.J. He was 85.

A funeral mass will be celebrated Friday at Holy Trinity Church in Hackensack.

Survivors include his wife, Margaret Muscarelle; two daughters, Carolyn Infante and Marlene Flanagan; a son, Joseph L. Jr.; a brother Charles; two sisters, Concetta Corso and Grace Calendrillo; 15 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Memorial donations may be sent to the Joseph L. Muscarelle Charitable Foundation, 99 W. Essex St., Maywood, NJ 07607.

Muscarelle's donation to the College was as much an expression of love toward William and Mary as it was toward art, said museum director Mark M. Johnson.

"The museum staff and its community of friends are tremendously saddened to learn of the death of the person whose generosity helped make the dream of a fine arts museum at William and Mary a reality. Joe, with his wife, Margaret, was always a benefactor. He was a father figure to the museum — warm, kind and comfortable to be with. He had great love for the College and the museum was a symbol of that devotion," he added.

Muscarelle saw the museum that he had nurtured since the early 1980s grow impressively.

In March the American Association of Museums accredited the Muscarelle Museum. Of nearly 6,000 art museums nationwide, only 674 have been accredited. The museum presents rotating displays from a permanent collection of over 2,000 works of art encompassing a diverse group of objects from antiquity to the present. Eastern and Western art and examples of almost every material and media. Numerous special exhibits bring together works of art from public and private collections worldwide.

Muscarelle built the Joseph L. Muscarelle Co. from a small construction company of which he was the lone employee to a business giant that today employs more than 1,000 and handles a multimillion-dollar work schedule.

Although Muscarelle's dreams of becoming a doctor were put aside when he stepped in to become the family breadwinner after the death of his brother Samuel, he always rejected the poor-boy-makes-good label. "God's been very good to me," he once said.

Muscarelle created the Joseph L. Muscarelle Center for Building Construction Studies at Farleigh Dickinson University, which gave him an honorary doctor of law degree. He also established the Joseph L. Muscarelle Foundation in 1958, which has awarded more than 250 partial college scholarships to needy students.

Honorary degree recipients, baccalaureate speaker

Dunn's research interests include women in colonial America and William Penn. The author of several books on Penn, she and her husband, Richard S. Dunn, are editors of The Papers of William Penn, Vols. I and II.

Denys Wilkinson, an internationally recognized physicist, has made major contributions to the instrumentation and theory of physical science. A native of Leeds, England, he received undergraduate, graduate and doctoral degrees from Cambridge University. He has worked on both the British and Canadian atomic projects and has taught at Cambridge, Oxford University and Sussex, where he has served as vice chancellor since 1976. He has lectured at many institutions around the world, including William and Mary, where on several occasions he has been a visiting lecturer in the department of physics.

Baccalaureate speaker Martin Marty is recognized as one of the country's foremost religious authorities, serving as editor of the weekly The Christian Century, editor of the fortnightly newsletter Context, and co-editor of the quarterly Church History. He is president of the Park Ridge Center, an institute for the study of health, faith and ethics, and is the Fairfax M. Cone Distinguished Service Professor of the History of Modern Christianity at the University of Chicago, where he received his Ph.D. in 1956.

A native of West Point, Neb., Marty served 10 years in the Lutheran pastorate, then joined the Chicago faculty where he has taught in the Divinity School, the Committee on History and Culture and the history department. He is the author of some 40 books, and serves as project director for a five-year fundamentalism project for the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

Reves' goal: peaceful world band with aplomb. In an article in the Smithsonian Magazine, Helen Dudar recalls that Wendy Reves developed a special friendship with British Prime Minister Winston Churchill, a man who knew periods of great gloom and who came to the Villa La Pausa to cheer his spirits.

Wendy Reves' attention now is directed at seeing that her husband's work is continued and that his intellect will flourish. A man with ideas ahead of his time, Reves today would see that some of the ideas he advocated are coming to fruition with such plans as the European Common Market and the closer ties planned for the 1990s.

How did Wendy Reves decide that William and Mary would be the site of a memorial to her husband? The link from the South of France to Williamsburg was made by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Shatz of Williamsburg who have enjoyed a 30-year friendship with Mr. and Mrs. Reves. Mr. Shatz, a foreign correspondent for many years, first met Emery Reves in Europe. Reves, said Shatz "had created a syndicated news service, which provided outlets to Europe's leading democratic statesmen as well as a public platform to Winston Churchill." Reves published and authored numerous works including Winston Churchill's War Memoirs.

"I think," explained Mr. Shatz, "that Wendy Reves felt that the College, which has a heritage which spans almost 300 years and is energetically pursuing international education, is an appropriate place to keep alive the name of Emery Reves and promulgate his ideas for a peaceful world."

Director's Workshop, April 19-22

Theatre 407, Director's Workshop, will present seven plays in two playbills, April 19-22 in the Studio Theatre of Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall, at 8:15 p.m.

There is no admission charge. Patrons will be seated on a first-come, first-seated basis. Late arrivals will not be admitted while a play is in progress.

Bill No. 1, which will be presented Wednesday and Friday, April 19 and 21, will include the following plays: "Hello Out There" by William Saroyan, directed by Kari Ardolino; "Madness of Lady Bright" by Lanford Wilson, directed by Karen Jordan; "The Nightingale and Not the Lark" by Jennifer Johnston, directed by Jennifer Catney; and "Chinamen" by Michael Frayn, directed by Jennifer Piech.

The program for Thursday and Saturday, April 20 and 22, will include "The Great Nebula in Orion" by Lanford Wilson, directed by Melanie Martin; "The Indian Wants the Bronx" by Israel Horowitz, directed by Matt Faw; and "Sexual Perversity in Chicago" by Mamet, directed by James Wilkins. The David Mamet play contains adult situations and language; those who may be offended by such material are advised not to attend.

Instrumental and voice performances fill music schedule

Niel Immelman, pianist

Niel Immelman, pianist, will give a recital at 2 p.m., Thursday, April 13 in the Ewell Recital Hall. His program will include works by Scarlatti, Soler, Schubert and Scriabin and will feature the Liszt Sonata in B minor.

Niel Immelman

Immelman, professor of piano at the Royal College of Music in London, was still a student at the Royal College of Music when Bernard Haitink invited him to debut with the London Philharmonic Orchestra in Rachmaninoff's Paganini Rhapsody. This was rapidly followed by featured concerts at the Royal Festival Hall, the Albert Hall and the Amsterdam Concertgebouw and by tours through many European countries, the Middle East and the United States.

His concerto repertoire includes composers from Mozart to Gershwin, and he recently recorded a concert of 20th-century Russian piano works for the BBC. He has been praised by major newspaper reviewers for his "authority and logic" and "immaculate detail and chilling intensity." He is in great demand both as a teacher for outstanding students and as a performer.

Beth Kennedy, soprano

Beth Kennedy, a soprano, will present her junior voice recital at 8 p.m., Saturday, April 15 in the Ewell Recital Hall.

Her program will include selections by Haydn, Schubert, Mozart and Fauré.

She has been a studying with Mary Fletcher of the music faculty for the past three years.

Beth is a business-marketing concentrator and sings with both the William and Mary Choir and the Botetourt Chamber Singers. She is an officer of her sorority, Kappa Kappa Gamma, and a member of the Collegiate Business Society and Direct Marketing of Williamsburg.

Beth will be accompanied by Christine Cochrane, a senior music concentrator who is a member of the William and Mary Choir and active in Delta Omicron music fraternity.

Christine has been awarded several music scholarships and has been a recital accompanist for the past three years. She recently presented her second recital under the guidance of Claudia Stevens of the music faculty.

Rebecca Humes, pianist

Rebecca Humes will give a senior piano recital at 2 p.m., Sunday, April 16 in the Ewell Recital Hall.

Her program will feature fugues of different eras, represented by J. S. Bach, Franck, Barber and Mozart. Humes will be joined by Elizabeth Swanson in the performance of Mozart's two-piano Sonata and Fugue.

Beth Kennedy

A double concentrator in music and biology, Rebecca plans to attend Johns Hopkins University to study medicine. She has been studying the piano for 17 years and for the last four has been a student of Mrs. Verta Lendvay.

Rebecca has been winner of the Auralius B. Walford Scholarship and the Stephen Palades Scholarship the past two years. This year she was also winner of the Gladys Iseman Clark Scholarship. She won the 1987 Concerto Competition and performed Mendelssohn's Concerto in G Minor with the William and Mary Orchestra last spring. Humes also was selected to play Copland's "Appalachian Spring" with the orchestra that year. She spent last summer at the Hampden-Sydney Summer Music Festival for chamber music.

A Virginia Scholar, Rebecca is a member of Mortar Board and was recently elected to Phi Beta Kappa. She is a member of Phi Mu sorority and has been a resident assistant for two years. She has been a rehearsal pianist for the Sinfonicon Light Opera Company and a vocal and instrumental, accompanist.

Chamber Players

The Muscarelle Museum of Art will present the final performance in its "Music at the Muscarelle" concert series at 3 p.m., Sunday, April 16. The William and Mary Chamber Players, directed by Burton Kester of the music faculty, will play music of the Classical Period. The concert is free and open to the public.

The program will open with the "Oboe Concerto" by Marcello, featuring Cameron Arnold, oboe; Pamela Houdek, cello; and Stephanie Singer, harpsichord. Laura Singleton will perform Debussy's "Symix," written for solo flute. C.P.E. Bach's "Suite," written for violin, flute, two french horns, cello and harpsichord, will be played by the ensemble. The concert will close with the "Divertimento for Two Clarinets and Bassoon" by Mozart.

The last film in the "Films in Art" series will be shown before the concert. "David Hockney: Portrait of an Artist" is scheduled for 2 p.m. in the main gallery. A repeat showing will be given at 4 p.m., Wednesday, April 19.

Kester and Olbrych

Burton Kester, flute, and Timothy Olbrych, guitar, members of the music faculty, will present a recital at 7 p.m., Sunday, April 16 in the Ewell Recital Hall.

This recital is open to the public. There is no admission charge.

The featured work will be "Duetto Concertante" by 19th-century guitar virtuoso, composer and guitar maker Luigi Rinaldo Legnani (1790-1877).

The program will also include works by Ravel, Debussy, Marais, and three solo guitar works, "Nocturno" by Moreno-Taroba, "Recuerdos de la Alhambra" by Tarrega and "Asturias" by Albeniz.

Turner-Peterson '71 to give AAPG lecture on basin analysis

Christine Turner-Peterson '71, who has been selected to participate in the Distinguished Lecture Tour of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists, will speak on campus at 4 p.m., Friday, April 14 in Small Hall 238. Her topic will be "Pore Throats to Plate Margins: An Integrated Approach to Basin Analysis."

Turner-Peterson received a master's degree from Northern Arizona University and a doctorate from the University of Colorado.

From 1974 to the present she has been a research geologist with the United States Geological Survey in Denver, Colo. She has been project chief, Mesozoic basins of the eastern United States and, since 1983, San Juan Basin Research coordinator for sandstone uranium deposits in New Mexico.

She was the Wilmot Hyde Bradley Distinguished Lecturer in 1986 and also that year was principal editor of AAPG Studies in Geology No. 22 on basin analysis of the Morrison Formation. In 1987 Turner-Peterson received the G. K. Gilbert Fellowship for research on clay diagenesis.

Her talk will focus on how the basin analysis approach to modelling sedimentary basins affords the opportunity to view ore deposits or accumulations of fossil fuels in the context of the evolution of the entire basin. Integration of data from diverse specialties is now widely practiced, and the multidisciplinary approach to the study of basins has greatly enhanced the ability of scientists to understand and to predict the occurrence and distribution of economically important commodities.

"The integrative nature of the basin analysis approach," explains Turner-Peterson, "allows a synoptic rather than a myopic view of specific geologic problems. The approach can be applied to any geologic problem and will continue to lead us away from current paradigms as multiple lines of evidence force us to question our most cherished beliefs. Most certainly we will continue to learn surprising answers to questions we forgot to ask."

Notes

Don't go it alone phone ESCORT

While most people are happy when the pace of work in the office is slow, ESCORT volunteers like to stay busy.

ESCORT offers a safe walk across campus seven evenings a week, 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. By calling ext. 4423, students, faculty and staff can request the service of ESCORT rather than walk alone.

From an office in the basement of Landrum, ESCORT volunteers, members of Alpha Phi Omega national service fraternity, will respond to all requests.

There are over 100 students who volunteer for ESCORT, and their work is coordinated by Doug Adams. Anyone interested in volunteering should contact Adams at ext. 4423.

As welcome as volunteers will be, what ESCORT really wants is the opportunity to put the volunteers they have to work and keep them working — so make ESCORT happy, help yourself — call ext. 4423 instead of going it alone at night.

GOP Rites of Spring

A number of high ranking Republican candidates and state officials are expected for the eighth annual "Rites of Spring" sponsored by the College Republicans.

The event will be held Sunday, April 23 from 1 to 5 p.m. at the Lake Matoaka Shelter.

Tickets are $10 for adults, $5 for students and $2.50 for children and may be purchased by contacting Anne Gambrell at 253-2204.

State Senator Eddy Dalton, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, and State Senator Joe Benedetti, candidate for State Attorney General, are among the candidates expected. First District Congressman Herbert H. Bateman, State Delegate Jeff Stafford and likely House of Delegates candidate Brian Wright are also expected.

Besides being a fund-raiser, "Rites of Spring" serves as an opportunity for young activists to meet and honor conservative leaders from across the state. This year State Delegate Jeff Stafford from Pearisburg will receive the Mills E. Godwin Award for Conservatism.

Yard sale

Members of the Greek residence staff will hold a yard sale at Sorority Court, noon-4p.m., Sunday, April 16.

Proceeds from the sale will benefit a number of sorority charities, including the Children's Hospital of the King's Daughters, the Battered Women's shelter of Williamsburg and the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

Items on sale will include bicycles, small appliances, air conditioners, room-size refrigerators, record albums and other collectibles.

Career Services

Career days

VCU in Richmond is sponsoring Career Day '89, a series of seminars to help students and young professionals understand marketing and advertising career options, April 25.

The New Jersey Collegiate Career Day at Rutgers University is set for June 1.

For details on both events, contact Barbara McGrann in the Career Services office, Morton 140, ext. 4604.

Job openings

Students of all majors are invited to interview for an account executive position at Edumat, Inc., a fund-raising company for non-profit organizations, based in the Tidewater area. Resumes and sign-ups are due by 11 a.m., Monday, April 17.

Help Unlimited

The Student Activities Office is now accepting applications for the position of Help Unlimited Coordinator for the 1989-90 school year.

SCATS changes

Several changes have been made in the SCATS and/or Centrex numbers for state agencies located in the Roanoke and Salem areas. These should be noted in the SCATS directory.

Roanoke area: 982, 983 and SCATS 676 in the 7000-7999 number range will be replaced by one three-digit prefix, 857.

Salem area: SCATS prefix 791 will be replaced by 387.

If you have any questions about these changes, please contact Pam Owen ext. 5516.

RBC Belfast speaker

Richard Wilford, political science lecturer at Queen's University, Belfast, Northern Ireland and currently Fulbright Scholar-in-Residence at Hollins College, will give a public lecture at 7:45 p.m., Wednesday, April 19 at Richard Bland College's student center.

Wilford will discuss his country's religious conflicts in "Northern Ireland: The Search for a Solution."

This lecture is part of the International Forum that is sponsored each spring by the RBC government department and coordinated by John Blair of the RBC faculty.

Classified Advertisements

Classified ads are included as a service to members of the College community and will be accepted from faculty, staff, students and alumni only. The fee for ads is $3 for three consecutive issues. Ads should be no longer than 40 words and must be submitted, in writing and with payment, to the William and Mary News office no later than 5 p.m. on the Friday preceding the first insertion. Corrections must be made before the second insertion. Any change is considered a new ad.
