College moves to protect Lake Matoaka

Board of Visitors tackles full agenda

At a meeting Friday of the College's Board of Visitors, President Verkuil reported that he has asked the collegewide Committee on the Environment to examine the future of Lake Matoaka and develop a report with recommendations on steps to be taken to preserve the lake environment and water quality. He said he will give a status report on the committee's work at the next board meeting in February.

The problem with Lake Matoaka was discovered several weeks ago when two students developed skin rashes after wading the lake. The lake was closed Sept. 27 as a precautionary measure, and scientists from the School of Marine Science were brought in to analyze the water, which was found to contain higher than normal levels of bacteria Aeromonas hydrophila and E. coli. Both bacteria exist in nature, and their presence may have been elevated by unusual amounts of rain and warm weather. VIMS scientists say the short-term problem should correct itself as the water temperature drops, but they are continuing to monitor the water and seek solutions.

While the lake was closed, testing was hampered by two sewage spills, one from a pumping station, which was corrected within two hours; the other from a new residence hall, which was corrected within one hour of discovery. The College has taken several steps to keep the spills from recurring, including constructing a catch basin around the pumping station and installing a siren to signal a power outage. The College is also bidding a project to enhance the current pumping station and add larger capacity lines in that entire area.

Student loans

Responding to a request from the board, Verkuil also reported on the student loan default rate at the College, which is currently 1.2 percent compared to a national default rate of 17 percent. The president attributed the low rate to extensive student counseling on loan obligations by the Office of Financial Aid and the Treasurer's Office.

In a report on fall admissions, the president said that the 1,264 freshmen of the class of 1993 were exceptionally strong academically, with median SAT scores of 1250, "the highest of any class that has preceded them." He shared a recent article in USA Today, which lists the most selective colleges and universities in the country and shows that William and Mary is the most selective public institution.

Campaign for the Fourth Century

The president also reported that The Campaign for the Fourth Century is closing in on $68 million and hopes to raise $75 million by the end of the calendar year.

During Thursday's meeting of the board's Committee on Student Affairs, Sam Sadler, vice president for student affairs, said the new Recreation Center was already being heavily used by 800 to 1,000 students per day. He said the combination of buildings and playing fields "have given the College a whole new lease on life in recreation opportunities on this campus."

Construction projects

The board's Committee on Buildings and Grounds heard reports on several campus construction projects. Renowned classical architect Allan Greenberg, in presenting preliminary drawings of Tercentenary Hall adjacent to the Sunken Garden, said he viewed the structure as "the last sentence of a great paragraph,"

Surry emergency alert

The radiological emergency plan for the College in the event of an accident at the Surry nuclear plant will be tested Wednesday, Nov. 15.

This will be a major drill, said Richard S. Cumbee, director of the Campus Police Department. At some point during the day, said Cumbee, an attempt will be made to notify everyone on campus concerning the drill. "We ask the cooperation of faculty and staff in this notification." In some instances department secretaries will be asked to go to classrooms to deliver messages.

Classes will be held as usual but will be interrupted during the notification phase of the drill. No one will be asked to move, said Cumbee, but information will be given on what to do in the event of an emergency. The College has a detailed plan, which will be monitored as part of Wednesday's exercise.

Because this is a major drill, several phases of the College plan will be tested including transportation, evacuation, air handling units, the food service and the reception center in Richmond.

A public review meeting will be held at 11 a.m., Friday, Nov. 17 at the Williamsburg Hilton.

referring to the arrangement of Georgian buildings west of the Wren Building. The proposed building would be three stories on the front, four stories at the rear, and would follow the exterior look of existing structures such as Washington Hall, with flexible modular interior space for offices, classrooms and laboratories.

Sadler presented plans for the new campus center, which, architecturally, "would provide a bridge between the old campus and the new." Nancy Nash, assistant to the vice president for administration and finance, presented architect's drawings for the College's child care center, to be located at the rear of Bridges House and Hoak House. The center would serve a maximum of 75 children from infancy to age six. The facility is being designed in a series of house-like modular units, which will blend with existing roof lines when seen from Richmond Road.

Budgets approved

The board's Committee on Financial Affairs received financial reports for the past fiscal year and approved operating budget proposals for the 1990-92 biennium for Richard Bland College, the Virginia Institute of Marine Science and the College of William and Mary. Included in the proposals are various budget initiatives being requested by each agency.

VIMS' budget initiatives for the 90-92 biennium totaled $4,184,600 and included, among other programs: $240,000 for an environmental safety program; $120,000 for participation in the state's Estuarine Research Reserve System; $856,000 for a wetlands research program; $180,000 for annual surveys of submerged aquatic vegetation; $290,000 for assessment of groundwater nutrient sources to the James River estuary; $150,000 for development of a shellfish management data base; $300,000 for a study on climate change impacts on estuaries; $100,000 for the Marine Mammals Stranding Program; $638,000 for a comprehensive coastal inventory; $350,600 to cover unavoidable cost increase in computer services; $371,000 for a campus-wide computer networking system; $300,000 for a mariculture and marine product advisory program; and $189,000 for a bay team education program.

William and Mary budget initiative requests, which totaled $17,502,812, include, among others: $2,856,700 for unavoidable cost increases in insurance, utilities, equipment maintenance, new facilities coming on-line, hazardous waste management, and educational supplies and materials; $2,491,500 to support new academic programs in applied science and public policy; $750,200 for undergraduate research opportunities; $1,857,000 for additional faculty resources and curriculum development in international studies and geographic education; $1,204,050 for student financial assistance; $363,800 for the student academic advising program; $974,900 for the third phase of an administrative computing systems upgrade; $1,818,244 for library materials funding and preservation; and $816,952 for library automation and access.

Faculty appointments

Faculty appointments approved by the board include John E. Graves, assistant professor of marine science; and Rahman Pourang, postdoctoral research associate in physics. Administrative appointments include Maurice Allen, assistant dean of admission; William Leonard Camp, associate director for capital planning and construction; and Richard J. Ferraro, assistant dean of student affairs.

Judge Ted Dalton dies in Radford

Senior U.S. District Judge Theodore Roosevelt Dalton, whose ties to William and Mary include undergraduate and law degrees, died Oct. 30 at his home in Radford, Va. He was 88.

Dalton's adopted son, former Gov. John N. Dalton, was also a William and Mary graduate. His brother Garret Dalton served as a member of the Board of Visitors.

Dalton has been praised by former Gov. Linwood Holton as "The creator of the modern Republican Party statewide in Virginia. He was in favor of things that were good for the state."

As a state senator he helped pass a "freedom of choice" plan to desegregate Virginia Schools and as a federal judge wrote the decision that desegregated Roanoke Schools.

He entered politics as Radford's Commonwealth attorney. He was elected as a write-in candidate to the Virginia Senate in 1944, when there was only one other Republican in that 40-member body.

Joan Thomas, William Rost named to Advancement positions

Two Office of University Advancement staff appointments have been approved by the Board of Visitors.

Joan Potter Thomas has been named director for annual support, and William Haven Rost has been named associate director for capital support.

In her new position, Thomas serves as director of the William and Mary Annual Fund, responsible for planning, organizing and implementing programs designed to increase levels of current operating support from alumni, parents and friends. She will also direct an integrated mail and telephone program for $150 million in support of The Campaign for the Fourth Century, which will culminate with the tercentenary of the College in 1993.

A member of the University Advancement staff since 1987, Thomas was coordinator for constituent relations from 1987 to 1989, becoming associate director for annual support in February. Prior to her tenure at William and Mary, she was a logistic analyst for Newport News Shipbuilding from 1985 to 1987 and an associate with Bauer & Associates,

Joan Thomas

William Rost

Inc., a management consulting firm in Ann Arbor, Mich. She is a graduate of the University of Michigan and is working toward a master's degree in English at William and Mary.

Rost is responsible for directing William and Mary's Regional Campaign Program, a series of fund-raising campaigns being conducted in specific geographic areas throughout the nation in support of The Campaign for the Fourth Century.

Rost was formerly a campaign associate from 1985 to 1989 for The Campaign for Indiana at Indiana University and director of The Well House Society, the university's donor recognition group. Prior to that he was an assistant professor of physical education and head soccer coach at MacMurray College in Jacksonville, Ill. He also served on the faculties and coached soccer and swimming at Wabash College in Crawfordsville, Ind., and at Gettysburg College in Gettysburg, Pa. Rost received his bachelor's and master's degrees from Indiana University and served as an associate instructor and assistant soccer coach there.

VIMS Newsmakers

Robert J. Orth, assistant director of biological and fisheries science, was recently elected president of the Estuarine Research Federation (ERF) at the national meetings held in Baltimore in October. ERF is the research society that represents the estuarine scientists of the United States.

Orth was among 60 scientists who attended the conference from VIMS/SMS and presented scientific papers and posters listed below:

P. Baker, "Predation on an Introduced Marine Snail by Native Crabs."

S. Baker, "Ability of Crassostrea virginica Larvae to Metamorphose Under Stress."

B. Barber, "Physiological Rates of Oysters (Crassostrea virginica) Unselected and Selected for Resistance to MSX (Haplosporidium nelsoni)."

A. Beardsley, B. Meehan, "Stock Identification of Bluefish (Pomatomus saltatrix) Using Restriction Fragment Analysis."

R. Blaylock, "A Massive School of Cownose Rays, Rhinoptera bonasus, from Lower Chesapeake Bay: Quantification, Adaptive Significance, and Biological Implications."

J.M. Brubaker, "Modes of Temperature/Salinity Variability Near the Mouth of a Partially Mixed Estuary."

E. Burreson and E. McGovern, "The Role of Temperature and Salinity in Long-term Trends in Abundance of Oyster Diseases in Lower Chesapeake Bay."

R. J. Diaz, S. Leyland, J. Neubauer, "Growth and Productivity of Macroben- thos Relative to Dissolved Oxygen Fluctuations Driven by Tidal Stratification- Destratification."

K. Gallagher, R. Hale, J. Greaves, J. Gundersen, R. F. Mothershead, "Polychlorinated Terphenyls in Biota of Back River, Va."

L. Haas, C. Falkenhayn, M. Sieracki, "Growth and Grazing Dynamics of Coc- coid Cyanobacteria in the Lower Chesape- ake Bay."

R. Hale, J. Greaves, G. Vadas, E. Har- vey, "Polychlorinated Terphenyls in Sedi- ments of Tributaries of the Chesapeake Bay."

W. Hargis Jr., J. Colvocoresses, D. Zwer- ner, "External Lesions of Selected Fin- fishes from an Highly Polluted Subestu- ary."

C. Hershner, "Structure and Function of Sweet Hall Marsh, a Tidal Freshwater Wetland."

E. Koepfler, R. Wetzel, H. Kator, "Re- lationships between Bacterioplankton Carbon Production and Ammonia Cy- cling in the Lower York River Estuary during a Spring-Summer Period."

E. Koepfler, L. Haas, H. Kator, "Exam- ination of Temporal and Spatial Bacterioplankton Dynamics During Destra- tification in the James River Estuary, Va."

A. Y. Kuo, M. Z. Moustafa, "Tempo- ral and Spatial Variabilities of Hypoxia in Rappahannock Estuary, Va."

J. H. Li, C. S. Hardaway, "Beach Equi- librium Models Around Coastal Struc- tures."

R. J. Llanso, "Tolerance of the Poly- chaete Streblospio benedicti to Low Dissolved Oxygen."

M. Luckenbach, R. Diaz, L. Schaffner,

"Monitoring Marine Invertebrate Assem- blages: Questions of Scale."

R. Mann, "Impact of Seasonal Hypox- ia on Early Life History of Oysters."

K. McCarthy, R. Mann, "Swimming Behavior and Dispersal of Larval Crassos- trea virginica (Gmelin)."

K. Moore, R. Wetzel, H. Neckles, "Macrophyte and Epiphyte Response to Variable Light and Nutrient Regimes."

L. Morris, R. Wetzel, H. Kator, "Nitro- gen Cycling in the York River Estuary: Spatial and Temporal Patterns in Nitrifi- cation."

H. Neckles, "Effects of Nutrient En- richment and Epiphyte Grazing on Zos- tera marina Community Dynamics."

M. Nichols, "Relative Sea Level Rise and Sediment Accumulation Rates in Lagoons" and "Sedimentologic Fate of Kepone in the James Estuary."

E. Olmi III, "Immigrating Blue Crab Megalopae: Inferring Processes from Pat- terns of Abundance."

R. Orth, K. Moore, A. Frisch, J. No- wak, "Recent Trends in Submerged Aquatic Vegetation (SAV) Communities in the Chesapeake Bay."

J. Rainer, R. Morales, "Egg Viability as an Indicator of Reproductive Success in Crassostrea virginica."

J. Rainer, R. Mann, "Estimation of Oys- ter Stranding Stock Using Scuba."

J. Rainer, "Calculations of Condition Index for Bivalves."

E. Ruzbecki, "Summer Advection of Bottom Water in Chesapeake Bay."

L. Schaffner, "Benthic Communities and Bioturbation History of Chesapeake Bay: Effects of Hypoxia and Anoxia."

L. Schaffner, D. Deperro, D. Corco- ran, S. Pharr, "Short-term Macrobenthic Vertical Distribution Dynamics: Effects of Hypoxia and Recruitment."

L.D. Wright, J. D. Boon, J. P.-Y. Maa (VIMS), G. C. Greens (NASA), "Passive Artificial Ventilation of Hypoxic Benthic Environments."

J. van Montfrans, E. J. Olmi III, R. J. Orth, "Ecological Implications from Daily Abundance and Settlement Records of Blue Megalopae."

R. Zieman, R. Wetzel, L. Morris, S. A. Maco, "The Interactions of Seagrass, Mangrove, and Coral Reef Ecosystems."

Maurice P. Lynch, professor of marine science, presented a paper titled "Chesapeake Bay Research" in the Distinguished Environmental Lecture Series at Duke University, School of Forestry and Environmental Studies in Durham, North Carolina. Lynch also gave a presentation titled "Marine Science as a Graduate Career" at North Carolina Central University in Durham.

The following VIMS contributions were received by the library July through Sept. 1989:

Bisker, Robert S. and Michael Cas- tagna. 1989. "Biological Control of Crab Predation on Hard Clams Mercenaria mer- cenaria (Linnaeus, 1758) by the Toadfish Opsanus tau (Linnaeus) in Tray Cultures." Journal of Shellfish Research 8:33-36.

Debaters win sweepstakes award at Appalachian State University

William and Mary debaters won the Overall Debate Sweepstakes award at the Appalachian State University tournament in Boone, N.C., this weekend. The University of Florida placed second.

The team of Dan Palamountain and Jeff Petty stretched their win streak to four, taking the novice division. They also took top speaker awards.

Mark Mollner and Danny Green were paired as a team in the novice division and defeated Vanderbilt in the quarterfinal to meet Petty and Palamountain in the semifinals. Petty and Palamountain were 6-0 through the preliminaries; Mollner and Green were 4-2.

Under coach Pat Micken's ruling that when two W&M teams meet, the team with the best record advances, Petty and Palamountain moved into the finals and won a 3-0 decision against University of North Carolina at Charlotte for the championship. Palamountain was named top speaker, Petty second, and Mollner seventh.

In the varsity division, three William and Mary teams competed. Ann Skjei and Mennu Talwar and Peter Brien and Stanford Hess were both 2-4 in the preliminaries, not a good enough score to get them into the final rounds.

Jeremy Kamens and Ron Miles were 4-2 in the preliminaries and defeated teams from Duke, the University of Alabama and UNC-Charlotte before falling in the final round to the University of Florida on a split 2-1 decision. This was a tournament best for Kamens and Miles.

Swem Library acquires computerized general interest journal index

During the summer of 1987 Swem Library was in the vanguard by offering access to indexes to journals on CD-ROM. The first databases made available in this high-density storage medium were ERIC, PsychLit and SocioFile. These relate closely to education, psychology and sociology respectively.

The Library has now expanded its CD-ROM access to information on journal articles through the acquisition of an additional database. Periodical Abstracts Ondisc is a general-interest database of citations and brief abstracts in approximately 300 magazines, among them Time, Newsweek, Psychology Today, Ms., UN Chronicle, Billboard, Business Week, New England Journal of Medicine, Foreign Affairs, Progressive and New Republic. Beginning with their Jan. 1988 issues, Periodical Abstracts Ondisc covers all of the magazines indexed by Reader's Guide plus about 100 others.

For a number of years Swem has offered the National Newspaper Index on microfilm. This index has been replaced by its more convenient CD-ROM version. It indexes The Christian Science Monitor, The Los Angeles Times, The New York Times, The Wall Street Journal and The Washington Post from 1986 to the present. It also includes the book review and magazine sections of The New York Times.

CD-ROM is an optical storage medium adapted from compact discs developed to store and play back musical recordings. Through a microcomputer, a researcher can search the contents of a database stored on CD-ROM. This process takes just seconds, a great time savings compared to manual searches through printed indexes. The results of a search can then be printed out or downloaded to a floppy disc.

The reference department will be happy to answer questions about these two new databases. For more information, call ext. 13067.

Nimmo commits $200,000 for music, theatre, religion depts.

Anna Belle Koenig Nimmo of Golden, Colo., has made gifts and commitments totaling $200,000 to the College of William and Mary's Campaign for the Fourth Century.

Part of her gift will support the most pressing needs of the music department, including scholarship support and instrument purchase and repair. Mrs. Nimmo has made additional commitments to support the departments of theatre and religion at the College.

The main lobby of the newly renovated Ewell Hall will be named in recognition of Mrs. Nimmo's generosity.

A 1945 graduate of William and Mary, Mrs. Nimmo was a member of the College's drama and music clubs. She has continued her interest in acting and the theatre. In the 1960s, she and her husband built a vintage Western town for use as a movie/television set. They also run a buggy rental business as an outgrowth of their hobby of collecting horse-drawn vehicles. Mrs. Nimmo is an avid gem collector and has lectured widely on the subject.

Norman Turner to give slide lecture

Artist Norman Turner, whose landscapes are currently on exhibit in the Foyer Gallery, Andrews Hall, will give a slide lecture at 4:30 p.m., Tuesday, Nov. 14 in Andrews 101 on "Cezanne's Concept of Space."

A reception will follow

An experienced artist/critic, curator/teacher, Turner is currently on the faculty of Queen's College and is director of Caumsett Art, Queen's College's summer residential painting program on Long Island. Turner has had six solo exhibitions in New York.

Tuesday's lecture is sponsored by the College Lectures Committee and the fine arts department.

Reception to honor Robert Cottingham

Members of the College community and their guests are invited meet artist Robert Cottingham at an informal reception from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m., Monday, Nov. 13 at the Muscarelle Museum of Art. Cottingham's work is currently on display at the Museum through Jan. 7.

One of the foremost artists in the Photo-Realist movement, Cottingham is internationally known and represented in the collections of major museums.

Cottingham studied at the Pratt Institute in Brooklyn, receiving a degree in advertising art in 1962. After a successful career as an advertising art director in New York and Los Angeles, he began to paint at the age of 32. Although primarily self-taught, Cottingham speaks of the work of Edward Hopper and Pop artists as influences on his style.

For further information, please call the Muscarelle Museum, ext. 12700.

Richard Bland Players open production of 'Cake and Sippin' Whiskey'

"Cake and Sippin' Whiskey" will open at the Barn Theatre, Petersburg at 8 p.m., Friday, Nov. 10 with a cast of Richard Bland College Students, inaugurating the season for the Richard Bland Players.

Additional performances are scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 11 at 8 p.m. and Sunday, Nov. 12 at 2:30 p.m. Tickets are $2 for adults; $1 for non-RBC students. RBC students will be admitted free.

Set in the South in the 1940s, "Cake and Sippin' Whiskey" by Vicki Mooney, focuses on the obsession of 17-year-old Starlene to marry a "nice guy." Darlene Jill Leffler of Colonial Heights plays Starlene. Others in the cast include David Emory, Disputanta; Timothy Botset, Chester; Tamara Judson, Prince George; Carrie Wheaton and Jim Barnes, Hope-well; Kristi Wilkins, Fort Lee; London

King, Jamestown; and Wendy Morgan, Colonial Heights.

Director David E. Majewski, who joined the RBC theatre and speech department this fall, has renovated the Barn Theatre on the east side of campus for this premier production by the Richard Bland College Players. "I hope to create a cultural outlet for both the College and the community and to attract students who might be considering theatre as a career option, as well as those who enjoy theatre as a hobby," says Majewski.

The Players are also scheduled to present "Shivaree" by William Mastrosi-mone in March and "Hooters" by Ted Talley in late April.

For additional information on the theatre productions, contact Majewski at 862-6122.

'Barefoot in the Park' booked in Studio

Neil Simon's successful comedy "Barefoot in the Park" will be presented as a senior directoral project at 8:15 p.m., Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 9, 10 and 11 in the Studio Theatre of Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. There is no admission charge.

The director is Kari L. Ardolino, a senior from Allentown, Pa.

Simon's play was also a successful movie with Robert Redford and Jane Fonda. The main characters try to overcome the problems of settling into married life. They move into an apartment in a brownstone house in New York, populated by an eccentric group of neighbors.

Joe Wajszczuk and Alexis Smith play the newlyweds, Paul and Corie. Carolyn Heier is Mrs. Banks, Corie's mother, and David Sturdevant is Victor Velasco, who lives on the roof of the apartment building. Others in the cast including Charles Mercer and Chris Buie.

Stefan Litwin to give concert

Swiss pianist Stefan Litwin will play a concert at 8 p.m., Monday, Nov. 20 in Ewell Recital Hall.

Admission is free.

Litwin is one of two accomplished young pianists performing on campus on successive days. On Tuesday, Nov. 21 at 8:15 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall, José Carlos Cocarelli, silver medalist at the 1989 Van Cliburn Competition will play a concert as part of the William and Mary Concert Series.

The program will include Piano Pieces Nos. 2 and 3 by Karlheinz Stockhausen, as well as Stravinsky's "Piano-Rag-Music"; Sonata in A major, op. 101 by Beethoven; "... sofferte onde serene ..." for piano with electronic tape by Luigi Nono; Three Pieces for Piano, op. 11 by Schoenberg; and "Three Pieces for Piano" by Juerg Wyttenbach.

Litwin, born in Mexico City in 1960, received most of his education in Switzerland, where he studied piano and music theory with Christoph Keller and Juerg Wyttenbach. A resident of the United States since 1984, he has pursued additional studies in interpretation with Walter Levin, former first violinist of the LaSalle Quartet, piano with Gilbert Kalish and composition with John Lessard.

Litwin has been internationally recognized as an outstanding performer of contemporary music as well as being highly acclaimed for his provocative interpretations of works from the 18th and 19th centuries. He has appeared at the Salzburg Festival and the Ravinia Festival in Chicago. He is also a sought-after chamber musician, having collaborated on numerous occasions with flutist Aurele Nicolet, the La Salle Quartet and the Cincinnati Percussion Group.

Stefan Litwin

In addition, he performs regularly with violinist Christian Tetzlaff, with whom he has toured Europe extensively. Together they have recently recorded Artur Schnabel's Sonata for Violin and Piano as part of their commitment to the revival of this composer. Litwin's other recordings, available on Deutsche Grammophon, include works of Bach, Beethoven, Schoenberg and Webern.

Sunny skies welcome record number of alumni back to campus for the weekend

Homecoming 1989

The setting for homecoming was picture perfect. The reds and golds of the fall foliage shone in the bright sunshine. The air was brisk and cool, just right for football.

Obligingly the football team defeated East Carolina State University 34-28. The event-packed weekend brought a record number of alumni and their families to the campus. No final tally on numbers is yet available, but projections are that attendance is up at least 10 percent over last year.

Over 300 attended the tribute to Howard Scammon '34, director of the "The Common Glory" for many years and chairman of theatre and speech, now Professor of Theatre and Speech Emeritus. Peter Neufeld '58, announced that the campaign to raise funds for the Althea Hunt/Howard Scammon endowment to fund a chair in theatre and speech had gone over the $100,000 mark.

Alumni Medallion recipients William A. Armbruster, L. Eldon James and R. Bradshaw Pulley were honored at the annual alumni dinner dance Friday evening.

The order of the White Jacket recognized students with scholarships at the annual gathering of the OWJ.

The Lambert Cup and a prize of $350 for the winning float in the parade was won by Chi Omega and Phi Kappa Tau for their "Tribe Salad of a Day." The Black Student Organization won second place and $200 and Psi Upsilon was third. The Off-Campus Council float and the Alpha Chi Omega entry won fourth and fifth places respectively.

Popquoson High School took first place and $175 in prize money in the band division. Manor High School was second and Bruton High School third.

Rolfe E. Kennard, who began returning to William and Mary in the fall of 1924 and is credited with spurring the first homecoming as an official event in 1929, was on hand to enjoy the festivities.

The Sunset Ceremony on Friday afternoon recalled alumni who have died during the past year.

The Olde Guard and the Young Guard as well as reunion classes enjoyed the camaraderie of the occasion which closed with Brunch on Sunday morning.

Five faculty members honored as Alumni Fellows

Five faculty members at the College of William and Mary have been named Alumni Fellows by the Society of the Alumni. The awards were presented at the Alumni Society's annual dinner meeting Friday, Nov. 3 during homecoming weekend.

This year's fellows include James W.

Beers, professor of education; Martha A. Houle, associate professor of modern languages and literatures; Eric R. Jensen, associate professor of economics; R. Heather Macdonald, associate professor of geology; and Keith W. Miller, associate professor of computer science.

Each year the society presents the awards, which carry a $500 honorarium, to recognize younger members of the faculty who are considered outstanding educators and have contributed to the college's academic standards.

A member of the School of Education faculty since 1977, Beers received his bachelor's degree from Johns Hopkins University and master's and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Virginia. He specializes in reading and spelling education and has written numerous articles and several books on the topic. He has also published textbooks for elementary students.

Houle, who joined the modern languages department in 1983, holds bachelor's and Ph.D. degrees from the University of California, San Diego. A specialist in 17th-century French studies, she has written several articles and is preparing a book titled, Gender and Convention in Seventeenth Century French Love Maps.

A member of the economics department since 1982, Jensen received his B.B.A. degree from the University of Miami and his master's and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Michigan. He specializes in economic demography and econometrics and has a particular interest in economics as related to fertility, mortality and family planning. He is also involved in advising activities within the economics department.

Macdonald, who joined the department of geology in 1983, earned her bachelor's degree from Carleton College in Northfield, Minn., and master's and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Wisconsin-Madison. She serves as the chair of the geology section of the Virginia Academy of Science and has published numerous articles on teaching methods as well as geological topics.

Miller returned to William and Mary as a member of the computer science department in 1983. He received a bachelor's degree in education from Concordia Teachers College and a master's degree in mathematics from William and Mary. His Ph.D. in computer science is from the University of Iowa. He is particularly interested in software reliability and development and is a software engineering consultant for several firms.

Alumni Fellows honored at Society's annual dinner dance, Friday evening in the Virginia Room at the Williamsburg Lodge.

Tony Award winner to direct/act in 'Becoming Memories'

Tony Award-winner Michael Rupert will direct and perform in "Becoming Memories" by Arthur Giron, which will be presented as a main stage production by the William and Mary Theatre.

Performances are scheduled for 8:15 p.m., Nov. 16, 17 and 18 and at 2 p.m., Nov. 19. Tickets are $4.

The box office at Phi Beta Kappa having starred on Broadway in "Pippin" and "Shakespeare's Cabaret." He appeared off-Broadway in "Festival" and the award-winning "March of the Falsettos" and at the Mark Taper Forum in Los Angeles in Leonard Bernstein's "Mass," "The Measure's Taken" and "The Mahogony Songplay."

As a composer, Rupert made his debut and a few more years before that writing it with my partner. I was physically and emotionally exhausted and drained and very down on theatre.

"Peter Neufeld suggested that not only would the students benefit from my 25 years of experience in theatre, but he thought it would be good for me too. ... It might take me back, he suggested, to why I started acting in the first place.

"It is amazing how much I am learning myself. It is bringing me back to my roots as a performer, seeing all those 19- and 20-year-olds and seeing how excited they are. I am starting to remember you spend 80 percent of your time trying to get a job and only 20 percent of your time actually doing the job. You relish those times when you are acting, and everyone here has made me realize it still can be a lot of fun. It is not all hard work.

"It has been a terrific experience, and still is. The students are pretty amazing. I am so impressed with everybody—they are all so energetic and bright and they are ambitious and they have pretty good work habits."

Appearing recently as speaker at a Town and Gown luncheon, Rupert was asked if he thought the current crop of William and Mary students he had in class were good enough to make it in theatre.

"There are a handful of people who could certainly hold their own on any aged; it is a life about rejections. What we have as actors are ourselves—how I stand, how I speak—directors don't look at degrees, a paper you've written or how good a chemist you are; all we are are ourselves. Someone says, 'No thank you,' and it is very difficult not to take that personally.

"The first thing I tell my acting students is that they have to make sure that they want it and love acting enough that they can put up with the hardships. ... Acting ability is only part of success. ... It is a strange business. Most of what we read about and see are the success stories. You don't ever go to a bookstore and read a biography of an actor who has never worked or who works once every three years; you read the biographies of very successful people.

"But the end of the hard work is so intriguing and dazzling and attractive and exciting. ... It is a tough life but it is also a rich one if you truly love performing. ... It can be a good life."

Rupert says he has always had the support of his family, although he suggests that when he told them he wanted acting lessons as a young teenager they thought it was just a phase that would pass. "They wanted me to become an orthodontist," he recalls. Rupert credits his grandmother, an artist, with teaching him to sing. Babysitting with him while

"Becoming Memories" is an unusual ensemble piece. Created using the real life stories of the members of the Illusion Theatre of Minneapolis as source material, the play follows five families in a small American town through three generations.

The production has a cast of 11 actors, who have the opportunity to play several roles from different generations. In all, over 50 characters are introduced. The play won the 1984 Drama-Logue Critics Award for Outstanding Achievement in Theatre (writing).

Rupert has been named the first visiting professional guest artist at the College in a new program established by members of the class of 1939 in honor of their 50th reunion. Rupert has been designated the Janet Billet Kennedy Class of 1939 Artist in Residence

Winner of both the Tony Award and the Drama Desk Award for his performance opposite Debbie Allen in the 1986 award-winning "Sweet Charity," Rupert began his career as a child actor at the Pasadena Playhouse. Director Gower Champion chose him to play the role of Robert Goulet's nephew in the musical "The Happy Time." Rupert's performance won him a Tony nomination and a Theatre World Award. Since then he has led a successful bi-coastal stage career, with "3 Guys Naked from the Waist Down," for which he received a Drama Desk nomination. He wrote the music for "Mail," which played in Los Angeles, at the Kennedy Center and on Broadway.

Rupert is also a television actor and has appeared in over 100 guest-starring roles on series, including "Alice," which starred William and Mary alumna Linda Lavin.

Rupert and his partner Jerry Colker, author and lyricist, have been commissioned to write a screen play for "Straight Talk" for Touchstone Pictures, which will star Bette Midler.

In addition to directing and acting in "Becoming Memories," Rupert is teaching a class in performance. Broadway producer and William and Mary alumnus Peter Neufeld was instrumental in bringing Rupert to campus. Rupert will be at William and Mary until the end of November.

Rupert explains: "I had just done a show in New York, 'Mail,' which was first done in California and was a huge success for about eight months. We went to the Kennedy Center, and it went well there; and then we took it to New York and got killed, slaughtered by the critics—some of the worst reviews I've ever read in my life. I was not only the composer, but played the lead actor and was pretty exhausted. We played about six weeks in New York on Broadway at the Music Box Theatre, but the critics just killed us. I had spent a couple of years on the show stage, said Rupert. The big thing they still need to learn is the discipline the profession requires. "They are very dedicated; they work like dogs. I'm still amazed they have energy for classes and writing papers, ... professional work will be very different than college. It (professional discipline) is only something they can truly learn by being out there, and I think some of them will do fine.

"They have to know not to get discour-his parents worked, she would sing and play songs on the mandolin and teach him to sing along

By the time he was 16 Rupert was on Broadway with Robert Goulet in "The Happy Time," for which he received a Tony nomination. He went back to California to complete high school but his college career at University of Southern California didn't even last a year, because he was so busy working.

This system will be implemented shortly, and the number to call for career information is ext. 13238.

Governor's Fellows

Applications are now being received for the Summer 1990 Virginia Governor's Fellowship Program.

The program offers valuable first-hand experience in the processes of state government. The 1990 program will mark the ninth year of the program.

Applicants must be graduating seniors or enrolled as degree candidates in graduate or professional school.

Selection of Fellows will be based on merit, without regard to race, sex, national origin, religion, age, disability or political affiliation.

Fellows must commit to work full time in the Governor's Office for at least two months, June 4 through Aug. 3.

Fellows are assigned to work with members of the Governor's Cabinet or personal staff. Assignments attempt to match the official's need with the Fellow's background and experience.

No state funds are available for supporting Fellows, however, in previous years, William and Mary has provided summer grants for Fellows from the College.

Applicants should submit a letter of application and resume that includes extracurricular activities, awards and recognitions, work experience, voluntary community activities and any other relevant information. Applications should include an official transcript of undergraduate and any graduate work completed including GPA and two or three letters of recommendation.

Applications must be received by Feb. 1 by Professor A. E. Dick Howard, Coordinator, Governor's Fellows Program, State Capitol, Richmond, VA 23219.

For additional information, please write A. E. Dick Howard, Center for Public Service, University of Virginia, 2015 Ivy Road, 4th Floor, Charlottesville, VA 22903-1795.

17th-century foods, feasts

Salting, pickling, stewing, roasting and baking are among methods of food preservation and preparation that will be demonstrated during "Foods and Feasts in 17th-Century Virginia" Thursday, Nov. 23, through Saturday, Nov. 25, at Jamestown Festival Park.

The event illustrates English culinary practices brought to Virginia by early 17th-century colonists, and the foodways of the Powhatan Indians who lived in eastern Virginia at the time Jamestown was established in 1607.

General Counsel for the College

The College is seeking an experienced attorney to serve as chief counsel for the institution and its Board of Visitors. The College, chartered in 1693, is a public university supported by the Commonwealth of Virginia and supervised by a Board of Visitors appointed by the Governor. The College serves the Commonwealth and the nation by its dedication to excellence in education. It is distinctive in associating, in an institution of moderate size, the diversity of a university offering graduate and professional programs with the commitment to liberal education of an undergraduate college of arts and sciences.

The College's General Counsel is a special assistant attorney general assigned to the Education Section of the Office of the Attorney General of Virginia. The General Counsel is appointed by the Attorney General and serves at the pleasure of the Attorney General and the Board of Visitors.

The office of the General Counsel is in Williamsburg, Va. The General Counsel reports to the President on budget and other administrative matters and is responsible for managing the delivery of legal services to the institution under the general direction of a Deputy Attorney General.

Responsibilities: Full range of legal matters including: grants and contracts, procurement, personnel, intellectual property, real estate acquisition and planning, student and faculty affairs, athletics, gifts and trusts, and federal and state litigation.

Qualifications: Graduation from an ABA accredited law school. Significant legal experience beyond the entry level. Working knowledge of, and respect for, the unique attributes of higher education institutions and their constituencies. Experience in managing the delivery of legal services within a complex organizational structure. Corporate and tax law experience is desirable. Applicant should have well-developed mediation and negotiation skills; excellent analytical ability, objectivity and maturity of judgement; and the ability to write and speak clearly and to communicate effectively with students, faculty, alumni, administrative officers and staff. Admission to the Virginia bar within a reasonable period of time after appointment is required.

Salary: Negotiable. Commensurate with qualifications and experience.

Response Date: The review of applications and nominations will begin on Dec. 15. The position will remain open until filled. Applications and nominations should be sent to:

James S. Kelly, Assistant to the President, President's Office, The College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, VA 23185. The university is an EEO/AA employer.
