WILLIAM & MARY

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER FOR FACULTY, STUDENTS AND STAFF

NEWS

VOLUME XX, NUMBER 4 • WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1990

REMINDERS

To All Members of the Faculty/Administration

Fran and I want to remind the Faculty of the Barbecue scheduled for Sunday, September 16, from 4 to 6 p.m. in the Wren Yard (or in case of rain, in Trinkle Hall).

Some concerns have been expressed about holding the Faculty Barbecue in these times of lean budgets. I believe a tradition such as this should not be lightly discarded. Welcoming newcomers to our community and maintaining collegiality is no less important during these times. We have nonetheless reduced expenditures for the event this year in keeping with our overall commitment to fiscal austerity

Supreme Court Preview Opens Sept. 21

The retirement of Justice William J. Brennan Jr., the anticipated addition of David H. Souter and the future direction of the U.S. Supreme Court will be examined during the third annual Supreme Court Preview at the College of William and Mary.

A team of 24 legal scholars and journalists will gather at the college on Friday, Sept. 21 and Saturday, Sept. 22. The event is free, and is sponsored by the Institute of Bill of Rights Law at the college's Marshall-Wythe School of Law.

The preview has become a favorite for legal reporters, editorial writers and columnists, and for editors who need background in upcoming legal issues to help plan daily news coverage.

As in previous years, the highlight of the preview will be the freewheeling discussion of prominent cases which will likely be taken up by the court. Rod Smolla, Arthur B. Hanson Professor of Law and director of the institute, will serve as moderator of the panels.

Among the reporters scheduled as panelists are Richard Carelli, Associated Press; Lyle Denniston, The (Baltimore) Sun; Aaron Epstein, Knight-Ridder syndicate; Bruce Fein, The Washington Times; Linda Greenhouse, The New York Times; Nat Hentoff, Village Voice; Ruth Marcus, The Washington Post; Tony Mauro, USA Today; David Savage, Los Angeles Times; Steve Wermeil, The Wall Street Journal; and Edwin Yoder of The Washington Post Writers Group.

Legal experts scheduled for the panels include Lea Brilmayer, Yale University; Erwin Chemerinsky, Southern California College; Walter Dellinger, Duke University; Neal Devins, College of William and Mary; Michael Gerhardt, Wake Forest University; Randall Kennedy, Harvard University; Michael McConnell, Chicago State University; Bob Nagle, Colorado State University; Ron Rotunda, Illinois State University; Suzanna Sherry, University of Minnesota; Smolla; Kathleen Sullivan, Harvard University; and Mel Urofsky, Virginia Commonwealth University.

Panel discussions will analyze cases involving religion and speech, privacy, equality, and criminal law and procedure. In addition, there will be two moot court cases at the law school, involving public school integration and abortion.

Public Welcome

While there is no fee to attend the conference, registering for the event will ensure seating and assist planning. For more information, contact Millie Arthur, Institute of Bill of Rights Law at 221-3810.

Campus Sampler Planned for Parents

W&M Parents Weekend offers sample of college life

Organizers at the College of William and Mary are calling the program for Parents Weekend Sept. 21-22, a "sampler" of college life from academics to athletics.

The program opens Friday afternoon with a discussion for freshman parents with members of the faculty and staff.

A "Meet the Faculty" reception from 4-5:30 p.m. in the Wren Yard will give parents a further opportunity to meet and talk with faculty members. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tewksbury of Wheaton, Ill., will head the Association of Parents this year.

The rest of the day's schedule includes a volleyball tournament, a soccer game, a joint concert by the College Orchestra and William and Mary Choir and Concert Band and a lantern tour of the old campus.

On Saturday parents may choose from a variety of panel discussions with faculty members. Topics include environmental issues, a look at possibilities for change in the Soviet Union, topics in business, theatre, chemistry, and "Gender Communications: Men and Women in Relationships," a demonstration of a W&M peer education program by a representative of the Office of Residence Life and student presenters.

Other Saturday activities include a 2 p.m. football game against the University of Connecticut and a performance by magician Harry Blackstone at 8 p.m. in William and Mary Hall.

Throughout the weekend parents will have an opportunity to visit classrooms and residence halls.

Governor's Action on Faculty and Administrative Salary Increases—FY 1990-91

On August 16, 1990, Governor Lawrence Douglas Wilder announced a projected general fund revenue shortfall for FY 1989-90 and the 1990-92 biennium of $1.4 billion. Concurrent with this announcement, the Governor stated that the shortfall would be addressed through additional base budget reductions in agencies and institutions, elimination of salary increases for various classes of employees, and reduction or elimination of general fund support for selected new initiatives.

Relative to faculty and administrative salary increases, the Governor stated his intent to eliminate funding for a portion of the FY 1990-91 salary increases provided for teaching, research, and administrative/professional faculty. At this time, no guidance from central state agencies regarding how this reduction will occur, or the impact on individual faculty members, is available. However, given the uncertainty in this area, I have directed the Office of Personnel Services to delay implementing previously approved salary actions until clarification of the Governor's intent is received.

We are in daily contact with the Secretary of Education and the State Department of Planning and Budget on this issue. I will provide information regarding implementation of Governor Wilder's action as soon as it is available.

Swem Library Expands
Research Resources

What's New With LION

LION, the online database of the libraries of the College of William and Mary, continues to grow and expand. Last fall, word and Boolean searching were introduced. Since that time, there have been several new developments which we'd like to bring to your attention.

LION Database

- All United States government documents received since January 1990 are being added to LION. More than 7,000 titles published by the U. S. government have already been added to LION. These titles can be distinguished from other collections in Swem by their classification number. The Superintendent of Documents classification numbers look like this: Y 4J 89/1. You can request these materials from the Government Documents Department on the first floor of Swem.

- Almost all of the Swem books in both LC classification and Dewey classification are now in LION. Only a few problem titles are not yet in the database.

- LION now includes all book titles on order as well as those that have been received but not yet cataloged. Look for special status information which indicates whether the title is on order or being cataloged.

- Swem Library has about 23,400 serial titles, although not all of those titles are currently being received. A major project has been initiated to add all serial titles to LION. As of the end of August 1990, approximately 70% of all serial titles are represented in LION. We still have about 6,900 serial titles to be added. We've also started to add information on our holdings for these individual titles. Until this project is further along, we suggest that you continue to search the Serials/Periodicals Catalog in Swem if you don't find a specific title in LION. The addition of serials to LION and the inclusion of specific holdings information are very labor-intensive projects; we anticipate it will take at least two to three years to complete these projects.

Access to LION

- LION terminals are available on the first, second, and third floors of Swem Library, in each of the departmental libraries, in the Marshall Wythe School of Law Library, in the Education Curriculum Library, and in the Professional Resources Center. In addition, LION can be accessed from all microcomputer laboratories, including the one in Swem Library.

- Anyone with a terminal or micro-computer connected to the campus telecommunications system through an ADI can also access LION.

- In addition, LION is available for dial access users who have terminals or micro-computers with modems and telecommunications software. Information on dial access use is available at the Reference Desk in Swem Library.

If you have any questions or comments about LION, please contact the Reference Department in Swem Library, ext. 13067 or Berna Heyman, ext. 13059.

Swem Ties In With CRL in Chicago

The libraries of William and Mary have a branch in Chicago!

For the past two years, the libraries of William and Mary have been members of the Center for Research (CRL) Libraries in Chicago. CRL is a membership organization composed of university and other research libraries. Its purpose is to make available to the scholarly community materials that are rarely held in North American Libraries. Its collections include more than 3.6 million volumes and 1.1 million microforms. There is very little overlap between these collections and those available on campus. All of the materials available at CRL can be borrowed through the Swem or Law Library interlibrary loan services.

An exhibit about CRL and its services and collections is currently on display in the lobby of Swem Library. It features a small sampler from the rich CRL collections, including nineteenth-century textbooks, transcripts of Japanese military messages intercepted and decoded during World War II, foreign periodicals, college catalogs, foreign dissertations, and Russian periodicals. A selection of bibliographies and guides to large microform collections available through CRL accompanies the exhibit. These guides are always available in Swem's collection. The exhibit will remain on display until early October. John Lawrence in the Reference Department at Swem (221-3071) will be happy to answer questions about CRL and its services.

The Taste of Culture

Chefs Get New Viewpoint on Seafood

by Beverly McMillan
VIMS Information Office

It's December, and your favorite seafood house advertises fresh Atlantic salmon on the menu—broiled, with a creamy hollandaise, or baked in a light puff pastry, or...but wait a minute, you say. Something's fishy. How can a reputable restaurant serve fresh salmon in the dead of winter?

If the server confidently declares "no problem," believe it—because if a symposium at William and Mary's Virginia Institute of Marine Science gains converts, farmed salmon, shrimp, and other tasty species may soon begin appearing with increasing frequency in Virginia restaurants.

The September 10 symposium, "A Taste of Culture," drew chefs from around the Commonwealth, all members of professional chefs associations. In a full afternoon funded by the Virginia Sea Grant College Program, they heard expert presentations on the advantages and disadvantages of serving what has come to be called "cultured seafood," discussing a range of consumer issues that keep quality-conscious chefs ever-vigilant: the taste of farmed fish, texture and color of the flesh, optimal preparation techniques—even arcane but vital details such as how much a filet from a cultured salmon will shrink when it is cooked.

Symposium speakers included Dr. Roger Anderson of Bee Gee Shrimp in Tampa, Florida, an expert on the intricacies of shrimp farming; and Graham Redmayne of North Beach Seafoods, Inc. in Seattle, Washington, whose expertise on cultured salmon covers fish from locales as disparate as British Columbia, Norway and Chile, as well as the Atlantic Coast.

Layne Witherell, Chairman of the Virginia Wine Growers Advisory Board, provided what many diners might consider the sine qua non of a good repast—the correct Virginia wines to accompany cultured seafood menus.

Participating chefs earned recertification credits from the American Culinary Federation Education Institute.

Suggestions for Honorary Degree Candidates

In recent years a significant fraction of the honorary degree recipients at Commencement or Charter Day have been nominated by members of the faculty. On behalf of the Honorary Degrees Advisory Committee, I invite and encourage all members of the faculty to suggest names of possible honorary degree recipients for Charter Day and Commencement in this and upcoming years.

A university says much about itself when it announces its honorary degree recipients each year. As the College of William and Mary approaches its three hundredth anniversary, we should take special care that what we say is appropriate.

When considering candidates for honorary degrees, the Board of Visitors bears in mind the following guidelines. They are guidelines only—not rigorous rules. Since the Committee is especially interested in imaginative nominations, no faculty member should withhold a name simply because an otherwise deserving candidate does not precisely fit every guideline:

1. Candidates are considered without regard to sex, race, color, age, religion, national origin, sexual orientation or handicap.

2. Since they will always be associated with the College of William and Mary, honorary degree recipients must be of sufficient eminence and character to honor the College.

3. Candidates should have qualities and records of achievements that make it particularly appropriate for an institution of higher education to recognize them.

4. Ideally, but not invariably, something about them should make it especially fitting that this honor should come from the College of William and Mary in Virginia.

5. Finally, candidates should not include benefactors or prospective benefactors of the College unless they clearly meet the other criteria and are evaluated on those criteria only. In awarding honorary degrees, William and Mary should give no suggestion that it is recognizing past or prospective financial contributions.

In addition to these guidelines, the Committee has recently sought nominations of persons who unquestionably deserve honorary degrees but who somehow have been overlooked.

younger persons of great promise who have only recently arrived at the point where an honorary degree is appropriate.

persons who would deliver a stimulating address at Commencement or Charter Day.

While it is helpful for nominations to be accompanied by a brief memo explaining why the nominee is well-suited for an honorary degree, the Committee is more interested in receiving an excellent list of names. When questions arise or additional information is required, the Committee will contact nominators.

The Board of Visitors will make preliminary decisions about honorary degree recipients at its November meeting. Your nominations should therefore be received no later than Friday, 28 September. Please submit them to the Chair of the Committee, Nancy H. Marshall, or to any member of the Committee, as follows:

Fred L. Adair, School of Education
Lynda Lee Butler, School of Law
Gary C. DeFotis, Department of Chemistry
William E. Fulmer, School of Business Administration
Maurice P. Lynch, School of Marine Science

SA Sets Deadlines for Conference Funds

The Board of Student Affairs has established a conference fund for 1990-91 to provide financial assistance to full-time graduate and undergraduate students. The following deadlines have been set for the submission of applications.

Sept. 24

For conferences 10/1—1/30/91

Jan. 28, 1991

For conferences 2/1—4/20/91

April 15, 1991

For conferences 5/1—9/30/91

Guidelines and applications are available from the Office of the Student Activities Accountant, 207C Campus Center. Questions concerning conference funding should be addressed to Anita Hamlin, Student Activities Accountant, ext. 1-3271 or Kenneth E. Smith, Jr., Associate Vice President of Student Affairs, ext. 1-3270.

APPLICATIONS RECEIVED AFTER THE DEADLINE DATE WILL NOT BE CONSIDERED.

Office of Career Services

Shared Experience Seeks Applicants

The Shared Experience Internship Program offers on-site learning projects during the academic semester and is currently recruiting students who would like to work in Williamsburg or surrounding areas.

Deadline for applications is 5 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 13.

Program sites will include social service agencies, educational institutions, media firms, private businesses, museums, medical facilities and many others.

All Shared Experience internship positions are on a volunteer basis and require a commitment of approximately ten hours per week for eight weeks of the semester. A list of current positions is posted outside Morton 140. There are over 65 positions available. Students need to complete and submit an application form, along with a cover letter and resume.

Deadlines

The Office of Career Services has several important deadlines coming up including the following: Sept. 21, Foreign Service exam; Oct. 4, Career Fair, W&M Hall; and Oct. 15, deadline for the Seminar in Book Publishing, Oct. 25-26.

For details on any of these events, please call the Career Services Office ext. 13240.

NOTES

Turner Talk

Dr. E. Randolph Turner III, an archaeological project director for the Virginia Department of Historic Resources and a lecturer on the graduate faculty of the department of anthropology, will talk on "Powhatan Indian Society in the Early 17th Century" at 8 p.m., Friday, Sept. 21 at the Williamsburg Regional Library.

His talk is part of a series sponsored by the Jamestown-Yorktown Foundation in conjunction with the exhibit of Powhatan's Mantle, a ceremonial deer-skin cape dating to the 17th century, at Jamestown Settlement through October.

Dr. Turner is the author of numerous published articles dealing with the archaeology and ethnohistory of Virginia's coastal plain.

Seafood Feast

The Faculty Club will roll out the succulent delicacies of the Chesapeake Bay rather than the red carpet for the annual Seafood Festival feast at Gloucester Point Friday night, Sept. 21. Shrimp, crab, scallops, clam chowder, hush puppies will be there to be enjoyed along the banks of the York River on the grounds of the Virginia Institute of Marine Science. Assorted beverages will also be supplied.

Good food, good company and the lively sounds of F.O.A.M. the Friends of Appalachian Music, are expected to appeal to returning faculty and administrators who know what a treat the feast is, and newcomers who sense a good bargain in food and entertainment.

Tickets are $15 per person or $25 per couple.

In the case of inclement weather, the event will be postponed until Saturday. An information line has been set up and if the weather is unsettled, a call to ext. 12761 after noon on Friday. The message will let partygoers know whether the feast is on or has been postponed. Planners are hoping to stage the feast on Friday and will only postpone in the event of really bad weather.

For any further details concerning the feast please call one of the officers of the Faculty Club, John Charles, athletics, president; Jess Tarleton, School of Business, vice president; Ed Allenby, advancement, secretary; and Bruce Goodwin, geology, treasurer.

USAir Gives Special Rates To Campus Visitors

Alumni, parents, family members and friends coming to campus for scheduled special events now may take advantage of reduced airfares offered by USAir through special arrangement with the Society of the Alumni. Terms of this special offer include:

- 40 percent off regular coach, 5 percent off discounted coach when travelers fly USAir to Williamsburg for Homecoming, Parents' Weekend, home football games and other events coordinated by The Society and the College.

- Effective for domestic flights into Richmond, Newport News or Norfolk.

- This offer cannot be used by travelers whose travel expenses will be paid or reimbursed by the College. In addition, travel under State of Virginia guidelines does not apply and must be booked through state-contracted travel agencies.

For more information or to make reservations, call USAir at 1-800-428-4322 and tell the agent you are eligible for W&M discounts outlined in Gold File No. 693639.

In addition, anyone on campus who is planning an event that includes ten or more people can take advantage of this special offer. In order to register your event and qualify for these special savings from USAir, please call Elizabeth MacLeish at the Society of the Alumni, 221-1165.

Saturday Classes For Gifted Learners

The Saturday Enrichment Program for Gifted Learners, sponsored by the College of William and Mary and the School of Education, begins Oct. 6.

A variety of courses for children ages 4 through grade 8 will be offered. The program fee is $150, which includes a $10 non-refundable application fee. A $50 deposit is required with the application. Need-based scholarship aid is available upon request. Applications are due Friday, Sept. 21.

Courses are open to students who score at the 95th percentile or above on a nationally normed aptitude or achievement test. A recommendation from school personnel (teacher, principal, or counselor) is also required.

Eligibility screening, conducted by program staff, is available for preschool children (ages 4-5) and students for whom no documented scores are available. Evaluation appointments may be made by calling 221-2362. A $50 evaluation fee is due at the time of appointment.

Courses and the grade levels for which they are intended are as follows: "Early Academic Enrichment," ages 4-5; "The Reading-Writing Connection," and "Wonderful Weather," grades 1-2; "Junior Geography" grades 1-3; "Say it in French" and "Spanish is Fun," grades 2-3; "Science Discovery," grades 3-4; "Computers," grades 3-5.

For grades 4-6, courses include "German is Fun," "The Challenge of the Unknown," "Myth and Storytelling—Ancient Greece" and "Spatial Visualization in Mathematics."

"Exploring Nature" is offered for grades 5-6. Courses for grades 6-8 include "All Things Considered" and "Writer's Workshop."

Courses will be taught by a number of instructors in different disciplines including William and Mary faculty, area teachers of gifted and talented learners and graduate students of the college.

Classes will be held at the college from 9-11:30 a.m. each Saturday from Oct. 6 through Dec. 1. Classes will not meet on Saturday, Nov. 24.

For further information call the William and Mary Center for Gifted Education at 221-2362.

Town and Gown Luncheons Begin Sept. 13

The weekly Town & Gown luncheons begin tomorrow, Thursday, Sept. 13 in the Campus Center ballroom.

Reservations are required. Reservations must be made each week by calling 221-2640 before noon on the Tuesday preceding the program. This is an automated message line. Callers are asked to please spell the first and last names of those attending. Cost of the luncheon is $6.

Gil McArthur of the history faculty will begin the semester line-up of speakers with a talk on "Gorbachev's Russia."

The speaker on Sept. 20 will be Jim Baron from the Classical Studies department who will take as his topic "Sharing a Meal: The Recognition and Acceptance of Shared Humanity in Homer's Iliad and Ingmar Bergman's 'The Seventh Seal.'"

Ken Kambis, assistant professor of physical education will speak on Sept. 27 on "Nutrition, Exercise and Aging."

The luncheon sessions will continue weekly through Dec. 13. There will not be a luncheon meeting on Nov. 25.

Recyclers Plan New Projects

The William and Mary Recycling Organization is up and running with plans this year to broaden the awareness of the campus to ways of saving and helping the environment.

Bins for glass, aluminum and newspapers have been placed in each residence hall and captains designated to help with the collections.

A comprehensive collection of recyclables is held each first and third Saturdays of each month at the William and Mary parking lot from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Residents in the community as well as campus dwellers are invited to bring plastic, glass newspaper, cardboard and aluminum.

The Recycling Organization meets Monday evenings at 7 p.m. in Small 123. All students are invited to join. This year Kurt Rappelje is president; Kathy O'Neill, vice president; March Rockman, treasurer; and Mary Nachtrieb publicity chairman.

The recycling group hopes to provide bins for office buildings this year and is working with Mark Whitney, landscape superintendent in the Facilities Management office to achieve this. The Facilities Management office is already a keen supporter of the recyclers and provides them with transportation for hauling recyclables to a receiving center. The college recyclers also plan an education program on campus.

In the past the college recycling organization has made donations to the Campus Conservation Coalition, and S.U.B., Students United for the Bay. Funds from recycling also are used to buy the bins that have been placed around campus.

Marvin Leroy Wass

Marvin Leroy Wass, 68, professor of marine science for 22 years and the Virginia Institute of Marine Science's first professor emeritus, died Wednesday, Sept. 5 in the Pines Convalescent Center, Williamsburg.

A graduate of Winona State University, Winona, Minn., he received a master's degree from Florida State University and a doctorate from the University of Florida.

Wass joined the VIMS faculty in 1960. He was a benthic ecologist and an invertebrate scientist. He discovered a number of new species of invertebrates that are named for him. He also was a naturalist. He was widely published and pioneered research that led to wetlands regulations.

A memorial service was held Monday at the First Presbyterian Church in Gloucester.

The family has requested that expressions of sympathy take the form of contributions to the National Areas Preservation Fund for the Identification, Protection and Management of the Virginia Natural Area Preserves, in care of the Virginia Department of Conservation, 203 Governor's Street, Richmond, 23219.

Spiegelman Lecture

Dr. Bruce Spiegelman '74, professor of biological chemistry and molecular pharmacology at the Dana Farber Cancer Institute and Harvard Medical School will speak on "The Molecular Basis for Blood Vessel Development" at a Howard Hughes Medical Institute Seminar planned by the biology department at 4 p.m., Friday, Sept. 14 in Millington 117.

At 2 p.m. in the conference room, Dr. Spiegelman will meet with students interested in learning about the graduate program at Harvard Medical School.

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, Our Founding Fathers in order to secure the blessings of liberty for themselves and their posterity, did ordain and establish a Constitution for the United States of America.

WHEREAS, It is of the greatest import that all citizens fully understand the provisions and principles contained in the Constitution in order to support it, preserve it and defend it against encroachment, and

WHEREAS, The two hundred third anniversary of the signing of the Constitution provides a historic opportunity to all Americans to learn about and recall achievement of our Founders and to reflect on the rights and privileges of citizenship as well as its attendant responsibilities, and

WHEREAS, The independence guaranteed to the American people by the Constitution should be celebrated by appropriate ceremonies and activities during Constitution Week, September 17 through 23, as designated by Proclamation of the United States of America in accordance with Public Law 915,

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Paul R. Verkuil, by virtue of the authority vested in me as President of the College of William and Mary, do hereby proclaim the week of September 17 through 23 as Constitution Week, and urge all our citizens to pay special attention during that week to our Federal Constitution and the advantage of American citizenship.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the College to be affixed at Williamsburg this 228th day of the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and ninety, and the Independence of the United States of America, the two hundred and fourteenth.

Paul Verkuil
President

Constitution Week To Be Celebrated

The College will participate in Constitution Week, Sept. 17-23. The program for the week has been arranged by Mrs. Jane Ann Farber, Williamsburg Chapter DAR Constitution Week chairman.

The bell in the Wren Building will join others across the nation in the "Bells Across America" salute, at 4 p.m., Monday, Sept. 17.

James Darling, organist at Bruton Parish Church and a member of the music faculty, will include colonial music during a candlelight organ concert at 8 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 20 at Bruton Parish Church.

The DAR has made available to students booklet forms of the U.S. Constitution as well as DAR bookmarks at Swem Library.
