Stephen Elliott of Housing Partnerships, will speak at the Jan. 31 meeting of the Town & Gown luncheon on "Housing Partnerships: A Campus and Community Joint Venture."

Reservations should be made by noon on Tuesday, Jan. 29 by calling ext. 12640. The fee is $6.

Those to plan to attend for the after-luncheon talk only do not have to pay the luncheon fee and are asked to be seated by 12:45 p.m.

Economics Society Travels To D.C. Jan. 31

The Economics Society is sponsoring a trip to Washington, D.C., Jan. 31-Feb. 1, for those interested in careers in economics and public policy. The cost is $35.

Details of the trip will be discussed at an informational meeting tonight at 7 p.m. in Morton 342. Those interested in the trip may also contact Greg Romano at 221-5677.

The fee will include one night's lodging and a two-day program of speakers including the chief economist of the Department of Commerce and the chief economists of the Europe/Near East and African bureaus in the State Department's agency for International Development. Students will also hear an economics legislative assistant to Senator John Heinz of Pennsylvania; the head of government relations for Deloitte and Touche Consulting Firm, and an international trade specialist from Digital Corporation.

REMINDERS

Motorcycle Parking

Motorcycles are classified as motor vehicles licensed by the state and as such must adhere to vehicular parking ordinances.

Police Chief Richard W. McGrew has served notice that motorcycle riders on campus will be fined if their vehicle is not parked in an appropriate parking slot. Riders will be fined $25 if their vehicles are found parked on the sidewalk, lawn, near the doorway of a building or any other spot other than that designated for parking.

Many motorcyclists have used available areas close to their destination to park their vehicles, but this free wheeling practice will not be permitted in the future, said McGrew.

Blow Hall Dedication

Astrophysicist To Give Charter Day Address

Chinese astrophysicist and human rights advocate Fang Lizhi, will give the major address at Charter Day exercises at 10 a.m., Saturday, Feb. 2 in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. This year's observance will honor the bicentennial of the U. S. Bill of Rights.

Honorary degrees will be conferred upon Fang and A. E. Dick Howard, White Burkett Miller Professor of Law and Public Affairs at the University of Virginia. Howard specializes in constitutional law. Fang will receive an honorary doctor of humane letters degree and Howard will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree.

Presentation of the Thomas Jefferson Award and the Thomas Jefferson Teaching Award will be made by the Rector of the College, Hays T. Watkins.

Provost Melvyn D. Schiavelli will give the traditional reading from the Charter of 1693, and the reading from the Royal Proclamation of 1700 will be made by the Dean of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, Timothy J. Sullivan.

The program is open to the public, but reservations are required and may be made by calling ext. 12761.

Saturday reception

The physics department will host a reception for Fang at 2:30 p.m. at the Muscarelle Museum of Art. Faculty members hope that this event will provide an opportunity for members of the campus community, including Chinese students, to meet Fang and his wife Li Shuxian.

Friday colloquium

Fang will present a physics colloquium titled "The Topology of the Universe," at 4 p.m., Friday, Feb. 1 in Small 109. Coffee will be served in Small 123 at 3:30 p.m.

Blow Dedication

The Charter Day weekend is also the occasion for the dedication of the newly renovated Blow Memorial Hall at 4 p.m., Friday, Feb. 1. This event, hosted by the Board of Visitors, will be attended by members of various boards as well as friends of the College.

Formerly known as Blow Gym and the home of athletic programs and facilities, Blow Memorial Hall has been rearranged to house student services, the Treasurer's Office and the Executive MBA program of the Business School.

Faculty Club Reception

The Faculty Club is hosting a reception from 6 to 7:15 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 31, for faculty and members of the Board of Visitors and the Endowment Association.

The cost for refreshments and hors d'oeuvres is $5, payable at the door.

The reception has been planned as a continuing opportunity for increased interaction between the faculty of the College, members of the Board of Visitors and the Endowment Association.

Fang and his wife gained worldwide attention after they entered the U.S. Embassy in Beijing on June 5, 1989, the day after troops were sent into Tianamen Square. After a year of negotiations with the Chinese government, Fang and his wife, who is also a physicist, left for Great Britain, where he was a senior visiting fellow at Cambridge University. He is now at the Institute for Advanced Study in Princeton, N.J.

A native of Richmond, Howard is a graduate of the University of Richmond and received his law degree from the University of Virginia. He was a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford and a law clerk to Justice Hugo Black of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Howard was executive director of the commission that wrote Virginia's new constitution, and he has consulted with those revising the constitutions in Brazil, Hong Kong, the Philippines, Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Poland.

Sarah Johnson Wins Martin Luther King Jr. Award

The 1991 Martin Luther King Jr. Achievement Award for outstanding contributions to the community was presented Monday to Sarah L. Johnson, director of the minority achievement program for the Williamsburg-James City County school system.

Johnson received her award at a luncheon in the Campus Center Monday, following the traditional interfaith program in memory of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. held in the Campus Center ballroom.

A native of Rowland, N.C., Johnson received her bachelor's in elementary education at St. Augustine College in Raleigh, N.C. She has done graduate work at several university including Hampton University, the University of Maryland and the College of William and Mary.

Johnson has held her position for two years. For one year prior to her present appointment, she was English and language arts coordinator for the school division. She has a wealth of knowledge about the local school system, having spent 20 years as a classroom teacher in English for seventh graders at Blair School.

Mrs. Johnson, with her award, poses with President Paul Verkuil and Associate Vice President for Student Affairs/Minority Student Affairs Carroll F. S. Hardy.

Johnson is married to Arthur K. Johnson Sr., an engineer. The Johnsons have one son, Arthur K. Johnson Jr., who is associated with "The Other Side" program as a historical interpreter for Colonial Williamsburg.

In accepting her award, Johnson said that whatever has been done had the help of everyone there and "we must continue to help because we have re-

Business Speaker

Donald M. Alstadt, chairman and CEO of the Lord Corporation, spoke to MBA students on Jan. 14 as part of the Graduate Business School's ongoing lecture series. He discussed the purpose of the industrial corporation. The Lord Corporation is a technology based company with six domestic plants and six overseas plants. The company has three major business divisions: chemical products, aerospace products, and industrial products.

Departments

Anthropology

Professor Sheila S. Walker is the consultant for the African Diaspora section of the new permanent installation of an exhibit on Africa and the African Diaspora at the Field Museum of National History in Chicago. The Field Museum's exhibit will be the first new installation on Africa at a major U.S. museum in more than three decades, i.e., since the end of the colonial era and the beginnings of the era of African independence.

Music

Joel Suben, director of orchestras, was a member of the panel of experts for a symposium sponsored by the Composers Guild of New Jersey in celebration of the centennial of Hudson County Composers. This symposium was dedicated to the music of Philip James and Louis Scarmolin. Suben has performed works by James on campus during the past two years.

Philosophy

Dorothy Coleman, associate professor, recently delivered a paper titled "Aristotle on Happiness and Contemplation," at a meeting of the Friends of Antiquity at Northern Illinois University.

Professor Alan Fuchs recently presented a paper titled "On Defining Individual Utility," at a conference on rationality, morality and self-interest at St. Olaf College.

School of Education

Professor Fred L. Adair presented the following papers at the Virginia Counselors Association Annual Convention in Roanoke, Nov. 14-16: "Roommate Assignment: A Practical Method Without Polemics," "An Innovative Way for Programming Couple Therapy" and "Team Building Through Individual and Organizational Assessment."

Kathy M. Evans, assistant professor, presented two papers at the 1990 Virginia Counselors Association Conference in Lynchburg, Nov. 14-17. One paper discussed incorporating wellness in a counseling center, and the other covered caring for culturally diverse clients.

Professor S. Stuart Flanagan delivered a paper at the Instructional Technology in Education Conference at Old Dominion University, Dec. 2, titled "Effective Mathematics Software."

Professor Flanagan spoke at the Virginia ASCD annual conference at the Hilton in Williamsburg, Nov. 29. The conference was attended by curriculum and development leaders through the state. His address was titled "Teaching Implications for the Literacy Passport-Mathematics."

Loretta Hannum, visiting instructor, will participate in the upcoming colloquium on U.S. and U.S.S.R. relations to be held at Hampton University, Jan. 28-29. The dialogue will center around "Interdependent Co-Existence Between the United States of America and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics."

Mary S. Landrum, assistant professor, participated in a pre-convention workshop and made several refereed presentations at the National Association for Gifted Children 1990 Annual Convention in Little Rock, Ark., in November. Landrum presented "Creative Calisthenics: Getting Your Creativity on Shape" for the workshop.

During the convention Landrum presented the following papers: "Creative Play with Words," "Fostering Independent Learning in Gifted and Talented Students" and "Questions About Inservice and Staff Development in the Education of the Gifted and Talented."

Landrum also presented a paper, "Differentiated Curriculum for Gifted Students in the Regular Classroom: Consultant with Resource Teachers," to the Hanover County Public Schools in October.

James Patton, associate professor and director of teacher education, and Professor Douglas Prillaman, made a joint presentation at the Council for Exceptional Children Symposium on Culturally Diverse Exceptional Children in Albuquerque, New Mexico in October. The paper was titled "No Gifts Wasted: Exem-sources in which we must invest—our children."

Carroll F. S. Hardy, associate vice president for student affairs/minority student affairs, introduced the awards ceremony in which President Paul Verkuil and Sam Sadler, vice president for student affairs, also participated.

The presentation ceremony was an opportunity for President Verkuil not only to congratulate Mrs. Johnson but to note the College's contributions to the community. People on campus, he said, do not want to be known as isolated academics in an ivory tower.

Grants Cancelled

The Minor Research Grants program (maximum $300, students and faculty eligible, deadline Jan. 31) has been cancelled for the spring semester due to the budget crunch. An announcement will be made during the summer concerning the fall applications.

At Awards Luncheon President Lists Contributions To Community

The Black Student Leadership Conference, held early this month, was a tremendous success, he said.

The College, said Verkuil, is actively involved in the Housing Partnerships program, which seeks to provide good housing for low-income families. Some 70 percent of the 315 volunteers are College students.

There are 134 student volunteers and 58 community volunteers working with the Rita Welsh Adult Skills Program, he said.

Verkuil also noted the mentorship program in the school system which helps students at both Bruton and Lafayette high schools formulate priorities and plan for their future.

Students have served as counselors and hotline volunteers for Avalon, formerly known as the Taskforce for Battered Women.

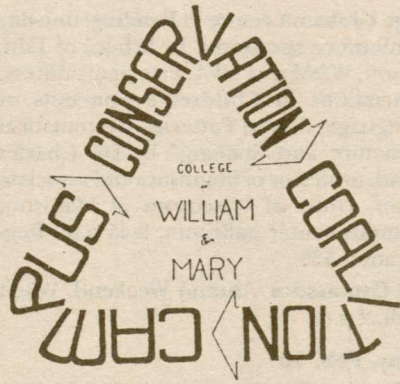

The Public Policy Program tackles many current political and economic issues and also has an internship component.

The Peninsula Legal Aid Society is housed on campus, said Verkuil, who completed his inventory with a question to his audience, "Where do we go from here?"

Verkuil said he felt the College could serve as a clearinghouse for anticipated projects and introduced Reggie Clark who serves as Community Service Coordinator for the College.

NOTES

Campus Conservation Coalition Meets

The Campus Conservation Coalition will hold its first meeting of the semester at 7 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 24 in Millington 117. This is a change from the regularly scheduled meeting time of 7:30 p.m. to allow members to participate in the Forum on the Gulf War which is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in Millington auditorium.

The Coalition has several plans for the semester, including educational programs, campus restoration projects and Earth Day, April 22. The Coalition is also working to restore china and silverware service at the Marketplace to cut down on the amount of items to be recycled.

A camping trip to the Shenandoah National Park is planned over spring break and plans are underway to establish a letter writing campaign for service personnel serving in the Gulf.

For further information concerning the Coalition, please call Amanda Allen at ext. 14919.

Tips from Recruiter

Charlotte Campbell, former national director of college relations/recruiting and southern territory psychologist for Sears, Roebuck and Co., will present a seminar on the selection/evaluation of employee candidates through interpretation of psychological tests, interviews, questionnaires and performance at 4 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 7 under the sponsorship of the Office of Career Services.

To make reservations to attend, call Pam Garrette at ext. 13240.

Students, Faculty Share Concern Over Gulf War

Students and faculty are showing their concern over events in the Gulf war, Desert Storm, in a variety of ways.

Tonight the Persian Gulf Peer Support Group for students who have family or friends in the Middle East and would like to share thought and concerns about the war with others are invited to a meeting at 7 p.m. in the admission lobby in Blow Hall. Staff members from the counseling center are assisting with this program.

The Campus Coalition for Peace in the Middle East and Residence Hall Life staff have planned an open forum for discussion of issues concerning the war at 7:30 p.m., Thursday in Millington auditorium.

Faculty members from government, history, military science, religion, philosophy and psychology will participate.

Tom Benedetti is organizing a student rally in support of troops in Desert Storm at 4:30 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 24 in front of the Campus Center.

Plans are not yet firm but Benedetti plans to have at least two speakers and has invited several Vietnam Veterans who are living in the area. The veterans, said Benedetti, have expressed their appreciation of the support being shown the troops.

The rally program will also include a plug for the letter writing campaign which is currently headquartered in the Campus Center.

Rec Sports and the American Red Cross will co-sponsor a blood drive at the Rec Center, from 1 to 7 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 31.

Those opposed to Desert Storm, those in favor of the action and those who just wanted to show their support for President Bush and U.S. troops engaged in the action, were part of a peace march Friday afternoon. Participants marched around the Wren Building and ended up at the Campus Center where several faculty members expressed their views on the conflict. Professors John Williams, Hans Tiefel, Jesse Bohl, and Edward Crapol spoke, several from personal experience, about war and its consequences.

Senior Directors Present Two Plays Jan. 31-Feb. 3

"The Glass Menagerie" by Tennessee Williams and "Winners" by Brian Friel, will be presented as senior directorial projects in the Studio Theatre, PBK, Jan. 31 to Feb. 3.

There is no admission charge. Seating is limited and patrons are advised to come early.

"The Glass Menagerie," directed by Mark Millhone, will be performed at 8:15 p.m., Feb. 1 and at 2 p.m., Feb. 2 and 3.

The cast includes Amy Morgan, Fran Guierke, David Sturdevant and Sandra Musick.

A senior English major, Millhone has had a great deal of collegiate and professor experience in theatre. President of the Theatre Students Association, he has worked as a management intern in the Broadway management office of Gatrchell & Neufeld, Ltd., in New York City. He was stage manager for "Three Penny Opera," produced for the Off-the-Circle Theatre Co., in Washington, D.C. and acted in productions of the William and Mary Theatre, the Children's Theatre of Minneapolis, the Virginia Shakespeare Festival and the Kennedy Center.

Renee Johnson will direct "Winners," which is set in Ireland. The cast will include Joe Wajszczuk, Karen Carter, Daniel Nussbaum and Beth Rohr.

Johnson, a senior theatre/government major, has been active with the William and Mary Theatre and the Sinfonicon Light Opera Company as stage manager for "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," "Becoming Memories" and "H.M.S. Pinafore." She has also been a production staff member and stage manager for the Jenny Wiley Summer Music Theatre in Kentucky and the Colorado Shakespeare Festival.

Lecture At Muscarelle

Alan T. Levenson, visiting assistant professor of Judaic studies, will speak on "Cultural Responses to the Holocaust" at the Muscarelle Museum of Art at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, Jan. 30.

This lecture is presented in conjunction with the special exhibition "György Kádár: Survivor of Death, Witness to Life," which is currently at the museum through Feb. 17. A informal reception will follow the lecture. This event is open to the public. There is no admission charge.

In his lecture, professor Levenson will explore the dichotomy between one person's experience and the consensus of the the Holocaust, the fate of the Hungarian Jews, and the art of György Kádár.

The Kádár exhibit, Elie Wiesel's book Night and the philosophical works of Steven Katz will be the basis for his discussion.

Levenson graduated magna cum laude from Brown University where he also received a Master of Arts degree. He received his doctorate from Ohio State University. He has lectured extensively and written articles on the Jewish experience in Europe and the role of Jewish women in history.

Recycling

The Campus Recycling Organization will hold comprehensive recycling pickups the first and third Saturday of each month during the spring semester from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the William and Mary Hall parking lot. Next comprehensive pick-up will be Saturday, Feb. 2. Aluminum cans, newspaper, glass, cardboard and some plastics and paper will be accepted for recycling.

Winter Tea

Tickets are still available for the second annual Winter Tea at the Muscarelle Museum of Art from 3-5 p.m., Sunday, Jan. 27. The fee is $5 per person. To purchase tickets and/or make reservations, call the museum at ext. 12707.

The fare usually associated with an English winter tea, savories and sweets as well as tea and sherry, will be served. Harp music will be played by Elise Dickon.

There are two special exhibitions currently at the museum, "Contemporary Abstract Painting: Resnick, Reed, Laufer & Moore," and "György Kádár: Survivor of Death, Witness to Life."

Capriole Concert

Capriole the ensemble-in-residence, will give a concert titled "The Origins of Bel Canto," at 8:15 p.m., Saturday, Feb. 2 at the Williamsburg Regional Library Theatre. Admission is $12; $8 for students. Tickets are available at Beethoven's Inn, 467 Merrimac Trail, 229-7069; and at the Theatre Connection, Festival Marketplace, Route 60, 221-0907. Capriole will also give this concert in Richmond on Friday, Feb. 1 and in Norfolk on Sunday, Feb. 3.

For more information or to make reservations call Capriole at 220-1248

Commonwealth Center Speaker

John Brooke, Commonwealth Center Senior Fellow at the Institute of Early American History and Culture, will present a paper titled "Alchymical Experiments: Religion, Magic and Counterfeiting in 18th-Century America" at 3:30 p.m., Tuesday, Feb. 5 at the Institute in Swem Library.

Copies of the paper are available at the Institute, the history department and the Commonwealth Center.

Language Houses Deadline

Students who wish to live in language houses next year are asked to sign up in Swem 325 by Friday, Feb. 1. Notification of admission will be given Feb. 8.

Applicants should have completed a 200-level course or have the equivalent facility with the language of the house.

Each house, with the exception of the Italian House, is holding an open house today. Open house at the Italian House on Armistead Ave. will be held from 3 to 5 p.m., Sunday, Jan. 27.

For further information concerning language house programs on application details, please contact Karen Schiffrin at ext. 13634.

Black History Month Program Set For Feb.

Black History Month will be celebrated on campus during February with a series of program beginning with an "Evening of Song and Dance" by Rodney Williams '80 at 8 p.m. in the Campus Center ballroom at 8 p.m.

Barbara Reynolds, inquiry editor of USA Today will be the speaker at a program at 8 p.m., Friday, Feb. 8 in the Campus Center ballroom.

Roger Guenveur Smith will present "Frederick Douglass Now," at 8 p.m., Friday, Feb. 15 in the Campus Center ballroom.

Final program in the series will be a talk by Dr. Samuel Proctor, Martin Luther King Jr. Professor Emeritus, Rutgers University at 8 p.m. in the Campus Center ballroom.

'Young Guard' Seeks Applicants

The Young Guard Council of the Society of the Alumni is seeking applicants from the Class of 1991 to fill eight spots that will be available on the council this spring. As part of the Society of the Alumni, the council coordinates educational, social and service programs that are responsive to the special needs and interests of alumni from the five most recent graduating classes. A maximum of 10 representatives from each of the five classes compose the council.

An informational session for prospective applicants will be held at 3:30 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 26 in Tucker 120.

Applications are being accepted through Feb. 1 at noon. Students are asked to submit a letter of application that includes name, campus address, telephone number, hometown, intended residence after graduation, a summary of college activities and a statement outlining personal attributes they believe will assist the Young Guard in achieving its goals. Applications should be sent to Young Guard Council, c/o Keith Reagan, assistant director of alumni affairs, Alumni House.
