Allan Gurganus

Writers Festival

Allan Gurganus, author of the bestselling book Oldest Living Confederate Widow Tells All will be one of the featured speakers at the 14th annual Writers Festival which opens today. Gurganus will read from his fiction at 8 p.m., Friday, April 5 in Ewell Recital Hall.

Town & Gown

The Covenant Players will present selections from "Kiss Me Kate," at the April 4 meeting of the Town & Gown luncheon.

Thad Tate, director, Commonwealth Center for the Study of American Culture, will speak at the April 11 luncheon on "The Chesapeake Bay Environment: A Historical Perspective."

Reservations may be made by calling ext. 12640. The fee is $6.

REMINDERS

Daylight Savings Time begins at 2 a.m., Sunday, April 7.

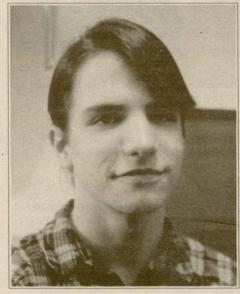

Kulp, Richardson Win Fulbrights

Two seniors, David Kulp and Julie Richardson, have been awarded Fulbright Scholarships for next year.

Kulp is planning to leave for New Zealand in March1992 to begin work at the University of Canterbury in Christchurch. A computer science concentrator with a minor in philosophy, Kulp is planning to do a study of the process of computer simulation, especially ecological modelling.

Some studies, says Kulp, have suggested that computer simulations have been insufficient or unreliable because the limitations of software force researchers to reduce the parameters of the project and make predictions which may not be accurate. The current controversy over global warming and the greenhouse effect, based on computer simulations, is coming under fire as not completely accurate, he says.

Kulp selected New Zealand for the site of his study because of its relative isolation and because it is relatively easy to identify and measure the many differ-

U.S.-Korean Symposium To Be Held April 5-6

Ambassador Hong-Choo Hyun, the newly appointed ambassador from the Republic of Korea to the United States, will deliver the keynote address at 8 p.m.,

Ambassador Hong-Choo Hyun

Friday, April 5 in the Dodge Room of Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall to open a symposium on "U.S.-Korean Relations in a Changing World," which will be held on campus April 5-6.

His topic will be "Korean-American Relations: Growth and Interdependence in an Era of Change." A reception will be held following the address, and the public is invited to both the address and the reception.

Ambassador Hyun graduated from the College of Law, Seoul National University, in Feb. 1963, and received an LL.M. degree from the School of Law, Columbia University, in June 1969. After passing the High Judicial Service Examination in Korea in 1963, Ambassador Hyun began his legal career as judge advocate, ROK (Republic of Korea) Army.

Subsequently, he served as prosecutor and senior prosecutor in the Ministry of Justice in Seoul. From Oct. 1980 to Jan. 1985, he was the first deputy director of the Agency for National Security Planning, and was a member of the National

Ambassador Hyun graduated from the Assembly from Jan. 1985 until Feb. 1988. Before he was chosen by President

Before he was chosen by President Roh Tae Woo to take on Seoul's most important diplomatic post as the ambassador to the United States, he served as Korea's ambassador to the United Nations. During the presidential campaign in 1987, Hyun served as a chief aide to then candidate Roh, and subsequently as Minister for Legislative Affairs of Korea's Sixth Republic under President Roh before taking the UN post. He is also a recipient of several national merit awards from the Republic of Korea.

Sheldon Gift To Swem Library Highlights Work Of War Correspondent

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Sheldon of Williamsburg have givenSwem Library letters and photographs of Mr. Sheldon's father, Charles Mills Sheldon (1866-1928), a war correspondent and illustrator at the turn of the century.

The gift has been named in memory of Charles Mills Sheldon and Capt. Charles Mills Sheldon '58, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Sheldon, who was killed in action in Vietnam in 1966.

The letters and photographs vividly depict Charles Mills Sheldon's career in Cuba, Egypt, the Sudan, India and Spain. They date from 1896 to 1906 and number 40 letters to his family filled with word pictures of his experiences. His letters from Cuba were written during the Spanish-American War and graphically describe the trials and tribulations of a war correspondent. He wrote for Black and White and Pall Mall Budget, both English periodicals, and Leslie's Weekly, an American periodical.

"The Sheldon papers add a new dimension to our collections. His letters are beautifully written, filled with onthe-scene reporting of events," said Margaret Cook, curator or rare books and manuscripts. The Charles Mills Sheldon collection will be available to scholars and students upon completion of cataloging.

Student Researchers Win Don Edward Harrison Jr. Award

Professor Robert Welsh (1) presents checks to Patterson Award winners Tom Hays and Lee

Two seniors, Tom Hays of Gore, Va., and Lee Harrell of Suffolk, Va., have been selected to share the 1990 Don Edward Harrison Jr. Award for undergraduate research achievements in physics.

Hays, working under the supervision of Professor Harlan Schone, is studying the properties of superconducting films. The discovery in 1986 of high-temperature superconductors has brought this field of investigation within reach of any laboratory with access to liquid nitrogen. Unfortunately, the high-temperature superconductors known to date are granular, brittle and impractical. One way of surmounting their material shortcomings is to deposit them as thin films on silver backings. Hays evaluates his samples by observing how they exclude low frequency radio waves. The same basic phenomenon is exploited in the magnetically levitated trains under development in Japan and Europe.

The other Harrison Award winner, Lee Harrell, works with Professors Roy Champion and Lynn Doverspike. He too investigates thin films, but in a different context. When a gas at low pressure comes into contact with a metal surface, its molecules interact with the metal atoms and with any impurities that may have accumulated. On the atomic level, an apparently clean, smooth surface is a complex craggy landscape consisting of many different substances. Harrell helps to analyze their chemistry by observing the motions of negatively charged atoms that are ejected from the surface after it is exposed to bombardment by gas molecules.

After graduation Harrell will join the graduate program in physics at Georgia Tech in Atlanta; Hays plans to enter the graduate program at Cornell.

The award is funded by an endowment created by the friends and family of the late Don Edward Harrison Jr., class of 1949. Professor Harrison was on the faculty of the Naval Postgraduate School in Monterey, Calif., where he did pioneer research on computer models of molecular interactions.

"If Harrison were alive to today, the three scientists—Hays, Harrell, and Harrison—would find that they have a lot more to discuss than the alliteration of their names," suggests physics Professor Hans C. von Baeyer.

Departments

Mario Zamora Honored With VSSA Service Award

At the annual meeting of the Virginia Social Service Association, held recently at Christopher Newport College, Mario Zamora, professor, was awarded the distinguished service award for his years of participation in the association and accomplishments in the field of anthropology.

Vinson Sutlive, professor, has been named president of the Association for the coming year and Barbara King, assistant professor, was named to the executive board.

Two William and Mary students, Kenneth Stuck, a graduate student, and Pat Pakach, an undergraduate, won first and second prize respectively in the essay contest.

Biology

"Influence of Interspecific Competition, Light, and Moisture Levels on Growth of Rock Outcrop Tallinium (Portulacaceae)" by Professor Stewart Ware was the lead article in the most recent issue of the Bulletin of the Torrey Botanical Club (vol. 118, p. 1-50).

With C. M. Bailey '89, he authored "Red Spruce Forests of Highland Co., Virginia: Biogeographical Considerations," published in Castanea 55:245-258.

English

Recent issues of the Victorians Institute Journal have included two contributions by Professor Terry Meyers. "G.O. Trevelyan: Morality and the 'Cambridge University Boat of 1860'" appeared in the 1990 issue; "An Interview with William Morris, September, 1885: His Arrest and Freedom of Speech," appears in the 1991 issue.

Theatre and Speech

A recent article by Professor Louis E. Catron, has been incorporated into the curriculum for fiction writing students at Writer's Digest School, a national correspondence school for writers. His article, which appears in the March 1991 edition of Writer's Digest magazine, is titled, "'Keep Attribution Simple,' He ... retorted, uttered, commented, cried, dared, voiced, barked, returned, greeted, demanded, snapped, observed, and muttered—but ... Seldom Said." He is a frequent contributor to Writer's Digest, a major magazine for writers.

Marshall-Wythe

An article by Linda Malone, associate professor, titled "The Necessary Interrelationship between Land Use and Preservation of Goundwater Resources," is included in UCLA Journal of Environmental Law and Policy."

School of Education

Professor S. Stuart Flanagan met with Region Five Staff Development personnel in Staunton, Va., March 22 and presented ideas on effective instruction in meeting Virginia State Department of Education Learning Objectives for grades 4-8 in mathematics.

Lori Korinek, associate professor, coedited the monograph, Virginia Presents: Best Practices ... Challenges for the Nineties, in which she co-authored a paper titled "Preparing Special Educators to Evaluate Program: Preservice and Inservice Application," with Virginia K. Laycock, associate professor and associate dean; and John McLaughlin of Virginia Tech. Korinek and Laycock co-presented this paper in October at the Council for Learning Disabilities' 12th annual conference on learning disabilities held in Austin, Texas.

The volume, a 1991 special publication of the Virginia Council for Learning Disabilities, also includes an article by Sandra B. Ward, assistant professor, titled "Critical Issues in the Assessment of Learning Disabilities."

Dean John Nagle chaired the Board of Examiners team that conducted an accreditation review in October of professional education programs at California State University, Chico, for the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education. Nagle was recently re-appointed by NCATE to an additional three-year term on the 400-member national Board of Examiners.

VIMS

Professor Robert Huggett presented an invited paper, "Risk Management of Tributyltin in the United States," at the National Academy of Sciences' National Research Council Workshop on Ecological Risk Assessment held at Airlie House, Feb. 26-March 1.

He also presented invited testimony on the Environmental Protection Agency's research and development budget. The hearing was held March 12 before the Committee on Science, Space and Technology, a subcommittee on the environment in the U.S. House of Representatives.

VIMS and the School of Marine Science, with Old Dominion University, cosponsored the 19th annual Marine Benthic Ecology Meetings in Williamsburg, March 7-10. Over 400 participants from the U.S. and Canada heard 200 papers and posters (see list below) on various topics related to the marine benthic environment. Associate Professor Robert Orth served as overall coordinator of the conference and was assisted by Romuald Lipcius, assistant professor; Jacques van Montfrans, instructor; Linda Schaffner, assistant professor; and Robert Diaz, associate professor.

VIMS/SMS also hosted the third annual blue crab recruitment workshop in Williamsburg, March 7, hosted by Orth, Lipcius, van Montfrans and Eugene Olmi. Thirty scientists from the Mid-Atlantic and Gulf States presented data from a research program in which scientists cooperated in collecting data over broad geographic scales using standard methodologies. A second goal of the workshop was to discuss long-range research goals in setting priorities for a national program.

The following papers were submitted by VIMS scientists and students:

Baker, Patrick. Functional competency in oyster larvae.

Baker, Shirley. Effects of hypoxia on metamorphic success, survival and growth of oyster Crassostrea virginica larvae and spat.

Layman, Bruce. Postlarval blue crab response to chemical and physical grass bed features in lower Chesapeake Bay.

Public Hearings On Bay Scheduled At VIMS

A final environmental impact statement and management plan for the Chesapeake Bay National Estuarine Research Reserve System in Virginia (CBNERRS-VA) will be the subject of public hearings to be held at 7 p.m., Wednesday, April 10 in Watermen's Hall on the VIMS campus. VIMS is the Commonwealth's leading agency for developing and managing the Virginia system.

The hearings will provide a forum for public comment on plans to initially set aside and use four Virginia sites—The Goodwin Islands at the mouth of the York River; the Catlett Islands in the lower York; a portion of Taskinas Creek, a York tributary; and Sweet Hall Marsh in the Pamunkey River—as estuarine field laboratories for long-term research, monitoring and education programs. The Goodwin Islands are owned by the College.

Any person who wishes to comment on the plan may do so, orally or in writing. Oral presentations at the hearings will be scheduled on a first-come, first-heard basis, and may be limited to a maximum of five minutes. The comment period for both oral and written presentations will end April 15.

For additional information on the final plan or the hearing, contact Carroll N. Curtis, CBNERRS-VA director, at VIMS, 642-7135.

NOTES

Colonial Classic 5K Run

Nu Rho Chapter of Alpha Phi Omega will sponsor its third Colonial Classic 5K run to benefit the American Cancer Society, Sunday, April 14.

The event begins at 10 a.m. at the Student Rec Center. There is a $6 entry fee for W&M students; $9 for non students ($11 on the day of the race). All participants will receive a T-shirt and there will be prizes for overall winners, age group winners and a Greek division. Refreshments will be provided to all runners.

Registration tables will be located in the Campus Center lobby from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and 5 to 7 p.m., April 8, 10 and 12; and from 5 to 7 p.m., April 9. There will also be race day registration.

For further information, call Christian Wilson at ext. 14673 or Michael Molloy at ext. 14285.

'Kiss Me Kate'

The Covenant Players open "Kiss Me Kate," Thursday, April 4 at 8:15 p.m. in the Newman auditorium of Andrews Hall. Performances are also set for April 5 and 6 at 8:15 p.m. and April 7 at 2 p.m.

Tickets are $4 and are available at St. Bede's Catholic Church, Bruton Parish Church, the Campus Center desk and at the door before each performance.

'Great C-major Symphony'

The William and Mary Orchestra will feature Schubert's "Great C-major symphony" in its spring concert at 8:15 p.m., Thursday, April 4 in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

Tickets are $3 at the door.

Bellini Lecture

Jean-Pierre Barricelli, professor of humanities and comparative literature at the University of California at Riverside, will give the 1991 Bellini Lecture at 8 p.m., Thursday April 4 in the Campus Center ballroom. Barricelli will give an illustrated lecture titled "Four Modern Illustrators of Dante's Commedia."

History Of Polymers

Field H. Winslow, a scientist who helped shape the role that polymers play in many aspects of life today, will speak on "The History of Polyethylene: An Iconoclastic Plastic" at 3:30 p.m., Friday, April 5 in the Botetourt Theatre of Swem Library.

This talk is sponsored by the Applied Science Program and is being ven in conjunction with the current exhibit in the Zollinger Museum in Swem Library, "Polymers and People." The exhibit will be up until April 24.

Cheek Award

Dennis Barrie, director of the Cincinnati Contemporary Arts Center, will receive the Leslie Cheek Jr. Award to recognize outstanding presentation of the arts at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, April 9 in the Newman Auditorium, Andrews

Barrie will give a slide/video program and will take questions from the audience at the conclusion of the program. A reception will be held in the Muscarelle Museum of Art.

Both the lecture and the reception are open to the public.

featuring the "Goldberg Variations" by Bach at 3 p.m., Sunday, April 14 in Ewell Recital Hall.

This recital is open to the public.

A native of Southern California, Kong was the 1979 outstanding undergraduate in the School of Music at the University of Southern California. She had received three Ruth Lorraine Close fellowships while studying there. She received a doctorate from the University of Oregon School of Music.

Both as a pianist and harpsichordist Kong is the recipient of national and international honors. In 1985 she was named Irl Allison Grand Prize Winner in the International Piano Recording Competition. In 1983 she placed fourth in the Johann Sebastian Bach International Piano Competition. Kong received Mu Phi Epsilon grants to perform in the 1982 and 1984 Bach Aria Festivals held in Stony Brook, N.Y.

Kong was designated a laureate in the 1981 National Beethoven Foundation Fellowship auditions. She won a scholarship in 1974 to the American Academy of the Arts in Europe held in Verona, Italy. In 1972 she won first prize in the national auditions for the National Baldwin Keyboard Achievement Award sponsored by the Music Teachers National Association.

Commonwealth Center Seminar April 11

The Commonwealth Center for the Study of American Culture will sponsor a seminar on "Evil and the American Imagination," at 5 p.m., Thursday, April 11 in the Friends Room of Swem Library.

The speaker will be Andrew Delbanco, professor of English and comparative literature at Columbia University.

Delbanco is the author of William Ellery Channing: An Essay on the Liberal Spirit in America (Harvard Press, 1981) and The Puritan Ordeal (Harvard Press, 1989). His seminar, which will explore the representations of evil in early America and more recent times, stems from his work in progress The American Satan, currently under contract with Alfred A. Knopf.

Students Of Ryan Fletcher Present 'Mostly Mozart'

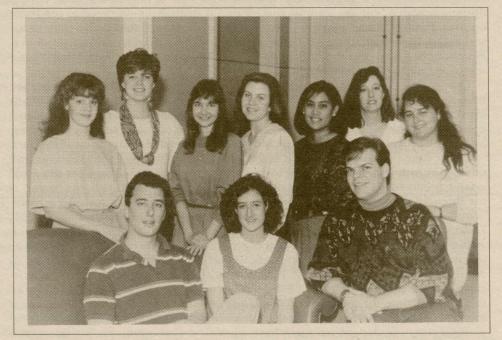

Nine voice students in the department of music will present a concert, "Mostly Mozart," at 3 p.m., Saturday, April 6 in Ewell Recital Hall in celebration of the bicentennial of the death of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart (1757-1791)

This recital is free and open to the

The program will feature arias and duets from three of Mozart's greatest operas "The Marriage of Figaro," "Cosi Fan Tutte," and "Don Giovanni." The program will also include the music of Ravel, Schubert and Modest Mussorgsky.

Singers will be Kerry Deal, Carolyn Dilley, Melyssa Hall, Lori Manganelli, and Stephanie Sortland, sopranos; Suzanne Stephan, mezzo-soprano; Robert Brue, tenor; Hunter Old, baritone; and Joseph Wajszcauk, bass-baritone. Women's Studies Lecture Series

Cameron To Talk On 'Sex Murders In America'

Deborah Cameron, an English sociolinguist who was a visiting member of the English department 1989-90, will speak on "Sex Murders in America," at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, April 11 in Millington auditorium as part of a series of lectures sponsored by the Women's Studies program.

As a scholar of language Cameron, was a popular speaker while here on the faculty, talking about how men and women express themselves verbally. She is the author of several books on language and has also researched and published in areas of women's studies and feminist theory that are unrelated to the study of language. "The "Lust to Kill, a Feminist Investigation of Sexual Murder," by Cameron was published in 1987.

Women's Studies events during April also include Lori Krafte-Jacobs of the religion department speaking on "Women and Judaism," at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, April 9 in Tucker 120.

Susan Donaldson of the English faculty will speak on "Images of Black Women," at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, April 16 in Tucker 120.

'Sexual Violence and Public Policy" will be the topic discussed by Diana Scully of VCU at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, April 25 in Millington auditorium.

Lines Of Communication

President Issues Statements On Judicial System And Budget Cuts

President Verkuil this week issued two statements on issues of special concern to the College community: the response of the judicial system to sexual assault cases and the effects of state budget cuts on the College. Those statements appear below.

The President also announced a new series of programs designed to increase student awareness of key campus issues and to enhance communication between the administration and the students. The program emerged from a series of discussions with Senior Class President Reginald Jones and other student leaders. Verkuil said they have been instrumental in inaugurating

A new feature in the Flat Hat, "Notes from the Administration," appeared for the first time March 29, with Verkuil's statement on the judicial system. Subsequent columns will be written by other administrators on topical issues.

Another new program will be a regular series of "town meetings," informal sessions to be held from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in the Campus Center lobby, providing an opportunity for students strators to discuss current campus issues. The first meeting is scheduled for April 15.

The second open forum this academic year on the College's budget also has been scheduled. College officials will present the latest budget information at 8 p.m. Tuesday, April 9, in the Campus Center Ballroom, in a format similar to one used last fall.

Notes from the Administration March 28, 1991

In recent days, students and faculty members have asked me about the policies and procedures embodied in our student judicial system, especially as they apply to sexual assault. I would like to take this opportunity to share with the college community my point of view on these issues. Let me say unequivocally that sexual violence will not be tolerated on this campus.

I am concerned about the perception some hold of our system of responding to complaints of sexual assault. I do understand why the perceptions have come about. To some extent they are created by individual cases which Federal law prohibits us from discussing. At a broader level, misperceptions may result from the inherent difficulty surrounding communications about this issue.

There is a protocol followed whenever a student reports a sexual assault to a staff member. The first priority is to urge the student to receive medical attention. RA staff members are instructed to offer to accompany the student to the Health Center or Emergency Room. At the Health Center, the staff is trained in how to gather medical evidence which might be needed in a subsequent criminal investigation. Once medical care is secured, the student is advised of counseling and support options available both on campus and off and is strongly encouraged to use these options. Further, a staff member discusses the choices available to the student for seeking redress both through court action and the campus judicial processes. Finally, notice is sent to the Office of the Vice President for Student Affairs that a sexual assault has been reported

Our policies, adopted through the democratic processes of the College, are designed to be fair and equitable as well as sensitive to the needs of the individuals involved and of the broader community. The system is designed to give the students options for resolving their complaints through an administrative hearing or hearing by a panel; proceeding internally in addition to or instead of taking an issue to court.

I have asked the Vice President for Student Affairs to meet with students and other groups to decide if changes in our system, especially as it applies to sexual assault, are needed. We will look at our educational and reporting systems as well as the disciplinary system. Further, I am appointing a committee to consider a modification in our Statement of Rights and Responsibilities. In September of 1991, Federal law will no longer prohibit colleges and universities from advising the victims of violent crimes of the results of campus judicial procedures. I believe we should consider amending the statement so that our policies will not be a barrier to our doing what the law will permit. While amending the statement takes longer than changing our other procedures, I would hope that we could complete our review of this issue in time for a decision to be made by September 1. If our statement is modified in this way, we could also then provide the accusers in these cases with the plaintiff review option, which many have advocated; that option previously was not Knowing of the interest of our community in this subject, I felt it was important to communicate with you directly. Any system needs to be open to change in order to be more responsive and to eliminate misperceptions or confusion about our commitments to an open, fair and safe environment.

Budget Reductions and How the College Plans to Face Them

To: Members of the College Community

As you are aware, the College is now experiencing significant budget reductions as the Commonwealth of Virginia moves to balance revenues and expenditures on a state-wide basis. In light of this situation, I am writing to briefly explain the nature of budget reductions required by the Commonwealth and the resulting impact on our

The current estimate of the Commonwealth's revenue shortfall totals approximately $2 billion. As a result, all state agencies and institutions are required to reduce their on-going operating expenses. For William and Mary, state funding reductions totalled approximately $4 million in the current fiscal year, and could increase to $8 million in fiscal year 1991-92. For fiscal year 1991-92 this amount represents a general fund reduction of approximately 22%

Through action of the Governor and General Assembly we have been allowed to recover approximately $3.4 million of these funds through tuition charges. This will entail significant tuition increases next year. However we are holding almost all fees flat so that the total increase in room, board and tuition and fees for our in-state and out-of-state undergraduate students should not exceed 10%

But even with the tuition increases, the need for significant budget reduction action remains. For the current year, the College retrieved funds through reductions in support and administrative staff, plant operations, supplies and materials, computing support, library materials, and part-time faculty. Planning for additional reductions next year recognized the negative impact on the academic program of continuing some of these reductions into the future. As a result the operating budget to be recommended to the Board of Visitors restores library materials funding as well as support for part-time faculty and instructional supplies and materials. In fact the instructional portion of our budget for 1991-92 actually increases by 5% over the comparable 1989-90 period. We can make up the losses by shifting resources from administration, student services, and auxiliary services (including athletics and physical plant). It is important to realize that the student funding for the proposed university center is not money that could have been used for academics or any other purposes.

Academics remain our number one priority. In order to answer any questions you may have, we will hold a budget forum in conjunction with the Student Association to explain both the process and results of recent actions. Students are invited to express their views and air their concerns. We will also initiate a Flat Hat column "Notes from the Administration" that will address various student concerns.

Thank you for your continued support and understanding. I am convinced that by working together in times of financial stress, we can make William and Mary an even stronger institution in the future.

Fulbright Scholars Head For New Zealand And Singapore In 1991-92

Kulp is working in database retrieval and management for the Office of Advancement Systems but computers are by no means his only interest. Kulp is production manager for the campus radio station, WCWM; an executive with Student Pugwash; and a good jazz drummer. He played two years with the rock and roll band "Budnuda" and participated last semester in the jazz workshop with Carla Bley. He does, however ,plan a career as a computer engineer after he completes his year abroad.

Julie Richardson, an economics concentrator with a minor in mathematics, has won a Fulbright scholarship to Singapore to study the historical development of Singapore and the "Batam Initiative." The "Batam Initiative," explains Richardson, is a collaborative effort by Malaysia, Indonesia and Singapore to expand economic opportunities in the region.

She will study at the National University of Singapore and plans to take courses in Mandarin Chinese.

Richardson had acquired a position as a financial analyst with Salomon Brothers, Investment Bankers in New York City, before she received the Fulbright award. The company has agreed to hold the position for a year until she returns.

An active participant in campus activities, Richardson is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, the Student-Alumni Liaison Committee and several honor societies including Omicron Delta Kappa, Omicron Delta Epsilon economics honorary and Pi Eta Sigma and Alpha Lambda Delta freshman honoraries. She is a former president of Pi Eta Sigma.

Richardson has been a volunteer with the Williamsburg chapter of the Association of Retarded Citizens, a student member of the personnel committee in the economics department, active with Direct Marketing of Williamsburg and a green belt in Tae Kwon Do. She began her college studies planning to major in physics until randomly choosing a three-credit economics course to fill out her schedule; the instructor was Robert Archibald. "I was hooked," said Richardson who is doing an honors project in economics on "Investment Consumption Policies Under Risk."

Richardson also credits the assistance of John Strong, assistant professor of business administration; Dean Clyde Haulman; and Carolyn Carson, director of international programs, the Wendy and Emery Reves Center for International Studies, in preparing for the scholarship.

SAA Helps Raise Funds For College

J.B. Hickman of Williamsburg, longtime chair of the Friends of the College, has enlisted a new group of volunteers who share his enthusiasm for local support of the College.

Hickman is working with the Student Advancement Association (SAA), a student group whose members, primarily freshmen and sophomores, are interested in helping raise private support for academics at the college. With expert guidance from Hickman, the students will soon try approaching local businesses to solicit support.

The students will be working with Hickman on the annual Friends of the College campaign. The friends group is comprised of local businesses which provide annual operating support to William and Mary. Gifts of $250 or more are required for membership in the friends organization.

The SAA, formed in 1989, has been working behind the scenes with the College's Office of Development since its inception. This is the first time the students will have taken on the task of approaching businesses for support.

Hickman, whose successful career in retailing included ownership of Binn's Fashion Shop and J.B. Hickman, Ltd., of Newport News, has chaired the friends group since its inception in the early 1970s.

Members of the SAA will be approaching businesses which traditionally have not supported William and Mary. "The motto of the SAA is 'Students helping students,'" said Eric Kauders, president of the group, "and by working with J.B. Hickman, students can indeed help their peers. I hope that businesses which have not supported the College in the past will respond favorably to hearing from one of the students who will benefit directly from private support."

Off-Campus Summer Courses Must Be Approved For Credit

Students wishing to take courses in summer school at other institutions and to have that credit transfer to William and Mary must have permission from the Office of Academic Advising prior to enrolling in these courses. Students should obtain permission before they leave William and Mary in May. Appropriate forms are available in the Academic Advising office (James Blair 110).

Students who wish to take summer courses elsewhere that meet for fewer than four weeks or 37.5 contact hours must petition the Committee on Degrees (see below) and include with the petition a completed Summer Session Elsewhere Form, course description, course evaluation by the appropriate W&M department chairperson and a statement in the petition dealing with the educational value of that particular course in the student's four-year educational plan.

Retroactive permission to transfer credit for summer school courses taken at other institutions will not be granted.

Committee on Degrees Petitioners

The Committee on Degrees will meet on April 11 and April 25. These will be the only regular meetings before fall semester 1991. All undergraduates who plan to petition for waivers of or changes in degree requirements must do so no later than April 4 (for the April 11 meeting), or April 18 (for the April 25 meeting).

Petition forms are available from Mrs. Pearson in the Office of the Dean of Undergraduate Studies (James Blair 112). All petitions must be typed and must be accompanied by a letter from the appropriate department chairperson.
