WILLIAM & MARY

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER FOR FACULTY, STUDENTS AND STAFF

NEWS

VOLUME XXI, NUMBER 1 • WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 21, 1991

REMINDERS

Surry Alert

The Virginia Department of Emergency Services will hold a exercise Aug. 27, 28 and 29 to test the community's ability to address an alert at the Surry Power Station.

Selected individuals from William and Mary will be active participants on Tuesday, the 27th. The College's participation is being coordinated by the Campus Police.

Campus Parking On Aug. 23

New student orientation for fall 1991 begins Friday, Aug. 23.

Between 8 a.m. and 2 p.m., about 1,300 new students must check in and unload their vehicles.

Parking areas closest to the freshmen residence halls will be reserved for unloading of vehicles. These areas include Barrett, the Botetourt Complex, Dupont, Hunt, Monroe, Taliaferro and Yates.

Carol S. Disque, dean of students, has asked that faculty and staff help ease the confusion and parking problems that day by (1) not parking vehicles on campus unless essential, or (2) parking in outlying areas such as the William and Mary Hall lot, to help reduce traffic insofar as possible.

Office Relocates

The Dean of Students Office, including Study Skills, Off-Campus Housing, and the Office for Students with Disabilities, has relocated to James Blair 102.

ID Cards

All faculty, staff and their family members are required to have new identification cards to enter the Student Recreation Center.

New ID cards may be obtained in the Campus Center Atrium (ID Office) 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

All personnel having spouse or adult dependent privilege cards for use at the Rec Center must also have those renewed.

For further information, call ext. 13310.

College Seeks To Cut Power Bill

by Elaine Justice
Director of Public Information

Most people don't think about saving money on electricity—until they get the bill. What the College's students may not know is that they pay electricity bills each year in the form of tuition and fees. Faculty and staff of the College pay, too, because more money spent on utilities means less spent in other more productive ways.

A task force of students, staff and administrators, with blessings from the faculty's energy and environment committee, has begun exploring ways to save on the College's annual $3 million energy bill, $2 million of which goes for electricity.

"What people don't realize is that with a 10 percent decrease in our electricity demand, we could save $200,000," said Nancy Nash, assistant to the vice president for administration and finance.

Saving significant dollars is the goal of the task force, which is focusing on a four-week period from Aug. 15 to Sept. 15, when the College typically experiences its peak demand for electricity.

"Virginia Power bases its monthly electric bills on a formula that is roughly 90 percent of the institution's peak demand," said Nash. When computers, hairdryers and air conditioners drive kilowatt hours to a maximum level in late August and early September, the College must still pay 90 percent of the peak rate each month throughout the rest of the year, even though total electricity demand in other months may be much lower.

"This makes every additional use during that period very expensive," said Nash. "For example, a 1,000 watt appliance, like a room air conditioner, used for one-half hour at the peak time, costs the College $130 yearly because of Virginia Power's method of demand billing.

"That's why we're focused on this period of traditional peak demand," said Nash. "If we can lower our peak, it will translate into savings for the rest of the year."

The task force is taking the following steps to lower the College's peak demand in August and September:

1. A grant from the state Department of Mines, Minerals and Energy has allowed the College to retrofit certain academic buildings with energy efficient devices such as economical lighting and air flow systems. If the project goes well, says Nash, it could serve as a prototype for further grant applications.

2. A survey of all steam traps on campus (part of the underground steam heating system) is underway to identify the most inefficient and repair or replace them.

3. Staff members are studying the feasibility of turning off air conditioner chillers in selected buildings for 30-minute intervals during peak demand times. Nash said the strategy would cause little change in building temperatures and could produce significant savings.

In addition to the campuswide energy saving strategies, the task force is asking students, faculty and staff to make a concerted effort to save electricity, especially from mid-August through mid-September.

Heat-generating appliances such as coffeemakers, hairdryers, clothes dryers and electric ranges generally use the most electricity. The task force is asking faculty and staff in offices to turn off their coffeemakers during the afternoon and to turn off lights, air conditioners and personal computers when not in use.

Students are requested to try not to use clothes dryers, hairdryers or electric ranges and ovens during the typical peak demand hours from 2 to 5 p.m. "If students can postpone using electrical appliances after academic offices shut down at 5 p.m., it could result in significant savings," said Nash.

While turning off one light or one appliance might not seem like much, the effect multiplied across campus could be considerable.

Energy Saving Tips for Offices on Campus

1. Coffeemakers The average office coffeemaker, if left on 4 hours per business day, uses 1,250 hours of electricity per year at a cost of $105. Coffeemakers left on for the entire business day cost over twice that amount. Simply switching off coffeemakers when not in use and not using during peak periods from 2 to 5 p.m. should result in significant savings.

2. Air Conditioners Probably one of the biggest energy consumers of all, window unit air conditioners should be turned off when not in use. At the very least, window air conditioner thermostats should be cut back when rooms are unoccupied.

3. Lighting Remember to turn out lights when not in use. While one light left on might not make much difference, many lights left on can add up to significant power use.

Tips for Students in Residence Halls

1. Clothes Dryers Clothes dryers use almost 10 times the wattage of washing machines. The average dorm dryer used two hours a day during the academic year costs $105 per year. Multiplied times 100 dryers across campus, the total charge is $10,500. Signs are being posted asking students not to use dryers between the hours of 2 and 5 p.m. on weekdays.

2. Electric ranges, ovens An electric range/oven used for two hours a day each day of the academic year would cost $263 per year. There are at least 50 such ovens on campus, for a cost of $13,150 per year. Ranges need to be turned off when not in use and, if possible, not used between the peak hours of 2 and 5 p.m.

3. Personal appliances Individually, personal appliances do not consume much electricity. Multiplied across campus, however, the cost adds up. For example, a radio operated eight hours a day during the academic year costs $6.13. Multiplied by approximately 3,000 student, faculty and staff radios, the yearly cost becomes $18,390. Stereos over the same period cost $9.42. Assume there are 1,000 stereos on campus and the cost becomes $9,420. All personal appliances should be turned off when not in use.

Department Notes

Biology

This past summer, Carl W. Vermeulen, associate professor, taught a summer program that included the first lower division lab course in the history of the department of biology at the University of California at San Diego, which is at the heart of "Biotechnology Mesa," the leading center for such research in the world, according to some business publications.

The course "Biology 9: An Introduction to Biology as an Experimental Science," was developed by Vermeulen and UCSD professor Melvin Green. Green gave the lectures and Vermeulen ran the labs, much as he does for his microbiology course at William and Mary.

The class was extensively monitored by the Wellcome Foundation, which is interested in new methods for the teaching of science in America.

Students in the course were drawn from universities across the country as well as from the faculties and student bodies of local high schools from the Southern California science magnet school.

Three of the small research projects done by the students are now being expanded into full-fledged federal research grant proposals.

The summer program was financially supported by a grant of $38,000 by the UCSD summer session and by the UCSD medical school under a minorities grant from the National Science Foundation.

Vermeulen has been on sabbatical leave in San Diego to study vaccines for the Third World.

Chemistry

Professor Gary C. DeFotis presented two papers at the national meeting of the American Physical Society held in Cincinnati, March 18-22. "Magnetic Properties and Spin Glass Behavior of  $\text{CoCl}_2 \cdot \text{H}_2\text{O}$ " was co-authored with former undergraduates R.V. Chamberlain and W.R.A. Jarvis. "Zero-field splittings and Lower Dimensional Magnetic Behavior of  $\text{Fe}[\text{S}_2\text{CNC}_4\text{H}_8\text{O}]_2\text{X}$ ,  $\text{X} = \text{Cl}, \text{Br}, \text{I}$ " was co-authored with undergraduates Chamberlain and Jarvis and with Edgar W. Harlan, former Camille and Henry Dreyfus Teaching Postdoctoral Fellow associated with DeFotis in the chemistry department.

Three recent papers published in the April 15 issue of the Journal of Applied Physics by DeFotis and several co-workers are: "Quasi-one-dimensional Antiferromagnetism in  $\text{MnCl}_2 \cdot \text{H}_2\text{O}$ ", with J. A. Lukin and S. A. Friedberg of Carnegie-Mellon University as co-authors, " $\text{Fe}[\text{S}_2\text{CNC}_4\text{H}_8\text{O}]_2\text{I}$ : A Quasi-two-dimensional XY Antiferromagnet," with Chamberlain and Harlan as co-authors; and "Ferromagnetism of  $\text{Ni}(\text{SCN})_2 \cdot (\text{C}_2\text{H}_5\text{OH})_2$ ", with former undergraduates Eric D. Remy and Kevin D. Dell, and Harlan, as co-authors. The various projects above were supported by grants to DeFotis from the Solid State Chemistry Program of the Division of Materials Research of the National Science Foundation, the Petroleum Research Fund of the American Chemical Society and the Camille and Henry Dreyfus Foundation.

Government

Michael T. Clark, assistant professor, and Simon Serfaty, research professor of American foreign policy at the Johns Hopkins University, have published New Thinking and Old Realities: America, Europe, and Russia (Washington: Seven Locks Press/The Johns Hopkins Foreign Policy Institute, 1991).

The book is a collection of essays, including "New Realities in Eastern Europe: Challenges for Russia and the West," by Anne Henderson, assistant professor. Clark wrote the concluding chapter, "Old Thinking and New Realities: The Legacy of Postwar Realism."

College Mourns Loss Of Professors In Law And Mathematics, Former Rector

E. Eleanor Calkins

E. Eleanor Calkins, 96, associate professor of mathematics emeritus, died Tuesday, Aug. 13 in the Pines Convalescent Center.

Miss Calkins was a native of Sackville, Nova Scotia, Canada. She came to Williamsburg with her family in 1918 when Camp Penniman was being built in the latter stages of World War I.

She attended Columbia College in Florida and taught high school in Avcon Park, Leesburg and Stuart, Fla., and Middlebourne, W.Va., before returning to Williamsburg to attend William and Mary from 1925-27. She received her A.B. degree in 1927, and joined the mathematics faculty. She received a master's degree from the University of Michigan and did graduate work at the University of Chicago and the University of North Carolina. She was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the Mortar Board Society and Phi Beta Phi.

Miss Calkins retired in 1961 after 34 years at the College. She was well known in Williamsburg as an authority on medieval tapestry.

Survivors include a brother, Dr. Robert D. Calkins of Washington, D.C.

A graveside funeral was conducted at 11 a.m., Friday, Aug. 16 in Cedar Grove Cemetery, Williamsburg, by Dr. Thomas E. Pugh.

The family has requested that expressions of sympathy take the form of contributions to the Williamsburg Emergency Medical Service, 440 N. Boundary St., Williamsburg, 23185.

W. Brooks George

William Brooks George, former Rector of the College, died at his home in Richmond, July 24.

Mr. George was retired president and chief executive officer of the former Larus & Brother Co., Inc., tobacco company of Richmond. He was a native of Stuart in Patrick County. He graduated from Stuart High School and in 1932 received a bachelor's degree from the College.

Mr. George, a certified public accountant, then moved to Richmond and worked for the Internal Revenue Service. He later joined the T. Coleman Andrew & Co. accounting firm.

In 1937 Mr. George became an auditor for Larus & Brother and was appointed controller in 1939. Two years later he became assistant to the president and controller, and in 1954 he became vice president. He became president in 1962 and was elected chief executive officer in 1966.

Mr. Brooks was president of the Richmond chapters of the Pipe and Tobacco Council and the Associated Tobacco Manufacturers. He also was a former vice president of the Richmond chapter of the Tobacco Merchants Association.

Mr. George was also a former director of Signet Bank, the Life Insurance Company of Virginia and the Lawyers Title Insurance Corp.

He was on the boards of directors of WCVE-TV (Channel 23), the Richmond Eye Hospital, the Richmond Metropolitan Authority, the Carpenter Center for the Performing Arts and Keep Virginia Beautiful.

Mr. George was president of the Richmond Chapter of the United Givers Fund, now the United Way, and was active in the Virginia Chamber of Commerce, the Metropolitan Richmond Chamber of Commerce and the American Red Cross. He was a member of the Country Club of Virginia; the Commonwealth Club, the Forum Club and the Society of Virginia Creepers, a club for older men.

Mr. George was an elder of First Presbyterian Church in Richmond and recently was named the church's only elder emeritus. In 1988 he received the Brotherhood Citation from the National Chapter of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

He is survived by his wife, Elizabeth Simmerman George; two sons, William B. George Jr. and Henry H. George, and two brothers, T. L. George and Garland George, all of Richmond; and a sister, Mrs. Margaret G. Anderson of Stuart.

A funeral was held Saturday, July 27, at the First Presbyterian Church in Richmond. Burial was in Hollywood Cemetery.

The family has suggested that expressions of sympathy take the form of contributions to the W. Brooks George Fund of the Greater Richmond Community Foundation, the W. Brooks George Fund of the College or the First Presbyterian Church Endowment Fund.

Walter L. Williams Jr.

Walter L. Williams Jr., professor of law at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, died Saturday, Aug. 10 in Williamsburg Community Hospital. Dr. Williams was 54.

Since 1972, Dr. Williams has been professor of international law. He was frequently called upon because of his expertise in the field and was a participant/speaker at many international conferences.

He was a member of the International Society for Military Law and the Law of War, a member of World Peace Through Law Center, the United Nations Association, International Rotary and Saint Andrews Society of Williamsburg.

He was a member of the Southern California and Virginia Bar Associations and a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity. At the time of his death he was president of the Marshall-Wythe Law School chapter of the Order of the Coif.

Dr. Williams received A.B., M.A. and L.L.B. degrees from the University of Southern California and LL.M. and J.S.D. degrees from Yale University.

Dr. Williams served in the U.S. Marine Corps from 1958 to 1961 as a lieutenant. From 1967 to 1972, he served in the Army Judge Advocate General's Corps. He was a military legal adviser to NATO, SHAPE headquarters in Belgium. He retired from the Army Judge Advocate General's Corps Reserve in 1988.

This spring Williams was the recipient of three awards that reflected an appreciation of his community work on three different levels, local, state and international.

At the Marshall-Wythe commencement ceremony he received the John Marshall Award, presented annually to a faculty or staff member for contributions to the law school community.

Williams received the Hardy Cross Dilliard Award from the International Practice Section of the Virginia State Bar for his promotion of international relations in the state.

In May, Williams received the Distinguished Service Award from the International Society for Military Law and the Law of War. Williams was vice president of the organization and received his award at the society's meeting in Brussels.

Williams said the awards buoyed his spirits and was especially pleased with the Marshall Award since it was made by his peers with whom he worked for many years.

Dr. Williams was born in Simpson County, Ky., and had been a Williamsburg resident for many years. He attended the Williamsburg Community Chapel.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Carol A. Williams; two sons, Lance A. Williams and Laird R. D. Williams, both of Williamsburg; his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Iva Lee; and C. R. Keith of Williamsburg.

A graveside service was conducted at 11 a.m., Wednesday, Aug. 14, by the Rev. Bill Warrick in Williamsburg Memorial Park.

The family has requested that expressions of sympathy take the form of contributions to the American Cancer Society or the Williamsburg Community Chapel.

NOTES

Bulb Sale

The biology department is sponsoring a bulb sale for the benefit of scholarship endowments and to provide funds for the academic program associated with the greenhouse atop Millington Hall.

Now available is a unique tulip developed to commemorate the 300th anniversary of the College. The list of bulbs being sold has been tailored to varieties that grow well in the mid-Atlantic region.

Last order date for mid-Atlantic states is Oct. 31; all other states, Oct. 1. Order forms are available by calling ext. 12238.

The William and Mary tulips are $12.95 per dozen. Orders can also be made for Pink Diamond tulip; Dutch Master, Ice Follies, Salome, Tahiti and Naturalizing daffodils; crocuses, star-flowers, and prepotted Amaryllis.

Choral Concert

The Williamsburg Choral Guild will begin rehearsals for the fall concert season at 7:30 p.m., Monday, Aug. 26 in the South Wing of Williamsburg Baptist Church, 227 Richmond Road.

Those interested in singing with the Choral Guild are invited to attend or call 253-2246.

The Guild season will include a concert Sunday, Oct. 6 as part of the Occasion for the Arts program. Concerts are also scheduled for Dec. 3 and 4 and March 28 and 29.

The Pleasures of Tea

"The Pleasures of the Tea Table," a multi-media presentation exploring the importance of tea in the colonies and the development of tea wares will be presented at the DeWitt Wallace Decorative Arts Gallery at 4 p.m., Wednesday, Aug. 28. Admission is included in the Gallery fee.

For further information call 220-7287.

Children's Festival

Seventeenth-century-style entertainment, Old English and native American games, and crafts to make and take home will be featured in the Jamestown Children's Festival at Jamestown Settlement, Saturday, Aug. 31. The program begins at 10 a.m.

Admission is $7 for adults; $3.50 for children 6 through 12. Children must be accompanied by an adult during the festival.

For more information, call 229-1607.

CommonHealth Class Schedule

CommonHealth fitness classes will not meet Monday, Aug. 26 through Friday, Sept. 6. The fall schedule will begin Sept. 9.

Schedules will be posted in the W&M News and Inside Themes newsletter.

Questions concerning the program should be addressed to Margo Wright at the CommonHealth office, ext. 12776.

Noon Services

Noon prayer services are held daily in the Wren Chapel, sponsored by Christian Campus ministers.

Law School Program Wins Gambrell Award

The American Bar Association has named the Marshall-Wythe School of Law the first recipient of the annual E. Smythe Gambrell Award for Professionalism.

The first place award, a prize of $5,000, was given to the school's Legal Skills Program, which teaches professional responsibility and ethics by having students engage in simulated legal practice.

The award was presented Friday, Aug. 9 at the ABA annual meeting in Atlanta to President Paul Verkuil and James Moliterno, director of the Legal Skills Program.

The selection for the award was made and announced by the ABA's Special Coordinating Committee on Professionalism. Committee chair Zona Hostetler, a Washington, D.C., attorney, called William and Mary's Legal Skills Program "one of the most innovative in the country."

"By dividing the students into simulated 'law firms,' the format of the course brings home to students real-life ethical dilemmas that are difficult for them to appreciate in the traditional classroom," said Hostetler.

"When we started the program we had high hopes for its potential to teach ethics; we were certain it would be a model for skills development," said Moliterno. "It's especially gratifying that the ABA has recognized the program for its teaching of professional ethics as well."

The Gambrell Award is named for the late Atlanta attorney, who was president of the ABA and the American Bar Founation simultaneously from 1955 to 1956. Gambrell founded the Legal Aid Society in Atlanta, where he practiced law from 1922 until his death in 1986.

Three New Members Appointed To Board Of Visitors

Gov. L. Douglas Wilder has appointed three new members to the College's Board of Visitors. They are: A. Marshall Acuff Jr. '62, of Riverside, Conn.; Norma B. Harvey of Hampton; and James B. Murray Jr. '74 J.D. of Keene.

Acuff is senior vice president and managing director of Smith Barney, Harris Upham & Co. of New York. He is a trustee emeritus of The Endowment Association and immediate past president of the Society for the Alumni board of directors. He also chaired the New York regional Campaign for the Fourth Century.

Mrs. Harvey, wife of Hampton University President William Harvey, is a business counselor at Hampton University's Business Assistance Center and a new appointee to the Governor's Task Force on Substance Abuse and Sexual Assault on college campuses, in addition to serving on the board of the Virginia Museum of Natural History and the Peninsula Fine Arts Center.

Murray is chairman of Columbia Cellular Corporation of Washington, D.C., a telecommunications and venture capital firm. He is a trustee emeritus of the Endowment Association, a founding trustee of the School of Law Foundation and former president of the Law School Association.

Current Board members Edward J. Campbell of Newport News and Audrey Harris of Richmond have been reappointed to their second four-year terms.

The Board of Visitors' next meeting will be held on campus Oct. 17-18.

Ash Lawn Receives Three Grants For Monroe-Related Research

Ash Lawn-Highland, home of President James Monroe, has been awarded three grants totalling almost $22,000 for Monroe-related research.

Following last year's award of a $1,400 planning grant, the Virginia Foundation for the Humanities and Public Policy has awarded the museum $4,325 to convene a November conference on the current state of Monroe scholarship and to plan for a select letterpress publication of Monroe papers. Leading Monroe scholars from across the United States will convene for the first time to compare their respective projects and to discuss the need for Monroe-related publications.

Papers from three of the first four Virginia-born presidents are subjects of current university editing projects—Washington and Madison at the University of Virginia and Jefferson at Princeton University. In addition, the papers of John Marshall are being edited at the College. The November conference is expected to end with a strong consensus that editing the papers of James Monroe is overdue for similar reconsiderations.

The National Historical Publications and Records Commission of the National Archives has awarded Ash Lawn-Highland $16,148 to initiate a central collection of Monroe papers and to create a calendar of those papers for scholarly research. This project will facilitate the ultimate editing and publication of the letterpress edition of Monroe papers.

Because of mutual interests in Monroe-related research, Ash Lawn-Highland has been joined by the Commonwealth Center for American History and Culture at the College and by the James Monroe Museum and Memorial Library in Fredericksburg in forming the Monroe Consortium. The Consortium not only supports the current Monroe papers project, it is also committed to developing and implementing similar projects in the future.

Address Changes

The United State Postal Service has instituted the use of the Zip+ 4 add-on code to speed the mail.

The College should use the following codes:

Faculty/staff/College mail
Name
Department
The College of William and Mary
P. O. Box 8795
Williamsburg, VA 23187-8795

Swem Library
Name
Earl Gregg Swem Library
P. O. Box 8794
Williamsburg, VA 23187-8794

Students will have unique codes which are a combination of the Zip Code plus the student's individual College State box number.

Student mail should read:

Name
CS Box
Williamsburg, Va. 23186+CS box no.

The new system, says William F. Merck II, vice president for administration and finance, should save the College both time and money. In a memo to deans, directors and department heads, Merck suggested that the new address style be used as soon as practical, and included on new stationery once the current stock is depleted.

Labor Day Holiday

The College and Virginia Institute of Marine Science will observe Labor Day on Monday, Sept. 2, 1991.

Most of the administrative offices and the plant department (except for those employees required to maintain essential services as determined by management), will be closed. The decision to require employees to work should be made by the dean, director or department head, as appropriate, and should be communicated to the employee(s) as soon as possible. The Campus Police Department will maintain its regular schedule.

The names of permanent classified employees who are required to work must be reported in writing to the Office of Personnel Services by Sept. 9, 1991 in order that these employees may be credited with compensatory leave. Hourly employees who are required to work during the holiday will be paid their regularly hourly rate.

With the approval of management, compensatory leave should be taken as soon as possible after the holiday on which it was earned. Compensatory time not taken within 12 months will be lost.

On behalf of the administration of the university, I wish each member of the College community a safe and enjoyable holiday.

Melvyn D. Schiavelli
Provost

Employees Receive Awards For Service To University

President Verkuil gave opening remarks at the fourth annual service awards ceremony July 15, thanking staff members for their contributions to the university and asking for their continued support.

President Verkuil was the first presenter of the afternoon and presented service awards to employees in the President's/Provost's area as follows:

Computer Center

College Employees Are Feted At Annual Barbecue

A Lively Picnic On A Rainy Day

Rain forced the annual employee picnic into William and Mary Hall, but the change in locale did not diminish the festivities.

At right above, an overall view of the picnic setting, which included lively music and a barbecue menu with fried chicken and watermelon.

Muscarella Museum Seeks Docents

The Muscarella Museum of Art is seeking volunteers for its docent program.

Applications will be accepted through Monday, Sept. 9.

Docents are trained museum volunteers who give tours of the museum and its exhibits to school and adult groups and assist in the Gallery/Studio program and other education offerings.

The only requirement to join the Docent Program is an interest in the visual arts and a desire to share that interest with others. Prior studio or art history classes or teaching experience is helpful.

The first year is spent in training. Training consists of a survey course in Western art, along with sessions designed to acquaint the new docents with the museum, its permanent collection and special exhibitions. Visits to area museums for special programs are also scheduled during the year.

The training program begins Thursday, Sept. 12 at 9 a.m., with an introductory meeting and coffee in the museum. Thereafter, training sessions will generally be held the first and third Thursday of each month, September through May, from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m.

For further information about the docent program, call the education office at the museum, ext. 12703.

Graduate Students Receive Commonwealth Center Grants

Fifteen advanced graduate students, who are conducting research on American topics, were awarded Summer Research Fellowships by the Commonwealth Center for the Study of American Culture. The fellowships range from $150 to $1,000 depending upon the students' varying summer research goals and travel needs.

Recipients and projects selected from the American Studies program are as follows: Elizabeth Hawes, "History of the Anglican Church in the Early Chesapeake: Maryland"; Phyllis Hunter, "New England Merchants at the Center of Production and Consumption"; Donald Linebaugh, for research on the excavations by Roland W. Robbins at the Philipsburg Manor Upper Mills Site in North Tarrytown, N.Y.; Margaret Mulrooney, "Hilton Village, Virginia: The First Federally Sponsored Industrial Community"; Nancy Parrish, "Fair and Tender Ladies at Tinker Creek: Women Writers Coming of Age"; Katherine Prown, for work on Flannery O'Connor's problematic relationship to the Southern past; Gretchen Schoel, for her study of Elizabeth Ellet (1812-77) and her aggressive participation as a historian among New York City's "literati"; and Anne Verplanck, for her research on miniature portraiture.

Recipients and projects selected from history are: John Barrington, "Patriotism, Anti-Catholicism, and Rural Virtue: A Study of the National Identity of the British Empire, 1754-1783"; Mary Ferrari, "Artisans of the South: A Comparative Study of Norfolk, Charleston, and Alexandria, 1763-1806"; Ann Smart Martin, "Consumerism and the Retail Trade in Eighteenth-Century Virginia"; Julie Richter, "A Community and Its Neighborhoods: Charles Parish, York County, Virginia, 1635-1740"; Judy Ridner, "Carlisle and Shippensburg: Economic, Social and Gender Role Development in the Pennsylvania Backcountry, 1750-1810"; Wade Shaffer, "The Richmond Junto and Politics in Jacksonian Virginia"; and Matthew Ward, "La Guerra Sauvage": The Seven Years' War on the Virginia and Pennsylvania Frontier."

The Commonwealth Center was established in 1988 by the State Council of Higher Education in Virginia to enhance academic excellence in the Commonwealth through the development of campus-based scholarly programs and the sponsorship of research worthy of national recognition. Instructional program support, such as the Summer Research Fellowships, is consonant with the Center's mission to promote the study of American culture at William and Mary.

Faculty Research Grant Deadlines

Applications for faculty SUMMER research grants, faculty SEMESTER research grants and MINOR research grants (which are open to students and staff also and normally do not exceed $300) are available from the Office of Grants and Research Administration in James Blair 202.

Applicants should read the policy and principles statements attached to each application before submitting a proposal.

Application deadlines must be enforced strictly.

Deadlines:

MINOR Research Grants, Sept. 19 and Jan. 30

FACULTY Semester Research Grants, Oct. 3

FACULTY Summer Research Grants, Oct. 24

(Note: Semester Research Grant deadline earlier than last year)

"Reference Services," by Rettig has been published in Library Information Services Today, edited by June Lester, and published by the American Library Association, Chicago.

Local Computer Documentation Available

The User Support Services staff of the Computer Center has recently completed local documentation of the VM/CMS mainframe computer at the College. User accounts on this machine are provided automatically for all faculty and registered students; other staff may get accounts upon application to the Computer Center. The primary services offered by the VM/CMS system are statistical and other academic data processing, electronic mail (both on campus and around the world), and other forms of electronic communication.

The primary item of the newly available documentation is the following introductory guide to general aspects of using the system, which is designed for those who want background information applicable to various areas of computing:

VM/CMS—a Practical Guide - 73 pages

In addition to the guide above, several specialized memoranda have been completed. The first memo duplicates information in the guide, telling how to use a PC as a terminal and to log onto and off the system. In many cases it and one of the other memos provide all necessary information for someone who uses VM for one purpose. The other memos discuss specific applications.

VM Memo 001- Using VM and W&M with Procomm + on PCs (2 pages)

VM Memo 002- Electronic Mail and Messages on CMS (8 pages)

VM Memo 003-Using CMS SPSSXZ at William and Mary (6 pages)

NOTES

Movie On Marshall Filmed In Richmond

A number of familiar names have been involved with the production of a film about the life of Chief Justice John Marshall in Richmond this summer at the John Marshall House.

The 58-minute film was commissioned by the John Marshall Foundation with an initial grant from the Virginia Law Foundation in 1989.

Charles F. Hobson, editor of The Papers of John Marshall, served as historical consultant. Louis E. Catron, professor of theatre and speech, was dramatic consultant.

The producer is alumnus Richard McCluney, head of Colonial Williamsburg Productions. The director was Andrew G. Gardner, a free-lance producer and director from Scotland. Former NBC anchorman and news correspondent Lloyd Dobyns, well known to Tidewater viewers in his early days in television, wrote the script.

Marshall's servant Robin is played by Rex Ellis, director of African-American interpretation for Colonial Williamsburg.

The film begins with a brief prologue by former U.S. Supreme Court Justice Lewis F. Powell. In an interview with Times-Dispatch staff writer Valerie Hubbard, McCluney outlines the scope of the film. "Although jam packed with historical facts, the documentary is really about the private life of John Marshall.

"John Marshall was sort of an Ichabod Crane character. His clothes didn't always fit, and they were often out of style. He much preferred quots with the guys and drinking parties to any other sort of social occasion ... This is fundamentally a film about a love story; about John Marshall's devotion to (his wife) Polly," said McCluney.

According to McCluney, efforts will be made to sell the film to Public Broadcasting Service and cable television. Currently the film will be used in schools and museums across the country. An excerpted version will be used in a visitor's orientation program at the John Marshall House.

Muscarelle Programs

Several programs have been arranged in conjunction with the special exhibition "Ansel Adams: The American Wilderness," at the Muscarelle Museum of Art.

Andrea G. Stillman will speak about the life and work of the photographer in a gallery talk scheduled for 3 p.m., Sunday, Sept 8.

The talk will be followed by two films about Adams.

Stillman is an editor and curator specializing in 20th-century prints and photographs. She worked with Ansel Adams from 1974 to 1980 as his assistant. She has published several books on Adams, including Ansel Adams: The American Wilderness, 1990.

Fred Miller, well-known photographer and director of Whitehall Gallery, will demonstrate the photographic techniques of Adams at 3 p.m., Sunday, Sept. 15. The demonstration will be followed by a film, "Photographer of the American Frontier: 1860-1880," at 4 p.m..

All programs are open to the public without charge.

William and Mary Well Represented In Governor's Fellows Program

William and Mary was represented by six 1991 graduates in this summer's Governor's Fellows program in Richmond. All echoed the opinion of former participants that it is a great summer job, it just doesn't last long enough. The highly successful program will begin its second decade in 1992.

Eric Kauders who majored in public policy and government, worked in the office of the Secretary of Health and Human Resources, Howard Cullum. "The summer in Richmond allows students to get a real feel for state government," said Kauders. "We were not just gophers, asked to get coffee or run the copy machine. Students in the program get a real opportunity to participate in the work of the office to which they are assigned."

Kauders worked on a plan for better delivery of rural health care services. He visited Kentucky and North Carolina as part of his research to suggest an optimum plan for Virginia.

Kauders has participated in internships in public service in Congress, the State Courts and General Assembly; but the Governors Fellows Program, he says, is not just another internship. The first day on the job he was off and running, he recalls. "I was asked to go to a meeting, then draft a proposal for the project under discussion. It's a chance to make a positive difference, and a chance to see how many people do care.... I was amazed at how many things we have to do and how much trust people have in us.... The program's too short, I'd like to be doing this for a long time ... we've met some wonderful people."

Michael Molloy was a staff member in the Governor's Policy Office. He worked on proposals to change the Dillon Rule, which governs state and local relationships. As it stands, he explains, the localities do not have any powers beyond those explicitly stated in the State Constitution or by statute. The rule was initiated in the late 1880s to keep the railroad barons from having undue influence in local affairs. With localities increasingly shouldering more responsibilities, the rule seems outdated.

Molloy, like other Fellows, likes the idea that participants get a chance to share the work of the offices to which they are assigned. "The first day I was here I was handed four proposals to read and review, and asked to draft a memo for the governor's office." Molloy, who hopes to pursue a career in public service in the state, majored in public policy as an undergraduate.

Katherine Darse is a graduate student in the Thomas Jefferson Program in Public Policy. She worked with Rob Tyler, a 1987 William and Mary graduate, and the Governor's speech writer. She helped with drafts of speeches and official correspondence. She enjoyed the summer. The Fellows, she says, are treated well.

Kathy de la Ossa studied the state's environmental impact review process as preliminary work for rewriting the pro-

Watkins M. Abbott Jr., a delegate from the 59th District, which includes the counties of Amelia, Appomattox, Buckingham, Cumberland and part of Prince Edward. She has recently been hired to cedural manual. She worked for Elizabeth Haskell, Secretary of Natural Resources. She plans to go to graduate school at Ohio State University to get a master's degree in natural resources and an MBA.

de la Ossa says she wished she could have stayed on the job and continued her work which she hopes will lead to real changes.

Julie McEvoy, a government and American studies major, worked in the Constituent Affairs office. She helped to answer the governor's mail and responded to constituent phone inquiries. Letters, she said, were more about seeking solutions to personal problems than issue oriented. She has also been part of the advance team that has worked for Governor Wilder on Open House sessions across the state. Glad of the opportunity to work with the state's chief executive, McEvoy says Governor Wilder is "very charming, engaging, handles people well and puts them at ease."

McEvoy wished the session were longer so Fellows would have an opportunity to get into work that requires even deeper commitments of time and effort.

Anne Leigh Kerr, who majored in government, was no stranger to state government. She has worked for her uncle, manage the re-election campaign of Delegate Beasley Jones of the 62nd district.

This summer Kerr worked in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth in the appointment section. She enjoyed her assignment, which required attention to detail and some confidentiality.

The Governor's Fellows program was initiated in 1982 by Governor Charles S. Robb and A. E. Dick Howard, counselor to the governor. Howard, now White Burkett Miller Professor of Law and Public Affairs at the University of Virginia, received a Doctor of Laws degree from the College at Charter Day in February. Howard was executive director of the commission that wrote Virginia's new constitution and he has consulted with those revising their constitutions in Brazil, Hong Kong, The Philippines, Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Poland.

Modeled after the White House Fellows program, the Virginia plan is open to all Virginia students and any non-Virginians studying in the Commonwealth. The aim of the program is to give talented graduating seniors and graduate students an opportunity to work in Virginia government and attract them to careers in government service.

Substance Abuse Educator and Coordinator FIPSE Drug and Alcohol Abuse Prevent Grant

The College of William and Mary has an anticipated opening for a substance abuse educator who will serve as the project coordinator for a federally funded drug and alcohol abuse prevention grant.

The individual in this position will be responsible for outreach programming in the residential units of the College and with the Athletic Department; coordinate alcohol programming efforts with the health educator at the College's Health Center; developing and maintaining a substance abuse resource center with brochures, books, and videotapes; developing an alcohol intervention education workshop for students referred from the campus disciplinary system; and preparing reports and other necessary documentation needed by the U.S. Department of Education.

Requirements include a bachelor's degree with significant experience in substance abuse prevention and treatment; master's degree preferred.

This is a two-year, grant-funded position. Although it is hoped that the position can be extended beyond the funding period, this cannot be guaranteed at this time.

In order to apply, send a resume, cover letter and names of three references (with addresses and telephone numbers) to: Philip W. Neilman, Ph.D., Counseling Center, P.O. Box 8795, College of William and Mary, Williamsburg Va., 23187-8795. Deadline is Aug. 28.

Women and minorities are encouraged to apply.

The College of William and Mary is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer.
