Justice Lewis Powell Is 1991-92 Lowance Fellow

Retired U.S. Supreme Court Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. visited the Marshall-Wythe School of Law this fall as the 1991-92 Carter O. Lowance Fellow. He met with small groups of students and faculty to discuss the Supreme Court, constitutional law and public service.

A man with much the same quiet demeanor as Carter O. Lowance, Powell was selected for his distinguished record of public service. In addition to his duties with the U.S. Supreme Court, Powell served as president of the American Bar Association and as chairman of the Richmond School Board during the civil rights era.

Ami Kim, writing in The Amicus Curiae, the newspaper of the law school, quotes Dean Timothy Sullivan on the views of the selection committee for the award. "The Committee feels Powell embodies many of the qualities admired in Carter Lowance. The committee's enthusiasm appears to be justified—Powell donated the honorarium he received as this year's Fellow back to the law school."

The Carter O. Lowance Fellow in Law and Public Service was established in the spring of 1989.

This position, which was designed to be a part of the law school's Institute of Bill of Rights Law, brings a distinguished public servant to campus each year for discussions and meetings with students and members of the College community.

The fellowship is named for Carter O. Lowance who devoted his life to public service for the Commonwealth of Virginia—as an executive in the government and as an administrator in two of Virginia's major universities, including William and Mary.

"Carter O. Lowance belongs to a select company of 20th-century Virginians," said Sullivan. "No person has more

Ewell Concert Series

The Percussion Group/cincinnati Featured Sept. 19

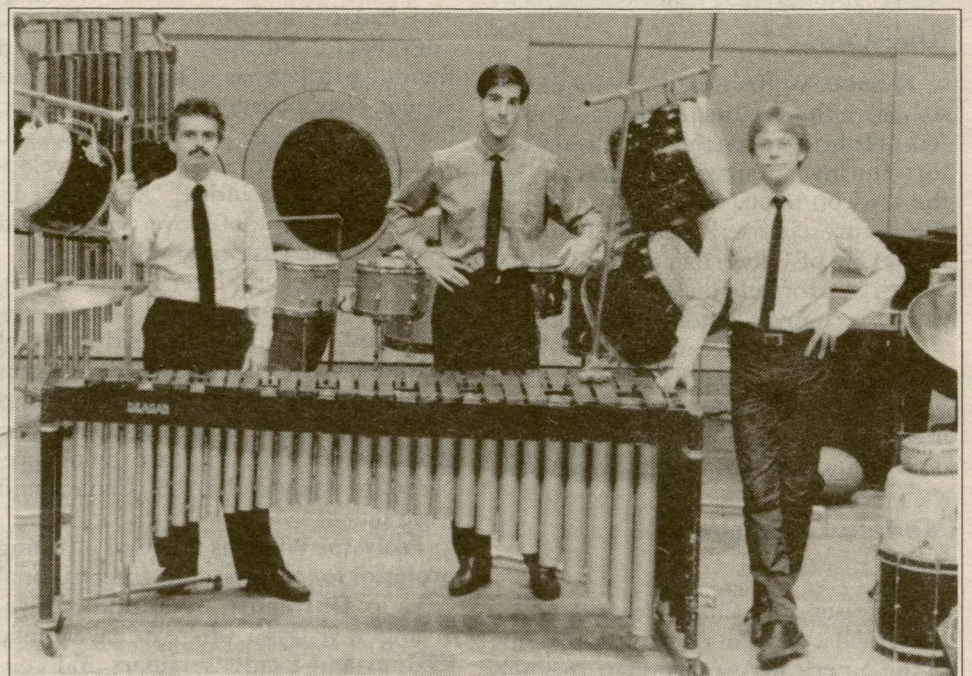

The Ewell Concert Series, sponsored by the Association of Parents, will open its season with a performance by The Percussion Group/cincinnati at 8 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 19 in Ewell Recital Hall.

Admission is $2. There are no advance ticket sales.

Founded in 1972, and faculty ensemble-in-residence at the University of Cincinnati since 1977, The Percussion Group's repertoire is performed on a vast array of ethnic, found, homemade and traditional percussion instruments.

As one of the only ensembles devoting its full-time energies to the music of living composers, the trio's goal has been to present these works in the tradition of great chamber music, with a contemporary American eclectic vitality provided by the sights and sounds of percussion instruments from around the world. The trio has toured extensively in the U.S. and Europe, and has made recordings on Opus One Records.

The group performed at Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall in March 1989, and Allen Otte, a founding member of the group, played a solo percussion con-

Conference On 'Women And Science' Scheduled On Campus Oct. 4-5

"Women and Science," the ninth annual Virginia Women's Studies Association Conference, will be held on campus Oct. 4 and 5.

A welcoming reception for all conference participants will be held from 8 to 9:30 p.m., Friday, Oct. 4.

The program opens Saturday, Oct. 5 with a panel discussion from 9-10 a.m. on "Women's Studies: Defining the Issues from the Student Perspective" with a panel of student presenters from Virginia schools.

The keynote address, "Female-Friendly Science," by Sue V. Rosser, director, Women's Studies, University of South Carolina and associate professor of family and preventive medicine at the medical school at USC, will be given at 10:15 a.m.

The luncheon speaker will be Hoda M. Zaki, chair, department of political science, Hampton University. Her topic will be "Feminist Science Fiction."

A panel presentation at 1:30 p.m. on "Technology and Women's Reproductive Rights," will include the following speakers: Njeri Jackson, associate professor of political science, VCU; Karen Raschke, Esq., government relations counsel, Planned Parenthood; Judith B. Collins, associate professor in the Schools of Nursing and Medicine and Director of the Health Policy Office, Medical College of Virginia. The moderator will be Diana Scully, associate professor of sociology and coordinator of the Women's Studies Program, VCU

All sessions will be held in the Campus Center ballroom. There will be a book display in rooms A and B. Registration fees are $30; $15 for students. Checks should be made payable to the Virginia Women's Studies Association and may be sent to the Coordinator of the Women's Studies Program, Deborah Ventis, Tucker Hall. For more information, call Ventis at ext. 12457.

Pencak Speaker For IEAHC Colloquia

William Pencak of the department of history, Pennsylvania State University at Gontz, is the first speaker on the fall schedule of colloquia planned by The Institute of Early American History and Culture.

Pencak will lecture on "Politics and Ideology in Poor Richard's Almanack."

All sessions will be held in the Institute library, ground floor of Swem Library, at 7:30 p.m., unless otherwise indicated. Individual notice and copies of the paper will be distributed about two weeks in advance of each colloquium.

Requests for specific papers may be placed with Beverly Smith (ext. 11114) by those who do not have access to the locations where the papers are deposited.

Copies of the paper are available for reading at the Institute, the history department and Commonwealth Center, and the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation Library.

The colloquium schedule is as follows:

Oct. 8 - Cornelia Dayton, American Antiquarian Society Fellow, "Unequal in Transgressions: The 18th-Century Double Standard."

Oct. 29 - Darren Staloff, IEAHC Postdoctoral Fellow, "The Search for a Polity: The Development of Church and State in Puritan Massachusetts."

Nov. 19 - John Kolp, United States Naval Academy, "Electoral Politics in the Virginia Southside: Halifax County, 1753-1775."

Dec. 10 - Philip Schwarz, Virginia Commonwealth University, "The Wolf by the Ear: Thomas Jefferson and the Law of Slavery."

the University of Illinois at Chicago/American Marketing Association Research Symposium on Marketing and Entrepreneurship, edited by G. Hills & W. LaForge.

A paper by Gatewood, Shaver and M. B. Low, titled "Response to Failure: Responsibility Denial or Redoubled Effort?" was presented at the July meeting of the International Management Society in Rio de Janeiro. Gatewood and Shaver presented a paper titled "Expectancies for Success and Attributions for Failure: Toward a Theory of Entrepreneurial Persistence," at the August meeting in Miami of the Academy of Management.

Religion

Professor John Alden Williams this summer was the guest of the department of religion of Indonesia for three and a half weeks, and lectured at the State Islamic universities of Banda, Aceh, Medan and Padang in Sumatra, and Jakarta, Yogyakarta, Surabaya, Malang, and Bandung in Java, as well as at a famous Islamic boys' boarding school at Gontor, East Java. His topics included "The U.S.A. and Islamic Resurgence," "The Development of Islam in India," "Al-Farabi's Islamic Philosophy of Government" and "Early Islamic Historiography."

He also met and interviewed leading Muslim intellectuals of the country, visited Muslim shrines and early sites of Indonesian civilization as well as mosques and traditional educational facilities, and he gave several seminars for Indonesian graduate students who are being prepared for study in the U.S., Canada and Australia.

Professor Williams then was a visiting professor for 10 days at the International Islamic University in Petaling Jaya, Selangor, Malaysia, where he gave public lectures and faculty seminars and consulted with the administration. He also was a guest lecturer at the National Malay University, and met leading Muslim figures outside the university.

George Tayloe Ross, Benefactor Of Renick Scholars, Dies At 88

George Tayloe Ross, 88, retired government official and business executive, died Monday, Sept. 16, at The Pines Convalescent Center in Williamsburg.

The son of two governors of Wyoming—his mother was the nation's first elected woman governor and subsequently the first woman director of the U.S. Mint—Mr. Ross was graduated from the University of Wyoming, then studied law as a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford University in England.

As a lawyer in New York, he became involved with the first presidential campaign of Franklin Roosevelt. A founder and first vice president of the Young Democrats of America, he served as deputy administrator of the National Recovery Administration.

During World War II, he was president of the Langley Aviation Corporation, and served on the postwar planning committee of the National Association of Manufacturers.

In 1946 he became U.S. Commissioner to the International Chamber of Commerce, also serving as a consultant to the Economic and Social Justice Council of the United Nations and helping to implement the Marshall Plan for European economic recovery. He later served as director of the Division of Industry and Public Administration in the State Department's Point Four Program of assistance to underdeveloped nations.

As a real estate broker during the 1960s, Mr. Ross and Dewey Renick of James City County arranged the transaction which resulted in the development of the Anheuser-Busch brewery, Busch Gardens and the Kingsmill Residential Community and Business Center.

Following a massive heart attack, Mr. Ross moved to Spain. He became a Williamsburg resident in 1980.

In retirement, he had a significant impact on the Williamsburg community and the College of William and Mary.

In 1983, he arranged the Williamsburg Community Forum on Arms Control preceding the Summit of Industrialized Nations, enabling the distribution of forum transcripts to several thousand journalists covering the Summit.

He led the organization of not only the Friday luncheon group, a monthly forum for the discussion of community problems, but also Town & Gown Club, a weekly opportunity for members of the community and the campus to discuss topical issues.

At William and Mary, he made an endowment in the memory of Dewey and Fern Renick. This past summer, four students were selected as the first Renick Scholars. Each was awarded $2,500 to pursue special summer projects overseas. The scholarships were established to enable students of Rhodes Scholar and Marshall Scholarship caliber to undertake special projects during the summer. Mr. Ross also endowed the George Tayloe Ross Lecture Series, inaugurated in 1988 with an address by former Undersecretary of State George Ball.

Mr. Ross was also a leader in developing what has become the College's Reves Center for International Studies.

He is survived by a brother, Bradford Ross of Newburg, Md., and a daughter, Tayloe Ross of Washington, D.C.

A memorial service will be conducted at a later date.

(Prepared by Bill Bryant, of Williamsburg, an associate with Mr. Ross in a number of projects.)

Departments

Biology

In the September issue of the international journal Life Sciences, senior Matthew E. May and Carl W. Vermeulen, associate professor, have reported a refinement of one of the most sensitive analytical tests for the detection of diseases such as AIDS.

"Enhanced Enzyme-Linked Immunosorbant Assay on Membranes for the Identification of Mutants and Pathogens" reports that the new method, abbreviated as "Fast-ELISA," modifies the previous procedure that took about 30 hours to complete, to one that takes less than 90 minutes. Formerly, the slowness made the test inappropriate for most clinical use in critical cases as the patient might die before the results came in," explains Vermeulen.

Kinesiology

Kenneth W. Kambis, associate professor, spent the summer studying "The Effect of Fabric Systems on Perceived Comfort During Submaximal Exercise," in the Environmental Stress Laboratory of the Neuroscience Research Institute, University of California, Santa Barbara. Steven M. Horvath, director of the laboratory, is co-investigator with Kambis.

The research was funded by a $7,000 grant from the Gore-tex Fabrics Division of W. L. Gore and Associates, Inc., and included a climb of Mount Rainier to aid in evaluation of layering fabric systems.

Modern Languages and Literatures

Professor and Chair Howard Fraser presented a paper at the annual meeting of the American Association of Teachers of Spanish and Portuguese held in Chicago, Aug. 8 to 10. His talk, "La Edad de Oro: Jose Marti's Modernist Ideology for Children," highlighted the ideological dimensions of the Cuban patriot's children's magazine distributed throughout the Americas in 1889.

Psychology

An article by W. B. Gartner, E. J. Gatewood and Professor Kelly G. Shaver titled "Reasons for Starting a Business: Not-so-simple Answers to Simple Questions," appeared in the Proceedings of

CORRECTION

The story concerning Commonwealth Fellowship recipients that ran in last week's News incorrectly identified the two recipients. Miss Gill is a doctoral candidate in American studies, not English; and Mr. DeLaney is a doctoral candidate in history, not American studies. The News deeply regrets the error and any problems it may have generated.

This is the second year in a row that William and Mary graduate students in American studies and history have gained fellowships in this highly competitive contest.

It is also noteworthy that on the basis of nominations permitted, William and Mary has been very successful, beyond its own weight in the total pool. Allowed just 8 percent of the nominations, William and Mary earned more than 20 percent of the total awards of 11.

Last year winners were Beverly Peterson and Nancy Clyde Parrish, both in American studies, and Mary C. Ferrari in history. A total of 13 fellowships were awarded from a pool of 50 nominees.

Contract Let For Management Of Child Care Center

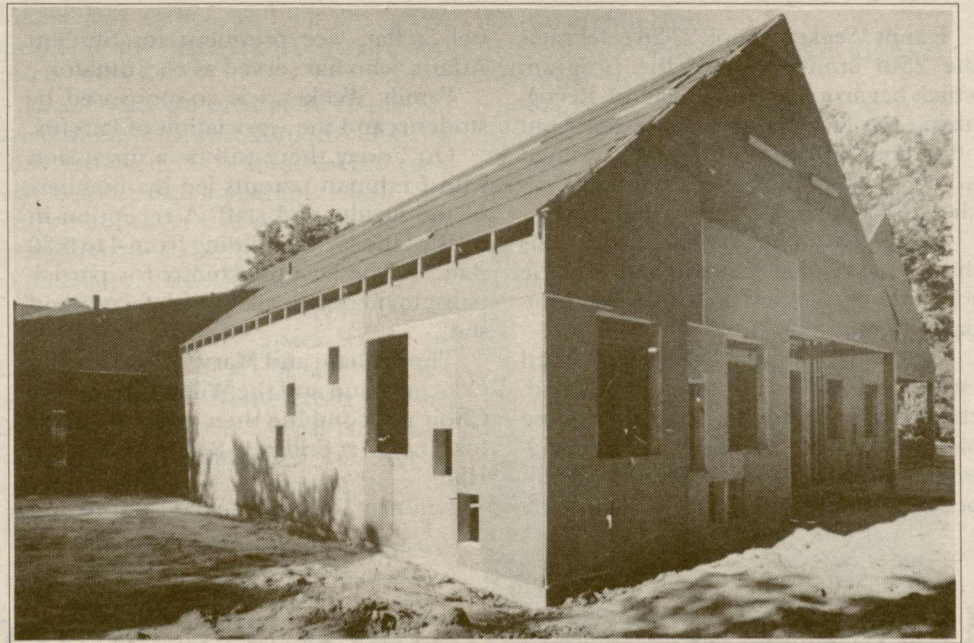

The William and Mary Child Care Center, now under construction behind the Bridges House on Jamestown Rd. (the Office of Administration and Finance), will open its doors in January.

During the summer the College publicly requested child care providers to submit proposals for operating the new center. Williamsburg Campus Child Care Center (formerly Williamsburg Community Child Care Center - WCCC), has been chosen to manage the new facility.

The Williamsburg Campus Child Care Center has a long history of association with the College. Until it moves into the new building, it occupies a College-owned house at 126 Armistead Ave., across the street from the Sakura restaurant.

"For the past decade, WCCC has provided a warm, friendly, nurturing day care environment for the children of the College and the community," said Hans vonBaeyer, co-chair of the William and Mary Child Care Advisory Board.

"It was the first day care center in Williamsburg to receive accreditation from the prestigious National Association for the Education of Young Children. Its experienced staff, under the direction of Mrs. Fran Dorsey, will carry this successful tradition over into the College facility."

Application forms may be obtained from WCCC at 220-0025.

Capriole Presents 'Songs For A Tudor King' Oct. 14

Capriole, the early music ensemble-in-residence at the College, will open its 1991-92 season with a concert of "Songs for a Tudor King," at 8 p.m., Monday, Oct. 14 in the Old Dominion Recital Hall and Performing Arts Center in Norfolk. Tuesday, Oct. 15, the group will repeat the concert at 8 p.m. in the Great Hall of the Wren Building.

"Dance and Music at Versailles" will be presented at 8 p.m., Monday, Feb. 3 at ODU and 8 p.m., Tuesday, Feb. 6 in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall in Williamsburg.

Final concert of the season, "A Birthday Celebration for Claudio Monteverdi," is scheduled for 8 p.m., Sunday, March 15 in the Williamsburg Regional Library Theatre, and 8 p.m., Monday, March 16 at ODU.

Season tickets are $30. Subscription forms and information about the ensemble are available by calling 220-1248.

"Songs for a Tudor King" will be an a cappella vocal concert, which will feature Christine Brandes, soprano; Steven Rickards, countertenor; Roger Craig, tenor; and James Weaver, bass-baritone.

Baroque dancer Paige Whitley-Bauguess teams up with Capriole's Diana Freedman and Ed Whitacre to present a suite of dances from Campra's "Hesion," and a passacaglia from Desmarais' "Venus and Adonis." in the "Dance and Music at Versailles" concert.

Cantatas by Campra and Charpentier round out the program of music and dance that was first performed for Louis XIV at Versailles. Performers include vocalists Suzanne Peck, soprano, and James Weaver, bass-baritone, and Capriole's full instrumental ensemble: Kevin Bushee and Ann Loud, baroque violins; Ulysses Kirksey, baroque cello; Wayne Moss, violone; Gayle Johnson, harpsichord. Dancers will be Diana Freedman and Ed Whitacre.

"A Birthday Celebration for Claudio Monteverdi" features a cappella madrigals, dramatic scenes and a choreographed ballo. Vocalists include Christine Brandes and Suzanne Peck, sopranos; Derek Lee Ragin, countertenor; Robert Craig, tenor; and James Weaver, bass-baritone. Instrumentalists include Kevin Bushee and Ann Loud, baroque violins; Ulysses Kirksey, baroque cello; Wayne Moss, violone; Gayle Johnson, harpsichord. Dancers will be Diana Freedman and Ed Whitacre.

Capriole has received grants from the Virginia Commission for the Arts, the Norfolk Commission for the Arts, the Williamsburg Commission for the Arts and the Business Consortium for Art Support.

Rickards Here To Open Capriole Season

Countertenor Steven Rickards returns to Williamsburg to help open Capriole's 1991-92 season with several informal performances of "The Music of Henry Purcell."

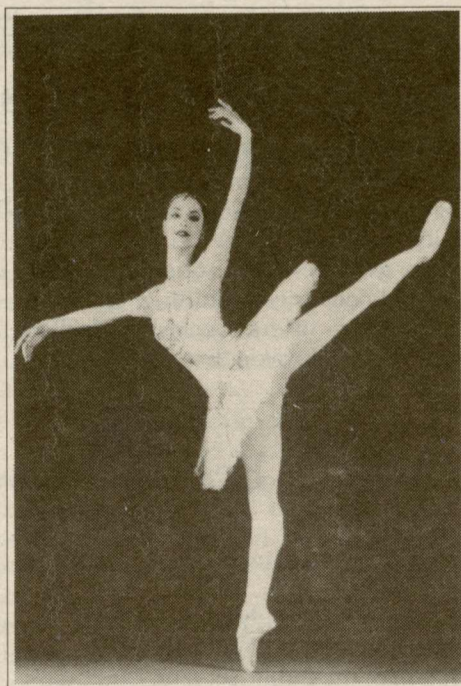

On Thursday, Sept. 19, Capriole will be the featured presentation at the noon Town & Gown luncheon in the Campus Center ballroom. Reservations for the luncheon have closed but those wishing to hear Rickards will be seated at 12:45 p.m.

Also on Thursday, Rickards and the Capriole ensemble will perform the same music for residents of the Williamsburg Landing. They will repeat the concert at Chambrel at 6:45 p.m., Monday, Sept. 23.

During the 1990-91 season Rickards sang in several 20th-century premier performances of Baroque works including Handel's "Siroe" in New York's Merkin Hall, Matthew Lock's "Psyche" with the English Opera Society in London and the American premier of Mondonville's "DeProfundis" at Harvard University.

While in Williamsburg he will be working with the choir of the Williamsburg Presbyterian Church, where James Weaver, Capriole's bass-baritone, is the director of music. They will prepare one of his anthems for Sunday, Sept. 22. Rickards will also meet with students from both William and Mary and Old Dominion University to discuss the career of a composer/performer.

Contemporary Ballet Theatre Celebrates Excellence In Dance

Susan Jaffe

The Contemporary Ballet Theatre of Williamsburg will host a "Celebration of Excellence in Dance" at 7:30 p.m., Sunday, Sept. 22, in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

This premiere performance will bring together guest artists from major American ballet companies. Featured principal dancers will include Susan Jaffe of the American Ballet Theatre, performing the gypsy solo from "Don Quixote" and "The Dying Swan." Christina Johnson and Donald Williams from the Dance Theatre of Harlem will perform Glen Tetley's New York "Dialogues." Damien Woetzel of the New York City Ballet and Lisa Sundrom from the Pennsylvania Ballet will perform a Pas de Deux from Balanchine's "Who Cares." Jodie Gates and Tom Mossbrucker from the Joffrey

Ballet will perform Aupino's "Light Rain."

For special ticket holders, a champagne reception to meet the guest artists will be held in Andrews Gallery following the performance.

Tickets range from $20 to $50 and are tax deductible. Student tickets are $20 with I.D.

For ticket information and reservations, please call the Contemporary Ballet Theatre, Sandra Balestracci/Barbara Levine at 229-8535. Tickets are also available from the local Ticketmaster outlet at the Bandbox on Prince George Street, or by phone 1-800-543-3041.

Amicus Curiae Takes First Place

The Amicus Curiae newspaper of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law took first place for best paper in the Class A division (schools of 750 students or less) of the 1990-91 Law School Newspaper/Magazine Contest sponsored by the Law Student Division of the American Bar Association.

Other papers placing in the Class A finals were Stanford University's Stanford Law Journal, which took second place, and Cornell University's Cornell Dicta, which took third.

Family Weekend Celebrates 25th Anniversary Sept. 27-28

Family Weekend Sept. 27-28 celebrates the 25th anniversary of the program which began as Parents Weekend. Recognizing the fact that not just parents but other family members have always joined in the weekend activities, the name was changed this year to reflect that trend.

The program begins Friday and runs through the weekend with an eclectic schedule that includes African art, football and music by Mozart.

This year's program has been planned by Bill and Juanita Baxter of Richmond, chairpersons of the Steering Committee of the Association of Parents; Tracy Goldsmith and Patrick Flaherty, student chairpersons of Family Weekend; and W. Samuel Sadler, vice president for Student Affairs, who has served as coordinator.

Family Weekend is co-sponsored by students and the Association of Parents.

On Friday there will be a discussion with freshman parents led by members of the faculty and staff. A reception in back of the Wren Building from 4 to 5:30 p.m. will be an opportunity for participants to meet informally with faculty and staff.

The William and Mary Orchestra, the Concert Band and the William and Mary Choir will combine their musical talents for a concert Friday at 8 p.m. in Trinkle Hall.

Lantern Tours of the old campus and the Wren Building, conducted by students, are scheduled from 9:15 to 10:15 p.m.

On Saturday morning, members of the faculty will present a series of lectures. Jack D. Edwards, professor of government, will speak on "Supreme Court: Battleground for Law and Policy." Kenneth E. Bick, professor of geology, will discuss "Geology: A Global Perspective." "Nurturing Gifted Learners in the Home and School Context" will be the topic of a lecture by Joyce Van Tassel-Baska, Jody and Layton Smith Professor of Education and director of the Center for Gifted Education.

Robert A. Gross, professor of American studies and history and director of the American Studies program, will take up "Teaching the '60s—Encountering One's Youth."

Lawrence C. Becker, William R. Kenan Jr. Professor of Humanities and professor of philosophy, will present "Three Theories of Ethics."

The staff of the Office of Career Services will discuss developing career plans in a tight job market.

Clyde A. Haulman, professor of economics and dean of undergraduate studies—arts and sciences, and Elaine S. Koppna, assistant professor of economics, will speak on "Risk, Fraud, Mergers and More: Banking and Finance in the '90s."

Laura Rexroth Plans Active Schedule For College Bands

Director of Bands Laura Rexroth has planned a year-long calendar of performances which will showcase student ensembles playing a variety of music including classical wind compositions, spirited marching band tunes and lots of jazz.

The William and Mary Concert Band begins the year with a performance at a special concert with the William and Mary Orchestra and the William and Mary Choir for Family Weekend, at 8 p.m., Friday, Sept. 27 in Trinkle Hall. While this event is planned for students and their families, it is open to the public without charge on a space available basis.

On Oct. 23, the Concert Band will join with the adult and youth choirs of Bruton Parish Church for a concert of sacred and secular music. The program includes Franz Schubert's "Mass in F for Winds and Voices," and "New England Triptych" by American composer William Schuman. "New England Triptych" is based on three rounds or hymns by William Billings (1746-1800).

The Concert Band will present its Fall campus concert at 8 p.m., Tuesday, Nov.

26 in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. There is no admission charge.

The Concert Band will host a performance of the MIT Concert Band at 8 p.m., Jan. 24, in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. Williamsburg will be one of the stops on the band's tour.

The Concert Band has been invited to perform at the Mariners Museum as part of their Winter Concert Series at 3 p.m., Sunday, March 1 in the museum auditorium.

A faculty soloist will be featured at the Concert Band's spring concert on campus.

The William and Mary Jazz Ensemble opens its season Sunday, Oct. 6 as one of the featured musical attractions at the Occasion for the Arts. The ensemble will perform from 3 to 4 p.m.

The Jazz Ensemble will also give concerts at 8 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 7 and Thursday, March 19 in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. Admission is $2.

In addition to formal concerts, the Jazz Ensemble is planning a number of informal concerts or "campus gigs."

This year the Marching Band will add a 16-member flag corps and a featured twirler, Hallie McPherson, a sophomore who also plays oboe in the Concert Band.

The Marching Band will also coordinate half-time shows with the Tribal Dancers and augment the efforts of the Cheerleaders on the sidelines. The Tribal Dancers are trained by Susie Butler who works in the Registrar's Office.

Basketball season has its own Basketball Band, a separate group that plays for home basketball games. Alumni musicians (bring your own instrument please) are invited to play with the band during the home football and basketball season.

Orchestra Seeks Soloists For Mozart Program

The William and Mary Orchestra will include two scenes from the finale of Mozart's "Magic Flute" in its fall concert Tuesday, Nov. 5 in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall and is seeking soloists.

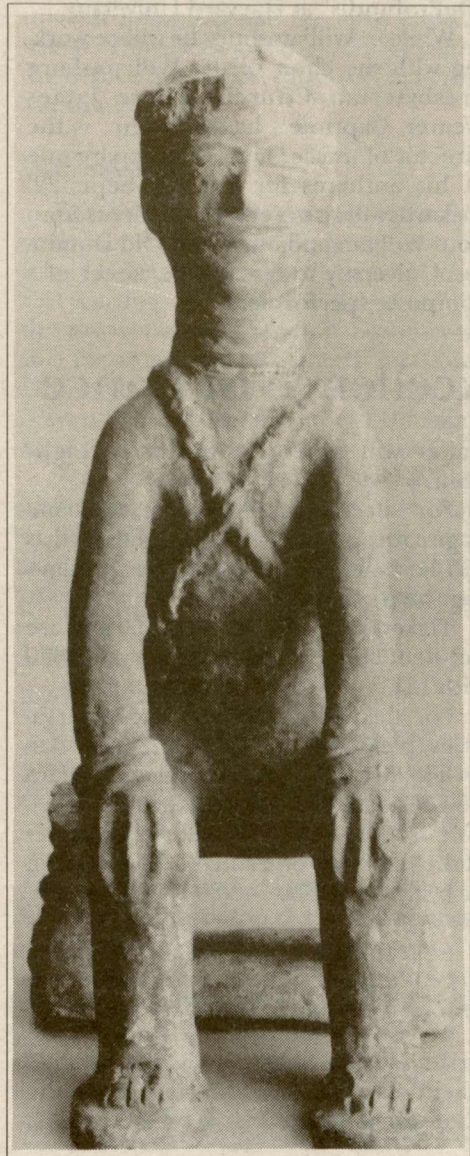

Director Joel Suben is seeking sopranos to sing Queen of the Night and Ladies of the Queen; a tenor to sing Monostatos; and a bass for Sarastro. This performance will be in concert form and will be sung in English.

Auditions are open to all singers, with preference given to William and Mary students.

For more information call the Orchestra office at ext. 11089.

The Orchestra, which has played Brandenburg concerti to full houses the past two years will offer as its Holiday Festival this year an early symphony by Mozart in honor of the bicentennial of the composer's death. This concert will be presented Dec. 2 and 3 in the Wren Great Hall.

Muscarella Museum Of Art Opens Exhibition Of African Artistry

Ashanti, Ghana
Seated Royal Male Figure, c. 20th century terra cotta.

"African Art: Power, Wisdom and Passages" will open at the Muscarella Museum of Art on Sept. 28. The show will be up through Nov. 10

An opening reception will be held from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m., Friday, Sept. 27. The public is invited.

Mary Lou Hultgren, curator at Hampton University Museum, will present a gallery talk on the exhibit at 3 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 6 Her talk will be followed by two films, "A Great Tree Has Fallen," and "Benin Kingship Ritual," at 4 p.m. These films will be repeated at 12:15 p.m., Monday, Oct. 7.

Two films, "African Carving: A Dogon Kanaga Mas," and "African Craftsmen: The Ashanti," will be shown at 4 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 13, and repeated at 12:15 p.m., Monday, Oct. 14.

Dylan Pritchett, a nationally known storyteller, will present "African Stories and Myths" at 3 p.m., Sunday Oct. 20. A film, "Togou na and Cheko: Change and Continuity in the Art of Mali," will be shown at 4 p.m. and repeated at 12:15 p.m., Monday, Oct. 21.

All programs are open to the public without charge.

On loan from the Minnesota Museum of Art, the exhibition presents a wide variety of objects created by peoples of sub-Saharan West Africa and the Congo region. Included are masks, figurative sculptures, spears and knives, textiles, a sceptre, a fly whisk, a stool, a pipe, a ladle and a divination tray. Many of these pieces were prestige items, owned and used by chiefs and important persons, while others were functional objects. All, however, show the careful attention to detail and aesthetic beauty that is a hallmark of African art.

Despite the diversity among African cultures, art objects serve to uphold and preserve the traditional values that govern their respective societies. African art is neither primitive nor an ancestral version of Western art. Although local customs and beliefs dictate specific forms and styles, African art is highly developed and sophisticated, and possesses powerful expressive qualities.

A modest exhibition of African objects, on loan from a private collection, comprises an education component for "African Art: Power, Wisdom and Passages." Gallery guides and activity sheets, designed to interest all ages, accompany this presentation.

selflessly or effectively contributed to the public good for a longer time. He is a paragon of the public servant. Lowance's career in the executive branch of the Commonwealth began in 1947. Over the next 30 years he served as an aide to six Governors, in seven administrations and his government posts included Commissioner of Administration and Acting Secretary of Education.

From 1958 to 1962 Lowance served as assistant president at the Medical College of Virginia. From 1970-74 he was executive vice president of the College. He received honorary degrees from a number of universities including William and Mary.

College Participates In DAR Program

This week marks the fifth week of celebration in connection with the Bicentennial of the signing of the U.S. Constitution.

Yesterday, Sept. 17, the College and Bruton Parish Church on Duke of Gloucester Street joined with churches and schools across the country in ringing bells for the "Bells Across America" event sponsored by the DAR.

James Darling, organist at Bruton Parish Church, will include music in honor of Constitution Week in his 11 a.m. organ concert in Wren Chapel, Saturday, Sept. 21.

Frank T. Lendrim, director of the William and Mary Choir, will also include celebration music in his concert at Bruton Parish Church at 8 p.m., Saturday, Sept. 21. The Botetourt Chamber Singers from the choir will participate in that concert.

Mrs. Jane Ann Farber has served as Constitution Week chairman for the Williamsburg DAR for the past five years.

The DAR has provided free copies of the Constitution and brochures for Swem Library and the library at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law.

A proclamation proclaiming the Week of Sept. 17 through 23 Constitution Week has been signed by President Paul Verkuil. (A copy is available at the W&M News Office, James Blair 310).

NIH Division Program Encourages Minority Student In Biomedical Fields

The National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases (NIAID) in Bethesda, Md., has an initiative called the Introduction to Biomedical Research Program that is specially designed to acquaint academically talented minority students with career opportunities in the broad field of biomedical research.

NIAID, one of the 13 Institutes at the National Institutes of Health (NIH), conducts and supports research to study the causes of allergic, immunologic and infectious diseases and to develop better means of preventing, diagnosing and treating these illnesses.

This program for minority students across the country offers an intense four-day introduction to NIAID-NIH biomedical research. Students—who are provided per diem and round trip tickets to the Bethesda campus—will have the opportunity to participate in a series of lectures, interviews and a tour of the NIH Clinical Center, the world's largest biomedical research facility.

Approximately 55 students will be selected for the Feb. 9-13 program.

Students with a 3.0 or better GPA, must be recommended by deans and faculty. Selection is based on faculty recommendations and personal and academic achievements. For further information contact Associate Vice President Carroll F. Hardy, ext. 12300.

Applications must be received by Nov. 15. Final selections will be announced by Dec. 6.

T&G Luncheon To Feature Guillermo

Jorge Guillermo, author of Dutch Houses and Castles, will be the guest speaker at the Sept. 26th Town & Gown luncheon.

Luncheons are held at 12:15 p.m. in the Campus Center ballroom. Reservations must be made by noon on the Tuesdays before each meeting. Those who plan to come only to hear the speaker are asked to be seated by 12:45 p.m. Extra chairs will be available.

Guillermo was born in Cuba and educated in the United States where he earned a degree in art history. In 1984 he moved to The Netherlands with his Dutch wife, Princess Christina, Queen Juliana's youngest daughter. He designed the house where they live with their three children.

Disappointed by the scarcity of material available in English on Dutch historic buildings, he decided to write a book himself about the subject. He has written two books on Dutch architecture and is currently writing a book about Cuban architecture.

Guillermo will sign copies of his book following his talk.

Swem Assists Library Newspaper Project

The Virginia State Library and Archives, the Virginia Historical Society, the University of Virginia and the College are cooperating to find, catalog, and preserve newspapers in the Commonwealth.

This Virginia Newspaper Project is part of the United States Newspaper Program, a coordinated, national effort to identify, to preserve and to make available to researchers newspapers published in the United States from the 17th-century through the present.

As part of the program, the four libraries will create a record of all titles and issues held in various repositories throughout the state and add this information to a national online computer database. Those titles most important for research will be preserved on microfilm.

The Virginia Newspaper Project is mailing a survey in October to libraries, courthouses, archives and newspaper publishers to gather information about the identification and location of all primary newspaper holdings in the state. From this basic survey, catalogers and historians will visit these repositories to assess bibliographic and preservation work and ascertain if there are newspaper collections held by other agencies or individuals that were overlooked during the initial survey.

Funded by the National Endowment for the Humanities, the project operates in two states. The first year's grant covers the initial planning phase of identifying and locating the newspapers. A follow-up grant will fund the cataloging and microfilming tasks. The entire project is expected to take several years to complete.

Town and Gown Speaker

Alumna Laura Dillard spoke of her experiences as a member of Governor Wilder's staff to a capacity audience at last week's Town and Gown luncheon. Dillard recently resigned as the Governor's press secretary.

College Bowl Returns Oct. 17-Nov. 13

College Bowl, dubbed "the varsity sport of the mind," is returning to campus this fall. Tournaments are scheduled Oct. 17-Nov. 13 in the Campus Center.

Students who wish to participate are asked to sign up between Sept. 30 and Oct. 4 at the Campus Center main office.

Faculty and staff members are needed to serve as judges and moderators. No prior knowledge of the College Bowl program is necessary, and a commitment of just one hour or so will be appreciated.

The College Bowl features two teams of four players competing to score points by answering a variety of questions covering many topics from literature, science, history, current events, religion, philosophy, art, music, drama and mythology to rock'n roll, sports and movies.

The winning team will represent William and Mary at the regional level at Virginia Tech, Feb. 28-March 1. Last year the team was upset in the early rounds, but won the consolation tournament.

The College Bowl is sponsored locally by the Campus Center and nationally by the Association of College Unions-International.

For details, contact Scott McLeod at ext. 13437.

The Institute was established under the provisions of the Pollution and Prosecution Act of 1990 and will develop a core curriculum to train federal, state and local government personnel in the enforcement of U.S. environmental protection laws.

Swem Library

Susan Riggs of the Manuscripts and Rare Books department has authored a monograph in the Virginia Regimental Histories Series titled, The 21st Virginia Infantry (Lynchburg: Howard, 1991).

The Christopher Wren Association began its fall semester with an opening convocation last Wednesday in the Wightman Cup room of William and Mary Hall.

The association for lifelong learning which began in January of this year with 75 members, is fast outgrowing its facilities. In her opening remarks, Ruth Kernodle, one of the co-directors of the association said that membership was up to 170 and growing. She predicted it would reach 180 shortly.

Classes and instructors for the semester were introduced and special events outlined.

Mrs. Kernodle thanked the College for its extensive support to CWA and noted especially the assistance of the University Advancement, Special Events, and Publications divisions. Her remarks were by way of introduction for President Paul Verkuil who wished the group well, praised its energies and spoke of the importance of an educated populace.

"We're glad to have you here," said Verkuil. "This group is almost as big as the entering group of freshmen we had this year and I hear that your SATs are even higher, he quipped. Verkuil gave credit to Ruth and Wayne Kernodle for the success of CWA. "It was their inspiration," he said, "we just played along."

The audience enjoyed the President's light-hearted reference to the association's name sake "We have this tenuous relationship with Sir Christopher," he said, "I hope you will take as your first mission to prove, without any doubt, that he did design the Wren Building. "And make sure you come out the right way," he added "We're not going to change the name."

On a more serious note, Verkuil drew on his experiences this summer in Europe, where he attended meetings on the problems of emerging democracies in Eastern Europe. A major problem, he said was the lack of an educated populace in many Eastern European countries where past regimes had denigrated intellectuals and were now faced with the problem of building a system of higher education without adequate faculty and with young people who will have to be encouraged to seek education. Verkuil also noted that the variety of courses in the humanities offered by CWA also brought into sharp contrast his experiences this summer. Eastern European countries, he said, had concentrated predominantly on the sciences to the exclusion of almost everything else.

In his closing remarks, Verkuil reminded his audience that despite the number of college-educated people in the country, the percentage of people who vote is very low.

Holmes Brown, executive director of the Institute of Applied Economics, was guest speaker at the convocation and detailed the development of his institute into an international organization.

A complete listing of all courses and special events offered by CWA is available at the association office, James Blair 308A and may be requested by calling ext. 11079.

The first half of the fall semester ends Oct. 24. Registrations are still being taken for the second series of classes from Oct. 28 to Dec. 12.

In addition to classroom sessions, CWA offers weekly brown bag lunches and day trips. Through its affiliation with the Elderhostel organization, CWA is planning study trips both in this country and in England.

NOTES

Author To Sign Books

Susan Lowerre, author of Under the Neem Tree, about her experiences with the Peace Corps in Senegal, will sign books at The Book People, 536 Granite Avenue, Richmond, from 2 to 4 p.m., Saturday, Sept. 22.

Lowerre, a graduate student at VIMS, has received several favorable reviews of her work.

Writing in the New York Times Book Review, Carol Spindel described Lowerre's prose style as "clear and straight forward." Spindel praised the honesty with which Lowerre chronicled her experiences in Africa and concludes, "Those who follow in her footsteps should be particularly grateful for the honest record she has left behind."

Published by The Permanent Press, Under the Neem Tree is $21.95.

Sailors Drydocked Need Boats

The Sailing Club is attempting to get off the ground with only one slight problem—it has few resources (boats). Rec Sports Director Denny Byrne is looking for anyone who may have a sailboat of any type to donate to the club. "While we are able to accomplish some repairs, boats which may be on their last leg (or keel), as the saying goes, are not something we are looking for—anything else is acceptable."

These donations may be made to the club and are tax-deductible with an appropriate appraisal, says Byrne.

Donors are asked to contact Rob Uhlfelder at ext. 13919 or Byrne at ext. 13312.

Speech Club, Forensic Team Tournament Hosts

The William and Mary Speech Club and Forensic team will host its first home tournament Oct. 26, 27.

Teams from Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Connecticut and the District of Columbia are expected to attend. Tournament rounds will be held primarily in Morton Hall from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m., Oct. 26 and 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., Oct. 27, and are open to the public.

Funded through the Board of Student Affairs, the W&M team is led by Mike Katchmark and Joe Clark. The coach is David Scott, Jr. All three are nationally ranked.

The tournament has been sanctioned by the American Forensic Association and will be one of the qualifying rounds for the National Tournament.

Student Pugwash

The William and Mary Student Pugwash meets each Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Campus Center ballroom, rooms A and B.

Faculty Club Seafood Party

The William and Mary Faculty Club will sponsor its 10th annual Seafood Party at the School of Marine Science at 6 p.m., Friday, Sept. 27.

As usual the menu will feature fried fish, scallops, steamed mussels, steamed crabs, clam chowder, hush puppies and slaw. Beer, wine, liquor, mixers and soft drinks will be provided.

Tickets are $25 per couple, $15 per person.

Two rain dates, Saturday, Sept. 28 and Sunday, Sept. 29, will be used in the event of threatening weather. In the event of unsettled weather the party status may be checked by dialing ext. 12630.

As the party site is on the bank of the York River, there may be a cool breeze off the water, so patrons are advised to dress accordingly.

The first party of the year for the Faculty Club, this event is traditionally one of the best attended.

CommonHealth

CommonHealth is giving fitness tests Thursday and Friday, Sept. 26 and 27 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Call Margo Wright or Mary Louise Gerdes in the CommonHealth Office, ext. 12776 to schedule an appointment.

A two-session seminar and incentive program, "What Can You Do to Save the Planet?" will be held from noon to 1 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 22 and Thursday, Oct. 24 in the Campus Center.

CommonHealth is also sponsoring a hiking program. Participants will set as a goal to walk 540 miles, the length of the Appalachian Trail through Virginia, by accumulating daily mileage over several months. Personal records of miles walked will be kept for individual tracking. Incentives will be awarded at 50 miles, 125 miles, 250 miles, 400 miles and 540 miles.

College Women's Club

The College Women's Club will open its schedule of activities this year with a Fall Coffee which will be held from 4 to 6 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 19 in the Muscarelle Museum of Art.

Those planning to attend are asked to call Joyce Laughlin at ext. 14703.

For further information contact Mrs. Schiavelli at 565-2917 or Lillian Morris at 564-9768.

Junior Women's Club
'Friday Frolics'
Benefits CDR

The Junior Women's Club of Williamsburg is hosting its second annual "Friday Frolics," from 6 to 9 p.m., Sept. 20 at Lake Matoaka.

Tickets are $3 per person and can be purchased ahead by calling 229-0815 or at the gate.

The evening will feature a live band, "Gentlemen and Their Ladies," food by Pizza Hut, Second Street and Saratoma's.

Proceeds from the event will benefit Child Development Resources which serves handicapped and developmentally delayed children, birth through two years of age, and their families.
