

Non-profit Organization
U.S. Postage Paid at Williamsburg, VA
Permit No. 26

WILLIAM & MARY

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER FOR FACULTY, STUDENTS AND STAFF

NEWS

VOLUME XXI, NUMBER 13 • WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1991

REMINDERS

Town & Gown Lunch

The speaker for the Town & Gown lunch on Nov. 21 will be Armand Galfo. His topic will be "German Students' Attitudes Concerning NATO."

There will be no Town & Gown lunch on Nov. 28, Thanksgiving Day.

Mario Zamora will speak at the Dec. 5 lunch on "The Philippines Today: Mount Pinatubo, the Presidency and Other Problems."

The Botetourt Singers of the William and Mary Choir will present a Christmas concert on Dec. 12, the last lunch for 1991. Town & Gown lunches are held in the Campus Center ballroom at 12:15 p.m. There is a $6 fee. Reservations are necessary and may be made by calling ext. 12640 no later than the Monday before the lunch.

Bloodmobile

The American Red Cross Bloodmobile will be at the Rec Center from 1 to 7 p.m., Monday, Nov. 25.

Holiday Dance

The Faculty Club and the College Women's Club are combining their resources again for a gala holiday dance, which will be held from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m., Friday, Dec. 6 in the Campus Center ballroom.

Tickets are $30 per couple, and include beverages and a light buffet. Dress is semi-formal.

For tickets, call co-chairmen Gary and Kate Shaw at 229-2379. No tickets will be sold at the door.

Thanksgiving Service

The Inter-faith Council Thanksgiving Service will be held at 5:30 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 24 at Bruton Parish Church.

The speaker will be Mary Lee Darling, vice-mayor of Williamsburg.

Music will be provided by the William and Mary Chorus, the Catholic Student Association Folk Group, the Presbyterian Bell Choir and the Canterbury Singers.

Dinner will follow at Bruton Parish House.

For additional information, please call Steve Pocalyko, IFC, ext. 14859.

There will be no William & Mary News Nov. 27 because of the Thanksgiving holiday.

Deadline for items for the Dec. 4 issue will be 5 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 27.

1992 Charter Day Convocation

Four Eminent Scientists To Be Honored

D. Allan Bromley, the assistant to the president for science and technology, will be among four distinguished scientists to be honored at the 1992 Charter Day ceremonies Saturday, Feb. 8 in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

Bromley, who will deliver the Charter Day address, will receive an honorary doctor of science degree along with British biologist Sir Cyril A. Clarke, Hon. Nuffield Research Fellow at the University of Liverpool, England; Hermann A. Grunder, director of the Continuous Electron Beam Accelerator Facility (CE-BAF) in Newport News; and Richard H. "Pete" Petersen, former director of NASA Langley Research Center in Hampton, now associate administrator for the Office of Aeronautics and Space Technology at NASA headquarters in Washington, D.C.

Bromley, 65, was appointed by President George Bush to the cabinet-level post of White House science adviser in 1989, and is credited with bringing science and technology issues to the forefront of national policy making. A recent article in Fortune magazine credited

Bromley for breaking through "the decade-long ideological impasse over how to respond to the Japanese economic challenge."

A nuclear physicist at Yale University, Bromley is founder and director of the Arthur W. Wright Nuclear Structure Laboratory there. He holds a Ph.D. from the University of Rochester. He has held a number of science policy positions over the years, including chairman and president of the American Association for the

CONTINUED ON PAGE 7

Rhodes, Marshall Scholarship Nominees Named

Four students have been nominated for Rhodes Scholarships, one for the British Marshall Scholarships.

Jay S.F. Blossom, a graduate student in history; Andrew Stross, '90 a specialist assistant in the office of the Secretary of Transportation in Richmond; and two seniors, Joseph F. Wajszczuk, and Seth Carpenter, have been nominated for the Rhodes competition.

Laura Ferguson, a senior, has been nominated for a Marshall Scholarship.

Laura Ferguson

The Rhodes Scholarship pays full expenses for two to three years of study at Oxford University in England. The Marshall award pays full expenses for two to three years of study at any British university in the applicant's field of choice.

Blossom, a native of California, earned a B.A. degree in history from the University of California at Santa Barbara. He received a master's degree in history last year from William and Mary and is currently a Ph.D. candidate. He is employed at the alumni office on campus. Blossom is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

Stross '90 graduated with a degree in government. He minored in religion. He is a member of Mortar Board and Phi Beta Kappa and served as a Governor's Fellow in 1990 and currently works as special assistant to the Secretary of Transportation in Richmond.

Jay Blossom

Seth Carpenter

Joseph F. Wajszczuk

Wajszczuk a senior from Madison, N.J., is majoring in English and has been active in theatre. A presidential scholar, Wajszczuk has worked in several service projects in Appalachia and has played leading roles in several plays and musicals on campus and acted with the Summer Theatre in New Jersey. In 1987 he won the New Jersey Young Playwrights Award.

Andrew Stross

NEWS

PAGE 6

STUDENTS PAGES 45

ALUMNI PAGE 2

Greeks Give Generously Of Time And Talents To Charity

Singers, Musicians, Players Enliven Campus Calendar

David Heenan Lectures At Business School

NEWSMAKERS

Crestar Bank Gives Funds To Continue Fellowship Program

Left to right, David Burris, assistant vice president, Commercial Division, Crestar Bank; Kenneth Moran, vice president, Commercial Division; Al Page, dean, School of Business Administration; and Hector Guerrero, director, MBA program.

On behalf of Crestar Bank, Kenneth Moran and David Burris presented the William and Mary Graduate School of Business Administration with a check for $3,000 in the name of the Crestar Fellowship. Business School Dean Al Page and Hector Guerrero accepted the check in a recent ceremony.

The funds are used for the Crestar Fellowship which this year was awarded to Michael Dick of Arlington, Va.

The fellowship program was initiated 13 years ago and is awarded to a full-time M.B.A. student from Virginia who demonstrates a financial assistance need and has indicated a sincere interest in and intention to pursue a career in commercial banking in Virginia.

The Crestar Fellow receives $1,500 for the last three semesters of a program plus an offer of part-time employment during these summers and the possibility of full-time employment during the summer period between the recipient's first and second year in the MBA degree program.

Mattie Ferguson Dandridge

Mattie Ferguson Dandridge, 90, a lifelong resident of the Williamsburg area and a College employee for 20 years, died Nov. 11. She was a member of Shiloh Baptist Church and Toano Chapter 39 of the Order of Eastern Star.

Survivors include three daughters, Naomi West and Marjorie Dandridge of Richmond and Mary Sims of Fort Washington, Md.; four sons, Frank Dandridge, J. Frizzell Dandridge, Walter Dandridge and Milton Dandridge of Williamsburg; a sister, Alice Piggott of Washington, D.C.; 25 grandchildren and 23 great-grandchildren.

A funeral service was held in Shiloh Baptist Church. Burial was in Williamsburg Memorial Park.

Author Of New Book On Corporate Trends

David Heenan '61 Gives Lecture To Business School Students

David Heenan '61, president and CEO of Theo H. Davies & Co. Ltd., was on campus recently to speak to the International Management Group at the Graduate School of Business.

Heenan spoke about his new book The Corporate Frontier: The Big Move to Small Town, USA, in which he discusses the new trend in American business of leaving large metropolitan areas and relocating to smaller towns.

Since the 1950s, says Heenan, many corporations have left downtown city environments for the suburbs. Now, corporations are on the move again, he says, this time leaving even the suburbs behind for small towns and cities and resort towns including Orlando, Fla., and major university towns like Charlottesville, Va., and Princeton, N.J.

In his talk Heenan detailed three factors that are responsible for the current trend: high metropolitan rents and taxes; technological advances in communications; and minimalization and downsizing of corporate structures. The high costs of living and doing business that at one point drove companies from urban America are now driving companies from suburban America as well, explained Heenan. Smaller towns of the hinterlands, he said, can offer employees higher lifestyles on lower salaries. FAX machines, networked computers and teleconferencing have enabled corporations to conduct business away from the traditional big-city centers. Now corporations can have easy access to accounting, advertising and other services, without being in the heart of a big city, said Heenan. On the current downsizing of corporate structures Heenan said that corporations have found they do not have to be as big as they once were to operate effectively.

Although many corporations are leaving the metropolitan areas, the cities nonetheless remain the centers for the marketplace, government, culture, innovation, research and human thought and ideas, said Heenan, who added a warning against allowing urban decay. While business doesn't necessarily need to be in the city, an important part of America does, he maintains.

Heenan also spoke about careers in international business and the increasing globalism of corporations. He advised M.B.A. students interested in international business careers to demonstrate a commitment to work overseas by learning a foreign language, studying abroad and understanding foreign culture.

Theo H. Davies & Co., which Heenan heads, is the North American arm of Jardine Matheson, a large diversified international corporation. The company was originally founded in 1845 as a sugarcane business.

Before joining Theo H. Davies, Heenan held positions at Caltex Petroleum Corporation, Citibank and Citicorp, and was vice president of academic affairs at the University of Hawaii.

David Heenan with Business School Dean Al Page.

After receiving a B.A. in economics from William and Mary he received an M.B.A. from Columbia University in 1966 and a Ph.D. from the Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania in 1972.

Heenan's visit was hosted by Marshall Bowden, an MBA student and president of IMG.

Departments

English

Adam Potkay, assistant professor, has recently published an article titled "Classical Eloquence and Polite Style in the Age of Hume," in Eighteenth-Century Studies 25:1 (Fall 1991): 31-56.

Also by Potkay, "Virtue and Manners in Macpherson's Poems of Ossian," will be included in the January issue of PMLA.

Government

Class of 1938 Professor George W. Grayson lectured on "Mexico's Labor Government" at the Foreign Service Institute, U.S. Department of State, on Nov. 7.

His recent articles on Mexican oil, with an emphasis of the role of energy in the proposed North American Free Trade Agreement, have appeared in the Petroleum Economist (Oct. 1991), Hemisfile (Nov. 1991) and the Wall Street Journal (Sept. 27).

The Christian Science Monitor (Aug. 29) and Commonweal (Oct. 25) have published essays by Grayson on Mexican politics.

Sociology

Wayne Kernodle, professor emeritus, has written a review of Belle Boone Beard's Centenarians: The New Generation which was published in the September issue of Contemporary Sociology.

His review of John Reed's Whistling Dixie was published in the summer issue of Social Forces.

Kernodle also gave a course on "The American Family: A Century of Change," to the William and Mary Off-Campus Elderhostel, Nov. 3-8.

Theatre and Speech

Samuel French, Inc., recently published Overcoming Directorial Blocks About Blocking by Professor Louis E. Catron. French, the world's largest theatre publisher, which also has published Catron's plays, advertises the book "for the enhancement of theatre in the secondary schools of the nation."

School of Business Administration

Ned Waxman, associate professor, is the author of "Jury Trials after Granfinanciera: Three Proposals for Reform," in the Ohio State Law Journal.

School of Education

Heritage Professor of Education William Losito authored an article titled "The Reconciliation of Theology and Philosophy in Educational Thought," which appeared in The Religious Dimension of Democratic Education. The article originated as the presidential address presented at the annual meeting of the South Atlantic Philosophy of Education Society (SAPES) at the College.

Losito also authored "Morality and Religion: Necessary Bedfellows in Education?" for Philosophy of Education, and he wrote an essay review titled "Seating Religious Thought at the Educational Roundtable" for the summer volume of Educational Studies.

Professor John F. Lavach co-presented two papers at the national Cognitive Rehabilitation and Community Integration program in Virginia Beach in September. The papers were titled "Attention, Reaction Time Training and Prognosis for Functional Outcome in Head Injured Adults" and "Computerized Assessment of Visual Information Processing Dysfunction."

Travel Regulations

Out-of-state conventions, conferences, seminars, workshops or similar functions attended by more than five employees from the same agency are limited to travel within 300 miles (one-way) of state borders unless prior written approval is given by the head of the agency or institution, or his or her designee.

Out-of-country travel must receive prior written approval of the head of the agency or institution, or his or her designee, and such approval must be submitted with the travel voucher. At their option, Governor's Secretaries may request co-approval of out-of-country travel.

Please note that approval by the Secretary of Education for travel outside the boundaries of the United States is no longer necessary. New forms are available in the academic deans' offices or the Office of the Provost.

NOTES

♪ Musical Reminders ♪

Ewell Concert Series

The Ewell Concert Series, sponsored by the music department and funded by the Association of Parents, will present pianist Christine Anderson Williams in the fifth concert of the current season at 3 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 24 in Ewell Recital Hall. Williams is a member of the piano faculty at the College.

Admission is $2 at the door. W&M students with ID will be admitted free.

W&M Concert Band Performance

The William and Mary Concert Band, Laura Rexroth, conductor, will give its fall concert at 8 p.m., Tuesday, Nov. 26 in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

The program will feature music by Leonard Bernstein, William Schuman, Percy Grainger, Ernesto Lecuona, Jaromir Weinberger and Sergei Prokofiev.

There is no admission charge.

'Black Design' Is Seminar Topic

Robert Farris Thompson, professor of African and Afro-American Art History and Master of Timothy Dwight College, Yale University, will give a seminar on "The Dawn of Black Design," at 3 p.m., Wednesday, Dec. 4 in the Botetourt Theatre of Swem Library.

Thompson's seminar will include a slide presentation and a discussion of his most recent work, The Dawn of Black Design, which is focused on black women painters of the Ituri forest.

He is author of several other books including: Black Gods and Kings, African Art and Motion, The Four Moments of the Sun, Kongo Art in Two Worlds and Flash of the Spirit: African and Afro-American Art and Philosophy.

Greyson-Daughtrey Run

The Greyson-Daughtrey 5K Run will begin at 9 a.m., Saturday, Nov. 23 at Adair gym. The run is sponsored by Kinesiology Majors Club for its scholarship fund.

Entry forms are available at Adair gym and the Rec Center.

Educational Placement Interviews Scheduled

The Office of Educational Placement of the School of Education will coordinate on-campus interviews primarily for K-12 teachers, guidance counselors, and school psychologists with 50+ school systems the week of March 9-13.

Students must sign up for the interviews. Sign-ups will begin Dec. 2 in Jones 216.

Regional At Virginia Tech

Chen's Team Wins College Bowl Spot

The "Egg-Bo Biscuits" team composed of Jeremy Chen '92, team captain; Dan Greenblatt '92; Sanders Marble '91; Billy Baxter '92; and Paul Blankinship '93 won its third consecutive intramural title in the College Bowl Tournament with a decisive 315-75 win over the "Skookumchuk" team.

The "Biscuits," who finished their run with a perfect 6-0 mark, will represent the College at the regional tournament which will be held in late February at Virginia Tech. They also hope to compete next semester in tournaments to be held at Hampden-Sydney, James Madison University and the University of Virginia.

Due to the popularity of last year's event, Scott McLeod '91, tournament coordinator, expanded the field from 16 to 32 four-member teams. Participants in the double-elimination contest included members of all four undergraduate classes and graduate programs. Matches were played in the Campus Center over the course of 10 evenings. The last contest was held Nov. 13.

Memorandum To The Board Of Visitors

Progress Report on Presidential Search

The Presidential Search Committee is well into the search for a successor to Paul Verkuil.

Recommendations received from colleagues in higher education, and firsthand comments from college presidents who stated that their recent moves never would have occurred without the involvement of professional search organizations, led to retaining the services of Presidential Search Consultation Services (PSCS). PSCS is the presidential selection arm of the Association of Governing Boards of Universities and Colleges (AGB), the only higher education organization dedicated to serving the volunteer trustees and regents of colleges and universities. Two PSCS representatives will provide us with consultation, help in organizing and monitoring the search process, and assistance in the screening, evaluation and reference checking of applicants.

The PSCS will also activate its own network to find exceptionally qualified individuals who might not otherwise have entered the applicant pool. Confidentiality of candidates during the early screening and interviewing process is essential. Many candidates are more comfortable speaking with PSCS in the initial stages than submitting their names to a search committee.

The PSCS, as a part of the not-for-profit AGB, operates on a cost recovery basis. The cost of their services will be approximately $27,500, which is roughly equivalent to running two ads in the Sunday New York Times and The Washington Post.

Since I have received indications of interest in the budget and its sources from several people on campus, it is important to explain the basis for its development. The budget is based directly on the one established in 1984 for the last presidential search. By adding an inflationary factor, we arrived at a base figure of $68,260, which has been allocated from state education and general funds. In addition, $32,000 in Endowment Association funds previously designated as president's contingency funds have been reallocated to support the search.

These funds support our use of the PSCS as well as other expenses. I am quite confident that this figure is very much in line with the national average for conducting a comprehensive national presidential search.

I have attached for your information copies of various news articles on the search, along with a brief summary of the Nov. 8 meeting that appeared in the Nov. 13 William and Mary News. I will keep you advised of the major developments of the search as we anticipate a full report at the February Board of Visitors meeting.

The contents of this memo will be made available to members of the press who have requested budget information on the search.

James W. Brinkley
Vice Rector of the College
Chair, Presidential Search Committee

November 18, 1991

Psychology Colloquia Set For Nov., Dec.

The psychology department has announced three colloquia for the fall semester.

Thomas William Bauer, rector of Westover Parish Church in Charles City will speak on "Measuring Collective Moral Climate," on Friday, Nov. 22

Varda Shoham Salomon, associate professor of psychology, University of Arizona at Tucson, has titled the talk he will give Nov. 25, "Changed If You Do, Changed If You Don't? Differential Effects of Paradoxical Interventions."

Professor Salomon is president-elect of the Society for Psychotherapy Research and principal investigator on two federal grants, one an outcome study of alcohol treatment and the other a study of paradoxical therapy for sleep disorders.

Speaker for the colloquium on Dec. 6 is Thomas Hafemeister of the National Center for State Courts who will speak on "Terminally Ill Patients and the Right to Die: What is the Psychologist's Role in the Legislation Process?"

Colloquia are held at 4 p.m. in Millington 211. Refreshments are served in Millington 232 at 3:30 p.m.

Students Nominated For Major Scholarships

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1.

Carpenter, a Presidential Scholar, is also a Monroe Scholar and a member of Pi Delta Phi, the French Honor Society. He is a varsity member of the track and field team and assistant coach of a youth soccer team. He tutors in the Public Policy Program and athletic department and is a teaching assistant in French. Carpenter is majoring in French and economics.

Ferguson, a senior, is majoring in economics. A member of Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity, she holds Presidential and National Merit Scholarships and the 1991-92 Walter L. Taver Scholarship.

Active in Student Government, Ferguson has also played intramural sports and participated in the Shared Experience Program, holding a dual internship at the College and the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation in the human resources division. She spent a semester abroad at Oxford Polytechnic in England.

President and Mrs. Verkuil invite the College community to a reception celebrating the 20th Birthday of William and Mary Hall
Tuesday, December 3
4:30 - 6:30 p.m.

A campus landmark for the past two decades,
William and Mary Hall has hosted Presidents, Lords, Ladies, champions and graduates and served as a convocation center, athletic facility and recently, home of the Christopher Wren
Association for Lifelong Learning

Sigma Chi Presents Prize Money To College

Funds To Bolster General College's Scholarship Fund

Sigma Chi fraternity received the Peterson Significant Chapter Award by the national organization at its annual leadership training workshop this summer. The 55-member chapter donated the check accompanying the award to the College's General Scholarship Fund.

The chapter raised $4,000 during this year's annual Derby Days events and donated half of the proceeds to its national philanthropy, The Cleo Wallace Center, a home for handicapped children, and the other half to the Williamsburg Area Red Cross. In October, three members of the chapter biked across Virginia for the Chesapeake Bay Foundation and donated $1,200 to the cause.

Sigma Chi President Steve Welty and Jay Bukzin, public relations officer, present a check to Vice President for University Advancement Edward T. Allenby.

Applications For Head Resident Positions

Applications for the 1992-93 Head Resident position will be available Monday, Nov. 18 in the Office of Residence Life, James Blair 206. An informational meeting will be held that evening at 7 p.m., in Tazewell Lounge. All those interested in applying are urged to attend.

Head Resident positions are open to all students and are not limited to current ORL staff. Applications are due at 5 p.m., Dec. 3.

For further information please contact the Office of Residence Life at 14314.

Kitchen helpers (l-r), Michael Rodgers, Scott McDaniel, Bob Morris and David Marshall.

SAE Lends a Hand

Members of Virginia Kappa chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon served dinner to over 265 people at the Freedom House relief shelter in downtown Richmond as part of the fraternity's community service.

Dinner was prepared by volunteers from Richmond churches. SAE members served, bussed tables, washed dishes and visited with the diners. Several SAE members spoke in Spanish to some Mexican men who were searching for work in Virginia and to a Hispanic family with two young children who had sought help from the shelter.

The trip to Richmond was organized by SAE philanthropy chairman Allen Finch as part of the fraternity's service program.

Since September, more than 30 SAE members have volunteered to assist in the activities of the Association for Retarded Citizens of Greater Williamsburg. Members have also visited area retirement homes.

SAE members plan to continue volunteering at Freedom House as well as assisting with community service projects in Williamsburg, said Finch.

Robert F. Kennedy Jr. Speaks Tonight

Robert F. Kennedy Jr., a litigating lawyer for environmental law and the supervising attorney at the Environmental Litigation Clinic at Pace University Law School, is the next speaker in the Student Association Speaker Series.

Kennedy, son of the late Senator Robert F. Kennedy, will speak on "Our Environmental Destiny" at 8 p.m. tonight in Trinkle Hall.

Tickets will be sold at the door only. Holders of Speaker Series passes will be admitted free, but must be at the door by 7:30 p.m. to be assured of seating. Tickets are $8 for the general public; $4 for W&M community members with W&M ID.

Kennedy's reputation as a resolute defender of the environment stems from a litany of successful legal actions prosecuting polluters of the Hudson River and Long Island Sound. He serves as senior staff attorney for the Hudson River Fishermen's Association and senior attorney for the National Resources Defense Council. Earlier in his career he served as assistant district attorney in New York City.

Kennedy is a graduate of Harvard University. He studied at the London School of Economics and received his law degree from the University of Virginia Law School. He received a master's degree in environmental law from Pace University School of Law.

In announcing the Kennedy lecture, SoYoung Lee, SA vice president for cultural affairs said, "We look not only at what they have to say, but also consider their abilities as speakers. Our first speaker, Maya Angelou, was excellent, and our next speaker, Robert F. Kennedy Jr., also promises to be of such caliber.

For further information on the lecture please contact Lee at the SA office, ext.13302.

The Trophy Was Ugly, The Winner Isn't

Deborah Noonan

The winner was Deborah Noonan of Computer Science who was presented an exotic trophy titled "Darwin"—a chimpanzee sitting on a pile of textbooks contemplating a human skull.

Vince Indelicato was project coordinator for the fundraiser. Next semester the fraternity plans a superdance for the Muscular Dystrophy Fund and a colonial 5K run for the American Cancer Society.

Runners-up were Clay Clemens, government, second; Hans vonBaeyer, physics, third; Anne Henderson, government, fourth; and Robert Scholnick, English, fifth.

Faculty members who volunteered for the contest included Jerry Bledsoe, theatre; Miles Chappell, fine arts; Brad Coursen and Stewart Ware, biology; Alan Fuchs, philosophy; Clyde Haulman, and Will Hausman, economics; David Holmes, religion; Jon Kerner, sociology; Ron Rapoport, public policy; Robert Snyder, government institute; Sylvia Shirley, kinesiology; and David Thompson, chemistry.

Nu Rho chapter of Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity has a check for $376.34 to give to the Central Virginia Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Fund as a result of the recent Ugly Professor contest.

Phi Mu Works For Project Hope

Pictured above are members of Phi Mu who got dressed up to solicit money on Halloween to support Project Hope. Back row (l-r), Kat O'Neill, Lisa Price, Nancy Bushy, Emily Watts, Joann Naumann, Nancy Opferr, Dian Witter, Kendra Groff, Alia Khan and Sandi Turner.

Front row (l-r), Stephanie Peterson, Lisa Johnson, Poorwa Kenkre and Lynn Ches.

Phi Mu sorority is winding up a year of fund raising for Project Hope, which provides medical education to more than 70 countries and supports a hospital ship.

Sorority members have raised approximately $700 this year from car washes, a Halloween "Trick or Treat" project and a pancake breakfast held at McDonald's.

In addition to work with Project Hope, the sorority counts among its philanthropic projects Housing Partnerships, the local SPCA and "Adopt-a-Child." Members visit the Children's Hospital of the King's Daughters in Norfolk. Erin Flaherty, social services chairperson, has announced that the chapter will soon begin working with the National Network of Runaways and Youth Services as an outreach project.

