A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER FOR FACULTY, STUDENTS AND STAFF

NEWS

VOLUME XXI, NUMBER 15 • WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 15, 1992

Robb To Speak At Marshall-Wythe

Senator Charles S. Robb will speak to students and faculty of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law and other members of the College community at 4 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 16 in room 119 of the law school. No topic has been announced for his talk.

Robb is expected to speak for about 30 minutes, then take questions from the audience. A reception will follow.

Robb's visit is being sponsored by the William and Mary Law School Speakers Forum.

Town & Gown

Town and Gown lunches will resume on Thursday, Jan. 23 in the Campus Center Ballroom, 12:15 p.m. The speaker will be Eduard Malayan, Russian diplomat, who will speak on "The Russian Transition."

Speaker on Jan. 30 will be Steve Wermiel, Visiting Lee Professor, Institute of Bill of Rights Law.

There is a $6 fee. Reservations are necessary and may be made by calling ext. 12640 no later than the Monday before the lunch.

REMINDERS

Nominations Due For Jefferson Awards

Members of the College community are reminded that the Thomas Jefferson Awards Committee for the 1991-92 awards has set Friday, Jan. 17 as the deadline for nominations.

The Thomas Jefferson award is open to anyone currently employed by the College. It is given to a person who has demonstrated a deep devotion and outstanding service to the College as exemplified by the life, character and influence of Thomas Jefferson.

The Thomas Jefferson Teaching Award was established to recognize younger members of the faculty who by their concern as teachers have inspired and stimulated learning for the betterment of their students and society.

Nominations with supporting materials should be sent to Jean A. Scott, acting associate provost, The Brafferton Kitchen.

Circuit City CEO Receives Business Medallion

Richard L. Sharp, president and chief executive officer of Circuit City, has been named the recipient of the 1991 Business Medallion from the School of Business Administration.

The medallion, established in 1975, is awarded by the school's business faculty to provide recognition to "an individual whose distinguished career as a contributor to the profession of management represents the highest standards of professionalism and integrity." Sharp will visit campus sometime this spring to receive the award.

Sharp joined Circuit City in 1982 as executive vice president, was elected president in 1984 and became CEO in 1986.

Starting his career as a computer programmer, Sharp founded Applied Systems Corporation in 1975 and served as its president until it was acquired by Tymshare, Inc. in 1981. He subsequently served as vice president of Tymshare until he joined Circuit City. Applied Systems provided computerized retail credit services and point-of-sale cash register systems.

Sharp studied electrical engineering at the University of Virginia and computer science at William and Mary. In 1985 he completed the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration's Advanced Management Program.

Sharp serves on the board of S&K Famous Brands, Inc. He also participates in numerous professional and civic organizations, including board memberships for the University of Richmond, Virginia

Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, Boys Clubs of Richmond, Marymount School, Richmond Renaissance, River Road United Methodist Church and the Science Museum of Virginia Foundation.

Child Care Center Opens

The William and Mary Child Care Center behind the Bridges House on Jamestown Road is now open. Lesley Welsh, Ashleigh Jefferson and Enid Cloyed, above, try out the new driving toy. The facility will be dedicated in February.

Student Exchange Program Receives Permanent Endowment from Drapers' Co.

The Drapers' Company of London, in recognition of the College's 300th anniversary, has made a commitment of £200,000, or approximately $360,000, to establish an endowment that will fund permanently a long-standing student exchange program sponsored by the two institutions.

The Drapers' Company endowment will support the exchange of one British and one American student each year. Income from the endowment is eligible for state matching funds under the Virginia Graduate and Undergraduate Assistance Program. The program, which matches income on endowments established for graduate and undergraduate financial assistance, is expected to receive initial funding during the 1992-94 biennium.

Although not restricted to students of any particular discipline, the Drapers' exchange in recent years has been between graduates of Marshall-Wythe School of Law and law students from Queen Mary and Westfield Colleges (QMW) of the University of London.

"The Drapers' Company gift is an extraordinarily generous recognition of a relationship between the company and the College that began with the founding of the Virginia colony," said Timothy Sullivan, dean of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law. "Students from William and Mary, and from Queen Mary and Westfield, will benefit in perpetuity because of this inspired gift."

The Drapers' Company, one of a number of guilds organized in London during the Middle Ages, was founded in the 12th century by merchants in the woolen cloth trade. The company, which was formally chartered by King Edward III in 1364, now exists principally as a charitable foundation.

The College's exchange program with the Drapers' Company began in 1959 during the administration of William and Mary President Alvin Duke Chandler. The exchange was temporarily discontinued in 1981 but was revived in 1986. The new endowment ensures the continuity of the program.

After the revival, the program was altered to allow Marshall-Wythe graduates to participate as exchange scholars for a year of post-graduate study. This year's

Former Vice President
W. Melville Jones Dies

W. Melville Jones Helped Establish Exchange Program

Dr. W. Melville Jones, whose leadership as an administrator and literary scholar at the College spanned several decades, died Friday evening, Jan. 10 at the Pines Convalescent Center. He was 90.

Dr. Jones retired in Aug. 1971 after 43 years on the faculty. He served the last 13 years of that tenure as the College's highest-ranking academic officer.

He received many honors. In 1966 he was awarded the Thomas Jefferson Award, the highest honor the College can bestow on a faculty member.

In 1970 he received the Freedom of the Company from The Worshipful Company of Drapers, an ancient guild of woolen merchants in the City of London, established in 1364, that today acts as a trustee for a number of charities which include substantial benefactions that are used in grants to young people for further education. He was only the third non-Englishman to receive this honor.

As a liaison from the College, Dr. Jones helped negotiate the first student exchange. When started, the Drapers' program was only the second opportunity offered William and Mary students to study abroad. The first recipient of the Drapers' awards was Richard Prosl, associate professor in computer science, who studied at the University College, Oxford, 1959-61.

A native of Homestead, Pa., Dr. Jones graduated from Allegheny College in 1923, received a master's degree from Ohio State University in 1925 and a doctorate from Harvard University in 1953. He taught at Ohio State University and the University of Richmond before coming to William and Mary in 1928 as associate professor of English. He became a full professor in 1954 and Chancellor Professor in 1963. He served as dean of the faculty from 1958 to 1964, and from 1964 to 1968 was dean of the College, one of only two people to hold that post in the history of the College.

When William and Mary was recognized by the state as a university in 1968,

Dr. Jones became its first vice president. He was named vice president for academic affairs in 1970.

As a teacher, Dr. Jones was recognized for his classroom work and scholarship in the works of John Milton, 17th-century literature, the English novel, contemporary English and American verse, and creative writing.

"When I joined the English department of the College in 1938, I quickly came to know Mel as a warm friend and admired teacher," Dr. Fraser Neiman, professor of English emeritus, recalled. "His interests in creative writing, and especially modern poetry, drew many of our liveliest students to him as a teacher and adviser. Mel continued to be a teacher—his favorite occupation—until the end of his long and honored career."

"He was my teacher of English literature and my right arm in academic matters," Dr. Davis Y. Paschall, president from 1960-1971, said. "No man has done more for the College or been a dearer friend."

In addition to his academic work, Dr. Jones served as director of the College's John Marshall Bicentennial program in 1954-55, and was also editor of Chief Justice John Marshall—A Reappraisal in 1956. He took a two-year leave of absence from 1956 to 1958 to serve as director of program and public events for the state's observance of the 350th anniversary of the settlement at Jamestown.

After retirement, he served on the board of the Friends of the Williamsburg Public Library, including a term as president, and was a member and later president of the Middle Plantation Club.

He is survived by his wife, Helen Boyd Jones of Williamsburg, and a son, W. Melville Jones III of Salisbury, Conn.

A graveside service was held at 3 p.m. Monday at Cedar Grove Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to a favorite charity.

(Portions of the above were excerpted from the Richmond Times-Dispatch, Jan. 12.)

Departments

Classical Studies

William T. Wehrle, visiting assistant professor, delivered a paper on Roman Satire at the 1991 meeting of the Philological Association of the Pacific Coast, sponsored by the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, Nov. 15-17. The title of his paper was "Ipse Semipaganus: Vates, Poetae and Literary Criticism in Persius' Prologue, Satire 1."

English

Seamus Heaney, Poet of Contrary Progressions by Henry Hart, assistant professor, has been published by Syracuse University Press.

Reviewer Jay Parini, author of The Last Station: A Novel of Tolstoy's Last Year, called it "beautifully written, full of insights, and well argued."

Robert Crawford at the University of St. Andrews said Hart's work "blends clarity and sophistication."

Seamus Heaney, widely considered the most gifted living poet in Ireland and Britain, is the first Irish poet since Yeats to gain an international reputation. In his study, Hart discusses his poems, his creative and personal situations and his assimilation of contemporary literary theory.

Hart is also the author of The Poetry of Geoffrey Hill and The Ghost Ship, a collection of poems. He has published numerous articles. In 1987 he was co-winner of Twentieth-Century Literature's annual competition for the best article in literary criticism.

Fine Arts

Professor James Kornwolf has been awarded a 1991-92 Faculty Research Grant by the Canadian Embassy to complete the Canadian sections of Architecture and Town Planning in Colonial North America 1562-1792. The 2,100-page manuscript will be published by the Cambridge University Press. This is the second grant Kornwolf has received to complete photography for the book.

Kornwolf plans to spend the period May 1-June 15 in Canada photographing, visiting sites and otherwise completing the text.

Theatre and Speech

"What Theatre Majors Learn: What Can You 'Do' With A Theatre Degree?" is the title of an article by Louis E. Catron, professor of theatre, that appears in the Dec. 1991 edition of Dramatics magazine.

The article emphasizes the many values of a theatrical education, showing how classes and productions provide excellent training for future employment in a number of non-theatrical fields.

Career Services

Stanley E. Brown, director of career services, was elected to the Board of Governors of the College Placement Association, Inc., by the membership at the annual conference held in December in Orlando, Fla. The Council is the national association for university career services and employer recruitment with membership from 2,362 colleges and 2,458 employer organizations.

Brown has been involved with Career Services since 1968. Additionally, he has served as director of corporate relations and acting vice president for development. During this time he has served as president of the Virginia College Placement Association and the Southern College Placement Association.

School of Business

Wanda A. Wallace, the John N. Dalton Professor of Business Administration and associate dean for academic affairs, has co-authored a research monograph, titled Accounting for Options: No Longer an Option, recently published by The Canadian Certified General Accountants' Research Foundation.

Wallace is also co-author of a research monograph titled Research Report: Service Efforts and Accomplishments Reporting: Its Time Has Come—Fire Department Programs.

School of Education

James H. Stronge, associate professor, educational administration, made a presentation titled "Educating Homeless Children and Youth: Issues and Answers" at a meeting of six chapters of Phi Delta Kappa fraternity at the Officer's Club at Andrews Air Force Base in Camp Spring, Md., Oct. 17.

Stronge also made a presentation titled "Topology of Educational Service Delivery Systems: Programs with Promise," for the National Association of State Coordinators for the Education of Homeless Children and Youth on Nov. 14 at the National Conference on Educating Homeless Children and Youth in New Orleans, La.

Stronge co-authored with Virginia Helm, assistant dean and professor of educational administration, Western Illinois University, an article titled "Legal Barriers to the Education of Homeless Children and Youth: Residency and Guardian Issues," published in the Journal of Law and Education, vol. 20, No 2, pp. 201-218.

Marshall-Wythe School of Law

A new book by Paul LeBel, Cutler Professor, titled John Barleycorn Must Pay, has been published by the University of Illinois Press.

"Reducing the Recovery of Avoidable 'Seat-Belt Damages': A Cure for the Defects of Waterson v. General Motors Corporation," by LeBel, has been published in Seaton Hall Law Review, vol. 22.

Professor Fredric I. Lederer has been appointed to the advisory board of the National Institute of Military Justice and to the board of directors of the Virginia Consortium for Law Related Education.

Professor Ronald H. Rosenberg has published "Cooperative Failure: An Analysis of Intergovernmental Relationships and the Problems of Non-Attainment," in the 1990 Annual Survey of American Law published by New York University School of Law.

Rosenberg has been named the general editor of the Treatise of Local Government Law, published by the Virginia Local Government Attorneys Association.

Martha W. Rush, associate law librarian, and Richard Buchanan, former reference librarian, currently an associate, Eric R. Spencer, P.C., Roanoke, Va., are co-authors of "Current Research Topics," in the November/December issue of the Journal of Bankruptcy Law and Practice.

"An Issue-driven Strategy for Review of Agency Decisions" by Charles H. Koch, Jr., Dudley W. Woodbridge Professor of Law, has been published in Administrative Law Review, vol. 43, p.511.

Commerce Clearing House has just published Cases and Materials: Taxation of Business Enterprises of which Glenn Coven, Mills E. Godwin Professor of Law and director of the graduate tax program, is co-author.

Virginia Institute of Marine Science/School of Marine Science

Presentations at the 12th annual meeting of the Society of Environmental Toxicology and Chemistry in Seattle, Wash., Nov. 3-7 included the following:

Rebecca M. Dickhut, assistant professor, and Elizabeth H. MacDonald, laboratory specialist, "A modified column technique for the rapid determination of hydrophobic chemical sorption to carbonaceous sorbents."

Rebecca M. Dickhut and Brian D. Hancock, laboratory technician, "Design and field validation of a precipitation sampler for hydrophobic organic contaminants."

Robert C. Hale, assistant professor, Kathleen Gallagher, graduate student, and John Greaves, research scientist, "Sources and sinks of polychlorinated terphenyls in an estuarine system."

Robert F. Mothershead II, graduate student, and Robert C. Hale, assistant professor, "Influence of ecdysis on PAH accumulation in blue crabs."

E. Laurence Libelo, graduate student, presented "Downhole solid phase extraction for groundwater monitoring," at the meeting of the Association of Groundwater Scientists and Engineers Conference, Oct. 21-23 in Washington, D.C.

Memorial Service Planned Jan. 25 For Urvi Thanawala, 1990 Graduate

Urvi Thanawala '90 died Thursday, Jan. 9. She was 23.

Ms. Thanawala was born in Bryn Mawr, Pa. She graduated from Radnor High School in 1986. After graduation from William and Mary she worked for the Office of Technology Assessment, United States Congress. At the time of her death she was attending the John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University as a Woodrow Wilson Fellow.

She was a keen runner. She bicycled through Eastern Europe in the summer of 1991. Dedicated to helping physically and mentally handicapped children as well as emotionally disturbed youth, Ms. Thanawala worked at Melmark Home in Berwyn, Pa., and for Wediko Children Services in New Hampshire.

An active member of the college community as an undergraduate, Ms. Thanawala was a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority, the South and Southeast Asia Society and the William and Mary Orchestra. She served as an Orientation Aide and was a volunteer for many local services including Eastern State Hospital, Williamsburg Community Child Care, Bacon Street Hotline and Big Brothers and Big Sisters of Williamsburg. She majored in economics and psychology.

She is survived by her parents, Sheela and Kishor Thanawala, and a sister, Shuchita Thanawala.

A memorial service will be held at Connelly Center, Villanova University at 2 p.m., Saturday, Jan. 25. Funeral arrangements were private.

The family has asked that in lieu of flowers, donations may be made to a charity of your choice.

Student Films

"Rarer Monsters" written and directed by Mark Hillhorne and starring Christian Murawski, Robert Goddard, David Morrill and Mary Vel Tiolman, made this summer with the cooperation of the Virginia Shakespeare Festival, will be presented as part of a double-bill of student-made films at 1, 3, 5 and 7 p.m., Sunday, Jan. 19 in Washington 201. There is no admission charge.

The other half of the bill is a return engagement of "Barney."

HACE To Meet On Jan. 21

Joan Dent, executive director, Virginia Governmental Employees Association, will be guest speaker at the next meeting of the Hourly and Classified Employees Association, HACE, at 1 p.m., Tuesday, Jan. 21 in the Campus Center room E.

Dent will discuss current issues facing the legislature and how state employees, as concerned citizens, can respond to these issues.

This meeting is open to all hourly and classified employees. HACE membership is not required.

Recyclers' Start Up On Limited Schedule

Due to circumstances beyond their control, W&M recyclers will be operating on a limited schedule this semester.

Comprehensive Recycling Days, will be held once a month rather than once a week, on the first Saturday of the month, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., beginning Feb. 1.

The variety of materials that will be accepted has also been curtailed. Cardboard and writing paper will no longer be accepted. Recyclers will handle glass, aluminum, newspaper and type 1 and 2 plastics. There will be one collection spot on campus, the parking lot of William and Mary Hall.

For more information, call Mary Nachtrieb at 220-9281.

Muscarella Opens Three Special Exhibits

Three special exhibitions, "Bernard Chaet: Five Decades of Drawing," "Spotlight on Conservation" and the fourth annual Faculty Show, are scheduled at the Muscarelle Museum of Art, Jan. 17 to Feb. 23.

The public is invited to a reception to open the exhibits from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m., Jan. 17 at the museum.

The Chaet exhibit spans the career of this noted artist and renowned teacher at the Yale University School of Art. He has trained generations of artists and teachers, and his books remain insightful guides for new generations of students while attesting to his critical eye.

Both figurative and landscape images, composed in a variety of media, comprise the display of 36 drawings. The exhibition is part of the collection of the Boston Public Library and is made available under the tour administration of the University of Montana.

"Spotlight on Conservation" documents the fascinating changes brought about by the conservation treatment of a 19th-century harbor scene in the Museum's collection. Photographs of the painting taken during the various stages of treatment, along with other explanatory materials, are displayed beside the brilliantly colored seascape, now restored. The faculty show includes a wide variety of media, reflecting the artists' interests and teaching specialties.

Included in the exhibit are still life and intimate paintings by William D. Barnes; figurative sculptures, accompanied by ink-and-wash drawings, by Lewis Cohen; drawings and landscape paintings by Henry E. Coleman; sculptures and a photocopy/computer manipulation by Paul DiPasquale; landscape watercolors by Charlene Engle; still life and interior scenes in oil by Valerie Hardy; large-scale tempera-collages by Paul E. Helfrich; figurative ceramic sculptures by Marlene K. Jack; and large graphite drawings by Edwin Pease.

Two gallery talks are scheduled in connection with the exhibits. Deborah D. McLeod, curator at the Peninsula Fine Arts Center, will discuss the faculty exhibit at 5:15 p.m., Tuesday, Jan. 28. William D. Barnes, associate professor of fine arts at the College, will present a gallery talk on the Chaet exhibition at 3:30 p.m., Sunday, Feb. 2.

The Muscarelle Museum of Art is located on Jamestown Road, and is open without charge Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 4:45 p.m., Saturday and Sunday from noon to 4 p.m.

Docent-guided group tours are available by calling ext. 12703 for advance reservations. For information about exhibitions and special events, call ext.12700.

Band Sponsors Performance By MIT Musicians

The College of William and Mary Concert Band will sponsor a performance by the unique Massachusetts Institute of Technology Concert Band at 8 p.m., Friday, Jan. 24 in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

This is a free concert and all members of the community are invited to attend.

Conducted by John Corley, the MIT Concert Band is a very proficient musical organization, although its musical interests are wholly avocational. The band consists of approximately 65 undergraduate and graduate students and recent alumni of MIT whose main energies are dedicated to science and engineering, but who share a love of music.

In 1953, five years after the band was founded, its members adopted a policy of devoting themselves entirely to original works for band. The band's Jan. 14 concert will include the premiere of "Canto III," composed by John Baricchi, a work commissioned by the band.

The band does not perform such things as arrangements of Tchaikowsky symphonies, medleys from Broadway musicals, or the usual "concert-in-the-park" band literature. Instead the MIT band searches out and presents music specifically for band. Therefore, not only does it perform works by well-known contemporary composers such as Copland, Hindemith and Grainger, but also each year commissions and premieres at least one piece by a local composer.

The Concert Band has a busy performance schedule, both at MIT and on tour. At MIT each year, it gives three large concerts alone and several smaller concerts, usually for special occasions or events. On tour during the last week of January, the band performs five or six concerts in different cities. On past tours the band has played in the northern and eastern part of the United States and adjoining areas of Canada.

Sinfonicron Light Opera Company To Present 'The Pirates Of Penzance'

The Sinfonicron Light Opera Company at the College, a unique student-run organization, will present Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Pirates of Penzance," in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall, at 8 p.m., Jan. 16, 17, and 2 and 8 p.m., Jan. 18.

Tickets are $6 and may be reserved by calling the PBK Box office at ext. 12655.

The Sinfonicron Light Opera company is an organization composed of members from the two music fraternities on campus, Phi Mu Alpha and Delta Omicron. The company has an enviable record of successful musicals and has specialized in Gilbert and Sullivan works.

As a self-supporting group, members of the company depend on profits from one year to provide seed money for the following year.

The leading roles of Frederic and Mabel will be played by Raymond Good, a junior from Fairfax, Va., and Betsy Torresson, a junior from Moorestown, N.J. Peter Colohan of Richmond, president of the William and Mary Choir, will play the part of the Pirate King. Ruth will be played by Heather Miller, a sophomore from Galveston, Texas. Peter Mantey, a post-graduate student from Ordinary, Va., will play the part of the Major General.

Minor Research Grants Reinstated, Second Deadline Is Jan. 30

The Minor Research Grants, which were cancelled in academic year 1990-91, have been reinstated for this year and the second deadline is approaching (Jan. 30).

Students as well as faculty and staff are eligible for these grants which carry a maximum of $500 for projects. Applications are available in the Grants Office, 201 James Blair, or call ext. 14563 and request one through campus mail.

'Columbian Encounters'

Lecture Series Opens Jan. 23

In 1492 Columbus inaugurated a 500-year encounter of the world's continents, peoples and cultures. The College of William and Mary will commemorate and reflect on some of the immediate and long-range consequences of that "Encounter" in a seven-part lecture series beginning Thursday, Jan. 23.

This series, titled "Columbian Encounter," is free and open to the public. Lectures will be held at 7:30 p.m. in Washington 201 on every other Thursday through April 16.

Six William and Mary faculty members and a leading University of Virginia historian will address a variety of issues related to the conquest of the Americas, the meeting of cultures and the observance of the Columbian Quincentenary. Speakers and their topics are:

Jan. 23: James Axtell, Kenan Professor of Humanities, "Moral Reflections on 1492"

Feb. 6: Sue Grosboll, adjunct professor of anthropology, "Prehispanic South America: Diversity and Discovery"

Feb. 20: John Lynch, Harrison Professor of History, "Manpower and Firepower in the Spanish Conquest"

March 5: William B. Taylor, professor of history, University of Virginia, "Santiago and the Cristos de Cana: Colonial Religion and Quincentenary Metaphors"

March 19: Judith Ewell, Newton Professor of History, "Madness, Civilization and the Quincentenary: The Conquistador of El Dorado"

April 2: Teresa Longo, assistant professor of modern languages, "The Modern Chronicle and Social Revolt: I... Rigoberta Menchu."

April 16: Bruce McConachie, associate professor of theatre and speech, "A Teachable Moment: Contemporary Radical Responses to the Quincentenary"

The series was organized by Axtell, chairman of the American Historical Association's Columbus Quincentenary Committee, and Judith Ewell, president of the Conference on Latin American History.

The first lecture by Axtell will scrutinize past and present moral attitudes toward the conquest, particularly the treatment and demise of native peoples, and suggest ways to improve our moral understanding of the Encounter.

Axtell is the prize-winning author of The Invasion Within, After Columbus, and the forthcoming Beyond 1492.

Asian Conference Set Jan. 24-25

The Asian Student Union at the College will sponsor its fourth Regional Asian American Student Conference, Jan. 24-25 at the Campus Center.

The Conference will begin on Friday, Jan. 24 with registration, a Career Fair and reception.

Conference speakers will include Dr. W. B. Woo, department of physics at the University of Delaware; Christine Choy, executive director, Film News Now Foundation; and Laureen Yee, health reporter, WAVY-TV in Norfolk, Va.

Woo, a former lieutenant governor of Delaware, is currently a candidate for the House of Representatives in Delaware. He has been an outspoken advocate for support of higher education and improving the science skills of America's youth. His cultural roots and fluency in Chinese have enabled him to become an effective ambassador for U.S. trade interests in the Far East. He is National President of the Organization of Chinese Americans.

Choy will present a synopsis of "Who Killed Vincent Chin," a documentary that discusses the 1982 murder of Chin within the social network of American life at the time.

Yee will take as her topic, "Asian-Americans in Journalism."

For conference details, contact the Office of Multi-Cultural Affairs, ext. 12300.

Center For Gifted Education Begins Saturday Classes Feb. 1

The College of William and Mary's Center for Gifted Education will hold classes for gifted learners on Saturday mornings from Feb. 1 through March 28.

Children who are entering preschool through grade eight will be eligible to participate. Classes will be held on campus from 9 to 11:30 a.m. The curriculum will include a seminar series for parents.

Fees for each course will be $150 which includes a $10 non-refundable application fee. Scholarship aid is available. Application deadline is Friday, Jan. 17.

Courses are open to students who score at the 95th percentile or above on a nationally normed aptitude or achievement test. A recommendation from school personnel (teacher, principal or counselor) is also required.

Eligibility screening, conducted by a certified school psychologist, is available to students with no documented scores. Evaluation appointments may be made by calling ext. 12363. A $75 evaluation fee is due at the time of the appointment.

For further information about the Saturday program and an application call Jane Bailey, ext. 12351.

The following classes will be offered:

Preschool-kindergarten, "All About Me."

Grades K-1, "A Look at Simple Physics."

Grades 1-2, Measure Hunt, Oceanography, Storywriting.

Grades 1-3, Spatial Visualization in Mathematics.

Grades 2-3, Junior Geography.

Grades 3-4, Animals and Our Environment.

Grades 3-5, Expressive Writing, Lego Log, and Spanish is Fun.

Grades 5-7, Inventioning for Young Scientists.

Grades 5-7, Business Centers.

Grades 6-8, Computers: Introduction to DOS Word Processing, and Spreadsheets; Professional Problem-Solving, and Writing for Publication.

Library Friends To Hear Fehrenbach

Robert J. Fehrenbach, professor of English, will speak to the Friends of the Library at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 16 on "Bibliographical Archaeology." The public is invited to attend.

Those planning to attend are asked to note that the time of the lecture has been changed from an earlier announcement.

Fehrenbach's presentation will be an explanation of "Private Libraries of Renaissance England," an international research project he heads, which was recently funded with a $130,000 grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

By analyzing property inventories of individuals from Tudor and Stuart England, Fehrenbach hopes to determine what people read and how the book trade of the day operated.

Begun by Fehrenbach in 1986, "Private Libraries in Renaissance England" serves a variety of scholarly fields, most especially intellectual and social history and historical bibliography. As General Editor of PLRE, Fehrenbach will be on leave for two years and will return to full-time teaching in 1993-94.

Women's Studies Opens Forum Series

Njeri Jackson of the political science department at Virginia Commonwealth University will be the first speaker in the Tuesday evening Women's Studies Forum series for 1992.

Her talk, "From Silence to Empowerment: Do We Really Want to Sing in Their Choir Anyway?" will begin at 8 p.m., Tuesday, Jan. 21 in Washington 201.

All of the forums are open to the public and each will be followed by a brief reception, also in Washington Hall.

Colleen Kennedy, assistant professor of English, will speak on Maxine Hong Kingston's The Woman Warrior, 7:30 p.m., Jan. 28, Washington 201.

GW Historian Seminar Speaker

James O. Horton, professor of history and American civilization at George Washington University, will speak on "Shades of Color: The Role and Status of Mulattoes in the Antebellum Era," at 5 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 23 in the Botetourt Theatre of Swem Library.

This seminar, sponsored by the Commonwealth Center for the Study of American Culture, will focus on blacks of racially mixed ancestry, their standing among African-Americans, and their place in the racial imagination of white America during the decades before the Civil War.

Horton will argue that color status provides a window into issues of gender and regional variation in the community structure of free black society and into the nature of race relations during the period.

VIMS Series Begins Jan. 22

The dynamic nature of the environmental public policy process and the range of factors that influence policy decisions will be the subjects of the spring semester seminar series at the School of Marine Science.

This annual series will be held on selected Wednesday afternoons from 3 to 5 p.m. between Jan. 22 and April 22. Presenters will include W&M faculty, scientists, federal and state officials, and representatives of private enterprise and the environmental community. All seminars will be held in the Watermen's Hall auditorium at VIMS.

The series will begin with discussions of the role of politics, ethics and economics in the development of environmental public policy. Lawrence C. Evans, assistant professor of government, who is currently working as a Congressional Fellow in the office of Congressman Lee Hamilton, will give the federal perspective on Jan. 22. Lawrence C. Becker, William R. Kenan Jr., Professor of Humanities, will address the topic of ethics on Jan. 29. A complete list of speakers has yet to be announced. The topic for Feb. 5 is economics. Wetlands, shellfish and pulp and paper production will be discussed Feb. 19, 26 and March 4.

The final portion of the series on the role of the scientist will be held March 25, April 1, 22 and 28.

For further information concerning the series, call 642-7099.

Greenhouse Volunteers To Hold Plant Sale

The Greenhouse Volunteers will sell plants in the auditorium lobby in Millington Hall from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Thursday and Friday, Jan. 23, 24.

Unique second semester species will be included.

Proceeds will be added to a scholarship endowment.

Open House Jan. 26

Language Houses Seek Residents

Applications are now being accepted for residence in the French, German, Spanish and Italian language houses.

Applications are available from Karen Schifrin in the department of modern languages, Washington 214.

The deadline for applications is Feb. 7.

Open Houses will be held Sunday, Jan. 26 in the four houses located in the Randolph Complex.

For further information, call ext. 13634.

Projected Budget Shortfall Will Mean More Cuts On Campus

In his address to the General Assembly last Wednesday, Gov. L. Douglas Wilder presented his budget for the 1992-94 biennium and outlined priorities and challenges of the state's financial picture for the next two years.

Although total state spending will rise from $26 billion during the current biennium to $28 billion for 1992-94, the increase still falls short of current costs and mandates.

The Office of Planning and Budget has already asked the state's colleges and universities to draft contingency plans for cutting an additional 3 percent from operating budgets during the current fiscal year, and a 5 percent cut from operating budgets for 1992-93.

The College has met the 3 percent reduction target (about $900,000) for the current year by using budgeted contingency funds, unbudgeted revenue and vacancy savings. Next year's 5 percent reduction (about $1.5 million) "will require the College to again look at staff reductions to meet the targeted savings," said Sam Jones, associate provost, planning and budget. "Approximately 80 percent of the reduction would be met through early retirements, position eliminations, and expanded turnover and vacancy review."

To offset projected budget shortfalls in higher education, the Governor's budget authorizes the state's colleges and universities, which face additional budget cuts over the next biennium, to raise about $217 million in additional tuition and fees. The result would be that in-state tuitions would rise an average of 15 percent in 1992 and 9 percent in 1993.

Commenting on the proposal, Provost Melynn Schiavelli said that the Governor's budget represents "a fundamental shift in the responsibility for funding higher education."

"Nobody likes the prospect of tuition increases," said Schiavelli, "but we must consider the long-term effects on the state employees," said Wilder. He added that raises would be a top priority "if, somehow, additional funds were to become available for appropriation."

Under Wilder's plan, however, the state would budget $55 million to fund rising costs of the Blue Cross/Blue Shield KeyCare plan so that workers could avoid paying higher health care premiums.

Over 100 Apply For Prexy's Job

The Presidential Search Committee has received well over 100 nominations and applications, and is in the process of screening the list of candidates to a list of semifinalists who will be interviewed by the committee, according to James W. Brinkley, committee chair and vice rector of the College.

Brinkley said the candidates represent a range of qualifications, backgrounds and geographic areas. "We have heard from people in 35 states and a number of foreign countries," he said. "We couldn't ask for a better list of qualified people to choose from."

The committee had set a Jan. 2 deadline for receipt of nominations, and applications from all candidates are due by Jan. 17. The committee will meet later in the month to identify a list of semifinalists it will interview. That list will be narrowed to a list of finalists who will be invited to the campus for interviews.

Brinkley said the search process has been a smooth one so far, and praised the efforts of the committee and the College community as a whole.

"The extensive input we have had from students, faculty and staff has been very helpful," he said. "The search committee is confident about the type of individual it should be seeking, and the stature of the candidates we have is truly impressive."

Faculty, Graduate Students Contribute To Success Of Space Day Program

Several College faculty and graduate students were involved in the CTY Exploration in Space and Astronomy Day held Dec. 7 on campus. The event brought together the most talented high school science students and their parents from several East Coast states for several lecture and laboratory sessions. At the same time, their parents had the opportunity to hear experts on gifted education and science issues.

The Center for Gifted Education served as on-site host for the event, and was coordinated by Kris Bessemer, graduate student at the center. The center also organized the day's activities for parents.

Joyce VanTassel-Baska, Smith Professor of Education and director of the center, presented a session on nurturing talented students.

Mary Landrum, education professor,

Sadler Sets Deadlines For Commencement Requests

Given the proliferation of activities and requests for support services during Commencement Weekend, the Commencement Committee is again working to coordinate arrangements for the weekend; the goal being to insure that all events can be successfully accommodated. Chairman W. Sam Sadler, vice president for student affairs, has asked that all events occurring during the Commencement Weekend, May 8-10, be scheduled through his office.

Forms have been sent to deans, directors and department heads, to list activity requests. These forms are due in Sadler's office by Friday, Jan. 17.

Sadler anticipates completing the final schedule for Commencement by Feb. 9. Due to the printing schedule, changes cannot be accommodated after that date.

Questions concerning commencement activity request forms should be addressed to Sadler or his assistant Ginger Ambler at ext. 11236.

Children's Art Classes At Muscarelle

In-person registration for the spring session of the Muscarelle Museum of Art's Gallery/Studio Program will be held from 10 a.m. to noon, Saturday, Feb. 1 in the museum galleries.

The program combines learning about works of art on display in the museum with informal studio projects.

Classes for pre-schoolers through 10th graders are scheduled for eight consecutive Saturdays beginning Feb. 15, and ending April 4. The following classes are offered:

Art Together, for ages 3-4, 9-10:30 a.m.; ages 5-6, 11 a.m.-12:30 p.m. Students, accompanied by an adult, learn about the Museum and the basic elements of art, then use these "building blocks" of art in their own creations.

Think Big for grades 1-2, meets 9-10:30 a.m. or 1:30-3 p.m. Using the special exhibition of Lila Katzen sculpture as a model, students are encouraged to think, draw, paint and sculpt on a large scale.

On the Move for grades 3-4 meets 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. or 1:30-3 p.m. Emphasis is on depicting movement in both two- and three-dimensional portraits, natural studies and abstractions using the work of Katzen and others to spur imagination.

Fun-DRAW-Mentals for grades 5-6 meets 9-10:30 a.m. or 11 a.m.-12:30 p.m. Through studying the drawings of Bernard Chaet and Lila Katzen on display, students explore various drawing techniques and enhance their own style.

Landscape: East and West for grades 7-10 meets 11 a.m.-12:30 p.m. Japanese, European and American prints and paintings on display are the inspiration for learning about Eastern and Western brushstrokes and creative processes.

The final day of classes, April 4, will be highlighted by a Kiddie Konzert at noon featuring popular favorites performed by The Gallery Players. The public is invited to this free performance. The audience, both children and adults, will have an opportunity to learn about the instruments and the players.

If classes are not filled during registration on Feb. 1, in-person enrollment will continue through Monday, Feb. 10. The cost is $20 per student; however, scholarships are available upon request in cases of financial need.

For further information about the Gallery/Studio Program, call the Education Office at ext. 12703. This program is sponsored, in part, by the Williamsburg Arts Commission.

Parker Wins Decal Drawing

At left, Loretta Early, president of HACE, and William F. Merck, vice president for administration, conduct a drawing for a parking decal. The paid-for parking decal was part of the incentive to United Virginia Campaign contributors. The College met and passed its goal of $50,000 and raised $53,560.60. The winner of the drawing is Frances Parker (above) of the housekeeping department. Parker is delighted with her prize, the first she has ever won, she says. Her prize decal will cover the next school year.

Drapers' Gift

Drapers' exchange scholar is Littleton Tazewell of Norfolk, who is spending the year at QMW pursuing an LL.M. degree. Currently in residence at Marshall-Wythe from QMW is Tara Lohead.

In the early days of the exchange, one William and Mary graduating senior was provided with the cost of room, board and tuition for two years while working toward another undergraduate or graduate degree. In turn, the College covered the expenses of a British student chosen by the Drapers' Company, who was usually a freshman. In the 1970s until its suspension, the program was expanded to include two American and two British students each year.

The first William and Mary student selected for the Drapers' exchange was Richard Prosl, now associate professor of computer science at the College.

The Drapers' exchange was administered at the College through the years by faculty advisers, including the late Cecil McCulley, professor of English emeritus, and the late W. Melville Jones, former W&M vice president. Jones was selected a freeman of the Drapers' Company in 1970, one of the very few outside the United Kingdom to receive the honor.

ROTC Cadets Receive Awards For Military Skills And Leadership

At the close of the fall semester, the ROTC program recognized students who excelled in military skills and leadership during the summer.

The Byron Morrow Speer Memorial Award was presented to Cadet Charles R. Bowery. This award recognizes excellence in leadership, motivation, patriotism and soldiering skills as evinced by Byron Morrow Speer, a 1965 graduate of the College who was killed in action on June 13, 1967, in Vietnam while leading a Marine platoon. The award was established by Speer's fraternity brother and roommate, John Bane, an attorney.

Certificates for completion of the course in Army parachute training conducted at Fort Benning, Ga., were presented to the following cadets: Edward B. Bestic, Christopher D. Booth, Kirby A. Brendsel, Daniel F. Connors, Robert A. Dawson, Peter R. DeMallie, Kimberly J. Hamilton, Steven P. Mars, Russell A. McClintock, Elizabeth S. Olesch, Michael R. Smythers, John S. Sweeney, William R. Tucker and Wesley C. Watkins.

A certificate for completion of the rigorous 12-day course in air assault training at Fort Campbell, Ky., was presented to Cadet William S. Moe.

The department of military science recognizes those cadets who score exceptionally high on their semi-annual physical fitness test. The following ca-cadets received awards: Brian P. Bailey, Charles R. Bowery, Mijiko A. Holm, William S. Moe, James M. Phelps, John D. Balbach, Steven P. Mars, Peter R. DeMallie, Christopher M. Schaft and Mark N. Tuggle. ROTC Recondo insignias were presented to Cadets Charles R. Bowery, Mijiko A. Holm, Grace L. Martindale, Elizabeth S. Olesch, Shawn W. Overbey, James M. Phelps, Andrew C. Skinner and Aaron B. Stevens.

The following cadets, who demonstrated proficiency in land navigation were presented with Department of the Army certificates of achievements: Laura J. Heath, Mijiko A. Holm, Shawn W. Overbey, Andrew C. Skinner and Suzanne R. Todd.

The Honor Platoon award was presented to Cadet Mark N. Tuggle.

Ranger Challenge Awards were presented to Cadets John D. Balbach, Daniel F. Connors, Robert A. Dawson, Peter R. DeMallie, Steven P. Mars, Russell A. McClintock, William S. Moe, Stephen R. Rosenkranz, Jon D. Satko and Christopher M. Schaft.

Three-year Army scholarships were presented to Brian P. Bailey, Craig B. Birgfeld, Jonathan E. Borg-Breen, Julie M. Williams, Kristine L. Coan, Michele M. Niles and Jon D. Satko. These scholarships are awarded annually based on a nationwide competition.

NOTES

Jamestown Tours

Jamestown Settlement's outdoor living history areas, closed to the general public on a trial basis last January and February, will remain open this winter. Through Feb. 15, guided tours of the museum's re-created 17th-century fort, ships and Powhatan Indian village will be conducted once an hour. One costumed interpreter will be stationed in each of the areas. Visitors can elect to participate on a tour or explore on their own. Full interpretive staffing will resume Feb. 16. For more information, call the Jamestown Settlement at 229-1607 or the Yorktown Victory Center at 887-1776.

Williamsburg Symphonia Salutes Mozart

The Williamsburg Symphonia will celebrate the life and work of Mozart on the occasion of his 236th birthday, Jan. 27, with an AT&T-sponsored concert at 8:15 p.m., Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. The conductor will be Frank Collura. Jorge Aguirre, a regular player with the Symphonia, will be featured soloist for Mozart's Violin Concerto No. 4.

Tickets are $12 for adults; $11 for senior citizens; and $6 for students and may be reserved by calling 229-9857. Tickets may be purchased in advance at Suzi's Art Supplies in the Williamsburg Crossing Shopping Center.

In case of snow the concert will be held Jan. 28.

The Williamsburg Symphonia's 1991-92 season, "A Touch of Classics," is funded in part by the Williamsburg Area Arts Commission, the York County Arts Commission and the Virginia Commission for the Arts

Admission to individual talks, $6 at the door. Call 595-0368 for information.

Swem Launches New Electronic Information Service

Users of the College's Computer systems can now request information from Swem Library by using electronic mail. Swem's Documents and Reference departments have established electronic mailboxes to accept and respond to users' questions.

Information about the mailboxes is available on the VM system by entering the command HELP LIBRARY. The commands HELP LIBOC and HELP LIBREF will retrieve information about these respective mailboxes.

Users of RICEMAIL on VM can send a question to either mailbox by issuing the command MAIL LIBDOC or the command MAIL LIBREF. (Users of systems other than VM may need to add the WMVMI node name for BITNET access or the WMVMI.CC.WM.EDU node name for Internet access, e.g. MAIL LIBREF AT WMVMI)

Questions of a factual nature, questions that can be answered by recommending several items from the Swem collection and questions about Swem's holdings are germane to the mailboxes. For example, appropriate questions for LIBDOC include "What is the population of Williamsburg?" or "Who is the Secretary of Labor?" or "Does the Documents Department have any information on solid waste management in Virginia?" Questions relating to government affairs should be directed to the LIBDOC mailbox.

Questions relating to other areas should be directed to LIBREF. For example, appropriate questions for LIBREF include "Does the library have any historical atlases of the Middle East?" or "When was Thoreau's Walden published?" or "What does the nautical term warping mean?" (Questions whose answers involve extensive research in a number of sources cannot be answered through e-mail; these should be asked in person.)

A distinct advantage of using these mailboxes is that users can submit questions any time of the day or night, even when the library is closed. Library staff will make every effort to reply to questions submitted to these mailboxes within a day. However, response time will be affected by occasional holiday or weekend closing when classes are not in session.

For further information about LIBDOC send e-mail to Alan Zoellner, Documents Librarian (AFZOEL@WMVMI) or call ext. 13065. For further information about LIBREF send e-mail to Don Welsh, Reference Coordinator (DJWELS@WMVMI) or call ext. 13068.

Alumnus Heads Capriole Board

Capriole, the Ensemble in Residence, will present concerts in Williamsburg Feb. 6 and March 15; and in Norfolk Feb. 3 and March 16.

The Board of Capriole is headed by alumnus Joe Brinkley, who has had a life-long interest in the arts beginning with his appearances as a singer-actor in "The Common Glory" in 1947-49.

When he and his wife retired to Williamsburg last year, he continued that interest by becoming president of the board of Capriole, ensemble-in-residence.

Brinkley has enjoyed a successful career at the executive management level for several organizations. He became a consultant to the arts in 1988.

In 1972 he became President and chairman of the Oratorical Society of New York, a post he continues to hold. During that time he has produced four programs each year in Carnegie Hall and arranged for 60 singers to tour Europe each year. He has been a Fellow of the Metropolitan Opera since 1983.

In 1981 he became director-secretary-treasurer of the Early Music Foundation. In that position he produced six programs in New York each year, an annual national tour and semi-annual international ones. Since 1980 he has been director-vice president of the Aldeburgh Festival in Suffolk, England.

Capriole's February concerts in Williamsburg and Norfolk will feature the "Dance and Music of Versailles" with a return performance by Baroque dancer Paige Whitley-Bauguess. The group's March program, titled "Birthday Celebration for Claudio Monteverdi," will feature counter tenor Derek Lee Ragin. Gayle Johnson is artistic director.

Ticket information for Capriole concerts may be obtained by calling 220-1248.

Greenhouse Benefits From Volunteers

The College is fortunate to be the recipient of services provided by a group of greenhouse volunteers. These volunteers share a common interest in plants, and have a sincere commitment to serving their community. Greenhouse volunteers bring a wide range of experiences and talents to the verdant environment atop Millington Hall. A flexible greenhouse program does not interfere with the busy schedule of the volunteers. This congenial group pursues routine tasks such as cleaning, potting, trimming and yellow-leaf removal, with non-routine enthusiasm. They also provide bags of cuttings for activities, including Family Weekend and Homecoming, and potting plants to groups such as the local school Science Fair as well as any services which can be provided because volunteers are willing to provide them. The contributions of Betty West, Ruth Maruca, Madaline Watins, Lucy King, Marty MacDonald, Ann Gregory, Mary Ruth Murnelstein, Audrey Hoitsma and Henry Smith are greatly appreciated.

Scouts Joey Isbell and David Thurston display some of the debris they removed from the Goodwin Islands during the Dec. 7 cleanup.

Goodwin Islands Cleanup Efforts Continue

The cleanup of the Goodwin Islands National Estuarine Research Reserve continues. Mountains of trash have been collected.

According to a press release by Bland Crowder at VIMS, 18 volunteers collected almost 1,900 items totaling 700 pounds on Saturday, Dec. 7.

The York County Boy Scout Troop 123, reports Crowder, took the lead in the seventh quarterly estuarine debris cleanup, sponsored by VIMS through the Chesapeake Bay National Estuarine Research Reserve System in Virginia. It was part of a volunteer-driven study of the types and seasonal occurrence of garbage on U.S. beaches.

Volunteers will clean the Goodwin Islands again in March. Volunteers should call Crowder at 642-7135 for details.

The Goodwin Islands, located in York County at the mouth of the York River, are owned by the College. Along with three other sites in the York River basin, the islands were designated as a National Estuarine Research Reserve in June.
