WILLIAM & MARY

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER FOR FACULTY, STUDENTS AND STAFF

NEWS

VOLUME XXI, NUMBER 21 • WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 26, 1992

Schiavelli Invites Students To The Brafferton

Acting President Mel Schiavelli has scheduled a Student Open House at 4 p.m. today in the Brafferton.

Open Houses are also scheduled for 4 p.m. on March 18 and 30.

Each student will be allotted 10 minutes and appointments will be given on a first-come, first-served basis. There will be no telephone appointments taken, and once six students have signed up, no more names will be taken for that date. Several students may wish to come together for a 10-minute visit.

Students are asked to sign up in Room 3 of the Brafferton between 3 and 4 p.m. on the date of the Open house they wish to attend.

For further information call Mary Anderson in the Brafferton, ext. 11693.

Cultural Awareness Events Begin Tonight In Trinkle

"Cultural Awareness Days," sponsored by the Student Association, will open tonight with "A Campus of Difference," a multicultural workshop developed by the Anti-Defamation League to combat prejudice and racism on college campuses at 6 p.m. in Trinkle Hall.

The program will also include a foreign film festival Thursday, noon to 9 p.m. in the Campus Center and Washington Hall, and an international fashion show in the Little Theatre of the Campus Center from 6 to 7 p.m.

The final event will be a "Cultural Extravaganza" from 1 to 6 p.m. in the Campus Center.

For further information, contact Jen Page at ext. 15705.

St. David's Day

David Jenkins, professor of English and a Welsh scholar, will mark St. David's Day, honoring the patron saint of Wales, with a "modest celebration," which will convene under the South portico of the Wren Building at 12:30 p.m. on Sunday, March 1.

The public is invited to attend.

Jenkins will deliver an encomium on Goronwy Owen, the 18th-century Welsh bard who taught at William and Mary. Jenkins will defend Owen from charges of being a "sour Welshman." Poetry and song will also be included in the program.

For further information, call Bob Jeffrey at ext. 14084.

Public Invited To Weekend Sessions

Latin American Diplomats Meet Feb. 28, 29

The future of Latin America will be examined by high-ranking diplomats from the region during four sessions on Friday and Saturday, Feb. 28 and 29. The public is invited to attend.

Ruben Ricupero, ambassador from Brazil, will discuss "The Bush Initiative: The Commercial Integration of Latin America" at 3 p.m. Friday. He will be followed by Eduardo MacGillycuddy, ambassador from Uruguay, who will discuss "Current Relations between the United States and Latin America" at 4:15 p.m. Both sessions will be in Ewell Recital Hall.

Miguel Angel Salaverria, ambassador from El Salvador, will discuss "The Recent Accords between the Government of El Salvador and the FMLN" at 10 a.m. Saturday in the Dodge Room, PBK.

He will be followed by an ambassadors' roundtable in the same room at 11 a.m. Joining Salaverria, Ricupero and MacGillycuddy will be Ambassador José del Carmen Ariza of the Dominican Republic, Ambassador Simón Alberto Consalvi of Venezuela, Ambassador Ernesto Palazio of Nicaragua, Ambassador Jorge Ramón Hernández Alcerro of Honduras, Ambassador Jaime Ford Boyd of Panama, Ambassador Patricio Silva of Chile, Ambassador Gonzalo J. Facio of Costa Rica and Antonio Capello Faccinni, chargé d'affaires for Colombia.

Moderator for the roundtable will be John Lynch, James Pinckney Harrison Professor of History. The ambassadors were invited by the Latin American Studies Club. Their visit is being sponsored by the club, the office of the Vice President for Student Affairs, the office of the President and the Reves Center for International Studies.

Band Concert Set For March 5

The William and Mary Concert Band, Laura Rexroth conductor, will feature the music of Richard Wagner, Charles Ives, Girolama Frescobaldi, Eliot Del Borgo, Julius Fucik and William Grant Still at its winter concert at 8 p.m., Thursday, March 5 in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

There is no admission charge for the concert.

The band will open with Wagner's Overture to "Rienzi." Jennifer Dundas, a senior from Dover, Pa., will conduct the band for the "Florentiner March" by Czech composer Julius Fucik. Still's "Little Red School House" is a five-movement suite, each movement portraying a classmate personality from Still's childhood.

An emotionally powerful work, "Do Not Go Gentle Into That Good Night," by American composer Del Borgo, will open the second half of the concert. This piece recreates the essence of the Dylan Thomas poem in sound. Frescobaldi's stately "Tocatta" features rich sounds from the woodwind and brass sections. Final selection of the concert will be the witty "March: Omega Lambda Chi" by Ives.

Band members are drawn from all departments and divisions of the College. The Band brings together talented wind, brass and percussion players to perform wind ensemble and symphonic band music from the 16th to the 20th century.

Pre-registration Forms

Fall 1992 pre-registration materials for currently enrolled undergraduates will be available in the lobby area of Blow Hall from March 16 to March 25.

Course request forms must be returned to the Office of the University Registrar no later than March 25.

Women's Issues Group Sponsors Poetry Readings

The Women's Issues Group is having a poetry reading at 6:30 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 27, in the Charles Center, in celebration of Black History Month.

Those planning to attend are invited to bring and read their favorite poems by black women authors. Refreshments will be served.

Theatre Opens 'Noises Off' Thursday

Volunteer Student Callers Ring Up Record Phonathon

By Sara Piccini
University Relations

All circuits are busy most nights in the third-floor "phone room" of James Blair Hall, the home of the William and Mary phonathon. Things have been so busy, in fact, that the phonathon recently set a new single-week record. In the week preceding Charter Day, alumni and parents contacted by student callers pledged a total of $60,846 for the William and Mary Annual Fund.

"That's easily double anything we've done in the past three years, and by far the biggest single-week total we've had since starting the program," says Karen Coltrane '87, director of the Annual Fund. Over 40 percent of those who pledged increased their pledge amount from previous years, Coltrane adds. Donors also set a record for a single night: $19,634.

According to Chris Bracken, who began work as associate director of the Annual Fund on Jan. 16, the phonathon program works so well because of the personal contact made between student callers and alumni. In fact, the success of the year-long phonathon has led the Annual Fund staff to decrease the number of mailings it sends.

Student callers are on the phone for two hours a night, Sunday through Thursday. "Students are quickly finding out this is the best job on campus," Bracken says. "There's now a waiting list of applicants."

This year for the first time two students, seniors Danielle Riley and Lori Stevens, are managing the callers each night. Stevens says the students always find something interesting to talk about with alumni. She recalls one night last year when she'd spoken to an alumna who had lived in her room in 1943. Stevens adds that her experience has given her a real appreciation of the importance of alumni support through the phonathon. "I'm proud to help raise money for education, especially for William and Mary, and I'm glad the phonathon has gotten big enough to really make a difference."

The 1991-92 phonathon will continue through the end of the spring semester. All pledges will go toward the College's Annual Fund, which aims to raise $1.35 million in unrestricted funds this fiscal year. Annual Fund dollars are the College's largest source of unrestricted funds. To date, over $800,000 has been raised. "Our record-breaking week shows that every pledge counts," Coltrane says. "Thanks to everyone who made it happen!"

VIMS Update

Children Studying 'What's In Our Water?'; Crafters Sought For Environmental Quilt

By Bland Crowder
VIMS/School of Marine Science

Earth is becoming a smaller place for area students, as fourth-, fifth- and sixth-graders study the source and quality of their tapwater, and then use a computer to share their data with students in other states and perhaps other countries.

Between now and April 3 they are participating in a study, "What's In Our Water?" part of the National Geographic Kids Network.

In Williamsburg, participating students include 68 sixth-graders at James Blair Middle School, taught by Linda Liebler; and 52 fifth-graders at Waller Mill Elementary School, taught by Judy Kovak and Millie Besnier. Other participants include students at Hamilton-Holmes Elementary School, King William County; and Achilles Elementary School, Gloucester County.

The programs are sponsored by the Chesapeake Bay National Estuarine Research Reserve System in Virginia at VIMS/School of Marine Science, Gloucester Point. Forty schools across the country are participating in the Kids Network.

With "What's In Our Water?" students learn about our most important natural resource—water—and consider solutions to pollution. They study local watersheds and learn where their school is getting the water they drink. And they analyze their tapwater for nitrate-pollutants that come from agricultural fertilizers and other sources.

Using their classroom computers, they share their findings with their research team, which comprises other classes participating in the unit. The environment is a main concern of the National Estuarine Research Review Program and "What's In Our Water?" helps demonstrate to students how important and how limited our water resources are.

Virginia's first four research reserves were dedicated in June 1991. The sites are in the York River basin, one in each county in which the reserves are sponsoring "What's In Our Water."

The research reserves are preserved for estuarine research, education and interpretive activities. They are managed by the College through VIMS and funded by the State, NOAA and private donors.

Quilters Sought

If your hobby is applique, embroidery, stitching or quilting, there's an exciting new opportunity for your skills. The Chesapeake Bay National Estuarine Research Reserve System in Virginia is looking for a few nimble-fingered volunteers to help create an environmental theme quilt. The quilt will be auctioned off Sept. 19 as part of the 1992 Estuaries Day festivities at York River State Park. Proceeds will benefit educational programs of the research reserves.

With the theme "Marsh Into Spring," the quilt will feature plants and animals seen on a springtime visit to a freshwater marsh. The quilt will be made of natural fibers.

Quilt volunteers will meet at research reserve headquarters at VIMS, Gloucester Point, on any of three Wednesday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m.; March 11, April 8 and May 6. Take-home assignments will be encouraged.

For more information, call Carolyn Gardner at 804/642-7315.

Governor's School Seeks Residential Advisers

The Governor's School for the Gifted in Science, which will be held on campus June 21 to July 18, is seeking residential advisers.

These are paid positions ($1,000) and come with lodging and meals for the four-week duration of the school.

Applicants must be at least 21 years of age prior to June 21. Prior experience in a camp or residential setting or work with gifted students is desirable but not a requirement. A residential adviser may be enrolled in one morning summer school course.

Applications are available in the Center for Gifted Education, Jones 304. Application deadline is March 2.

For further details, call Nancy Fralinger, ext. 12362, or Donna P. Owen, at home, 5-8 p.m. (804) 725-3599.

Domine Appointed To State Board

Kay J. Domine, assistant university librarian for special collections and university archivist, has been appointed by Gov. L. Douglas Wilder to a three-year term on the State Historical Records Advisory Board.

The board serves as the central advisory committee for historical records planning and related projects developed and carried out by the state. The Board may publish and sponsor surveys of conditions and needs of historical records in the state, review records and proposals by institutions, and make recommendations to the National Historical Publications and Records Commission. The members represent both public and private historical and research institutions within Virginia.

Domine has been at the College since 1974. Before coming to Williamsburg she was university archivist and special collections Librarian at Western Illinois University in Macomb, Ill.

Departments

Anthropology

Professor Mario D. Zamora has accepted an invitation to be editor of South Asian Anthropologist, an international journal published by the Sarat Chandra Roy Anthropological Institute in India. His co-editor is Mohan Gautam of the University of Leiden, The Netherlands.

Zamora has also accepted an appointment as external examiner for the Ph.D. degree in anthropology in Mysore University in India.

Classical Studies

Visiting Assistant Professor William T. Wehrle has published "Persius Semipaganus?" (Scholalia, Vol. III); and The Satiric Voice: Program, Form and Meaning in Persius and Juvenal, Alterumwissenschaftliche Texte und Studien Series (Georg Olms Verlag, Hildesheim).

Economics

Bruce Roberts, associate professor, is co-editor (with Susan Feiner of Hampton University) of a recently released volume, Radical Economics. Published by Kluwer Academic Press, the volume is the newest in the series Recent Economic Thought: Development, Tensions, Prospects. Each volume in the series presents original assessments of the current state of the literature in a particular area of economic research.

An introductory essay by the editors provides an overview of issues of current controversy among radical economists, and paired essays and commentaries by contributors provide different perspectives on particular topics, including the theory of value, feminist contributions, microfoundations, macrodynamics and international debt and development.

Music

William DeFotis, assistant professor, was present at the Cincinnati College Conservatory of Music for rehearsals and the Jan. 23 premiere of his orchestration of J.S. Bach's Prelude and Fugue in C-Sharp Minor from Book I of The Well-Tempered Clavier. He also met with student composers to discuss their work in progress.

Theatre and Speech

An essay by professor Louis E. Catron, "Using Foreshadowing to Keep Your Stories on Track," appears in The Writer's Digest Handbook of Novel Writing, a hardcover anthology recently published, containing a number of essays for writers of short stories and novels. Catron suggests a new use for the "foreshadowing" writing technique, shifting attention from the standard use to inform the reader of forthcoming events to keep the writer's focus on structure.

School of Business Administration

Wanda A. Wallace, the John N. Dalton Professor of Business Administration and associate dean for academic affairs, had her article titled "Reconsidering the Definition of Structure as It Relates to Differentiation among Public Accounting Firms," published in Auditing: Advances in Behavioral Research (Larry A. Ponemon and David R. L. Gabhart, editors, and Springer-Verlag, publishers). This is a continuing series on Recent Research in Psychology.

Wallace also presented her paper, "Methodological Implications of the Corporate Governance Mechanism—The Board of Directors" (co-authored with Karen Cravens), at the KPMG Peat Marwick Boston Accounting Research Colloquium (BARC, co-sponsored by five universities) on Feb. 7 at Bentley College.

School of Education

An article by Professor Kevin Geoffroy and Leslie Kaplan (Ed.D. in counseling 1980 and currently director of counseling in York County), "Enhancing the School Climate: New Opportunities for Counselors," has been published in Toward the Transformation of Secondary School Counseling by Coy, Cole, Huey and Lears. This anthology is a collection of significant articles from the late 1980s and early 1990s, which provides an overview of the transformation occurring in secondary school counseling today and serves as an important resource for counseling programs and practices.

The article by Geoffroy and Kaplan proposes eight roles for counselors in creating a positive school climate and emphasizes the preparation that secondary school counselors need to be effective change agents.

Marshall-Wythe School of Law

Professor Ronald H. Rosenberg recently spoke at a faculty colloquium at the Case Western Reserve Law School. His presentation was titled "Reaching the Limits of the Takings Doctrine: The Case of Lucas v. South Carolina Coastal Council."

"The Role of Precedent in Constitutional Decision-making and Theory," an article by Michael J. Gerhardt, associate professor, has been published in 60 George Washington Law Review 68.

University Relations

Director William N. Walker served as a panelist for a program titled "Case Studies: Managing a Public Relations Program in Times of Crisis" at the Council for Advancement and Support of Education (CASE) District II conference, Feb. 11 in Philadelphia.

Walker also served as a speaker on "Video Presentations and Critiques" at the CASE/National Association of Independent Schools annual conference Jan. 8 in Baltimore.

NOTES

IEAHC Seminar

"The Local Cavaliers of Charles Parish," the fourth chapter of a dissertation-in-progress on "A Community and Its Neighborhoods: Charles Parish, York County, Virginia, 1630-1740" will be presented by Julie Richter at 7:30 p.m., Monday, March 2 in the Institute of Early American History and Culture in Swem Library.

Town & Gown Lunch

Paul Whiteley, professor of government, will speak on "The United States of Europe?" at the Town & Gown lunch, Thursday, March 5, CC ballroom, 12:15 p.m.

There is a $6 fee for the lunch. Reservations are necessary and may be made by calling ext. 12640 no later than noon on the Monday preceding the lunch.

Can one person make a difference?

Design by Anne Turner '93

Omicron Delta Kappa leadership fraternity is sponsoring a drive to help the needy in the Williamsburg area.

ODK members will set up tables in the lobby of the Campus Center during lunch and dinner hours (11 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 5 to 7 p.m.), seeking donations to help buy food for FISH and provide funds for needed clothing at agencies of the Peninsula food bank.

Farm Fresh Supermarkets are assisting with the purchase of food for FISH.

Solicitation begins today and continues through Wednesday, March 4.

Writing Contest

The committee for the Literary Festival will award four prizes in conjunction with the festival to be held April 8-10. Prizes will be given for a short story, a poem and a work in any genre.

Works should be submitted to Tucker 102 by 5 p.m., March 16.

Awards will include the Society of the Alumni Prize for one poem and one short story, $100 each; the Tiberius Gracchus Jones Literary Prize for work in any genre, $100; and another prize by the American Poetry Society for a poem, $100.

Contestants must be undergraduate students at the College and entries are limited to one in each genre per contestant.

For details, call ext. 13945.

Sportsmanship Day

In honor of National Sportsmanship Day, March 3, the Kinesiology Majors Club has developed the following code of sportsmanship to help guide all participants in athletic activity on March 3 and thereafter:

1. Be a humble winner and a gracious loser.
2. Respect your opponent.
3. Honor the rules of the game.
4. Maintain the spirit of friendly competition.
5. Conduct yourself in a manner that maintains the integrity of the sporting event.
6. Act so that the match is enjoyable for all.
7. Keep your language free from vulgarities.
8. Maintain a safe sporting environment.

Commonwealth Seminar

Deborah J. Conn, Charles Warren Fellow at Harvard University, will speak on "Revolt Against a Miserable Present: William James, Anarchism and the Secular Salvation of the World," at a Commonwealth Center for the Study of American Culture seminar at 5 p.m., Thursday, March 5, in the Botetourt Theatre of Swem Library.

This seminar will explore the increasingly anti-institutional and anarchistic turn in the thought of American philosopher/psychologist William James during the late 1890s. Coon will argue that the writing of his last decade, including the Varieties of Religious Experience, Pragmatism and miscellaneous philosophical essays, can best be understood as the culmination of a process of radicalization as James responded to and interpreted the Spanish-American War, continued U.S. involvement in the Philippines and other socio-political events of his day.

Melosik To Visit Campus March 5

The School of Education and the Wendy and Emery Reves Center for International Studies will host the campus visit of Zbyszko Melosik, assistant professor of comparative education, Adam Mickiewicz University, Poznan, Poland.

Melosik will give a lecture titled "Creating a Participatory Democracy in Poland: The Role of Education," at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, March 5 in the Reves Room of the Reves Center.

A reception, sponsored jointly by the Student Education Association and the Graduate Education Association, will follow Melosik's presentation.

Both the lecture and the reception are free and open to the campus community.

Melosik is spending the current academic year as a Fulbright Research Scholar at the University of Virginia.

'Noises Off' Opens Thursday

The cast members in "Noises Off" need athletic ability as well as theatrical skills. The fast-paced comedy by Michael Frayn which opened in London in 1982 relies a great deal on the agility of the actors for its success.

The story line follows a zany cast of characters through the production of a play. The audience gets to see the backstage intrigue of their lives as well as their performances on stage. The director is Richard Palmer, professor of theatre and speech.

"Noises Off" will be presented by the William and Mary Theatre at 8:15 p.m., Feb. 27, 28 and 29 and at 2 p.m., Sunday, March 1. Tickets are $5 and may be reserved by calling the box office at 221-2674.

The actors go through a complicated pattern of exits and entrances that tests their timing and athletic ability. Guest set designer Charles Bush of Williamsburg had his work cut out for him to come up with a set that was reversible. Usually the audience never sees the back of a set and the designer can concentrate on detailing only one side; in "Noises Off," both sides are used.

The harried stage manager, Tim Allgood, who is constantly on the move exiting and entering the set, trying to get an improbable group of characters on stage, on time, is played by Jamie Axtell.

The cast also includes Ali Davis, Elizabeth J. Zins, William S. Ranson, Joseph Whitmore, Terence K. McLaughlin, Lisa Rowland, Betsy Torreson and Lemuel Huntington.

Fourth 'Columbian Encounter' Lecture

The fourth lecture in a seven-part series on the "Columbian Encounter" will be delivered by William B. Taylor from the University of Virginia, an expert on the history of colonial Mexico, at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, March 5 in Washington 201.

Admission is free, and the public is invited to attend.

His talk, "Santiago and the Cristos de Caña: Colonial Religion and Quincentenary Metaphors," will focus on post-conquest America and the attempts natives made to adjust their traditional beliefs and practices to the new religion and culture of the Spanish conquerors.

Taylor is the author of the highly regarded Drinking, Homicide and Rebellion in Colonial Mexican Villages, and a forthcoming study of the clergy in 18th-century Mexico. He has also edited a soon-to-be-published volume of essays, Violence and Resistance in the Americas: The Legacy of Conquest.

Taylor is a William and Mary parent. His younger daughter is currently enrolled at the College.

Study Abroad In Australia And Canada

Applications for two new study abroad exchange programs at the University of Adelaide in Australia and McGill University in Montreal, Canada, are due March 16.

Both programs are open to all students, but are especially recommended for rising juniors. In both programs students pay tuition to William and Mary and cover their own accommodations, food, transportation and other expenses. Costs in Australia are estimated at approximately $100 per week.

The University of Adelaide's academic year runs from early March to early December. Normally William and Mary students will begin study during Adelaide's Semester II (from late July to December), take a long Australian summer break for work or travel from December through February and then complete Adelaide's Semester I.

For further information and application forms, contact the Wendy and Emery Reves Center for International Studies at ext. 13594.

'Living The Dream'

As part of the Black History Month program, sponsored by the Black Student Organization and arranged through the Office of Multicultural Affairs, Living Dream, Inc., will present an original musical play by James Chapman, "Our Young Black Men Are Dying and Nobody Seems to Care," at 8 p.m., Friday, Feb. 28 in the Campus Center ballroom. This performance is sponsored by Alpha Phi Alpha and Kappa Alpha Psi fraternities with the Black Student Organization.

Performed by a four-person black ensemble, the play runs from 45 to 60 minutes and is followed by a discussion. It traces portraits of young black men and combines entertainment with history. The Village Voice, reviewing the off-Broadway run of the play, called it one of the best plays in New York.

The play is free and open to the public.

Program on Computer Publications

HACE Meeting March 10

Dean Olson, director of the Publications Office, and Brewer Eddy, technology support, the Computer Center, will speak at the next meeting of the Hourly and Classified Employees Association (HACE) at 1 p.m., Tuesday, March 10 in Millington auditorium.

The speakers will give information on using computers to create newsletters, brochures and other presentation materials. They will also give information on the publications process and guidelines for providing better copy material.

HACE is celebrating the fifth anniversary of its Employee of the Month program, which so far has recognized more than 60 employees. Each Employee of the Month receives an engraved plaque, an honorary HACE membership for one year and a passport for two free meals at the Marketplace.

Faculty or staff may submit nominations at any time. The HACE Employee of the Month Selection Committee is comprised of faculty and HACE members. The only selection criteria used is the recommendation of the supervisor and/or fellow employees. No personal interviews are conducted, nor is any other information sought.

For nomination forms, call Loretta Early, HACE president, at the Computer Center, ext. 13002; or Debby Rorrer, personnel, ext. 13155.
