New PBK Scholarship Honors Colonel Lamb

An endowment has been established by Mr. and Mrs. William Lamb of Austin, Texas, to establish a scholarship named for a distinguished alumnus and prominent 19th-century Virginian.

The gift honors Mr. Lamb's grandfather, the late Colonel William Lamb of Norfolk (1835-1909), an editor, soldier, orator and businessman.

The recipient of the scholarship will be chosen annually by Alpha of Virginia Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa at the College from the undergraduates elected to PBK.

Colonel Lamb was one of Norfolk's foremost citizens, mayor for three terms and an influential figure in Virginia politics. He served as chairman of the Virginia Republic party.

His deeds during the Civil War made him famous as the Hero of Fort Fisher. He was a pioneer of the Norfolk and Western Railroad.

A member of the class of 1855, Colonel Lamb was valedictorian of his class and a member of Phi Beta Kappa. He was elected to the Board of Visitors on July 10, 1867, was elected Rector of the

Baxter In 'Jeopardy' Over Spring Break

Billy Baxter

Senior Billy Baxter is going to California over spring break, but not as a casual vacationer. He'll be in Los Angeles March 8 and 9 as one of 15 students from across the nation competing for a $25,000 grand prize in the 1992 "Jeopardy! College Championship," which will air in May.

If he wins, he will return to California this fall as one of 15 in the "$100,000 Tournament of Champions."

This is the second time in the tournament's four-year history that William and Mary has been represented. Two years ago Katie Polk '90 won $5,000 as a semi-finalist.

Getting on the "College Championship" is something Baxter has been working toward with steady determination for a long time.

After several tries, he was picked for preliminary tryouts in Washington, D.C., in early October. He received word just before he returned from winter break that he had passed the required three tests.

"The competition was pretty challenging," he recalls. "Of the 100 people in my test group alone, only 14 passed the 50-question quiz. Seven of these survived a mock game of 'Jeopardy!' The screening also included brief personal interviews.

Alumni Plan Gala Auction In New York

Two Win Awards In Science; Biologists To Present In New Orleans

Mary Edwards Wertsch To Open Lecture Series For Women's Studies

Two Win Space Consortium Awards

The Virginia Space Grant Consortium has announced the awarding of nine undergraduate scholarships and 10 graduate fellowships to students at five Virginia colleges and universities, including two William and Mary students. The recipients include Wendelyn Kraus of Williamsburg, an undergraduate majoring in chemistry, and Tracey Beauchat of Williamsburg, a graduate student, who is majoring in computer science.

Kraus will study the radiation effects on boron-loaded polymers with NASA Langley Research Center.

Beauchat will study a radiosity model for the voxel environment with NASA Langley Research Center.

The awards are for the 1992-93 academic year. The one-year undergraduate scholarships are valued at up to $8,500. The graduate fellowship is a $5,000 award renewable for up to three years. Space Grant scholars and fellows must be engaged in an identified research project with a faculty advisor as part of their academic program.

All awardees are enrolled in a course of study with aerospace relevance at one of the five Virginia Space Grant Colleges, which include William and Mary, Hampton University, Old Dominion University, the University of Virginia, and Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.

Other members of the Consortium are Virginia's Center for Innovative Technology, the State Council of Higher Education for Virginia, NASA Langley Research Center, the Virginia State Department of Education, the Science Museum of Virginia, the Virginia Air and Space Center, the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce, the Mathematics and Science Center, and the Virginia Center for Public and Private Initiatives.

A major goal of the Consortium is to help develop the engineers and scientists of the future. While opportunities for careers in aerospace have expanded dramatically, the number of talented students pursuing degrees in mathematics and the sciences has declined.

Another key goal of VSGC is to broaden the opportunities for all students to pursue science and aerospace careers. Since the Consortium's inception, 73 percent of scholarships and 48 percent of fellowships have been awarded to females or underrepresented minority members.

Students To Present At ASM Meeting

A group of William and Mary microbiologists have had their research accepted for presentation to the annual meeting of the American Society of Microbiology to be held in late May in New Orleans.

Tanja Dickenson, Morna Dorsey, Dorothy Fotte, Ben Haas, Sheri Tinnell and Heather Wilson of Professor Carl Vermeulen's team worked in collaboration with a group of students at the University of California at San Diego under the direction of Professor Melvin H. Green.

In the "Chemical Inhibition of L-Layer

Formation in E. coli," the group reasoned that if pathogenic bacteria encapsulate themselves in several layers of materials that protect the bacteria from being killed by our immune systems, perhaps a chemical could be found that would prevent the bacteria from being able to synthesize those layers, de facto stripping the armor from the pathogens.

A number of rather simple and inexpensive chemicals were found to be effective. Currently research progresses on expanding the number of effective chemicals in the search for those which exhibit minimal toxicity to humans.

Brown Authors Book On World Bank

Assistant Professor of Government Bartram Brown, who is currently on leave, teaching at the Kent Law School in Chicago, is the author of a new book, The United States and the Politicization of the World Bank: Issues of International Law and Policy, published by Kegan Paul International Ltd., of London, England.

Brown's study develops a legal concept of politicization applicable to international organizations. It also takes up the legality of using international aid flows as a means of economic coercion and intervention.

Because of its financial resources, the World Bank has considerable leverage over those states that borrow from it, but the Bank's charter prohibits it from engaging in political activity and directs that only economic consideration shall be relevant to its decision. Brown's case studies reveal that the United States has nonetheless been tempted to politicize the Bank by using its weighted voting power there to serve unilaterally determined political purposes.

The second part of Brown's study focuses upon legislation passed by Congress setting out how the U.S. will use its voting power. It catalogs that legislation and assesses its compatibility with the values, principles and rules of the modern international system.

Brown uses the concept of politicization to relate the legal issues he discusses to the broader political framework of multilateral cooperation and its special problems.

Galano Selected DeWitt Wallace/Readers Digest Fellow

Joseph Galano, associate professor of psychology, has been selected a DeWitt-Wallace/Readers Digest Fellow and will participate in Virginia's Collaborative Leaders Program.

The 18-month program brings together representatives of state government, education, human service agencies and the private sector to develop leadership skills and work together to solve problems facing youth and families.

The new initiative, funded by a grant from the DeWitt Wallace/Readers Digest Fund to the Institute for Educational Leadership, will focus on areas that require new levels of collaboration among government, communities and human service agencies. The program's initial activities included participation in the Washington and Richmond Policy Seminars to understand better how national and state policy activities affect children and their families.

To the College Community

It is with sadness that I report the deaths of two William and Mary students, neither of whom was enrolled at the College this semester.

Misty Lee Pepin, a junior history major from Mount Clemens, Mich., was killed in an automobile accident in France early Saturday morning. Misty was studying in the junior year abroad program in Munster and was on her way to holiday in Spain when the accident occurred.

On campus Misty was a member of Intervarsity, the club soccer program, the Recycling Club and Phi Mu sorority.

Funeral arrangements are not complete at this time but the family has indicated that services for Misty will be held either Friday or Saturday in Bangor, Pa.

The Fiori Funeral Home in Bangor (215/588-2233) can be contacted for the details.

A memorial service was scheduled at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, March 3 in the Wren Chapel.

James Stacy Johnson, a sophomore from Vinton, Va., died Sunday, March 1, following a long bout with leukemia. Because of his illness, Stacy had been unable to attend classes since last summer. A memorial service was planned for Tuesday, March 3, at 7 p.m. at Thrasher United Methodist Church in Vinton. In lieu of flowers, the family has asked that donations be made in Stacy's honor to the American Leukemia Society or to the Tercentenary Fund of the College of William and Mary in Memory of James Stacy Johnson (P. O. Box 1693, Williamsburg, Va. 23187).

Our deepest sympathies are extended to Misty and Stacy's families and to their friends.

W. Samuel Sadler

Scholarship winners Diem Nguyen and Elizabeth Pharr with Nobel laureate Gertrude Elion and Sharon Broadwater, assistant professor of biology, who coordinated Elion's visit.

Nobel Laureate Inspires Young Scientists

In honor of the visit to campus Feb. 21 of Gertrude Elion, who shared the Nobel Prize in Physiology or Medicine in 1988 for the development of drugs to combat rejection of organ transplants, leukemia, and various other diseases, two $500 scholarships were awarded to aspiring scientists from two area high schools, Diem Nguyen and Elizabeth Pharr.

Elion spoke on "The Purine Path to Chemotherapy" at a biology department seminar that was part of the Howard Hughes Medical Institute lecture series.

Diem Nguyen, daughter of Liem and Hue Nguyen of Williamsburg, is a senior at Lafayette High School. She hopes to study genetics in college.

She said she enjoyed her visit with Gertrude Elion and was particularly struck by the fact that she loved her work. Diem is very engaged in a variety of things at Lafayette. She is president of the ecology club, an editor with the yearbook, secretary of the National Honor Society, and a member of Student Academic Recognition and the French Club.

Elizabeth Pharr, daughter of Cheryl and Scott Pharr of Williamsburg, is one of the first four-year graduates of the School of the Arts Magnet School at Bruton High School. She plans to study biochemistry in college.

She is a member of the National Honor Society and is currently engaged in a mentorship program on campus in archaeology. She is a member of the Key Club and the varsity cross-country and track teams, a scholar athlete, a Virginia school nominee and a recipient of honors in forensics. She was designated Student of the Month for February by the York School Board.

"Dr. Elion is an incredible lady. I knew she was 72, but she seemed so young," said Pharr, who hopes to follow in Elion's footsteps.

The scholarship awards were made because of Elion's special interest in children. In an interview with Scientific American magazine last year, Elion said she "believes students need to be inspired long before they reach graduate school or college." She said of eight- and nine-year-olds, "They love to discover. If you can just keep them at it and make them realize what it is like, they will go into science."

Four Prizes To Be Awarded In Conjunction With Literary Festival April 8-10

The Committee for the Literary Festival will award four literary prizes in conjunction with the festival to be held on campus April 8-10.

Works should be submitted to the Secretary of the English department in Tucker 102 by 5 p.m., March 16.

The Society of the Alumni will award $100 each for one poem and one short story.

The Tiberius Gracchus Jones Literary Award provides $100 for a work in any genre.

The American Poetry Society offers $100 for a poem.

Contestants must be undergraduate students at the College and entries are limited to one in each genre per contestant.

The entries will be judged by Richard Bausch of George Mason University and poet Kenneth Koch, among others.

Awards will be made on Thursday, April 4.

For further details, call ext. 13945.

NOTES

CommonHealth Offers Series On Nutrition

CommonHealth is offering a five-session series on nutrition titled "Food for Thought."

The programs are held from 12:15 to 1 p.m., Tuesdays in Room C of the Campus Center on the following schedule:

- March 10 Rats, Those Fats!
- March 17 Shaking Off Sugar & Salt
- March 24 What's In Your Food?
- March 31 Eating Better When Eating Out

The series addresses the American diet and its relationship to individual health.

For further information, call the CommonHealth office at ext. 12776 to sign up for these classes as well as fitness classes or swim times.

Goodwin Islands Cleanup

Chris Goodwin, a Boy Scout and a junior at Tabb High School in York County, will coordinate the cleanup of the Goodwin Islands National Estuarine Research Reserve on Saturday, March 7. When the cleanup is finished that afternoon, it is expected the islands will be almost half-a-ton cleaner, and Chris will have completed requirements for his Eagle Scout Project.

Chris and his fellow scouts in York County Troop 200 will earn community service hours for their work. The cleanup is sponsored by the Virginia Institute of Marine Science/School of Marine Science through the Chesapeake Bay National Estuarine Research Reserve System.

For further information call Bland Crowder at 1-642-7135.

Capriole Program At WRL March 15

The final concert of the season by Capriole, Ensemble-in-Residence, will be a birthday celebration for composer Claudio Monteverdi at 8 p.m., Sunday, March 15 at the Williamsburg Regional Library Theatre.

Capriole focuses on the powerfully passionate music of Monteverdi with lyrical a cappella madrigals, dramatic scenes and a delightful choreographed ballo featuring Renaissance dancers in costume. (See photo p. 8).

One of the highlights of the concert will be a return engagement by countertenor Derek Lee Ragin. In addition to engagements in the United States, Ragin's engagements this season include performances in England, The Netherlands and Hungary.

Tickets are available from Beethoven's Inn and the Theatre Connection, or may be reserved by calling 220-1248.

Phone Number Corrected For Quilters

For those who want to participate in the quilting project of the Chesapeake Bay National Estuarine Research Reserve System, we wish to correct the telephone number listed in last week's William & Mary News. The correct number for information is 642-7135.

Women In The Military Series Opens March 19

Mary Edwards Wertsch '73, author of the highly successful book Military Brats: Legacies of Childhood Inside the Fortress, will be on campus Thursday, March 19, to open a three-lecture series on "Women in the Military," sponsored by the Women's Studies Program and the Commonwealth Center for the Study of American Culture.

Mary Edwards Wertsch '73

Wertsch will speak at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, March 19, in Millington auditorium. Her topic will be "Daughters of Warriors: Legacies of Growing Up in the Ultimate Patriarchy."

Wertsch was inspired to write her story of growing up in a military family after seeing the movie "The Great Santini," made from Pat Conroy's novel about a Marine Corps pilot and his family. "The overall effect on me was like being struck by a thunderbolt," recalls Wertsch. "Whole scenes, whole sections of dialogue could have been lifted right from my childhood."

The revelation that events she had considered unique to her family had obviously occurred in many others filled Wertsch with a desire to probe what it means to have roots in the military, and planted the idea for the book. It is the first book to explore the psychological legacies of growing up in the secretive, exclusive and radically different warrior subculture.

Conroy writes in his introduction to Military Brats, "I've spent my life and writing career thinking I was Southern. I know now that I'm something else entirely. I come from a country that has no name, the one that Mary Wertsch discovers in this book."

Leisa D. Meyer, of the Women's Studies Program at the University of California, Santa Barbara, will speak at 7:30 p.m., March 26 in Washington 201, on "Greeting G.I. Jane: Image v. Reality in the Experiences of Contemporary Women Soldiers."

The final lecture in the series, "Women in Combat: From West Point to Saudi Arabia," will be presented by Capt. Carol Barkalow, U.S. Army, author of In the Men's House, at 7:30 p.m., April 2 in Millington auditorium.

Scholarships Offered By Alumni Groups

Association of 1775 Commitment to Military Service Scholarship

The Association of 1775, the College's military alumni group, is now accepting applications for the Association of 1775 Commitment to Military Service Scholarship. The $500 scholarship will be awarded in May to the student who best exemplifies the goals and purposes of the Association through commitment to military service.

All full-time students at the College who will continue to be enrolled at the College in the fall 1992 semester and are currently enrolled in a precommissioning program are eligible.

Applications are available through the Office of Financial Aid, the Alumni House or by contacting Matt Ames '80, scholarship committee chairman, at 202-467-9840.

Order of the White Jacket To Award 10 $1,500 Scholarships

William and Mary students currently working in food service (or those who have previously been employed for a total of two years in food service in the Williamsburg area while attending the College) are encouraged to apply for 1992-93 OWJ scholarships. Ten $1,500 scholarships are being offered.

Applications are available from the OWJ office at the Alumni House, 500 Richmond Road, between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., or from the Office of Financial Aid in Blow Memorial Hall.

Application deadline is March 23. For more information, call ext. 11204.

Jazz Ensemble In Concert March 19

The new William and Mary Jazz Ensemble, Laura Rexroth, conductor, will perform a winter concert at 8 p.m., March 19 in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

Admission is $2 at the door.

The program will feature music made famous by well-known bands, including the Count Basie, Woody Herman, Buddy Rich and Stan Kenton bands. The concert will include such works as "My Funny Valentine," "Skylark," "Chelsea Bridge," "Anthropology" and "The Hat's On."

The William and Mary Combo from the band will perform a set of tunes in addition to the full band. Several student soloists will be spotlighted.

Now in its second year, the William and Mary Jazz Ensemble is a 23-piece big band that performs all styles of jazz. Student soloists are featured prominently.

Bucks For Books Pays Off

Athletic Director John Randolph hands University Librarian Nancy Marshall a check for over $600 for the general fund of Swem Library. The money was raised from the proceeds of ticket sales for the William & Mary-UNC-Wilmington basketball game, designated as "Bucks for Books" night.

Spencer Timm '66 Donates Checkbook From Confederate Treasury

A checkbook recording payments from the Confederate treasury for rail and steamship transport of freight and soldiers has been given to the Swem Library by Spencer Timm '66.

The checkbook was used by the treasurer of the Confederate states from January through March 1865—up until almost the day the Confederate capital of Richmond was evacuated. Check stubs record payments made to steamboat captains whose ships were chartered to sail under flags of truce. Civil war historians suggest the vessels might have been engaged to exchange prisoners of war or, perhaps, transport peace negotiators. Check stubs indicate that the Confederate government hired the steamboat Bonita three times. The last check was issued March 31 for the "flag of truce" steamer William Allison. Her captain was paid $25,050. Richmond was evacuated April 2 and 3, 1865, and the Confederate government moved by rail to Danville.

The checkbook has eight unused checks still attached. Accompanying the checkbook is a letter, dated Jan. 24, 1918, that indicates the checkbook was presented at that time to the Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States in Boston by Charles Taylor Jr. of the Boston Globe. There is no indication of how the checkbook got to Boston after the war.

The checkbook also records payments made during first three months of 1865 to nine railroads—the Danville Railroad, the Petersburg Railroad, Kings Mountain Railroad, Orange and Alexandria Railroad, Virginia and Tennessee Railroad, Georgia Railroad, Atlantic and Gulf Railroad, Piedmont Railroad and the Seaboard and Roanoke Railroad.

Payments were also made to the James River and Kanawha Canal Co., stage companies, turnpikes (for tolls) and the owner of a canal boat.

On March 21, for example, two checks totaling $34,681 were made to the Petersburg Railroad—one for the movement of freight and the other "for troops" in July and Aug. 1864. Three days later the Danville Railroad was issued two checks totaling $1.4 million.

The stubs of the first three checks issued in January were missing. The record of payment for checks No. 4 through 75, however, is complete.

"This checkbook may give Civil War historians a better understanding of how the South depended on railroads to move men and materiel in the closing months of the war," said John Haskell, associate university librarian. "We are indeed grateful to Spencer Timm for his contribution to the College's growing manuscript collection relating to the Civil War."

REMINDERS

Because there will not be an issue of the William and Mary News on March 11 during Spring Break the list of reminders is longer than usual and includes events occurring during the week of March 16.

March 4

Today is the final day of the Omicron Delta Kappa fundraiser to provide food for FISH and a donation to Peninsula clothing banks. A table will be set up in the lobby of the Campus Center during the dinner hour from 5 to 7 p.m. Farm Fresh Supermarkets are assisting the fraternity in their drive to provide food to FISH.

March 5

Commonwealth Center seminar: Deborah Coon, Charles Warren Center, Harvard University, "William James as Anarchist," 5 p.m., Botetourt Theatre, Swem Library.

The fourth lecture in the "Columbian Encounter" series will be given at 7:30 p.m. in Washington 201 by William B. Taylor from the University of Virginia. His topic is "Santiago and the Cristo de Cana: Colonial Religion and Quincenary Metaphors."

William and Mary Band, Laura Rexroth conductor, 8 p.m. Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. Free.

March 6

Applications are due for student assistants to work with the Keio-W&M Summer Program July 24 to Aug. 7. Applications are available in Washington 123 and are to be placed in Professor Tomoko Hamada's mailbox in the anthropology department in Washington Hall today. For details call Hamada at ext. 11060 or Gretchen Schoel at 565-1346.

March 16

Pre-registration forms available in the lobby of Blow Memorial Hall March 16-25. Requests due in Registrar's Office by March 26.

March 18

Acting President Melvyn Schiavelli invites students to come by and chat informally about issues that concern them. from 4-5 p.m. Sign up from 3-4 p.m. in Room 3 of The Brafferton. For details call Mary Anderson at ext. 11693.

March 19

"Columbian Encounter" lecture series. Newton Professor of History Judith Ewell, "Madness, Civilization, and the Quincenary: The Conquistador of El Dorado."

Latin American Ambassadors Meet Here

John Lynch, James Pinckney Harrison Professor of History, listens to Ambassador Juan Caso Fajul of Guatemala discuss the relationship between Latin America and the United States during a roundtable session Saturday. The roundtable was the last part of a two-day summit which brought ambassadors from 11 Latin American nations to the College. The ambassadors discussed a wide range of topics, from the future of Fidel Castro in Cuba to the negotiated peace accord in El Salvador. The event was organized by the Latin American Club, with the Reves Center for International Studies and the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation. (Photo by VISCOM/Gleason).

Permission For Summer School Courses To Be Transferred From Other Schools

Students wishing to take courses in summer school at other institutions and to have that credit transfer to William and Mary must have permission from the Office of Academic Advising prior to enrolling in these courses.

Students should obtain permission before they leave William and Mary in May. Appropriate forms are available in the academic advising office (Ewell 127).

Students who wish to take summer courses elsewhere, which meet for fewer than four weeks or 37.5 contact hours, must petition the Committee on Degrees (see below) and include with the petition a completed summer session elsewhere form, course description, course evaluation by the appropriate W&M department chairperson, and a statement in the petition dealing with the educational value of that particular course in the student's four-year education plan.

Retroactive permission to transfer credit for summer school courses taken at other institutions will not be granted.

Committee on Degrees Petitioners

The Committee on Degrees will meet on March 17, April 14 and April 28. These will be the only regular meetings before fall semester 1992. All undergraduates who plan to petition for waivers of, or changes in, degree requirements must do so no later than March 10 (for the March 17 meeting), April 7 (for the April 14 meeting), or April 21 (for the April 28 meeting).

Petition forms are available from Mrs. Crouch in the office of the dean of undergraduate studies (Ewell 123).

All petitions must be typed and must be accompanied by a letter from the appropriate department chairperson.

Greenhouse Volunteers

Society Of The Alumni Gala

Auction Weekend Planned March 13-15 In New York

By Virginia Collins
Director Alumni Communications
Society of the Alumni

From vacation packages to artwork to movie memorabilia, the 1992 William and Mary New York Auction Weekend scheduled for March 13-15 offers something for everyone. It's not too late for alumni, friends and members of the William and Mary community to register for the Friday evening auction at Christie's and related weekend activities. If a trip to New York is just not possible, however, you can still join in the excitement. Through Thursday, March 12, absentee bids may be submitted for any of the more than 70 unique items donated by alumni, friends and businesses across the country.

Bidders may choose from among such exhibition lots as a 14-day Danube River Cruise, an authentic schoolmaster's desk from the Wren Building or a collector's edition of Peter and Wendy, autographed by stars from the adventure movie "Hook," including Glenn Close, Robin Williams and Dustin Hoffman. Exciting vacation packages, exclusive collector's artwork and unique William and Mary gifts and memorabilia are some of the featured items that will be available at both the live and silent auction immediately preceding it.

Actress Glenn Close, a member of the Class of 1974, is serving as honorary chair of the event. She has donated several items, including her personal full-length ranch mink coat and the headboard from the movie, "The Big Chill," in which she starred with Kevin Kline.

Coordinated by the Society of the Alumni in conjunction with members of the Society's New York City, northern New Jersey and southern Connecticut alumni chapters, the auction weekend also includes a Saturday matinee performance of Broadway's "Dancing at Lughnasa" and an elegant dinner/dance afloat New York City's waterways, sponsored by World Yacht, on Saturday evening.

Proceeds from the auction will fund the New York City alumni chapter's gift to the Campaign for the Fourth Century: $100,000 to be divided equally among the Althea Hunt and Howard Scammon Theatre Endowment, the Society of the Alumni Chapter Programming Endowment and a student scholarship endowment.

The auction, which began as a New York City alumni chapter event in 1984, has grown in scope to include donors and participants from all over the country. More than 450 alumni and friends of the College attended the last New York Auction in 1990, and nearly $42,000 was raised.

For further information about the auction weekend and to obtain an auction catalog with an absentee bidding form, call the Society of the Alumni at ext. 11173. Catalogs are $10 each.

Bells Will Ring, Traffic Will Stop; Lord Botetourt Gets Buried Again

By Jim Bradley
Colonial Williamsburg Communications

The citizens of the restored 18th-century capital of Colonial Williamsburg are burying their beloved governor again 222 years after his death.

Colonial Williamsburg re-enacts the state funeral of royal Governor Norborne Berkeley, the Baron de Botetourt, March 7. Botetourt served as Governor General of the Colony from 1768 to 1770.

Led by a horse-drawn hearse laden with a black-draped coffin, at 2:15 p.m. the funeral cortege proceeds from the Governor's Palace to the Wren Building at the College of William and Mary. The solemn event re-enacts rites described in a 1770 edition of The Virginia Gazette. The funeral is part of the soldout 1992 Learning Weekend program, "Life Passages: Birth, Marriage and Death in Colonial Virginia."

As horses adorned in black plumage draw the hearse along the west side of Palace Green, costumed residents will leave their shops and homes to join the mourners. The procession will move along Duke of Gloucester Street westward to the Wren Building. Learning Weekend participants will form the core of the procession, portraying official mourners.

The occasion will be marked by bells ringing in unison at Bruton Parish Church, the Capitol and the Wren Building at 2:15 and 3:20 p.m. and observance of an 18th-century tradition, distribution of funeral biscuits to participants.

To minimize modern intrusion, Williamsburg City police will close intersections at Nassau Street and Henry Street and a portion of Jamestown Road to allow the cortege to pass.

A file photo of Lord Botetourt's statue in front of the Wren Building before it was moved to Swem Library.

Lord Botetourt in his current location in the Boettourt Gallery of Swem Library.

To augment the re-enacted funeral, special interpretations about the significance of death in the 18th century are offered at several sites. The interpretations are open to ticketed visitors and Learning Weekend participants at the Courthouse, Brush-Everard House, Pasteur-Galt Apothecary, Anthony Hay Cabinetmaking Shop, George Wythe House Laundry, Gold Ball silversmith, and the Millinery. In addition, a special exhibition of prints and artifacts will be at the Wallace Gallery.

Christopher Wren Association Begins Publication Of Newsletter for Members

There's a new publication on campus. Volume I, Number 1 of CWA News, detailing the activities of the Christopher Wren Association for Lifelong Learning, debuted last week.

Now in its third semester, CWA has 180 members enrolled, of whom 48 are new. The program committee is already at work on a list of courses for the fall semester. An appreciation lunch for volunteer instructors will be held March 27.

Election of new officers and changes in by-laws will be brought up at the membership meeting at 4 p.m., April 8. A wine-and-cheese reception will follow the session. Ruth Kernodle currently chairs the Board. Ruth and her husband, Wayne Kernodle, were founders of CWA. Both are professors emeriti of sociology—Ruth from Christopher Newport College, Wayne from William and Mary.

Spring activities also include a retreat at Chanco Conference Center, April 21-22, and a day trip to Chrysler Museum, Waterside and Norfolk Botanical Garden, April 28.

The first newsletter includes a two-page survey by the College relations committee of CWA. Chair Carl Brown explains that the committee is seeking ways to reciprocate the support and assistance being offered by the College to CWA. The Wightman Cup Room in William and Mary Hall has been made available to CWA for class sessions and meetings.

The Christopher Wren Association has renewed its membership in the Elderhostel Institute Network. Membership advantages include eligibility for special overseas travel, domestic programs arranged especially for network members and advice and information from the network office.

For detailed information on CWA courses, call the CWA office, ext. 11079. The office is located in James Blair 308B.

Rettig Edits New Book Giving Behind-The-Scenes Look At Reference Publishing

The success of which single reference work built an entire publishing company?

What popular reference book originated out of the need to settle bar bets?

How did Bartlett's Familiar Quotations, Black's Law Dictionary and The Chicago Manual of Style come into prominence?

The answer to these and many more questions come from "inside stories" in a new book, Distinguished Classics of Reference Publishing, edited by James Rettig of the Swem Library staff.

In fascinatingly informative essays, the book presents behind-the-scenes stories of three major English-language reference books, from concept to completion. The book explains how these notable reference works have evolved to become the select and essential information sources used by librarians and library patrons today.

The chapters are alphabetically organized by the titles of the books. Each article explores the origin of and persons behind the book, lists the book's publication history, influence, present editorial practices and future directions, and includes a bibliography.

The book also includes a compilation of more than 1,250 short chapter notes, profiles on each of the essay contributors and a subject index.

Rettig, assistant university librarian for reference and information services, is a member of the American Library Association's Reference and Subscription Books Review Committee and the editor/author of the "Current Reference Books" column of the Wilson Library Bulletin.

He has reviewed nearly 2,000 new reference books since 1981. In 1988, the ALA's Reference and Adult Services Division awarded Rettig the Isadore Gilbert Citation for "distinguished contribution to reference librarianship."

Rettig authored one chapter in the book, as did John R. M. Lawrence, reference and interlibrary loan librarian at Swem.

Billy Baxter Heading For California And Date On National TV

"Needless to say, I was shocked when I received the magic telephone call," said Baxter. "This has been my fourth year as a national finalist. It was all the more meaningful because I was in my final year of eligibility for the college competition."

In preparation for the show, Baxter says, he is browsing through trivia books and almanacs to work on quick recall of facts. "I certainly do not plan to memorize the entire world in a matter of weeks," he quipped. Baxter also plans to watch current shows and study the strategies of successful contestants.

Baxter got good early training for his latest challenge as captain of the "Battle of the Brains" team from the Collegiate School in Richmond for three years and as a three-year veteran of the "College Bowl." "Hopefully, some of those experiences will come in handy," he says.

A presidential scholar at the College, Baxter serves as assistant executive director of the Student Advancement Association, service project coordinator for Omicron Delta Kappa leadership fraternity and treasurer for Mortar Board. He is also a tour guide for the admission office and an orientation aide. Baxter is also a president's aide and serves on the Senior Class Gift Committee. He is a member of Phi Delta Sigma, Alpha Lambda Delta, Omicron Delta Epsilon and Pi Sigma Alpha national honor societies. Baxter is majoring in government with a minor in economics.

Of his upcoming trip Baxter says, "This is a great opportunity not only for me, but also the College. The experience will give William and Mary some positive publicity that money cannot buy in these budget-crunch times. I appreciate very much the support that the College community has given me."

Baxter advises anyone with any interest in "Jeopardy!" to try out. It took him six years to get on the show, but he feels the wait was worth it.

Board in June 1892 and served until March 1905.

He wrote an appropriation bill for the United States government to indemnify the College for damages to its buildings and other property made by Federal soldier during the Civil War. The campus was taken by Federal troops in 1862. The Brafferton was used for a time as quarters for the commanding officer of the Union garrison occupying Williamsburg. In 1862 the Sir Christopher Wren Building was set on fire by soldiers of the 5th Pennsylvania Cavalry without authorization of their commander. The College was finally indemnified in 1893.

Colonel Lamb was also instrumental in the revival of the Alpha of Virginia Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa on Dec. 9, 1893.
