WILLIAM & MARY

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER FOR FACULTY, STUDENTS AND STAFF

NEWS

VOLUME XXI, NUMBER 27 • WEDNESDAY, APRIL 15, 1992

Happy Birthday, Mr. President

Timothy J. Sullivan Chosen 25th President

The College's new president is Timothy J. Sullivan, dean of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law. Sullivan celebrates his 48th birthday today.

Sullivan was selected Thursday by the Board of Visitors as the 25th president of the College.

The announcement was made by Rector Hays T. Watkins during a brief ceremony in the Great Hall of the Sir Christopher Wren Building. Sullivan, a member of the class of 1966, has been dean of the College's Marshall-Wythe School of Law since 1985.

"Tim Sullivan has been a dedicated professor and dean at William and Mary. The Board believes he will bring a wealth of knowledge, ideas and enthusiasm to the role of president," said Watkins.

"Our choice was not an easy one. We were delighted to have so many qualified candidates. Still, it is clear to the board that Tim Sullivan is the right person for the position as we head toward the College's 300th anniversary in 1993," Watkins added.

Sullivan succeeds Paul R. Verkuil, who announced his intention to leave in September and completed his term as president in February. Verkuil is now president and chief executive officer of the American Automobile Association.

The appointment of a new president comes at the end of a five-month national search which elicited 178 nominations and 142 active candidates from 40 states and four foreign countries. After the list of candidates was reduced to five by the 21-member Presidential Search Committee, each candidate was brought to campus for visits, which included public forums with faculty and students.

"The College community should be very proud of its level of participation in the search," said James W. Brinkley, chair of the Presidential Search Committee. "Few universities in this country have involved their faculty, staff, students and alumni in a search of this nature. I believe the process has resulted in a successful candidate who will have strong support from all of the important groups who make up the William and Mary community."

In addition to serving as law school dean, Sullivan is also the John Stewart Bryan Professor of Jurisprudence and executive director of the Institute of Bill of Rights Law.

Sullivan is a 1966 Phi Beta Kappa graduate of William and Mary. He went on to earn his law degree from Harvard University in 1969.

While serving two years in the Army Signal Corps, he received the Army Commendation Medal, First Oak Leaf Cluster and the Bronze Star.

Alumnus Researches Presidential Count

The College of William and Mary is preparing for the tenure of its 25th president.

The former president, Paul Verkuil, began his term as the 25th president but research by an alert alumnus found some historical miscues, and last year Verkuil was designated as the 24th president of the College.

Wilford Kale '66, author of Hark Upon the Gale, about the history of the College, and co-author with Harry L. Smith of Davis Y. Paschall: A Study in Leadership, about a former president of the College, prepared a historical update at the request of the President's Office.

The numbering, according to Kale, hinges on whether a "pro tem" term as president is to be counted. Benjamin Ewell was pro-tem, or acting, president from 1848 to 1849, before he began his tenure as president from 1854 to 1888. Similar pro-tem terms were served by Kremer J. Hoke, dean of the College, in 1934; James W. Miller, dean of the faculty, in 1951; and George W. Healy, provost, in 1985. None but Ewell's term was acknowledged in the chronology of presidents.

"No matter how the presidential list is determined, the incumbent cannot be the 25th president," Kale wrote of Verkuil. "He would either be the 24th president by correcting the one-year

Leaders in Science, Business, Education And Government To Receive Honorary Degrees May 10

Leaders in science, business, education and government will be honored Sunday, May 10, with honorary degrees during commencement.

Those to be honored include Mary L. Good, senior vice president for technology at Allied-Signal Inc. of Morristown, N.J.; Floyd D. Gottwald Jr., chairman of the Ethyl Corp. of Richmond; the Rev. J. Bryan Hehir, senior research scholar at the Kennedy Institute of Ethics, Georgetown University; and Stephen J. Wright Jr., former president of Fisk University in Nashville, Tenn.

Secretary of State James A. Baker III, whose role as commencement speaker was announced earlier, will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree.

About 1,500 students will receive degrees at commencement at 1 p.m. in William and Mary Hall.

Mary L. Good, a Texas native who has moved from a career as a scholar-teacher to vice president of technology for Allied-Signal Inc., an advanced technology company with businesses in aerospace, auto parts and engineered materials such as fibers and plastics, will receive an honorary doctor of science degree.

Good taught at a number of institutions, including Louisiana State University. After several years in research for private industry, she became a senior vice president for technology at Allied-Signal in 1988.

Good has served on several advisory commissions, including chair of the President's Commission for National Metal Science and chair of the National Science Board. She received a 1982 Scientist of the Year award from Industrial Research and Development Magazine.

Floyd D. Gottwald Jr. of Richmond will receive a doctor of humane letters degree. A graduate of Virginia Military Institute and the University of Richmond, Gottwald began his career with Albemarle Paper Co. of Richmond in 1943, becoming president of the company in 1962. He joined Ethyl Corp. in 1962, became chairman in 1968 and was also named chief executive officer in 1970.

In addition to receiving an honorary doctor of humane letters degree, the Rev. J. Bryan Hehir will also be the baccalaureate speaker on Saturday, May 9.

Hehir's career has focused on ethics and international politics. He is a senior research scholar at the Kennedy Institute of Ethics at Georgetown University and research professor of ethics and international politics at the School of Foreign Service at Georgetown University.

A graduate of the Kings College of Wilkes Barre, Pa., the St. John's Seminary of Boston, and Harvard Divinity School, Hehir is also secretary of the Department of Social Development and World Peace for the U.S. Catholic Conference.

Stephen J. Wright Jr., a distinguished educator who makes his home in Hampton, will receive a doctor of humane letters degree.

Wright was born in Dillon, S.C., and received his bachelor's degree from Hampton Institute in 1934, with advanced degrees in education from Howard University and New York University. He has been a high school teacher and principal, and a college professor. He was dean of the faculty at Hampton Institute from 1945 to 1953.

In 1953, Wright was named president of Bluefield State College in Bluefield, W.Va., then went on to be president of Fisk University from 1957 to 1966. In 1969, he became vice president of the College Entrance Examination Board, and retired in 1976.

DeFotis Named To Garrett-Robb-Guy Chair In Chemistry

Gary C. DeFotis

This is the first in a series of articles on professors named to endowed chairs.

Gary C. DeFotis has been designated the Garrett-Robb-Guy Professor of Chemistry beginning the fall of 1992 by action of the Board of Visitors. He succeeds Cirila Djordjevic, who is retiring.

DeFotis, who received his B.S. from the University of Illinois and his Ph.D. from the University of Chicago, has been at the College since 1980. He has taught a wide range of courses and was recipient of an Alumni Association award for teaching in 1982. In 1987 he received the Phi Beta Kappa Award for the Advancement of Scholarship.

DeFotis has been awarded 12 external grants totalling $380,000, among them a 1988 Dreyfus Foundation grant, the first awarded to a member of a public institution. DeFotis has published more than 30 articles in scholarly journals since joining the College faculty.

Highlights of DeFotis' work include a classic examination and analysis of the magnetic properties of the solid phases of oxygen, the development and study of the first insulating three-dimensional XY ferromagnets, mixed magnetic systems with unique phase diagrams, a system belonging to a new magnetic universality class, spin glass behavior in insulating materials, and a new series of monohydrate magnets exhibiting exceptional properties.

In addition to his teaching and research assignments, DeFotis has also served on a variety of Collegewide and departmental committees. He has been secretary to the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, chair of College committees on housing, lectures, research, and prizes and awards, and a freshman and sophomore adviser.

Fellowships Offered At Cambridge

Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, England, has an annual program under which visiting scholars from Great Britain or from overseas, who may wish to spend the year (or part of it, but not less than one term) in Cambridge, are welcomed as Visiting Fellows to temporary membership of the College. The Fellowships are non-stipendiary. Preference is given to distinguished scholars with several years of academic experience, who have not previously been members of Cambridge University. Four apartments are set aside for visiting scholars at a reasonable rental.

For further information contact Miss Stella Smith, College secretary, Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, CB2 1RH, England.

Visiting Fellowships are also available at Corpus Christi College Cambridge. Applications may be obtained from Ron St. Onge at the Reves Center.

Students Win 1992 Gold Circle Awards

A 1991 graduate and three seniors have won awards from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association's ninth annual Gold Circle Awards program, for work which appeared in 1991 issue of The William and Mary Review, edited by Christopher Vitiello.

The largest awards competition for individual achievement for student writers, editors, designers and photographers, the contest this year attracted 11,437 entries.

Jennifer Smith, a senior, won first place in magazine illustration for her portfolio of work for "Pieces of Paint," an oil painting of a woman. Brendon

MacBryde, a senior, won first place in magazine poetry for his free form work, "Abuelo."

Eric Chang '92 and Rebecca Lilly '91 both won third-place awards. Lilly's traditional form poem, "The Locations Of Questions We Pose About Ourselves," was third in magazine poetry. Chang's award came in the magazine illustration category for his portfolio of work including "Stroll."

The William and Mary Review publishes art, fiction, non-fiction and poetry. Editor of the 1992 edition is Alexandra Nemecek.

Laurel T. Ulrich

Ulrich To Give Seminar For Center, IEAHC

Laurel T. Ulrich, professor of history at the University of New Hampshire, will give a seminar on "Textiles in the Female Economy of Eighteenth-Century New England" at 5 p.m., Thursday, April 16 in the Botetourt Theatre of Swem Library.

This seminar is sponsored by the Commonwealth Center for the Study of American Culture and is offered in cooperation with the Institute of Early American History and Culture.

The Institute will host a reception in honor of Ulrich immediately following her seminar presentation. All who attend the seminar are cordially invited to join Institute staff members at the reception to celebrate the wide recognition received by Ulrich for her recent work.

Ulrich was awarded the Pulitzer Prize for History and the Bancroft Prize for American History for A Midwife's Tale: The Life of Martha Ballard Based on Her Diary, 1785-1812, published by Alfred A. Knopf in 1990. She was awarded a Guggenheim Fellowship for 1991-92, and she recently received the Joan Kelly Memorial Prize and the John S. Dunning Prize from the American Historical Association.

Ulrich served as a member of the Council of the Institute of Early American History and Culture and as a member of the Board of Editors of the William and Mary Quarterly from 1989 to 1991.

Reves Center Programs

Discussion Of U.S.-Japanese Rivalry, Talks By Bill And Ruch Set

The public debate over the economic relationship between the United States and Japan will be studied by three experts during a panel discussion at 4 p.m., Friday, April 17 in Washington 201.

The program is sponsored by the Wendy and Emery Reves Center for International Studies, the Roy R. Charles Center for Interdisciplinary Studies, and one of the panelists, Clyde Prestowitz, founder and president of the Economic Strategy Institute, a private, non-profit research center.

Other panelists will be Shinsuke Sugiyama, first secretary from the Embassy of Japan; and Tomoko Hamada, associate professor of anthropology and chair of the East Asian Studies Committee at the College.

A former senior associate at the Carnegie Endowment, Prestowitz was a fellow at the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars, where he wrote his influential book on the U.S.-Japanese conflict, Trading Places.

Sugiyama is the first secretary of management and coordination of the Embassy of Japan in the United States. His career has included appointment as deputy director to the National Security Affairs Division of the North American Affairs Bureau in 1987. Sugiyama came to the United States as first secretary of economic affairs in 1989, and was appointed to his present post in 1991.

Hamada is the author of several books, including American Enterprise in Japan, Cross-cultural Management and Organizational Structure and Asians and Asian Americans in Virginia. She is currently editing a book on organizational culture for the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Hamada is program director and contributing editor to the Society for the Anthropology of Work of the American Anthropological Association and director-at-large of the Japan-America Society of the Peninsula.

Institute Book Honored By Pulitzer Prize Committee

A book published by the Institute of Early American History and Culture has been honored by the Pulitzer Prize committee as one of four finalists for the Pulitzer Prize in American history, according to a committee announcement last week.

John Frederick Martin's Profits in the Wilderness: The Entrepreneurial Origins of New England Towns in the Seventeenth Century was published by the Institute in 1991 through the University of North Carolina Press.

Martin's study is a radical revision of long-held notions about the development of early New England.

While noting that Puritan religious motives were present, Martin demonstrates that Puritan town founders were, in fact, strongly motivated by profit-making and profit-taking.

Instead of religious communities on a divine errand into the wilderness, Martin depicts towns as business corporations controlled by absentee landlords who excluded many inhabitants from voting and from participating in town institutions.

"We chose Fred's book for publication because it is a landmark in early American history," said Fredrika J. Teute, editor of publications at the Institute. "It opens a new window on the past, yet is attuned to issues in American life that are still vital today."

After taking his doctorate in history at Harvard University, Martin served on the staffs of Mario Cuomo, governor of New York, and Al Gore, U.S. Senator from Tennessee. He is now president of the Bancroft Group, international consultants in Washington, D.C.

The Institute of Early American History and Culture, located in Swem Library, is sponsored by the College and the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation.

IEAHC Editor Wins Summer Fellowship

Fredrika J. Teute, editor of publications at the Institute of Early American History and Culture, has been awarded the 1992 Berkshire Summer Fellowship at the Mary Ingraham Bunting Institute of Radcliffe College. The Fellowship is funded by the Berkshire Conference of Women Historians and provides for three months of study, with at least one month in residence at the Bunting Institute. A multidisciplinary program for women scholars, the Bunting Institute is one of the major centers for advanced study in the United States.

Teute's fellowship project is titled "The Duties of our Sphere: Home as Constraint and Liberation in the Early Public—The Writings of Margaret Bayard Smith." Teute's work hypothesizes that revolutionary ideology, although politicizing consciousness throughout all classes, ultimately defined women's relations to the propertied male power structure in exclusionary ways. For women, the idea of "republican motherhood" glorified their domestic duties as it constricted their ambitions. The impact of broadening women's horizons and then confining them within the home will be explored through the correspondence and novels of Margaret Bayard Smith (1778-1840). The "cult of domesticity," although domesticating women, also impelled them into the first efforts to improve conditions of other groups marginalized in the new republic. Smith exemplifies a transitional generation of women not yet adequately studied, but who are crucial to understanding the transformation of the republican settlement in the 19th century.

Teute intends to spend the summer extending her research on Smith and writing several articles.

A Phone Note

Campus telephone users are no longer able to call state agencies by dialing 7 and the 7-digit SCATS number.

Agencies out-of-town must be dialed as a long-distance number using the area code and local number listed in the SCATS directory. This change is due to a new contract between the Department of Information Technology and MCI.

For problems or questions, call Telecommunications at ext. 11776.

Programmer Wanted

A student-wage position is available this summer for a W&M computer science student.

The successful candidate will work approximately 20 hours per week in the Advancement Systems office.

This job entails the development of a database program on a DEC/VAX/VMS system in Pascal. Other duties will require a general knowledge of PCS, DOS, and software installation in that environment.

To apply call Peter Carlson at ext. 11040.

Lawn Bowling

The Special Programs Office is offering a weekly course in the genteel sport of lawn bowling each Tuesday evening from 6 to 7:30 p.m. For details call the SPO office at ext. 14084.

'Wake of Jamey Foster' Opens Tomorrow

By Beth Rohr '93

Beth Henley's unusual comedy, "The Wake of Jamey Foster," directed by Louis E. Catron, is the final production of the 1991-92 season for the William and Mary Theatre.

It will be presented April 16 and 17 at 8:15 p.m., and at 2 p.m., April 18 in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. Tickets are $5 and may be reserved by calling the box office at 221-2674.

This is the second Beth Henley play produced by the Theatre in recent years, the last being the Pulitzer Prize-winning "Crimes of the Heart," directed by Catron during the 1987-88 season. It tells the story of a family brought together by the death of Jamey Foster. This, however, is not a loving yet grief-stricken group. Instead of concentrating on the funeral, family members worry more about their own conflicts and problems.

Marshael, Jamey's widow, is played by Kristianne Kurner. Marshael is trying to hold her life together while dealing with the fact that Jamey died holding the hand of his mistress for whom he had left Marshael several months earlier.

The cast also includes Leon, Marshael's simple-minded brother, played by Michael Harding; Leon's girlfriend, Pixrose, played by D. Elizabeth Rowland; Jamey's brother, played by Francis Gerke, and his wife, Katty, played by Tracey K. Cesario; Marshael's sister, played by Sharon Gardner; and Brocker Slade, played by William Joseph Whitmore.

Christopher Wharton and Melissa Lowenstein in a scene from "Collette in Love."

Worth Repeating

Greer At Virginia Wesleyan College

William T. Greer Jr., president of Brevard College in North Carolina, has been named the second president in the 26-year history of Virginia Wesleyan College, succeeding Lambuth Clarke.

Greer told Richmond Times Dispatch reporter Bill Geroux, "Following Clarke is going to be sort of like following God. Virginia Wesleyan is a healthy, strong place and it's going to be my job now not to screw it up."

The Choir: A Note From Spring Tour

The choir received praise for its spring tour, which included concerts in Virginia, Massachusetts and Connecticut.

The Boston Chapter of the Society of the Alumni sponsored the choir's concert at Concord Academy, which was noted in The New York Times on Sunday, March 22.

Robert Sherman in his music column noted that while "amateur instrumental groups can rarely hope to equal the standards of professionals," it is different with voices. "Given fine leadership and extended rehearsals, any college and other avocational choirs rank with the best in the country. Two examples appearing today are the Concordia Choir and the William and Mary Choir."

Base Camp Offers Students Second Chance At ROTC

By Capt. Lynn Connors
Department of Military Science

What is Army ROTC Basic Camp? It is an alternative eligibility process for students who are interested in Army ROTC.

Many students think it is too late to enroll in ROTC because they didn't participate as freshmen. Basic Camp provides a second chance.

Basic Camp is a five-week summer camp beginning in June. While at Basic Camp you will participate in challenging military training and exciting leadership opportunities. Participants are not obligated to enroll in Army ROTC.

The eligibility criteria for Basic Camp are: 1) a minimum of a 2.0 GPA; 2) four semesters of college remaining; and 3) physical fitness.

Students who attend Basic Camp have an opportunity to compete for a two-year ROTC scholarship. The criteria for the scholarship are based on academics, physical fitness and potential leadership.

William and Mary students who have participated in the Basic Camp program were awarded either the full two-year scholarship or an alternate one-and-a-half-year scholarship.

Basic Camp gives students a last opportunity to experience the military and get paid. A student who receives a scholarship, however, is under no obligation to accept it.

Those interested in Army ROTC Basic Camp are asked to call Capt. Lynn Connors at ext. 13600 or 13601. The military science department is located at the Prince George House across from Mama Mia's restaurant.

Student Directors Showcase Their Work

Directors' Workshop, a product of Theatre 407, will present eight student-written, -directed and -acted plays, April 20, 21, 22 and 23 in the Lab Theatre at Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. These programs are offered free of charge to the campus and Williamsburg community. The programs are as follows:

April 20 and 22

"27 Wagons Full of Cotton" by Tennessee Williams; director, Anya Galperin; cast: Chris Kerson, Madeline Miller and Kyle Rudgers.

"Colette in Love" by LaVonne Mueller; director: Esther Huffman; cast: Melissa Lowenstein, T. K. McLaughlin, Heather Conrad, Chris Wharton and Sara Gmitter.

"Monica" by Pauline Macaulay; director,

Darren K. Jinks; cast: Howard Abraham, Stuart Ransom and Don Hill.

"Denity Crisis" by Christopher Durang; director, David A. Tavacol; cast: Christopher Jones, Kaitlin Pitts, Jen Chaney, Liz Hall and Joe Bates.

"The Public Eye" by Peter Schaffer; director, Chan Casey; cast: Lem Huntington, Bill Reidway and Sarah Seager

April 21 and 23

"The Diary of Adam & Eve" by Mark Twain; director, Greg Hodges; cast: Ryan O'Quinn, Pamela Mason and John Schomberg.

"Lou Gehrig Did Not Die of Cancer" by Jason Miller; director, David Purves; cast: Bill Robinson, Erin McGrew and Cautler Shoemaker.

W&M Board of Visitors Approves Tuition, Fee Rates For 1992-93

The cost of attending the College of William and Mary next year will rise 6.3 percent for in-state students and 8 percent for out-of-state students, according to rates set April 10 by the College Board of Visitors.

The costs include tuition, fees, room and board. The total will go from $7,476 to $7,948 for in-state students and from $14,196 to $15,328 for out-of-state students.

Looking at tuition only, the increase has gone from $2,240 to $2,460 for in-state students and from $6,720 to $7,380 for out-of-state students. In both cases, the change is a rise of 9.8 percent.

The revenues from the tuition and fee package will allow William and Mary to restore some portion of the general fund cuts required by the state, said Samuel E. Jones, associate provost for planning and budget. Priorities in the use of these funds include restoration of the 2 percent salary loss that occurred in December 1990, new faculty positions, library materials, instructional program supplies, and buildings and grounds maintenance.

The state appropriation for William and Mary for the 1992-93 fiscal year is about $27.4 million. That represents a reduction of 5.1 percent in general fund support beyond the reductions implemented during the 1990-92 biennium. The state's general fund support for the College has declined by $8.2 million, or 23 percent, from the level initially appropriated for the 1991-92 fiscal year.

The College's nongeneral fund appropriation, about $32 million, includes money to offset partially the impact of the general fund cut. Nongeneral funds are those generated by full- and part-time tuition, as well as application fees, library fines, and other items.

When taken together, the general and nongeneral revenues from the state have gone from about $58.8 million estimated in 1991-92 to $59.4 million proposed for 1992-93.

While general fund revenues for state institutions has been on the decline, there is a potential for some new construction on college campuses, if a state bond referendum is approved by voters in November.

Appointments, Promotions Approved

Several appointments were approved to fill vacancies in the instructional faculty. Those approved to tenure-eligible positions were Paula Blank, assistant professor of English; Kristine Burstad, assistant professor of modern languages and literatures; Christy L. ## Business School To Offer New Computer Course

The School of Business Administration is preparing to make computer literacy and computer applications a hallmark of undergraduate business education at William and Mary.

An integral part of this initiative is next fall's launching of a one-credit-hour course, BUS 230, covering DOS, Minitab, spreadsheet analysis, WordPerfect, transfer of information between programs, and printed output enhancement.

Consisting of 20 hours of hands-on computer instruction, BUS 230 will be offered at the sophomore level for students declaring a business concentration in the spring of 1992.

This required course will provide the foundation necessary for applications and more advanced use of computers in the Business School curriculum. Credit by examination will be available.

Currently 19 faculty and staff of the Business School are attending a preliminary version of the new literacy course. In May a second trial run will be offered. Seventeen student volunteers are helping develop reference, homework and test materials for the course. The administration of the school is providing faculty with support for development of computer-oriented materials and exercises in the business curriculum.

CIA Director Speaks At Law School

"Whether we like it or not, events will continue to engage American attention. History is not over. In some places it has been frozen, but it's thawing with a vengeance. America ignores that at its own peril," Robert M. Gates '65, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, told an overflow audience at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law last Tuesday afternoon.

Mark Steinberg, writing in the Daily Press, reported that Gates told his audience, "North Korea and China are already supplying technology for weapons capable of mass destruction and some of the newly independent countries might do the same."

Gates also warned of the difficulty the former Soviet republics will encounter in making the transition from a thousand years of autocratic rule to a market economy and democratic government—and the potential threat to the United States of a return to dictatorship.

"If autocratic, xenophobic regimes take over, it could constitute a renewed threat," said Gates.

Campus To Celebrate Earth Day Saturday

Environmental groups on campus have teamed up for an early Earth Day celebration on campus Saturday, April 18. Earth Day will be celebrated nationally on Wednesday, April 22.

Booths will be set up on the lawn in front of the Campus Center for the sale of health foods, and specially designed T-shirts. Representatives from campus and area environmental groups will be on hand to answer questions, hand out materials and give suggestions for effective strategies to help save the environment.

There will also be lots of entertainment during the day on the following schedule:

Acoustic and a cappella: 11 a.m. to noon, Ian Jones and Sharm Subramanian, noon to 1 p.m.; Howard Abraham, 1 to 1:30 p.m.; Chris Kimball, 1:30 to 2 p.m.; Dan Pitman; and 2 to 2:15 p.m., Rencester Singers (Medieval/madrigal).

Dance: 2:15 to 2:30 p.m., "Not Exactly Modern" (a college group); 2:30 to 2:45 p.m., Indian Cultural Society.

Progressive: 3 to 5 p.m., The Boom Choir, a progressive band from Newport News.

W-JCC School Division Residents: What Do You Think?

The Williamsburg-James City County Public Schools Division is in the process of bringing parents, school staff, business and community representatives together to examine important issues facing the school division, set priorities and develop plans to meet those priorities. A Strategic Planning Team, composed of parents, educators and community members, is working to draft the school division's mission statement, identify critical issues, and develop goals and objectives. Dean John Nagle in the School of Education and Chris Gareis, a graduate assistant in the Dean's Office, have been asked to represent the College in this strategic planning effort.

The planning process is an important time for the W-JCC community to join together in making choices that will determine the direction of the school division for the next five years and beyond. If you live in Williamsburg or James City County, whether or not you have a school-age child, your voice is important in determining the future priorities for educating WJCC's school children.

The Strategic Planning Team has developed a draft of a Mission Statement and is asking for feedback from WJCC community members. In the future, the Team also will seek responses to statements of goals and strategies to address critical issues facing the school division.

If you live in the W-JCC school division, please read and respond to the following draft Mission Statement:

Draft Mission Statement for W-JCC Schools

The mission of the Williamsburg-James City County Public Schools is to increase each student's knowledge and skills and develop appropriate attitudes and behaviors so that, throughout life, she or he can contribute productively to society at all levels—local, national, and global.

Your thoughts about this draft Mission Statement:

Please send your response to Mr. Chris Gareis, Dean's Office, School of Education, College of William and Mary, P.O. Box 8795, Williamsburg, VA 23187-8795. Your response will be brought to the next meeting of the Planning Team during its next meeting on May 1. Thank you.

Sullivan Named To Top Post

Sullivan came back to William and Mary in 1972, this time as an assistant professor of law. He became an associate law professor in 1974, and then full professor and associate dean in 1977.

In 1981 and 1982, he was a visiting law professor at the University of Virginia School of Law. He served another two years as executive assistant for policy for then-Gov. Charles S. Robb.

Sullivan returned to Marshall-Wythe in 1984, as the John Stewart Bryan Professor of Jurisprudence. He became dean of the law school in July 1985.

Active in public service, Sullivan has been counsel for the Commission on the Future of the Virginia Judicial System, a current member of the Virginia Board of Education and the Governor's Task Force on Substance Abuse and Sexual Assault on Campus.

Sullivan is married to Anne Klare Sullivan, a clinical psychologist and a 1966 graduate of William and Mary.

Presidential Terms Get Recounted

Ewell pro-tem term, or the 28th president with the inclusion of three other acting presidents.

The Board of Visitors of the College took Kale's report under advisement and decided to eliminate all pro-tem terms; thus Paul Verkuil became the 24th president and his successor will be the 25th.

Why only Ewell's pro-tem term has been counted, Kale doesn't explain. It may well be, however, because of Ewell's exceptional contributions to the College. Ewell presided over the College during the Civil War years. He saw almost all the students enter the Confederate army, and Federal troops occupy College buildings and set fire to the oldest building on campus, The College Building, later known as the Sir Christopher Wren Building. In 1881 the College was forced to close for lack of funds. Yet the College bell was rung by President Ewell at the opening of each academic year, a reminder to the local citizenry that the College still lived. The College reopened in 1888. The General Assembly of Virginia approved an annual appropriation of $10,000 to the College for training male public school teachers.

Presidents of the College

James Blair, 1693-1743
 William Dawson, 1743-1752
 William Stith, 1752-1755

 Paul R. Verkuil, 1985-1992

President Timothy J. Sullivan (r) with Rector of the College Hays T. Watkins.

At the Sir Christopher Wren Building, a packed house greets news of new president with cheers and applause.

Press Reacts To Election Of A New President At William And Mary

Jim Stratton of the Daily Press in reporting on the new presidency included a touch of whimsy:

"Outside William and Mary's Marshall-Wythe School of Law, a jet black Mazda RX-7 convertible crouches quietly in front of a sign reading 'Reserved for Law School Dean.' A silver 'Congratulations' balloon bangs against the sign, on which someone has recently crossed out 'Dean' and inked in 'President.'

"Timothy J. Sullivan, dean, soon-to-be-president, and convertible owner smiles and rubs his eyes when asked if that's what a college administrator of middle age should be driving. 'It's my indulgence,' he says, 'My wife encouraged it. She thought I was getting too stodgy. It certainly perked up my image with the students.'

"The 47-year-old Sullivan doesn't seem to need any help with students. When the William and Mary Board of Visitors announced Thursday that he would become W&M's 25th president, students, who packed into the Sir Christopher Wren Building, erupted into a standing ovation, whooping like they were at a football game."

In the press conference following the announcement, search committee chairman James W. Brinkley said Sullivan's and his wife Anne's "love and deep affection" for W&M were obvious throughout the interview process.

"New W&M Chief Brings Dash of Affection to Duties" was the headline over a story in the Richmond Times-Dispatch by Wilford Kale.

"The visit to the president's house was the first in a series of emotional moments that have touched Sullivan since being named president.

"Yes I get emotional about William and Mary. It touches me. And I don't apologize for it. I think affection without capacity is supremely dangerous, but I think in my life I've developed capacity as well as affection."

"Sullivan recalled how, as a student, he 'began to appreciate the kind of personal care faculty members took in me. We come to a university, very young, with hopes and ideas that are certainly not very well formed and certainly not mature. It is a miracle that faculty members of maturity and great learning and great character see in that kind of unformed person potential and possibility and take care to nurture it.

"About midpoint of my freshman year, people took an interest in me," said Sullivan, citing Thad Tate, a history professor and director of the Commonwealth Center for American Culture, and Jack D. Edwards, a government professor.

"Those and other professors who have retired—Frank MacDonald of philosophy and Margaret Hamilton of government and the late Drs. Harold Fowler and Bruce McCulley in history—mattered to me. William and Mary continues to have teachers of that ilk that that's what makes it remarkable," said Sullivan.

"When asked about his vision for William and Mary, Sullivan struck a cautionary note: 'Being forced to talk so much about vision, you run the risk of cheapening it. For the college to be what it can be, you have to be careful. You don't want to become a huckster, marketing a product, because the college isn't a product.

"I think there is no public institution of higher learning in this country like William and Mary. I've talked to experts who make a study of this and I've asked a number of them, 'Where is there a place like William and Mary supported by public funds?' They can't give an answer.

There isn't any other place.

"That makes the responsibility of leading this place not just special, but singular. I think what we have to do is translate in modern terms the purposes that those who imagined William and Mary in the beginning wanted to achieve.

Peggy Shaw, writing in the Richmond News Leader, said Sullivan wanted to give students the opportunity to learn in an intellectual environment while introducing them to what he called the joy of service.

"I would judge myself a failure if students did not think they knew me or if I did not think I knew them," said Sullivan who won the Bronze Star for service in the Army Signal Corps in Vietnam in the early 1970s.

"Sullivan said he would like to continue teaching at the law school while being president. 'Not in the first year—I think, that would be foolish on my part,' he said. 'But teaching is a big part of my life, and it is what this institution is all about.'

"Of Thursday he said 'It's a great day, and one I won't forget.'"

Bill Tolbert, of the Virginia Gazette thought Sullivan's experience in Richmond helped win the presidency for him.

"Sullivan worked for two years as former Gov. Charles Robb's executive assistant for policy. He is a current member of the state board of education and the Governor's Task Force on Substance Abuse and Sexual Assault on Campus.

"I've enjoy working with people in politics and government," said Sullivan. 'I'm optimistic, but I wouldn't want anyone to have the idea that I simply have to arrive on Capitol Square. I want to build a level of confidence in me and an understanding of William and Mary.'"

April 7, 1992

The Presidential Search Committee wishes to express appreciation for the welcoming reception, the information presented and the services provided to the presidential candidates during their recent two-day visits to campus. The remarkable cooperation and the interest shown throughout the campus was of great assistance to us, and your participation enabled us to provide the candidates with a well-rounded knowledge of William and Mary, and also allowed us to do a better job of decision making.

Our greatest regret is that the limit of a two-day visit did not allow time for proper participation from many people. Nevertheless, we thank everyone for the time and effort it took to conduct these campus visits in a successful manner.

Sincerely,

James W. Brinkley
 Vice Rector of the College
 Chairman, Presidential Search Committee

NOTES

Frey To Speak At Yorktown Victory Center

Sylvia R. Frey, author of Water From the Rock: Black Resistance in a Revolutionary Age, will speak at the Yorktown Victory Center at 8 p.m., Friday, April 10, on the topic of African-Americans during the American Revolution. Frey is professor of history at Tule University.

For more information call the Jamestown-Yorktown Foundation Education Department at 253-4939.

Permission For Summer School Courses To Be Transferred From Other Schools

Students wishing to take courses in summer school at other institutions and to have that credit transfer to William and Mary must have permission from the Office of Academic Advising prior to enrolling in these courses.

Students should obtain permission before they leave William and Mary in May. Appropriate forms are available in the academic advising office (Ewell 127).

Students who wish to take summer courses elsewhere, which meet for fewer than four weeks or 37.5 contact hours, must petition the Committee on Degrees (see below) and include with the petition a completed summer session elsewhere form, course description, course evaluation by the appropriate W&M department chairperson, and a statement in the petition dealing with the educational value of that particular course in the student's four-year education plan.

Retroactive permission to transfer credit for summer school courses taken at other institutions will not be granted.

Committee on Degrees Petitioners

The Committee on Degrees will meet on April 14 and April 28. These will be the only regular meetings before fall semester 1992. All undergraduates who plan to petition for waivers of, or changes in, degree requirements must do so no later April 21 (for the April 28 meeting).

Petition forms are available from Mrs. Crouch in the office of the dean of undergraduate studies (Ewell 123).

All petitions must be typed and must be accompanied by a letter from the appropriate department chairperson.
