WILLIAM & MARY

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER FOR FACULTY, STUDENTS AND STAFF

NEWS

VOLUME XXII, NUMBER 8 • WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1992

Friday Inauguration

The entire College community, faculty, staff and students have been invited to the inauguration of Timothy J. Sullivan as 25th president of the College of William and Mary at 10:30 a.m., Friday, Oct. 16 in the courtyard of the Wren Building.

A reception will be held in the front of the Wren at noon.

Classes have been cancelled and staff members excused from their work stations from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

In the event of rain, the program will be held in William and Mary Hall. Notice of a change of locale will be transmitted through an automated line in the Advancement Events office, ext. 13868, and a campuswide voice mail message.

Also on Friday

World Hunger Day program at noon in the Dodge Room of Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

A panel of scholars will talk about Human Rights and Democracy at 2 p.m. at the Wendy and Emery Reves Center for International Studies.

Soberfest '92 Begins Today

In recognition of Alcohol Awareness Week, Williamsburg Mayor Trist B. McConnell, Williamsburg Police Chief Larry G. Vardell and President Timothy J. Sullivan will sign a proclamation on the front steps of the Campus Center today at 2 p.m.

Philip W. Meilman, director of the Counseling Center, will speak at a brown bag lunch at noon, Monday, Oct. 19 in the Campus Center room E. Meilman will speak on "Alcohol and Drugs: What's Going On at William and Mary."

See page 4 for complete schedule.

REMINDERS

Speaker Tonight

Lenora B. Fulani will speak at 8 p.m. in Tucker 120 tonight, Oct. 14.

Key Advantage

An updated list of Primary Care Physicians in the Tidewater area will be published in next week's edition.

On Eve Of Homecoming Governor Recognizes OWJ

Governor L. Douglas Wilder has named Thursday, Oct. 15 as "Order of the White Jacket Day" in recognition of the College alumni group's 20th anniversary.

Order of the White Jacket was founded on Oct. 12, 1972, as a fraternal and service organization of alumni who had worked in food service jobs as students to finance their educations. OWJ members will celebrate their anniversary at a banquet on Oct. 15, the first day of Homecoming celebrations.

The group's membership roster includes more than 650 individuals, representing William and Mary classes from 1922 to 1995. Order of the White Jacket is one of the largest constituent alumni groups.

Two related organizations, Student OWJ and Patrons OWJ, provide special services and opportunities for current students and local restaurateurs in the Williamsburg area.

One of OWJ's primary projects is its student scholarship program. The program began in 1978 with eight $125 scholarships. The group now awards $1,500 scholarships to each of 10 students at its Homecoming banquet each year. Money is raised directly from members, who are asked to donate $1 for each year since their graduation.

Public Invited

Class Of '67 To Host 'Big Chill Colloquy'

As part of Homecoming festivities this weekend, the Class of 1967 will celebrate its 25th reunion with a variety of events, including a "Big Chill Colloquy" on Friday, Oct. 16, from 2-4 p.m. in Ewell Recital Hall.

During the informal conversation, classmates will share how Vietnam, the gender revolution and race relations have shaped their lives and brought cultural changes over the past 25 years. Leading the discussion will be class members Lewis Puller of Alexandria, whose experience as a Vietnam veteran are chronicled in his Pulitzer Prize-winning autobiography, Fortunate Son; Lynn Skerrett Gillikin of Williamsburg, a psychologist in private practice; and Randy Bell, a judge with the South Carolina Court of Appeals.

Students Reminded To Check Status Of Health Insurance Selection/Waiver

As was noted in a recent letter from my office, the College's deadline for returning Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Virginia (BCBSVA) health insurance selection/waiver forms was extended from Aug. 10 to Sept. 11. This new deadline was created to compensate for the fact that the original summer insurance mailing was significantly late in reaching many of you. Because of the confusion surrounding this year's student health insurance mailing, I am sending this final letter to all students who, as of Sept. 29, do not have a selection waiver form on file with the College.

In the original mailing, we informed students that it was mandatory for all William and Mary students to return a selection/waiver form, regardless of their choice to purchase or waive BCBSVA insurance. At that time, you were told that failure to return a form would result in your being automatically enrolled in the Student Only Policy for Basic Accident and Major Medical Coverage. To avoid the perception that students were being forced to purchase insurance they did not need, in an Aug. 21 letter to students, I promised that students would not be enrolled if they did not want to be. Since you have not indicated a wish to be enrolled, we have not registered you for Blue Cross and Blue Shield insurance. If you were assuming that you have been automatically enrolled for insurance, you should contact Blue Cross and Blue Shield directly to arrange for payment of your premium. You may reach Blue Cross and Blue Shield by calling 1-800-282-2231 or here in Williamsburg through the Brooks Agency at 229-5757.

Shields Named Employee Of The Month

Lois Shields, head cashier in the treasurer's office, is recipient of the HACE Employee of the Month Award. Lois is retiring at the end of the year after 25 years at the College. She's looking forward to a change of pace from the exacting work of the treasurer's office.

Lois Shields

She likes to work with children and wants the time to volunteer for projects with schoolchildren at Stephen's Memorial Baptist Church.

Lois was hired by Sam Whitaker, now retired, when Dennis Cogle (also retired) was director of personnel. She says she enjoyed working with Whitaker. When asked about another former boss, the late Vernon Nunn, she smiled, "You don't have but one boss like that in your life."

A native of South Bend, Ind., Lois came to the area when her brother married in Tidewater. She and her husband, Charles, celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary on Aug. 9. The Shields have a daughter, Becky Nelson, a son, Preston Shields, and two grandchildren, Jamie and Carmen; all live in Yorktown.

One of the most stressful times on the job for Lois was when the College went on line with the computer in 1990. Although the system saves a lot of time and the days of posting accounts is gone, Lois still has to keep the office finances straight and the hundreds of different accounts in order. "It will be nice not to think about that for a while," she says.

She recalls that when the treasurer's office moved from James Blair to its present location in Blow Memorial Hall, the vintage safe was broken in the move. It had been a College landmark for many years.

Lois says she's glad she made the decision 25 years ago to come to work for the College. She was keeping books for a company in Buckroe and contemplating a career in real estate and insurance, when she got interviewed, but she's glad now she didn't go that way.

Looking ahead to retirement with some hesitancy, Lois said "I've worked all my life. It is going to be funny not having something you have to do and to just do what you want to do."

Bookstore Extends Discount To Employees

Ruth Graff Elected New President of HACE

Ruth Graff, statistical analyst in the Provost's office has been elected president of the Hourly and Classified Employees Association, HACE. She succeeds Loretta Early of the Computer Center.

Ruth Graff

The slate of new officers elected at the Tuesday meeting include James Dickey, housekeeping, vice president; Ann Denton, general accounting, corresponding secretary; Margaret Harris, School of Business, recording secretary; and Beverly Boyer, Computer Center, treasurer. New officers will be installed at the November meeting.

Speaker at the Tuesday meeting was alumnus Wilford Kale, author of Hark Upon the Gale and writer for the new Tercentenary book Traditions, Myths & Memories.

Although his topic was "The Ghosts and Skeletons of William and Mary," Kale chose to focus on the accomplishments of five College presidents whose tenures were vital to the growth of the College. He named James Blair, James Madison, Benjamin S. Ewell, J.A.C. Chandler and Davis Y. Paschall as presidents who left a profound mark on College history.

He described Blair as "tough, mean, crafty and very tenacious." "If not for James Blair there would have been no school, no funding," said Kale. Madison, he said was a "home-grown scholar who loved the school and kept it going when it should have stopped a good half a dozen times." Ewell, he said was the bell ringer who kept the school alive after the devastation left by the Civil War. He characterized both Chandler and Paschall as builders who helped bring much needed facilities to the College.

On a personal note, Kale asked members of his audience as members of the College staff to participate in next year's tercentenary events to help ensure their success.

Kale opened his presentation with a call for questions and answered queries about who designed the Wren Building (it was probably modelled after a Wren construction ... there is a connection, it is up to us to find it); When were women first admitted to the college? (In 1918, not because the administration wanted to be charitable, but because World War I had depleted the pool of male students and the College needed the funds it could get from admitting women); What is the history of the Thiemes Building, was it once a restaurant? (A very good restaurant for many years. The owners retired and went to Florida and sold the property to the College for close to half a million dollars. The property was zoned for a fast-food restaurant and the college paid the price to keep the area part of the College. Are there secret tunnels under the Wren Building? (There are old steam tunnels and an escape tunnel similar to the one under the Governor's Palace which enabled Governor Dunmore to escape in 1774).

During the business session Loretta Early announced that the sale of tickets for the HACE raffle had been extended to Oct. 27. Tickets are $1 and available from Early at the Computer Center, ext. 13002.

Early also announced that the College Bookstore had agreed to extend a 10 percent discount on purchases to staff members. Shoppers should present their IDs at the cash register to be eligible. Most merchandise will be discounted, with a few exceptions for special promotions and sale items.

Grayson Greets Ambassador

Shaw Joins University Relations Staff

Peggy Shaw, a former correspondent for the Richmond News Leader, has joined the Office of University Relations as information manager.

From Oct. 1986 to June 1992, Shaw worked as a News Leader bureau reporter, covering local government in Williamsburg and James City County as well as writing news and feature stories about the Colonial Williamsburg and Jamestown-Yorktown foundations and the College.

In her new position, Shaw will assist in a variety of writing, editing and public relations assignments.

A 1972 graduate of Vanderbilt University, Shaw has worked for the St. Petersburg Times, Columbia Journalism Review, and Southern Living, Inc., publications. In 1979 she was awarded a fellowship at the Poynter Institute for Media Studies, and in 1982 she earned a master's degree in journalism and mass communications from the University of Florida, where she was named the outstanding graduate scholar.

She is married to architect David E. Beatty, an instructor at George Washington University and construction supervisor for Habitat for Humanity.

Elderhostel Sets Up Office On Campus

Collison "Colly" Burgwyn Jr., director of Virginia Elderhostel, has moved his office to the campus from Lexington.

Kathryn, is a teacher at Kiln Creek School. The Burgwyns have a six-year-old son, Ned.

Burgwyn has his office in the College Apartments building at the corner of Boundary and Prince George streets. While he will have Elderhostel literature available and will be glad to answer queries, the main purpose of his office will be the day-to-day operations of the state-wide program and provision of assistance to site coordinators.

The opening of the Williamsburg office, Burgwyn explains, is a recognition of the growth of Elderhostel and the need for a full-time director. When the program began 15 years ago in Virginia, the director was a college professor, who managed the programs along with his other duties. Burgwyn succeeds Bill Egelhoff, who also headed the Agency on Aging in Richmond. Earlier, Burgwyn worked part time as a coordinator for Elderhostel while teaching at Southern Seminary College in Buena Vista.

Despite a rough economy, Elderhostel has maintained its popularity. Enrollment in Virginia programs has doubled in the past two years and in three years is expected to reach 10,000. Virginia, says Burgwyn, has always been one of the most popular venues on the Elderhostel list. It vies with Arizona and Georgia. Georgia, he explains, is popular in part

Colly Burgwyn

There are two major pluses with the switch, explains Burgwyn: between 65 and 70 percent of the activities of Elderhostel in Virginia occur east of Richmond; a native of Newport News and graduate of Ferguson High School, Burgwyn is glad to be back in familiar territory. Burgwyn, a graduate of Lynchburg College, is currently enrolled in a master's program in American history at William and Mary. His wife,

NOTES

Reliable Clunker Sought Good Looks Not Essential

The High-Energy Physics Experimental Group is seeking the gift of a used automobile.

This research group, consisting of several faculty, graduate students and undergraduate students, performs experiments at Brookhaven National Laboratory and CEBAF and must frequently use vehicles to transport equipment and personnel to and from the experiment.

Infrequently, trips are made between the laboratory on Long Island and Williamsburg.

The group hopes to obtain an older sedan or station wagon with serviceable life remaining. Reliability is important, good looks are not.

Appropriate acknowledgement for tax purposes will be gratefully provided.

Please contact Robert E. Welsh at ext. 13505.

"How To Get Published" Workshop Oct. 24

Successful author Tom Bird will give a workshop "How To Get Published" on campus from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 24.

This workshop is being offered through the Office of Special Programs. Information on registration and fees may be obtained by calling ext. 13777.

Music At The Muscarelle

"Music at the Muscarelle" at 4 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 25, will focus on themes and variations of music by Mozart.

The program will include a Beethoven woodwind trio, a Rossini quartet for winds and variations on the theme of Mozart for a bassoon trio.

This program is free and open to the public. For further information, call ext. 12700.

Eighth Benigno Aquino Memorial Lecture Oct. 22

The Eighth Benigno Aquino Memorial Lecture will be delivered by His Excellency the Honorable Jaime M. Saleh, Governor-General of The Netherlands Antilles and former Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of The Netherlands Antilles and Aruba. He will speak on "Human Rights and Development Aid."

Governor-General Saleh will receive the Aquino Memorial Achievement Award at his lecture at 6 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 22 in the Campus Center ballroom.

An African dinner will follow the lecture. The fee for the dinner is $6 and reservations should be made by calling 221-1064 before Oct. 15.

Members of the general public and the College community are invited to both the lecture and the dinner.

This is a return visit for Governor-General Saleh, who gave lectures on political law in 1991 at the College and for the American Bar Association in New York City.

Bass And LaRue Next On Ewell Concert Series

Music for Elizabethan England; 16th-century France; Spain; and Italy; 18th-century Germany (Bach and his contemporaries); and 17th-century folk tunes and dances from England and Scotland are included in the repertoire of Howard Bass, lutenist, who will perform on the Ewell Concert Series at 8 p.m., Oct. 19 in Ewell Recital Hall. On the program with him will be soprano Custer LaRue.

Tickets at the door are $2. W&M students with current ID will be admitted free.

Both Bass and LaRue are members of the Baltimore Consort and have many recordings to their credit. Bass also performs with the Folger Consort, the Smithsonian Chamber Players, the Theater Chamber Players of the Kennedy Center, Hesperus and Capriole. For the fourth consecutive year Bass has received a Touring Assistance Grant from the Virginia Commission for the Arts.

On the recording, "Watkins Ale: Music of the English Renaissance" by the Baltimore Consort, critics raved about the title song, which is sung by Custer LaRue. David Vernier in CD Review said "Custer LaRue's soprano voice and her stylish, personable singing alone is worth the price of the disc. Her rendering of the plaintive ballad "There Were Three Ravens" and the lusty "Watkins Ale" show her remarkable versatility.

Ferris To Give Seminar Thursday

William R. Ferris, professor of anthropology and director of the Center for the Study of Southern Culture at the University of Mississippi, will present a seminar on "Memory and Sense of Place in Southern Culture," at 5 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 15 in Washington 201.

This seminar is being sponsored by the Commonwealth Center for the Study of American Culture. Regular seminar patrons are reminded of the change of location.

Folklore scholar, filmmaker and photographer, William Ferris will present an overview of Southern history and cultural development, with a special focus on literary and musical traditions.

The seminar will be illustrated with musical performance, color slides, and a documentary film.

Ferris is the author of Blues from the Delta, editor of Afro American Folk Arts and Crafts and Local Color: Sense of Place in Folk Art, and co-editor of the Encyclopedia of Southern Culture and Folk Music and Modern Sound.

Ferris has made 15 documentary films and served as associate producer of Mississippi Blues, which has been featured at the Cannes Film Festival. He also served as a consultant to The Color Purple, Crossroads and Heart of Dixie. In 1991 Rolling Stone magazine named Ferris one of the top 10 teachers in the nation.

Documentary Editing Assn. Meets Oct. 15-17

The Association for Documentary Editing, an international organization of scholars engaged in editing historical and literary texts, will hold its annual meeting in Williamsburg, Oct. 15-17.

Among the topics for this year's meeting are "Research, Dynamics and Scholarship: The Papers of Woodrow Wilson, 1958-1993," "Archivists and Editors: Mapping Common Ground" and "Documentary Evidence and the Fashioning of Biography." There will also be workshops on the application of computer technology to editing projects. All sessions will be held at the Cascades Meeting Center in the Williamsburg Woodlands.

Local arrangements for the meeting have been provided by The Papers of John Marshall, a project sponsored by the College, and the Institute of Early American History and Culture.

For further information about the conference, call Charles Hobson or Laura Gwilliam at ext. 12413

Study Abroad Fair

The William and Mary Study Abroad Fair will be held from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m., Monday, Oct. 26 in Trinkle Hall.

Representatives of a variety of study abroad programs will be present.

The Programs Abroad office in the Reves Center has issued an invitation to all students: "Come to tell your friends about the program you participated in, or to find out more about the program on which you would like to go."

For further information, contact the PA office in the Reves Center, ext. 13594.

Afro-Moravian World Subject Of IEAHC Paper

"The Making of An Afro-Moravian World in Revolutionary North Carolina," will be the topic of a paper by Jon F. Sensbach, at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Oct. 20, at the Institute of Early American History and Culture located in Swem Library.

Sensbach, a postdoctoral fellow at the Institute, will present a chapter from his dissertation titled "A Separate Canaan: The Making of an Afro-Moravian World in North Carolina, 1765-1856" (Duke University, 1991).

The dissertation is a study of African-American (enslaved and free) and German-speaking Moravian immigrants in western Piedmont North Carolina. In his paper, Sensbach will explore the unusual contact between Germans and blacks and the flowering of a biracial Moravian religious community.

"I suggest that interaction between masters and slaves, while by no means equal, nonetheless fostered a certain exchange of cultural influences that in some ways tended to produce a limited racial egalitarianism," explains Sensbach.

Copies of the paper are available for reading at the Institute, the history department and the Commonwealth Center.

The Institute of Early American History and Culture is sponsored by the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation and the College.

To All Undergraduate Students

A Reminder Of Important Deadlines

Since it is now mid-semester, your attention is directed to several important academic regulations:

Friday, Oct. 30 is the deadline for 1) WITHDRAWAL FROM INDIVIDUAL COURSES this semester and 2) WITHDRAWAL FROM COLLEGE.

The appropriate withdrawal form for a course must be completed and in the Office of the Registrar by 5 p.m. on Oct. 30. Withdrawal after Oct. 30 is rarely granted, and only for unusual circumstances, by the Committee on Academic Status.

A form for withdrawal from college must be completed in the Office of the Dean of Students (James Blair 102) by 5 p.m. on Oct. 30.

CHANGES IN FINAL EXAMINATIONS—Students are expected to take their examinations as scheduled unless permission to defer an examination has been granted by the Office of the Dean of Students.

An examination may be deferred only when serious extenuating circumstances are present.

Changes requested on the basis of illness must be accompanied by a recommendation from one of the College physicians or your personal physician. If you become ill during the examination period, see a doctor at once.

Rescheduled examinations must be requested well in advance of the exam period.

Carol S. Disque
Dean of Students

Graduate Student Wins Seibert Award

Mary J. Rybitski, a graduate student at the School of Marine Science, has been awarded one of three Henri C. Seibert Awards for Outstanding Student Presentation. The award was presented at the meeting of the Society for the Study of Amphibians and Reptiles in El Paso, Texas, Aug. 1-6. Rybitski's paper was titled "Organochlorines in Atlantic Sea Turtles."

Women's Studies Speaker

Roberta Rosenberg, Christopher Newport University, will speak on "Sexual/Textual Imperialism: The Politically But Not Anatomically Correct Narrator in Norman Rush's Mating," at the next Women's Studies brown bag lunch at 12:30 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 22 in the Campus Center, room E.

because participants are just one day's drive from Florida and many like to extend their stay, especially if they have come a great distance.

There are 75 Elderhostel sites in Virginia, with several sites existing here on the Peninsula. The first Elderhostel on campus several years ago was directed by Wayne Kernodle, professor of sociology emeritus. Kernodle and his wife, Ruth, are founders of the Christopher Wren Association, an association for life-long learning which is affiliated with Elderhostel. Today William and Mary is close to becoming a "supersite" that supports more than 20 weeks of Elderhosteling throughout the year. Under the leadership of Nell Robinson Jones, the program has grown to become one of the most popular in Virginia.

For further information on Elderhostel's many opportunities, contact Burgwyn at ext. 12825 or drop by his office.

Classical Studies

Professor Lewis W. Leadbeater has published an article, "Aristophanes and O'Neill: Hickey as Comic Hero," in Classical and Modern Literature 12(4) (1992). His review of Richard Goodkin's The Tragic Middle: Racine, Aristotle, Euripides appears in the same issue.

English/Geology

R. Heather Macdonald, associate professor of geology, and Colleen Kennedy, assistant professor of English and director of the Writing Center, co-authored "Writing Assignments Augment Learning in Introductory Geology Courses" in the Journal of Geological Education, 1992.

"Writing assignments can be a valuable teaching tool to help students learn geology and develop their writing and thinking skills," the authors contend. "The view that writing is a process through which students learn, as well as a product that can be evaluated, has stimulated renewed interest in using writing assignments to teach geology. ... Many students have never written a paper for a science class and need instruction about expected content, format and style, and guidance in writing, reviewing, and revising papers. ... Although constructing and grading writing assignments does take time, the assignments involved students actively in learning, and demonstrate the importance of communication in the sciences to both science and non-science majors."

History

Richard B. Sherman, William E. Pullen Professor of History, spoke on the Odell Waller case at a panel discussion held at Radcliffe College on Sept. 26. The moderator was Charles Ogletree of the Criminal Justice Institute at Harvard Law School. Sherman is the author of The Case of Odell Waller and Virginia Justice, 1940-42, published by the University of Tennessee Press, which traces the case of a black sharecropper who was convicted of killing his white landlord. The case raised questions about justice in the United States at that time.

Lu Ann Homza, assistant professor, participated in a program "The Columbus Voyages: Enterprise of the Indies," which was held Sept. 30 at Aurora University, Aurora, Ill. Homza's talk was titled "Persecution and Prophecy in Columbus' World."

School of Education

Several faculty members participated in the second annual conference of the Commonwealth Institute for Child and Family Studies which met in Virginia Beach, Oct. 4-7.

Co-sponsored by the Virginia Department of Mental Health, Mental Retardation and Substance Abuse Services, the conference theme was "Multiple Perspectives on Children and Adolescents with Emotional or Behavioral Disorders."

College Would Benefit From Passage Of General Obligation Bonds

By Peggy Shaw

The General Obligation Bond Issue is a $613-million package of three separate bonds for higher education, mental health and parks and recreation facilities in Virginia. The bond issue was approved by the Virginia General Assembly during its 1992 session as a way of providing capital improvement money during a recession that has deprived the state of its ability to develop facilities through conventional means. The three bond referenda will appear on the November ballot. Approximately $472.4 million would be used for capital improvements in public higher education. Mental health programs would receive $45.1 million, and parks and recreation $95.3 million.

Chemistry and Applied Science

In 1969, when chemistry professor Robert A. Orwoll arrived at William and Mary, 15 chemistry majors were graduated annually from the College.

Today, according to Orwoll, William and Mary chemistry majors have increased four-fold, and yet space for those students is even more limited than it was then.

"The College ranks 17th in the country for the number of chemistry majors it graduates each year," Orwoll noted. "But we are really strained for space. We are desperate for space. A new sciences building would be an enormous relief."

Whether William and Mary will get that relief anytime soon depends heavily on passage of the General Obligation Bond Issue, which would assure construction of an $8.7 million physical sciences building adjacent to the Sunken Garden. (Some $6.1 million for that project would come from the bond issue.)

Other important projects that could be secured for William and Mary with passage of the bond issue include a $5.3 million renovation and modernization of James Blair Hall, an $8.5 million toxicology/pathobiology research facility at the Virginia Institute of Marine Science, and a $2.9 million facilities management complex designed to centralize physical plant functions — all projects that will affect the quality of campus life at William and Mary for many years to come.

Physics Professor Robert E. Welsh speculates that fewer undergraduate students will be able to participate in physics experiments on campus, for example, unless the College can find more space.

"Whenever we do experiments, the construction of equipment can take place here, where students can participate, or it can take place in a national lab," Welsh explained.

Recently, for instance, a large detector system was fabricated at William and Mary and then installed in a Long Island lab where the actual experiment will be conducted.

"In the future, if space continues to get tighter, we would have to do the construction of such apparatus farther from home and with less participation from undergrads," Welsh said.

Bond money for a new science building would also create space for the College's two-year-old Applied Science Program, which now occupies severely limited space in Rogers and Small halls.

"We went ahead with this new graduate program in Applied Science because we expected a building by the Tercentenary," explained Orwoll. "This year we have 26 students and a dozen William and Mary faculty teaching in the program."

With no new building on the horizon, however, Orwoll and others are concerned about how the fledgling program will grow.

"When we have department meetings to talk about various issues and someone says maybe we won't get this building, the room just falls silent," Orwoll said. "Nobody wants to talk about the possibility that we won't get this space. It's crucial."

Toxicology/Pathology Research

A new toxicology/pathobiology research facility at VIMS would allow students and professors "to pursue research at the cutting edge," according to Dennis Taylor, dean and director of the Virginia Institute of Marine Science/School of Marine Science. "It would allow us to be proactive and anticipatory rather than reactive to the needs of society," he said.

Facilities Management

Julius Green Jr., director of operations and facilities management at William and Mary, is also looking at the bond referendum and envisioning more space—a large space near the Dillard Complex where he can bring all of William and Mary's carpenters, mechanics and other tradesmen together.

Green, who has been with the College for 19 years, emphasized that a new facilities management complex would increase his operation's efficiency and save the College money at the same time.

"At the present time, we have an automotive shop that we can't get buses into because it's not large enough," Green explained. "We have to have a contract for another mechanic to work on them.

"With the new facility we'd have a built-in shop, and we'd be able to work on any vehicle the College has, even trash trucks."

Why Bonds?

If the referendum passes, bonds would be issued at a fixed interest rate (similar to a homeowner's mortgage) at a time when interest rates are at a two-decade low. For that reason, the bonds are a particularly cost-effective method of paying for campus facilities, according to Gordon Davies, director of the State Council of Higher Education for Virginia.

Local taxes would not have to be raised to pay for the bonds since the bonds are the obligation only of the Commonwealth. Principal and interest on the bonds would be paid from the state general fund, which includes state taxes and lottery proceeds. Debt service would cost less than 1 percent of the general fund.

Economists have said that Virginia's Triple-A bond rating would not be jeopardized by the issuance of these bonds. Virginians for Progress Foundation estimates that the $600 million in projects will create at least 3,600 new jobs in the construction industry alone and generate $22 million in additional tax revenue for the state.

Approval of the bond referendum has been endorsed by newspapers such as the Daily Press in Newport News and the Virginian-Pilot in Norfolk, and supported by members of the statewide business community, including the Virginia Chamber of Commerce, Virginia Recreation and Parks Society, and the Virginia Association of Community Service Boards.

NOTES

Police Blotter

During the week of Sept. 27, the following incidents occurred on campus:

Five arrests for larceny involving bicycles, and one arrest for indecent exposure. Police were called to four alcohol/drug-related incidents resulting in four arrests.

Eleven larcenies were reported, including a .38 revolver, four bicycles, three license plates and four miscellaneous items. Five acts of vandalism to state and private property were reported, three obscene/annoying phone calls, one assault, one hate crime (threatening messages on voicemail), one disturbance in the fraternity complex, and one leaving the scene of an accident.

Tip of the week: Drinking and driving do not go together. This is Homecoming weekend. If you drink—have a designated driver, call a cab, take a bus or call Steer Clear at ext. 13292 for a ride.

If you are a passenger, don't ride with an intoxicated driver. Watch out for yourself and your friends. Don't drink and drive. Have a safe Homecoming.

Friends of WRL Book Sale Oct. 24

The Friends of the Williamsburg Regional Library will hold its annual fall book sale from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday, Oct. 24 and 1-5 p.m., Sunday, Oct. 25, at the library, which is located at the corner of Boundary and Scotland streets.

Members of the Friends are invited to a special preview of the sale from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., Thursday, Oct. 22. Membership may be purchased at the door the night of the preview.

Travel, biography, decorative arts, cookery and children's stories—as well as a special gift of books on early American history—will be available at the sale. Donations of books are welcome at the library.

Funds from the book sale help support the purchase of additional children's books for the Bookmobile collection, visits from outstanding authors and illustrators of children's books, foreign films on video, non-feature video series compact discs, non-fiction spoken books and a wide selection of reference resources.

For more information on the book sale contact Rowena Sadler at the library, 253-6558.
