WILLIAM & MARY

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER FOR FACULTY, STUDENTS AND STAFF

NEWS

VOLUME XXII, NUMBER 11 • WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1992

Town & Gown Luncheon

President Sullivan will be the speaker at the Town & Gown luncheon on Nov. 5. His topic will be "Tercentenary Perspectives."

Thomas L. Heacox, associate professor of English, will speak on "Czechoslovakia, Change, Education" at the Nov. 12 luncheon.

The luncheons will be held in the Campus Center ballroom at 12:15 p.m. Reservations are necessary and may be made by calling ext. 12640 before noon on the Tuesday preceding the luncheon.

Parking Services Offering Students Special Permits

Parking services is offering a William and Mary Hall pass to students who wish to bring cars back after Thanksgiving. This pass is valid only in the William and Mary hall lot, 24 hours a day. It costs $5 and is valid Nov. 26 through Dec. 21, 1992. Passes go on sale Nov. 16. The student needs to know the license plate number of his/her car in order to receive the Hall pass.

News Publication Schedule

There will be no issue of the William & Mary News on Wednesday, Nov. 25. The News will be printed Dec. 2 and 9, before the holidays.

Those who wish to submit items and photographs for the News are reminded that the deadline is 5 p.m. on the Friday preceding publication.

The classified advertising columns are open to staff, faculty, students and alumni, without charge. Ads must be no longer than 40 words and will be printed in three consecutive issues. The deadline for ad copy is 5 p.m. on Thursday before publication.

REMINDERS

Community Outreach Week

Sunday, Nov. 8 is the final day of the week-long Community Outreach program, coordinated by Help Unlimited. Sunday has been designated as campus clean-up. Faculty, staff and students are asked to meet in the Common Glory parking lot at 12:30 p.m. and work during the afternoon. Scott Quatro, student activities coordinator, says he expects the project to be completed by 4 p.m. For details on this and other aspects of Community Outreach Week, call Quatro at ext. 12373 or David Moldavski at ext. 13294.

Public Participation Invited At Friday Session In PBK

Commission On Sexual Assault To Hold Hearing Here

The Commission on the Reduction of Sexual Assault Victimization in Virginia, headed by Lt. Gov. Donald S. Beyer Jr., will hold a public hearing on the draft of its report to the General Assembly at 1:30 p.m., Friday, Nov. 13 in the Dodge Room of Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

This is one of several hearings being held across the state. Anyone wishing to address the commission is invited to attend the meeting. Similar sessions are being held around the Commonwealth to provide input to the commission before it approves a final document.

Ira Berlin Next Commonwealth Center Speaker

The Commonwealth Center for the Study of American Culture will present a seminar Thursday, Nov. 12, titled "Rethinking Afro-American Slavery in the Mainland North America" by Ira Berlin, professor of history at the University of Maryland at College Park.

Professor Berlin has written extensively on American history in the 19th century, particularly on Southern and Afro-American life. His first book, Slaves Without Masters: The Free Negro in the Antebellum South (1975) won the Best First Book Prize awarded by the National Historical Society. He is the founder of the Freedom and Southern Society Project and the project's multi-volume Freedom: A Documentary History of Emancipation (1982, 1985, 1990) has been awarded the Thomas Jefferson Prize of the Society for History in the Federal Government and the J. Franklin Jameson Prize of the American Historical Association for outstanding editorial achievement.

Dr. Berlin's talk, which is offered in cooperation with the Institute of Early American History and Culture, will address new ways of studying and understanding the captivity of people of African descent in the United States by focusing on their role as workers. The lecture begins at 5 p.m. in Washington 201.

UVA Donates Jefferson Statue

A statue of Thomas Jefferson as a young man, a gift from the University of Virginia, will be dedicated in a public ceremony at 4 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 11.

John T. Casteen III, president of the University of Virginia, will be present at the dedication, along with President Timothy J. Sullivan and Lloyd Lillie, the sculptor.

The gift is being made in honor of the College's 300th anniversary celebration, which begins in 1993. The year also marks the 250th anniversary of Jefferson's birth.

The life-size bronze statue will be placed on the north side of Washington Hall. When the proposed Tercentenary Hall is completed, the statue will stand between the two buildings. The statue is similar to one located between the Darden School and the School of Law at the University of Virginia.

Lillie is sculptor of both the original and the gift to William and Mary. He is a professor of art at Boston University, and the same artist who created three 11-foot figures for the plaza at James Center in Richmond.

After the dedication, the guests will be invited to view "Thomas Jefferson and the Pursuit of Liberty," an award-winning film commissioned by the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation. The film will be shown in Washington 201.

The statue signifies the Jeffersonian link between the College and the University of Virginia. Jefferson studied at William and Mary in the early 1760s, helped revamp its curriculum as governor during the American Revolution and went on to establish the University of Virginia in Charlottesville in 1819.

Gore Center Looks Ahead To First Anniversary

The Sarah Ives Gore Child Care Center is coming to the end of its first year—the Center opened in January—and what a year it has been. The facility has 69 children, a waiting list of 18 infants and openings for six five- or six-year-olds. It has been a very successful year for a long-anticipated program.

Tucked behind the the Bookstore and the Off-Campus Student House on Jamestown Road, the facility itself makes a statement about the earnest care and consideration for children that continues inside. The building, designed by Jane Wright of the Hanbury, Evans, Newill, Vlatrtas and Co., was planned with a child's eye view—lots and lots of windows, some small and close to the floor, others wall-sized.

The operations of the center are controlled by the Williamsburg Campus Child Care, a parent co-op association with 17 staff members, and supervised by director Fran Dorsey, a lively woman who feels she's late for work if she isn't on the job by 6:15 or 6:30 a.m. The Center opens at 7 a.m. and serves breakfast and lunch, as well as snacks.

Parents are charged on a sliding scale according to income. The Center is self-supporting, and, like many other operations in today's economy, is feeling the pinch of trying to make ends meet. The executive board of the Center is expected to request an 8 percent increase in fees in the near future.

Funding, says Director Dorsey, is the main concern at the center. The building, she says, is "wonderful," with only minor problems that are easily fixed. Dorsey's longer term concern is to get the salaries of her staff up to the state level, but she doesn't see this being possible in the near future.

A fund-raising project coming up is the seventh annual Brunswick Stew and Bake Sale at the former location of the child care center at 126 Armistead Ave., across from the Sakura restaurant, on Saturday, Nov. 14, rain or shine, from noon to 4 p.m. The sale brings out all families with children at the center who come to help, to stir the stew and to sell cookies and cakes at the bake sale.

Tickets are currently being sold for quarts of Brunswick stew. Sales have been brisk, and planners are going to have 350 quarts ready for customers. There probably will not be any stew available without a ticket bought earlier. Those wishing to reserve a quart of Brunswick Stew are asked to call the Center at ext. 12121 for tickets.

The idea of the Brunswick stew and bake sale fundraiser originated with a parent, Emily Pease of Williamsburg, who offered a family recipe. The sale has grown from year to year, and this year's projected output is 100 quarts over last year's.

A visitor to the center quickly feels the sense of caring and enthusiasm that goes along with the bustle of everyday activity. Each age group has its own large room, filled with toys, plants and dress-up clothes and decorated with children's artwork. Every classroom opens onto the playyard, which includes play equipment and a track for riding tricycles. Friday was a special day because the children were going to take a stroll across Merchants Square for ice cream at Baskin Robbins in celebration of Halloween. Everyone, with the exception of the infants, participated in the outing. Infants

Visitors are welcome at the center. "A visit reconnects you with what's really important in life: children. Your own work and worries fade away," remarked one visitor. As Fran Dorsey says, "I tell people whenever they get too stressed to come over and spend some time at the center. All their problems disappear."

The Center is named for Sally Gore '56 of Newark, Del., a mom and former school teacher who has a strong commitment to children. "I've seen that the care children get when they're young isn't just important—it's absolutely crucial to who they become."

Upper right, Sylvia decides to skip the parade and relaxes with a bottle and her friend, Deborah Clark

Nominations Due For Jefferson Award

The Thomas Jefferson Awards Committee for the 1992-93 academic year will soon be meeting to choose this year's recipients of the annual Jefferson Award and the Jefferson Teaching Award.

The Jefferson Award was established to recognize a person who has demonstrated a deep devotion and outstanding service to the College and whose life, character and influence on the College exemplify the principles of Thomas Jefferson.

The Jefferson Teaching Award was established to recognize a younger teacher on the faculty. The recipient's personal character, concern as a teacher and influence demonstrate the stimulation and inspiration of learning for the betterment of the individual and society as exemplified in the life of Thomas Jefferson.

Nominations with supporting material should be sent to Jean Scott, acting associate provost, The Brafferton Kitchen, no later than Dec. 18.

Telecommunications Grab Bag

About September Student Bill ...

STUDENTS!! Please look at your bill closely. If you made any calls from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on the weekends, your calls were priced at $.20/minute instead of $.14/minute. If you have any of these calls on your bill, please bring your bill to Telecommunications in the basement of Blow Memorial Hall and we will remove the difference from your account.

About Voicemail ...

There have recently been reports to Telecommunications of messages not reaching mailboxes until hours or even a day later than when it was actually sent. This problem began occurring at the beginning of the fall semester when usage increased. Telecommunications has reported the trouble to the manufacturer of the voicemail system and we hope they can resolve it as soon as possible.

About on-campus calls ...

We are noticing an increased number of telephone calls that are dialed incorrectly from one campus extension to another. Several users are dialing 7-221-XXXX to reach another on-campus extension. When dialing on-campus, dial only the last five digits of the number (IXXXX). College extensions range from 11000 through 16499. Also, if you need to reach the College information operators from a campus phone, all you have to dial is 0; to reach them from an off-campus phone, dial 221-4000. You cannot reach the operators on campus by dialing 14000.

About AT&T Calling Cards ...

We now have access directly to AT&T for calling card users. To place a call with your AT&T calling card outside the 804 area code, dial 5 - wait 3 seconds - area code and number. To place a call within the 804 area code, dial 5 - wait 3 seconds - 7-digit number. Please be aware that AT&T is not authorized to place any calls within our C&P calling area which includes all of Hampton Roads.

About Overseas Information...

AT&T is the only long distance company that has overseas information operators. If you need a number overseas, you must follow the steps above by dialing 5 - wait 3 seconds - any area code and number. This will give you the AT&T tone. Hold on and an operator will come on. Ask this operator to transfer you to an overseas operator. THERE IS A CHARGE FOR THIS CALL! You will be asked to provide your calling card number to which to bill the call. If you are an employee and need to reach overseas information, you must have your department calling card number. If your department does not have a calling card, your telephone coordinator must send a memo to Telecommunications to request that one be ordered.

Please call x11776 with any questions concerning the information above.

Tina Nichols

18th-Century Crime & Courts Topic Of IEAHC Paper

David H. Flaherty of the University of Western Ontario will present a paper titled "Crime and the Courts in 18th-Century Boston" on Tuesday, Nov. 10 at 7:30 p.m. at the Institute of Early American History and Culture located in Swem Library.

This essay focuses on the crimes that were prosecuted before the Superior Court of Judicature (the Assizes) in the English province of Massachusetts Bay between 1692, when this high court was created under a new royal charter, and 1780, when the independent state changes the name of the court to what it is today.

Flaherty's general findings about the extent of serious criminality in Massachusetts as a whole are that the society featured a strong commitment to the rule of law, an effective system of criminal prosecution at the Assizes and a system of popular, democratic justice. Stability and relative continuity characterized the society itself and the system of criminal justice in the 18th century. In his view, the system of social control was quite effective in discouraging, preventing and prosecuting serious crimes, making the province an ordered and orderly society.

The most important components included a conscious effort to maintain a homogeneous population, a pattern of collective settlement in townships, an effective system of prosecuting serious breaches of the criminal law, the commitment of elite groups in town, church, country, and province to law and order, and the role of the family in teaching and assuring appropriate behavior.

Copies of the paper are available for reading at the Institute, the History Dept, and the Commonwealth Center.

THE NICHE

Department of Biology Student-Faculty Newsletter

Volume 5, Number 1

College of William and Mary

October 1992

With the October issue, The Niche, the department of biology student-faculty newsletter begins its fifth year.

From a modest beginning with a circulation of several hundred, we now send out 1,500 copies to biology faculty, staff and students on campus, as well as more than 400 alumni subscribers and dozens of on-campus friends and administrators at the College," noted the editors Chris Beck and Sally Hunsucker.

The Niche is published quarterly.

Subscription requests should be forwarded with $10 to Lawrence Wiseman, department of biology. The October issue contains 14 pages of stories and illustrations that have appeal for lay readers as well as scientists, as well as a list of the top ten music groups favored by biologists, and the top ten reasons to become a field biologist.

Laura X Plans Meetings In Campus Center, Law School

Laura X, director of the National Clearinghouse on Marital and Date Rape in Berkeley, Calif., will hold a program at 4 p.m., Tuesday, Nov. 10 in the Campus Center Little Theater, titled "When A Woman Says No, It Is Rape: The Social, Legal, Political, Psychological, Historical and Economic Meaning of Date/Martial Rape." This meeting is being sponsored by the undergraduate group, Women's Issues, and the Mary and William Law Society. It will include a video segment of a debate on marital rape between Laura X and an attorney, moderated by Ed Bradley, which appeared on "60 Minutes."

She will also hold a meeting at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law at 4 p.m., Wednesday, Nov. 11, room 119. The topic under discussion will be "Marital Rape, Constitutional Issues, the 13th and 14th Amendments and Privacy." This program is being sponsored by the Mary and William Law Society and Students for Ethical, Racial and Cultural Harmony, SERCH.

The National Clearinghouse on Marital and Date Rape was established in 1978 as a project of the Women's History Research Center, which Laura X founded in 1968. Laura X has been cited many times for her work, including a Woman of Achievement Award from Mademoiselle magazine as well as commendations by the American Library Association and former Surgeon General C. Everett Koop.

Laura X's message will focus on laws that affect marital rape and allow a husband "the privilege to rape his wife if no serious physical injury occurs and the incident is not reported within 10 days."
