WILLIAM & MARY

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER FOR FACULTY, STUDENTS AND STAFF

NEWS

VOLUME XXII, NUMBER 17 • WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 27, 1993

Tickets Available For Feb. 8 Luncheon

Johan H. Meesman, The Netherlands Ambassador to the United States, will be guest speaker at a tercentenary luncheon at 1 p.m., Monday, Feb. 8, in Trinkle Hall.

This luncheon is open to members of the campus community and the general public. Tickets are $10 and should be requested by mail from the Special Events Office at James Blair 210. Off-campus requests should be mailed to: The College of William and Mary, James Blair Hall, Room 210, P.O. Box 8795, Williamsburg, VA 23187-8795.

The luncheon follows the Campus Assembly on the steps of the Wren Building, which will be the first major event of the tercentenary week. Classes have been cancelled from noon to 1 p.m. to enable students to join the assembly being held on the anniversary date of the Charter signed in 1693 by King William III and Queen Mary II, establishing the College.

The William and Mary Concert Band and the Choir will participate in the ceremony, which will feature a reading from the Royal Charter, remarks by President Sullivan and reflections from selected members of the College family.

The Assembly will also be the occasion for the unveiling of the postal card being issued by the U.S. Postal Service, which features a watercolor picture of the Wren Building.

'Buckets For Books' Basketball Game Feb. 6

The Athletic Department has designated the game at 2 p.m., Saturday, Feb. 6, against CAA rival American University, as "Buckets for Books" to benefit Swem Library. This is the second year for the "Buckets for Books" program.

Tickets are $7 per person, with proceeds going to Swem Library. The funds are used for library acquisition.

Tickets are available by calling the box office at W&M Hall, ext. 13356. Tickets will also be available the door prior to game time.

Alumni Come Back To Advise

Saturday Is Career Exploration Day

John D. Strom

June B. Edwards

The opportunity to hear from graduates working in a variety of fields, to get insider information about many different careers and to collect tips on getting that all important first job expected to draw a large number of students to the annual Career Exploration Day, Saturday, Jan. 30.

The program will be held in Morton Hall and will begin at 11 a.m. It is open to all students, graduate and undergraduate. No advance registration is required. Refreshments will be provided for all participants from 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. in the foyer of Morton Hall.

Sponsored by the Society of the Alumni and the Office of Career Services, the day-long program is a series of informal question-and-answer sessions with three-member panels of graduates.

Each year about 60 alumni, many of them from out-of-state, come at their own expense to participate in the program. Many returnees say they

Volunteers Sought To Help With Physics Olympiad

The College will host the International Physics Olympiad in July, and campus coordinator Hans C. vonBaeyer, professor of physics, is seeking assistance.

"We will need volunteers as monitors, ushers, helpers, and companions at parties and games," says vonBaeyer.

"In addition to volunteers, we are looking for 40 official guides, who will be trained for a day or two at the end of the spring semester and will then spend the entire week of July 10-18 with their respective national teams. They will receive lodging and food, and a stipend of $300, as well as free admission to all activities.

Knowledge of physics is not required; language skills are highly desirable, but not absolutely necessary. We are interested in finding speakers of European and more exotic languages, but also people with experience in summer camps and other social groups.

Anyone who would like to participate in this unique event—faculty, staff or student—is invited to write or phone Professor vonBaeyer at Small 164, ext. 13529. If leaving a voice phone message or writing for information, please furnish both a telephone number and an address where you can be reached.

More than 200 high school seniors from 40 countries are expected to compete in the weeklong program, which has been described as an "Olympiad for the Mind." Examinations during the week will determine the winners of medal awards at the closing ceremony, but along with the serious matters there will be time for touring and visits to Busch Gardens, Water Country U.S.A., NASA, Virginia Beach and CEBAF, as well as banquets and parties.

This is the first time the Olympiad has been held in the United States.

Faculty Lecture Series

Robert Maccubbin, professor of English, will speak on "Royal Patronage and Propaganda in the 1690s" at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Feb. 4 in Washington 201.

This is the second in the History of the College series, designed especially for the College's tercentenary celebration.

Future speakers will include the following:

Wednesday, Feb. 17—Thad Tate, Forest P. Murden Jr. Professor of History Emeritus, "The Founding of William and Mary and the College's Colonial History."

Tuesday, Feb. 23—James Kornwolf, professor of fine arts, "A History of Architecture and Landscape at William and Mary in Its 1st Century."

Thursday, March 18—Ludwell H. Johnson III, professor of history emeritus, "From War to War: The College, 1782-1862."

Tuesday, April 6—Richard B. Sherman, William E. Pullen Professor of History, "Entering the Modern World: William and Mary, 1919-1945."

The series will conclude on April 14 with a talk on the history of the College since World War II, speaker TBA.

Macdonald Named Top Geology Teacher

Heather Macdonald, associate professor of geology, a Thomas Jefferson Teaching Award recipient, has been named the 1992 Biggs Earth Science Teacher Award recipient by the Geological Society of America.

This is the first time the award has been given. It was established to be given annually to the most outstanding earth science college or university teacher in the United States, with 10 years or less of teaching experience. The BEST award is financed by the GSA Foundation's Donald L. and Carolyn N. Biggs Excellence in Earth Education Fund.

Macdonald's selection, says Bruce Goodwin, chairman of geology, "reflects well not only on her and our department, but on William and Mary in general as a pacesetter in undergraduate education. It is good that on our 300th anniversary we are still leading the country." Goodwin added that the donor organization, GSA, is the major professional organization and includes members from all walks of geological endeavor.

Macdonald received her undergraduate degree from Carleton College and her graduate degrees from the Univer-

'An Evening With Gloria Naylor' Opens College's Observance Of Black History Month

Celebrated author Gloria Naylor will open the College's observance of Black History Month with a lecture at 8 p.m., Friday, Feb. 5 in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

Following her lecture Naylor will hold a book signing in the Dodge Room of PBK. A reception will follow her presentation.

"I wanted to become a writer," says Gloria Naylor, "because I felt that my presence as a black woman and my perspective as a woman in general had been under-represented in American literature."

Naylor has added this perspective with the publication of The Women of Brewster Place, Linden Hills and Mama Day. Her latest book is Bailey's Café.

This lecture and reception is free and open to the public.

Society Announces Staff Appointments

Recent Appointments Noted

George E. Perry

Jessica Frank

Perry Joins Alumni Staff, Frank Promoted

The Society of the Alumni has appointed George E. Perry to its staff as assistant director of alumni records and information systems in November.

Perry is responsible for programming, report generation, hardware and software support, and supervision of the data entry staff.

Prior to joining the society, Perry worked as a systems analyst for Union Camp Corp. in Franklin, Va. He is a 1990 graduate of Elon College in North Carolina.

Perry replaces Jessica Frank, who was promoted to director of alumni records and information systems in September, following the resignation of Ben F. Kellam III '78. Frank is responsible for overall management of the department. Before joining the society in 1991, she worked as a consultant in developing laboratory information management systems software and with the National Conference of Bar Examiners as supervisor of computer operations, both in Chicago. Originally from Iowa, she received her undergraduate and master's degrees in English at the University of Iowa.

Daspit New Writer For University Relations

Kelly Daspit has been appointed the new information writer in University Relations.

Her responsibilities include support for development activities and writing a variety of public relations projects.

Daspit is a 1991 graduate in mass communications from Virginia Commonwealth University.

She formerly worked at Anheuser-Busch Corporation as the public relations representative for Busch Entertainment and fills the position formerly held by Sara Piccini.

Daspit, whose interests include reading and writing, lives in Newport News with her husband, Paul.

Medieval Studies To Add Reading Group

Medieval and renaissance studies will hold an informal reading group this spring.

Up to about a dozen participants can be accommodated, and faculty may nominate especially gifted students. Copies of texts will be supplied by the program in medieval and renaissance studies. The timetable for the discussions will be announced after participants verify their semester schedules.

All faculty members are welcome, and students who wish to participate are invited to ask a faculty member to nominate them for inclusion.

Questions regarding the reading group should be directed to George D. Greenia, director of the program in medieval and renaissance studies in the department of modern languages, at ext. 13676.

sity of Wisconsin at Madison.

The following is excerpted from the citation by Goodwin in GSA Today magazine:

"A letter from a former undergraduate student in Heather's laboratory section at Wisconsin clearly shows that her classroom skills were developing early. He wrote that 'Heather had a wonderful combination of in-depth knowledge of geology, likeable personality, clear communication skills, and easy-going delivery style that all came out when she was in the front of the classroom.

fluences in my desire to become a geologist.' These comments are typical, and both are from students who are now pursuing graduate degrees in geology.

"Heather's courses, which range from physical geology to sedimentology, are rigorous and comprehensive, and she uses a variety of teaching techniques. Her teaching philosophy is to stimulate the students to be active learners, to get them to think for themselves and to both challenge students and encourage them. In her courses, students take an active role in learning, and through Heather's

Heather Macdonald in the classroom.

"Student comments on her course evaluation stress her enthusiasm and love for geology, her concern for the students as individuals, and her success as a teacher. One former student commented that she 'is one of those unusual teachers, who manages to combine a comprehensive and challenging class with one that is both interesting and fun. Her students are easily involved through her hands-on teaching style and genuine concern and interest for their needs.' Another student stated, 'Her love of teaching and her excitement about earth science is contagious. She was one of the main in-creative techniques, the students improve their ability to communicate both orally and in writing. Her pace-setting work on using writing to teach geology in both small and large classes has attracted much attention through her articles published in the Journal of Geological Education and elsewhere. Heather also teaches by supervising individual students on their research projects and has provided support for many of them through her grants. One student wrote that during the course of the senior project, 'I came to appreciate what it is really like to do scientific research.'

Departments & Schools

Biology

Professor C. Richard Terman, recently had his paper "Hermaphroditism in a White-footed Mouse (Peromyscus leucopus noveboracensis), published in the American Midland Naturalist 128:411-415.

English

Carl Dolmetsch, professor of English emeritus, has contributed to two new publications, The Mark Twain Encyclopedia, published by Garland Publishing Co., Hamden, Conn., and The New Grove Dictionary of Opera. Dolmetsch serves as music columnist for the Virginia Gazette, and staff reviewer for Opera Canada and contributes to several other music periodicals in the U.S., Great Britain and Europe.

Chemistry

Gary C. DeFotis, Garrett-Robb-Guy Professor of Chemistry, presented three papers at the 37th annual Conference on Magnetism and Magnetic Materials held in Houston, Dec. 1-4. "Antiferromagnetism of Ni (SCN)<sub>2</sub>" was co-authored by former undergraduates Kevin Dell and Daniel Krovich, and current undergraduate Wayne Brubaker.

"Relaxation of the Insulating Spin Glass Co<sub>1-x</sub>Mn<sub>x</sub>Cl<sub>2</sub>·2H<sub>2</sub>O" was coauthored by former undergraduate Kevin Dell.

"Quasi-two-dimensional Antiferromagnetism in Fe[S<sub>2</sub>CNC<sub>4</sub>H<sub>8</sub>]<sub>2</sub>I" was co-authored with former undergraduate Richard Chamberlain, and with J. A. Lukin and S. A. Friedberg of Carnegie-Mellon University.

DeFotis also delivered an invited seminar titled "Some Novel Magnetic Systems, Theory and Practice" in the inorganic chemistry colloquium series at the University of Houston.

Government/School of Education

Brian W. Blouet, Hubby Professor of Geography and International Education, and Olwyn M. Blouet (Virginia State University) have published a second edition of their book, Latin America and the Caribbean: A Systematic and Regional Survey (John Wiley).

Sociology

"Keeping Intellectually Alive" by Wayne Kernodle, professor emeritus, was published in the special winter issue of Senior Times. Kernodle, who with his wife, Ruth, established the Christopher Wren Association for lifelong learning, has been named to the International Council of the Center for Conflict Analysis and Resolution at George Mason University.

Psychology

Professor Kelly G. Shaver recently attended the joint meeting of the Gateway Entrepreneurship Research Conference and the National Enterprise Development Institute of Canada, held in Toronto, Ontario. While in Ontario, Shaver presented a research colloquium, titled "The Attribution of Blame," at the University of Waterloo, the University of Western Ontario, the University of Toronto and Queens University.

School of Business Administration

Wanda A. Wallace, the John H. Dalton Professor of Business Administration and the associate dean for academic affairs, participated in the "American Accounting Association/Financial Accounting Standards Board Financial Reporting Research Conference at the Harvard Business School, Dec. 3-5. Wallace has been formally reappointed to the Financial Accounting Standards Advisory Council for 1993 by the trustees of the Financial Accounting Foundation.

Wallace and co-author Scott Summers (a doctoral student at Texas A&M University) had their article, "Applying APB No. 21: When to Impute Rates of Interest?" published in The CPA Journal, Dec. 1992.

Wallace and co-author Teresa L. Conover from the University of North Texas, have had their paper titled "Equity Market Benefits to Disclosure of Geographic Segment Information: An Argument for Decreased Uncertainty" accepted and scheduled for presentation at the 1993 Southwest regional meeting of the American Accounting Association in New Orleans, La., March 3-6. Conover will make the presentation.

Marshall-Wythe School of Law

Professor Jayne W. Barnard's paper, "How Legal Principles Thwart Responsible Corporate Behavior: The Case of Tobacco," has been accepted for presentation at the fourth annual conference of the International Association for Business and Society in San Diego in March.

Paul Marcus, Haynes Professor of Law, has been named to the ABA's committee on white collar crime.

Professor Lynda Butler's article "Private Land Use, Changing Public Values, and Notions of Relativity," was published in the most recent issue of the Brigham Young Law Review. Butler writes about the need to revise current thinking regarding constitutional protections for private expectations for land use and the need for "relativity" in defining the limits of those rights from time to time.

Neal E. Devins, associate professor, has had an article "A Symbolic Balanced Budget Amendment," published in the most recent issue of the Journal of Law and Politics. The essence of this article is captured in Devin's introductory sentence, "Here we go again!" This article will be of special interest to those who have been following the debate about such an amendment or the various other means proposed to limit taxing and spending.

NOTES

Applications Due Friday For Minor Research Grants

Applications for up to $500 for research projects are available in the Grants office in James Blair 201 (or call Anne Womack at ext. 13967 to order through campus mail).

Four copies of the application must be returned to the Grants Office by 5 p.m., Friday, Jan. 29.

PCP Update

Lim H. Christopher, pediatrics, MC746, Newport News, has been added to the list of Primary Care Physicians for the area.

The following physician has been removed from the list: Gonzalo, Toti P., family practice, M3725, Newport News.

Student Assistant Openings

The Video Services Office of Instructional Technology Services has openings for student assistants. The job requires availability for at least three hours per day and includes many night and weekend hours.

Previous experience with video and audio equipment is preferred, and a strong interest in production is required.

Students will be responsible for the operation of video and audio equipment, office record keeping and other applicable duties.

Contact Karen Dolecki at ext. 12394 for more information.

FAXCALL Added To Voice Mail System

Telecommunications has added a new feature to the College voicemail system called FAXCALL. It will allow respective departments to establish a mailbox that will hold documents and permit callers to have these documents faxed to them when they call from a fax machine.

Departments do not need a fax machine to activate this feature; the initial document only needs to be faxed into the FAXCALL mailbox. The telecommunications' fax is available to faculty/staff who do not have access to a fax machine. The FAXCALL mailbox is very useful for mailing forms or other documents in that it saves postage and is received immediately. Some possible uses on campus would be to fax lists of events, applications, course descriptions, schedules, campus maps or directions. Departments interested in setting up FAXCALL mailbox, should call Tina Nichols at ext. 11791 to discuss possible applications and cost involved.

Space Grant Consortium Scholarships Deadline

The deadline to apply for scholarships and fellowships offered by the Virginia Space Grant Consortium for the 1993-94 academic year is Feb. 5.

To encourage young people to study engineering and the sciences, the Consortium has established annual undergraduate scholarships of up to $8,500 and graduate fellowships of $5,000, which are renewable up to three years. A minimum of $150,000 is awarded annually to qualifying students in aerospace-related disciplines at the five VSG colleges, of which William and Mary is one.

An application packet, which provides complete details of the program, may be obtained from the Virginia Space Grant Consortium, 2713-D Magruder Blvd., Hampton, VA 23666 or call 865-0726.

Crozier Does Substance Abuse Counseling

Since the fall of 1991, when the College Counseling Center named Mary Crozier to a new position designed to focus solely on substance abuse and education, the number of substance education programs and referrals have exceeded expectations.

During the spring of 1992, 64 outreach education programs on alcohol and other drugs reached 1,446 students. During the fall of 1992, 42 programs reached 1,407 students, plus "The Free Information of Student Health Bowl" was added in the Campus Center.

Thirty trained students volunteered 285 hours last semester and reached 294 faculty, staff and students with information on wellness, substance abuse, sexual assault, HIV, STD's, educational program ideas and posters, referral information and research materials for academic papers.

Referrals for substance abuse counseling jumped from three in the fall of 1991 to 42 in the fall of 1992.

Substance abuse early intervention has steadily increased because of Crozier, who has been working with substance abuse prevention through community mental health centers for the past 12 years.

Mary Crozier

Crozier's position was created in 1991 partly as a result of a $135,184 College grant from Funds for the Improvement of Post-Secondary Education (FIPSE), a federal program which is part of the U.S. Department of Education.

Dr. Philip Meilman, director of the Counseling Center and overseer of the grant, said "the emphasis for the grant has been put on alcohol because it is the drug of choice among the college community. Surveys show that use at (the College) is about the same as the national norm for alcohol consumption, although it is significantly lower when comparing use of other drugs."

Crozier has also recently been trained to deliver one of the nation's leading alcohol prevention programs for college students titled "OCTAA-On Campus ... Talking About Alcohol."

The classroom course, which last seven to nine hours, is carefully designed to reduce the risk of students experiencing any type of alcohol related problems.

Crozier is available to deliver OCTAA upon request, to campus groups. For more information, call her at ext. 13631.

New Tax Law Affects Refunds From Retirement Fund

Changes in the tax law enacted by Congress last July will affect VRS members who are planning to leave state employment positions and take a refund of VRS contributions.

Effective Jan. 1, 1993, the law requires VRS to withhold 20 percent of the taxable amount of a refund for federal income tax unless employees have the VRS transfer the funds directly to an IRA or another qualified employer plan where funds would continue to be tax-deferred. (Current law provides a 10 percent withholding amount.) If you are a Virginia resident at the time of your refund, VRS is also required to withhold 4 percent in state income tax.

If You Choose A Direct Rollover

Your payment will not be taxed in the current year and no income tax will be withheld.

Your payment will be made directly to your IRA or, if you choose, to another employer plan that accepts your rollover.

Your payment will not be taxed until you take it out of the IRA or the employer plan.

If You Choose To Have Your Refund Paid To You

If you are a Virginia resident at the time of your refund, you will receive only 76 percent of the payment because VRS is required to withhold 20 percent of the payment to be credited against your federal income taxes and an additional 4 percent for state income taxes.

Your payment must be reported as taxable income in the current year unless you roll it over. You may be able to use special tax rules that could reduce the tax you owe. However, if you receive the payment before age 59-1/2, you also may have to pay an additional 10% penalty.

After receiving the payment, you can still decide to roll it over to your IRA or to another employer plan that accepts your rollover, provided you do it within 60 days of receiving the payment. The amount rolled over will not be taxed until you take it out of the IRA or employer plan.

If you want to roll over 100 percent of the payment to an IRA or an employer plan, you must find other money to replace the 20 percent or 24 percent that was withheld. If you roll over only the amount that you received, you will be taxed on the 20 percent or 24 percent that was withheld and not rolled over.

Retirement Seminar Planned In February

On Tuesday, Feb. 23 in the Campus Center room E from 11 a.m. to noon and 3 to 4 p.m., the Personnel Services office will hold seminars on how to invest for retirement. Sign up coupons have been mailed out. Please reply by Feb. 15 to Rita Metcalfe, Office of Personnel Services, ext. 13158.

Tewathaw Reviea

Tewathaw Reviea Wins Dieters Award

Tewathaw Reviea won the drawing for $50 cash for the participants of the CommonHealth "Maintain, Don't Gain" Challenge. Those who resisted holiday cookies, egg nog and other temptations to maintain their weight within two pounds from Nov. 25 through Jan. 4, were eligible for the drawing. All those who successfully completed the challenge will receive a CommonHealth coffee mug. Those eligible for mugs are asked to stop by Adair 103 Tuesday or Thursday between 12:15 and 12:45 p.m., or call ext. 12776 to arrange a pick-up time.

Employees were also challenged to participate in the "Gimme Five" Challenge to eat at least five fruits and vegetables from the vitamin A, vitamin C, fiber groups each day for at least 18 out of the 30 days during the holidays. Emily Shriver, office assistant in the Marshall-Wythe School of Law Library; John Avioli, husband of Georgianna Avioli, lecturer in mathematics; and Reviea were the only three out of 27 participants to successfully complete this challenge. Each will receive a copy of the American Heart Association Cookbook.

Health Service Hours Change For Spring Semester

Dear Students,

Before the winter break, we announced that the Student Health Service may have to temporarily discontinue overnight operations due to a persistent vacancy in a night shift nurse position. Although a search is continuing for a new nurse to work the overnight shift, we regret that the Health Service will have to be closed from 11 p.m. to 8 a.m. beginning this spring semester until the vacancy is filled.

This closing of the Health Service will affect the way in which students access medical assistance during overnight hours. Students with injuries or sudden illnesses who need assistance before the Health Service opens in the morning should seek treatment at the Emergency Room at Williamsburg Community Hospital. While students will be unable to stay overnight in the Health Service for observation of medical problems, students in serious psychological distress will continue to be evaluated on a urgent basis at the Health Service, regardless of the time of day or night.

The Health Service will continue to operate between 8 a.m. and 11 p.m.—cold packs will still be available until 9 p.m. and a nurse will be on duty until closing time. As before, a Health Service physician will be on call at night to provide consultation for nurses and other College professional staff. Physicians' office hours will remain 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

If you live on campus, you should contact a Residence Life staff member in your area if problems occur when the Health Service is closed. These staff will assist students in contacting the Emergency Room for sudden or worsening medical problems in the night. Transportation for non-life-threatening conditions will be available through Campus Police as quickly as an officer can be dispatched to your location. If you live off-campus, you are also advised to visit the Emergency Room for any significant injury or illness in the night.

ALL STUDENTS SHOULD CALL 911 FOR ANY MEDICAL PROBLEMS WHICH REQUIRE IMMEDIATE ASSISTANCE.

If you would like more information about nighttime access to medical care for students, you may call the Health Service at ext. 14386. Please know that we plan to resume 24-hour service as soon as we possibly can.

Sincerely,

Linda V. Herrmann, M.D.
Director, King Student Health Service

Student Singers Unite For Charter Week Concert

Student a capella groups will combine their talents in the second annual benefit concert, "Voices for the Future," sponsored by the Student Advancement Association, Sunday, Feb. 7 in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

Tickets are $5 for W&M faculty and students; $6 for the general public. Tickets may be reserved by calling the SAA office at ext. 12051. Tickets will be held for patrons at the PBK box office the evening of the performance.

A reception will be held following the concert in the Dodge Room of PBK, and wine donated by the North Mountain Winery in Maurertown, Va., will be sold to boost benefit funds. Proceeds from the concert will go to an endowed scholarship given annually to a student on a needs basis. All money raised by the SAA for the scholarship is matched by the J. Andrew Lark '79 Matching Grant.

The Stairwells, a 14-member group formed in 1990, will select songs from their repertoire, which includes 50s' songs to contemporary music. Directed by David Purrington, The Stairwells perform each New Year's Eve in Winchester at a city-sponsored family night program.

The Gentlemen of the College will sing songs in the traditional American spirit, including barbershop and contemporary. Their leader is Mike Fitch.

Erin Fries is president, and Lori Manganelli director of The Intonations, a group formed when eight women from the same freshman hall decided to organize a singing group. The group has now expanded to 14 members.

The Ebony Expressions has 48 members. It is a gospel group that extends its ministry through song. Directed by Angela Hayes, the Ebony Expressions perform on campus and have also been invited to give concerts at other college campuses in Virginia. Their pianist is Michael Jones.

The Christopher Wren Singers specialize in music from the Renaissance period, including madrigals. Their repertoire also includes sacred music. They are directed by Jason Flemmons and last sang publicly at the Grand Illumination, which ushers in the Christmas season in Williamsburg.

The Botetourt Chamber Singers are an ensemble from the William and Mary Choir that maintains a busy schedule of performances throughout the year. They are preparing for the Choir's annual spring tour along the eastern seaboard and for a European Tour which will include performances in France, Germany, Switzerland, The Netherlands and England.

SAA is a student organization devoted to its motto, "Students Helping Students," through its fund-raising activities and its role as student ambassadors for the College. The SAA was founded in 1987 by undergraduates to develop an endowment consciousness at the undergraduate level.

Faculty Symposia Set For Feb. 12

The Tercentenary Programs Subcommittee is sponsoring four faculty symposia on Friday afternoon, Feb. 12, in connection with the Charter Day festivities. Faculty, students and alumni are invited to attend.

The symposia will include discussions of curricular developments in the undergraduate program of the College, the ethics of genetic engineering, problems in marketing American-made products abroad and current research into the influence of gender on learning and communications skills.

Persons interested in attending any of these programs may acquire tickets on a first-come, first-served basis, in the following manner:

Faculty and staff members may pick up tickets in the Campus Center lobby from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., Feb. 2-4.

Tickets for students will be made available along with the issuance of Charter Day convocation tickets, from 2 to 7 p.m., Feb. 1-5, on the second floor of James Blair Hall.

Bringing the 21st Century Home To William and Mary: A Progress Report On the Undergraduate Curriculum

2:15 to 3:30 p.m., Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall

Participants: Anne M. Pratt '70, associate director, Council of Higher Education in Virginia; Clyde A. Haulman, dean, Undergraduate Studies; and Karen McNeish '93, a member of the Curriculum Review Steering Committee.

America's Image Abroad: A Real Problem or Merely A Marketing Challenge?

2:15 to 3:30 p.m., Campus Center Ballroom

Moderator: Alfred N. Page, dean,

School of Business Administration.

Participants: Todd Mooradian, assistant professor, School of Business Administration; James Olver, assistant professor, School of Business Administration; Walter Pelaexz, Tariq Ahmad and Diego Andruw Osuna, undergraduate students. Graduate student, TBA.

Do Women Learn, Think, Reason and Communicate Differently Than Men?

Moderator: Gail McEachron-Hirsch, assistant professor of sociology

Participants: Colleen Kennedy, assistant professor of English, director, Writing Resources Center.

Splicing Genes and Playing God: Genetic Manipulation for Good and Ill

Moderator: David W. Thompson, Chancellor Professor of Chemistry

Participants: Lawrence Wiseman, professor of biology; Leonard G. Schifrin, Chancellor Professor of Economics; William F. Losito, Heritage Professor of Education.

Also on Friday afternoon, invited guests will be taking guided tours of several new exhibitions, including "A Golden Age of Painting: Dutch, Flemish and German Paintings from the 16th-17th Century" and "The Fine Art of Drawing" (both running through March 21) at the Muscarelle Museum and "300 Years of Distinction: The College of William and Mary, 1693 to 1993" (through Nov. 30) and "The History of Women in Virginia" (through April 30) at the Earl Gregg Swem Library. These guided tours are over-subscribed for Feb. 12 but the exhibits will remain on display as indicated.

Japanese Film Festival Begins Feb. 7

The College's Japanese Film Festival will open with the showing of "The Makioka Sisters" at 7:30 p.m., Sunday, Feb. 7 in the Williamsburg Regional Library on Scotland Street.

Sponsored by the Williamsburg Regional Library, the East Asian Studies Program and the Student Association, the series is made possible by the Japan Foundation.

"The Makioka Sisters" by Junichiro Tanizaki, is directed by Kon Ichikawa.

Other films (all will be shown at 7:30 p.m.) in the series include the following:

Feb. 1 "Rashomon"
Feb. 2 "Snow Country"
Feb. 28 "Woman in the Dunes"
March 21 "Floating Clouds."

Williamsburg Players Give Benefit Feb. 7

The Williamsburg Players will give a benefit performance of the comedy, "Lend Me A Tenor," for the Rita Welsh Adult Skills Program at 2 p.m., Sunday, Feb. 7.

Tickets are $12.50 and may be reserved by calling the ASP office at ext. 13325. The ticket price includes the play and a reception following the performance.

Written by American playwright Ken Ludwig, "Lend Me A Tenor" enjoyed a successful run in London and on Broadway. One of the leading roles in the local production is played by Stanley Kustesky, a graduate student in English and a volunteer in the Adult Skills Program.

Plant Sale

The Greenhouse Volunteers will hold a plant sale to benefit the greenhouse program associated with the biology department. Unique tropical species will be offered for sale on Jan. 29 from 10 a.m. to noon in the lobby outside the Millington main auditorium.

Gregor To Speak Jan. 28

Robert J. Gregor, department of physical sciences, University of California, Los Angeles and editor of the Journal of Applied Biomechanics, will give a talk on "The Dynamics of Muscular Contractions," at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 28 in the Botetourt Theatre of Swem Library.

This program is being sponsored by the department of kinesiology, the Kinesiology Majors Club and the Health Careers Club.

Gregor is internationally known in the area of force generation in muscle with more than 100 published articles and book chapters.

Weight Watchers To Begin Feb. 3

The At-Work Weight Watchers program which was to have started Jan. 28, has been postponed until Feb. 3.

Ten sessions will be held on Wednesdays at noon in the Office of Personnel Services, Thiemes House basement.

The cost is $99. To enroll call Jacqueline Smith in Personnel Services, ext. 13157.

Faculty Discussions On World Perspective

All sessions will be held at 7 p.m. in Tucker 120.

Feb. 16—"The Dissolution of the U.S.S.R.," Anthony Anemone, associate professor of modern languages and literatures, and Anne E. Henderson, assistant professor of government.

March 2—"Images of Catastrophe: Epidemics Past and Present," Shirley Lindenbaum, professor of anthropology, City University of New York.

March 16—"Perspectives on International Business," Kelly M. Leahy, assistant professor of business administration; and Jesse S. Tarleton, professor of business administration.

April 1—"Southeast and South Asia," Donald J. Baxter, associate professor

The Hardwick Chamber Ensemble

Concert Series Continues Feb. 4

The Hardwick Chamber Ensemble will present a lecture/recital at 8 p.m., Feb. 4 in the Ewell Recital Hall as part of the Ewell Concert Series at the College.

Tickets are $2 and will be available at the door. There are no advance ticket sales.

The program will feature works by several African-American composers, including William Grant Still, Ulysses Kay, George Walker, Dorothy Rudd Moore and Adolphus Hailstork, composer-in-residence at Norfolk State University.

The Hardwick Chamber Ensemble was formed in 1988 to serve as a performing ensemble for young audiences of Virginia. They have performed recitals for school assemblies, colleges and university audiences. For the past two seasons they have been awarded grants by the Chesapeake Fine Arts Commission.

Members include Marlene Ford, horn; Suzanne Schreck, violin; Jeanette Winsor, piano; and John Winsor, clarinet.

The Ewell Concert Series is sponsored by the department of music and funded by the Association of Parents.

Education Seminars Planned Jan. 30

The School of Education and the Graduate Student Association are sponsoring a series of seminars for undergraduates and graduate students who plan to teach K-12 titled "Challenges of the '90s: Current Issues in Education," Saturday, Jan. 30.

School of Education Dean John Nagle will give welcoming remarks at 8:30 in Millington Hall auditorium. A continental breakfast will be served in the foyer.

The seminars will be held 9:30 to 12:30 p.m. in Jones Hall.

Topics to be discussed will include: "Violence in the Classroom, Dysfunctional Families and the Classroom," "Working with School Administrations; and First Year Teachers—a Discussion of the First Year Experience."

For further information, contact Byrd Latham, director of support services, School of Education, at ext. 12319.

Swem Offers Free Database Searches

Campuswide events are crowding onto the Tercentenary calendar in celebration of the College's 300th birthday. Swem Library is offering monthly drawings for 25 free searches on the FirstSearch system—an easy-to-use, electronic reference system combining information from thousands of library catalogs throughout the world. FirstSearch also includes many bibliographic and full-text databases in a variety of subject areas.

Drawings will take place at Swem the first Friday of each month during the spring and fall semesters of 1993, starting on Feb. 5.

Entry blanks will be available at the reference desk and may be submitted any time up until the library closes the day before the drawing. Any currently enrolled William and Mary student may enter, and students do not have to be present at the drawing to win.

Contact Katherine McKenzie in the reference department, ext. 13069, for further information.

You don't need electronic searching experience to use FirstSearch. It has easy-to-follow menus that take the user through the search. In addition to the on-screen instructions, a guide is available at the reference desk of the library.

Contact Berna Heyman, assistant university librarian, at ext. 13059 for information about getting an authorization number and password for FirstSearch use. The current cost per search is 60 cents.

FirstSearch is available Monday through Friday, from 6 a.m. to 11 p.m.; Saturdays, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.; and Sundays from noon to 8 p.m.

Whiteley Is Brown Bag Luncheon Speaker

Paul Whiteley, Pamela Harriman Professor of Government and Public Policy, will open the Women's Studies brown bag series for the semester with a talk at noon, Wednesday, Feb. 3 in room E of the Campus Center.

He will take as his topic, "Thatcherism and the Conservative Party." Whiteley is currently working on a book about the British Conservative Party. With Patrick Seyd, lecturer in politics at the University of Sheffield, he recently published Labour's Grass Roots, the first partywide survey undertaken. The results were surprising and led The Economist, not given to much space for academic texts, to review it.

The authors were also delighted when they found parts of their work included in a major report by the National Executive Committee of the Labour Party.

Summer Study Abroad Programs

Students interested in summer programs abroad are invited to attend information sessions from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. this week in the Campus Center Atrium.

On Wednesday, Feb. 3, the program will be on the program in Florence. An informational program on the Cambridge program will be held on Thursday, Feb. 4.

For information, please contact the Program Abroad Office at ext. 13594.

Interest In Wallace Terry's Course Exceeds Expectations

A little curriculum revision is in order when a professor plans for a writing seminar of 15-20 students and enrollment for the first class is over 120.

Such is the position award-winning writer Wallace Terry finds himself in for his course, "Eyewitness to the Sixties: Malcolm X, Martin Luther King, Lyndon Johnson and the Vietnam War." He met his first class of the semester Thursday as the Harry C. and Tina Jordan Gravely Class of 1939 Artist-in-Residence. Registration has been handled by the Charles Center for Interdisciplinary Studies.

"I had in mind a writing seminar for 15 to 20," said Terry, "but the response was overwhelming, and I couldn't turn anyone away." Terry meets his class in Millington auditorium, Thursdays from 3:30 to 6:30 p.m. He says he welcomes student visitors.

His course, he explains, is largely based on his own experiences covering events of the Civil Rights movement and the Vietnam War, and also deals with the literature, film and documentary record that was produced by those two events.

"My big start in journalism came when I was a junior in college," recalls Terry. "Governor Faubus of Arkansas was locked in a showdown with President Dwight Eisenhower over the court-ordered integration of Central High School in Little Rock. Faubus went to the summer White House in Newport, R.I., to meet with the President. I got through the police barricades posing as a waiter. When he came out of his room, I asked him for an interview for all college students in America. The picture of the two of us shaking hands made front pages around the world." Terry explains that as the result of that journalistic coup, he was offered a job at the Washington Post when he was just 19.

"I was about the age of some of my students at the beginning of the 60s—fresh out of graduate school—when I went to Washington to work for the Washington Post. My first big assignment was going undercover in the Black Muslim movement.

When he left the Washington Post, Terry joined the staff of Time magazine. In 1963, he became the first black Washington correspondent for the major media. In 1967 he left for Vietnam where he became deputy bureau chief for Time in Saigon. The book he wrote, the best-seller on Vietnam, Bloods: An Oral History of the Vietnam War by Black Veterans, was nominated for the Pulitzer Prize. Bloods is currently being developed as a play and a movie. His next book is Missing Pages, an oral history of black reporters and broadcasters from World War II to the Los Angeles riots. He is also well known for his interviews of famous people for USA Today and Parade Magazine.

In 1991, Terry received the Medal of Honor for Distinguished Contributions to Journalism from the University of Missouri. Last year he was the first J. Saunders Redding Visiting Fellow at Brown University and was named Seigenthaler Lecturer of The John Seigenthaler Chair of Excellence in First Amendment Studies at Middle Tennessee State University. He has been a Poynter Fellow at Yale and the Gannett Professor of Journalism at Howard.

Religious Services Reflect Growing Diversity Of Campus Community

Two religious services during Charter Week will reflect the Anglican influences at the time of the founding of the College in the 17th century, and the growth, diversity and multiplicity of faiths represented in the campus community today.

Both are open to the general public as well as the campus community.

A historical commemorative service of Anglican Evensong will be held at 7 p.m., Monday, Feb. 8 in the Wren Chapel. The Rev. Frank H. Vest, bishop of Southern Virginia; The Rev. Richard May, Rector of Bruton Parish Church; and The Rev. David Tetrault of Bruton Parish will participate in the service. The sermon will be delivered by Deborah Smith Rutter '70, a priest at Grace Church, Kilmarnock, and former chaplain at St. Margaret's School. Musical portions of the service will be provided by the Boteourt Chamber Singers of the William and Mary Choir.

David L. Holmes, professor of religion, who is coordinating the meeting of the American Society of Church History on campus April 1-4, assisted with the planning of the Feb. 8 service.

"Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow: An Interfaith Service of Remembrance, Thanksgiving and Commitment," is the theme of a service at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 9 in the courtyard of the Wren Building, which will involve Christian, Jewish, Muslim and other groups represented on campus.

Sponsored by the Campus Ministers United, this service will be much more informal than the Monday night service. Several student musical groups are being invited to participate. A reception will be held in the Great Hall of the Wren Building following the service. In case of rain, the service and reception will be held in the ballroom of the Campus Center.

Planning for the service is being handled by William S. Parks at the Williamsburg Baptist Church; W. Clay Macaulay of the Williamsburg Presbyterian Church; and Father Charles Kelley of St. Bede's Catholic Church.

The clergy of the Church of England in Virginia adopted at a convention in 1690 proposals for the founding of a college to consist of three schools: grammar, philosophy and divinity. In 1691 the Reverend James Blair, commissary or representative in Virginia of the Bishop of London, was sent to England by the General Assembly to request a charter for a college from King William III and Queen Mary II.

In 1779, under the leadership of Thomas Jefferson, governor of Virginia, the College dropped the grammar and divinity schools and a professorship of anatomy and medicine, and the first American chairs of law and police and modern languages were established. The College dropped all religious ties when it became a state university in 1906.

Campus Child Care At Gore Center Wins Reaccreditation

Williamsburg Campus Child Care at the Sarah Ives Gore Child Care Center is among the first day care centers/pre-schools in the United States to be reaccredited by the National Academy of Early Childhood Programs.

The academy recognizes early childhood programs that meet national standards of quality. The Williamsburg Campus Child Care currently serves 66 children from ages six weeks through six years. Its director is Fran Dorsey.

Initially accredited in 1986, 1989 and 1992, this is the first accreditation in the new Gore Center.

"It reflects," said Director Dorsey, "the continuing level of excellence of the program and also the continuing level of interest, caring and education by both parents and staff."

"Accreditation is not meant to replace parents' on-site visits to centers as a means of selecting the program that best meets their child's needs, but accreditation does help point out to parents the varied components that should be present in a quality program," said Marilyn Smith, executive director of NAEYC.

For accreditation, the Williamsburg Campus Child Care had to meet a variety of strict criteria, including activities appropriate for young children, a well-qualified and trained staff sufficient for the number of children, stringent health and safety standards and opportunities for parental involvement. The accreditation process included an on-site study of the program and review by a three-member national commission.

Information about the services of the center may be obtained by calling the director at ext. 12121.

CBS Television To Air Special Programs' Presentation On AIDS

By Peggy Shaw
University Relations

Producers of the CBS weekly television show "48 Hours" plan to feature portions of the William and Mary Special Programs' one-day workshop "AIDS and You" on a program in late February. "48 Hours," hosted by Dan Rather, airs at 10 p.m. on Wednesdays.

A camera crew met program participants at the Newport News Omni Hotel on Sunday, Jan. 10, primarily to film the testimony of a young woman (who will be identified on the show as "Patti"), who has contracted the HIV virus from her fiancé.

"AIDS and You" offers, among other things, a medical overview of the HIV virus, guides for prevention, and personal commentary from an individual who is HIV positive and facing the inevitability of AIDS and death.

"We're trying to change behavior," said Colleen Whitacre, director of Special Programs. "That's a hard thing to do in two hours.

"But we firmly do believe that people are getting the message. They're getting the point. 'Patti' is a person who drives that home."

"Patti," who married the fiancé who failed to tell her he was HIV positive, is today facing her husband's imminent death from AIDS-related pneumonia. She herself is sick and fearful of the future. But telling her story to others is one positive way of dealing with her pain, she told some of the 90 program participants.

Other program speakers were Dr. James A. Lee, adjunct professor of public policy in the Thomas Jefferson Public Policy Program and former director of environment and health at the World Bank in Washington D.C.; and Rob Donohue, a counselor for the Community Services Board in Hampton.

The "AIDS and You" program, funded by Blue Cross/Blue Shield and James City County, has been offered as part of the Special Programs schedule since 1990. Admission is free. The next program will be held from 7 to 9 p.m., Tuesday, March 2. To register call ext. 13777.

College Gets $15,000 From State's Alternative Fuels Fund

The College has received $15,000 from the State of Virginia's Alternative Fuels Revolving Fund, which will be used to introduce compressed natural gas into the College's fleet of buses.

Mark M. Gettys, director of parking services and transportation, says $15,000 is the difference between the purchase price of a new bus that uses gas or diesel and one that uses compressed natural gas. The College had hoped to get funds to match the difference between the cost of two buses, but the State Department of Transportation chose to spread its funds among all who applied, and the College received only half the funds it had requested.

In 1992, the General Assembly approved $200,000 to encourage the use of alternate fuels in state and local government vehicles to improve air quality in Virginia, decrease dependence on imported fuels and reduce operating and maintenance costs on state vehicles. The plan will also improve Virginia's economy since the supplier will be Virginia Natural Gas Company, headquartered in Norfolk.

Gettys said the $15,000 would be used in the purchase of two new buses which will be included in the 1993-94 budget with delivery expected in 1994. The cost of a new gas or diesel bus is approximately $74,000.

The College's fleet of 11 buses is undergoing modernization, said Gettys. Because of the advanced age of some buses, two new diesel buses had already been ordered and are due for delivery in March. These will not be equipped for alternative fuel, but Gettys hopes that advanced technology may enable the buses to be converted to natural gas in the future.

Alumni Give Time And Talent To Career Exploration Day

come because they feel the program is helpful, and they have been impressed by the caliber and interest of student participants. Career fields represented range from accounting to social services. This year's presenters include graduates from 23 different classes working in Virginia, North Carolina, New Jersey, Tennessee, New York, Massachusetts and Delaware.

John D. Strom, accounting '74, partner, Coopers & Lybrand, Roanoke, Va., will be one of the panelists who will talk about careers in accounting and financial management. He says it is important that students realize that while they are students they have time to react and to realize the variety of opportunities available to them in all fields. Sometimes, he says, they do not explore various opportunities and limit themselves to areas they feel their studies are preparing them for. They need to broaden their horizons, says Strom, and broaden their range of opportunities.

"I want to tell them what opportunities there are in the accounting profession, which is looking for well-rounded individuals, not just finance majors but math majors, people with a good liberal arts education as a basis. The industry has opportunities for non-accounting majors, general business majors, even English majors," advises Strom.

Susan Holt Townsend, chemistry '81, now an advanced chemical engineer with G.E. Plastics in Niskayuna, N.Y., is coming to participate on the applied mathematics and sciences panel.

When she graduated with a bachelors in chemistry, Townsend looked ahead to a career that included the things she liked, math, science and problem solving. She received a degree in chemical engineering from the University of Delaware.

"Summer jobs are a great way to meet people in the industry, to bounce off them the kinds of things you like, and how your skills will work in the industry."

Townsend has held seminars for junior high and high school girls to encourage them to develop their math and science skills. Even in the tight job market of today, there are good jobs to be had, she says. As well as summer jobs, Townsend recommends exploring options through undergraduate research which gives students an opportunity to apply what they have learned in the classroom.

"If you're doing what you enjoy, you'll be good at it," says Townsend, "and if you're good, there will probably be a job for you."

"Give to the world the best that you have and the best will come back to you." This is the philosophy that June B. Edwards '76, an elementary teacher at J. G. Hening School in Chesterfield County, will pass along as a member of the panel on education. Chesterfield County and State Region One Teacher of the Year Edwards is already seeing the practical application of her philosophy come to fruition. "Every teacher should be treated like this," she said of the banquet and $1,000 check that she received as part of her award.

Edwards says she plans to tell students you won't get wealthy teaching school, but wealth can be counted in many ways other than monetarily. She cites several examples from her own experience: the flower left on the desk by a former student who is now in middle school; the eagle scout who invited her to his installation and listed her on the program as one of the people who had profoundly influenced his life.

"It used to be we teachers thought we had to be the sage on the stage. No longer. Now we are the guide on the side ... we touch the future by the example we give."

Jobs in education, she admits, are harder to get than when she began teaching. Currently Edwards is teaching social studies and math in a gifted program at her school.

Mary I. Iida, business administration '85, will be moderator for the panel on international careers. Iida says her recommendations will be addressed primarily to undergraduates: get as much experience as you can before you graduate. Take advantage of internships and summer job opportunities. Iida says she has some suggestions to pass along for international internships and conferences that students may apply for.

While an undergraduate, Iida was very active with Direct Marketing of Williamsburg and found internship opportunities through that affiliation. Iida is currently an associate for new business development at the Rema Group in Alexandria, Va. On the panel with her will be Kathleen P. Blake, international relations '88, currently deputy director, Harriman Chair for East-West Studies, The Atlantic Council of the United States, Alexandria, Va., and Veronika Martin, anthropology/Spanish '90, former World Teach volunteer, archaeologist, James River Institute for Archaeology, Williamsburg.

A complete listing of career fields and panel members is available at the Office of Career Services, Blow Hall 123.

Volunteer Bird Watchers Needed

The Chesapeake Bay National Estuarine Research Reserve System in Virginia needs six to 10 volunteers to help with new avian monitoring projects on its sites. The reserve is based at VIMS.

Volunteers should be experienced in field identification of spring migrants, specifically passerines and hawks, and know their songs and calls. Volunteers should also have their own binoculars and have no aversion to getting wet. Frequency of work varies from several times per week during migration to monthly at other times.

Reserve sites are located in King William, James City, Gloucester and York counties. Interested birders should write Research Reserve Bird Monitoring, Virginia Institute of Marine Science, P. O. Box 1346, Gloucester Point, VA 23062. Volunteers are asked to describe their birding experience, abilities and qualifications. No telephone calls please.

The following positions at the College are open to all qualified individuals, unless otherwise noted.
