WILLIAM & MARY

A WEEKLY NEWSPAPER FOR FACULTY, STUDENTS AND STAFF

NEWS

VOLUME XXII, NUMBER 31 • WEDNESDAY, MAY 12, 1993

A Tribute to James Blair

As part of its festivities May 15-16 in commemoration of the landing of the first settlers at Jamestown in 1607, Jamestown National Park Services will place a wreath on the burial site of James Blair, first president of William and Mary. Blair, who is buried at Jamestown, was president of William and Mary for the first 50 years of its history. He was a commissary or representative in Virginia of the Bishop of London and was issued instructions by the General Assembly to found a College. He went to England to present a request to King William III and Queen Mary II to grant a charter for the College and in 1693 returned it. Park officials, said Martha Hamilton-Phillips, director of Tercentenary Observances, decided not to make a ceremony of the wreath-laying since the College's commencement schedule is so full it would not allow many to attend. Instead a wreath and an interpretive sign will be placed on the grave before the opening of the park on May 15, and will remain there throughout the weekend.

Honorary Marshals

Larry Wiseman, who has relinquished the chairmanship of the department of biology to head the Self Study project; Jack D. Edwards, professor of government; Ginger Ambler, assistant to the vice president for student affairs; and Pamela B. Garrette, recruitment coordinator in the office of career services, have been selected by the Class of 1993 as honorary marshals to lead the class across campus to commencement ceremonies on Sunday, May 16.

Correction

An inaccurate total for 1993-94 out-of-state tuition was printed in last week's issue of the William and Mary News. Tuition for out-of-state students will increase from $9,840 in the current year to $10,920 for 1993-94.

Marshall Papers Celebrates Volume VII

Major NEH Grant Received For 1993-95

The Institute of Early American History and Culture has published The Papers of John Marshall, Volume VII: Correspondence, Papers, and Selected Judicial Opinions, April 1807-December 1813, and has been awarded a major grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities to continue the project.

"This spring has been particularly auspicious for the Marshall Papers," says Charles F. Hobson, editor of the Marshall Papers. "In addition to publishing another volume, we have been awarded a major grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities."

The award consisted of $115,000 in outright funds and an additional $15,000 in matching funds, if the project can raise an equivalent amount from private sources.

According to Hobson, the NEH grant will enable him to hire a full-time assistant editor. During the two-year grant period (July 1993-June 1995), the editors expect to complete Volume VIII (1814-1819) of the edition.

Published for the Institute by the University of North Carolina Press, Volume VII was edited by Hobson, Suzanne E. Coffman, Mark A. Mastromarino and Laura S. Gwilliam. To mark the publica-

Episcopal Bishop To Speak At Baccalaureate

The Rt. Rev. John M. Allin, former presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church, will be the baccalaureate speaker.

The baccalaureate program will begin at 9:30 a.m. in William and Mary Hall on Saturday, May 15.

Allin was elected to a 12-year term as the 23rd presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church in 1973. He is now chaplain of Christ Memorial Chapel in Hobe Sound, Fla.

Born in Helena, Ark., in 1921, Allin graduated from both college and seminary at the University of the South in Sewanee, Tenn. In addition, he has a master's degree in education from Mississippi College, Clinton, Miss. Ordained as a priest in 1945, he has served in many positions at the diocesan, provincial and national levels.

Allin has been a trustee of the University of the South since 1961, and was chancellor of the school from 1973-79. He is also a trustee of All Saints Episcopal School in Vicksburg, Miss.

Mangum To Head ASZ

Charlotte P. Mangum, Chancellor Professor of Biology, has been elected president of the American Society of Zoologists, one of the oldest and most important biological professional societies in America. Mangum has been especially active in the organization's section on comparative physiology and biochemistry, as have her many undergraduate and graduate students.

Mangum was guest editor and contributor to a book on blood and tissue oxygen carriers as part of a series in comparative and environmental physiology, recently published by Springer-Verlag. Mangum wrote the preface to the book and contributed chapters on "Respiratory Function of the Red Blood Cell Hemoglobins of Six Animal Phyla," and "Physiological Function of the Hemerythrins" and "Respiratory Function of the Molluscan Hemocyanins."

Mangum will assume her official duties at the annual meeting of ASZ in December. The Society, which publishes The Journal of Experimental Zoology, will, according to the new president, continue to be "more student oriented" than most other societies.

Students Win Science Awards

Howard Hughes Fellowship

At least three graduating biology students have been awarded top graduate fellowships. Joanne Adamkewicz, an honors research student in Professor Phillips' laboratory, working in the area of molecular genetics, has been awarded a Howard Hughes Medical Institute Predoctoral Fellowship, which will pay

College To Offer Legal Services Program

The College will offer prepaid legal services to all faculty and full-time classified employees.

Employees may pay premiums of $14 per month through payroll deduction to participate in this optional program. There are no deductibles, claim forms, waiting periods or fee schedules.

Legal services will cover the following situations: traffic violations, including DUI; credit problems; automobile sales and repair problems; landlord/tenant disputes; defense in civil suits; divorce problems; preparation of wills, including a living will and contingent trust; real estate purchase; product warranty disputes; child support problems; filing a lawsuit; defense of juveniles; contracts and formal documents; and advice and consultation.

Legal Resources of Virginia will be conducting informational meetings on the following schedule:

Campus Center ballroom

Tuesday, May 18

Hourly sessions beginning at 8 a.m.

The final session is 11-noon

Wednesday, May 19

Hourly sessions beginning at 1 p.m.

The final session will be 4-5 p.m.

Board Of Visitors Honors Grant And Winter

The following resolutions were adopted by the Board of Visitors at a meeting April 30.

George Clifford Grant School of Marine Science

George Clifford Grant has been a productive scientist and concerned member of the faculty of the School of Marine Science and the Virginia Institute of Marine Science for 25 years. During that period, he gained the highest regard among his colleagues as an expert in the taxonomy and ecology of marine zooplankton, and contributed greatly to our understanding of fisheries and planktonic communities in estuarine and coastal systems. As chair of the editorial committee of the Virginia Institute of Marine Science, he facilitated scientific publication and ensured quality in scholarly works for more than 22 years. As department head and then division head over a period of 15 years, he contributed significantly to the institutional administration.

Professor Grant enjoyed an international reputation as a specialist in the taxonomy of the invertebrate phylum chaetognatha, and has made significant advancements to our knowledge of morphological diversity in the genus Sagitta. Commissioned by the prestigious and multi-national Chaetognath Group, he compiled and distributed a comprehensive bibliography of the phylum, thereby expediting future inquiry into the biology and evolutionary history of the group.

Be it resolved that the Board of Visitors acknowledges the retirement of George Clifford Grant, expresses its appreciation to him for the many contributions he has made to the College of William and Mary, and approves with deep gratitude for his 25 years of devoted service to the university, a change in status from Professor of Marine Science to Professor of Marine Science, Emeritus.

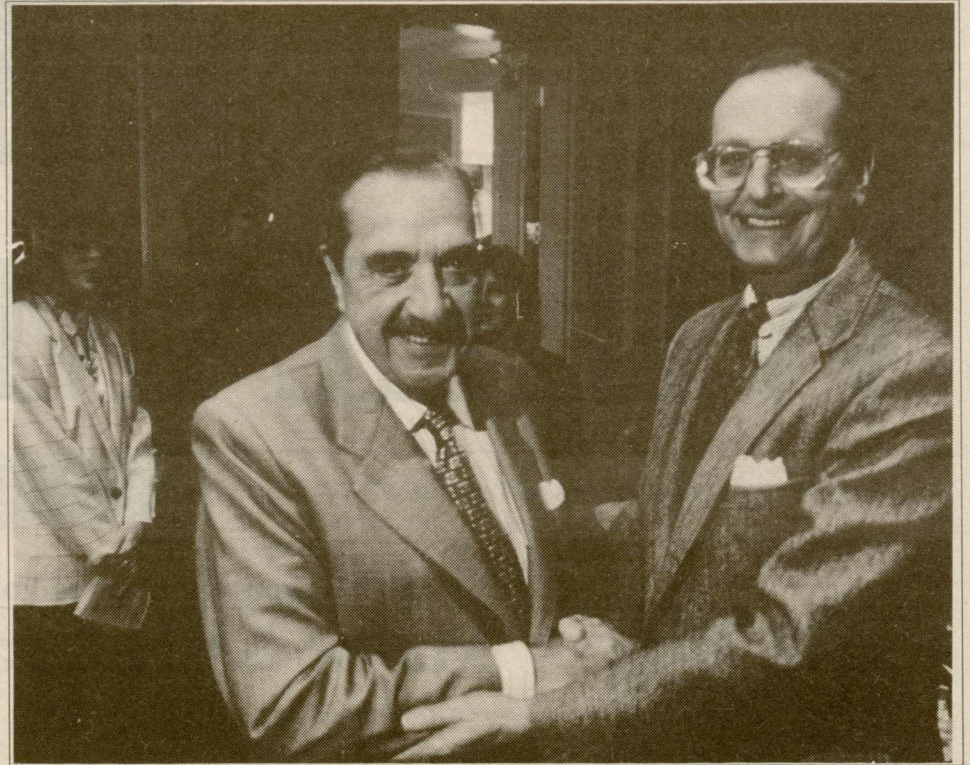

Rolf G. Winter Department of Physics

Rolf G. Winter came to William and Mary as professor of physics in 1963 from the faculty of Pennsylvania State University. He was named Chancellor Professor of Physics in 1987, and retired on 1 December 1992. On 21 December 1992 Rolf Winter died at the age of 64 after a brief, courageous bout with a severe illness.

After obtaining bachelor's, master's and doctoral degrees from Carnegie Mellon University, Rolf Winter taught at Case Western Reserve University before joining the faculties of Pennsylvania State University and then the College of William and Mary. He has earned equal distinction as teacher, researcher and administrator. Among the institutions which invited him as a visiting professor were the universities of Oxford, Zurich, Saskatchewan and Wisconsin. Among his academic honors he counted was a Phi Beta Kappa Award for the Advancement of Scholarship, and Fellowship in the American Physical Society.

As a teacher, Rolf Winter was renowned for the thoroughness of his exposition and the breadth of his knowledge. His textbook on quantum physics has found a permanent niche in the undergraduate programs of many universities. As chairman of the physics department from 1966-1972 he built up an internationally recognized doctoral program and helped to initiate William and Mary's system of rotating chairmanships. Later, as Dean of Graduate Studies in the Faculty of Arts and Sciences from 1982-1986, he enhanced the research and graduate programs of the entire university. Both offices benefited from his deeply ingrained sense of fairness and democracy, as well as the humane wisdom that informed his pragmatic and effective style of leadership. As researcher in the field of experimental nuclear physics, Rolf Winter's publications, over a hundred in number, earned him professional esteem throughout the world.

Be it resolved that the Board of Visitors acknowledges the retirement of Rolf G. Winter; approves posthumously the change of his status to Chancellor Professor of Physics Emeritus; and expresses its deep gratitude for his 29 years of devoted service.

Grayson Attends Conference On Latin America

Delegate George W. Grayson (right), Class of 1938 Professor of Government and a specialist on Latin America, shakes hands with ex-Argentine President Raul Alfonsin at a recent conference at Old Dominion University. Grayson was a discussant for a talk given by Alfonsin, the first civilian to complete a term as president in modern Argentine history. Grayson is author of The North American Free Trade Agreement, published by the Foreign Policy Association as part of the Headline Series. "Dr. Grayson's contribution is noteworthy for the breadth of its focus and its accessibility to readers who are neither experts on Mexico nor on the proposed North American Free Trade Agreement. It should allow individual citizens to decide for themselves whether North American free trade is good or bad for them and for their country," said Susan Kaufman Purcell of the Americas Society in New York City in her foreword.

for her graduate education. This extremely competitive award was given to only 69 of 1,493 applicants. Adamkewicz will be entering the University of California at Berkeley Ph.D. program in molecular and cell biology. She turned down an NSF graduate fellowship (740 offered to 7,316 applicants) to accept the HHMI award.

Adamekewicz also won the annual research award given by Phi Sigma biology honor society. The award includes $100 and a year's subscription to Science magazine.

Fitch Wins MSTP Award

Mike Fitch has been awarded a Medical Scientist Training Program award through the National Institutes of Health to pursue a combined M.D. and Ph.D. This most lucrative of all awards will cover all graduate costs for seven or eight years. Fitch, whose honors research was done on spinal cord regeneration with Research Professor Lloyd Guth, will attend Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio. Only 160 MSTP awards were made this year. Fitch is director and founder of the men's a cappella harmony group, Gentlemen of the College.

Fitch received the Alpha Lambda Delta Book award given annually to the member of the freshman honor society who has the highest grade point average at graduation.

Outgoing department chair Lawrence Wiseman was awarded the 1992-93 Outstanding Teaching Award.

Frank Probst, a biology/chemistry double major, has also been awarded an MSTP Fellowship and will enter the M.D./Ph.D. program at the University of Michigan. Probst, another molecular biology honors research student with Professor Phillips, was awarded an NSF Fellowship also. Probst is a member of the swimming team.

Alumni Award

The Society of the Alumni presented its annual biology award to Katie Malooly '93, an honors research student in Professor Bruce Grant's laboratory who worked on a theoretical problem concerning introns. The award, which includes $100, goes to a graduating senior who has excelled in biology.

Departments & Schools

Anthropology

Professor Mario D. Zamora has organized two international symposia for the World Congress of Anthropology in Mexico City, July 29-Aug. 5: "Towards Peace and Justice: Anthropological Perspectives" and "Pioneers in Anthropology from Asia, Africa and Latin America."

A vice president of the World Anthropology Union, Zamora will lead a delegation to the Congress which will be attended by about 4,000 anthropologists.

Zamora has been nominated for membership of the committee on Scientific Activities of the International Social Science Council in Paris.

Philosophy

James F. Harris, Francis S. Haserot Professor of Philosophy, presented his presidential address, "The Limits of Tolerance," to the Southern Society for Philosophy and Psychology in New Orleans, April 9.

Dorothy Coleman, associate professor, presented her paper, "Hume's Theory of Testimony," at the Pacific Division American Philosophical Association Meetings in San Francisco, March 25, and at the Southern Society for Philosophy and Psychology in New Orleans, April 8.

Psychology

E. Rae Harcum, professor emeritus, and Professor Ellen F. Rosen recently wrote The Gatekeepers of Psychology: Evaluation of Peer Review by Case History (Praeger).

Marshall-Wythe School of Law

"The Bases are Loaded and It's Time to Get a Restraining Order: The Conflating Conflation of America's Two National Pastimes" by Cutler Professor Paul LeBel just appeared in the Nova (Humor In The) Law Review. Writing about baseball and litigation, LeBel uses some obvious points of comparison: "The top performers in each receive compensation that seems to many to be grossly disproportionate to their value to society at large, and many of the participants in both enterprises wear pin stripes while they are working."

Professor Jayne Barnard's review essay, "Private Practice for Public Consumption: Two Views of Corporate Law," just appeared in the Boston University Law Review. Barnard reviews Richard D. Kahlenberg, Broken Contract: A Memoir of Harvard Law School, and Lawrence Lederman's Tombstones: A Lawyer's Tales from the Takeover Decades. Jayne compares and contrasts the disparate views of corporate practice reflected in the two books.

Professor Alemante Selassie's article, "Ethnic Identity and Constitutional Design for Africa," has been published in the Stanford Journal of International Law. Selassie considers issues raised by democratic reforms in Africa and the extent to which constitution-making should take into account ethnic identity.

Selassie challenges traditional liberal constitutional principles and the focus on individual liberty. Although this article contains a great deal of history, its most compelling points concern broader issues of constitutional design.

Arthur B. Hanson Professor of Law Rodney Smolla recently delivered the Alexander Meiklejohn Lecture at the University of Wisconsin. The title of his lecture was "Alexander Meiklejohn's Legacy: An Inquiry into the Current State of the First Amendment and the American Public Discourse."

Jaggart To Speak On Feminist Ethical Thinking

Alison Jaggart, professor of philosophy and women's studies at the University of Colorado at Boulder, will give the keynote address at the National Science Foundation-funded faculty development conference, "Improving Introductory Economics by Integrating the Latest Scholarship on Women and Minorities," which will be held on campus May 22-27.

Jaggart will speak on "Feminist Ethical Thinking: The Connection to Equality and Fairness" at 8 p.m., Sunday, May 23, in Washington 201. A reception will follow her talk.

The speaker was formerly Wilson Professor of Ethics at the University of Cincinnati and held the Laurie New Jersey Chair in Women's Studies at Rutgers University. Her books include Feminist Frameworks, co-edited with Paula Rothenberg; Feminist Politics and Human Nature and Gender/Body/Knowledge, co-edited with Susan R. Bordo. Currently she is working on a co-authored book on Morality and Social Justice, a collection titled Living with Contradictions: Controversies in Feminist Social Ethics, and a book on feminist moral epistemology, Toward a Feminist Conception of Practical Reason, from which her lecture will be taken.

Parliamentarians To Meet June 2-6

The American Institute of Parliamentarians will hold its 15th Parliamentary Practicum at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, June 2-6.

Top parliamentarians from 20 states, Canada and Russia are expected to attend.

Classes will be held daily from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. for in-depth reviews of parliamentary proceedings and meeting dynamics.

For additional information contact Connie Galloway at the law school, ext. 13788.

Swimming Instructors Needed By JCC

James City County, Division of Parks and Recreation, needs swimming instructors for the summer to teach at the JCC/Williamsburg Recreation Center or Upper County Park, or both. Flexible hours; starting salary of $8 per hour. Applicants must have current WSI certification. For more information, contact Tina Renfrow at 229-5676.

News Schedule

There will be one more regular issue of the News: May 19.

During the summer, one issue is scheduled for mid-June, another for mid-July.

The News will resume its weekly schedule in mid-August.

Classified ads currently running will not be continued after May 19.

Deadline for the next issue is Friday, May 14.

Advertisers are reminded that space is accessible only to members of the College community, faculty, staff, students and alumni. This is a service that is offered at no charge.

Auditions For Shakespeare Festival Set May 29

Auditions for the Virginia Shakespeare Festival's 15th season, July 2-25 will be held from 7 to 10 p.m., Saturday, May 29, in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

This summer the festival will present "Julius Caesar" and "All's Well That Ends Well."

Members of the Tidewater community, including summer students and staff of the College, are invited to participate. Actors should prepare two short audition pieces, one or both from Shakespeare's plays.

Resident volunteer actors may compete with Festival personnel for major roles, provided personal commitments allow for essential rehearsals and performances, May 31 through July 25.

"Volunteers are welcome in all aspects of the Festival's work," said Jerry Bledsoe, executive director. "Onstage, backstage and front-of-house. We depend upon their help in everything." While specialized training is not a prerequisite for participation, Bledsoe stressed regular availability is important for most substantive assignments.

James Luce, a William and Mary alumnus and veteran of seven VSF seasons, will direct "All's Well That Ends Well." Participants must be available to rehearse afternoons in June and perform evenings in July. The play opens July 9.

"Julius Caesar" will be rehearsed and performed almost exclusively in the evenings to accommodate performers who hold daytime jobs. The play opens July 2. In addition to crew members, volunteer actors are needed for the many pivotal roles in this play, said Bledsoe.

For additional information about volunteer opportunities with the Festival, call Bledsoe at ext. 12659 or Beth Mills at ext. 12660.

Reception May 29 Opens Muscarelle Exhibitions

The Muscarelle Museum of Art will showcase two special exhibits opening May 29: "In the Spirit of Jefferson: A Photographic Essay Competition" and "Motive and Meaning in African Art: Selections from the McCarthy Collection."

An opening reception will be held from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m., Friday, May 28, and is free and open to the public.

"In the Spirit of Jefferson" honors the 250th anniversary of the birth of Thomas Jefferson, an alumnus of the College. It includes 36 works by 19 contemporary photographers, which were selected by retired Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, chancellor of the College, and Edgar Rich, photography editor of Smithsonian Magazine. The exhibition is sponsored by Jefferson National Bank.

The museum will also present highlights of its permanent collection of African art in "Motive and Meaning in African Art: Selections from the McCarthy Collection." The material presented will demonstrate the importance of the culture behind the object. The function of the objects is explained in order to provide a clearer understanding of how the African people use art to deal with the world around them.

Programs Of Summer Sunday Tours Begins June 6

Beginning in June, the Muscarelle Museum will introduce its "Summer Sunday" tours.

On selected Sundays, usually the first and third of each month, museum docents will lead a tour of special exhibitions or permanent collections. Light refreshments will be provided as participants enjoy an informal discussion of the art works in the Museum.

These tours are open to the public free of charge. No prior arrangement is required.

The following docents will give theme tours at 3 p.m. on the following dates:

June 6—Anna Agbe-Davies, "Motive and Meaning in African Art: Selections from the McCarthy Collection"

June 20—Lois Raymond and Irma Kate Perzekow, Permanent Collection

July 18—Martha Jean Howell, "Getting to Know You"—a special children's tour of the Museum's portrait collection

Aug. 1—Mary Hoffman, Copley's "Battle of Dunkirk."

Aug. 15—Veronica Lange, "Artists' Techniques of the Permanent Collection."

For additional information, contact the education office at the museum, ext. 12703.

Saturday Lecture On George Wythe

Davison M. Douglas, assistant professor of law, will give a lecture on "George Wythe's Views of Legal Education," at 11 a.m., Saturday, May 15, in room 127 of the law school. Douglas, who joined the law faculty in 1990, specializes in American legal history, labor law and employment law.

Prior to joining the faculty he clerked for the Honorable Walter R. Mansfield, United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit, and was a partner in a Raleigh, N.C., law firm. He has been a visiting professor of law at the University of Iowa.

Swem Opens Charter Week Exhibit

Swem Library has opened an exhibit, "Mementos of the Tercentenary," which includes memorabilia of Charter Day week from the University Archives, and features greetings and gifts from institutions to the College in recognition of its 300th anniversary. The exhibit is located in the lobby and Botetourt Gallery on the ground floor of the library. Ancient universities represented by salutations include Oxford University, Harvard College and Université Laval in Québec.

The U.S. Senate resolution and an ornate silver mace (the Marischal Mace), presented by the University of Aberdeen, alma mater of James Blair, the College's founding president, are on display in the Zollinger Museum.

"Mementos of the Tercentenary" will run through June 21. The exhibit is open 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Auction Of Surplus Equipment May 20

There will be an auction of surplus equipment in building 22 at Eastern State Hospital at 9 a.m., May 20.

Swem Librarians Offering Training Sessions On Internet

The Internet is a network of computer networks spanning the globe. William and Mary faculty, staff, and students have access to the Internet and its treasure trove of information resources through the campus's TEAMate computer. Among the resources accessible on the Internet are the catalogs of several hundred university libraries, the employment ads in the Chronicle of Higher Education, press releases from the White House, faculty and staff directories of other universities, and discussion groups addressing a myriad of topics.

"Internet" is definitely one of academe's buzzwords of the '90s—but what does it mean for faculty and students? Come to training sessions at Swem Library and find out. Swem librarians will offer the following sessions in room G004 (on the ground floor) of Swem Library. All are invited to attend.

Internet Basics—Wednesday, May 19, 9:00-11:00 a.m.

- What the Internet is
- How to connect to it
- How to find things on it
- How to connect to other libraries' catalogs

FTP—Thursday, May 20, 9:00-11:00 a.m.

- What File Transfer Protocol (FTP) is
- How to identify FTP sites on the Internet
- How to search FTP directories
- How to use "Read Me" files
- How to transfer files from remote computers to your PC or Mac (e.g., Maya Angelou's inaugural poem)

Latin American Data Base—Friday, May 21, 9:00-10:00 a.m.

- News items in English and Spanish on Mexico, Central America, the Caribbean, and South America
- How to connect to the LADB
- How to use the LADB
- Statistical data on Latin America

FirstSearch—Friday, May 21, 10:00-11:00 a.m.

- An international catalog of books, serials, and other types of publications and documents
- How to log or download search results and print them
- Access to more than 30 periodical indexes, available through your office PC or Mac

For more information, call Katherine McKenzie at 13069.

Singers Leave Monday

Choir Going To London To Sing For The Queen

The William and Mary Choir leaves Monday for Paris on the first leg of a European tour, which will take them to Germany, Switzerland, The Netherlands and England.

This is the sixth tour for the choir and a special one because the singers take with them greetings on the occasion of the College's Tercentenary.

On June 3, Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth is expected to be in the audience to hear the choir sing at a special performance at Drapers' Hall in London. The choir will be a part of a tercentenary birthday celebration hosted by the Drapers' Company. This philanthropic organization, which evolved from one of the ancient guilds of the City of London, has maintained ties with the College for several decades through a student-exchange program. The singers have also been invited again to sing in Westminster Abbey. The first concert of the tour will be in the Cathedral at Chartres.

Singers Pay Their Own Way

As with past tours, the 1993 one is a "pay-if-you-go" venture for the students who participate. The choir traditionally sells Christmas and note cards and arranges several other projects to raise travel funds.

The choir has received many gifts from well-wishers. The Olde Guard of the Society of the Alumni has established a $100,000 endowment for the choir. Mindful that returns from the endowment would not be available for this year's trip, the Olde Guard, which surpassed its fundraising goal, gave $16,000 to the choir for the 1993 trip.

Lendrim Maps Itinerary

Choir Director Frank T. Lendrim, professor of music, has mapped the itinerary. Planning began even before the last tour was over. Requests for return visits were noted for the 1993 tour. A letter waiting for Lendrim when he returned from the 1990 tour came from someone who had heard the choir—could the singers please plan a visit to his hometown.

The choir will spend several days in London and visit the College of Heralds, as well as several churches designed by Sir Christopher Wren.

The itinerary also includes a visit to Churchill's home, Chartwell; Sissinghurst Castle and Knole with Nigel Nicolson as their host; Sherborne Abbey; Exeter Cathedral; and Leeds Castle. The choir will spend a weekend in Bruton, and while there will sing at the parish church, sister church of Bruton Parish Church in Williamsburg, as well as give an outdoor concert at Stourhead Gardens.

Gilbert, Sullivan And Elgar

On this trip the students will also participate in a tribute to Ralph Vaughan Williams and Edward Elgar. They will visit the little village of Down Ampney where Williams was born. They will walk the Malvern Hills, where Elgar is thought to have gained inspiration for his music. The choir has been invited to participate in a Gilbert and Sullivan performance in the village of Buldeigh Salterton.

On their last day in England, enroute to Heathrow airport, the choir will stop at the Great Meadow of Runnymede of Magna Carta fame, which is also the site of the Kennedy Memorial.

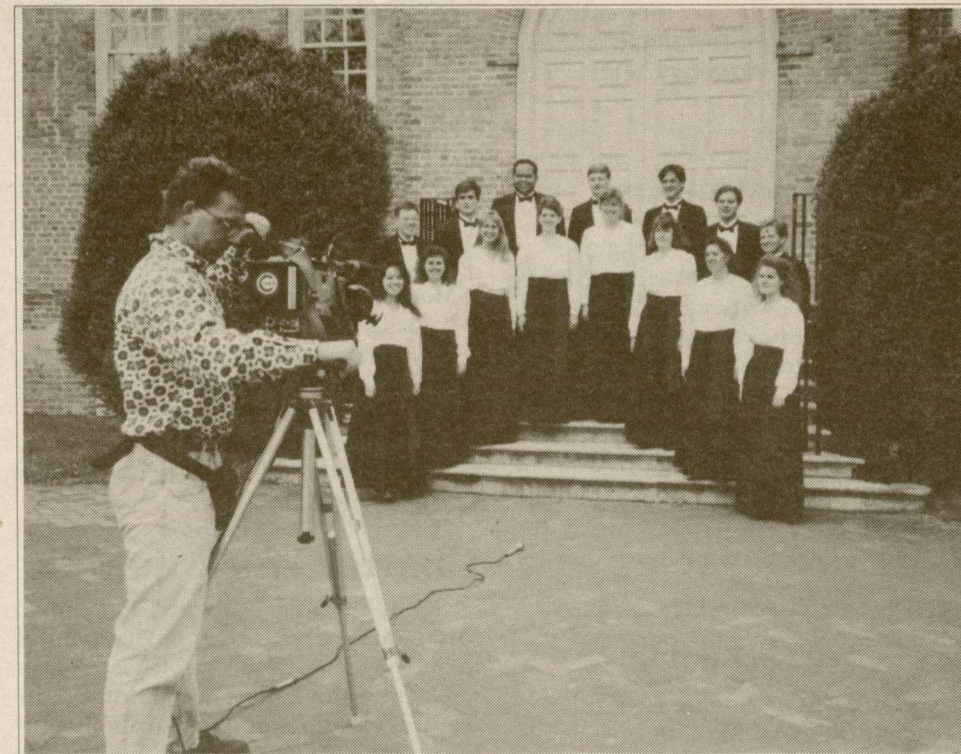

The entire tour is a holiday, history lesson and performance schedule all rolled into one. The choir needs the energy of its youth to complete the concert schedule. Sightseeing trips have been carefully selected to remind students of their school's English heritage and the many ties that still remain.

If it all sounds like a great trip, it is; but along the way the choir puts in a great deal of work. Before they return, the students will have sung 39 full concerts. The Botetourt Chamber Singers will give two concerts in Covent Garden

Market in London on Saturday, June 5.

Alumni who attend tour concerts are always invited to participate in the alumnater at the close of the program.

The Choir will return to Washington June 29.

At top, R. Bradshaw Pulley of the Olde Guard presents each choir member with a specially engraved Jefferson cup as a memento of their trip.

Above, the Botetourt Chamber Singers pose for a CBS cameraman. The group will be heard July 13 singing "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning," on the network's morning show.

Alumni Society Board of Directors Elects New Officers

The board of directors of the Society of the Alumni at the College of William and Mary elected new officers for 1993-94 at its semiannual meeting in April. They are: Joe Montgomery of Williamsburg, president; Joe Ellis of Holyoke, Mass., vice president; Anne Lambert of Williamsburg, secretary; and Alvin Anderson of Williamsburg, treasurer.

Two newly elected members of the board also began three-year terms at the meeting: Connie DeSaulniers of Williamsburg, the owner of By Design, a Williamsburg-based marketing firm specializing in promotions, public relations and corporate sponsor development; and Carol Achenbach Wright of Kilmarnock, Va., a retired music and choral teacher who is currently involved with the Community Chorus of the Northern Neck and a number of community groups.

Montgomery, a 1974 alumnus, is a managing director of Wheat, First Securities Inc. in Williamsburg. He was elected to Wheat's board of directors in 1990. He is the recipient of several professional awards from both Wheat and other financial organizations. A former co-captain of William and Mary's football team, he received numerous honors for his success on the playing field, including Outstanding College Athlete of America and All American. Involved in both William and Mary and Williamsburg community activities, Montgomery was first elected to the society's board in 1988.

Since 1989, Ellis has served on the Society's board in various capacities. In 1990, he was appointed the Ford Foundation Professor of History at Mount Holyoke College in South Hadley, Mass., where he has taught since 1972. Ellis, a member of the class of 1965, has also

Bronfman Endowment To Fund Professorship In Judaic Studies

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bronfman of Montreal have made a commitment of $250,000 to the College's Campaign for the Fourth Century, to establish the Andrea and Charles Bronfman Distinguished Visiting Professorship in Judaic Studies.

Income from the endowment will qualify for matching funds from the Commonwealth of Virginia Eminent Scholars Program.

Charles Bronfman is an executive at Seagram Co., Ltd., where he is co-chair of the board and chair of the executive committee. Andrea Bronfman is co-chair of Canadian Friends of Beth Hatluth and mother of Anthony James Cohen, a

The Judaic studies program, established in 1985, was the first program of its kind in a Virginia college or university. According to Marc Raphael, Sophia and Nathan S. Gumenick Professor of Judaic Studies, the program has introduced many William and Mary students to the rich history and culture of Judaism and has enabled Jewish students to understand more about their religion and heritage.

"This endowment will add to the richness of the College's liberal arts offerings by enabling the College to host a renowned visiting scholar in Judaic studies on an annual basis," said Raphael.

Jones Endowment Reaches $50,000

John Randolph, director of athletics, has announced that contributions and pledges totalling more than $50,000 have been made to establish a scholarship endowment honoring Ed Jones, former baseball coach at the College.

The scholarship will be awarded annually to a baseball player, with first preference to a kinesiology major.

Jones, former baseball coach, professor and alumnus of the College (class of 1957), was recently inducted into the William and Mary Athletic Hall of Fame.

In eight seasons as head coach, Jones collected the most wins ever in William and Mary baseball history with 122 victories. According to local papers, it was Jones who "produced a rags-to-riches saga with the William and Mary baseball team."

In coaching the team in 20 back-to-back winning seasons, Jones helped the Indians to a school record-setting 24-15 record and its only NCAA playoff appearance, back in 1983. A tireless, selfless worker, Jones personally laid the azure grass on the baseball field on his hands and knees. Similarly, he was also responsible for construction of the racquetball courts in old Blow gymnasium.

Jones directed the intramural program and amassed more than 30 years of service with the College. At the 1980 commencement, Jones received the Algernon Sydney Sullivan Award, a medallion "in recognition of influence for good, taking into consideration such characteristics of heart, mind and conduct as evince a spirit of love and helpfulness to other men and women."

In his undergraduate days, Jones played fullback on the gridiron for the Indians and was catcher for the baseball team.

Four Win 1993 Goldwater Scholarships

Four William and Mary students have won 1993 Goldwater Scholarships, the premier undergraduate award of its type in mathematics, science and engineering.

Matthew Campbell, a rising junior majoring in geology and biology; Vicki Healy, a rising junior majoring in chemistry and mathematics; Ashley Jones, a rising junior and chemistry concentrator; and Amy Thompson, a rising senior majoring in biology will receive scholarships that cover the cost of tuition, fees, books and room and board for two years, up to a maximum of $7,000 per year.

The Goldwater Scholars were selected on the basis of academic merit from a field of nearly 2,000 mathematics, science and engineering majors who were nominated by faculties of approximately 600 colleges and universities nationwide.

The Scholars include 141 men and 92 women; all intend to obtain a Ph.D. as their degree objective. Thirty-seven scholars are mathematics majors; 154 are science majors; 26 are majoring in engineering and 16 have dual majors in both mathematics and science.

The Goldwater Foundation is a federally endowed agency established in 1986 to honor Senator Barry M. Goldwater.

Bone Marrow Drive For Alan

Response To Drive Is 'Phenomenal'

On April 28, the American Red Cross tested 690 people, in the hope of finding a bone marrow match for Alan Bukzin, the younger brother of Jay Bukzin, who is battling leukemia.

The turnout, according to Red Cross spokeswoman Jennifer M. Ash, donor center coordinator for the national marrow donor program of the Mid-Atlantic Region of the ARC, he a d q u a r t e r e d in Norfolk, is the largest to date for the size of the community. There have been larger turnouts in bigger cities but this, she said was "phenomenal."

Jay publicized the drive with a great deal of energy. He was interviewed by the media; there were flyers; his answering message on his phone was another reminder. He knew that the odds against a match were high, but even if he couldn't find a match for Jay, he wanted to raise public awareness of the national bone marrow registry program, which has proved to be a life-saver for many cancer patients.

Last year a William and Mary graduate student proved to be the perfect match for a patient in another part of the country who was helped.

"Jay created an awareness in the community, and his work will have an impact on many people for many years to come," said Ash.

Donor test results are entered into the national registry, where they are filed until the donor reaches the age of 56.

As many donors on April 28 were from the campus community, the additions will remain available for many years, said Ash.

The cost of being a donor for the bone marrow program is $60. Anyone 18 to 55 is eligible to participate. Contributions are also needed for donors who are willing to participate, but unable to pay the fee. As Jay Bukzin's phone message will remind callers, contributions may be sent to the Alan Bukzin Donor Fund, College Station Box 3410, Williamsburg, VA 23186.

Jay says he is getting back to the normal routine of college life. His parents, he says, did not know of the scope of his activities on behalf of his brother. Alan currently is doing fine. He is recovering from a bout of pneumonia, but is stable.

Jay said he wishes he could have had more people tested, but he ran out of money. The National Bone Marrow Program in Minneapolis, learning of Jay's drive, gave him $3,375 toward the drive. "If we had just had a few more days to get the word out, to get more publicity, I think I could have had close to 800 people," said Jay.

Among the reporters who have interviewed Jay is Jane Gardner of TV Channel 3, who will use the work done by Jay to point up ways in which citizens are trying to cope with the high cost of medical services. Her program on health will air at the end of May.

Volume VII Dedicated To Thad Tate

tion, the Institute and the Marshall Papers hosted a reception on the portico of the Wren Building. At this occasion, President Timothy J. Sullivan presented a copy of the book to Thad W. Tate, to whom Volume VII is dedicated. Tate, emeritus professor of history and former director of the Institute, is chairman of the editorial advisory board of the Marshall Papers.

A large portion of Volume VII is taken up with the treason trial of Aaron Burr, at which Marshall presided in the United States Circuit Court in Richmond during the summer and autumn of 1807. Marshall's major opinion in that case strictly defined the meaning of treason under the Constitution and became an authoritative precedent for ensuring that treason in the United States did not become an instrument of party trypny. The volume also includes Marshall's landmark opinion in Fletcher v. Peck (1810), in which the Supreme Court for the first time pronounced a state law unconstitutional and interpreted the contract clause of the Constitution.

VIP Visitors, Student Honors Highlight Schedule At Business School

IBM Executive Speaks To Students

Mike Van Vranken, vice president and assistant general manager for the Technology Group at IBM Corporation, spoke at the School of Business recently about IBM's moves to restructure the company in the face of fundamental changes in the information technology industry. IBM, whose worldwide revenues and profits have fallen since record highs in 1990, has taken dramatic steps to transform the company and respond to the new needs of customers.

Van Vranken is a member of the School of Business Sponsors Board.

Spring executive panel (l-r): Beverly Aisenbrey, Donald Lowman, Gerbrand Groen and Janet Fuersich

Panel Discusses CEO Salaries

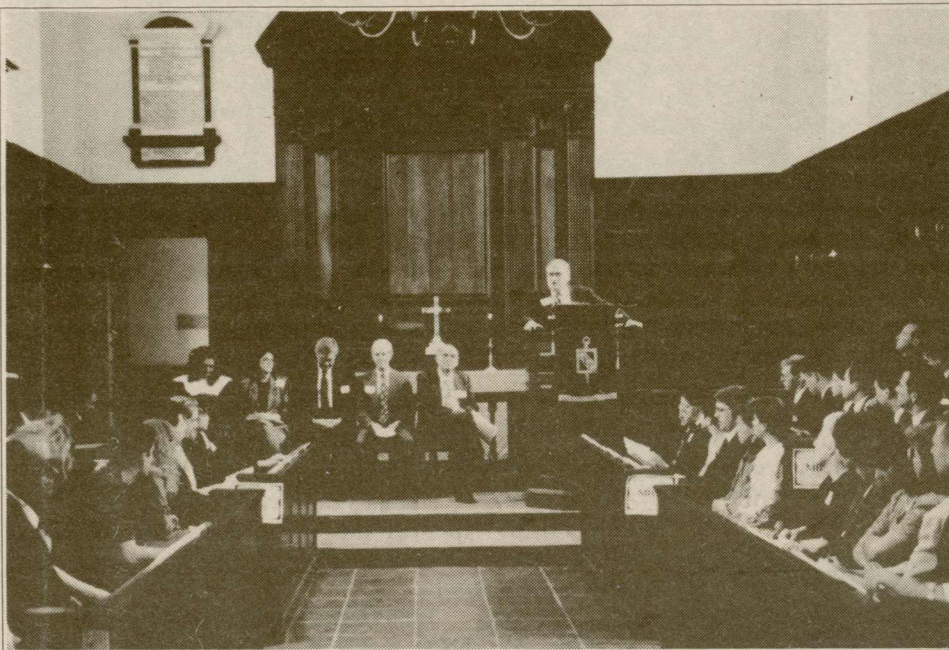

Executive compensation was the subject under discussion at a business panel April 23 at the Williamsburg Lodge.

Questions from shareholders and others in corporations about how much CEOs are compensated are topics which are making news. Questions about how shareholders view the boss' salary, the role of the compensation committee and consultants were aspects of the topic discussed by the panel, which included Beverly Aisenbrey, Janet Fuersich, Gerbrand Groen and Donald L. Lowman.

Aisenbrey is a partner in the national management compensation consulting firm of Frederic W. Cook & Co., Inc., and has been with their New York office since 1982. Fuersich is a partner in Coopers & Lybrand's Human Resource Advisory Group, with primary responsibility for the human resource and compensation consulting practice in the New York metro region.

Groen is a principal and officer with William M. Mercer Inc. and oversees the compensation practice of the Washington, D.C., office, which services clients in the Maryland, Virginia and Washington, D.C., region. Lowman MBA '82 is a vice president and manager of Towers Perrin's executive compensation practice in the Western United States and shares national leadership responsibility for management of Towers Perrin's executive compensation consulting practices in the United States.

W&M Advertising Club Places Third In World Series Of Advertising

William and Mary's Advertising Club placed third in the College World Series of Advertising, Third District, held April 16 in Richmond, and sponsored by the American Advertising Federation. The competition, based on year-long ad campaigns for a new Saturn car, was judged by representatives from advertising agencies and Saturn at the Richmond presentation. Pictured above are members of the W&M team (front row, l-r) Allison Hoen, Jill Wood, Edie Arbuckle, Lori Snavely and Kevin Palmer. Back row, Don Rahtz, club adviser. The William and Mary team was the only one in the competition solely representing an extracurricular club and not a full advertising degree program.

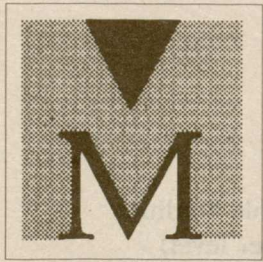

Hong Kong Trade Executive Gives Predictions On Colony's Future Under China

John Tsang, assistant director-general of the trade department of Hong Kong's Economic and Trade Office, was guest speaker in the Business School's Executive MBA program in April.

Tsang was one of three delegates from Hong Kong to the Asia Pacific Economic Cooperation Conference held in Williamsburg since the United States assumed APEC's chairmanship in 1992. Tsang talked about the current business environment of Hong Kong and what will likely happen in 1997 when the British colony reverts back to the Republic of China.

"I forecast business as usual in Hong Kong after 1997," said the speaker. "The groundwork has already been laid by the two governments for the business environment to remain as it is. The biggest change will be that the Republic of China will be responsible for national security."

Muscarella Museum Children's Summer Classes Begin July 6

Children's classes at the Muscarella will be held on consecutive Tuesdays and Thursdays, from July 6 through 29.

Classes are arranged according to 1993-94 school grade levels, preschool through 10th grade. Each class will use works of art on display in the museum as learning material and inspiration for creative art projects.

The following classes will be offered: "Art Together," Ages 3-4, 9-10:30 a.m.; ages 5-6, 11 a.m.-12:30 p.m.

"Say Cheese," grades 1-2, 9-10:30 a.m. or 11 a.m.-12:30 p.m.

"Mirror Images," grades 3-4, 9-10:30 a.m., or 11 a.m.-12:30 p.m.

"Mind over Matter," grades 5-6, 9-10:30 a.m.

"Camera Action," grades 7-10, 11 a.m.-12:30 p.m.

The cost is $25 per student. (An additional $5 film/developing fee is necessary for "Mind over Matter" and "Camera Action" classes.) Scholarships are available in cases of financial need. The enrollment fee covers the cost of all materials and supplies for the entire eight-class session.

In addition, the museum will offer several "Museum Half-Daze" workshops this summer, focusing on selections from the McCarthy Gift Collection of African Sculpture. The following half-day workshops will be offered according to age level:

"African Masks," ages 7-10, Wednesday, June 23, 9 a.m.-noon, or July 14, 1-4 p.m.

"African Odyssey," ages 11-14, Thursday, June 24, 9 a.m.-noon

The museum will offer an adult workshop inspired by the African Sculpture from the McCarthy Collection, "Myths and Magic of African Masks," June 26, noon-3 p.m.

Registration for all of the classes and workshops will begin in the museum on Thursday, June 17, from 10 a.m. to noon. Enrollment will continue until classes are filled.
