National Rankings Praise College's Efficiency, Programs, Graduates

The rankings are in, and the College of William and Mary has once again received high marks from those evaluating the College's programs and graduates.

The U.S. News and World Report annual ranking placed William and Mary as fourth in the nation for offering the most financially efficient education in the country. This is the first year the magazine has used this type of comparison.

The College came in fourth when compared with other national universities in relation to how much they spent per student on educational programs. The category measures the extent to which an institution succeeds in delivering a top quality educational program with extremely limited resources.

Ranking higher than the College were the University of Texas at Austin, the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, and State University of New York at Binghamton.

Overall, the College continued to rank near the top 25 in the nation. Although the College's academic reputation is high (No. 36), financial resources continue to hurt William and Mary's total placement, when compared with other universities. As a result, the College scored an overall ranking of 41.

that William and Mary is among the top 15 schools to graduate women who eventually earned science Ph.D.s. William and Mary tied for eighth place with Carleton College in Minnesota.

The magazine compared schools that graduated women between 1976 and 1986, who had earned their doctoral degrees between 1981 and 1991. Both the College and Carleton College had 34 women Ph.D.s during the period.

Although not as famous as the U.S. News and World Report survey, the College has also won praise for its accounting program and its chemistry graduates in separate rankings.

The undergraduate accounting program at the School of Business Administration placed No. 17 in the country, according to a survey by the Public Accounting Report.

The survey found that the undergraduate accounting program scored well with the more than 120 accounting department chairmen and professors from more than 80 colleges who were surveyed. Respondents in the independent publication's survey were asked to give their ranking of the top five graduate and undergraduate programs.

"William and Mary has a long tradi-In addition, the U.S. News survey found tion of having a nationally prominent White.

The College also ranked fourth out of 601 U.S. colleges and universities for the number of certified chemistry graduates by the American Chemical Society.

Inscribed Book Donated To Library

William W. Cole '70, executive director of the Watermen's Museum, presents an inscribed copy of Poplar Forest and Thomas Jefferson to John D. Haskell Jr., associate dean of university libraries. Cole and his mother, Hildred W. Cole, recently made the gift to the library in memory of Elizabeth B. Dickens, a reserve book librarian at the College from 1958 to 1972. Family members present were Mrs. Dickens' daughter, Ellen D. Bielaski '64 of Annandale; her sister, Helen B. Nixon of Courtland; and her cousin, Adele Collier of Courtland.

Tom Hayden—'60s Protester, '90s Senator— To Speak Oct. 18 In PBK Hall

Tom Hayden, one-time leader of the Students for a Democratic Society and a current state senator from California, will speak at 8 p.m. on Monday, Oct. 18, in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

Hayden's appearance is sponsored by the William and Mary Law School Speakers Forum and the Commission on Tercentenary Observances. The talk is free and no tickets are needed.

As a leader of the student, civil rights and anti-Vietnam War movements, Hayden came to national prominence in the 1960s. He went on to become a member of the Democratic National Committee, and has twice served as a member of the Democratic Party platform committee and as a convention delegate since 1984. The author of several books, Hayden's most recent work is his autobiography, Reunion, published in 1988. He is currently at work on a book on the connection between environmentalism and religion and has taught courses on the subject at Santa Monica College and Holy Name College in Oakland, Calif.

Only Nine Days Left In Combined Virginia Campaign

More than $34,000 was raised in the first three weeks of the Combined Virginia Campaign, which began Sept. 22 and will end Oct. 22.

The campaign's goal is to raise $60,000 from staff and faculty of the College and to get 50 percent of the College's work force participating, said Mark Gettys, loaned executive for the College. Although the campaign has gotten off to a good start, Gettys hopes that College employees won't wait too long to send in their donation forms.

"It has been traditional for people to wait until the end of the campaign to submit their pledge cards," said Gettys. "We've gotten off to a good start, but it's important for people to act now and not put off their decisions.'

To encourage participation in the campaign, several divisions on campus have donated prizes for "Club 48" drawings. The first drawing was held Oct. 4, with Henry Mallue Jr., school of business professor, winning a pair of football tickets to the game against James Madison University, and Raymond L. Betzner, information director, winning a 1994-95 parking decal.

On Monday, a second round of drawings resulted in: a parking decal for Joseph D. Beiras, recycling; a car wash and wax for Marilyn Carlin, publications; two football tickets for Cynthia R. Dellaposta, Earl Gregg Swem documents; and lunch with President Timothy Sullivan for Tomoko Hamada, anthropology professor, and Albert Y. Kuo, VIMS professor.

Future drawings include more parking decals and football tickets, lunches with President Sullivan, lunches delivered by a vice president, a $25 gift certificate for the Cheese Shop, two $20 certificates for long distance calls and a gourmet food basket from the President's Office.

Only those who have turned in their pledge cards are eligible for the drawings.

Pledge cards should be returned to Sharon Morgan in James Blair 308. Gettys is offering to help explain the goals and mission of the Combined Virginia Campaign to groups on campus. For more information, call Gettys at ext. 12435 or 220-4211.

Tom Hayden

Hayden was elected to the California state legislature in 1982 where he served for 10 years before being elected to the state senate in 1992.

Muscarelle Receives Institute Of Museum Services Grant

NEWSMAKERS

Muscarelle Receives $98,820 Grant

The Muscarelle Museum of Art has received a two-year grant of $98,820 from the Institute of Museum Services.

The Muscarelle is the only art museum in Virginia to receive this grant. Ten museums in Virginia received the recognition, from more than 1,500 applicants.

Institute grants are awarded to museums that have demonstrated excellence in all areas of museum operations. To apply, each institution must perform a complete self-evaluation involving every aspect of their operation from collections care and maintenance to educational programs and exhibits.

While reviewers rated more than 80 percent of the applicants as meeting generally accepted standards of museum operations, funding was available to support only 20 percent of the applicants nationwide.

Grants are equal to 15 percent of the museum's operating budget to a maximum of $112,500.

The Institute is an independent federal agency, part of the National Foundation for the Arts and Humanities.

Gender and Modern Science Topic Of Commonwealth Center Lecture

"Why Mammals are Called Mammals: Gender in the Making of Modern Science" is the topic of the next lecture sponsored by the Commonwealth Center for the Study of American Culture.

Londa L. Schiebinger, professor of history from the Pennsylvania State University, will speak at 5 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 28, in the Botetourt Theatre of Earl Gregg Swem Library.

Schiebinger's research reveals the cultural origins of the term Mammalia, coined in 1758 by Carl Linnaeus in his revolutionary classification of the animal kingdom.

In devising the term Mammalia to name the class of animals including humans, apes, sloths, sea cows, elephants, bats and all others with hair, three ear bones, and a four-chambered heart, Linnaeus idolized the female mammae as the icon of the class.

Schiebinger believes that complex gender politics shape zoological taxonomy and nomenclature and argues that Linnaeus' reasons for calling mammals mammals had as much to do with the specialness of the female breast as with 18th-century politics of wet-nursing and maternal breast-feeding and the contested role of women in science and in the broader culture.

Alumni Fellowship Winners

Winners of the 1993 Alumni Fellowship Award were honored at a dinner recently in the Great Hall of the Sir Christopher Wren Building. Taking part in the dinner were Joseph Montgomery '74, Society of the Alumni president; Marc Sher, physics; Eugene M. Burreson, VIMS; Katherine M. Kulick, modern languages; C. Lawrence Evans, government; Ilya Spitkovsky, mathematics; and Mason Sizemore '63, society board member.

IEAHC Colloquia Scheduled For Nov. And Dec.

The Institute of Early American History and Culture will sponsor two more colloquia during the fall semester.

On Nov. 16 Jon F. Sensabach, postdoctoral fellow, IEAHC, will discuss "Culture and Conflict in the Birth of the Black Church."

James Oakes, Northwestern University, will speak on "American Utopia: 18th-Century Foundations of American Poltical Thought" on Dec. 7. Both sessions will be held in the Institute library at 7:30 p.m.

Individual notices and copies of the papers will be distributed about two weeks in advance. Copies of the papers are available for reading at the Institute, the history department and the Commonwealth Center, as well as the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation Library.

For information, call Beverly Smith at ext. 11114

Three Request Annual Leave Donations

Three College employees have asked the Office of Personnel Services for donations of annual leave under the new classified leave share program. Donations are requested for Katherine Barstis from general accounting, Gwendolyn Cary in the bursar's office and Laura Turner at Earl Gregg Swem Library.

In accordance with the program, these employees meet the recipient eligibility criteria for the leave share program because they will exhaust all leave balances during their absence and will be placed on leave without pay for 10 working days, said Lois T. Parker, manager of personnel data services.

Classified employees who want to participate by donating annual leave should call Jennifer Sandusky at ext. 13161 or Becky Kinnison at ext. 13159 for a donor form.

All donations will be divided evenly among recipients, unless other instructions are provided. Donations may be designated for a specific employee by noting the employee's name in the top right-hand corner of the form.

Publications Review Committee Hearing Oct. 14 in Morton Hall

The Publications Bylaws Review Committee will hold its first public hearing at 4 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 14, in Morton 307.

The committee was appointed by President Timothy J. Sullivan after a controversy last spring over a cartoon published by The Pillory, a student satire magazine. Sullivan asked committee members to review the policies and bylaws of the Publications Council, which has oversight responsibility for recognized College student publications and WCWM radio.

Although advance notice is not required, speakers are encouraged to contact Committee Chair Jack Edwards to schedule their appearance before the review committee. Edwards said it is likely a second public hearing would be scheduled in the near future.

Seafood Seminars Set for Fall

The annual Seafood Education Seminars will begin Oct. 24 in Waterman's Hall at the Virginia Institute of Marine Science/School of Marine Science in Gloucester.

A representative of Oak Hall Cap & Gown will be at the Bookstore on Monday, Oct. 18, to assist faculty with the ordering of custom academic regalia. Regalia desired for Charter Day must be ordered at this time to allow adequate delivery time. Added incentives are the continuation of the special rebate of $150 available through the Office of Student Affairs and postponement of an Oct. 1 price increase. All proceeds will benefit the child care center.

HACE is also sponsoring a trip to Ash Lawn-Highland, the home of James Monroe, and nearby Michie Tavern on Sunday, Oct. 30.

Corrections

An article in the Sept. 29 issue of the News incorrectly identified a new publication at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law. The correct name is The William and Mary Journal of Women and the Law.

A photo cutline on page 6 of the same issue incorrectly identified Milton M. Brooks Jr., manager of the classification and compensation section of Personnel Services.

Also, George Oldfield, Richard S. Reynolds Jr. Professor at the School of Business, is a member of the class of 1968, not the class of 1960.

More than 15,000 people are expected to participate in homecoming events Oct. 20 to 24-the largest attendance ever at a William and Mary homecoming.

The Society of the Alumni's schedule, expanded to five days, features an academic festival, exhibits, concerts, athletic events, student alumni group and class reunions and a giant birthday party for the College community at Busch Gardens Saturday night.

A highlight of the public events will be the 64th annual homecoming parade at 9:30 a.m. Saturday featuring the Anheuser-Busch Clydesdale horses and a series of floats depicting a timeline of the College's 300-year history.

This year's parade route has been changed slightly from previous years. The parade will begin at the Capitol Building on Duke of Gloucester Street, proceed down Richmond Road to Brooks Street and end at William and Mary Hall. Previous parades have ended at Walter J. Zable Stadium.

Other public events include:

*A public reception in the Great Hall of the Sir Christopher Wren Building with the authors of William and Mary: A History, at 4 p.m. Wednesday. The history, which will be available for the first time during homecoming, is a two-volume work with more than 1,000 pages. The first copy will be presented to President Timothy J. Sullivan at the reception

*Concerts by the Preservation Hall

New Statues

Two new statues will be unveiled during homecoming.

The College's statue of James Blair, the College's first president, will be dedicated at 11:30 a.m. Thursday in the yard between Blair and Tyler halls. During the ceremony President Timothy J. Sullivan and Colonial Williamsburg Foundation President Robert C. Wilburn will outline a new series of cooperative initiatives between the foundation and the College.

Dedication of a new statue of Norborne Berkeley, Baron de Botetourt, colonial governor of Virginia, will take place at 8:30 a.m. Saturday in the yard of the Sir Christopher Wren Building. The "Tercentenary Fanfare" will be performed to announce the ceremony, and a special T-shirt has been created for the event.

Getting Around

With several thousand returning alumni and the usual crowd of faculty, students, staff and community members all trying to negotiate campus roads, traffic will likely be heavy during homecoming. Here are a few tips on how to get around, and which areas to avoid:

* A shuttle bus will travel to all the hotels used by alumni and bring them to campus.

In addition, shuttle buses will also be operating on Saturday for the football game and the Busch Gardens event. Satellite parking for those events will be available at Matthew Whaley Elementary School and at the Dillard Complex. Buses will pick up riders at these parking areas and bring them to the football game in the early morning, and to Busch Gardens during the late morning and the rest of the day.

Before you get on a shuttle, ask the driver where it is headed, to make sure you get to your destination.

*Traffic will be especially heavy around the Alumni House, starting Wednesday afternoon and continuing through Sunday. The Society of the Alumni have reserved extra parking spaces in the stadium lot to accommodate alumni registration.

Also, a section of James Blair Drive will be blocked Thursday morning for the dedication of the new James Blair statue between Blair and Tyler halls. The road will reopen after the ceremony.

Jazz Band in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall at 8 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday. Tickets cost $8 for the general public, and $5 for faculty, staff and students with a valid William and Mary ID and are available by calling ext. 13269.

*Dedication of a new statue of James Blair, first College president, in the yard between James Blair and Tyler halls at 11:30 a.m. Thursday. The statue was sculpted by Lewis Cohen, fine arts professor.

*A free outdoor concert by the U.S. Continental Army Band in the Wren Yard at 5:30 p.m. Friday. In case of rain, the concert will move to Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

*Dedication of a new statue of Norborne Berkeley, Baron de Botetourt, colonial governor of Virginia at 8:30 a.m. Saturday. The new statue will stand in the Wren Yard where a marble statue of Botetourt reigned for more than 150 years.

The new Botetourt is based on the original and is a creation of Gordon Kray of Washington, a College alumnus.

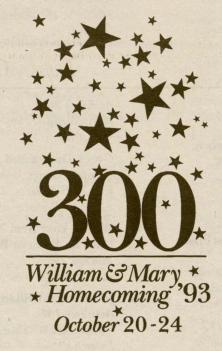

*A faculty art exhibit at the Muscarelle Museum of Art, and an alumni art exhibit at Andrews Gallery. In addition, the historical exhibit, "300 Years of Distinction" continues at the Zollinger Gallery of Earl Gregg Swem Library.

Special events for William and Mary alumni and the College community include:

*The annual alumni golf tournament. co-sponsored by the Daily Press, at 10 a.m. Thursday at Ford's Colony, and at Two Rivers Country Club and Ford's Colony on Friday. At the same time, the 16th annual Sandy Kelly Alumni Tennis Tournament will be held at the William and Mary tennis courts.

*An Academic Festival featuring nearly 808 sessions presented by College faculty on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Topics range from "Death of the Dinosaurs," to "The Bible as Literature" to a field trip aboard the Bay Eagle, a research vessel of the Virginia Institute of Marine Science/School of Marine Science.

A complete listing of festival sessions is on pages 5 and 6. A limited number of tickets for most of the sessions remain available on a first-come, first-serve basis in the lobby of the Campus Center or at the Society of the Alumni Homecoming tent beginning Wednesday, Oct. 20 at noon.

*The Tercentenary Ball at 7 p.m. Thursday in William and Mary Hall. The Alumni Society will honor this year's recipients of the Alumni Medallion, the highest award given by the society.

Recipients this year include A. Marshall Acuff, senior vice president and managing director of Smith Barney Shearson Inc. in New York City; John Entwisle, retired president of Harry Miller Corp. of Philadelphia; Howard Smith, emeritus professor of kinesiology; and President Sullivan. A fifth recipient, award-winning actor Glenn Close, will not be able to attend the ball. All tickets for the ball have been sold.

Music, Music, Music

New Orleans jazz and a free outdoor concert provide the musical highlights of the extended weekend.

The Preservation Hall Jazz Band will have performances Wednesday, Oct. 20, and Thursday, Oct. 21, in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. The band will perform its traditional brand of New Orleans jazz at 8 p.m. each evening. Tickets cost $8 for the general public, $5 for faculty, staff and students with a valid William and Mary ID and are available by calling 13269.

A free concert by the U.S. Continental Army Band will be held at 5:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 22, in the yard of the Sir Christopher Wren Building. The band, under the baton of Capt. Thomas Rotondi Jr., commander/conductor, will perform a varied program, including "The George Washington Bicentennial March" by Sousa, "Variations on a Shaker Melody" by Copland, and the "1812 Overture" by Tschaikowsky.

Laura Rexroth, director of bands at the College, will be a guest conductor, and members of the College Band will join in on the Tschaikowsky piece.

In case of rain, the concert will move to Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

Distribution Planned For Busch Bash Tickets

The Anheuser-Busch Clydesdales will anchor the tercentenary homecoming parade Oct. 23.

Faculty and staff members should expect to get their tickets to the Homecoming 300th birthday party at Busch Gardens on Saturday, Oct. 23, late this week or early next week.

Although not all requests for tickets could be filled, most of those who submitted requests by the deadline should be getting their tickets through their department office soon. Tickets are being distributed on a first-come, first-served basis by the Advancement Events office.

Those faculty and staff whose requests could not be filled will be receiving letters in the campus mail within the next week.

The distribution of tickets for students will be held from 6:30 to 11 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 14, and 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 16, in Trinkle Hall. To give students an equal chance of getting tickets on both days, exactly half the tickets will be distributed on each of the two days.

As is the case with alumni, faculty and staff, tickets are limited and are being given away on a first-come, first-served basis. Each student will be given one ticket, and must present a valid William and Mary ID.

Students can pick up only their own ticket, and will not be allowed to pick up a ticket for another student.

A total of 15,000 tickets is being distributed to alumni, faculty, staff and students by the College. The tickets are part of a generous gift by Anheuser-Busch in honor of the College tercentenary.

The tickets will enable the holder to go to Busch Gardens after 10 a.m. on Oct. 23 and remain after the park is closed for a William and Mary party from 7 to 11 p.m.

President Timothy J. Sullivan is one of five who will receive the Alumni Medallion at the Society of the Alumni's Tercentenary Ball during homecoming weekend.

Honored with Sullivan will be Marshall Acuff, senior vice president and managing director of Smith Barney Shearson, Inc.; actress Glenn Close; John Entwisle, retired president of Harry Miller Corp., and Howard Smith, professor emeritus of kinesiology.

Acuff, a 1962 graduate and resident of Riverside, Conn., joined the investment firm of Smith Barney, Harris Upham and Co. (now Smith Barney Shearson) in 1966 after receiving his M.B.A. from the University of Michigan. He was named a partner in 1974. Acuff serves on the Board of Visitors and is a former president of the Society of the Alumni's Board of Directors. Close is a 1974 Phi Beta Kappa graduate and received an honorary Doctor of Arts degree in 1989. Well known for her work in the theater and motion pictures, Close has received two Tony Awards, most recently for her Broadway role in "Death and the Maiden," and five Oscar nominations for films. Later this fall she will star as Norma Desmond in the American premiere of Andrew Lloyd Weber's "Sunset Boulevard" in Los Angeles.

Howard Smith '43 taught at the College from 1946 to 1986. He was chair of the kinesiology department, formerly physical education, from 1952 to 1978, and during his career also served as the College's baseball, basketball and swimming coach. He was inducted into the W&M Hall of Fame in 1971 and received the Algernon Sydney Sullivan Award in 1990.

Chemistry Graduates Draw High Marks

Only the universities of Texas, Illinois, and California at San Diego had more degrees awarded than William and Mary. The statistics reflect the 1991-92 academic year, the most recent ranking.

Certified graduates are those who have completed a rigorous chemistry curriculum outlined by the society.

The society conducts an annual survey, examining the number of certified chemistry graduates, and the total number of chemistry degrees, both certified and non-certified, awarded at the bachelor, master and doctoral levels.

The College tied for 19th in the total number of bachelor degrees awarded with 51 graduates. The College ranked first in each category among chemistry departments that do not have doctoral programs.

"William and Mary attracts a good number of students who major in chemistry when compared with larger schools that offer a Ph.D. in chemistry," said Steve Knudson, chemistry professor and department chair.

He attributed the high success rate of chemistry graduates to the strong chemistry curriculum and the high priority placed on undergraduates at the College.

"We begin exciting students about chemistry in their freshman year. By their junior year, they have the opportunity to enter research labs solving real chemical problems," Knudson said.
