INDIANS TO BATTLE YELLOW JACKETS HERE THIS AFTERNOON

Indians Battle R-M On Cary Field at 3 P. M.

Smarting from their defeat at the hands of the Gobblers last Saturday, the Indians are determined to win back some of their lost prestige by drubbing the Yellow Jackets.

Although William and Mary is picked to win, Coach Ingram expects a hard battle and will allow no over-confidence to lessen the effectiveness of his team.

It will be remember that over-confidence played a prominent part in our game with Randolph-Macon last year. It is more luck than good football when a team making five first downs wins over a team that makes eleven. That is just what William and Mary did last year.

Randolph-Macon defeated the strong Richmond Blues last Saturday, 19-0. They can be expected to put up a hard fight today. They always do.

The Indians will probably lineup today as they did in the V. P. I. contest with Jordan at end instead of Dietz. It is doubtful that Coach Ingram will use Walter Rangley in this game, as the big tackle is not yet in condition.

Edith Baer Club Entertains New Girls

All the new girls taking Home Economics, were entertained by the old members of the Edith Baer Club, Friday night, in the Science Hall. The Home Economics rooms were tastefully decorated, with a color scheme of yellow and green.

The evening was spent very informally, with extemporaneous games and contests, and a general good time for all. Dainty refreshments were served.

Every new girl was cordially invited to become a member of the Club, at its first meeting, October 10.

Final Dance Tonight

This evening will bring to a close the opening dances given under the auspices of the Cotillion Club. Many visitors attended the dances and reported an enjoyable time. Garber-Davis Orchestra furnished the delightful strains of music that spirited the dance to a lively and peppy one.

The Cotillion Club will give four more dances this year, including the dances at Thanksgiving, Mid-Winter, Easter, and Finals.

WANTED!

The Colonial Echo would like to get the names of all students who can print and draw. We need some good work. Please see J. G. Pollard, Editor, or J. Swanson Smith, Manager.

Bishop Candler Makes Address

"The privilege of knowledge is a right and a duty of every citizen," declared Bishop Warren A. Candler, of Atlanta, Georgia, in an address to the students in the College chapel Monday at 12 o'clock. "However," he added, "mere knowledge is not the aim of education; it must be directed to useful service."

Bishop Candler, who is one of the leading prelates in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Chancellor of Emory University, and a well known author, was introduced by Rev. Henry C. Pfeiffer, presiding elder of the Portsmouth-Newport News district. He was invited to Williamsburg by Rev. L. G. Crutchfield, Pastor of the local Methodist Church.

"Character Better Than Knowledge," would be a fitting subject for Bishop Candler's address. "Men fail for lack of character," he said. "It is not what we know though that is important; it is what we are that determines the complexion of our future life," he told his audience. He emphasized the fact that college men are not merely preparing to live; they are living now. Habits formed in college will determine life afterwards. Bishop Candler said that the elective system of studies had been abused. "Do not flee the studies that give you effort," he advised, "for there is nothing more harmful than dropping a subject." "The way to succeed, he said, "is to do the thing that lies nearest you, and do it well; and the next duty, and the next, will have already come to you." He attacked the idea of "choosing a profession," saying that it is a matter of Providence.

"There are too many people seeking public attention," said Bishop Candler. He expressed his disapproval of the man who does things for publicity without any love of service. The finer things of life are done in private without notoriety. No greater nor more eloquent tribute could be paid a man than that given the Prince of Orange by the Dutch historian who wrote: "When the Prince died the little child"

Arthur Rugh Will Be Speaker Here

Arthur Rugh will be the speaker at the Y. M. C. A. meeting Sunday night in the College chapel at 8 o'clock. Mr. Rugh has traveled extensively in foreign countries, and has made a study of conditions and needs there from a Christian standpoint. He is an orator of pleasing personality and is in demand throughout the colleges of America.

Every man and woman in College is invited and urged to hear Mr. Rugh Sunday night.

Rhodes Scholarships To Be Awarded In December

Notices have been received that the 1922 election of Rhodes Scholars will be held on December 2nd, in about 25 States, including Virginia. Applications will be due in each State on October 21st, and colleges and universities will select their representatives between October 7th and October 14th. The Scholars elected at this time will enter Oxford in October of 1923.

The scholarships are tenable for three years if the scholars do approved work. The allowance of between $1,200.00 and $1,500.00 per year will go far toward paying the expenses of the student. A Rhodes Scholar may pursue any line of studies he chooses.

Two men will be elected in December from Virginia from the list of those applying through the colleges and universities. The eligibility rules are as follows: A male citizen of the U. S., past his 19th birthday and not past his 25th birthday; having completed at least his sophomore year in

Flat Hat Staff Issues Call For Reporters

Contestants Will Meet On Monday, October 16th, in Chapel

The Flat Hat Staff wishes to meet all students who are interested in writing news stories for the weekly paper in the Chapel, Monday, October 16th, at 4:30 o'clock. Places on the reportorial staff are awarded as a result of the competition which lasts for one month, through four issues of the Flat Hat.

At this meeting, the editors will explain the functions of the weekly paper and the methods of gathering news. Full details for entrance into this contest will be given at this meeting.

These positions on the Flat Hat Staff are won entirely through competition. Each candidate will be given assignments from week to week. The contestants who make the best showing will be chosen by vote of the editorial board. Four reporters will be elected.

Virginia Tech had little difficulty in defeating William and Mary at Blacksburg last Saturday, 20-6. William and Mary made its lone touchdown in the last two minutes of play. White and Charles worked three successful passes, carrying the ball within striking distance of the goal, and White hit the center of the Tech line for the touchdown.

Indians Show Brilliant Offensive Flash

At the opening of the second quarter, the Indians started an offensive which netted them more than ninety yards before Tech could brace themselves enough to force a punt. With the exception of a fifteen yard pass, this ground was gained by line bucking and off tackle plays, with Joyce Levvy carrying the ball. This brief offense showed William and Mary at its best.

It was not until the last few minutes of play, when Tech had made several substitutions, that the Indians again showed their running attack and pushed over its score. Irwin's tackling was superb.

Flory, Rutherford, Wallace, Sherertz and Rea starred for the Gobblers. Virginia Tech has probably the strongest team in the State, and while William and Mary supporters expected a closer score, few expected a victory.

New Course In Extension School

Prof. Voke To Be In Charge Of Courses In Account- ancy

The College of William and Mary is this year introducing an innovation in the teaching of accountancy in Richmond with the organization of what has been termed an accountancy laboratory or problem room, at which the students may work out their problems under the supervision of an instructor.

Heretofore, students who are preparing themselves to become certified public accountants, have prepared their written work at home, where no assistance or guidance was available. This new plan, while requiring the employment of two instructors in each class, instead of one, as under the old plan, overcome this hindrance to evening study, and provides for the evening students with instruction as good as any that can be obtained through day study in college. Preparation for accountancy is a long and exacting process, it is stated, and the introduction of this new system of teaching has long been needed.

President J. A. C. Chandler has announced the appointment of Albert Farwell Voke as instructor in the course in accountancy in Richmond. Mr. Voke comes to the College from the Federal Tax Board in Washington. He will also have charge of extension courses at Norfolk.

Mr. Voke will be assisted by U. L. Fifer, who was formerly a laboratory assistant in the classes at the College, and is now employed in the National State and City Bank. Mr. Fifer will correct all papers of students and be present each laboratory night to assist students who may have difficulty.

The accounting courses also will be strengthened this year by the appointment of Dr. L. L. Shaulis as instructor in business administration. Dr. Shaulis is a Ph.D., graduate of the Harvard University school of business administration and, in addition, has had actual business experience.

Two classes in accounting will be given this year, general accounting, and cost accounting.

Edith Baer Club Elects Officers

The Edith Baer Club held its first meeting Tuesday, October 10, at 7 o'clock at the Practice House. The new officers for the year are as follows:

President, Ruth Kline.
Vice-President, Elizabeth Gaines.
Secretary, Eloise Davis.
Treasurer, Bess Hillman.
Chairman of Committees:
Programme, Mavis Magee.
Ways and Means, Virginia Chapman.
Decoration, Elizabeth Gaines.

Ten new members from the Freshman Class were added to the roll. After discussing plans for the following year, the meeting adjourned to be held again the second Tuesday of next month.

New Professor in the Depart- ment of Chemistry

Dr. L. C. Lindsley, an alumnus of the College of William and Mary, has been designated Associate Professor of Chemistry. Dr. Lindsley served as principal of the Chase City and Charlotte Agricultural High Schools after his graduation in 1908. In 1919, he entered Cornell, where he was an assistant in the Chemistry department and from which he graduated in June of this year with the degree of Ph. D.

The William and Mary department of Chemistry had last year an enrollment of 327 and a staff of three professors and eleven laboratory assistants. Special emphasis has been placed upon the Pre-medical preparation for men of this department to go to the University of Virginia, Johns Hopkins, Harvard and other medical institutions for the completion of their professional work. Attention also has been given to Chemical Engineering, so that graduates have found their way easily into such technical institutions as Pittsburgh, Cornell, and Massachusetts Tech. It is expected that a number of the students in this department during the coming year will be interested in the opportunities for training in Industrial Chemistry.

School of Business Administration To Be Reorganized

In response to the tremendous interest shown in the work of the School of Business Administration at the College of William and Mary, this department, according to an announcement from the office of President Chandler, has been re-organized with the designation of Oscar L. Shewmake as Dean, and the addition of two highly trained specialists to the teaching staff, Dr. L. L. Shaulis, as Associate Professor of Business Administration and Economics, and Albert F. Voke, as Instructor in Accountancy.

Mr. Shewmake, Professor of Government and Law, is an authority on public finance. Dr. Shaulis will probably have the distinction of being the only teacher in Virginia holding a Ph.D. degree from the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration. He is a Harvard man throughout, and has been an Assistant Professor at Queens University, Canada, and at Harvard. Albert F. Voke, at present special accountant in the Income Tax division of the Treasury Department at Washington, is a graduate of the Ohio State University.

The William and Mary School of Business Administration plans to give those desiring to enter business a course which is partly cultural and partly practical. On its cultural side, it requires English, foreign language, mathematics, and the like. On its practical side, it deals with such matters as statistics, business law, labor problems, accountancy, transportation, and industrial organization. The success of the department is indicated by the fact that last year the enrollment was 142, while eight extension classes at Richmond, Norfolk, and Newport News had an attendance of 200.

W. & M. Offers Three Courses In Science

The College of William and Mary will offer three courses in science in Richmond this year, in each of which laboratory work will be included. One course will be in botany and in two in chemistry. Laboratory courses are not often offered in extension, but these courses are made possible, due to an arrangement with the Medical College of Virginia, which permits the use of its laboratories.

The botany course will be taught by Professor Warren, assisted by Phillip F. Fackenthal, in the laboratory. The course in inorganic chemistry will be given by Professor R. G. Robb, and the course in organic chemistry by Professor Luther C. Lindley. O. H. Fulcher will be laboratory assistant.

Alumni Notes

Mr. C. G. Pierce, of Alexandria, a student at William and Mary for the past three years, has recently been elected Vice-President of the Old Dominion Glass Company at Alexandria.

The company manufactures bottles and vials, supposedly for medicinal purposes.

The Flat Hat predicts a huge and prosperous business for our versatile.

JOYCE LEVY ELECTED FOOTBALL CAPTAIN

At a recent meeting of last year's football letter-men, Joyce Levy was elected captain to fill the unexpired term of "Flicky" Harwood, who is out of the game for the remainder of the season with injuries. Levy hails from Birmingham, Ala., and last year was regarded as one of the best broken field runners in the State. Levy has been playing an excellent calibre of football this year, and shows the earmarks of a good field general.

Here and There

Rangley, the new tackle, may get a chance to show his mettle against Trinity College next Saturday. He looks good to us.

Our ancient rivals, Richmond College, outplayed the strong University of Maryland team to a scoreless tie last Saturday. The Spiders are going strong and we wish them all the luck in the world until Thanksgiving.

Hughes, a member of William and Mary's 1920 varsity, is playing on the Yellow Jacket's line. He is a scrappy little linesman and will bear plenty of watching.

Trinity College has improved her standing in the realm of the pig skin more than 100% by her decisive victory over Hampden-Sidney last Saturday. The Tigers could register only three first downs against the Tar Heels. With the exception of our Thanksgiving classic, the Trinity game looks like the biggest conflict on our schedule. It will certainly be a hard fight.

Trinity Hangs Defeat On Hampden-Sidney

A spectacular run of sixty-five yards for a touchdown by Brown featured Trinity's 27-to-0 victory over Hampden-Sidney on Hanes' Field last Saturday afternoon. The long run came in the fourth quarter after Brown had several times before gotten away for telling gains.

In the third quarter Trinity had the ball on Hampden-Sidney's three-yard line, but they were held for downs by the plucky Virginians. Trinity kept the offensive throughout most of the game and played the game in their own territory, making thirteen first downs to Hampden-Sidney's three. Day, for Hampden-Sidney, received the ball on kick-off and did some pretty running back. The interferences, which his mates gave in this feature, were noteworthy.

"Flying Squadron" Again Shows Tendency to Accumulate Huge Score

Despite the muddy field, V. M. I. ran up a total of 50 points against Roanoke College on Alumni Field last Saturday afternoon, but they were forced to extend themselves due to the staunch effort and determination of the visitors. Fumbles were frequent during the first part of the game on account of the slippery ball and the prevailing weather. The Cadets, however, broke loose at intervals for long gains which quickly resulted in touchdowns.

Track Team Is Training Daily

Aspirants for next year's track team have been working out daily for the past week on Cary Field under the direction of Coach Tucker Jones. By beginning now, Coach Jones hopes to get a line on his men so that they may get to work in earnest at the first crack of spring.

The greatest problem which Coach Jones will have to face will be to find men to fill places in the high jump, hurdling, and weights. The sprinters and middle distance men are showing up well.

The men of last year's squad who are out include Hancock, Rew, Campbell, Binder, and Winder, while there are a number who have not yet reported. Thirty freshmen are now out for track.

TENNIS TEAM HAS FALL MATCH SCHEDULED

The William and Mary tennis team has scheduled a match for this fall with the Richmond Country Club team. It will be played on the twenty-eighth of this month. This is the first time that our team has scheduled a fall game, and it speaks well for the growth of the sport.

Two members of last year's team, Mr. Wilshin and Mr. Pollard, have received their monograms. These monograms consist of the regular college letters and two T's.

If the Ducs will obey the Duc Rules; will the upper classmen refrain from further hazing the Ducs? Think this question over before further embarrassing the freshmen. The contract between the freshmen and the upper classmen is to this effect: The upper classmen promise to refrain from further hazing if the freshmen will obey the Duc Rules. In order that the contract may not be broken, the freshmen must obey the rules and the upper classmen must refrain from further hazing the Ducs.

TODAY'S GAME

Today the Indians meet Randolph-Macon on Cary Field in what may terminate a hard fought battle. It is up to the students of the College to be in the grand stand when the game is called and cheer the Indians on to victory. The power that will reap victory lies in the Indian squad and in the enthusiastic supporters—the student body. Since today marks the first game of the season on the local gridiron, let us see every student in College in the grand stand in order that our team will have the support it deserves from the student body. Help win the game!

The third week of College work is now gliding by rapidly. To some of the students, it may be nothing more than a sordid memory: to other students, it may mean an actual accomplishment of class work. It is hoped that all the students will realize their chief aim in College, and will strive to attain this goal.

A conversation was overheard between two Co-Eds in which the opinion was expressed that the William and Mary monogram is too unattractive for them to wear. For the benefit of those two Co-Eds, and any others of like belief or persuasion, let it be known that the intrinsic value of a monogram can not be fairly measured by its aesthetic value.

Furthermore, the Athletic Council is always open to any suggestion worthy of consideration. It is an honor to be allowed to wear a W-M monogram and all girls should realize it. We trust, however, that the old girls will curb such wanton dumbness and disseminate so far as possible, the true William and Mary spirit in the new Co-Eds.

The Flat Hat takes this opportunity to direct attention to the crying need of more tennis courts on the campus. Since the gymnasium facilities are decidedly limited, it is urgent that more tennis courts be provided for the students and faculty. It may also be added that the courts now in use are in need of improvement. The Flat Hat appeals to those charged with the responsibility of providing tennis courts to give the student body what it needs in this respect.

Philomatheans Have Interesting Programme

A heated debate on the subject, "Resolved: That the Athletic Committee should arrange more home games," was the feature of the programme at the Philomathean Literary Society last Saturday. The question was not announced until time for the debate; but, in spite of the fact that the speeches were voluntary and extemporaneous, many good arguments were presented. A vote for decision on the debate was not taken.

Mr. Quaintance and Mr. Cleaton read interesting selections, and Mr. Ball gave a well prepared declamation.

Judge Feidelson, Professor of Public Speaking and Journalism, was elected an honorary member of the Society by a unanimous vote. Several students were initiated into membership.

The programme tomorrow night will be good and every man in College is invited to be present.

Smoked Cigarette; Girl Expelled

The action of the Michigan State Normal College in expelling Miss Alice Tanton, pretty bobbed-haired student, for smoking cigarettes, has been upheld by the Michigan courts. It seems, the court said, that the faculty of the college, having been given authority to conduct a school, has the right to make all reasonable rules, concerning the conduct of the students. Of nineteen other girls dismissed for the same offense, Miss Tanton was the only one to start legal action against the college. Miss Tanton says she will carry her fight to the Supreme Court.

Which Type of Research is of Greatest Value?

A stove burns too much coal. A man familiar with the principles of combustion and heat radiation makes experiments which indicate desirable changes in design. That is research.

You want to make a ruby in a factory, a real ruby, indistinguishable by any test from the natural stone. You begin by analyzing rubies chemically and physically. Then you make rubies just as nature did. Your rubies are the result of research—another type of research.

While melting up your chemicals and experimenting with high temperatures, you begin to wonder how hot the earth must have been millions of years ago, and what were the forces at play that made this planet what it is. Your investigation leads you far from rubies and causes you to formulate theories to explain how the earth, how the whole solar system was created. That would be research of a still different type.

Research of all three types is conducted in the laboratories of the General Electric Company. But it is the third type—pioneering into the unknown—that means most in the long run, even though undertaken with no practical benefit in view.

For example, the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company are exploring matter with X-rays in order to discover not only how the atoms in different substances are arranged but how the atoms themselves are built up. The more you know about a substance, the more you can do with it. This work may enable scientists to answer more definitely the question: Why is iron magnetic? Then the electrical industry will take a greater step forward than can be made in a century of experimenting with existing electrical apparatus.

You can add wings and stories to an old house. But to build a new house, you must begin with the foundation.

RANDOLPH-MACON GETS PHI BETA KAPPA POST

Phi Beta Kappa, the oldest fraternity in America, is to enter Randolph-Macon College at Ashland. Notification to that effect has been sent from the recent convention of the fraternity in Cleveland, Ohio.

Phi Beta Kappa was founded at William and Mary College in 1776, and until recent years had no other Virginia chapter. It now has chapters at the University of Virginia, Washington and Lee, and Randolph-Macon Woman's College. The organization at Lynchburg and Ashland will run as sections of the same chapter and one charter will cover both.

Miss Caroline Sinclair was elected President of the Women's Athletic Association at a meeting of the women students, Wednesday, October 4th, to fill the vacancy caused by the failure of the President of the Association to return to College. Miss Nellie Gordon Chase was elected to fill Miss Sinclair's former office of Treasurer of the Association.

Phoenix Literary Society Promises Good Programme

The meeting of the Phoenix Literary Society held last Saturday evening was well attended, and a very interesting programme was rendered. All new officers of the Society were installed and several new members were initiated. One of the features of the programme was the extemporaneous debate on the question, "Resolved, That the College of William and Mary should be changed to a University." Both sides of the question were well supported and a great deal of interest was created in this form of debate. The literary critic gave an excellent report setting forth the mistakes in posture, voice, and the arrangement and context of the parts rendered by each individual.

A good programme is promised for the meeting tomorrow evening, including an oration and a debate on one of the foremost questions of the day.

Every man in College is invited to attend the meetings of the Society and to share in the benefits that must accrue from earnest effort spent in practicing the art of public speaking.

William and Mary
Adds To Her
Many Priorities

The College of William and Mary added to her incomparable list of priorities the distinction of offering a course in Virginia government and citizenship, unique in conception and operation, and calculated to arouse a wide interest throughout the State.

This work is part of the program of the Marshall-Wythe School of Government and Citizenship and will be under the direction of John Garland Pollard, former Attorney-General of Virginia, former member of the Federal Trade Commission, delegate to the Constitutional Convention of 1901, and Compiler of Pollard's Code of 1904.

The course in Virginia government and citizenship will be compulsory for Freshmen and Sophomores. It will be offered to classes in Richmond, Newport News, and other selected cities, and it will be circularized by mail and through syndicated newspaper articles so that every citizen will have the opportunity of reading the installments, and even of receiving a certificate upon the fulfillment of the requirements of the course.

The text-book used in this department will be "The Virginia Government Year Book," published by the Marshall-Wythe School. It contains, among other things, the State Constitution, a review of recent legislation, statistics touching the industrial progress of Virginia, information covering the financial operations of cities, counties, and the commonwealth, a digest of departmental activities, and a study of what Virginia is doing in health, education, highway development, as comparable with the progress in these fields registered in other States having problems and conditions similar to those prevailing in Virginia. The Year Book will be revised annually, and will be an invaluable manual on the structure of our State government and the activities of its department, and will serve as a means of testing the extent of our political advancement.

A university freshie arrived on the farm unexpectedly. His parents were having dinner. There were only two pieces of meat in the meat course. The freshie decided to show his dad a little stuff.

Freshie: "Dad, I bet I can prove that there are three slices of meat on that plate."

Dad: "Uh?"

Freshie: "See! This is piece number one. This is piece number two. Well, one piece and two pieces make three pieces, don't they?"

Dad: "Unhuh. Wife, you take piece number one and give me piece number two. Son, you may have piece number three."

BY PRODUCING Duofold Jr. and Lady Duofold, Geo. S. Parker has granted the plea of those who have wanted this black-tipped, lacquer-red pen in a model smaller than the Over-size Duofold. And the price is only $5. Except for size, they're exactly like the $7 Duofold — the classic 25-year Pen that has taken America by storm.

Don't try to form an opinion of the Duofold by any other pen. When you see this soft, translucent lacquer-red you'll recognize something handsomer than gold.

In the Duofold pen, with a point like a smooth jewel bearing, Mr. Parker has achieved what is virtually writing without effort! It is balanced with such scientific precision that it glides, under your sub-conscious direction, of its own weight!

One college store's record shows that students average four ordinary pens a year. Don't you agree that Duofold is far the most economical when The Parker Pen Co. guarantees this point 25 years for wear and mechanical perfection? Come in and get one on 30 days' trial. Money back if you are not delighted.

Extension Work On the Increase

Extension work is becoming popular among Southern universities and colleges. The University of Virginia has announced a survey course in English Literature to be given in Richmond this winter under the direction of Professor H. P. Johnson, who will make a weekly trip to Richmond for this purpose. The University will also offer other courses in Richmond this winter, such as Spanish, French, and Education.

As in other matters of educational progress, William and Mary heads the movement in extension work in Virginia. It might fitly be added as another of the priorities of William and Mary that she was the first Virginia college to offer courses of college grade through extension departments, and that she reaches more people through her extension classes than any other Virginia college. Last year a total of 569 students were reached through the William and Mary extension division, who otherwise would not have been able to pursue any college work.

Study Class In Literature To Be Formed

An informal study class for those interested in modern literature is being started at the College by Mr. Robert Blanton, of the English faculty.

This group is being organized to help fill the need that the College has long felt for a course of this kind. At these informal meetings, works of modern poets, playwrights and short story writers will be read and discussed. Anyone interested is cordially invited to attend the meetings every Monday night.

Y. W. Held Good Meeting October 11

With "India" as the topic, the Y. W. had an interesting and attractive meeting Wednesday, October 11.

While the audience was gathering, Miss Trixie Johnson played "Song of India," accompanied by ukeleles. Miss Elizabeth read a short story of Kipling. Mr. J. C. Phillips read "On the Road to Mandalay," by the same author. At the close of the meeting it was officially announced that the local Y. W. has adopted as a sister college, the Woman's Christian College in India.

Debate Council Holds Preliminaries

The Debate Council announces that preliminaries for places on the debating teams will be held before Christmas. The subject for the debates this year has not been definitely stated. However, it will be on the Bonus Bill as passed by Congress. Many debates are being arranged for this year. Roanoke College has given us a challenge which will probably be accepted. This must be the most successful debating year William and Mary has had; therefore, begin to study the Bonus Question now.

Judge Feidelson has been added to the council as a faculty adviser.

dren cried in the streets." It is well to have an education, but that which is more important is character.

In closing, Bishop Candler said: "The people of the South do not make enough of their historic places, but I am glad that the place where Jefferson was educated is preserved and I hope it will be preserved forever. Here in old William and Mary, as you day by day touch the spirits of the men who made this republic, may you be inspired to live a life that will be a blessing to mankind."
