Extract from Philip Domin's letter Richmond Va

"No steps have been taken yet I believe for the collection of money. Our receipts having heretofore been confined to the actual nightly expenses of the meetings, there is of course no funds in hands, and I fear that much difficulty will be experienced in the matter, as the Association has been denounced in influential quarters and charged with having this object entirely in view.

The Association received a severe blow from Mr Mitchell who, in his lecture here some time since pronounced secret associations of Irishmen unnecessary and improper, ridiculed signs and passwords and cautioned against any association of the kind requiring money!"

Extract from C. Amiac Troy N. Y.

"Your suggestion to collect money from outsiders is capital but they would not entertain it. Their opposition is strengthened by Mr Mitchell's advice which I suppose you have read. Mitchell has been my warm friend, it was my duty to introduce him to the audience, and also entertain while here.

It would ill become me now to urge the collection of money particularly when the Society is opposed to it, if therefore non compliance with the advice of the Directory be insubordination I hope you will ~~excuse~~ ^{excuse} me who has paid you his dollar?"

Extract from W. McManus Buffalo N. Y.

"Your official communication, duly received, should have been long since answered, were it not that doubt & indecision seems too manifest in our body owing to the action of the law authorities - and the proceedings at Cincinnati.

Added to this was the strong recommendation of John Mitchell in his recent lecture here to avoid an infringement of the law which he was but too sure the course of sworn societies now in existence involved."

I could send more than this enough.
