

"Home"

Friday Night-

My dear Rob,

Guess you have about given out your semi-monthly, haven't you?
But better late than never I think, so here goes, tho' it's already after nine.
I intended writing before but various things have prevented since Tues
night, and no doubt
you remember that.

Mary came over Wed.
night, and we had a big time in spite of my being terrible sleepy.
To-night Jo has been reading "Lydia of the Pipes" to me, while I crocheted.

I like that fine. I imagine you are reading to-night and laughing too if you are reading "Billy and the Major." Did you see
Mary and me yesterday?
We went all the way to school a short distance from your wagon.

And since seeing Kitty, is your curiosity satisfied?
Did she verify another's statement? He did not talk much over an hour
that night, pretty good for us, I would have been worse, but we knew what was before us the next day. Then I had to rise early and help fix for all that company too. Next morning at breakfast Mr. Collins said, "I bet that fellow that was here last night is good and sleepy this morning" and carried on a good bit with us so the fact is fully established, that he is single. We should have learned that earlier Ha!

It is bad about Kitty closing her school and there being so much "flu" over there. I am scared green for fear this community will be the next down.
If nothing else, these choppings will spread it, just as Mr. Saunders did. Cousin Johnnie Nance's wife is not expected to live, has "flu" and double pneumonia. We heard to-day that one of Mamas' cousins who lives in Asheville, N.C. ^{had} died of pneumonia, and I imagine "flu" preceded that. Ruth Price is doing nicely.

We have gotten two new records instrumental pieces, but are very pretty. Of course you'll attend Mrs. affair to-morrow - don't get flu.

I must close, have more writing that ought to be done too.
So long, Lillian
